CHURCHILL'S REVIEW OF WAR OPTIMISTIC

Soviets Claim Successes On Approaches To Leningrad

Little News Is Promised From Nazis

German Military Spokesman Declares That Because Of Certain Reasons Little News Will Be Forthcoming From Eastern Front For Next Few Days; Violent Fighting Around Leningrad

Moscow, Sept. 30.—(AP) The Red army reported today recapture of a city on the approaches to Leningrad and the taking of many other communities in a concentrated series of counter-attacks.

As the violent struggle continued all along the front, Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said the northwestern city of "B" was recaptured after 12 hours of battle which culminated in the bitterest sort of hand-to-hand and house-to-house combat.

The Germans thus were driven back a significant distance from Leningrad where they have made no gain in a fortnight, Red Star stated.

One German regiment was declared annihilated in this battle with the Russians losing less than 100 men in dead and wounded.

In other Leningrad front zones, Pravda, Communist party paper, said that the Germans were beaten back from numerous villages in the last two days and that at one point the Russians were able to entrench on a new defense line after these counter-advances.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The German military spokesman declared today there would be "little news for the next few days" because of "certain reasons" which were not disclosed.

He added that "certain importance can be attached" to statements in the German press that the campaign on the Russian front might run into winter months.

Axis forces scored successes on the northern and southern flanks of the battle front, a military commentator said.

Fierce bayonet fighting was said to have developed yesterday at places along the Southern front where Germans reported the Red army counter-attacked in several sectors, but was repulsed with heavy losses.

The high command said Italian troops east of the Dnieper river "exterminated strong enemy forces and took several thousands prisoner."

In a northern sector of the Eastern front an infantry division stormed 210 pillboxes in a successful attack Sunday and Monday on a stubbornly defended position, the high command added.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Fierce bayonet charges by German troops on the southern Russian front were reported today in military dispatches which said the Russians left hundreds of dead on the hotly contested battlefield.

DNB said that on the Northern front, German and Finnish forces captured several towns between Lake Ladoga and Lake Onega and seized the last of the Russian defended islands in Lake Ladoga.

Thirty-three Russian transport and supply trains were wrecked or damaged by German bombers in the Kharkov area of the extreme eastern Ukraine yesterday, DNB reported.

ORDERS CUT IN PRODUCTION OF REFRIGERATORS

Reduction of 43.2 Per Cent Set By Government

45,000 WORKERS TO FEEL EFFECT

Curtailement of Household Electric Refrigerators Follows Reduction In Automobile Output

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The government ordered makers of household mechanical refrigerators today to cut production for the last five months of 1941 to a level 43.2 per cent under average monthly output for the year which ended June 30, and warned that cuts in 1942 "will probably be greater."

Thirty factories employing 45,000 workers will feel the curtailment imposed by Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson as a means of conserving steel and other strategic materials for defense needs.

It was the second drastic cut imposed on an industry producing durable consumer goods. Automobile production for December recently was cut 48.4 per cent and similar limitations are expected soon for washing machines, vacuum cleaners and other items.

This curtailment was expected to release 175,000 tons of steel in the 12 months period for production of warships, cargo vessels, tanks and other defense items, as well as considerable quantities of aluminum, brass, chromium, copper, nickel and others.

Monthly quotas for the refrigerator industry will total 175,519 units for each of the five months, August to December 1941, inclusive, as compared with average monthly output of 309,234 units in the 12 months ended last June 30.

Would Have U.S. Feed Democracies

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 30.—(AP) There were off the floor rumblings of a discussion today over Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's proposal to cut cotton acreage as the farm experts discussed his plan to have the United States serve as the breadbasket for the democracies.

Wickard's plan calls for some of this year's cotton, wheat and tobacco acreage to be used next year for food crops. He said he hoped to accomplish this by persuasion and an assurance of good prices for milk, eggs, hogs and the other products whose volume he wants increased.

However, N. C. Williamson of Lake Providence, La., a member of the National Cotton Council, told reporters he understood an attempt would be made to force a cut in cotton acreage by law.

"We have plenty of land in the South to grow other crops," Williamson declared. "It would be disastrous to reduce our cotton acreage further. Every cotton man should be on the lookout for any attempt to do so by law and keep in touch with his senators and congressmen."

Ropes helped some but the man in push upward came from legs and arms when these engineers trying out the endurance-building cross country course at Fort Belvoir, Va., scaled this eight-foot wall. The wall was the first obstacle on a tough course that also includes water jumps, rope climbs, a run through a field of tire rings.

Money Paid Out Monday Largest Sum In History

Average of 37.70 Second Highest Since 1919

The 37.70 cents a pound average paid on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday was the second highest daily figure since 1919, being exceeded only by the 38.38 paid on October 15, 1934.

On the heels of this, observers declared that today's prices were just as high as those paid yesterday although the difference in the quality may reflect a change in the average price.

Yesterday's offerings of 1,924,503 were the second largest in the history of the market, while the money paid out set an all-time record for the local market, $725,581.52 having changed hands in the single day.

The nearly three-quarter million dollars paid out yesterday exceeded that for October 15, 1934, by more than $230,000.

HULL CONFERS WITH CHIEF ON U.S. PROBLEMS

All Phases Of International Situation Considered

Willkie, Meanwhile, Lets It Be Known That He Will Support Efforts To Repeal Measure

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—For an hour and 45 minutes President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull conferred on all phases of the international situation today, presumably with emphasis on revision of the neutrality law.

As he left the White House, the secretary told reporters: "We were going over all the different phases of the international situation as they affect matters which we thought called for an exchange of ideas and discussion."

Asked whether they had considered the neutrality law in particular, Hull said they had given their attention no more to one thing than to another.

SWISS PROTEST ACTION OF RAF

Air Space Declared to Have Been Gravely Violated

Bern, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Swiss minister to Britain has protested as "a grave violation of Switzerland's air space" the passage of some 50 British planes the night of September 28-29, presumably squadrons which heavily raided Italian cities, the Foreign Office announced today.

The announcement said the British flights called for "energetic action" by the Swiss anti-aircraft defense.

On the night in question, Genoa, Turin and other cities of northern Italy were attacked by Royal Air Force.

Voicing Switzerland's serious concern, a Swiss newspaper declared: "On the flight to upper Italy and towns on the central Italian seacoast British flyers Sunday night again violated Swiss air following only a few days after Britain curtailed supplies to Switzerland and delivered our country up to increased unemployment."

"It appears that England seems to be acting on the thesis that we are practically ready to join the Axis partners, that she misunderstands completely the actual situation of the last democracy on the continent, that she aggravates unnecessarily our already extremely difficult position, that she without doubt fosters a growing ill feeling for which our authorities will find proper expression."

Asheville Strike May Impede Work

Asheville, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A strike of American Federation of Labor workers at the plant of the Asheville Mica Company today curtailed operations and threatened to stop production of numerous articles high on the priorities list of the national defense program.

J. Fuller Brown, secretary-treasurer of the company, said that between 40 and 50 per cent of the output was used in the defense program and included such items as insulation for electrical products, sparkplugs and the like.

The strike was called by the Mica workers union last night and went into effect today.

Clarence A. Jackson, president of the local, said approximately 100 of the 171 plant employees were out. There was no statement from the company as to the number. Jackson listed grievances as "discrimination of the management against union members, coercion during a recent election and low wages."

Young Wake Men Victims Of Accident

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two Raleigh men were killed and two others were seriously injured here early today when their car skidded off the highway on a curve and smashed into a tree. The dead are James Stevens, 21, and A. L. Maynard, 22. Police said the wreck, probably happened at about 4 a. m., but was not discovered until 4:30 when a squad car happened to pass the scene.

Says Initiative In Air Been Seized By Britain

Prime Minister, In Most Optimistic Review Yet Given, Declares Shipping Losses Been Cut Two-Thirds In 3 Months; Also Reveals Invasion Of Continent Considered Several Times

London, Sept. 30.—(AP) Britain has seized the initiative from Germany in the air, has cut shipping losses two-thirds in three months and has "several times" considered invasion of the German-dominated continent, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today in a broad war review which was the most optimistic he has yet given.

Adolf Hitler is suffering from a "very serious shortage" in air power, Churchill said, but "for the rest he still retains the initiative and we have not had the force to take it from him."

In every respect except in the air, he said, Germany remains so signant that Britain's own peril of invasion is not passed and only "tomorrow" the group's disarmed public campaign in Columbus, O. He's an ex-sailor.

"Many important supplies already have been dispatched to Russia by Britain, Churchill said, adding that it may be that transportation rather than willingness or ability to give will prove in the end the limiting factor."

If Germany should take a decisive stand in Russia it certainly would be in Hitler's power to launch simultaneous attacks against Britain, Africa and Spain, the prime minister declared.

Despite the grave warnings he gave, emphasizing that winter gives no assurance "that the danger of invasion will be entirely lifted from this island," Churchill said Britain's position and shipping, food reserves and many other ways was better than ever.

British, allied and neutral merchant shipping losses during the past three months have dropped two-thirds from the three months before, he said.

Churchill said Britain would "bomb Rome to the last" of its ability and as heavily as possible if the course of the war should render such action convenient and helpful.

CZECHS SLAIN BY NAZI RULE

Twenty-Four Executed For Anti-Nazi Plotting

Berlin, Sept. 30.—German firing squads have executed 24 Czechs accused of plotting to throw off German rule, it was announced today and spokesmen blamed Moscow and London for rebel preparations which led to the swift German counter measures in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

"London especially tried to start something in Paris, Norway and Holland, but it didn't work," a spokesman declared, "and before they got off to a good start in the protectorate we took a hand."

He intimated that German authorities had been aware for some time of "disturbing elements" in the protectorate, but had waited patiently to determine who was involved before taking action.

"We wanted to avoid dragging persons who had nothing to do with it into the affair," he said. "Most Czechs saw the purposelessness of such 'politics.' Reasonable Czechs saw the Germans did not intend to put them under the yoke or suppress their culture."

Three former army leaders were among those executed. They were described as "leading men in the opposition group which had as its goal the re-establishment of an independent Czech state."

To Conduct Meeting In Kinston.
Kinston, Sept. 30.—E. Stanley Jones, world-famous religious leader, will conduct a preaching mission in Kinston four days next week. The first mass meeting will be held in the auditorium of the local high school Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Jones has been a missionary to India, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, since 1907. His first book, "The Christ of the Indian World," made him almost overnight an international figure. He has since written nine other books, all of which have ranked among the best sellers and been translated into many languages. Three times in recent years Dr. Jones has declined election to the Methodist bishopric, preferring to give himself to a world-wide ministry. Wherever he goes people flock to hear him.

Delegations from other towns will be welcomed. A special section will be reserved for ministers on the speaker's platform.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIAN GREY

Chapter 20
May Frisbee

Alone in his room, Jerry wondered vaguely just how much difference this development would make with Pam and himself. Not that he doubted Pam. Money would make no difference to her. If she cared for him with money, she would care for him without it.

But he was concerned about his own share of the thing. He would have nothing to offer her now. He had wasted his years pretty generally. He had made no start in business at all, due to the fact that he had always supposed his father's money would be enough to keep him.

And there were other things. His thought lingered darkly on that May Frisbee. May had been one of the gay companions of his lighter and more careless hours. And May had refused to forget. With his allowance cut off he would be unable to appease May with expensive gifts. He wondered vaguely just what her reactions would be. Probably not pleasant.

May, when he had met at a Greenwich Village cocktail party, had fastened to him with eager good nature after their first meeting. Jerry wasn't in love with anyone, so he hadn't minded. May was quite lovely to look at. She was a dancer, she explained, soon to be "at liberty," because the show was closing. And she had remained "at liberty" after she found that Jerry was the son of the very rich Winthropes. Jerry hadn't minded. She had been an amusing and agreeable companion. That would have to stop now, and Jerry was glad.

He'd write May, he reflected, and tell her what had happened. May was a good sport and she would understand. They had never been more than gay companions. After all, he had been more than kind to her in tiding her over rough places.

He heard Lenore go into her room just before he went to sleep. It must be morning, he thought. He wondered what Vin Barroll, the local musician, was like and hoped he wasn't taking Lenore too seriously. Lenore was merely playing with the handsome youth. Jerry owned a little as he thought of Gervase de Bellefort. Gervase had planned so much on trading his fine old name for a goodly share of the Winthrop fortune, with Lenore thrown in for good measure. It was going to be pretty tough for him.

With the engagement announced, Jerry was having a leisurely breakfast on the veranda of the Casa when Lenore appeared. Her eyes were surly as they met his.

"A nice show you're making of yourself," she said as she dropped into a chair opposite him.

"If I can match you, I'm good," was Jerry's reply.

"You're going to ruin everything for me, getting serious with that basket girl. What do you suppose Gervase will say when he sees what you want to bring into the family?"

"If he has any sense he'll say he envies me."

"Idiot! If you'd just play around with her, it would be understandable. But getting serious."

"I know," Jerry said suddenly very serious. "That would be beyond your ken. Well, you really haven't much to worry about Lenore. Not about de Bellefort, I mean. When he knows what's happened he'll be breaking the engagement anyhow."

"Perhaps if you'll begin to talk sense, I'll listen to you."

"I'm talking more sense right now than I ever have. We're broke. Mother will slip you the new program this morning, and is it going to burn you up!" He had finished his coffee and was rising. Lenore turned away from him. She hadn't believed him, of course.

But later, in their suite, he heard her voice high and angry. Blaming her father, blaming everyone. Adele was trying to pacify her.

"This is the end of everything for me!" Lenore cried bitterly.

Scene By Lenore

Bartholomew Winthrop slept well that night for the first time in weeks. He had had a great deal on his mind of late. His business had been so jittery that his nerves were strung taut. And, worse than that, his family seemed to be going to pieces before his eyes.

For years the children's letters to him, when they were away on their expensive vacations, had been getting fewer and fewer. They never remembered his birthday any more. And often didn't write to thank him for the expensive gifts he sent them.

And there were other things, too. Echos along Broadway and Fifty-second Street in New York, that rendezvous of night clubs, of the exploits of his children. That was not the sort of thing he wanted them to be known by.

Winthrop had always had their gay young moments, but in the main they had stood for the finer, more enduring things of life. Bart liked that as a memory. He wanted it to continue, so future Winthropes would have the happiness of such a memory.

He woke to the sound of Lenore's voice rising in a sort of melodic anger. He lay motionless, listening for a space. Lenore was taking it badly. He had never heard her voice so edgy, never known her to be quite so ruthlessly unkind.

"And I suppose you think this is going to help me," she was telling her mother. "A nice flop I'll be. You know I've asked the girls to be my maids, and everybody's expecting a big wedding. Gervase isn't an ordinary man! He expects things when he marries!"

"My dear child, it isn't our fault. Your father couldn't help this. It's our part to be kind about it," Mrs. Winthrop spoke patiently, wearily, as if she had been repeating it over and over to herself.

"Kind!" Lenore snapped. "Well, it isn't very kind to me."

Bart Winthrop, in the next room, felt himself drawn out of bed and into his dressing gown by the very force and bitterness of Lenore's voice.

"After this," Lenore was saying, "I don't care what happens! It's the end of everything for me!"

"But, Lenore, it needn't be," protested her mother. "You still have Gervase. You're engaged to him. We'll manage a wedding for you somehow. There are my jewels—we can sell part of them, and the rest can be your dowry. There are lots of poor girls who get happiness out of life. You're young—"

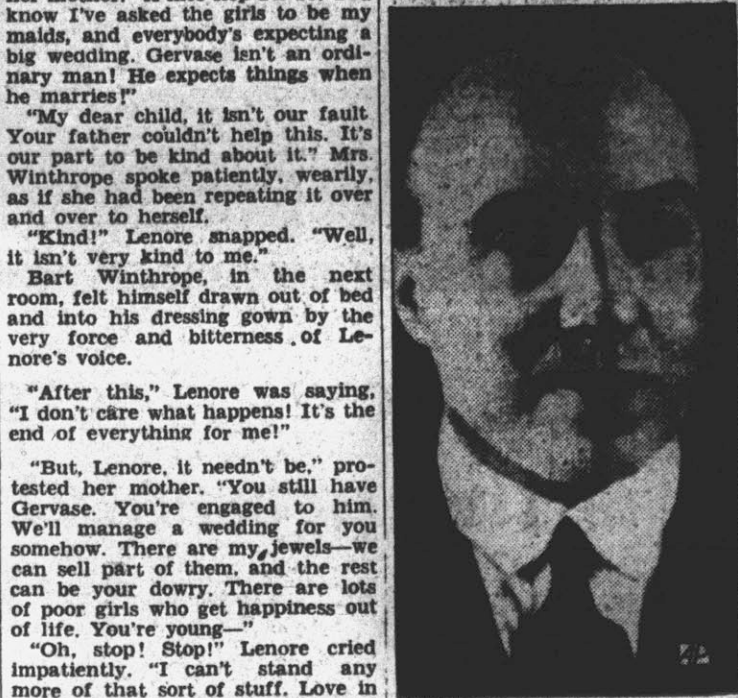

"Oh, stop! Stop!" Lenore cried impatiently. "I can't stand any more of that sort of stuff. Love in a cottage never appealed to me."

Jerry, standing in the hallway, turned away. He didn't want to hear more. He was sorry for Adele, offering to give everything to Lenore. That's the way she'd be of course. And he was sorry for his father. He and Lenore were pretty useless to their parents in this crisis, and that wasn't the way things should be. But it was too late to do anything much about it. As he walked away, he heard his father enter the room; heard his father's voice saying:

"Oh, no, you won't, Adele. You won't sell a jewel or give so much as a chip diamond to a daughter who talks to you as Lenore has been talking."

He turned to his daughter. "I don't know what to say to you, Lenore. There's no excuse for your attitude. It's beyond me. I needn't tell you how surprised I am."

Air Head Involved

Lenore looked at her father for a moment, then turned and fled.

"But I Love Her"

Edmund Antoine, early about doing some errands on Duval Street, met Vin Barroll.

"I thought you were coming around to see me," Antoine said.

Vin looked at him doubtfully. "There probably wouldn't be any use in coming now. You wouldn't want to help me now, wouldn't want me around," he said.

"What do you mean?"

"Well," he hesitated, "I'm out now. Lenore and I are washed up. Through. We had a quarrel last night."

Antoine laughed. "Of course!" he said. "I expected that. Everyone quarrels with Lenore. But don't worry about her. She won't always be warbling the same snooty tune. Anyhow, my good man, I'm doing this for a swell musician; not for the friend of a friend. There's nothing like that about it."

Vin looked at Antoine doubtfully, but said nothing.

"But when did you quarrel with the high and mighty Lenore? You did a beautiful jwosome at the yacht party. Everything looked like sunshine and roses to me then," Antoine said.

"It was after that. That de Bellefort bird took her home and then she slipped back to South Beach to meet me. We'd made a date. She Bellefort got sore because she made what he called an exhibition of herself with me, and Lenore told me in plain English that I should have kept away from the yacht. In other words, away from her when she's with her gilded crowd." Vin's eyes were sullen. "Well, I don't want her that way! I don't want any girl that way!"

"Check, maestro! And speaking of exhibitions, that was a pretty swell one, if anyone happens to be asking me. You gave that girl something she certainly never could have got for herself—class and temperament and style. Without which an entertainer is just so much debris on the landscape. You really have done something for her, because I happen to know Lenore has been eating her heart out to get up in the spotlight and show her pretty little self off."

"She can keep on eating her heart out, for all I care!"

"Listen, lad," Antoine began, "women and a musical career don't mix. Keep them separate."

"I suppose I have been a fool to take her so seriously."

"Of course. Lenore's a spoiled brat."

"Sure, she's a spoiled brat," Vin said with feeling.

Then he added: "But I love her. What does a fellow do about a thing like that?"

There'll Be Changes Made

There'll be some changes made in the 1942 American farmer's plan to feed Europe's embattled Allies, compared with the wheat-raising campaign in the day of World War I. North Carolina farmers are being asked to cut down wheat production, increase corn and milk output, along with beef and pork. The world has a two-year supply of wheat now. In 1917-18, there was a gnawing wheat shortage. Today the shortage is in just about all food commodities except wheat. E. Y. Floyd, state AAA executive of State College, says Agricultural leaders will work out individual food increase plans with every Tar Heel farmer, beginning NOW.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE DOMINANT NOTE
In one of his famous preludes, Chopin employs the device of sounding one note continuously through the whole piece. The prelude is supposed to represent a mother's dream as she falls asleep with her baby in her arms. She dreams that the boy grows up to destroy her hopes and comes at last to a tragic end. The continuously recurring note which one hears through the whole prelude signifies the underlying motive of the boy's life, the persistent inclination toward evil which will eventually carry him to ruin.

There is a continuously sounding note in the hearts of every one of us, basis tone which underlies all our action and all our thinking. It may be an evil thing—a disposition toward selfishness, self-indulgence, double dealing. On the other hand, it may be a good thing—the deep-seated determination that comes what may, we will do the right thing under any circumstances. But of this we can be sure, down deep in the hearts of every one of us is a pulsing motive which dominates our lives, as that single note running through the Chopin prelude dominates the whole piece.

LEGION ENDORSES FOREIGN POLICY

The American Legion has endorsed the foreign policy of this nation and has urged the removal of all legislative barriers against the movements and the use of United States armed forces. This great American organization took a strong stand for the foreign policy after voting down a minority report that sought to stop lend-lease aid to Russia at the recent national convention. Despite the American Legion's well-known abhorrence for Communism, the convention took a realistic view of the international scene.

The convention decided that the defeat of Adolph Hitler is the present national objective and then voted a resolution that demanded fighting, if necessary, outside the confines of the United States. The general consensus was that any threat of Communism in this country could be taken care of when the time comes.

The American Legion can well speak for the vast body of American people in the same frame of mind today. Those Legionnaires who have been in doubt about what this country's policy should be in relation to the rest of the world have cast aside their fears of involvement and realize that the only course is to present a stiff front to the Axis. The Legionnaires have been through the mill. They know the horrors of war, but they also know what the threat of Hitlerism really means to this continent. It is that much greater a testimonial of courage when those who have been in action, in real battle, proclaim their fighting attitude toward Hitler and his gang.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stagnett
(Second of two articles about Donald Marr Nelson, executive director of the new Supply Priorities and Allocation Board.)

Washington.—If you are looking for fireworks around Donald Nelson, you might as well wait until the next Fourth of July. Donald Nelson is big, bespectacled, 53 years old, quiet, and inconspicuous in his dress. He doesn't wise-crack. He plays golf like any moderately good duffer who shoots around 100. He's a better than amateur photographer.

His only excess, if it is one, is smoking. His big mahogany desk is neatly lined with a row of pipes, the bowls of which are about in proportion to Nelson's six-foot-odd, 200-pounds-plus. He smokes them in rotation—stopping only to sandwich in a few cigars.

He is so friendly that even if you are only an $18-a-week clerk who has dropped in to pick up some mail, he makes you feel that he's glad you came. In Washington, he is something of a phenomenon, for he never has been known to lose his temper—in spite of conferences where red tape and inanities combined to blast the temper of any man. Asked how he always managed to hold his temper he said:

"All my life, I have noticed that the man who loses his temper always loses the argument."

Made His Own Breaks
Donald Nelson was born in Hannibal, Mo., Mark Twain's home town. Some like to say that he was born on the wrong side of the railroad tracks. He was, as a matter of fact, born on the wrong side of Bear Creek, so far as Hannibal social life went, but he wasn't a destitute ragamuffin. His father was an engineer for the Katy railroad. His mother died when he was three and his maternal grandmother brought him up.

In high school and at Missouri university, Nelson sold papers, jerked soda, stoked furnaces and all that. But he also generally topped his class and he came out of M. U. determined to be a chemistry teacher. To teach, he had to have a Ph.D. To get it, he had to have money. To get money, he took a "temporary job" in the chemical testing laboratory of Sears, Roebuck and Co. That was 1912.

In less than a year, Sears Roebuck discovered he was a pretty good prospect and gave him a scholarship to Lowell (Mass.) Textile Institute. For six months after that, he sewed overalls and things in a factory in upstate New York for the experience. From then until 1939, Donald Nelson climbed through the mail order house catalogue of executives until he was tops. Then he came to Washington for national defense.

Likes To Talk Shop
Politically he's a Democrat. He has been identified with the New Deal. His best friend in Washington is Leon Henderson—but there's nothing of the politician about Nelson, just as there is nothing of the socialite. He talks shop when he lunches in the new Social Security building where his department is quartered, or dines with friends. Nelson's accomplishments are the result of method rather than madness. He mows down obstacles like a 60-ton tank. There is one story that came to the capital with Nelson which illustrates the point.

Involved in a golf club tournament, Nelson came up to the last nine and was informed that he needed 45 to win. That meant, to Nelson, an allowance of five on each hole and that's the way he shot it—five on the three-par holes, five on the four and five par holes—total, 45.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Sept. 30 — Department headquarters of the American Legion here will soon be very proudly calling callers' attention to a new and handsome desk set.

Reason is that the department of North Carolina topped all others in the telegraphic roll call preview at the national convention in Milwaukee. And so Commander Roy L. McMilland and Adjutant Jim Caldwell are visibly swelled with pride.

Assistant National Adjutant Glascoff telegraphed Jim as follows: "Department of North Carolina leads again. Congratulations to all your fine membership workers for putting your department at top of telegraphic roll call previews of Milwaukee convention with percentage quota of 47.26 based on 7,000 members to be delivered at national headquarters on October 2, Nevada second with 43.68. Commander Stambaugh joining with us at headquarters in hailing this achievement."

Officials are confident the department will far exceed its 1941 membership, which was more than 17,000. Incidentally North Carolina legionnaires who were at the Milwaukee convention come back with reports that this department's delegation was one hundred per cent with the "ins" and, therefore, can expect favors from national headquarters whenever there are favors to be granted. (Politics playing some part in Legion affairs as in all other organizations.)

They say, too, that Roane Waring of Tennessee, who was backed by the Tar Heels this time until he requested them to shift the Strambaugh, will be named national commander at New Orleans next year.

This and That . . .

A Duke University gal has made good on the cover of a magazine for the third time. The lovely young lady is Suzanne Sommers of Duke and Maplewood, N. C., and she's depicted on the cover of the November Red Book . . . The Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce evidently is against paying wages. Last year it sent a tremendous delegation to Raleigh to fight the proposed wage and hour bill. This year its president gets shot by its ex-secretary, allegedly because the secretary's wages were never paid . . . The "America First" committee is flooding the weeklies with anti-war and anti-British cartoons. He pictures John Bull as having thrown Czechoslovakia and other countries to pursuing wolves; but in keeping with the Committee's studious avoidance of condemnation of Hitler, not one single solitary line of any drawing shows the slightest indignation against the Fuehrer's atrocities. The pursuing wolves already mentioned aren't even labeled. . . Judge Earl Rives of Greensboro has now made official stories that he will run for Congress in the Sixth next year. Incidentally, first such story appeared in this bureau's correspondence several months ago. . . There are practically conclusive signs that Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels will resign next month, another story which first

The newspapers prime function is the presentation of NEWS—quickly—impartially—completely

Bill and Anne Brown live over on Church street in a nice little brick house. They might be people you know, because they're just average folks. They don't play an important part in world affairs themselves, but they're mighty interested in the people who do. They like to keep themselves informed about what's happening where, and why—and they like to know about the things that happen—WHEN they happen. So—they read the newspaper.

There's a lot of significance to that. There's a lot of Bill and Anne Browns in the world and most of them are hungry for news of that world. Naturally they turn to the one source they can depend on, that they've ALWAYS depended on, ever since they were kids. Their newspaper. They KNOW that the prime function of that newspaper is the presentation of the News—quickly, impartially, completely. That's what your newspaper does for you. And it's an important job.

Devils-Vols Game To Feature Duel Of Captains

Durham, Sept. 30.—Two fine leaders will lead two fine football teams into Saturday's classic in Duke stadium, where the Blue Devils of Wallace Wade are to entertain the mighty Volunteers of Tennessee.

Ray Graves is the captain and center of the Tennessee eleven. Bob Barnett is the captain and center of the Duke team. Their qualities of leadership are proven, their ability as centers is established—and their should be the most sparkling individual battle to develop in the game.

There is a remarkable similarity of build in these two boys. Graves, a home-grown Knoxville lad, weighs 195 pounds and stands one inch above six feet. Barnett, the fiery kid from Albany, Ga., tips the beams at 193 and is an even six feet in height.

Chapel Hill, Sept. 30.—Carolina's Big Five opener at Davidson Saturday night which may determine the "team to beat" for the State title, in view of Davidson's 6-6 tie with State and Duke's 43-14 rout of Wake Forest, will match two teams of much the same type.

Field Events Set For Saturday P.M.

Final events in track and field will be held at the Guy Smith stadium, Saturday, October 4, from 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon. There will be six major events with separate contests for boys and girls. All girls and boys of the city and county are invited to take part. Prizes will be given to the winners and all are eligible to take part.

There will be a variety of contests which will include the 100 yard dash, standing broad jump, running broad jump, baseball throw, sack race, and final race, and a final race twice around the track.

Today's Short Story.

The visitor at the office of U. S. Senator Walter F. George made it quite plain that he was a man of few words.

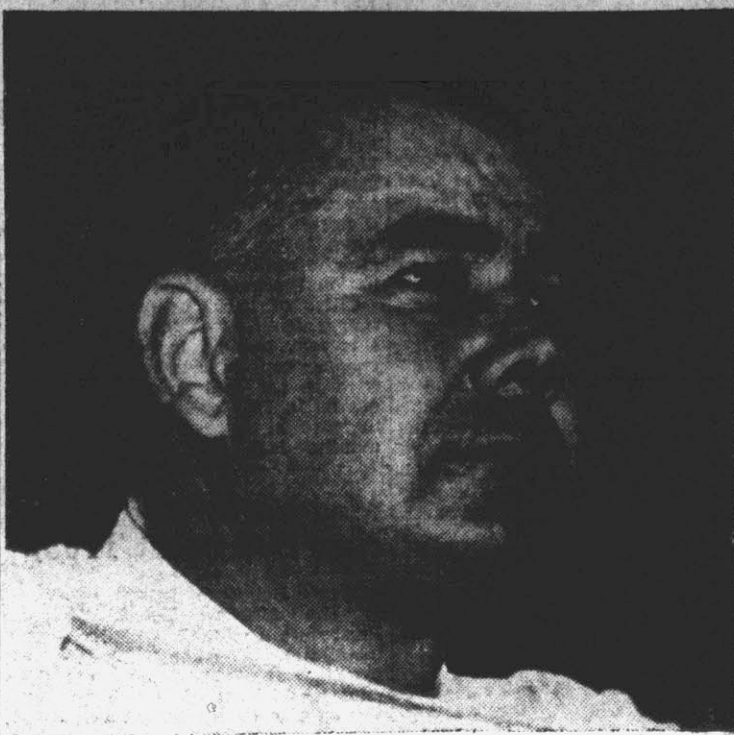

"Show me anything in the law that says they can tax a man with a wooden leg."

Federal gasoline tax collections for the first six months of 1941 were $100,127,079, or 55.1-2 per cent higher than during the first half of 1940.

From August, 1940, to August, 1941, living costs increased from 1.9 per cent to 8.2 per cent in 56 of the 60 cities for which data was available.

Friday night which may determine the "team to beat" for the State title, in view of Davidson's 6-6 tie with State and Duke's 43-14 rout of Wake Forest, will match two teams of much the same type. The Wildcats and the Tar Heels both have medium-weight but rugged and mobile lines with fast, elusive ball carriers who can both scat and pass, and all the signs point to a tough battle and wide-opener thriller.

Major Looks At Blue Devils

Major Bob Neyland of the United States Army was in Durham last week-end and he didn't come all the way down from his post at Norfolk, Va., just for the ride. Although he has turned the Tennessee Volunteer football team over to the very capable John Barnhill, the Major is doing a lot of scouting for the Vols. The picture above shows Major Neyland as he studied Duke formations from the scout box and watched the Blue Devils defeat Wake Forest in their opener last Saturday, 43-14. Tennessee meets the Duke team in a home-coming special at Duke stadium Saturday afternoon.

COLLEGE GAME IS CALLED OFF

Game With Camp Davis Cancelled By Army Team

The game scheduled between the East Carolina Teachers College and the Camp Davis football teams for next Saturday night at Wilmington has been canceled by the army team, leaving the Pirates with an open date next week.

The Teachers, who came through their engagement with Tusculum College Saturday afternoon with nothing more serious than one slightly-injured ankle and one slightly-worse-for-the-wear back, should be in excellent shape for their battle with the Naval Apprentices of Portsmouth here a week from Saturday.

Wilson Schuerholz, star back of last season, was back in a Pirate uniform yesterday as the Teachers ran briskly through their plays under the direction of Coach John Christenbury. Russell Rogerson, Greenville boy and tackle who was voted best blocker on the ECTC team by fans last season, was also working out with the Pirates yesterday for the first time. Fred Cooper and Walter Mallard, end prospects, have recently joined the Pirate team.

Bob Young, the boy who is somewhat under the weather as a result of the Tusculum encounter, had the best yards-gained average on either team in that game. Bob carried the ball seven times for an average of 11 yards per trip in addition to running back punts. He scored two touchdowns. Don Marriott rushed 12 times for an average of 7.5 yards and also talled twice. Marshall Teague averaged 2.1 yards on 13 rushes and Floyd Woody had an average of one yard for his six attempts. The entire Tusculum team netted a minus of two yards for all its ground plays.

Lions Hear Talk By City Officials

Mayor B. B. Sugg told members of the Greenville Rotary club at last night's meeting that all departments of our city government are progressive. Mr. Sugg commented on the many improvements made in the fire department, the additional play ground facilities, and the importance of the airport which is practically completed. The new curb market, which is being constructed, will provide a market for any quantity of farm produce which farmers have for sale. Mr. Sugg said:

George Gardner, Greenville's Fire Chief, said, "The new fire truck to be delivered soon will give Greenville a modern and well equipped fire department, which has as its purpose to save lives as well as put out fires."

Chief George Clark explained the value of the Bureau of Identification maintained by his police department which has proven to be a valuable aid in handling crimes. L. C. Skinner, Judge of Greenville Municipal court, reported that this court had given attention to 3,118 cases since the organization of the court April 18, 1938. He said, "This court is vital to our city as it deals entirely with cases occurring within our city and the city receives its benefit."

At the request of the Greenville Ministerial Association, an announcement was made that the month of October has been declared "Church Emphasis" or "Church Going Month" and everyone is requested to cooperate.

Guests at the meeting were O. G. Duke, Raleigh; Dr. A. E. Hudson, El Paso, Texas; Rev. Hartwell Campbell, Greenville; and Herbert Jenkins, Jr., Aulander.

Hess Is Resorting To Hunger Strike

London, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Rudolf Hess, former deputy for Adolf Hitler who made a sensational flight to England last May, was reported tonight to have started hunger strikes twice in his place of detention in anger because he was being treated as a prisoner of war and not as a "special envoy."

The Star, London evening newspaper, reporting that Hess was being confined "within a very easy distance of London," said he was contending that as an "envoy" he should be allowed to return to Germany at once.

When Hess, then the number three Nazi, flew to Scotland early in May in one of the most sensational episodes of the entire war. He was reported widely to have brought peace overtures from Hitler.

The Star implied that Hess was living in comfortable quarters, saying: "Some of our very senior officers who have been captured by the enemy now occupy decent villas. Has Hess a villa or something better suited to his higher rank?"

Government officials who have been silent regarding Hess since his spectacular landing nearly five months ago, declined to comment on the Star story.

Growing Interest in Purchase Of N. C. Farms Noted

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—There is growing interest in the purchase of farm land in North Carolina. R. W. Shoffner, extension specialist in farm management at State College, said today. He reported that most of those who are seeking farm land are interested in agriculture on a part-time basis.

"There are considerable inquiries about purchases of land for farming and investments," Shoffner declared. "A large number of these inquiries are from people who are in industries, wanting to buy a small farm nearby their employment. This is particularly true in the industrial areas of the state."

The extension specialist said that the question: "What is a fair price for farm land?" is frequently asked. He pointed out that this is a difficult question to answer definitely. "In determining the price of farm land," Shoffner said, "the location, type of soil and type of farming must be considered. Land would range in price from $5 per acre for unproductive woodland areas to $200 for good land in a high state of productivity."

"According to the 1940 census, the average value of land in North Carolina was $39 per acre. The 1920 average was $49 per acre. When you consider the purchase of a farm for agricultural production, leaving out the influence of industry, good farm land can be bought for $50 per acre. Of course this will not hold true in every section of the state, but it is the average."

478 Claimants In Rocky Mount Area

Rocky Mount, Sept. 30.—A statement issued today by Marshall H. Barney, manager of the Rocky Mount office of the Social Security Board, shows that 478 persons in this area are now receiving monthly payments of old-age and survivors insurance. This figure represents the number of men, women, and children in the counties of Dare, Hyde, Tyrrell, Washington, Beaufort, Bertie, Northampton, Pitt, Halifax, Nash, Edgecombe, Wilson, Martin and Hertford, who receive monthly payments of old-age and survivors insurance. Among those listed are 70 widows, 204 children, 168 retired wage earners, 32 wives of retired wage earners, and four aged dependent parents.

The field manager explained that when a fully insured wage earner who is 65 years old or more, files a claim for his monthly old-age insurance benefit his wife may also claim monthly benefits if she is 65 years old or when she reaches that age. In addition each of his children under age 16 (18 if in school) will receive monthly benefits—except that the benefits for the entire family may not be more than twice the amount of the retired wage earner's own monthly payment.

Mr. Barney pointed out that when an insured worker dies, leaving a widow with minor children, monthly payments of survivors insurance are made to his widow and to his children who are under age 16 (18 if in school). An insured worker's widow who has reached age sixty-five or the widow of an insured worker who has children under age 18 in her care receives three-fourths of the amount of her husband's primary insurance benefit and each of his minor children receives one-half of his primary insurance benefit within certain limitations.

August Fatalities Hit All-Time High

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—An all-time high for August traffic deaths emphasized the need for a nationwide safety campaign requested by President Roosevelt against accidents hampering the defense program, the National Safety Council said today.

Its report of 3,910 traffic deaths in August, 21 per cent above last year, and an eight months' toll of 24,030, 15 per cent higher than the same period in 1940, was issued in advance of the National Safety Congress in Chicago next week. He reported that most of those who are seeking farm land are interested in agriculture on a part-time basis.
