Reds Report Germans Thrown Back on Leningrad Front

OTHER CLAIMS MADE BY REDS

Berlin Radio, However, Asserts Czars' Village 15 Miles South Of Leningrad Occupied by Nazi Troops; Bloody Battle Continues In Ukraine Sector With Heavy Losses Reported

By The Associated Press
Russia's Red armies reported today they had thrown the Germans back nearly 30 miles on the Leningrad front, overrun Nazi siege trenches around the old Czarist capital, and inflicted more than 8,700 casualties on the long battle line from the Gulf of Finland to the Black sea.

The Berlin radio asserted, however, that Nazi troops had occupied Czarist palaces southwest of Leningrad—presumably at Tsarskoye Selo, the "Czars' village," 15 miles south of the city.

A British broadcast said the Russians had recaptured Strelna, 20 miles west of Leningrad, hurled the Germans back nearly 30 miles to Lake Ladoga from Kolpino, and re-established communications between Leningrad and Moscow.

Soviet marines were said to have executed a bold landing west of Leningrad and dug in on the gulf coast, where Nazi batteries have bombarded Kronstadt, Russian naval base.

For the first time since Marshal Kliment Voroshilov proclaimed a death stand defense for Leningrad 44 days ago, a Red army bulletin declared the situation around the siege-girt city was definitely stronger.

The Russians said 1,500 Germans were killed and at least 1,500 wounded on the northern Leningrad front, 3,000 killed and wounded on the Central (Moscow) front and 2,700 annihilated on the southwest (Ukraine) front.

In a violent two-day battle in the Ukraine, Soviet dispatches said the Germans left the field "strewn with corpses, smashed tanks and guns, and that the Dnieper river was carrying away thousands of the invaders' dead."

While the Nazi high command reported tersely that operations were "proceeding successfully," military advisers reaching London indicated that Germany's revised war plans might start a new drive toward Moscow from the Ukraine, veering north from the bitterly contested Kharkov sector in the Donets river basin.

Battle Of Britain Renewed By Nazis

London, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A north-east British coastal city suffered its worst air raid of the war last night and today as the Germans apparently renewed the Battle of Britain in deadly earnest by attacking at least five towns with bombs and bullets.

In the hardest hit city, casualties in both killed and wounded were admittedly heavy. A public shelter was smashed by a direct hit; many persons still were trapped in shattered buildings; and at least three buses were wrecked.

The Germans said Newcastle on the northeast coast was the object of their strongest raid.

Following up this apparent end to the summer-long lull, German cannon on the French coast today bombarded ships passing through Dover strait.

The RAF directed overnight raids at the docks at Brest, France, where German warships lie, at Saint Nazaire, and at airbases in German-held territory, while patrols today set fire to a German supply ship off Gravelines, sank an anti-aircraft ship and damaged six others, the Air Ministry reported.

Springfield, O.—(AP)—A workman from neighboring Kentucky, employed in a big plant here, straggled over to his foreman and reported he had been on the job six weeks without being paid.

The foreman learned the man's checks had been issued regularly but the employer remained obdurate.

"No, sir," he insisted, "I never did get any money. All they ever gave me were slips of paper telling how much they owe me."

Nicotinic acid derived from tobacco is used in the enrichment of white flour.

Ex-Governor and Wife Victim Of Attack

Former Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia and Mrs. Rivers are shown in this recent picture. The two were attacked and clubbed in their Lakeland, Ga., home by an assailant who later killed himself, police said, because of the failure of a kidnap plot. The former governor and his wife were able to beat off the attacker.

CABINET OUTS IN AUSTRALIA

Labor Leader Accepts Job Of Forming Government

Canberra, Australia, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Labor leader John Curtin accepted a commission to form a new Australian government today shortly after Prime Minister Arthur W. Padden tendered his cabinet's resignation following defeat on a motion regarding the government as one of confidence.

Curtin said the labor government would "carry on the war wholeheartedly."

"The war involves the interest of labor more than those of any other class," he said.

He added that he would ask the opposition to join the war council when his government took office.

The government setback came on a motion to reduce the administration budget by the nominal sum of one pound sterling. Padden previously had announced he would regard passage of the motion as a vote of censure.

Fayetteville Gets Big WPA Project

Washington, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody, explaining presidential approval of a $220,000 water facilities improvement under the defense public works program, said today the additions were made necessary by "increased that the population of the city of Fayetteville had increased from 17,000 on January 1, 1940, to 35,000 at present and said that Fort Bragg, with over 60,000 men, was expected to increase to 120,000 in the next six months.

Of the $220,000 estimated total cost, $110,000 will be a federal grant and $110,000 will be spent by the city of Fayetteville, the applicant.

SENTENCE OF PAUL COLETTE IS COMMUTED

Blowing Up Of Six Synagogues In Vichy Believed To Have Been Work Of Unbridled Terrorists

Vichy, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Marshal Petain intervened today to save the life of Paul Colette, under death sentence for the attempted assassination of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat.

The young Norman's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Colette, who was sentenced to die by a special French court in Paris, Wednesday, was saved from the guillotine at the last minute at the urgent request of Laval and Deat themselves. They were gravely wounded in the attempt on their lives, which was made August 28 at a public ceremony.

Colette yesterday had appealed for clemency to Marshal Petain, the only man who could save him.

Vichy, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Six synagogues were blown up in Paris this morning.

The explosions, which occurred between 1 a. m. and 5 a. m., were caused by bombs which destroyed the interiors of the buildings and left only the walls standing.

Two persons were wounded. Bombs which had been placed in a seventh synagogue were located and removed safely.

The synagogue bombings apparently were the work of unbridled right wing terrorists, observers said. The bombings came as French and German authorities pressed a drive to quell opposition to their collaboration policy.

Strike Halted At Mobile Shipyards

By The Associated Press
CIO shipwrights whose walkout has hampered operations at the two Mobile yards of the Alabama Drydock and Shipbuilding Company voted last night to return to work pending consideration of the dispute by the National Mediation Board.

John Green, national president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, had urged the men to go back to their jobs. Estimates of the number of men who walked out varied.

Details of the workmen's grievances were not officially disclosed but reliable sources indicated the union's principal demand was for a maintenance clause under which every man who belonged to the union would have to pay his dues or lose his job.

AFL office workers who had been on strike for two days at the government's $32,000,000 Plum Brook, Ohio, ordnance plant voted yesterday to return to work today after their business agent told them that an OPM representative said their demands for overtime pay could be mediated following their return.

Graduate Of College Has Work Published

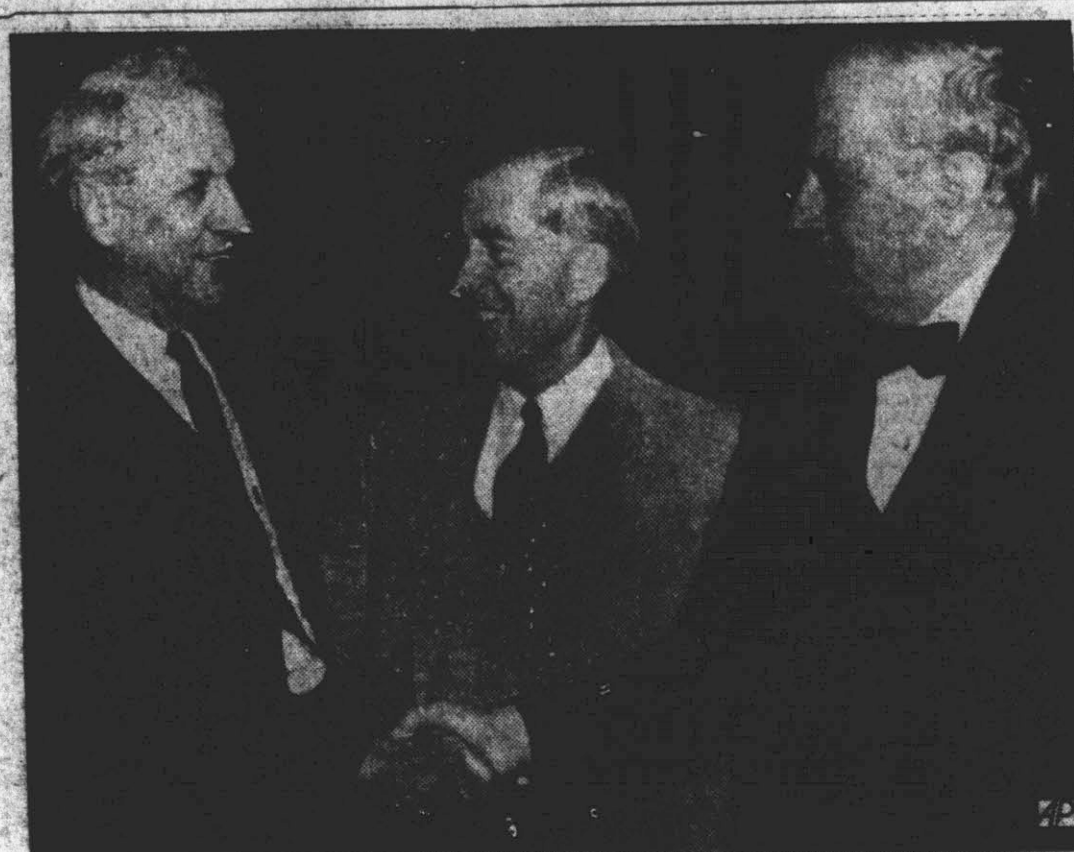

The Peabody Journal of Education for September carries an article by Miss Hazel Starnes of Hickory, last June graduate of East Carolina Teachers College, on the topic "A Beginner Considers the Education of the Members of the Teaching Profession."

Miss Starnes, who was doing graduate study at Peabody last summer delivered the paper as her contribution to a symposium group in the Fourth Annual Institute of Professional Relations, held at Peabody College in early June.

Miss Starnes' article presents the idea that education of the teacher should be broadened and made more general in pre-professional training, that it will soon be demanding five years instead of four, and that pre-service training should be followed by in-service training.

Miss Starnes is now teaching in the Kannapolis school system.

Doxey Takes Office As Mississippi Senator

Wall Doxey (left), a Democratic member of the House of Representatives from Mississippi for 16 years, moved over to the senate in Washington September 29 to take the seat of the late Senator Pat Harrison. Congratulating him are Vice President Wallace (center) and Senator Tom Connally (right), Democrat of Texas, who escorted Doxey to the well of the senate chamber where the oath of office was administered.

1941 AVERAGE NEARS 30 CTS.

Today's Sales Expected To Provide That Figure

With the season's general average having gradually climbed to 29.64 cents per pound through yesterday's sales, the figure is expected to reach the 30-cents mark with today's sale.

Approximately 1,750,000 pounds of leaf were on the floors of the local warehouses at the start of today's sales, with the offerings consisting of more nondescript leaf—odds and ends that usually come with the end of the crop. Prices, however, continued firm, possibly stronger than on some types and another average above the 37-cent mark was predicted. Floors were expected to be cleared, leaving plenty of room for Monday's sales.

Offerings yesterday amounted to 25,156 pounds, for which $307,732.25 was paid to establish a daily average of 37.29 cents per pound.

Thursday's sales brought to 32,241,164 pounds the total for the season, or 2,212,064 pounds more than the 30,029,100 pounds sold during the comparable period last year. The $9,556,201.15 paid out to date is $4,430,797.83 more than the $5,125,403.32 paid out during the same number of sales days a year ago. The 29.64 general average price paid to date is 12.57 in excess of the 17.07 for the same date in 1940.

Series Postponed By Steady Rains

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The third world series game between the Yankees and Dodgers was postponed today by Commissioner Landis after a steady rain had left the field unplayable.

After inspecting the sodden field twice, the commissioner called all the newspapermen together under the grandstand and announced: "Gentlemen, I have made my decision. The game is off."

Before deciding finally, he called both the Weather Bureau and the airport and was told there was no chance that the sun would come out later in the day, and that it probably would go right on raining. The moisture had been coming down since shortly after 7 a. m., EST, and the ground around home plate was a lily-lily by the time the commissioner showed up at 11:30. The infield was covered with canvas, but gallons of water stood in it and there was a fog over the field that nearly obscured the diamond and covered stands.

Only a few hundred bedraggled fans were in line outside the park, waiting for the gates to open. This was the first World Series game to be postponed since the second contest of the 1935 series, between the Yankees and the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The all-time record postponement was set back in 1911, when the Giants and the Athletics were washed out for six straight days and everybody nearly went nuts.

WILL ATTEMPT TO REVISE ACT

FDR Certain Of Efforts Revise Neutrality Act

Washington, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today that undoubtedly there would be some effort made to revise the neutrality act.

The final decision on the matter he told his press conference, would be reached only after a bi-partisan conference next Tuesday with Senate leaders.

On the issue of arming American merchant vessels, now forbidden by the law, the President said in response to a question that he considered the statute so definite on this point that it would not be right for him to try to wiggle out from the definite policy of Congress.

He said, too, that he had given no thought to revising present delineations of combat zones by presidential order.

The chief executive indicated that he believed the old neutrality law problem could be thrashed out at Tuesday's conference.

Japanese Protest East Indies Move

Tokyo, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Japanese, unsuccessful themselves in obtaining a greater share of the rich resources of the Netherlands East Indies, expressed resentment at the colonial government for shipping oil and rubber to Soviet Russia.

Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, told foreign press representatives his government would regard as evidence of an "unfriendly attitude" large-scale exports of such vital war materials from the Indies to Russia, in as much as Japanese trade with the Indies is virtually at a standstill.

(Dispatches from Batavia said the Indies began supplying Russia with oil, rubber and coffee several weeks ago under a pledge by The Netherlands government placing the products of Dutch colonies "at the disposal of the Soviets.")

RED RELIGION IS QUESTIONED

Mission Head To Inquire About Freedom In Russia

Washington, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had instructed W. Averell Harriman, head of America's mission to Russia, to take up in Moscow the question of religious freedom in Russia.

The chief executive told a press conference that the question also had been taken up previously with the Russian government, leaving the impression that this had been done through Lawrence Steinhardt, the United States ambassador.

He said he had received no report from Harriman and could not say until he did get one whether he thought the overtures would result in some success.

The president was urged in a high Catholic quarter today to take a direct hand in influencing Soviet Russia "to grant full religious freedom, now that he feels that an 'entering wedge' for such an eventualities is 'definitely on its way.'"

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University, said "the events of the last 24 hours convince me that the hour has come for a definite and constructive move on the part of the president of the United States."

After Mr. Roosevelt, at his Tuesday press conference, had described the Russian constitution's religious guarantees as essentially the same as ours, Father Walsh had quickly declared that provision of the Russian constitution was "nothing but a hollow shell."

Two Negroes Held On Robbery Count

Two Washington Negroes, William Cobb, 19, and James Spens, 20, who allegedly robbed a filling station on the Greenville-Washington highway about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were taken in custody by Washington officers a few hours later, returned to Greenville last night and were given a hearing in magistrate's court this morning and bound over to County court under bond of $300 each on charges of larceny.

Deputy Sheriff R. W. Tyson, who with Corporal C. R. Williams of the State Highway Patrol, went to Washington for the Negroes, said the two stopped at Jarvis Campbell's filling station and ordered a quart of oil. One of the two stood by the car and held the hood up while Mrs. Campbell, the only one at the station at the time, put the oil in the automobile. The raised hood prevented her from seeing the station. Meanwhile the other Negro slipped around to the back door, entered the filling station and took approximately $20 from the cash drawer.

Mrs. Campbell discovered the loss of the money shortly after the two had gone and notified officers. Deputy Tyson said the Negroes had stopped at the filling station several times recently and said the robbery was planned in detail.

Fuehrer Declares In Europe-Wide Broadcast That Germany Mistaken On The Strength Of Reds, However; Asserts British Empire Only Nation Not To See Greatness Of Germany's Aims

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Russia already has been beaten, Adolf Hitler declared late today in a European-wide broadcast from the Berlin Sportspalast.

Repeating his contentions that Russia was preparing to attack Germany and hoped to destroy all Europe, the German Fuehrer said his surprise attack on Russia beforehand had saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of German soldiers.

He conceded, however, that "we made a mistake about one thing: We did not know how gigantic the preparation of this opponent against Germany had been."

Hitler, broadcasting his regular appeal for the Nazis' ninth annual winter relief fund, declared that his aims since he came to power had been three:

"The inner consolidation of our people; to bring about the equality of Germany among the states of the world; and to destroy Bolshevism. The only nation which refused to see 'the greatness of our aims' was the British empire," he said.

"But it should be stated that this opposition guarantees, not so much from the English nation as a whole, but from a group of hate-inspired statesmen."

"Thus, since peaceful understanding was spurned by this group, war was inevitable."

The Fuehrer opened his remarks in the packed Sportspalast by saying he had come especially from the Eastern front, where he was directing operations against the enemy to make this speech.

"These (operations) will annihilate the opponent in the East," he said. "England, he said, 'was promised to help everyone, but now that it all changed, we don't hear any more of England offering help, in England is asking help from others.'"

Hitler said he knew how hard war was to gain victory and offer peace, but the war-monger, Churchill, made all conciliation impossible. "Therefore, I decided to fight a battle which will determine the course of the next hundred years."

Drunkenness Charges Aired In City Court

Of the eight cases tried in regular Friday morning sessions, Municipal recorder's court, five involved charges of drunkenness. Theodore Harris, Walter Brant and Charlie Anderson, all who were given 30-day sentences, suspended upon payment of costs, drunkenness charges, and Lem Taylor, colored, was given 30 days suspended upon good behavior one year.

W. T. Adams and Willie Tri defendants in a wreck case, were acquitted of charges of careless and reckless driving.

A nol pro with leave was taken in a case against Jake Watson, involving illegal traffic in liquor. J. R. Stancill, convicted of speeding, was ordered to pay $10 to be applied on court costs.

HAPPY ENDINGS

It's an achievement to bring every meal to a happy ending! And smart is the hostess who serves desserts that click with the season, the occasion and the person. Ready-to-serve foods help her control those budget nippers—time, effort and fuel. She can glorify her own reputation for good food with dessert sandwiches. They enhance the season's finest fruits and garnish old favorites with new ideas. Give these your own twist:

Brownie Ice Box Cake
11-2 cups whipping cream
2 teaspoons powdered sugar
1-2 teaspoons vanilla
1-4 teaspoon almond extract
2 sticks chopped peppermint candy
30 Brownie Thins (square chocolate cookies)

Whip cream. Add sugar and flavoring and candy chunks. Arrange Brownie Thins one on top of another with a large spoonful whipped cream between. Use five wafers for each portion. Chill thoroughly. Serves 6.
Chocolate Banana Cake
18 Famous Chocolate Wafers
6 bananas
1 cup whipping cream or custard sauce
Use three Chocolate Wafers to a serving and neatly place sliced bananas between cookies with a generous topping of banana and whipped cream or thin custard sauce. Serves 6.

Ginger Apple Rings
Cut apple rings 3-4 inch thick and remove core from center. Cook gently in medium syrup until tender. Drain and place between three Famous Ginger Wafers. Arrange the third apple ring on top of third wafer and garnish with red cherry. Keep syrup to which a dash of cinnamon has been added, boiling until thick. Pour hot syrup over each sandwich dessert just before serving.

The War Nobody Thought Would Last Enters Its Fourth Savage Month

NO POWDER PUFF WAR is the three-month-old Russo-German conflict. Savagery old and new has been recounted daily in dispatches from the front. Old device with a new twist was artificial fog, refinement of smoke screen. Early in the fighting, correspondents reported that the fog laid down by specially trained artillerymen was used to give cover to Nazi troops advancing across a border river, presumably the Bug. The smoke shells upon exploding blanketed river banks and villages with a milky-white screen and infantrymen were able to cross, some on undestroyed bridges. AP Feature Service artist Henry Barrow has drawn this conception of Nazi troops waiting in shallow riverside trenches for fog to spread.

3 SUICIDAL ACTS of bravery and heroism have been reported in communiques from the Russo-Axis front. Not the least was the destruction of a Nazi pontoon bridge on the Dnieper river near the Russian town of "D" (possibly Dnieperpetrovsk). This artist's conception shows how a flaming Soviet bomber, according to the Russian communiques, steered purposely for a crash on the pontoons, exploding the bomb load, wrecking the half-finished structure and killing the crew of four. The bomber had been hit by an anti-aircraft shell. The Finns honored Vilho Raeto, a private, for capturing a Russian anti-tank gun single handed and turning it on four Soviet tanks, destroying them.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIAN GREY

Chapter 23
Pam's Offer

Pam searched Jerry's face for a moment. She was forced to believe what she saw there.

"I'd say then that's one less barrier between us, one thing less to keep you from being the fine person you could be, Jerry. I've been afraid of your money. It's been like something rising between us, something that made me helpless against things like—" She paused.

"Like Lenore," Jerry finished for her.

"Yes, I've felt I couldn't fight her because there were so many things that could be said that I couldn't answer. Like," she continued quietly, "wanting your money and all that. If Lenore had said that to me, I'd have wanted to die, and yet I couldn't have made any answer. How could I prove anything? Now no one can say that."

"Pam, you're lovely," and Jerry was thinking of how different her reaction had been from Lenore's.

"Not so lovely," Pam said. "That, Jerry, is the selfish part of it. I was thinking of us when I said that; that poor, you might be the man I'd like to see you be. Your money has frightened me, Jerry. It's done things to you that nothing else would."

"You're talking as if money were a curse, Pam."

"But I didn't mean that at all. Money can be the most marvelous force for good. It can do things that are wonderful beyond words. But it can tear down as fast as it can build up. You were letting it tear you down, Jerry. Oh, I could almost be cruel enough to say I'm glad your money is gone! I could, Jerry, if it involved just you alone."

"Pam! Does this mean that your doubts about me are gone? Does it? If it does, then I'm glad, too. I'm glad, Pam. Only—the gladness left his voice as the depressing aftermath came—"I have nothing to offer you now."

"It isn't that, Jerry," Pam replied gently. "I think all I'd want you to offer me was the certainty that you'd make yourself a useful, serious-minded citizen." It wasn't exactly what she had meant to say. She didn't know actually how to put her thoughts into words without coming out bluntly with the whole thing. The fact that he had been the kind of young man who could bet about a girl still rankled.

"This will be hard on Lenore, too," Pam said, and Jerry replied: "Don't waste any sympathy on her."

Pam and Lenore were so different, he thought. Loss of the Winthrop fortune meant almost as much to Pam as to Lenore. If Pam did intend to marry him, let it had brought out all of the bad qualities of Lenore. With Pa it had revealed further sweetness.

"Is it very bad, Jerry?" Pam asked finally.

"About as bad as it could be," was his reply. "And I'm so helpless, I'd never realized until now how selfishly I've lived. I haven't had thought for anyone but myself Pam."

Planted With Love

Her hand touched his, the first gesture of tenderness that she had offered.

"Money does that to you, Jerry," she said. "You mustn't blame yourself too much. We never understand trouble until we've had it ourselves. We never think very much until something makes us stop and do it."

"You're such a wise little owl," he said whimsically. "You make me feel very immature and inexperienced right now."

"Perhaps now," Pam said after a little silence. "I'll dare ask you to come here. And then a new thought came to her. "Jerry, if it's bad—well, this house is large. You know, I need so little of it. Would you come here? I mean all of you? And make it your home. I mean—she was confused at the idea of being able to do something for people who had been accustomed to all the Winthrops' had. "Of course, it is—"

BY ALEX R. GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—The Supreme Court which opens its 1941-42 session on October 6, will be the youngest—and from the standpoint of judicial experience, the "greenest"—in more than a century.

Seven of the nine justices will have been members of the high court less than four years. All, excepting the new chief justice, Harlan Stone, and Justice Owen Roberts, have been appointed by President Roosevelt since his unsuccessful attempt to infuse "younger blood" into the court by enlargement to 15 justices and compulsory retirement at the age of 70.

Only two members were judges before coming to the high tribunal. Justice Hugo L. Black was a police judge early in his career and Justice Frank Murphy served as judge of the recorder's court in Detroit for several years. Three justices, Stone, Murphy and Robert H. Jackson, are former attorneys general of the United States.

The average age of the court members is 54 compared with 71 when the President launched his most of the homes in which these parties were held were merely carrying on a tradition which had been started by ancestors.

Melita and Juan were like two happy children about these preparations, and Pam, always happy at festive times, was most excited over a large box that rested on a half table. Into it had gone one of the choicest poinsettias, a tiny bunch of mistletoe, some sprigs of Oregon holly and a huge cluster of pepper tree plumes.

"And now," she said to Melita. "One of the large glasses of guava jelly, one of peach mango preserves or candied orange peel. Your special fruit cake—the little square one. Oh, Melita, it's the most beautiful thing I've ever seen!"

"Oh, Jerry! I wish I could do something to help. I don't mind being poor. But for you folks, who have had so much, it will be hard. It will."

"You've already done something, Pam," Jerry said. "You've set me a wonderful example."

They stood at the door for a moment as Jerry was leaving. The soft night air was weighted with the perfume of Pam's rose-garden. "Pam," Jerry turned to ask, "why do your roses grow so much more fragrant and luxuriantly beautiful than for anyone else?"

Pam smiled through the faint light. "Perhaps," she said, "it's because they were planted with love and have grown with it through the years."

Christmas Eve

Christmas eve was always a day of happy activity in the old Queller house. The candles in the century-old wrought-iron candelabra were replaced with brilliant red ones. Poinsettias, which flamed in luxuriance beside the big old barn were cut and brought into the house to be put in tall vases. Red-berried plumes of the pepper tree were cut and put in large floor vases on either side of the door in the wide hall. The mistletoe, which a friend from Carolina sent, was tied with a red ribbon bow and hung from the living room chandelier.

That would be a gay and lively spot at the Christmas party which had been a Queller custom for generations. Melita had the art of buffet breakfast down to a fine point. There would be chafing dishes of creamed kidneys, little hot sausages, some in bacon jackets, in covered silver dishes; heaps of home-made potato chips, trays of buttered toast and gallons of coffee.

In the afternoon and evening there would be other teas and parties, starting a series which would continue merrily all through the holiday week; high-lighted at certain times by special church services which everyone attended.

"That's so cruelly unfair," Pam exclaimed. "Vin deserves better than that. He's so real, Edmund. If you can do anything for him, please do."

"I can, and I will. To get Lenore's goat, if for no other reason."

Relief Driver Believes Father

Maysville, Ky.—(AP)—Patrolman J. F. Brodt, Jr., flagged down a city bus to tell Driver Roy Mitchell he had just become a father.

"Mitch," said Officer Brodt, "go up to the hospital and greet your boy. I'll take your place at the wheel."

Brodt made a complete turn before an emergency driver relieved him.

According to U. S. Public Health Service, more than 50,000 accidental deaths occur annually in public places, accounting for 4 per cent of all deaths and 50 per cent of all accidental deaths in the country.

Occupational accidents caused 17,000 deaths and 1,400,000 injuries in 1940.

Wondering about the 1942 cars?

Here is Buick's superb solution to the problems posed by making our national defense, as it should be, Industrial America's No. 1 job

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

Our assignment: Building Pratt & Whitney valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

It was no time to duck or dodge the facts. So we didn't try.

Instead we said—these being the materials critical in the defense program, we'll do our planning for 1942 with that foremost in mind.

Not merely for an "acceptable" car—certainly not for any "ersatz" number.

We had to have a real and representative Buick. One we could be proud of. One able enough, active enough, durable enough to serve till annual new models are the rule again.

We resolved on a 1942 automobile of such merit as could carry the Buick reputation without fault until other new Buicks, however far off, could come along to refresh it.

Now we're announcing those 1942 cars.

Why waste words telling you how good they are! You can't put language in the gas tank and learn either how many or how enjoyable are the miles you'll get per gallon.

There's a better answer—you drive these cars themselves. Come on, do that! Put your own yardstick on their quality.

It would be a shame, for you and for us, to have you miss the dreadnaught Buick we've built to stand up successfully to the toughest job in years.

No other car has ALL THIS FOR YOU IN 'FORTY-TWO

Strength For The Day
By EARL L. DOUGLASS

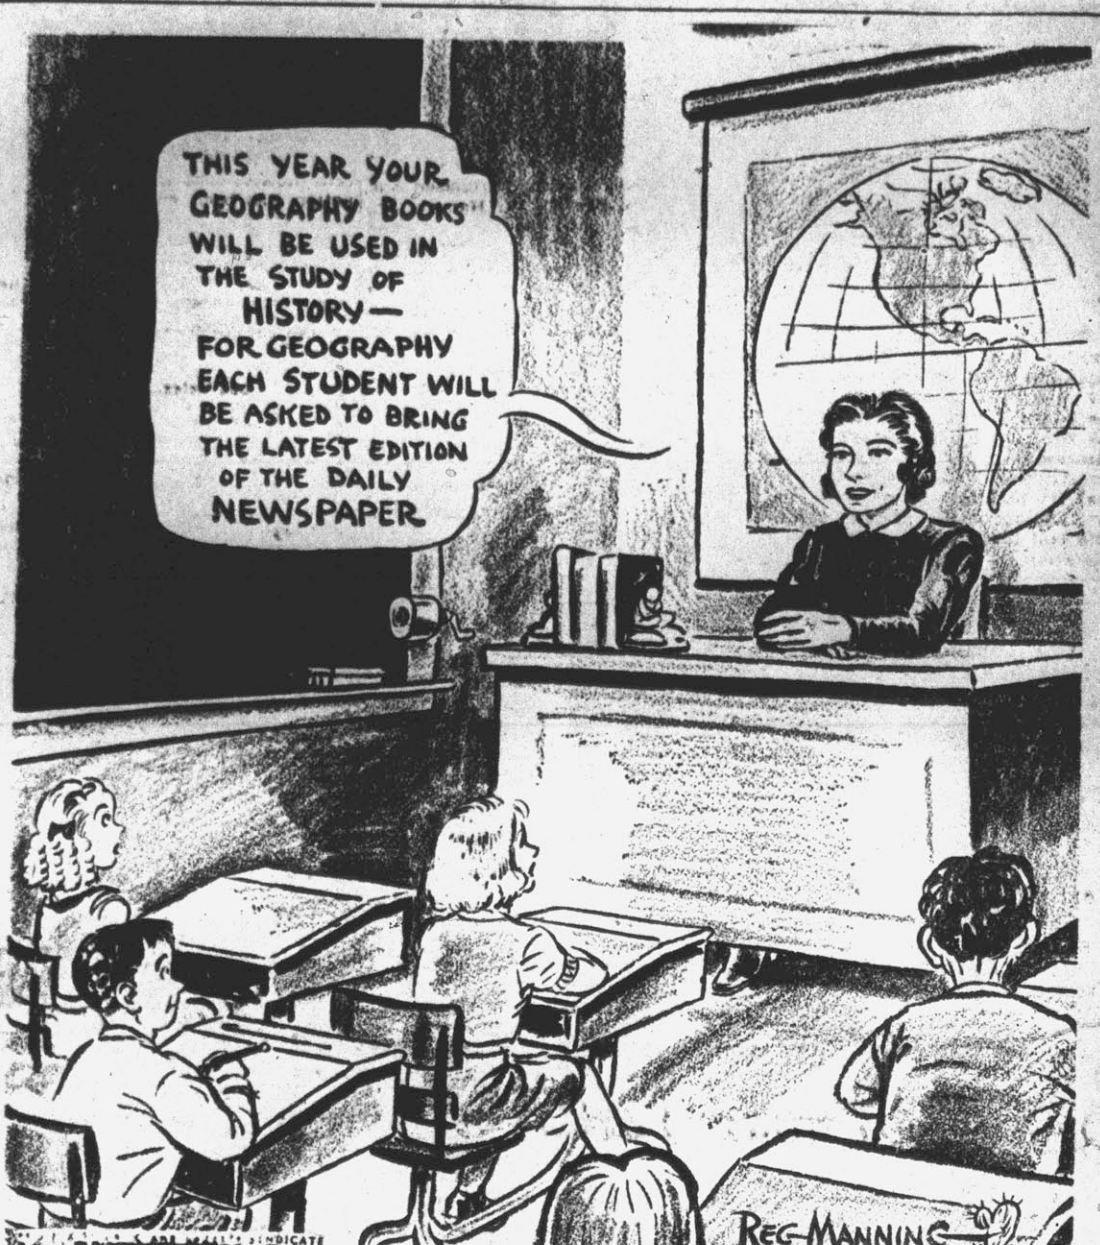

STORY OF GLORIOUS FAILURE
A man who lives in Dayton, Ohio, was telling of how he used to have business dealings many years ago with the famous Wright brothers when they ran a bicycle shop. He related how as a young man he used to complain to his father that the Wright boys were allowing a good bicycle business to slip through their fingers because they were giving so much time to a confounded flying machine that of course would amount to nothing.
He often used to remark that if the Wrights would stick to bicycles and give up their fool notions about flying, they might indeed have a business some day they would be proud of.

How little we are conscious of great movements going on round about us. Jesus once remarked of His generation that they could discern the face of the sky but they could not discern the signs of the times. Bicycles have largely come and gone, but the flying machine on which the Wright brothers spent so much time that they neglected a good bicycle business, is now engaging the attention of the whole world. A seed was being sown in the workshop of these two creatively thinking men, which would some day grow into a vine that would cover the whole earth.
The fate of empires often turns upon some apparently insignificant circumstances. While the world is engaged in some great materialistic project, something happens somewhere in the heart or mind of a humble man which changes human living for centuries.
"My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways
my ways," said the Lord.

TIME FOR ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT
Comptroller Lindsay C. Warren in his report to Congress went after the NYA with gloves off for apparent extravagance and useless expenditures of funds appropriated for the program. Our former Congressman is exactly right in bringing such matters to the attention of the powers that vote the appropriations. No doubt what Mr. Warren has to say regarding the NYA situation exists in numerous other "New Deal" spending agencies. America at this time is in the midst of a national emergency and one that calls for unprecedented tax burdens, and we believe that our people are willing and eager to meet any kind of tax raises that are absolutely necessary for our national defense, but at the same time the government should do everything possible to hold down taxes by cutting other expenditures down to the bare necessities of operating our government. Every unnecessary government agency and government function should immediately be eliminated and those that are deemed necessary should certainly not be permitted to make unnecessary expenditures.

BEGIN AT HOME
Fire Prevention Week will be observed from October 5

Schoolroom — 1941

to 11 this year. And every community in America, from the biggest metropolis down to the tiniest village, should participate. Now, as never before, fire prevention is a public duty. For fire prevention is of great and direct service to national defense.

What most of us fail to realize is that it is the cumulative total of relatively small fires which is responsible for the bulk of this country's shameful fire waste. Fire prevention, to be successful, must literally begin at home. Defective furnaces, defective wiring, accumulations of paper and rubbish, improperly stored flammable liquids, such as paint and cleaning solvents, matches, cigarettes — such little things as these are the cause of hundreds of millions of dollars of fire loss. A little knowledge, a little effort and a little money will make your home safe.

During Fire Prevention Week, every citizen should take advantage of the opportunity that will be offered to learn the causes of fires — and how they may be prevented. Then, apply what you have learned. Do it at home, and do it at work. It will save you money — and it may save life. And it may save valuable materials and resources which are so sorely needed now for defense. Let's make 1941 the year in which this country solves the problem of preventable fire.

Washington Daybook

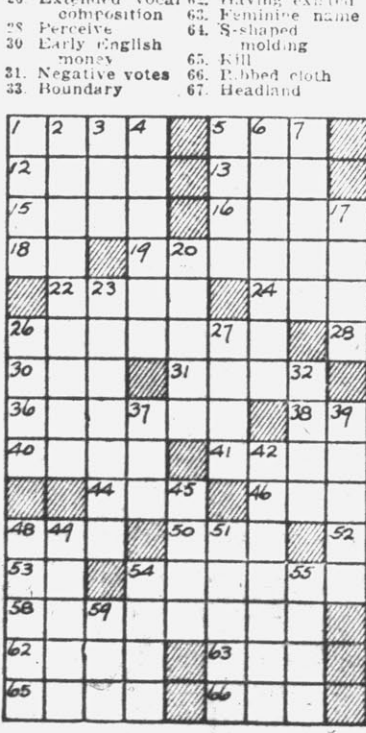

By Jack Stinson
Washington — The capital is taking beer with its Bach. Down at Riverside stadium, which is only a flying fish hop from the Potomac, the National Symphony orchestra, under the direction of big, genial Hans Kindler, is giving a series of "pop" concerts.
At table seating 1,100 persons, you can get beer, sandwiches, pop and chili throughout the program. The bleacher gang, which runs to better than 2,600, has to wait for intermissions and a junket to the sandwich stands. It's all as informal as a jive session or a big league baseball game and Washington loves it.
Chili and Tchaikovsky are ham and eggs to Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces. There is no other conclusion to be drawn from the way the opening night crowd entered into the spirit of this combination of culture and commonness. They whistled and cheered and thumped the tables until Kindler had added 45 minutes of encores to his scheduled program and they wouldn't have let him go then if he hadn't explained that he had only seconds to catch a train to Toronto.

'Pop' Is For 'Popular'
Some of these days, Congress is going to vote a medal to Hans Kindler. This one-time Dutchman who was the Yehudi Menuhin (with his cello) of Holland, before he was out of his teens, has done more to make Washington music-conscious than all the musicians who have preceded him.
Not even Toscanini has any greater respect for the classic composers than Kindler and certainly the great maestro doesn't conduct them with any greater reverence — but Kindler also has about him a certain earthiness that suits Washington fine.
He believes in having a good time. There's no reason, according to Kindler, why one shouldn't enjoy good music and enjoy oneself too. It was that idea that led to his introducing summer concerts, played in the open air across a strip of water, to thousands who lounged on the cool lawns that slope up from the Potomac to the Lincoln memorial. It was the same idea that caused him to introduce the "pop" concerts indoors.
"Pop" (an abbreviation for popular, unless I'm misinformed) concerts are not new. In staid old Boston they have been going on for more than 70 years, but they also have proved terrific financial flops in other metropolitan centers. Philadelphia, for instance, has given them the fishy eye (or ear) on several occasions.

Culture In Small Doses
It was the experience of Philadelphia that was most frequently thrown up to Kindler by those who argued against trying them here.
But Kindler, through some years of conducting the National Symphony, has learned a lot about Washington audiences. They are made up of people from all of the 48 states and as many foreign countries. They are about as "unsectional," as anything you can find. They are sophisticated and hoi-polloi; cosmopolites and small-towners. They have no antipathy for culture, but being immersed in national and international affairs all day, they don't want it in big doses.
That's why Bach, Beethoven, Bizet and beer, mixed up with a little Strauss, Gershwin, Herbert and Sherry, make up one of the capital's favorite entertainments this fall.

At 21 Months He Gets Tax Notices

The deadline arrived for Alphonse LePlante (above) to pay his poll tax or go to jail, and in his hand he holds first, second and final notices. But his father, Romeo LePlante, saved the day by presenting Alphonse to the collector, who discovered only then that census takers had listed the lad's age as 21 years instead of 21 months. It all happened in Salem, Mass.

ROADS, SCHOOL GET BIG SHARE

Eighty-Five Per Cent Of Taxes Go For
Two Items

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 2.—There's nothing new or startling about it, and your reporter claims no credit for an outstanding scoop; but this month's issue of State School Facts emphasizes that North Carolina spends practically 85 per cent of its tax collections on the public schools and the public roads.

That accounts for the tremendous stir created whenever there is a proposal to tinker with the revenue or the expenditures of either system. Where the money is, there's where the bone of legislative contention will likewise be.

School Facts cites the expenditures for the fiscal year which ended June 30, and lists the state's expenditures thus:

1. For educational institutions, $2,654,752 or 3.5 per cent.
2. For public schools, $27,745,410 or 36.6 per cent.
3. For public debt (not schools), $4,570,814 or 6 per cent.
4. For other purposes, $8,053,979 or 10.6 per cent.
5. For highway debt service, $8,651,764 or 11.4 per cent.
6. For highway construction, etc., $24,162,524 or 31.9 per cent.

Total state funds spent, $75,830,243.

On the basis of total state funds it is observed that 40.1 per cent was for educational purposes, 43.3 per cent for highways and 16.6 per cent for other purposes. Considering the fact that a part of item 3 was for the repayment of bonds and interest for educational purposes, it is undoubtedly true that more than 85 per cent of all state expenditures are for educational or highway purposes; and it is perhaps true that to say that expenditures for educational and highway purposes were about identical last fiscal year.

The combined expenditures on educational institutions and public schools amounted to $30,391,162 with the public schools getting 91.7 per cent of this sum. The "public school system" in its broadest sense includes elementary schools, high schools, higher institutions and special schools. In addition to these strictly educational institutions the state maintains a group of charitable and correctional institutions, as the State Hospital, the Stonehill Jackson Training School, Caswell Training School, the Orthopedic

Hospital, etc., in which certain educational activities are provided. There are 12 institutions of higher learning supported in part by state appropriations, six of them for white students, five for Negro students and one for Indians. They are:

White: The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; State College of Agriculture and Engineering, Raleigh; Woman's College, Greensboro; Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone; East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville; and Western Carolina Teachers College, Cullowee.

Negro: Agricultural and Technical College, Greensboro; North Carolina College for Negroes, Durham; Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Elizabeth City; Fayetteville State Teachers College, Fayetteville; and Winston-Salem Teachers College, Winston-Salem.

Indian, Cherokee Indian Normal School, Pembroke.

The state maintains two special schools by direct legislative appro-pration—the school for the deaf at Morganton and the state school for the deaf and blind at Raleigh. The first-named is for white children only, while at the Raleigh institution plants are maintained for the white blind and for the Negro blind and deaf.

The term "public schools" in North Carolina has by common usage come to mean that part of the public school system which includes the elementary and high schools.

The public schools in this state are under the general supervision of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who with the assistance of the executive secretary and staff of the State School Commission, the State Textbook Commission, and the State Board of Vocational Education administers the laws, rules and regulations of the several administrative boards.

The State Board of Education has charge of the literary loan fund, a permanent revolving fund from which loans are made to county units for the erection and repair of school buildings.

The State Textbook Commission controls and administers the funds appropriated for the purchase, rental and distribution of textbooks.

The State Board of Vocational Education supervises the expenditures of funds appropriated by the state and granted by the federal law for the vocational education program.

An accounting of all school funds, both state and federal, is made by the Department of Public Instruction.

It is this multiplicity of administrative units which has led to a ceaseless fight on the part of each to enlarge its sphere of control, especially of funds, and eventually led to adoption by this year's General Assembly of a bill submitting a constitutional amendment which has for its aim a simplification and unification of the present setup to the end that there may be less duplication.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

Notice is hereby given that the partnership of C. W. Harvey, Jr., and J. S. Harvey operating a coal and wood business in the City of Greenville, under the firm name of Harvey Brothers Coal Company, has been dissolved by mutual consent of the above-mentioned owners. Mr. J. S. Phantoms to Seek Revenge For 6-0 Loss Last Year

By PERCY WELLS
Tonight is the "big night" for Greenville fans who will ride out to the Guy Smith stadium at eight o'clock to see a dashing Phantom eleven march against their strongest rival—the Goldsboro Earthquakes. To even up a 6-0 loss handed to them last year by the Earthquakes, the G-men are determined to pull the trick in tonight's battle.

Pulling the trick twice already this season, the locals have taken down Morehead City, 41-6, and Windsor, 31-0.

In order to cop the first conference game, Coach Farley has kept the Greens in a pool of sweat throughout the practice sessions this week. Coach Farley is taking no chances because records show that in the last four years the Goldsboro team has taken three victories from the locals and will be out to add another win to their list.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York—Some time ago I became interested in ascertaining the whereabouts of an actress who had made quite a name for herself during the Twenties but who had dropped out of sight in recent seasons. After calling Equity and various agents without getting anywhere I got in touch with Ward Morehouse of the New York Sun, a sort of drawing encyclopedia of the theater who knows the theater and everybody in it.

"Yes," said Ward, "she's dead. She died in Hollywood about two years ago. That's the trouble with street, 'the street of hits,' was cele-

Command Spotlight Saturday

Battles royal loom all along the line when the six stars shown above get together in the Duke-Tennessee football fracas at Duke stadium Saturday afternoon. Captains Ray Graves of the Vols and Bob Barnett of the Blue Devils are expected to wage a hot individual duel at center. The veterans Bob McDonough, tackle, and Al Plasecky, end, will be counted on to help Barnett hold the fort for the Blue Devils. And Henry Noel, guard, and Don Edmiston, tackle—two fast, hard-charging linemen—are destined to play major roles in the Volunteer defense. Saturday's game—to be played before a capacity audience—will be one of the nation's feature gridiron attractions.

trying to find people who have disappeared from Broadway. They are either in Hollywood or they're dead or married and living private domestic lives."

I thought of this the other day when the Music Box Theater, that bright little playhouse on West 45th street, "the street of hits," was celebrating its 21st birthday. The Music Box doesn't look at all like an old theater and the reason perhaps is that so many successes of the theater have kept the name so continually in the theatrical page news and in the minds of drama-goers.

But it did seem old, suddenly, when one scanned a playbill of the first Music Box Revue, which Irving Berlin and the late Sam Harris and one of the Shuberts put on there, September 22, 1920. One saw names of persons who were wildly applauded in that day but who are prominent no more. You also saw a name that startled you because it

TERRORS TAKE CONTEST 14-13

Close Battle Waged In City Recreation Program

By CHARLES BROWN
Yesterday afternoon in the W. P. A. city grid league in a rip roaring football game between the West Greenville Terrors and the Greenville Blues, the Terrors got the best of the struggle by the close score of 14 to 13.

The Greenville Blues, a new addition to the boys' A league, is made up of city wide talent, managed by Albert Earl Wingate.

The West Greenville Terrors in the game were Bud Dunn, Harold Williams, Joe Carawan figuring in their 14 points, and for the losing Blues were Albert Earl Wingate, George Hardy, Jake Langston and Popeye Cherry.

This game was the most interesting of the recreation league. Two scrappy clubs played heads up football throughout the game. The Terrors and the Blues met again Tuesday afternoon at 4:30.

Over 200 youngsters are planning to be at Guy Smith track grounds tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. Boys and girls will take part in the 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, ball throwing contest, sack race, and others.

Nineteen prizes are offered for this city-wide contest sponsored by the W. P. A. city recreation project directed by Mrs. David Proctor, W. P. A. recreation county supervisor with Charles Brown, recreation leader, and Miss Josephine Gibson, volunteer leader.

Well, let's see. Ivy Sawyer is married to Joe Stantley, who is a motion picture director and they are on the West Coast. Helen Claire is not the southern Helen Claire of two years ago who starred in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Margaret Irving, the last time I saw her, was still with the Shuberts, in "The Streets of Paris." But Florence Moore is dead, and so is Sam Bernard. Willie Collier is on the coast. I do not know where Wilda Bennett is. I do not know where Helen Claire is.

After the Music Box gave up its policy of musical revues it became the home of celebrated comedies and dramas by such authors as George S. Kaufman, Noel Coward, W. Somerset Maugham, Edna Ferber, John Colton and Morrie Ryskind. It will have for its tenant this season a new comedy by Edna Ferber and "George S. Kaufman. But next year Irving Berlin is going to revive some of the old Music Box revues that were so appreciated in the early Twenties. This should be an interesting venture, but of course he will have to have new stars, new names, and maybe in some instances even new songs.

The 30,000 men in the swamps and jungles of Panama have awarded their favorite actress a commission. She's Gertrude Lawrence of "Lady in the Dark," and Miss Lawrence entertained her chums in Panama by radio recently. Miss Lawrence's commission is that of "First Class Mudder."

Highway Toll Is Appalling

State Safety Officials Aroused Over Statistics

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 3.—The bloody record of death, maiming and injury on the North Carolina highways this year is sometimes more or less obscured by daily stories of tens and hundreds of thousands slain on the battlefields of Russia, but state officials charged with doing what they can to promote safety on the state's roads confess themselves appalled at the staggering statistics which tell a tale of sanguinary slaughter.

Recapitulating the record very briefly, here is what "appears" them: More than 740 dead on the roads in the first eight months of 1940; an incomplete September casualty list which already carries the names of more than a hundred victims; and which bids fair to set an all-time high when final returns are in; an increase in fatalities and accidents of more than 45 per cent for the year to date; the practical certainty that North Carolina will close its 1941 books with the highest "in the red" (blood, not ink) total ever.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner T. Hoddie Ward and Highway Safety Division Director Ronald Houtt are anxiously surveying the field. They agree that the situation is "critical" and both believe the time has come for drastic action.

Neither has announced any out-of-the-ordinary actions, but there is evidence that both feel that the remedial effects of the first two safety bills (education and engineering) are too slow to meet the present crisis. It follows that it is not at all unlikely that presently there will be announcement of special emphasis on the third bill (enforcement).

It seems the more likely in the light of safety division figures showing that 61 per cent of the fatalities during the first eight months occurred in 27 counties; and the further figures indicating that of the 44 deaths in those counties, no less than 204 (not many less than half) were suffered in accidents caused by the speed element.

There have been efforts, notably a recent statement by James S. Burch, chairman of the North Carolina Highway and Public Works Commission, to explain the 44 per cent in Tar Heel highway deaths on the theory of "increased exposure"; but highway safety division officials do not believe that this explanation will hold water.

Without attempting to deny the Here's That Mars Again!

From any back yard in the United States, Mars will be almost directly south, about two-thirds of the way above the horizon.

On October 3 (if it isn't cloudy) people in the northern hemisphere will get the best opportunity to see Mars that they have had in 15 years and the best they will have for another 17 years. On that date the red planet will swing to within 38,130,000 miles of Earth. Astronomers will turn their telescopes on Mars to look at its "canals" the naked eye. The diagram above and the two pictures below were prepared by the staff of the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City.—(AP Feature Service)

This globe of Mars was prepared under the direction of Prof. W. H. Barton, Jr., curator of the planetarium. Astronomers aren't sure what the "canals" are or whether there is life on Mars.

This picture of an imaginary invasion of New York City by "men from Mars" is by Thomas Voter of the planetarium staff. Professor Barton says "Astronomers lose no sleep worrying about a Martian invasion."

axiom that the more people who drive on the highways the more chance there is for accident had death, Keith Saunders, of the safety division, takes sharp exception to the Burch thesis that "increased exposure" has been responsible for almost half the increase in fatalities.

"Jimmy Burch is an engineer," said Mr. Saunders, "and to traffic engineers there is nothing quite so convincing as a traffic flow chart. As an engineer, Mr. Burch undoubtedly believes in reducing accidents on curves by straightening the curves rather than by seeking to control the speed of drivers on those curves. In other words, engineers operate on the theory that if a curve can not be taken at a speed of 60 miles an hour, speeding should not be curbed, but the curve should be so constructed that drivers can take it with ease at 80 miles an hour. I disagree because I believe that education and enforcement are just as essential as engineering in the program of traffic safety."

Mr. Saunders cited as refutation of the "increased exposure" theory two horrible wrecks in Wake county this week. He pointed out that a young woman and her companion were killed instantly when their car was struck on the Durham-Raleigh highway at about 4 o'clock in the morning.

"These two cars were very likely the only ones on that road for a distance of several miles," he said. "On the other hand that same road was crowded last Saturday by the Duke-Wake Forest football audience and there wasn't even a serious property damage accident."

He pointed again to the death of two Raleigh youngsters when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree in Pullen park in the early morning hours a day or so ago.

"There certainly wasn't another car anywhere near them," he said.

"Increased exposure had nothing to do with their deaths."

"No, congestion is responsible for only a very small part of the increase in fatal accidents in North Carolina this year," he continued. "Carelessness, thoughtlessness, recklessness, drunkenness, speeding and inattention on the part of drivers—these are the things responsible for our shocking record."

These views are shared by most other safety experts and that is why they are stressing the need of more stringent and effective enforcement action. Education will help over the long pull, they agree; but enforcement is the only present help in this time of trouble.

As a side light, the license revocation figures for September reached an all-time high for the state, though Mr. Houtt explained that this was due more to a sudden influx of delayed court reports than to any quickening of the judicial tempo.

The September revocations numbered 963, while there were, in addition, 56 license suspensions. This brought the all-time revocations total to 37,593, and the grand total suspensions to 8,206.

Mecklenburg, with 46, led the counties, followed by Guilford 43, Forsyth 39, Cumberland 39, Surry 32, Richmond 26, Cleveland 24, Durham and Iredell, 23 each.

Other counties, alphabetically showed: Alamance 12, Alexander 6, Alleghany 1, Anson 10, Ashe 1, Beaufort 3, Bertie 6, Bladen 8, Brunswick 1, Buncombe 10, Burke 18, Cabarrus 17, Caldwell 18, Carteret 5, Caswell 1, Catawba 12, Chatham 1, Cherokee 17, Chowan 4, Clay 3, Col-

The rectangular silhouette in a chamoise colored wool coat topped a black sheer wool dress. A chamoise wool belt binds the two together, and each has finely tailored slot pockets. Muff and collar are of black Persian lamb and the coachman's black hat is trimmed with a chamoise-tipped veil. Designed by Captain Molyneux on his recent visit to this country. British wools make the costume.

BRAND NEW WASHDAY IDEA! Use the Same Soap for Family Wash and Rayons, Too

Try Super Suds! Gets Grimy Clothes Sparkling White—Safe for Rayons, too!

1/3 MORE SUDS! THAT'S WHY SUPER SUDS GETS OUT DEEP DOWN DIRT IN MY FAMILY WASH SO FAST!

AND SUPER SUDS IS PROVED RAYON-SAFE... SO THE SAME GO-GETTING SOAP DOES MY DAINTY RAYONS, TOO!

HERE'S HOW RAYON EXPERTS SAY TO WASH RAYONS!

1. Test a small patch in plain water for color fastness. If color runs, it's not washable.
2. Wash rayons separately by hand. Use lukewarm water made as follows: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, then add cold water to get lukewarm water.
3. Do not soak rayons. Wash quickly and gently. Do not rub, wring or twist.
4. Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean lukewarm water. Roll in towel but don't leave there.
5. Use moderate iron.

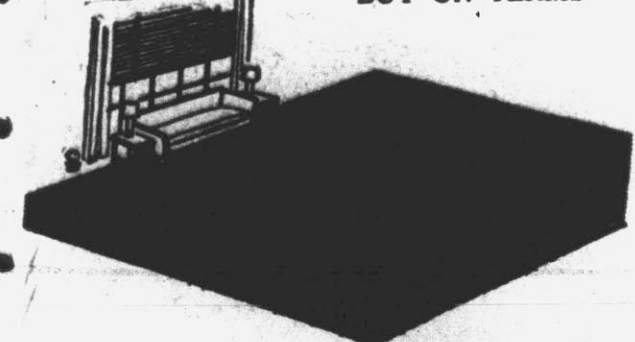

Quick for Dishes... Kind to Hands... Less Sneezy Dust than Other Leading Brands!

NAVY'S FLYING BOAT HAS 'NOSE FOR NEWS'—Dwarfs alongside the huge flying boat are these aviation experts examining the great nose of the new 70-ton Martin "flying battleship" recently brought into the open at the Glenn L. Martin plant near Baltimore. Scheduled for first tests about Nov. 15, the all-metal, heavily armored plane has been under construction a year, has a 200-foot wingspread and is 170 feet long. Powered with four 2,000-horsepower motors, it will carry a normal crew of 11. If used as army transport, it could carry 150 men fully equipped. It will also be first plane to carry motor boat. A "Culver Cadet" is in front.

Volunteers Asked By U. S. Air Corps

Wilson, Oct. 3.—Uncle Sam's eastern Carolina army recruiting station sent out a hurry call today for volunteers in the United States air corps while the same office here announced that it had several vacancies in Porto Rico and Panama and an unlimited number in the regular army.

Sergeant C. C. Floyd, head of the recruiting station here urged all applicants who were going to enlist to contact him at the post office building here at room 406.

In announcing the quota for October of the local recruiting office
Sergeant Floyd said that he had va-

To Conduct Mission

Stanley Jones, above, world-famous religious leader, will conduct a preaching mission in Kinston next week. The first meeting will be held in the High School auditorium at 8 p. m., Sunday, while on the following three days sessions will be held at the Gordon Street Church of Christ each morning at 10 o'clock and at the High School auditorium each evening at 8 o'clock. A special service for ministers of all denominations, white and colored, will be held Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church.

cancies for Jefferson Barracks, St.
Louis, Mo.; Kessler Field, Biloxi, Miss., and Wichita Falls, Texas, insofar as the air corps was concerned while he had two vacancies for Panama and Porto Rico each.

In connection with air corps assignments Sergeant Floyd explained that the above destinations were air corps replacement centers where men spent between 30 and 60 days getting ready for Uncle Sam's air service. After going to these fields the men are reassigned to some other airfield for schooling.

There are also vacancies to be had in the regular army that are as yet unassigned.

Record Number Of Licenses Revoked

Raleigh, Oct. 3.—Driver license revocations hit an all-time high, in North Carolina last month, according to the monthly report issued today by the Highway Safety Division.

Officials hastened to explain, however, that the increase was due to a round-up of delayed court reports, rather than to an abnormal volume of revocable violations in the state last month.

For the month of September there was reported a total of 963 revocations, of which 860 were based on convictions for driving while "under the influence," 755 being based on this charge alone and another 105 on this charge in combination with other violations. Thirteen-one of Music And Dramatics Club Gives Program

The City-WPA Music and Dramatics club presented a regular program at West Greenville school last night with outstanding new performers taking part. The club has several engagements scheduled for the near future.

Stars of the program were Connie
B. Evans, Jeanette Hinson, vocalists; Betty Sauced, pianist; Alfred Sauced, piano soloist; Charles Williams, Bobby Nichols and others.
Carl Morris, Jr., gave two acrobatic dances with musical background, one of the numbers being difficult stunt-walking on his head, first of its kind ever presented by the club.

Both the children and adult clubs meet next Tuesday night and present a three-act comedy and musical program. The public is invited to all club programs.
