Japanese Cabinet Resigns After Serving Three Months

Body Unable To Agree On Jap Policy

Although Issues Leading To Fall of Cabinet Not Officially Revealed, Ministers Believed To Have Been Unable To Agree On Relations With U.S. And Russia In Recent Discussions

Tokyo, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The cabinet of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye resigned today.

The resignation came exactly three months after the fall of Premier Konoye's previous government.

A Board of Information announcement said the cabinet resigned because of the lack of a complete agreement over a method of pursuing national policy.

The outgoing cabinet was formed July 18.

Prince Konoye summoned the ministers separately to his official residence during the afternoon and explained the reasons for the cabinet's resignation. Then, having obtained their consent, he proceeded to the imperial palace and submitted the cabinet's resignation on behalf of the emperor.

The cabinet's resignation followed several days of almost continuous consultation among the empire's highest leaders, much of it in the palace in the presence of Emperor Hirohito.

Reports of Russian reverses west of Moscow are understood to have figured largely in the discussions.

The press gave prominent display to reports that the Japanese embassy and perhaps other foreign missions were withdrawing from Moscow.

This indicated that the Japanese generally were pleased by this turn in the attempt of their ally, Germany, to smash the Soviet Union.

Many Japanese have taken the position that the defeat of Russia would mark the first breach in the wall of "encirclement" which they say has been drawn around Japan in recent months, chiefly by the "ABCD" powers—America, Britain, China and the Dutch in the East Indies.

This "encirclement," many Japanese believe, became really dangerous only after Russia joined the list of Axis enemies. The great increase of United States, British and Dutch military power in the Philippines, Malaya and the Indies, they say, could menace Japan only if linked with a great force in the north.

There is widespread feeling among Japanese, especially military men, that Japan in recent months has passed up too many golden opportunities for gain and that Russia's fall presents another such as may never come again.

The issues which brought about the cabinet's fall were not immediately disclosed, but it is known that the ministers have been unable to agree on the empire's relations with the United States and Russia.

TEN INDICTED IN PERSON FOR ROXBORO RIOT

Charged With Taking Lead In Near-Lynching

JURY COMMEND'D BY JUDGE GRADY

Men Indicted On Misdemeanor Charge Carrying Maximum Sentence Of Two Year Imprisonment

Roxboro, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A Superior court grand jury indicted 10 men here today in a misdemeanor charge in connection with an attempted lynching of a Negro in the Person county jail at Roxboro last August 15. The Negro was charged with raping a white woman.

Judge Henry A. Grady of New Bern, immediately issued capias for their arrest, and bond was fixed at $500 each. He said that he would ask Governor Broughton to call a special term of court for next month at which they would be tried.

The men named in the indictment were: Roy Harris, P. I. Holt, Willie Allen, Schmie Holt, Lab Dixon, William Green, W. G. Spencer, Thomas Slaughter, A. P. Spriggs, and Evon James.

They were charged with unlawful assembly for an unlawful purpose in attempting to take a Negro, Cy Winstead, from the jail and breaking windows and doors at the courthouse in which the jail was situated.

He convicted the men would be subject to a maximum sentence up to two years at the discretion of the judge. Solicitor William H. Murdock said it was understood that all the men turned in by the State Bureau of Investigation were indicted.

Judge Grady, who previously had charged the grand jury to get at the bottom of the attempted lynching, told the jurors:

"I commend you for the course you have taken. It will be heartening to the people of the state. It will be a lesson against mob violence. If there is anything in the world that shocks me it is mob violence."

Roxboro, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Solicitor William H. Murdock of Durham disclosed today that he had drawn two bills of indictment against alleged ring leaders of an attempted lynching here August 15.

The indictments have been presented to a grand jury which has been investigating the mob action.

The solicitor said he expected the grand jury to reach a decision on the indictments within a few hours. The grand jury's investigation began Tuesday, after Superior Court Judge Henry A. Grady issued orders to bring the ring leaders to justice.

The jurors since that time have been considering a report on the mob action, written by the State Bureau of Investigation, and have questioned more than a score of witnesses.

Murdock indicated that several defendants were named in the two bills of indictment.

The mob which stormed the jail here attempted to seize Cy Winstead, a Negro charged with raping a white woman.

Current Dry Spell Aids Forest Fires

A series of forest fires has broken out during the current spell of dry weather, according to C. A. Bowling, county fire warden, who disclosed that one disastrous blaze is still raging in the Grindle pocosin owned by the Eureka Lumber Company.

The pocosin fire was first reported this past Sunday a week ago and is still raging. Because of the extremely dry weather, all attempts to extinguish it have been unsuccessful. Warden Bowling expressed the belief that the fire was set by coon hunters since it started almost in the middle of the pocosin and took days to reach the road.

Another forest fire off the Stokes highway, is practically under control after having been discovered Saturday afternoon.

A blaze in the Gardner's crossroads section has been extinguished.

Committee Approves Armed Merchant Ships

Bitter words gave way to handshakes as the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington approved repeal of a provision in the neutrality act which now prevents the arming of United States merchant ships. Rep. John M. Vorys (left), Republican of Ohio, extends a hand to Chairman Sol Bloom (right), Democrat of New York, whom Vorys criticized bitterly the preceding day. Smiling his approval is Rep. TAR HEEL SHOT BY YOUNG BOY

Victim Is Identified As Resident Of Mount Olive

Portland, Maine, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Carefully asking whether he would "be electrocuted," Herbert H. Cox, Jr., 16-year-old Alexandria, Va., high school boy, reportedly confessed today—shortly before the blood-spattered body was found in a Maryland thicket—that he had shot and killed a man who made advances toward one of the two young companions with whom he was running away to Maine.

The victim was tentatively identified as Grainger C. Browning, 40, of Mount Olive, N. C., who had driven his automobile and a trailer to Alexandria to work on nearby defense projects.

Young Cox was quoted by Assistant County Attorney Richard S. Chapman as saying that he had shot a man he knew only as "Browning" when the latter tried to make love to one of the girls, and that he had then dumped his body near a Maryland roadside.

Cox was held by police for "safekeeping" as they investigated his bloody story, and that his two companions, identified on the police records as Ida May Price, 15, and Leona Cunningham, 14, both of Alexandria. Both girls were stockinged.

While the authorities quoted the trio about the blood-stained automobile in which they drove to Portland, a Baltimore reporter "scoped" police by finding Browning's body in a clump of bushes six miles south of Conowingo, Md.

Edward Freeman of the Baltimore News-Post said the man's face was covered with blood, and that his pockets had been turned inside out. He wore a blue shirt and blue trousers, which were badly torn. Both shoes were off.

Another News-Post reporter Alexander Gufford, said he talked with young Cox by long-distance telephone and by means of recalling various landmarks to him had marked out the general area where the body was found.

The sobbing Cox was quoted by police here as saying the man he knew only as "Browning" had offered to give him, the cherub-faced Miss Cunningham a ride to Baltimore. The youth said the three of them decided to run away (Continued on Page Six)

Only 322 Persons Have Registered

A check of registration books for the special election to be held Tuesday, October 28, on the question of issuing $250,000 in bonds for school plant improvements in Greenville, showed that only 322 persons had registered through yesterday.

Mrs. W. W. Phelps, registrar, expressed the belief, however, that the rate of registrations would show an increase for today, Friday and Saturday.

The books will be closed Saturday at sunset. The following Saturday will be change day, and that all persons desiring to participate in the election must register as this is a special registration. All persons registering and failing to vote will be counted as voting against the proposal.

Local Average Price Now Stands At 30.98

Offerings on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday brought $40,614,252 the total poundage for the season to date, for which $12,584,115.96 or an average of 30.98 cents per pound.

The figures compare with 40,389,220 pounds sold for $7,222,930.86, an average of 17.88 for the corresponding period last year. As shown by these comparisons, the average to date is 13.10 higher than at the corresponding time a year ago.

Sales were slightly heavier on the local market today, approximately 350,000 pounds having been offered. Prices were about the same on all types of tobacco.

Motor Vehicles Dept. Head Held For Driving Drunk

Raleigh, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Richard R. McLaughlin, director of registration of the State Department of Motor Vehicles, arrested on a charge of drunken driving near the state fair grounds last night, resigned his position today.

T. Boddie Ward, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announced that the resignation had been submitted and accepted.

A warrant was signed this morning by State Highway Patrolman A. E. Leavitt before Justice Victor L. Biggs, charging McLaughlin with drunken driving. Hearing was set for Friday morning, October 24, at 10 a. m.

Leavitt and other highway patrolmen arrested McLaughlin and brought him before Biggs last night. Biggs released McLaughlin under $100 bond, posted by a professional bondsman.

Leavitt said McLaughlin was not involved in an accident, but that he drove past the congested fair grounds in an intoxicated condition.

BAPTIST MEET IS CONCLUDED

Peace Resolution Is Adopted At Farmville Session

Adoption of a peace resolution was the principal action taken at the concluding session yesterday of the 34th annual meeting of the Roanoke Baptist Association. The two-day meeting was held in the new Baptist church of Farmville.

The resolution, drafted by Rev. Charles B. McConnell, Mrs. W. D. Joyner and Rev. Hartwell Campbell, follows:

"Although we have in some measure been able to forget that this meeting was being held at a time when the very world in which we live stands on the brink of destruction, your committee feels that, as a Christian body, this association cannot ignore the present world situation. Therefore, inasmuch as it hath pleased Almighty God to reveal Himself in the Person of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace who refused ways of dealing with sinful man other than the way of sacrificial love and the Cross; and inasmuch as the Scriptures hath declared unto us that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever, meaning that he will never try to save humanity at the point of a gun:

"Be it resolved that we who call ourselves Christians, united by common bonds of fellowship and love with Christ and with one another refuse to bless and condone war as righteous and as a means of promoting the Kingdom of God; that we as ministers and disciples of Christ refuse to consider ourselves as isolated from our common responsibilities of service and sacrifice regardless of race, creed and nationality; that we as Christian citizens of this great country place before the respective representatives of government the plea to avoid war as a means of national policy in dealing with those that we consider our enemies; that we as individual and collective Christians confess before Almighty God our sinfulness and shortcomings, and pray for the Spirit of Christ to abide with us as we face this hour of Crisis and that we trust not in the ways of men but declare to the world our faith and confidence in the power of Almighty God, as our only sure source of defense and salvation."

The concluding address of the Association was presented by Dr. George D. Heaton of Lynchburg, Va., on the topic, "Be Worthy of (Continued on page six)

Ex-French Chiefs Are In Internment

Vichy, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Authorized sources said tonight that Marshal Petain had decided on indefinite internment of three men held responsible for the French defeat until the special court begins their trial—former Premier Edouard Daladier, and Leon Blum, and the ousted generalissimo, Maurice Gustave Gamelin.

These sources issued the statement more than an hour before Petain was scheduled to broadcast to the nation what was described in advance as an explanation of his decisions in the cases of several men involved in the war guilt cases.

"Daladier, Blum and Gamelin will be held indefinitely in the Fort de Portalet, near Pau, it was said.

STRIKE HALTS DEFENSE WORK AT STEEL MILL

Fourth River Rouge Stoppage In Past Four Months

HOPE BRIGHT ON ANOTHER FRONT

Immediate Resumption Of Work at Mississippi Shipyard Is Recommended By AFL Union Leaders

(By The Associated Press) A new strike halted operations today at a big Detroit steel plant, while the Pascagoula, Miss., AFL union leaders recommended resumption of work at a strike-bound shipyard.

The dispute at the Great Lakes Steel Corporation in River Rouge was the fourth in four months, and officials of the firm termed it a "wildcat" strike. The plant employs 8,000 men and has many defense orders.

Four hundred men present at the union meeting last night booed down Orville Kincaid, their regional director, when he attempted to announce the results of wage adjustment negotiations she had carried on with the management. One critic said the adjustment calls for an increase of only one cent an hour for common labor, and a picket line was formed at the plant gates a short while later.

The announcement of the back-to-work move at the Pascagoula yard of the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation came from Federal Conciliator Bryce P. Holcombe, who said that representatives of various metal trades unions had agreed to recommend to their membership resumption of operations after three days of idleness.

The strike, affecting 2,800 men, was certified to the National Defense Mediation Board by the Labor Department, which explained that the AFL boiler makers union had struck because some of the pipe welders in the plant were trying to form an independent union.

The yard has $150,000,000 in national defense orders.

The possibility of a renewed work-stoppage loomed for steel company-operated "captive" soft coal mines as a result of a deadlock in negotiations of workers and management before the National Defense Mediation Board at Washington.

The CIO-United Mine Workers are demanding a closed shop agreement for 45,000 employees of the captive mines. B. Bondagwanie, West Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Awaiting Trial

Lois Lockner (above) 22, managed a smile when she appeared at the Federal Building in New York for trial on a charge that she falsely represented herself as an employee of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A break fraught with peril for Moscow had been reported in the belated night communique, which acknowledged that German tank crews and motorized infantrymen had bludgeoned a pass through the Russian lines in a huge night attack.

On the Leningrad front, the latest war report said, the Russians captured a number of prisoners.

Impairment of Red army defense west of the capital had been acknowledged by the Soviet Information Bureau in a starkly worded communique.

(The Japanese foreign office announced in Tokyo that the Russian foreign commissariat had advised the Japanese embassy staff in Tokyo to prepare to withdraw. Women, children and aged men have been moving from the Soviet capital for several days under the city's militant defense program.)

Speaking of an action which evidently had occurred 25 hours before, the Information Bureau said in an early morning communique:

"During the night of October 14-15 the position in the western direction of the front deteriorated.

"The German Fascist armies hurled a large quantity of tanks and motorized infantry against our units and, in one sector, broke through our defenses.

"Our forces opposed the enemy heroically, inflicting heavy losses, but were compelled to retreat in this sector."

The exact zone of the breakthrough was not disclosed, but even before the communique was issued—two or three hours later than usual—the Russians had acknowledged that the supreme crisis was at hand.

W.F. Owens to Attend Asheville Meeting

W. F. Owens, member of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Association of Post Office clerks, will leave here early tomorrow morning for Asheville to attend a meeting of that body to be held in conjunction with a Western-District meeting of the association.

Mr. Owen, to be accompanied by his wife and daughter, will attend the sessions of the district meeting, which will be climaxed with a banquet and dance.

Permit Objectors To Change Minds

Raleigh, Oct. 17.—Consentious objectors, assigned to work projects of national importance under civilian direction because of their opposition to military training, may apply for entry into the armed forces upon reconsideration.

General J. Van B. Metts, state director of selective service, said today:

Any of these men desiring to enter the army should apply, through the director of the work camp to which he has been assigned, for a change in his local board classification so that he may be designated as available for the armed forces.

Director Metts asserted, "If he is inducted into the military establishment, the time that the conscientious objector has spent in the work camp will not reduce his period of military training, the director explained. Nevertheless, he said, he is advised by national headquarters that many men now classified as conscientious objectors are expressing willingness to enter the armed forces."

Middy Russian Communique Declares Defenders Holding All Along Moscow Front After Having Been Forced To Retreat In One Undesignated Sector; Impairment Of Defenses Admitted, However.

Moscow, Oct. 16.—(AP) Soviet Russia indicated today her Red army was holding its line firm against a steady stream of fresh German units; after being forced to yield ground at one sector of the front in the all-out battle for Moscow.

The midday Russian communique announced that the Red army "continued to fight the enemy along the whole front" and said fighting was particularly intense in the western direction—the area in which the Nazis are pushing toward Moscow.

"The Germans continued to throw fresh units into the battle," the war report added.

A break fraught with peril for Moscow had been reported in the belated night communique, which acknowledged that German tank crews and motorized infantrymen had bludgeoned a pass through the Russian lines in a huge night attack.

On the Leningrad front, the latest war report said, the Russians captured a number of prisoners.

Speaks On Amateur Photography.
With a camera in your hand, you are equipped today not only to have a lot of fun but to become a genuine artist, recording life about you as artists habitually record it. With this idea as its central theme, Mr. Charles Bissette of Greenville, spoke informally at the Greenville WPA Art Gallery Tuesday night, discussing the fundamentals of successful amateur picture-taking. In addition to technical details such as light, focus and timing, Mr. Bissette discussed ways and means of achieving composition in pictures, the same attention to light and shadow, lines, forms, and backgrounds being needed for good photographs as that which painters give to their pictures. During the question period following his talk, Mr. Bissette answered numerous questions concerning the use of cameras, the main causes of unsatisfactory pictures, and others of similar nature.

This talk by Mr. Bissette was the first of a series of Tuesday night gallery discussions concerning arts, crafts, and various related subjects planned to be a part of the gallery schedule for the fall and winter. Announcement will be made of following discussions. The gallery will be open to visitors every Tuesday night.

Anyone who has seen Greenville children attending classes in the upper part of the garage across the street from the high school knows that immediate action is necessary if we are to be fair to our children. The $250,000 bond issue affords a way out. I shall certainly vote for the bond issue.

The most popular script was "Prince Ahmed and The Fairy Princess Periebanon," a story taken from the Arabian Nights, chapter IV. This story was adapted for radio by Harry Goldstein.

Radio Program
H. R. Goodall and Margaret Jones, will present the Greenville High news tonight at 8 o'clock over the local station. Margaret is going to interview a Greenville High School parent about the school bond issue.

Bond Issue
I think the high school needs great improvement. How can the band and dramatics class practice without the proper facilities? questioned Ralph Hunter, former dramatics student.

"I believe a new auditorium with elevated seats would be a grand addition to the high school. Wouldn't the boys love it if they didn't have to move the seats in the present auditorium every time we have an assembly? A separate gymnasium and auditorium would be wonderful!" stated Margaret Jones, popular senior.

This is the opinion of many other high school students.

Beta Club
There will be a meeting of the Beta club tonight at 8 o'clock in Mr. Bourne's room. Lib Bridges, president, will preside over the meeting. This is the second meeting of the Beta club for 1941-42.

Cast Is Chosen For First College Play

The cast for the first Dramatics club play of the college year has just been completed, with a number of members, drawn from students new to dramatic work at East Carolina Teachers College. They include Hazel Willford, Virginia Cook, and Sidney Johnson of Greenville, Rita Messick and Donald Perry of Washington, Eugenia Marshburn of Rocky Mount, Grace Johnson of Kinston, Charles Marks of Whitakers, Annie Sue Perry of Merry Hill, Martha Wheelless of Lenoir, Lois Sessions of Ahoskie, and Charles Cushman of Fayetteville. The play, a melodrama, "On the Bridge at Midnight," will be given on October 31, one performance only. It is being directed by Miss Lelia Ellis.

Navajo Indians usually occupy two homes during the year, a summer hogan and a winter hogan.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germy laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Strength For The Day

By KARL L. DOUGLASS

WHICH MOTIVE IMPELS US?
Bacon in one of his essays draws contrast between the love of excellence and the love of ex-celling.
The former is extroverted desire. It is supported and impelled by the passion to do something well. The latter has behind it the selfish desire to get ahead of someone else.

The person who aspires to excellence wants to produce a distinguished piece of work; the person who wants to excel cares only to impress people with the fact that he himself is distinguished. The love of excellence centers in the thing produced; the love of ex-celling has its center in the selfish desire on the part of an individual to put himself ahead of others.
It makes very little difference what a man produces, provided he is impelled with a love of excellence. He may make a chair or write a book, paint a picture or build up a prosperous business.
Grow a garden full of beautiful flowers or a farm full of bumper crops or write a poem or preach sermon. God is lavish in His distribution of gifts, and He makes one man eager for one variety of work and another man eager for something different. But a man who has real health of soul and kind desires to create something.
Most of the men who have made great fortunes have thought more about the service they were rendering than about the money they were making. They have learned the subtle but important difference between the love of excellence and the love of ex-celling.

EX-SERVICE MEN DEMAND ACTION

The resolution adopted by the local post of the American Legion in which the veterans of World War I demanded action at this time for American solidarity and unity of purpose and repeal of the neutrality act is, in our opinion, certainly sound common sense. Since the peace fiasco that followed the last war the ex-service men have seen the need of a strong America and have been preaching the doctrine of preparedness. Because of interference of minorities of all kinds America's preparedness to protect itself and give aid to the cause of freedom in the world are far from being adequate and it is a full realization of this situation no doubt that prompted the Legion Post to memorialize the National Administration to lose no more time in talk and get down to business.

London's Stone House

fires in London, the lord mayor in 1189 decreed all houses should be built of stone. They were for about two centuries.

Such Beautiful Traps--

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Capital talk:
In a few weeks in England, Paul Apley and R. M. Evans, of the Agriculture department, lost ten pounds each, and what they are eating these days to make it up are not reasons. Of all the hundreds who have come back to Washington from the war countries, I haven't found one who doesn't talk about food first.

Jesse Jones is the slowest moving of any of the top officials I know in Washington, which probably explains how he can hold down so many jobs and get so much done.
The human tomatoes stir things up a lot but they blow out in a seven-hour day. Secretary of Commerce Jones goes on forever.
The Secretary, by the way, must be a little superstitious. On the generous expense of his vest-front, at the end of his watch chain, is a rabbit's foot, which he has carried "for at least 12 or 15 years."

To look over the foreign press corps in Washington, you would never know the world was at war.
I've seen Kurt Sell (D. N. B., German), Sol Hirsch (Reuters, England), Masuo Kato (Domei, Japan), Larry Todd (Tass, Russia), Henri de Longfret (France), Dave Lu (China), and a half dozen others from countries at war enjoying themselves at the same party.

That same sort of thing sometimes shocks visitors to the congressional galleries. Sitting with a fellow in the Senate gallery who was making his first trip to the Capitol, I once was asked: "Who are those two men in the middle of the floor, laughing and joking?" I told him the men were Democratic Majority Leader Barkley and Senator Wheeler, isolationist leader. The fellow was shocked. "I didn't know they would even speak to each other," he exclaimed. Probably Washington learned long years ago that the place would be livable if enemies went around taking a poke at each other every time they met.

I wondered how many people know that the United States has contributed $20,000,000 to Mexican highway construction and several millions more in highway loans to other Central American republics?
The United States-to-Panama highway is the explanation and those who know Latin America say it's the best investment we ever made.
The youngest member of the Senate is Joseph H. Ball of St. Paul, Minn. He soon will be 36. The youngest member of the House is Rep. William G. Stratton, of Morris, Ill. He was born the year the World War started, 1914. He is a congressman-at-large. Illinois has one other, Rep. Stephen A. Day, of Evanston, who is more than twice as old as his colleague, but so far as the House is concerned, they are both "freshmen"—serving their first terms.

If you leave it to Washington newspapermen, they probably will only ask the next candidate for President of the United States one question: "Do you approve of air conditioning?" If the answer is in the affirmative, he undoubtedly will get their votes. This has been one of those Washington summers starting in March and not ending up until well into October. President Roosevelt doesn't like air conditioning. So reporters, with their coats on, took it, day after sweltering day in jammed press conferences. Outside of the President's office, the rooms in the Capitol executive wing are air conditioned, which may explain why some of the news sessions with the President this summer were short, if not snappy.
When it is completed, the new on the Arlington side of the Potomac will be the biggest thing in Washington—even bigger than Commerce, which covers three city blocks. If peace ever settles on the world again, desk space here will be cheaper than oranges on a California or Florida highway at picking time.

PLANS FOR OUR SCHOOL CHILDREN

The people of Greenville are being asked to vote on a bond issue of $250,000 to expand the city school system. Yet it is very difficult to determine from the conflicting statements made through the press and in different meetings what is proposed to be done with the money after the bonds are voted. The plans for expending the money have varied and conflicted somewhat as follows, according to news items originating from the high school at different dates. Last May the Daily Reflector carried this news, "The long-range program, part of which will go into effect with the start of the term beginning in September of this year, eliminates the 5-3-3 plan of six years elementary, three years of junior high and three years of senior high school and substitutes eight years of elementary work and four of high school."

"Under the new arrangements, children in all sections of the city will remain in elementary schools until they complete the eighth grade."
"The plan for taking the seventh and eighth grades out of the high school will proceed immediately and the additional classrooms will be erected during the summer so that the new program can be put into effect with the start of the new term."
"The program was decided on by the board members, after confer-ing with the architect. It was estimated that to erect a new high school building at this time and to make the necessary improvements at the elementary schools in order to make the plant 100 per cent efficient for all children—both white and colored—would require an expenditure of approximately $350,- 000. Members of the board expressed themselves as feeling such an undertaking would be unwise and, furthermore, was not needed.
The program now being worked out called for an expenditure of approximately $150,000."

Plans seem to have been changed rather rapidly for on June 15 the following news item was carried in the daily papers of the state: "...
In making an addition to Third Street School, extra room will be provided so that music, art, and the sciences can be taught in the upper grades there, as well as in the West Greenville School."
"In the fall the school will open with no seventh grades in the high school building, with one eighth grade in the West Greenville School and three eighth grades in the high school building temporarily. These three eighth grades in the high school building will be organized as a unit and as soon as additions are completed at Third Street during the fall, they will be moved out there."

"Children from the Training school area who live a long way from the Third Street school will be given the privilege of riding the school bus to the Third Street school."
The summer passed and here we are with a report in September: "... In the meantime the board is going ahead and, as soon as the voters approve, will build first of all the addition to Third Street school and by next year will have all eighth grades out of the present high school building...." That report came through the Daily Reflector, but here is what appeared in the September issue of the school publication, Green Lights: "Under the ten-ative system, which has been discussed by the school board, the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades would be in the high school next year and eventually only the last three. The junior high school program will be developed at Third Street school, where a structure housing all eighth-graders is planned, added Mr. Rose." In Green Lights of October 10, the following was reported from the superintendent's office: "... At the Third Street school a new building to house eighth-graders is contemplated." Under the same date but coming from the office of the high school principal, this statement appears: "A $35,000 building adjacent to Third Street school designed to house seventh and eighth grade students, is a part of the school extension program under consideration."

Ask yourself these simple questions: Do the school authorities really know what they are going to do at Third Street school? Are the conflicting statements made to deceive the public? Why did the Board of Education borrow $250,000 last June under the pretense that it was going to build during the summer classrooms at Third Street school to house all eighth-grade children and then did not do it? Will the Board of Education provide more laboratory equipment for the science work at the Third Street school than one one-burner gas stove? All you recall the meeting of parents and teachers held in the library of the high school last spring, the superintendent of city schools said frankly that was all the equipment the children below the ninth grade had for their science work? Why has a large part of the $250,000 borrowed last June been spent, some of the expenditures being very questionable? (As a taxpayer, examine the records and for what the money has been expended.)

In the light of conflicting statements, try to analyze the promises and retractions and see if some conclusions may be arrived at as to what really may be reasonably expected from the proposed expenditure of $275,000.
In the first place we will get some improvement at the Negro schools.
Just how much it will cost no one seems to know, but not more than $50,000. That is certainly needed.
In the second place, there will be built at West Greenville school a $15,000 auditorium to seat 350 people. This must be presumed to represent economy and be of great educational value to the children of the West Greenville school. However, since the auditorium will be idle at least 80 per cent of the time, ask yourself the simple question: which would be of more educational value to the children who attend that school, 85 per cent of whom will never enter high school, —to have the auditorium or to have the materials and equipment for shop work that could be bought for the interest on the money at 2-1/4 per cent, and the installments over a period of twenty years. The expenditures for interest and repayment over twenty years will be from $1,087.50 to $758.87 per year. That amount of money spent for the proper work materials would put the West Greenville school in the very plendor! At least a $100,000 gymnasium sitting squarely across the ravine. The lower story of the building will be below the level of the ground on three sides. The north rooms, if there will be any, will be so dark until they will require artificial lighting three-fourths of the time. The entire lower floor will be so hot from about the middle of April until the middle of October that it will be next to unbearable unless a very expensive ventilating system is installed.

Of course, the building will have three classrooms and a "small theatre" besides the gymnasium. However, there should be about $35,000 to build them, provided the overhauling, the present gymnasium, does not cost more than $30,000.
The "small theatre" will be a small auditorium, specially equipped for dramatics work. There is much more educational value to dramatic work done in an expensive auditorium set aside for that particular work than there is in the regular school auditorium.

There are two other small items which the patrons of the schools will get out of the proposed bond issue. The Board of Education promises faithfully to buy as much of the ravine between Fourth and Third streets as can be had. This will be made into a playground, after some $2,000 has been spent on it. Of course, it will be a hole in the ground but since level land in Greenville is scarce, it will have to serve the high school children for a playground. Then, too, there is to be an expensive tunnel under Fourth street to be lighted so the children can find their way to play without the danger of accidents.

The final thing we are promised is an amphitheatre in the ravine next to Fifth street. This will be especially desirable so that the citizens of Greenville will have a place to spend the summer evenings in the light of the Carolina moon watching home talent put on dramatic performances, while they listen to the delightful music furnished by a band of Culex. No doubt users will move swiftly up and down the aisles and gently spray the audience with the sweet essence of citronella. Such evenings should be highly educational.

Thus does the City Board of Education and the School Administration promise to expand the city school system in a most economical and efficient way, with the promise that the tax rate of the city will not be increased one penny because the Board of County Commissioners will levy the tax to the tune of about 20 cents on the hundred dollars of evaluation of property.

Every qualified voter in the City of Greenville should be registered before next Saturday night. If he believes the children of Greenville will be cared for educationally in any way near the proportional expenditure of funds as proposed, he should vote for the bonds. If he does not believe that the proposition has been presented and that the real educational advantages will not be furnished the children, he should vote against the bonds.

Two For One
Greary, Okla.—(AP)—As Ross Squires tells it, he saw a pair of jackrabbits ears scuttling down a crop row in a farm field. He fired one shot and saw two jackrabbits leap into the air an d fall dead. He never has figured out where the second jack came from.

England had no stone buildings until 600 A. D., when it is recorded, an abbot imported stone masons and glaziers.

Finally, what is promised in an educational way for the other $185,000 of the $275,000 program?
If you will look at the front page of the October issue of Green Lights you will see. There it is in all of its

Furthermore, there are the seventh grade children who are now in the high school building going to be after the new building program is completed? Not one word has been said about where they are to go. No classrooms have been provided for them so far as the published plans show. Also, when are the ninth grade children to be moved to the Third Street school?
No building is planned for them, but they are EVENTUALLY to be located at the Third Street school.
Where is the money coming from for that building? It will probably be borrowed under the pretense of an emergency at 4 per cent interest.
Unless some reader think that the above statement is too severe, please consider the following borrowings from the City Board of Education by the Literary Fund: February 2, 1932, $10,000; February 16, 1933 $3,000; December 30, 1935, $7,500; May 10, 1938, $3,000; June 15, 1939, $16,000; and then on June 25, 1941, $25,000. The rate of interest on each of the above loans was the economical rate of four per cent. The annual payments on those loans for this year and the next two will be:
1941, $4,463; 1942, $7,120; 1943, $6,912.
No taxpayer had a vote as to whether he would pay the necessary taxes to meet those debts or not. The loans were secured under emergency and the taxes were levied to meet the debt. Bonds could have been sold for from 2-1/2 to 2-1/4 per cent interest, but it was more economical to pay 4 per cent for the money.

TO EMPHASIZE FOREST LANDS

Need for Forestry Program Is Being Stressed

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 15.—The State of North Carolina must insist, so far as it is legally possible, on the maintenance of a growing crop of all forest land and on the establishment as soon as possible of a reserve supply of timber, State Forester J. S. Holmes declares.

This necessity is the greater, he said, because the one defense of which has been entirely neglected in North Carolina and to a considerable extent in other states is provision for the production of large timber.

German Drives On Russian Front

Germans are reported thrusting three spearheads (1) at Moscow, one from the Valdai hills and others from the west and southwest (arrows). They acknowledged Russian pockets of resistance (white areas in arrows) in the Vyasma and Bryansk sectors. On the southern front (2) German motorized forces were said to have reached Taganrog. The broken line indicates the approximate battlefront as outlined by maps published in Berlin.

Development Department officials pointed out that this long-time neglect has brought about a situation which requires drastic state action. "The nation's interest in its forests and forest lands both publicly and privately owned is also the State's interest," he said. "For this reason we must in times like these consider the public benefit as supreme over all private land and timber."

"Both the state and the federal government have taxable interests in the land and in the growing timber crop, and such taxable values are an essential part of any defense program. But the forest products themselves are of much greater defense value. Other assets can be levied on to produce taxes, but nothing can take the place of timber in war or in preparation for war. "A land owner has no moral right and should not have any moral right to take everything off his woodland and leave it without possibility of reestablishing the normal crop, because by doing so he reduces the defense strength of the nation."

He pointed out that forests are one of the four important natural essentials for defense—the others being minerals, soil and water. Two of the last named three are partially dependent upon forest preservation, he added.

"The value of our streams for power, navigation, food fishes, water supply and other necessary uses depends to a large extent upon the forest cover of their watersheds for their highest effectiveness. Our soils are not only very slowly renewable but can be conserved through proper agricultural practices or by establishing and maintaining a forest cover upon them," he said.

"However, our first thought in the value of forests in defense is the production of needed timber, since the timber crop develops slowly, a long-time policy is essential for national defense."

He cited the fact that virgin timber is now virtually unknown in North Carolina and that something must be done to remedy existing conditions. He advocated acquisition of land for state forests and tight control over privately owned timberland with a view to conserving such timber as the state now has encouraging the production in years to come of even more and better timber. "It is generally considered that growing and preservation of timber for emergency periods is a public duty and should be done largely by the state, federal and other public lands. The acquisition of land for state forests has long been advocated by North Carolina forestry officials for many years, not only for the production of timber which the private owner could not afford to grow, but also to relieve the land of sub-marginal and therefore unprofitable land and to demonstrate to the public better methods in forest management."

He pointed to U. S. Department of Agriculture figures predicting that the disparity between rate of growth and rate of use of forest resources is expected to increase as the result of the defense program and a reduction of imports of forest products.

He estimated needs for 1941 at 34 billion feet and for 1942 at 38 billion. Pulpwood consumption had risen from an estimated 9 million cords in 1931 to an estimated 14 million in 1940. Supplies imported from Canada have only partly offset the loss of Scandinavian imports. Meanwhile lumber production increased from 25 billion feet in 1939 to 29 billion in 1940.

"This means that our output must be increased 50 per cent over the 1939 production by next year," said Mr. Holmes. It is therefore essential that every effort be made to grow more timber. Most of the forest land of the state is capable of producing this large increase in production but better forest management is essential. A full stand of young growth should yield a full crop of timber, but fire, grazing and destructive diseases have so cut down the forest stand that little more than half of full crop can now be expected.

"Our duty, then, in self-defense is to increase the yield of each individual acre of forest land by proper management as well as to establish new forests on lands that are too poor or otherwise unfitted for agriculture. At the same time we must eliminate waste. For years the owners of timber have had available to a very limited extent advice on how better to handle their management and marketing of their timber crop. Such services should be increased until every citizen in the state can take advantage of such aids. "The grower of timber has a great farm crop in that after his crop becomes merchantable he can continue to hold it from year to year with the assurance that it will increase in quantity and value each year it is held. Any timber crop under 100 years old is probably adding value each year it is held."

Man About Manhattan

New York.—The terrible thing, to Dr. Ernst Lothar, about Nazism is the speed with which it breaks the backbone of self-confidence. This applies either to an individual or a nation. "I used to know renowned writers, artists, businessmen. They were people with the habit of command. They were leaders. Now, to look into their eyes is to realize what an unimportant thing is hunger compared to the loss of confidence. They are broken; their spirit is crushed."

Dr. Lothar, who is now at Colorado College lecturing and teaching drama, was speaking of his Vienna, and Franz Werfel's Vienna. He came here, as exiles everywhere have come in the last two years, "because they didn't like me." Among the reasons "they" didn't like him was because on the day Austria was taken he was on a Vienna stage reciting "They'll Never Take the Danube." This author of twenty books, director, manager, owner of theaters and lecturer went out the back door as Hitler came in the front door. In a year in the United States he has mastered the English language. He brought with him an authentic diary of an Austrian girl who married a French journalist who was killed in the war. From this diary he wrote "A Woman Is Witness," a novel that has women, and men, too, talking from coast to coast.

Dr. Lothar's next novel will tell the story of the compulsory mass migrations of the minorities of Europe, such as that of the German minority in the South Tyrol. All the members of his immediate family, he tells you happily, are in the States, taking out their papers, preparing to become American citizens. His wife has been on Broadway for nearly a year in the comedy "Claudia." His daughter is Max Reinhardt's secretary in Hollywood. I asked him what his reactions were when he first set foot on this island of Manhattan after crossing from Paris. "When you lose your own country," he said, "—as a writer, I mean—you also lose its language. But I have been fortunate. As a man of the theater, I have an ear for languages, and I think that has helped in the study of English. So many really able people under similar circumstances have to sell neckties for a living. I am fortunate to be able to carry on my own work, to be in a place where I can write as I have always written, and that is writing what I really think."

In his new duties as a professor of the drama Dr. Lothar will direct plays as well as lecture. But American plays are nothing new to him. In Vienna he produced Clara Booth's "The Women" and it ran through 320 performances. He produced all of O'Neill's plays, and he produced "You Can't Take It With You."

Not only do politics and the theater claim his attention. He is interested in social conditions. One of his novels was a study of the question of mercy killings. I asked him which of his books he thought most of. He considered this for a moment, smiled, and said, "Well, I sort of like my last one—'A Woman Is Witness.'"

Wartime Luxury
London.—(AP)—Roasted cygnet, favorite delicacy of a bygone age, may soon reappear on the English dinner table. The Ministry of Food is considering a suggestion that authority be given for a percentage of young swans to be killed. Many swans, which breed in thousands each year now are going hungry because the British public no longer is allowed to feed them.

Coach Farley's Green Wave To Invade Tarboro Friday

LOCAL ELEVEN AFTER 4TH WIN

Game Scheduled To Get Under Way at 8 O'Clock

By PERCY WELLS

Coach Bo Farley's Green Wave will journey to Tarboro tomorrow and attempt to sweep the Serpents off their feet so as to add the fourth victory to their win column. This will be a night game, starting at 8 o'clock and promises to be an important clash in the Eastern conference.

The local boys have been receiving stiff workouts during this week and are expected to be in tip-top shape for tomorrow night's classic.

The Greenies have three wins to one defeat so far this season—taking contests from Morehead City, 41-6; Windsor, 31-0; and Plymouth 21-0; and losing a thriller to Goldsboro, 6-0.

Defeating New Bern by a score of 20-0 two weeks ago, the Serpents should give the Phantoms plenty of trouble with their fast and spirited eleven.

Starting G-man line-up will probably consist of Henry Andrews and Troy Riddle at end positions, Spencer Carroll and Bill Lee at tackle, guards Noah Lee Edwards and Kirby Allen, and H. R. Goodall centering the ball.

Leonard Briley is slated to start at fullback, John Spearman at wingback, Hubert Musselwhite at fullback and blockingback, Bill Turner.

Pirates Outweigh and Outrank Western Carolina

Out-weighting and out-ranking their opponents, the East Carolina Teachers College Pirates will rule as favorites in their home-coming encounter with West Carolina here Saturday afternoon. The game is set to start at 2:30 at Wright field. Purple and Gold are the colors of both schools in this contest, but there the comparison ends. Although the local Teachers outweigh their Western opponents only two pounds to the man—the comparison is 172 to 170 pounds on the average—they have a much better record for the current season than the WCTC team. East Carolina smashed Tusculum and the Portsmouth Naval Apprentices in their first two contests, while the West Greenville aggregation bowed to the powerful Elon and Appalachian elevens.

But last season when the Pirates invaded Cullowhee as favorites over West Carolina and rolled up a 14-point lead early in the game, the Cullowhee Teachers roared back to tally four times and win 25-14. An upset of that sort might well be pulled off at ETC Saturday.

Both teams have been put

COLORED NEWS

Too many farmers think their work is done when they plant in spring and reap in the fall. Think of the land that goes to waste that should be planted to make hay and grain for livestock. Oats, rye, and wheat make good winter crops in this climate. Wheat is good for the family, while oats and rye will make good feed for the livestock.

Plenty of time now to sow seven-top turnips, mustard, onions, kale and plant a few rows of cabbage, because of the recent drought vegetables will be very scarce and everything must be done to have as much as possible, with the older

Is it Love? by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

YESTERDAY: Sue Ellen Fairhope has just been told by her tall, dark and badly spoiled fiancé that their wedding must be put off until June—six long months. Sue Ellen is disturbed, because Riv Moore has given no good reason. And before she can make up her mind what to do, the Negro butler has announced another caller. He is Johnny Harris, a soldier from nearby Camp Shelby, and he is also a northerner. Sue Ellen is not too fond of northerners.

Chapter Three Up From The Past

Johnny Harris was broadshouldered, muscular, and his clear grey eyes were startlingly vivid in his lean tanned face. He smiled and held out his hand. "My father knew your Aunt Carolina Fairhope. You are Miss Fairhope?" "I'm Sue Ellen Fairhope." She was so astounded that this man should be the son of Aunt Car's old sweetheart that she stood staring at him and even let him take her hand. "I'll call Aunt Car," she said briefly. "She will want to see you." For the first time in her life she felt awkward and at a loss for words. She withdrew her fingers from the clasp of his firm cool fingers, went out through the dining room and long hall toward the pantry door, she paused. Should she tell Aunt Car or dismiss the man, telling him that Aunt Car was not here? Would it be wise or right to bring back vividly to Aunt Car the memory of an old love affair? Would she want to meet her lover's son?

The man had forgotten Aunt Car—had married. "What is it?" Aunt Car herself made the decision, for Sue Ellen heard her voice behind her in the library, and Johnny Harris's voice, so unlike Riv's soft slurred southern voice. She heard Aunt Carolina's little cry of surprise and did not listen any longer but pushed open the door into the pantry and went out to where Aunt Pleas was struggling with Aunt Jennie and the supper. Aunt Pleas was stout and rosy. Her hair had not a thread of white in it and she had worn it all her lifetime in a figure eight on the back of her head. Her brown eyes were quick and snapping and only her soft slurred tones betrayed her southern birth. She might have been a thrifty New England housewife, for she was quick and decisive and the ruling force in their small household.

"Who came in?" she asked, never interrupting her orders that Aunt Jennie move faster, that Uncle Freeman bring in coal, her own fingers meanwhile neatly folding linen, back to the laundry, and her bright brown eyes raised only for a moment at Sue Ellen's entrance.

Is It Love?

For the first time that day amusement touched Sue Ellen. "Guess who's talking to Aunt Car?" "I never guess. Some sick neighbor. I suppose—that's all your Aunt Car thinks about. Carrying away the supper to give to some one, when we need every mouthful we can get for ourselves."

"This man doesn't look burglar." "Who is he?" Sue Ellen slipped into a chair and raised her eyebrows. "A draftee from Camp Shelby. His father was an old sweetheart of Aunt Car's."

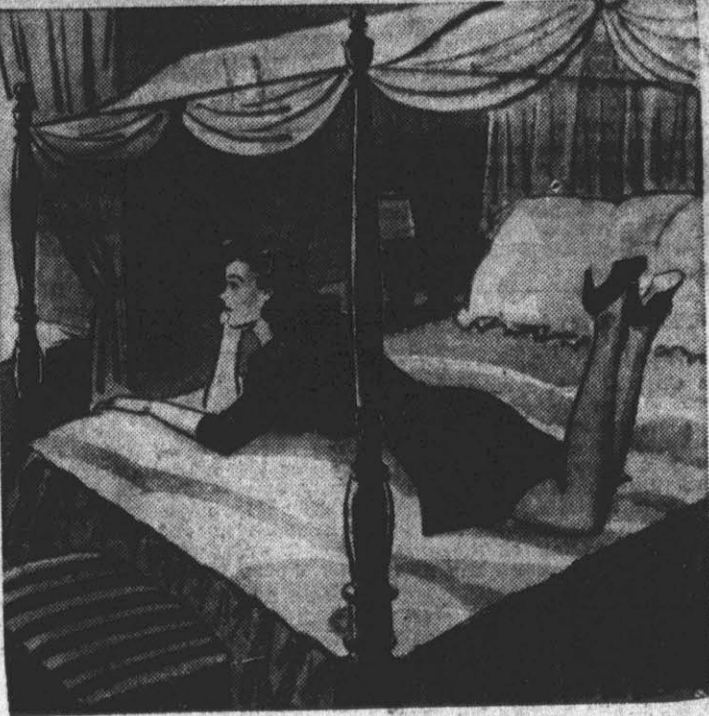

Aunt Pleas collapsed on a chair, her plump hands dropping her linen on the kitchen floor. "Yes, Johnny Harris. Probably," said Sue Ellen scornfully. "Aunt Car will ask him to supper."

But Aunt Car did not ask Johnny Harris to supper. They heard the door close. Aunt Car appeared, her soft cheeks flushed, her eyes bright and excited. "That was John's son," she said breathlessly. "His father wanted him to come over to Tyler Springs and meet me. He said that his father never forgot me."

Aunt Pleas did not speak, but her small mouth tightened. There was something almost shameful in Aunt Car's excitement. Usually so reserved, so lacking in animation, so indifferent to what went on about her, it was as though Aunt Car at fifty had come to life. There was a hint of the girlishness of the portrait over the mantle in her eager face.

Sue Ellen left the room to dress for dinner. She mounted the staircase to her own room, puzzled by the upheaval in her own breast. Aunt Car had known something she would never know, something passed through a generation. She wondered if Johnny Harris resembled his father.

She forgot that in a short time she would be with Riv. She even forgot the disappointment of the afternoon—she denied that she felt, for the first time, relief that she would not marry Riv soon. The room where she stood was a beautiful room, in the front of the house. The windows were deep-set and many-paned and the magnolia branches shut off the view of the narrow village street. The furniture was massive, with a canopy bed brought from France long before the War Between the States. She dropped down on the bed and wondered idly if she would meet Johnny Harris again. For some reason unknown to herself, she hoped not.

The Wallers

Colonel Moore, Riv's father, had been more fortunate than families in Tyler Springs like the Fairhopes. The Colonel managed to enter politics and work his way into the favor of those with influence in Washington. He carried on a real estate business in Tyler Springs and the adjoining country and sold plantations at fat commissions to northerners.

The Colonel had made too much money from his Yankee clients to affront them. His most influential one was a man from Michigan, Jim Waller, who made money in automobile parts and now had promoted a gigantic program of airplane manufacture for defense. The Colonel had entertained the Wallers, sold them a huge estate and had escorted them about during the period when they were inspecting the property.

Jim Waller's daughter, Deedora, stayed in Tyler Springs to oversee the restoration of the old Fairchild plantation. She was homely but smart. A brilliant conversationalist, she had traveled all over the world and had had a splendid education. Various friends told Sue Ellen she was a fool to trust Riv and she had antagonized many by her positive statement that she would allow no one to annoy her with gossip about Riv, now that they were definitely engaged.

Riv had been sweet and thoughtful during the month following the announcement. Then in June he went to Washington and rumors drifted back that an early acquaintance with Deedora had developed into something quite different. Sue Ellen heard some of this. She refused to accept it. She discussed the rumors with Riv quite frankly and Riv told her that he had been with Deedora to please the Colonel, which would keep him out of the draft.

"But you can't escape the draft, Riv," she insisted. "It's a government regulation."

"A damned silly one, and don't think I intend to do squads right and left. The Colonel will fix it." Now, as she dressed for dinner, she wondered if the postponement of her wedding played a part in the Colonel's fixing, as Riv called it.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

Uncle Sam asks you not to forget the importance of meat to repair body tissues, to provide iron for good red blood, to insure a daily supply of the B vitamins. But you in your woman's wisdom know that you must buy meat with an eye to flavor and thrift. And so I commend to you two meats with both these advantages: shank of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham and Certified Bacon, Family Style.

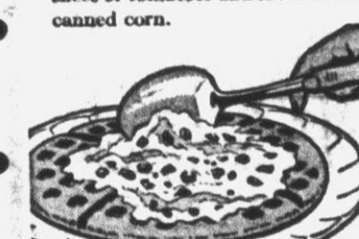

George Rector Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

THRIFT TIP FOR HAM

Do you know that the meat on the shank end of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham is as richly flavored, as tender as the choice center slices?

Tender Made Ham needs no cooking. In using the shank, slice enough delicious meat for a cold platter or (if you wish it hot) broil the slices together with slices of tomatoes and mounds of canned corn.

This should leave you several cups of shank meat. Use this for creamed ham on waffles in the following menu:

- Sunday Night Supper. Creamed Certified Tender Made Ham on Waffles. Pickled Peaches. Coffee. Canned Blueberry Pie.

Tender Made Ham gives richer flavor, greater tenderness. Ask for it by name.

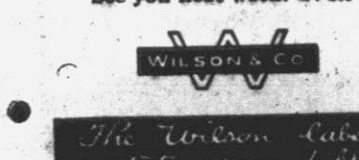

There's Only ONE

There's only one Niagara Falls—only one Pikes Peak, only one Tender Made Ham. It's made by Wilson & Co.—the famous ham you cut with a fork.

1-DISH LUNCH

- 1 lb. Wilson's Certified Sliced Bacon, fried and cut into inch pieces. 2 cups apples (cubed). 6 tablespoons bacon fat. 3 cups bread crumbs. Chopped onions, salt, pepper, sage. Bake in a casserole in a 350° F. oven till done.

Rector Recommends for an economy dinner:—Shoulder Lamb Chops, broiled with Wilson's Certified Bacon. See you next week. G. R.

Seeks Annulment

The former Lenore Lemmon (above), 18-year-old New York socialite, appeared at the office of her attorney in New York as she prepared to begin suit for annulment of her recent marriage to Jacob (Jakie) Webb.

The man allegedly killed by a 16-year-old Alexandria, Va., youth and now held by Portland, Me., police was Grainger Browning, 40.

Browning, unmarried, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browning of Route Three, Mount Olive, and left here six or seven months ago to work on defense projects in the Washington, D. C., area.

Police said Browning was driving a 1941 automobile and trailer when he left here.

sobbing, 16-year-old Alexandria, Va., boy was quoted by police today as confessing he shot an Alexandria contractor to death in Maryland early Monday morning, while running away from home with two youthful girl companions in the victim's automobile and that he then hid the body beside Route One near the Maryland-Pennsylvania border.

Assistant County Attorney Richard S. Chapman said the boy maintained the contractor, known to the young trio only as "Browning," tried to make advances to one of the girls - they were 14 and 15 years old, respectively - and then when his remonstrances went unheeded, he whipped out an automatic pistol and shot "Browning" dead. Ten miles further on, the boy was quoted as saying, the 18-year-old victim's body was dragged from the car and hidden. Chapman said it was uncertain just where the alleged crime was committed.

However, police at Raleigh, N. C., told Portland authorities by telephone that the car registration was issued to G. G. Browning of Route Three, Mount Olive, N. C.

Browning had agreed, Chapman said, to give the youngsters a ride from their trailer camp homes in
