Bill By Bailey Puts Strikes In Category Of Sabotage

BILL PROVIDES STIFF PENALTY

Measure Offered As Rider To Pending Neutrality Repeal Legislation Carries $10,000 Fine And 5-Year Prison Term When Intent Of Strikes Shown To Be To Retard Defense Production

Washington, Oct. 28. — (AP)—Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) proposed in the Senate today an amendment to the pending armed ship bill which would bring labor strikes within the category of sabotage when their intent was to retard defense production.

Bailey's action came as President Roosevelt confronted John L. Lewis with a virtual ultimatum, for a speedy end to the captive coal mine strikes.

Heavy fines and imprisonment would be imposed on leaders and participants in strikes under Bailey's proposal.

At the same time, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) told the Senate that the President could end strikes in defense industries by taking "firm measures." Moreover, Byrd said, it ought to be obvious to anyone that Congress could do nothing about the work stoppages until the administration put its weight behind corrective measures.

Byrd said the President had written "three humble and pleading letters" to Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, asking for an end to the strike in captive mines.

Bailey's proposal, offered as a "rider" to the pending neutrality repeal legislation, would impose stiff penalties on persons responsible for stopping work in defense industries.

A fine of $10,000 and a five-year prison term could be imposed whenever two or more employees agreed to do or omit to do any act with intent to delay the defense program.

Bailey, discussing the defense strike situation without mentioning Lewis, told the Senate that "the time has come" to halt those who "under the color of law and claim of right are doing more to destroy the defense of this country than all the dictators of all foreign nations."

Pastor Is Returned For His Fifth Year

Rev. J. G. Spivey, pastor of the local Pentecostal Holiness church, has been returned to his local charge for the fifth successive year. The appointment was made at the annual conference of the church held in Whiteville.

Rev. Mr. Spivey already has served the local church for four years.

President Calls On U. S. To Stop March Of Hitler

Foreign Comment On Talk Varied

Denounced In Axis Capitals; Satisfaction Voiced In London; Met With Cautious Silence In Tokyo

(By The Associated Press) Bitter denunciations and denials in the Axis capitals, satisfaction in Britain, and cautious official silence in Tokyo were the major responses today to President Roosevelt's "shooting star" speech last night.

Informed Germans said the speech would have been funny, "except for the fact that the President's policies could have the direst consequences."

Italians interpreted the speech to mean convoys and another step toward U. S. belligerency.

A Japanese spokesman said the speech would be "studied with interest" by the Japanese government. The first British newspapers appearing after the speech greeted it with enthusiastic headlines, but authoritative circles, while smiling with satisfaction, left official British reaction to Prime Minister Churchill.

"Still slowly perhaps... the United States moves toward war," the Evening Star commented, declaring the speech amounted to "a tremendous offensive against Hitler."

There was no immediate response from Latin-America to whose defense against what he said were Nazi plans for conquest Roosevelt devoted a section of his talk.

This part of the speech was described by Berlin sources as "the climax of Roosevelt phantasy and the emanation of hallucinations which are as bad as they are absurd."

The "secret map" which Roosevelt said had come into his possession showing Germany's plans with regard to South America they called "a complete swindle and forgery" and challenged him to say "where he got it and why he kept it so long."

A. L. Denton Dies At The Age Of 83

Alonzo Edgar Denton, 83, died at his home on Dickinson Avenue Monday evening at 6 o'clock following a lengthy illness.

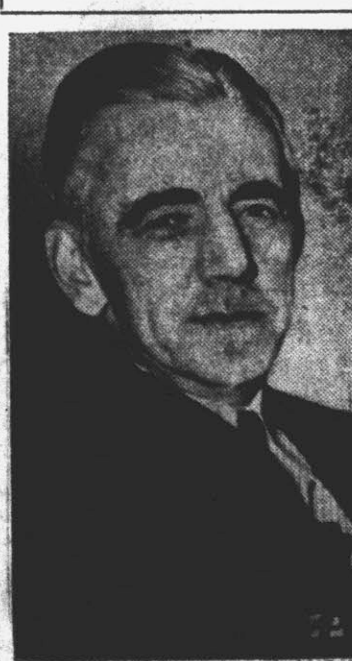

Funeral services were conducted at the home this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Reverend Hartwell Campbell, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church. Burial followed in Greenville Cemetery.

Mr. Denton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Addie B. Denton; two sons, E. L. Denton, of Norfolk, Va., and A. T. Denton, of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. H. L. Elks and Mrs. Fred Broadwell, both of Greenville; seventeen grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Denton was born July 11, 1858, in Edgecombe county. He moved to Greene county where he lived until 1910, at which time he moved to Greenville. He was a member of a Free Will Baptist church in Greene county. Until he retired three years ago because of ill health, he was active in the civic life of Greenville, spending a number of years in the drug and grocery business and later serving as justice of peace for a short time.

Active pallbearers were C. C. Parkerson, J. Kinsey Hardee, W. C. Clark, Z. V. Murphy, E. W. Hardy, and W. O. Bilbro.

Pelley Surrenders

William Dudley Pelley (above), 51, publisher and organizer of the Silver Shirts, surrendered in Asheville, N. C., and was placed in jail in default of $10,000 bond. He was convicted in 1935 of "making fraudulent representations" and of violating the North Carolina "Blue Sky" securities law. At the time of his trial he was sentenced to two years but judgment was suspended.

RAPID GROWTH BY STATE BANK

Institution's Resources Now Approximately $2,750,000

The State Bank and Trust Company today announced that within the past few days its resources had approached the impressive total of approximately two and three-quarter million dollars.

This statement shows that the institution is definitely among the newer and outstandingly successful businesses in the city. The bank started business a little more than 10 years ago—July 25, 1931, from what one way may say zero.

Through the adoption of and practicing of sound and progressive policies, it has grown to a very definite position of influence and usefulness. Its entire business is conducted from its one office located on Five Points and its officers' take pride in the fact that its business has been built by the people of Greenville and this community.

Declares America Has Been Attacked And Urges Full Speed Ahead In Nation's Efforts To Halt Hitlerism; Applies Words Of Admiral Farragut "Damn the Torpedoes: Full Speed Ahead"

Washington, Oct. 28. — (AP)—President Roosevelt damned the torpedoes and called for full speed ahead today in the nation's efforts to hasten "the destruction of Hitlerism."

In a Navy Day address, the chief executive declared last night that "the shooting has started... America has been attacked."

Then he used for his keynote the fighting words which Admiral Farragut gave to history in the battle of Mobile Bay.

He pledged that military supplies of all kinds would reach Hitler's foes despite all Nazi sea war threats and he added with firm assurance: "In the light of a good many years of personal experience, I say that it can never be doubted that the goods will be delivered by this nation whose Navy believes in the tradition of 'Damn the torpedoes; full speed ahead.'"

He told the world that "the forward march of Hitlerism can be stopped—and it will be stopped." "He can be stopped and be compelled to dig in," Mr. Roosevelt said, "and that will be the beginning of his downfall, because dictatorship of the Hitler type can live only through continuing victories—in increasing conquest."

Mr. Roosevelt made two disclosures of secret documents which he said originated with Hitler's government—one for dividing South America into five vassal states and the other for abolishing all existing religions.

He declared that these grim truths of present and future plans of Hitlerism would be denied both by the controlled Axis press and radio. But he declared that he had a secret map of South America and part of Central America on which Berlin experts have "ruthlessly obliterated all existing boundary lines" and have divided South America into five vassal states, bringing the whole continent under their domination."

In one of these new puppet states would be the Republic of Panama—and the Panama Canal.

"This map makes clear," the chief executive said, "the Nazi design not only against South America, but against the United States itself."

The plan to abolish all religions—Protestant, Catholic, Mohammedan, Hindu, Buddhist and Jewish alike—would be imposed on a Nazi-dominated world if Hitler won, Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

An international Nazi church would be substituted, and the words of Hitler's "Mein Kampf" would replace the Bible.

Mr. Roosevelt made but a single and indirect reference to defense strikes, mentioning no dispute specifically, nor any individuals by name.

The reference was in one brief paragraph, which followed a declaration that defense output must be multiplied. He said:

"It cannot be hampered by the (Continued on Page Six)

TAFT ASSERTS FDR PROPOSES CARRY ON WAR

Says Authority Granted Under Pending Legislation

PLEADS AGAINST CHANGING BILL

Declares Anyone Who Heard Address Can Hardly Doubt FDR Proposing To Wage Undeclared War

Washington, Oct. 28. — (AP) — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) replied to President Roosevelt's condemnation of "hamstringing provisions" in the neutrality act today with a declaration that repeal legislation if passed would give the President authority to "carry on an undeclared war."

"The passage of the resolution before the Senate is direct authority from the Congress to the President to carry on an undeclared war against Germany, Italy and Japan on all the oceans of the world and in all the ports into which sea-going ships may sail," the Ohioan said solemnly.

"If the members of the Senate intend to keep their pledges to the people of the United States, pledges made by themselves, by their leaders and by their party, they can only vote 'no' on the present legislation," he declared.

Alluding to Mr. Roosevelt's reaffirmation of "shoot on sight" orders to the navy, Taft said that anyone who heard him "can hardly doubt that he is proposing that the United States carry on an undeclared war and asking Congress for authority to do so."

In his Navy Day address last night, Mr. Roosevelt said he saw only "honesty and realism" in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee action in voting to eliminate the neutrality act ban on United States merchant sailing into combat zones as well as backing up the House in providing for arming of the ships.

Present Portrait Of Dean C. Tabor

"So long as the love of music and harmony exist on the campus of this college the spirit of Dean Tabor will remain with us." With these words President Leon R. Meadows accepted the portrait of Dean C. Tabor, late head of the music education department of East Carolina Teachers College, presented to the College at assembly today, and paid tribute to the contribution this music lover made to all the lives he touched. "The picture will be hung on the walls of the music department," said President Meadows, "to be an inspiration to all who love those things most elevated in life."

At the request of the mother of Mr. Tabor, Mr. P. W. Pickelsimer presented the portrait. "Dean Tabor's mother," he said, "wishing to do something to commemorate this life that was too short, and yet meant so much, presents the portrait as a continual reminder of his deep affection for this student body and college."

$1,500 Mark Reached Community Chest Drive

Chairman Bissette Reports Fine Cooperation

With additional reports by Community Chest workers having been made, the amount raised thus far was reported by Chairman Charles B. Bissette at noon today as $1,500. A budget of $8,500 has been set and it was explained that every cent of this amount is needed to carry on the necessary programs for the 1941-42 year.

In calling upon the public in general to support the campaign, Chairman Bissette emphasized the fact that a contribution to the Community Chest was seven gifts in one and added that he felt the citizens prefer this method to that of having each of the participating organizations carry on their individual campaigns.

When a person contributes or pledges to the chest he is helping the following organizations: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Service League, School Lunch Fund, Kings Daughters and Emergency Relief Fund. In addition, the small operating expenses are provided for in the budget.

The campaign director had high praise for his co-workers today, declaring that the various civic clubs of the city were cooperating "in a wonderful manner." He added that all of the clubs had provided workers and were naming additional ones as the need arose.

He added, however, that it would be impossible to contact every individual in the city and urged anyone not called on to send his or her check to campaign headquarters maintained at the mayor's office, where an all-time official may be found throughout the day.

Call Us

With the special school bond election scheduled to close at 6:30 tonight and only 877 persons having registered, the task of counting the ballots should be completed within 30 minutes or an hour after the polls close.

As soon as the returns are tabulated they will be relayed to the Reflector office and, as in past elections of city or county interest, the offices will remain open to inform patrons calling by telephone.

Approximately 400 persons had voted at mid-afternoon and it was indicated that a good per cent of those registered would cast ballots. Persons not voting are automatically counted as voting against the proposal, which involves the issuance of $250,000 in bonds for school improvements.

SOAKING RAINS EASE DROUGHT

Long Dry Spell Broken In Most Parts Of State

The 1.49 inches of rainfall recorded here last night and this morning was the first time since August 12 that as much as an inch has been recorded here in a single day. On that day, the fall was recorded as 1.05.

The fall last night and this morning was the first time that any rain has been recorded here this month and only 91 of an inch fell in September, 45 of an inch being recorded on September 29—the last time it had rained prior to the fall which started last night.

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Soaking rains fell over large portions of North Carolina last night and today, partially breaking the second worst drought of the century.

The Raleigh weather bureau reported 1.80 inches which was the heaviest downpour since July 13.

Not a drop of rain had fallen here for 23 days and the last soaking rain was on August 20 when 1.28 inches were recorded.

The worst drought in the history of the weather bureau occurred in September and October of 1904.

There was little doubt that the rain was worth millions of dollars. The outlook up until today was gloomy for farmers, highway and health officials and utilities operators.

Farmers had been facing huge losses because they couldn't plant their winter wheat and other crops. Drinking water was running dangerously low in a number of towns. There was a chance that typhoid fever would appear, Warren H. Booker of the State Board of Health said.

Local Board No. Two Gets Call For 15 Men

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A call for 1,157 young men—835 whites and 222 Negroes—to report at Fort Bragg between November 24 and December 5 for military service was issued by State Selective Service headquarters today.

Local board quotas included: Whites, November 25: Vance 15; Pitt No. Two, 15; Wilson No. Two, 15; November 27—Robeson No. Two, 15; Robeson No. Three, 15; December 2, Robeson No. One, 20.

Nazi Forces Press Drive Onto Rostov

Predicted In London Imperial Forces In Middle East To Be Sent To Aid Reds If City Falls; Soviet Forces Defending Moscow Declared To Have Pushed Nazis Back As Much As 10 Miles

(By The Associated Press) German troops were reported fighting today within 10 to 15 miles of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, the great "turning point" in the battle of southern Russia, which may bring Great Britain's million-man armies of the Middle East into action.

London sources have predicted freely that if the Germans capture Rostov the green light would be flashed to General Sir Archibald Wavell's Imperial forces to march through Iran and establish a new British fighting front in the Caucasus.

Military agencies reaching London said the Germans already had succeeded in knocking most of the basin's war foundries out of action.

The Moscow radio, however, insisted that the big industrial city of Kharkov was still in Soviet possession. Official German reports said the city fell last Thursday.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters, picturing the Russians as on the run, reported that German troops yesterday penetrated the town of Krimatorsk, 100 miles southeast of Kharkov.

"Thus the Soviet Union lost one of its biggest tank factories," the Nazi communique said.

Russia's Red armies, defending Moscow strengthened by fresh reserves from Siberia were reported to have launched a series of fierce counter-attacks in all sections and driven the Germans back as much as 10 miles from the U. S. S. R. capital at some points today.

Dispatches to Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said that Russian troops had fortified themselves in new positions after their counter-attacks and that the Nazis had twice been beaten off in assaults on the village of "S." Forty of 80 German tanks used in the attack were destroyed, the dispatches said.

Far to the East of the battle lines, the Russians were reported training a reserve army in Siberia to prosecute the war.

Bad weather, coupled with bitter Soviet counter-blows, was reported to be slowing the Germans along the entire front.

Latest dispatches reaching London said the Nazi onslaught into the southern Ukraine was slackening in the face of Soviet resistance, but it was acknowledged that German forces had advanced to within 10 to 15 miles of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

In the North, the Germans said their siege guns had been pounding Leningrad steadily for the past 24 hours—apparently as the prelude to a direct infantry assault—and that Russians encircled in the Leningrad sector had made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to escape by sea.

Halloween Party.
There will be a Halloween party at the Belvoir school Friday night, October 31, at 7:30 o'clock. Lots of fun for everyone. Come bring your friends.

Celebrate Birthdays.
On Saturday afternoon, October 25, Miss Bobby Harris entertained a number of his friends at his home on Fourth street, celebrating his seventh birthday.

Dressed in their Halloween costumes, the children played games on the front lawn. Prizes were won by Miss Edwina McMullen and Miss Guy Smith, Jr., and Jimmy River, Jr.

After Misses Kitty Moore and Edwina McMullen surprised the guests with tap dances, Bobby opened his lovely gifts.

Everyone was then invited into the dining room which was decorated with Halloween pumpkins and black and white. Ice cream and cake was served on orange plates by the host's mother, Mrs. James Clay Harris. Centering the table was a beautiful cake and candles.

On departing, balloons were given as favors. Those enjoying the party were Misses Edwina McMullen, Joan and Janice Atkinson, Kitty Moore, Joanne Parks, Wynette Gardner, Thelma Jones, Misses Guy Smith, Jr., David and Marvin Simmons, Donald Williams, Dan Byrum, Wynne Gardner, Walter Glenn Scott, Jr., Jimmy Piver, Jr., Mesdames Lester Jones, Jimmy Piver and Sherman Parks.

Upon arrival at Mrs. Scales' home, the guests were greeted by Miss Matheson and presented to Mrs. Scales, who welcomed them to her attractive home with its cheerful open-grate fires.

Roses, dahlias and other cut-flow-ers were beautifully arranged throughout the parlors, dining room and guest room.

The guests were seated about card tables and a most colorful and delicious two-course luncheon was served. A color scheme of green and yellow was used.
Miss Merritt's place was marked by a pretty corsage of white roses.

To Speak At Art Gallery.
Tonight at 8 o'clock at the local WPA Art Gallery, second floor of Sheppard Memorial Library, W. C. Fields of Raleigh, will present the second talk in the Tuesday night series planned for the gallery during the fall and winter. Mr. Fields, who is assistant state supervisor of Arts and Crafts centers, and a graduate in Fine Arts from the University at Chapel Hill, was a first prize winner in the Art exhibit at the recent State Fair in Raleigh, his prize-winning entry being a portrait. Tonight Mr. Fields will discuss painting in water colors, using for the basis of his talk the group of water colors by American artists now on display in the local gallery. This talk is open to the public, with no admission charge. The first talk of the Tuesday night series was given two weeks ago by Charles Bissette of Greenville, who discussed Amateur Photography.

Harvest Frolic.
The Third street school will have its annual Parent-Teacher-Children School Friends night at the school building on Friday, Halloween evening, from 6:45 to 9 p. m.

This annual frolic means much to the school, for it is the one time in the year when children and grown-ups play together with no regard for age and a wonderful time is had by all who come.

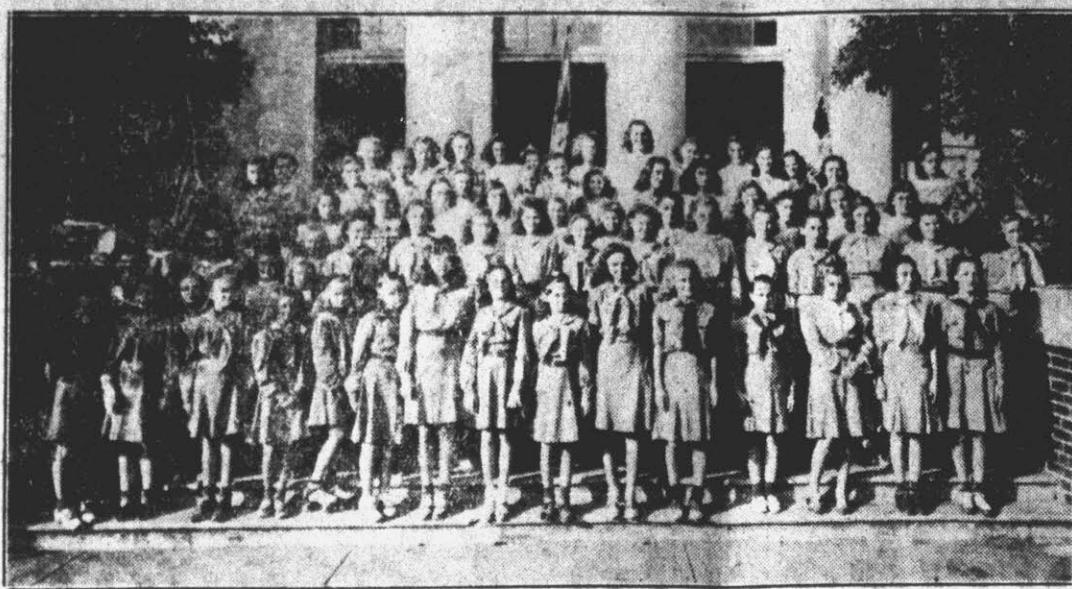

There will be costumes galore and it is hoped that the grown-ups will dress up for Halloween as well as the children, but costume or no costume, there are many stunts—ghost rooms, wonder rooms, game rooms, fishing ponds, fortune tellers and other attractions including costume parades, and cake walks.

The early hour cares for the smaller folks who like to get home and to bed early, and it also helps the mother, for hot-dogs and a great variety of good things to eat will be sold and no one need cook a supper before coming, just eat at the school—of course everyone connected with the school will be on hand and all friends are cordially invited to come and join in the fun at Third street school Halloween night.

The Harvest Frolics are always sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Third street school.

Christian Science Service.
"Probation after Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 26. The golden text was from Heb. 3:12-13. THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Tuesday, October 28, 1901

It has been decided to discontinue the summer term of the University. It was found by experience that this additional session taxed the resources of the institution too greatly, gave the professors no opportunity to pursue desired studies elsewhere during the summer, and was not taken advantage of to any considerable extent by the students intended to be benefitted.

daily, while it is called today."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "A certain man made a great supper and bade many. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. And the Lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled." (Luke 14:16, 18, 23.)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We have no right to say that life depends on matter now, but will not depend on it after death. We cannot spend our days here in ignorance of the Science of Life, and expect to find beyond the grave a reward for this ignorance. Death will not make us harmonious and immortal as a recompense for ignorance."

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S CLUB

The Mid-year Council of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held at Sedgewick Inn in Greensboro on November 8-9, according to announcement from Mrs. Millie J. Crowell, state federation president.

Miss Earline White, past president of the national federation and postmaster at the Senate Post Office, will be the speaker at the banquet. Mrs. Elsie Flake, chairman of the international relations committee, will introduce Miss White.

At the luncheon meeting the guest speaker will be Commodore W. E. Longfellow of the staff of the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., who will be presented by Miss Mabel Bacon, chairman of the public affairs committee.

Miss Elizabeth Rountree of Kinston, director of the sixth district will respond to the greetings of welcome as extended by Miss Rachel Moser, president of the High Point club.

Members from the Greenville club who are planning to attend include Miss Helen Gaskins, president, Miss Elizabeth Kasey, Mrs. J. O. Morton, Mrs. Chester Walsh, Mrs. F. A. Elks and Mrs. Lela Belle Hoell.

The council will close with breakfast Sunday morning. The High Point club will be in charge of the program at that closing session.

Girl Scouts Plan Court Of Awards

A city-wide court of awards for all Girl Scouts, Scout parents and friends of the organization will be held tonight at 7:30 p. m. at the Presbyterian church on Fifth street. Following the Court of Awards ceremony Girl Scouts and guests are invited to attend the reception which will be held in the church basement. The Juliette Low Scouts and Committee are hostesses at this reception.

The Court of Awards has been planned and carried out under the direction of the Juliette Low committee. This is the local council's way of playing tribute to the leaders of the troops who have given of their efforts in furthering the policies of Girl Scouting.

As a result of program activities of the last months in troops, several badges and ranks are to be awarded. Twelve new Scouts are also to be invested this evening.

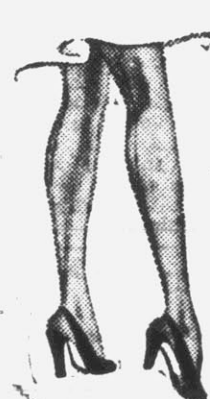

Music for the Court of Awards will be furnished by Mrs. Guy Smith and Miss Pat Waldrop, a Senior Scout. Mrs. J. B. Present Portrait Of Dean C. Tabor

Speaking for the children and faculty of the Training School, where Mr. Tabor had made such a contribution through his love for both children and music, Miss Kathleen Plumb referred to the happiness he always brought when he entered the building. "His soul was filled with music," she declared. He had those priceless gifts of love and understanding. We liked to sing for him, to sing with him, and best of all to hear him sing. He would wish us to remember that the world is still full of music.

Vernon Keutenmeyer, senior student and president of the ECTO band when Mr. Tabor was its director, representing the college students, pointed out Mr. Tabor's ability to put people at ease and develop self confidence in them. "We shall remember him not only as a teacher, but also as a friend," was his final comment.

Representative music organizations on the campus contributed their share to the memorial service. The band, now directed by R. W. Getchell, introduced the program with "Prelude" by Bizet and "Barcarolle" from Tales of Hoffman-Offenbach. A chorus of children from the Training School sang "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Now the Day Is Over," with Miss Hazel Elsom directing. And Miss Gussie Kuykendall's Women's chorus sang, "The Lord's Prayer" of Malotte-Dies and Gounaud's "Sanctus."

Is it Love? by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Chapter 13 Broadminded

Upon leaving, Riv told Sue Ellen he would be back by Christmas and if his plans worked out they would be quietly married at New Year's and Sue Ellen could go back with him to Washington. In the spring they would take a honeymoon trip to the Canadian Rockies.

Aunt Carolina made no comment when Sue Ellen confidentially told her that she might be married in the winter.

Johnny Harris did not call again at the Magnolia House. Several times he sent beautiful flowers to Aunt Carolina and Aunt Pleasant, but Sue Ellen received no messages from him. Ginny declared that she had heard nothing of him except that Toby had told her Harris might be transferred to a camp in New England.

The incident was ended. She would think no more of it.

Shortly afterwards Ginny told her that Deedora had returned to Tyler Springs. That she was out on the old Fairchild plantation.

"She looks simply awful," said Ginny. "I wonder if she was really in love with Riv Moore."

"You said that she liked Johnny Harris."

"So I did," said Ginny thoughtfully, "but she gets telephone calls from Washington and the night operator says that Riv has called her three times in the past week." She glanced knowingly at Sue Ellen.

"Probably Riv wants to talk to her father."

"Deedora's father didn't come with her. She has just one servant in that enormous place, a maid she brought from Washington."

"Well," said Sue Ellen indifferently, "that's her business, isn't it?"

"I should think it would be yours if she and Riv carry on long distance conversations," said Ginny.

Sue Ellen picked up her library books and prepared to walk away from the drug store, where she had met Ginny.

"I know Riv," said Sue Ellen confidently. "The last time he was here I talked over his friendship with Deedora and I understand it."

Ginny raised her penciled eyebrows. "You certainly are broad-minded."

The remark stung long after Sue Ellen had left the store. There was always an insinuation behind Ginny's comments, just as though she had secret information about Riv.

Someday—no, she couldn't ask Ginny or anyone else about Riv. It was only two weeks until Christmas, when Riv would be back to take her away from Tyler Springs.

The Plantation

A few days later she and Aunt Car drove out to the old plantation with Ginny in Toby's car, which he had loaned her.

"Toby would give me his head for an Easter egg if I wanted it," Ginny said lightly.

"Poor Toby," said Sue Ellen, and laughed.

"Nothing. Toby will get me—see if he doesn't," Ginny sighed.

"Toby wouldn't be bad at all if he hadn't lived all his life in these parts, so that the whole town knows his background."

"Background!" she went on. "Sometimes I'm fed up with the word. The men about here don't let it bother them any more. All they want is money—money—money! A rich father-in-law to help finance them compensates for the loss of this blue blood and a bunch of mortgages."

Sue Ellen flashed a glance at her and indicated Aunt Car sitting stiff and indignant beside them.

Ginny tactfully changed the subject and they chattered about the newly organized Red Cross organization and church activities, until they turned down a long lane and drove between rows of pecan trees, up to the dilapidated glory of Belle Acres.

"The sign's gone!" cried Aunt Car.

Sue Ellen turned to look at her. "What sign?"

Aunt Car's face was white and agitated. "There was a For Sale sign on the porch the last time I was here. Your Aunt Pleas and I drove out in the fall with Colonel Moore to settle some discussed point about our land boundary. It was then I saw the sign. Pleas was furious, but the Colonel refused to take it away and said that he might have to sell the place if we couldn't raise the interest by January."

"But this is December," Sue Ellen smiled. "I think I can explain that sign. I've asked Riv to persuade the Colonel to give us a clear title to Belle Acres for our wedding present. Maybe Riv removed the sign to please me."

Aunt Car smiled, but Ginny looked straight ahead and made no comment, which was quite unlike Ginny, unless she thought she had a different explanation for the sign's absence.

They wandered about. Aunt Car rambled around in the old rose garden. Sue Ellen and Ginny walked out to the stables which were nothing but ruins and were surprised to find that part of the main one had been torn down.

"Maybe the Colonel thought the old building a fire trap," suggested Ginny.

"You don't think that, Ginny?"

Ginny walked away from her and she followed.

"Ginny—"

"Yes."

"Let's sit down," Sue Ellen indicated a marble bench at the edge of the garden, brushed off the dust and overgrown ivy which half covered it and she and Ginny sat down. Before them lay what had once been acres of land under cultivation, a pecan orchard, great oaks, broad lawns. The house stood by itself, with its huge columns across the front and its galleries running behind them. Today its windows were dark and blank with broken panes and ugly hanging shutters.

"Who would have money enough to restore that?" Ginny waved a hand toward the house in the distance.

"I hope to have when Riv and I are married."

"Listen, Sue," Ginny whirled and her hand gripped Sue Ellen's hand tightly. "Honestly do you believe that some day you'll marry Riv Moore?"

"Marry Riv? Aren't we engaged?"

"Engaged! What does that mean? A ring, a date set when you'll wear a veil and say some words. Engaged! I've been engaged three times and broken it off. I asked you something quite different. Do you think you'll marry Riv?"

"Of course. Shall we go back?" asked Sue Ellen indignantly.

She started to rise, but Ginny dragged her down.

"You asked for it," she said bluntly. "I've thrown out hints and tried to help you and led to everyone in this town and told them you were giving Riv the toss and that was why he flirted with girls like Deedora Waller, but now this thing has gone too far. You must have heard all the talk since Deedora came back here and lives like a hermit out in the country. Ever think there might be a reason?"

"No," said Sue Ellen icily. "I'm not interested in Deedora Waller's reason for being here or concerned in whether she stays in Tyler Springs indefinitely or goes back to live with her father in Washington. Riv and I understand each other and I do not intend to wreck my future by listening to malicious gossip behind Riv's back."

"You fool!" said Ginny, and got up and walked away.

Caller

Ginny had called her a fool and that might be the opinion of others in Tyler Springs, although many would be slow to express that opinion because of Colonel Moore's influence in the community. However, Sue Ellen determined that in the future she would hold to her decision not to discuss Riv and their relations with anyone.

On the trip back to the village, Aunt Carolina talked about the condition of Belle Acres and how much it would take to put it back in good repair and Sue Ellen welcomed any topic which would take her mind off her own perplexed affairs.

"Maybe we can raise the money to redeem Belle Acres before spring," hinted Aunt Car.

"How?" asked Sue Ellen indifferently. Raising money was as big a problem as changing Riv from a fascinating flirt into a staid, sober person like Toby Tyler.

"Possibly Sue Ellen will be at Belle Acres by spring," Ginny flashed her a glance.

"Possibly I shall," said Sue Ellen stiffly.

Conversation died after that. Ginny left them at Magnolia House and sped away with her small head held high, and Sue Ellen knew that she had antagonized her. She felt disturbed and miserable and the sight of a visitor waiting in the front parlor did not heighten her spirits.

Johnny Harris arose to greet them, came forward and held out his hand. He said: "I've been away from Camp Shelby for a week. Otherwise I should have been over before this to thank you for the dinner."

He shook hands with Aunt Car, held Sue Ellen's hand longer than necessary. She pulled her hand away and murmured something about writing a letter, but a glance from her aunt made her say hastily that she could take care of that letter. She sat down across the room and stared miserably out of the window.

The episode of the afternoon had upset her, and she wondered if Johnny Harris knew the full details of that White Sulphur episode from Major Faber. The thought that he did made her burn with humiliation and a stubborn determination not to allow him to know that she cared.

As long as she outwardly persisted in clinging to Riv and their engagement, no one could be certain that the story was more than idle gossip.

Aunt Pleas came in and suggested tea and both aunts arose and left the room to prepare it. Immediately Johnny Harris came over and sat down beside her on the sofa.

"We were out to Belle Acres this afternoon," said Sue Ellen, determined to keep the conversation in safe, impersonal channels.

Several Tried In Criminal Session

With the current criminal session of Pitt Superior court moving along at a steady pace with Judge Q. K. Nimocks, Jr., of Fayetteville presiding, several more cases were disposed of yesterday afternoon and this morning.

Jackson Atkinson, colored, was acquitted of a charge of illegal possession of liquor for sale; Sam Henry Whitehurst was given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and court costs, on a charge of driving drunk; Dixie Balenger was acquitted on a worthless check charge.

Hardy Lee Washington, colored was convicted of breaking and entering and assault with a deadly weapon and given a three-to-five year sentence to the roads; William D. Shivers, colored, convicted of forgery, was given a five-year sentence, which was suspended upon payment of costs and the defendant was placed on probation for five years; Leander Garrison, colored, convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, was given three months; a worthless check charge against the Farmville Motor Co., B. O. Taylor, was nolle prossed.

Defer Sentencing Of Tobacco Firms

Army's Big Howitzers In Carolina Maneuvers

Twelve of these big 240 mm. howitzers, biggest field guns in the army, are ready for action during army maneuvers in the vicinity of Hoffman, N. C. Top: A 10-ton Diesel-engine tractor teams up with another tractor to haul the big gun into position. Bottom: The field piece is set up and ready which means hurling a 345-pound projectile as high as five miles into the air. In accuracy, it is said to compare with a rifleman hitting the bull's eye at 1,000 yards, its probable error for range being 25 yards—beyond or in front of its target—at 14,000 yards.

Ex-Student Makes Grant To College

A gift of $250 has just been received by East Carolina Teachers College from a graduate of the College, Miss Julia Mabel Taylor, of the class of 1921. In a recent letter to President Leon E. Meadows, Miss Taylor expressed a hope that the amount might go into the Loan Fund "so that some student may benefit from it," but added that she wished, however, to leave the gift in the hands of President Meadows, to use it at his discretion "for the best interests of the College and those who attend."

Miss Taylor, now field representative of the Louisiana Department of Public Welfare, with headquarters at Lafayette, La., taught for several years in North Carolina after her graduation, first in New Hanover and later in Wilson county. While teaching she began her study of social welfare work, and in 1925 she entered the University of North Carolina for a year's work in the field.

She spent a number of years in New York working with orphans, widows, and delinquent mothers, giving special attention to the placing of orphans in private homes and their care there. Since 1935 she has been in Louisiana supervising the welfare work in a number of parishes, with staffs of case workers ranging from ten in the smaller parishes to thirty in the large ones.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

KINDNESS COSTS LITTLE

A traveling man was telling me recently that some years ago he suffered a great tragedy in his family, and finally, when he started back to work, one of his fellow salesmen took a week off at his own expense so he might ride out from place to place with this betrayed friend of his and give him comfort and support as he tried to accustom himself to work again after having received a devastating blow. As they drove along, this unselfish associate tried to beguile his grieving friend from a recollection of the tragedy that had overtaken him. He gladly gave a week of his own time just to make practical and helpful the comforting spirit of friendship with which his heart was filled.

We often hear people say that it is the little things in life which count. Anyone who has long dealt with people knows very well that the little kindnesses, the thoughtful favors, the encouraging word, and the genial smile given at just the right moment, raise men from the depths of gloom and bind them for all time to their benefactors. A man who served in the last war told me of a thoughtful little conversation his superior officer had with him one day and how his spirit, which had been weighted down with disappointment and a sense of failure was given wings to rise up and soar. Kindness costs little, but mankind has never yet discovered a precious metal of equal value.

IT CAN, BUT WILL IT?

Government . . . can curb abuses in the field of labor as it curbs abuses in other fields—by penalizing those abuses and making them il-legal . . . It can punish union leaders, as it punishes ordinary mortals, for conspiring to restrain trade. It can, by proper legislation, enormously reduce labor racket-teering. All that is required is the courage to act.—(The New York Times).

DO YOUR PART

Again we bring the matter of the Community Chest to your attention. Everyone should want to have a part in contributing the funds to be used for so worthwhile a work in this community as that carried on by the participating organizations. If you will do your part there will be no doubt that the necessary goal of approximately $6,500 will be reached.

IT'S UP TO YOU, MR. PRESIDENT

In his address to the nation last night President Roosevelt said: "Our output must be multiplied. It cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small, but dangerous minority of industrial managers who hold out for extra profits, or for 'business as usual.' It cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders who are a menace to the true cause of labor itself, as well as to the nation as a whole."

I Don't See Why They Get So Excited About Me

These are fine words, Mr. President, and express the feelings of the vast majority of the citizens of this nation, but you are the one American who is in position to do something about it. Instead of waiting until public opinion voices its demand for it, why don't you assume your responsibility of leadership and use the powers of your office to put a stop to those things that are proving "a menace to the nation as a whole?"

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington—To me the moments of real drama in Congress come when one of the chambers, and particularly the House of Representatives, votes on some momentous bill on which the destiny of the nation may hang—or at least as a result of which millions of lives may be affected.

I think perhaps the drama in the House is more tense, more stirring because of the cumbersome size of that body. With its 430-odd members (there always are vacancies because of deaths and resignations); with its many shades of thought which often cut through party lines; with its limited debate, which makes it impossible for more than a small proportion of the members to express themselves; the House vote never is certain until the last "yea" or "nay" is down on the clerk's tally sheet.

The recent vote on the change in the Neutrality Act to permit the raming of merchant vessels is an example. The "scientific samplers" of House opinion had been predicting for weeks that the measure would pass by a substantial majority. Still, no one could say for sure just how large that majority would be.

The two days of debate were over. Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum of Virginia was in the chair, but as the vote came up, moved out to let Speaker Sam Rayburn take the reins. Even before the bell rings throughout the House side of the Capitol and in the House Office buildings, summoning all members to get on the floor for a vote, the swinging doors into the cloakrooms and corridor start fanning up a steady breeze as the Congressmen flock in. A minute before only a handful of members were listening, but now the parade is on.

The galleries are already full, for lobbyists, tourists and the curious can smell a vote, even if there has been no advance warning. The place is a babel of voices. Suddenly the Speaker raps for order, his gavel falling slowly and monotonously. The men in the press gallery reach for the printed pads that say "House Roll Call" and carry the name of each of the members on single lines that can be checked right and left for the ayes and nays.

Speaker Rayburn says: "The question is on the passage of the bill." The sound of voices is hardly more than a whisper. The clerk steps up to the microphone and starts calling the roll: "Allen of Illinois." "No." "No." repeats the clerk: "Allen of Louisiana." "Aye." "A."—Anderson, H. Carl—"No."

"No"—Anderson of California—"No."—"No"—and so it goes.

Often a murmur rises after some vote is cast unexpectedly. Such was the case when Rep. Hamilton Fish (died-in-the-wool Republican opponent of the administration and one of the leaders of the so-called isolationist band) voted for the merchant arming measure. Another came when Rep. Vito Marcantonio, the New York American Labor party pacifist, also voted for the bill.

Suddenly there is a flurry in the press gallery, as runners leap up the stairs to carry bulletins to the teletype operators or re-write men—or reporters on a deadline, dash for telephones. You know then the die is cast.

But down below the roll call goes on until "Zimmerman"—"Aye"—"Aye" is reached. Then a pause (sometimes a breathless one when the vote is close) and finally the vote is announced: "Ayes, 259; nays 138."

The tension folds like a grounded parachute. Two minutes more and the House and galleries have melted into small groups. It's the Act I curtain. Act II will be played by a different cast on the Senate side.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—There's nothing they can do about it except cuss and try to work out their own salvation, but bootleggers all over the state are said to be rather fearful of the State ABC board's order that half pints of whiskey be sold in the stores of the control counties.

It isn't that the purveyors of il-legal hooch fear the price competition so much—and certainly they are entirely disinterested in the contention that sale of half pints will bring less drinking rather than more.

What they do fear, however, is that the half pint will find its way into the legally arid counties, bringing with it a tremendous headache in the form of new delivery problem.

The little bottle will undoubtedly multiply handling and, as a necessary corollary, risk. Furthermore, many who now buy pints may ask for half pints, which would decrease the sales volume in proportion as it decreases consumption; or, doubtless the number of deliveries, which means adding heavily to the bootlegger's costs.

On the half pint question not all the legal stores are agreed. Chairman Robert Gray Johnson's order for half pint sales is not mandatory, merely permissive, but he thinks it would be a good thing if all counties adopt uniform practice.

The leading bootleggers in the dry counties probably cannot get together for any agreement on the subject—but it's dollars to doughnuts they'd vote against the half pint almost as a unit.

This and That

shell" of several legislatures, was in Raleigh Monday, the first time in nearly two years, he said. The firebrand from the southeast failed of election last time. He says he will not be a candidate for the 1943 General Assembly, having entirely too much "business of my own" to attend to. He claimed to have operated Page's Lake for "nineteen years without a serious accident or an arrest made on the premises."

respondent who rather bitterly com-ceived of the Martin county commissioners in the matter of taxes on timberland wrote just a few hours too soon, it appears from a second letter just received from him: "I have just sent you a letter

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. To what extent can inflation be prevented by the sale of Defense Savings Bonds?

A. To the extent they are purchased in volume sufficient to divert buying pressure from consumer goods, which tends to make prices go up. That is, if enough Americans save enough money by lending it to their government, instead of spending all they earn, further price rises tending to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar will be retarded.

Q. Are Federal employees buying Defense Savings Bonds?

A. A great majority of all Federal workers have voluntarily subscribed to regular buying plans whereby they use part of their earnings every pay period to purchase Bonds.

Note — To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

GOT A DATE? Don't neglect your Breath

If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a rancid case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rinse the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first halts the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid thousands of popular and successful people.

Carolina-State Game Tops Grid Schedule For Saturday

DUKE TO PLAY GEORGIA TECH

Wake Forest To Encounter Marshall College

Chapel Hill, Oct. 28.—With N. C. State being given the best chance to turn the tables on Carolina in more than a decade, the Tar Heels are working long and hard to get ready for their annual Homecoming and Greater University Day feature at 2 o'clock here Saturday.

In fact, reports from Raleigh say the State students started chanting, "Beat Carolina," as they fled out of the stadium following the Wolf-pack's 44-0 win over Newberry, and all indications point to a heavy turnout of State as well as Carolina alumni.

Carolina won the varsity game last year 13-7, but State took the freshmen battle 18-7, and the two teams appear well matched for the renewal of their ancient and brotherly feud. Carolina beat Davidson which tied State in early season, but State held Wake Forest to one touchdown instead of two, and thereby became the favorite by a narrow margin.

Wake Forest, Oct. 28.—Wake Forest's Deacon footballers, victorious over North Carolina's Tar Heels 13-0 last Saturday, are turning this week to their intersectional clash with Marshall College in Huntington, W. Va., Saturday afternoon.

Beginning with this week's encounter with the Big Green in Huntington, the Deacons will leave the state for their next four games. Next week, they journey to Boston College Eagles, November 15 will find the Deacs at Clemson College in South Carolina. Thanksgiving they meet George Washington in Washington, and November 29 they wind up their campaign meeting Texas Tech's Red Raiders in Charlotte.

The current setto with the Big Green will be the third in which Wake Forest has ever opposed the West Virginians. The series began in 1939, the game being played in Huntington. Last year, the rival clubs clashed here in Groves stadium. The Deacons won both these tilt—14-13 in '39 and 31-19 in '40.

Durham, Oct. 29.—A tall, rangy Georgian named Bob Burnett will run at the head of the column when Duke's Blue Devils of football move into Grant field in Atlanta for Saturday's stiff test against Georgia Tech.

It will be a big moment for Bob Barnett, the 1941 Blue Devil captain. It will be the biggest thrill in a football career that began one sunny day in 1939 on that same Grant field when a gangling scrub center got his first varsity chance under Wallace Wade.

Two years ago, Barnett went to Atlanta with the Duke squad. He went as an unheralded reserve—ostensibly, just for the ride and the chance to see the home folks who were coming over from Albany, Ga., to see the Duke-Tech game.

When Bob Barnett boarded the train after the thrilling 7-6 victory was won, he was no longer unheralded. He was a hero—a great career had been foreshadowed that afternoon.

For when Tech was threatening late in the game and an injury had benched Duke's first-string pivot man, Coach Wade put up to this fiery Georgia youngster. It was a hunch, and a good one at that.

Barnett helped to stave off a touchdown foray by the Yellow Jackets—intercepted a pass that might have meant the winning score. He left Grant field with his name in the headlines.

That chance was all Bob needed. He was an alternate the rest of his sophomore year and took over as a regular in 1940, turning in one great performance after another and winning All-Conference recognition.

Saturday he goes back to his home state—not as an unsung reserve—but as the fine leader of a Blue Devil team that is undefeated in five straight starts. Duke may win or lose, but it will be a personal triumph for Bob Barnett.

Wallace Wade's hunch was, indeed, a master stroke of coaching genius.

Lions Victorious In New Passball Sport

The new aerial game of passball is attracting many new players and yesterday at West Greenville the Lions scored a 35-28 victory over the Bears.

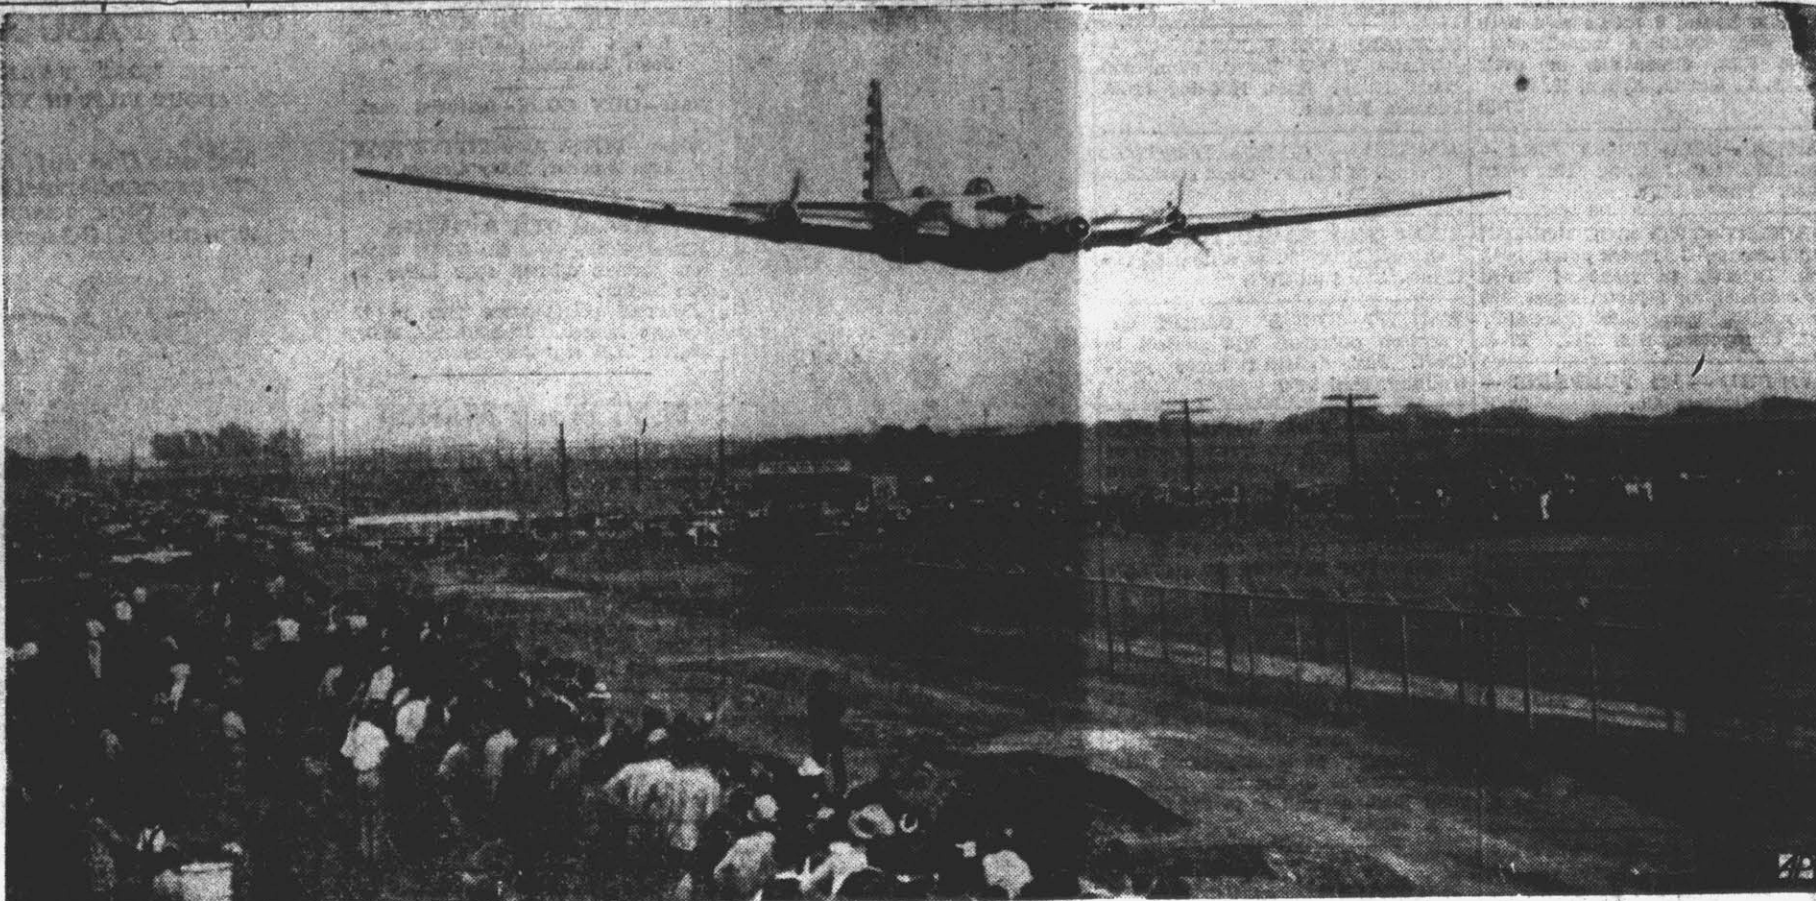

Outstanding for the Lions were Nannie Lou Wingate, Kay Brantley, Mack Nichols and J. J. Campbell, while Jimmy Morton, Lee Richards, Charles Williams and Herbert Griffin were the stars for the losing Bears.

Spanish Favored By Students

New York.—(AP)—In the public schools of the city, French—long the most popular of all foreign tongues—continues to be the pupils' favorite, but its pulling power is dwindling rapidly since France fell under the Nazi yoke. German and Italian are also falling off.

In contrast, Spanish classes are enjoying a tremendous boom, the number of students doubling from about 4,000. French still draws 21,000, German 1,300.

PAY TAXES ON TIMBER LANDS

Declares Levies Same As For Cultivated Land

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—A Pinetown correspondent writes this bureau that he has found that any effort to grow or conserve timber in his section of the state is "unusual," and that "the state and county officers in most states" force private owners to slaughter owners through the power of taxation.

His letter was in comment on a story recently sent out by this bureau and based on the views of State Forester J. S. Holmes on "Timber and National Defense." The forester declared that the policy of the state should be to prevent wanton and reckless cutting of timber and by law, if necessary, force landowners to adopt reforestation measures.

The Pinetown man, who says he owns 9,600 acres in Martin county, says flatly that the policies of the officials in that section will not permit any such program, much less encourage it.

His point seems to be that the taxation of timber land at the same value as cleared and farmed land simply forces the owner to cut off his timber as fast as he can, then clear out.

The letter is given in full: "I am interested in your article on forest conservation—I suppose you are fully aware that the state and county officers in most states force private owner to slaughter their timber through the power of taxation."

"I own 160 acres in Wisconsin, 80 acres clear and 80 acres in beautiful timber of many varieties. For years I rented the farm for $400, which was $5 per acre for the plowed ground. The tenant would pay no rent on the wooded part. When I became too short of money to carry the load of taxation on the timbered part (which was just as high as the cultivated part) I was forced to clear the land of the beautiful timber. Ten years ago I came to North Carolina and bought 9,600 acres at a tax sale in Martin county.

"I did not live here then and I thought I had purchased 15,000 acres. One dollar that year was worth $10 today. One year ago I came to North Carolina and announced my intention of growing timber on this tract. I finally discovered that I did not have 15,000 as the county had billed me for from year to year and all of which I had paid for; but 9,600 acres. I figured that I had wrongfully been charged and paid $1,200 or more money in taxes than the county had any right to collect. I went before the board and set forth my case, but was refused any consideration.

"I had already built a house in the middle of the tract, costing me some $1,600, cleared 35 acres around the house, built fences, etc. In all I would say about $2,500 in expenses. "Most people in this section sell all the timber they can. I think my idea of trying to grow timber was unusual in this section.

"When I received word of the action of the board, I knew there was no chance for me as my property could be confiscated at any time by a majority of the county board. "They seem to all have about the same idea—Sell all you can, get the money and run before someone gets you.

"I am not complaining. I just know that I must operate the same as the balance of the natives. I am now cutting some of the timber and expect to sell and cut all I can get a market for."

Auxiliary ships in the Navy which carry tongue twisting names get them from bodies of water and American Indians. Destroyer tenders are named after natural areas in the United States; large seaplane tenders after bays, straits and inlets; ocean-going tugs after Indian tribes and harbor tugs after Indian chiefs and poignant Indian words and phrases.

Principal Speaker

John T. Richardson, above, of Raleigh, president of the North Carolina Association of Life Underwriters, will be the principal speaker at the Eastern Carolina division meeting of the association to be held at the Woman's club building on Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock.

He will speak on the subject "Prospecting" and, approximately 200 insurance men from all sections of Eastern Carolina have been invited to attend.

Following the invocation by P. L. Goodson, local agent, opening the meeting, Mayor B. B. Sugg will welcome the visitors to the city. Jake Hadley, president of the Pitt County Underwriters Association, will recognize guests.

Following the dinner, Denton Rossell, director of the local music department of the college, will present an entertainment program. The program next lists Mr. Richardson's address. Other speakers scheduled for brief talks include William Shaw of Rocky Mount, who will speak on trust agreements; W. H. Andrews of Greensboro, who will discuss the career underwriter and his services to the insuring public; A. B. Carroll of Wilson and Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of the local college.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The stock market tried to dig in on the recovery front today and, while successful in spots, buying power still was of the timid variety. Hesitancy was the rule at the opening. Bidding then began to come in here and there and dealings picked up momentarily. While there was a subsequent slowdown, fractional comebacks were plentiful near the fourth hour.

PERMANENCE AND USEFULNESS ARE NOT ACCIDENTS — THEY MUST BE PLANNED. — Permanent Banks like permanent businesses and permanent businesses like permanent buildings must have solid foundations. The organizers of this Bank laid for it a permanent foundation. The Good Will of a generous and appreciative public built the permanent structure you see above. State Bank is justly proud of its founders and equally proud and appreciative of the business which public good will has built. We are equally proud of the fact that we are Pitt County's youngest and largest unit bank.
