NAVY REVEALS TANKER TORPEDOED

Axis Troops Ready To Start Storming Sevastopol

NEARING CITY ON BLACK SEA

Invaders Declared Have Driven Twenty Miles Across Crimea In Seven Days; London Acknowledges Black Sea Port Already Immobilized By Germans For Operations Against Soviet Fleet

By The Associated Press German field batteries were reported shelling Russia's great Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol today and Nazi front line dispatches declared that after driving 90 miles across the Crimea in seven days Axis troops were ready to storm the city "within a very few hours."

Advices reaching London conceded that the Germans already had immobilized Sevastopol as a base for operations against the Soviet Black Sea fleet. A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said German troops knifing clear across the Crimea had captured the eastern coastal town of Eudossiya on the southern side of a narrow isthmus leading to the Kerch strait perhaps thereby cutting off the eastern avenue of escape to the Caucasus.

German dispatches said the Red armies trapped in the Crimea—variously estimated to number from 250,000 to 500,000—faced almost inevitable annihilation and that the shattered remnants were fleeing heading to the sea in the hope of duplicating the British withdrawal from Dunkerque.

United States pressure on Finland to end her war with Russia touched off a comment in the Wilhelmstrasse with a German foreign office spokesman declaring: "No words are sharp enough to characterize Washington's glib methods whereby the government, with gangsters at its head, in Jewish shamelessness and with pitiful dilletantism, tries to tell the Finnish people what to do."

Simultaneously, the Finnish command announced the capture of the Kovitsa islands in the Gulf of Finland whose fortresses served as the western anchor of the Mannerheim line in the 1939-40 winter war between Finland and Russia.

Kuibyshev, Russia, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Germans have opened a heavy offensive toward the strategic Caucasus gateway city of Rostov under the direction of the veteran tank army commander, Col. General Von Kleist, dispatches from the front disclosed today.

LORD HALIFAX

Detroit, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Women peace demonstrators showered eggs and tomatoes on Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, today as he entered the Chancery building on Washington boulevard in downtown Detroit for a meeting with Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit.

CLAIMS MADE BY BOTH SIDES

Britain And Germany Claims Successes At Sea

London, Nov. 4.—(AP)—British sailors have intercepted and boarded five Vichy French merchantmen and prevented the scuttling of three of them in an action which "is still proceeding" off the South African coast, the Admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty charged the French with attempting to convey contraband supplies for the Germans from the East, presumably from the Indian ocean or the Orient.

At the same time a night battle in the English channel was announced in which the Admiralty said patrol vessels engaged the escorts of a strongly-protected Axis convoy.

In the latter battle, the British said, they shot two torpedoes into a large supply vessel, probably sinking it, probably damaged some of the Axis escorts and in return suffered slight damage to one of their own patrol ships.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The German high command announced today that Nazi submarines and bombing planes had sunk a destroyer and 14 merchant ships totaling 73,000 tons in a new series of attacks on Great Britain's vital supply lines.

Eleven of the ships aggregating 53,000 tons were sent to the bottom by submarines which attacked a convoy in the Atlantic, a special announcement from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said.

BOND ELECTION IS CHALLENGED BY HENDERSON

Commissioners Defer Certification Of Returns

TO MEET AGAIN NOVEMBER 17TH Question Of Illegal Registration And Technicalities Are Brought Out By Local Citizen

After hearing E. L. Henderson challenge the validity of the recent $250,000 school bond election on several technicalities, the County Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon recessed their meeting until Monday, November 17, without formally certifying the vote, which was declared to have carried 625 to 252.

Mr. Henderson, who was the principal opponent to the issue and the school program outlined, declared he represented a number of citizens throughout the school district.

One of his contentions that the election was not valid was that in the official call setting out the boundaries of the district, the highway No. 91 was referred to in describing the Greenville-Farmville highway, whereas the highway actually is No. 264.

Another contention was that persons were registered without being present, registered by other persons, contrary to law. Some of the commissioners raised the question if challenge day, the Saturday prior to the election, was not the proper time to have taken up the question of improper registrations.

Mr. Henderson also referred to minutes of the School Board, concluding that, according to the minutes, it was proposed to do certain things with part of the money contrary to law. He contended that the school board proposed to pay outstanding debts of the schools with part of the money and argued that this was illegal.

While Mr. Henderson did not make a definite statement, members of the board said he indicated that he proposed to present his charges and contentions in writing and probably take other steps to present his arguments.

One section of the form certifying the election states that no complaints have been registered against the regularity of the election and complaints having been made, the county board deferred action.

Under the law, the Board of Commissioners have to call the election, after it has been submitted by the district school board, the city governing body and the County Board of Education.

LINE OF MARCH IS DISCLOSED

Armistice Day Parade Plans Revealed by Chairman

Participants and the line of march for the Armistice Day parade here next Tuesday were announced today by Arthur B. Corey, chairman of the committee in charge of this particular phase of the program.

The day's program being sponsored by the two Legion posts in the county, Greenville and Farmville, will be featured by an address by Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, World War Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, Raleigh publisher, has just resigned his post as ambassador to Mexico and will be back in the United States and here for the celebration.

The parade will start from the Armory promptly at 10:15, proceed down Evans street to Five Points, thence along East Fifth street to the college, arriving in time for the beginning of the program in the Wright Memorial auditorium.

The parade will line up as follows: College band, ex-service men, High School band, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, members of the colored Legion post and a colored band.

It will be concluded in time to start the program just prior to the one-minute silence of prayer and tribute to soldiers who died in service, scheduled for 11 o'clock.

The public in general and all ex-service men in particular are invited to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Mr. Daniels, who has been in public life for many years.

Immediately following the program, a barbecue dinner will be served on the college picnic grounds for all ex-service men of the county.

One Writer Says Time Has Come For A Showdown

(By The Associated Press) Japanese newspapers renewed their anti-American editorial campaign today, declaring that "the time has come for the final showdown."

One newspaper said Japan must assume the failure of Tokyo-Washington talks unless the United States changed its present attitude.

The Japanese cabinet spokesman told newsmen Japan still awaited official reports before formulating her attitude on the German declaration that the Reich had been "attacked" by the United States.

Under the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance the Axis partners are bound to aid one another if one of them is attacked by a power not involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Far East observers considered it unlikely, however, that Japan would feel herself obligated to declare war on the United States over "incidents" at sea.

Urges Cooperation In Blackout Order

Raleigh, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne warned today that unless North Carolinians observed an OPM order blacking out store windows and decorative lighting "our people may be forced to suffer."

The commissioner, who has opposed any power rationing in North Carolina said nonetheless that since the order had been issued it had to be observed.

Violators, he said, may find themselves completely cut off from power connections.

"The better cooperation North Carolinians give to the ruling, the better chance we will have of having the ruling lifted."

SUCCESS SEEN FOR CAMPAIGN

Follow-up Chest Campaign Off To A Grand Start

A degree of enthusiasm seldom evident in a campaign of any kind to raise money was exhibited here at a breakfast marking the opening of a Community Chest mop-up campaign today.

Charles W. Bissette, campaign chairman, declared that it was the most enthusiastic group of workers he had ever seen and said this spirit was netting the desired result.

He reported that several workers got an early start and were ready to make encouraging reports even before the noon hour.

"I don't see how we can fail," he stated.

The extensive follow-up campaign which got under way this morning and continued throughout the day will be concluded tomorrow.

Following preliminary reports this morning, Chairman Bissette moved the thermometers recording the progress of the campaign up to the $5,500 mark, only $1,000 short of the $6,500 goal adopted to meet the requirements of the seven participating agencies.

Although stating that every effort would be made to see every citizen, Chairman Bissette urged anyone not called on to call or see either him or Treasurer Jonathan Overton, who will be found at the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

TO CONFER ON MODIFICATION OF OPM ORDER

Five Per Cent Power Curtailment May Be Eased

STATE MUST AID DROUGHT AREAS

OPM Power Division Executives and Management Of Power Companies To Confer In Charlotte

Charlotte, Nov. 4.—(AP) Executives of the power division of the Office of Production Management and of power companies of the Carolinas will meet here tomorrow to consider possibilities of modifying the OPM order for a five per cent curtailment of power consumption by non-defense industries of the two states.

The order is effective Monday unless modified meanwhile. This conference, officials explained, has no relation to the power "blackout" for non-essential commercial advertising and display lighting which was put into effect last night for an indefinite duration pending relief from a drought which has curtailed power production in southwestern states.

J. A. Krug, chief of the OPM power division, said the conference tomorrow would be "to determine finally whether or not all the five per cent curtailment by non-defense and industrial customers of power companies."

He said the OPM was determined to assure an adequate supply of power for the Aluminum Company of America plant at Bacin and to load up all power transmission lines out of the Carolinas into the drought-stricken defense production areas of the southeast.

There was no general observance of the OPM blackout order in North Carolina last night. Many show windows and signs were aglow in Raleigh, Durham, however, reported that all theaters, stores and other businesses cut off signs, show windows and other unnecessary lighting. Charlotte and Greensboro cooperated nearly 100 per cent.

Liquor Still Found In Chicod Township

Pitt county ABC officers yesterday located and destroyed 50-gallon capacity steam liquor still in Chicod township near Simpson, in the same section where another plant was destroyed last month.

The still was not in operation and no one was at the plant. Officers said the still had been located at the site only a short while, leading to the belief it was set up after the one was destroyed in the same location last month.

One hundred gallons of mash ready for distillation and 30 gallons of spent mash were found at the site and destroyed, along with a doubler, cooler, cooling barrel and other equipment.

History Of Library Here Traced By Mrs. R. L. Carr

As the Sheppard Memorial Library joins in the nation-wide celebration of Book Week it feels that this letter from Mrs. Robert L. Carr will be avidly read by everyone in Pitt county. Mrs. Carr interestingly tells the history and development of the present library from its earliest beginnings. We quote from Mrs. Carr's letter below:

"It seems that I can hear a telephone ringing and your voice saying 'Elizabeth and the Evans Street School is on fire and the library is burning.' By the time that Dr. Carr, James Ficklen and I got there we found the building ready to collapse. Robert's and Jim's length counted for much that morning, as they stood on the ground, reached through a window and brought out something. It was the vital thing needed—the complete file of all the books and furnishings of the rooms which made collecting the insurance a routine matter.

No Further Loss Of Life By Incident

Salinas Declared To Have Been Attacked Without Warning

Wednesday Night While On Convoy Duty Southwest Of Iceland; Vessel Is Fourth U.S. Warship To Be Involved In Torpedings

Washington, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Navy announced today another torpedoing in North Atlantic waters—that of the United States naval tanker Salinas—but said that happily there was no further loss of life to add to the 97 men presumed lost on the sunken destroyer Reuben James.

The Salinas was "torpedoed without warning," a terse Navy statement said. Seriously damaged, she made her way to port.

"No details of the damage will be released as it will be of no value except to the Nazis," the Navy said in disclosing that the tanker was hit Wednesday night southwest of Iceland.

This was one day before and in the same general area where the Reuben James, first American warship to be lost in the battle of the Atlantic, went down.

The 16,900-ton Salinas was in a convoy when attacked, the Navy said.

Counted also as victims of the ocean warfare were 13 more Navy men killed in the crash of a big patrol bomber some where at sea.

The Salinas is commanded by Commander Harley F. Cope of New Orleans, La. It was built for the U. S. Shipping Board in 1920 and was transferred to the Navy in 1921. The Navy said the Salinas had a complement of 197 men and is armed, carrying two five-inch guns and a battery of anti-aircraft guns.

The vessel was the fourth United States warship to be involved in a torpedoing incident in a period of two months, the others being the destroyers Greer, Kearny and Reuben James.

The Reuben James had 142 men aboard and of those the Navy Department announced last night that it held little hope for the rescue of seven officers and 88 enlisted seamen.

The Navy report also showed that one man died shortly after being rescued, that the body of another man was recovered and that in addition to those two the others actually accounted for numbered eight injured and 37 uninjured.

Washington, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Navy Department announced today it had abandoned hope for finding the seven officers and 88 enlisted men lost in the torpedo sinking of the destroyer Reuben James.

Intensive search has been made in the area west of Iceland where the ship went down last Thursday night, the Department reported, but searching vessels, as previously announced, found only one man's body in the water and rescued 46 other enlisted men, one of whom died two days after being rescued.

Of the 142 officers and men aboard the destroyer, only eight wounded men and 37 uninjured survive.

From the reports received in the attack on the U. S. S. Reuben James, it was during complete darkness," the Navy said in its latest report. "The destroyer was suddenly struck on the portside amidship with the result that the vessel was broken in two. The forward part sank immediately and the after section within a few minutes afterwards." (Continued on page six)

Illustrated Lecture.

The Raleigh Garden Club will sponsor an illustrated lecture on "The Restoration of Williamsburg," in the ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh, at 8:30 p. m., on Monday, November 10.

The lecture, by Sidney N. Shurcliff of Boston, is a well known landscape architect, whose firm has been responsible not only for the design of all the gardens and landscape work of the restoration, but also for much of the historical research.

Mr. Shurcliff will be introduced by Gov. J. Melville Broughton.

Class in Block Printing.

Beginning this week a class in Block Printing will be offered at the local Art Gallery, open to anyone interested in learning to work in this interesting and useful medium.

Miss Ruth Henry, new art supervisor in the city schools, will teach this class, which will meet each Tuesday night from 7 to 9 o'clock through the month of November, in the gallery work room on the basement floor of Sheppard Memorial Library.

There will be no charge for this instruction, the only cost to class members being the actual cost of the material they purchase for their own use.

The necessary tools will be provided by the gallery. It is the hope of the gallery board of sponsors that a number of people from Greenville and the surrounding vicinity will take advantage of this chance to learn block printing, an art which has many uses not only for such things as personal Christmas cards, calendars, book plates, etc., but also for decorating draperies, table covers, and other articles for home use and enjoyment.

Christian Science Service. "Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 2.

The golden text was from Prov. 14:34. "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." (Gal. 6:7-8).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The design of Love is to reform the sinner. If the sinner's punishment here has been insufficient to reform him, the good man's heaven would be a hell to the sinner. They who know not purity and affection by experience, can never find bliss in the blessed company of Truth and Love simply through translation into another sphere. To remit the penalty due for sin would be for Truth to pardon error. Escape from punishment is not in accordance with God's government, since justice is the handmaid of mercy."

Service League Meets. Mrs. W. S. Bost presided over the meeting of the Service League Monday morning in the Sheppard Memorial Library. The newly elected members were welcomed by Mrs. Bost. She asked Mrs. R. C. Stokes Jr. to speak to these members on "What is the Service League?" This was a wise selection for Mrs. Stokes was one of the charter members of the League and its first president.

All phases of the League's work are near Mrs. Stokes' heart. She made this talk to the new members from her wide experience of League work and her heart full of devotion to its cause.

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the Thrift Shop, reported that the shop had served many people during the past month. As there has been a great demand for children's warm clothes and shoes, the League voted to purchase a certain amount of warm underwear, shoes and sweaters for children, to take care of this demand that cannot be met by the voluntary gifts of children's clothes that come to the Thrift Shop.

Mrs. R. C. Stokes chairman, Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse in Pitt General Hospital, reported that two patients had occupied the bed during the past month, one

SPOTLIGHT ON RACE IN N. Y.

Off-Year Elections Being Held in Few States

By The Associated Press

Odd-year elections, highlighted by the LaGuardia-O'Dwyer majority contest in New York city, drew voters to the polls in a handful of states today to select state and city officers and legislators, one governor and two congressmen.

The day provided no clear-cut opportunity to gauge the electorate's sentiment on the question of peace or war, for a country-wide balloting will take place until the Senate and House and gubernatorial races a year from now.

President Roosevelt planned to vote early in his home township elections in Hyde Park, N. Y. Only four states—New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky—had state-wide voting.

Heaviest balloting was predicted in New York city where Mayor F. H. LaGuardia sought a third term against the Republican, American Labor, City Fusion and United City party labels. He was opposed by Brooklyn's District Attorney William O'Dwyer, regular democratic nominee.

A contest marked by name-calling, it involved a strange political alliance. In supporting LaGuardia, President Roosevelt was ranged along side Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee, and Thomas E. Dewey, a candidate for the nomination Willkie won.

O'Dwyer had the backing of Gov. Herbert Lehman, National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn and State Democratic Chairman James A. Farley.

The Massachusetts senate, who has approved many administration foreign policy steps, joined with Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.), another in the same category, in announcing that he would vote to arm merchantships, but could not support a move to send them to belligerent ports because that might involve the United States in overseas warfare.

The two spoke in the Senate's eighth day of debate on proposed neutrality law changes after Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), urging speedy passage of the pending legislation, had declared that this country must prepare its defenses on the theory that "dictators some day may control the resources of Europe, Asia and Africa."

Lodge, a Reserve Army captain, agreed with Bilbo that the United States was not prepared to go into the war at this time.

"The issue is simply one of sound military judgment," Lodge said. "Any step which hastens the day when our men will be wanted overseas is a step to be resisted for many reasons, one of which is we are not ready to send our armed forces abroad, even if we wanted to do so."

"The most that can be said today is that we have an army in the making which you can not lick Hitler with that kind of an army."

Bilbo said it was "inescapable conviction" that repeal of the safeguarding provisions of the neutrality act "would be nothing short of a long, swift stride toward war—a war for which we are yet woefully unprepared."

Good Time Had By Rotary Club Here

Roy Martin, vice president of the Greenville Rotary Club, presided over last night's meeting which was well attended.

The attendance committee of which Johnnie Overton is chairman conducted an enjoyable program which consisted of songs by the club members, and an old-fashioned spelling match under the direction of Dr. Carl Adams. Wyatt Brown was appointed captain of the 'Blues' and Robert Darr, captain of the 'Reds.' Each captain selected eight additional Rotarians to make the team. The Rotarians proved themselves to be good spellers and it was an interesting and enjoyable program.

Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville, Dr. Chas. Willis of Rocky Mount, Adrian Brown of Tarboro, and Sam Brody of Sumter, S. C., were visiting Rotarians at last night's meeting.

SPEAK AGAINST BAN ON SHIPS

Lodge And Bilbo for Retaining Port Restrictions

Washington, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Declaring that "we are going too fast," Senator Lodge (R-Mas.) told the Senate today he would vote against repeal of a provision of the neutrality act barring American merchantships from Europe's war zones.

The Massachusetts senate, who has approved many administration foreign policy steps, joined with Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.), another in the same category, in announcing that he would vote to arm merchantships, but could not support a move to send them to belligerent ports because that might involve the United States in overseas warfare.

The two spoke in the Senate's eighth day of debate on proposed neutrality law changes after Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), urging speedy passage of the pending legislation, had declared that this country must prepare its defenses on the theory that "dictators some day may control the resources of Europe, Asia and Africa."

Lodge, a Reserve Army captain, agreed with Bilbo that the United States was not prepared to go into the war at this time.

"The issue is simply one of sound military judgment," Lodge said. "Any step which hastens the day when our men will be wanted overseas is a step to be resisted for many reasons, one of which is we are not ready to send our armed forces abroad, even if we wanted to do so."

Bilbo said it was "inescapable conviction" that repeal of the safeguarding provisions of the neutrality act "would be nothing short of a long, swift stride toward war—a war for which we are yet woefully unprepared."

Demonstration On Canning Arranged

Demonstrations in the proper methods of canning will be conducted by a representative of a nationally-known manufacturer of canning equipment, the Burpee Can Sealer Company, in the new classroom building in the Home Economics department of East Carolina Teachers College on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The demonstration, arranged by Miss Verona Lee Joyner, home demonstrator, will be conducted by D. E. Hall.

Everyone is invited, but an especial invitation is extended to the home folk, it being explained that an easier, quicker job of canning is done when the husband understands this particular home problem.

Everyone attending the demonstration is invited to bring their own canning equipment, regardless of what they manufactured it, as a free check-up will be provided by the representative, who has had experience repairing all makes of equipment.

Boy Scouts Examined At Board Of Review

At the Board of Review held at the Christian Church last night four Scouts were examined in tests for the second and first class ranks. None of those examined completed the 12 requirements for the rank but all were approved on six or more of the tests.

The Scouts appearing before the board of review were: Jesse Hardy, troop 37; Leonard Culbreth, troop 37; Joe Goodson, troop 30; and Moulton Massey, troop 30. C. W. Bourne is chairman of the Board of Review. Other examiners were Wyatt Brown and A. L. Hodges.

The next Board of Review will be held the first Monday in December.

Fewer Farm Workers

Columbus, O.—(AP)—The total number of persons working on farms in the United States this fall is the lowest since the U. S. Department of Agriculture began keeping records in 1925, according to the Department of Rural Economics at Ohio State University.

Part of the decline is due, according to economists, to the fact that labor has left the farm for more remunerative jobs in industry.

MRS. R. L. CARR

After the small library was built, and the possibilities for service, in having an adequate building were seen, we began to think that the time had come when we could ask Mr. Sheppard for a gift. So a letter was written telling Mr. Sheppard what the clubs of the town had done to provide a library, what the aldermen had done, what the school board had done, and what many private citizens had done.

you remember the three conditions? First that the town provide a site, second that he name two of a building committee of three. Dr. Carr and Haywood Dail were his choice, and James Picklen the choice of the library board. Third, that all future support of the library was to be assumed by the citizens of Greenville.

for years, and that nothing should be omitted and that what was needed for its beauty or service. It was on October 17, 1930, that the Sheppard Memorial was formally presented to the town by Mr. Sheppard's son, Lawrence, with many friends from over the State present, and Dr. Frank Graham making the address.

Stand by, please, for correction. In our essay on Martin Block, the piper of the Make Believe Ballroom, we said he bought his time direct from station WNEW and resold it to clients. This isn't true. He isn't allowed to operate that way. His income is derived from salary, and from commissions on new clients attracted to the station. That is all.

And another thing! The hotels and restaurants in the theatrical district could well take a tip from the Hotel Astor, which makes theater-going a little easier for its patrons who wish to have dinner before the curtain rises. On its menus are listed the titles of every play on Broadway, and every motion picture, with the address and the starting time. For instance, "Best Foot Forward," the musical, has an 8:30 curtain. But "Arsenic and Old Lace" has an 8:40 curtain. This is important to know. Traffic at this hour is all but impregnable. If you want to get there on time, ten minutes make a whale of a difference. I do not know of another restaurant or hotel dining room in New York that provides this little courtesy.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE GROW BY CHOOSING
How glad we would be on many an occasion if we were not required to make a choice. Many a time when we are bewildered and overwhelmed we wish that somebody would come and choose for us.

And yet we would be weak creatures indeed if we did not continually exercise our power to choose.
It has been said that character is the ability to choose well, and nobody chooses well who has not practiced the art of choosing for a long time.

We are told in the Bible that God made man after His own image, and certainly this statement means, among other things, that God has conferred upon human beings that most divine of all prerogatives, the right to choose between alternatives.
The Garden of Eden story means that when confronted with the opportunity to learn through obedience or to learn through experience,
man deliberately chose the latter.
It appears that God has decided that the training of our characters shall take place in the experience of choosing between two or more possibilities.

We make a mistake when we do
all the choosing for our children.
They grow by making choices, although of course they must be buddled considerably in their choosing.
And we make a mistake when we complain against the hardness of life or its complexity because we have to confront the problem of choice. It is by this means that our minds and spirits mature.

FREE NATIONS OWE POLES A DEBT

(Scottish Elite News)

If any nation knows what war means, Poland does.
Never in recent history has humanity been so disregarded
as in the case of Nazi aggressions on Poland. Never has a conqueror been so ruthless in his complete suppression of a formerly free people.

France, Holland, Belgium
and the Balkan countries have been beaten, too. But only upon Poland has Hitler installed the full terror of his new European order. The cruelties in France have been tame compared to those inflicted on the great

Taking Out The Clinker

Polish people.
Poland is being slowly murdered by Hitler, but its resistance and brave stubbornness is one of the miracle tales of this war. Poland has found no more glory
than the continued fight against Hitlerism it is waging today. Polish bravery is legendary, and today is standing as a torch for other conquered countries to take up. Even the British, stubborn and brave as they are,
sometimes have to magnify
their own concepts of bravery to understand Poland's fight.

There is a large Polish army in England ready for action wherever it should be sent, many more troops in the East helping the British,
and, in Russia, is a large Polish army composed of former prisoners. Poles are maintaining a merchant marine for the British and the Polish aviators in the R.A.F. have been a great help in raids over the continent. They have shown what it means to believe in a cause.

Unlike the appeasement group the world over, the Poles are a living example of the crusade against Hitlerism. They refuse to believe that Hitler is a man of destiny, that Germany is a predestined "greatest" nation. The Poles have faith in the world in which we live.
They refuse to believe that everything is lost because the conqueror has bared his fangs. There are no appeas-ers among the Poles and there is none who believes that man is inferior to Hitler's robots wrapped in the swastika. For all of its present woe, Poland still holds a place high among nations.

Some of Poland's spirit could be recaptured by the timid groups seeking an easy way out. America, like Poland, can stand in the right place by following Poland's example. That country has already paid its debt to free nations by fighting back
when the cause seemed lost.
Apparently beaten, Poland went on fighting from the sea and from other lands.

The United States can pay back its debt to Poland by joining the fight all-out. Poland has paid a debt to humanity and now humanity owes Poland its greatest support, and as soon as possible.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington — When Washington
goes for sports, it goes all out. Proof is the phenomenal way official and unofficial Washington packs Griffith Stadium and junkies to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and Chicago to see their football team, the Redskins battle
the other professional teams of the National League.

Not even in New York or Chicago do the fans turn out any better than in Washington, where the Redskins play to an average of more than 30,000 persons per game. Six years ago, the same team (but not of course with the same players) was a Boston team, winning 50 per cent or more of its games every year and drawing a weekly gate of between two and three thousands.

What other pro or even college team could boast of having such a fellow as Secretary of Commerce
Gerald P. Nye, OFM
Co-Director William S. Knudsen and Jesse Jones all sitting in the same box and following in unison for the same cause — victory of the Redskins.

I have been through some of these pro games. I have seen crowds limited only by the number of seats that could be jammed into the stadium, droop like wet chicks at a Redskins defeat or go wild with excitement when Baugh tossed one of his bullet passes to Ed Justice in the end zone to give the team a last-minute victory.

What I asked Redskins' Owner
George P. Marshall, do you think accounts for this all-out enthusiasm of the nation's capital for pro football. (Marshall owned the team in Boston when every customer for 3,000 probably could have gotten in for two peanuts and an unbent pin.)

Some of his theories are an interesting dissertation on what makes Washington, D. C. different from the rest of the United States.

For example: Washington is made up of a heterogeneous population.
The folks here come from everywhere. Their home state ties are strong. And 17 of those home states are represented by the 33
members of the Redskins squad (actually there are 22 because a number of the boys starred on teams in colleges or universities in other than their native states.)

Jesse Jones, for example, didn't know a punt from a wing back — and didn't care — until he went out one Sunday to see those prides of Texas, Sammy Baugh and Dick Todd, do their stuff. Now, he knows more rules than a referee and can discourse at length on the standing and stars of nearly every team in Texas, as well as those of the pro league. As with Jones, so with most of governmental Washington.

In the case of many of the lesser lights in government employ, there is one added factor. Most of them come from small towns and small colleges. Their teams were strictly in the bush leagues. Now, they have something to root for that not only is big time, but is close to tops
on the major circuit.

On the more prosaic side, of course is the fact that Washington is NOT a big college football town and those who love the sport have to satisfy themselves with the pros
or not at all.

Still that alone wouldn't account

Around... Capital Square

By BOB THOMPSON
Raleigh, Nov. 4.—One of the stipulations made by Governor and Mrs.
Broughton when they agreed to take four visiting soldiers at the mansion was that the men go with them to the Baptist church. But when the four corporals turned up it soon developed that one of them was a Catholic. Posthaste the Governor telephoned Assistant Revenue Commissioner Bill Spain, a Catholic, and had him rush around to the mansion, take the young man to early mass and bring him back in time for the Broughtons to take him to the Baptist church.

The reason the Governor was able to overcome the difficulty so quickly may have been the fact that he has always kept in close touch with Wake Forest and its football team.
Over there they have frequently had similar problems with some of the football players.

'Sheriff' White
It begins to look as if a thorn is about to remove Jesse from the tender flesh of Mr. Oscar Pitts state director of prisons, politics and patronage. The thorn is Capers White who used to be in charge of state prison camps in Guilford but who was rather active in the campaign of W. P. Horton for governor and got fired about three minutes after Pitts got promoted to his present job. Two days after White was discharged, State Auditor George Ross Pou, another active Hortontite, hired him as deputy auditor. Pitts termed Pou's act as a "slap in Governor Broughton's face" and the presence of White on the payroll has irked him ever since. But now White may relieve Pitts' pain. He is telling "it around Capital Square that his present intention is to run against Joe Phipps, the incumbent, for sheriff of Guilford county. Moreover, he says that the probable candidacy of Guilford Deputy Sheriff John Story for the same place won't cause him to change his mind.

Wonder how much influence Pitts' present superintendent of the Greensboro camp has in Guilford?
Wonder what Pitts will have him do
if White runs?

Torture
Governor Broughton and Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill recently received a letter from an indignant woman. She accused the two of subjecting her to the case of Shep-erose Holland white man who was sentenced to death for the insurance murder of his small stepson and who has since been given 14 reprieves while the governor and Gill try to make up their mind
whether or not to let him die.

The lady accused the governor of "torturing the man with reprieves."
Maybe he was guilty, the governor answered, but so far, he wrote, he hadn't had any kicks from Shep-erose.

Phantom Bees Handed 6-0 Setback By Roanoke Rapids

MIDGETS ALSO ARE DEFEATED

Games Played at Guy Smith Park Yesterday P.M.

The Phantom Bees suffered their second setback of the season yesterday at Guy Smith stadium at the hands of the Roanoke Rapids Bees by the score of 6-0.

Neither team could get going any sustained offensive, although the visitors did make two successive first downs just before they scored in the second period. Successful aerial thrusts by the visitors had put the locals back on their heels before the visitors took over on a short kick.

The Phantoms looked good at times but just when they seemed to be heading for pay dirt, their offense would sputter and die. Several times in the last half the young Phantoms would make appreciable gains, only to lose this ground during the following downs.

Connor Merritt, Billy Suez, Jim Turner, Jim Lanier, Max Williford, Riley Cox and Herbert Waldrop bore the brunt of the offensive play, while Jack Scott, Dick Fleming and the Smith boys played well defensively.

After the regular game, the Phantom Midgets had a battle with the smaller of the big Roanoke Rapids boys. The little Phantoms showed enough offensive power to have scored several times, but on three different times, perfect passes from the arm of Pat Corey were dropped by receivers standing in the clear in the end zone. Roanoke Rapids did not show up nearly as well but took advantage of their one opportunity and scored six points.

David Whichard, Francis Jordan, Phil Moore and Penner Allen stood out in the line play for the Midgets with Pat Corey, Billy Batchelor and Jimmy Currell carrying the offense.

MEET RED ARMY'S NEW NO. 1

(AP Feature Service)

For three years Joseph Stalin has observed a moratorium on the shooting of generals. But still the turnover of the high command has continued confusingly rapid. After the Finnish embarrassment veteran Defense Commissar Kliment Voroshilov (and an old friend of Stalin) was removed and given the nice-sounding title of Chairman of the Defense Committee. In his place came hulking, peasant-born Semeon Timoshenko, who shook up the army.

Soon after the German invasion of Russia Stalin apparently took over some of Timoshenko's power when he ordered Voroshilov to take charge of the northern front in the west, Timoshenko the central front and Budyenny the southern front.

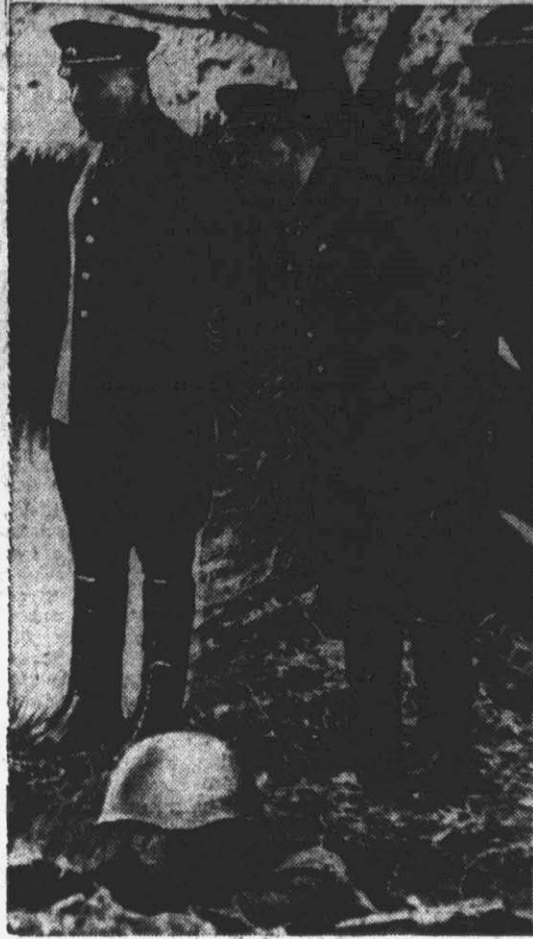

As Timoshenko's armies were being thrown back in the Moscow region a few days ago Stalin again dropped a heavy hand, removed Timoshenko and picked a younger man from outside the ranks of marshal in command of the entire western zone, General Gregory Zhukov.

Zhukov, who is 46, only became a general last year. He has a long record as a Bolshevik fighter, was a red-hot revolutionist back in the days of the young Soviet Republic.

It was in the fighting in Outer Mongolia in 1938 that he won the serious attention of the Russian high command. Russians say he was the first militarist in the world to use large masses of tanks.

After that campaign he rose rapidly, was promoted to command of the Kiev garrison in the west. Early this year he was given the make-or-break job of Chief of the Red Army's General Staff. Pravda, the Soviet newspaper, after his latest promotion, called him "a fighting, experienced leader of immense energy."

Later it was disclosed that Timoshenko was replacing Budyenny in the south and that both Budyenny and Voroshilov had been commissioned to organize new armies.

TIMOSHENKO AND THE MAN WHO GOT HIS JOB

public likes a good love story. "So we're putting the ditches in the background, along with the epic and the sweep, and bringing the romance to the fore. We are not letting love serve merely as something to fill in between sweeps. In fact, I doubt that we shall have an epic at all, but I do think we'll have an entertaining picture."

"The Lady Has Plans" is a title that tells the movie story. The lady, however, is really two ladies (Pauline Goddard and Margaret Hayes) and both have plans, supposed to be drawn in invisible ink on their backs. Spy stuff, you know.

Joe Thompson, the prop man, and J. A. Cox, chemist, worked it out so that neither of the glamour backs would suffer pain or indignity. Actor Thomas Ross, as the draftsman who draws the plans for a radio-controlled torpedo, works with a ball-tipped, non-scratching pen-point. He outlines in ink a drawing previously rubber-stamped on the skin. It's still visible ink, but dusting the sketch with powder makes it invisible.

For the scene showing the plans made visible with a chemical reaction, the backs are sprayed with an ether preparation to produce an outline in deep red, which photographs black.

The process is thus detailed as part of our educational-inspirational service for college kiddies who may contemplate cutting chemistry lab today. You never know what bit of odd information will help when you get into the movies.

George Sanders, I'm afraid, has had no part of our edu-insp. service. Now they say he's balking at reading the scenarios of his pictures and wouldn't even read a synopsis of "Son of Fury" which currently engages him. He says it's the Sanders system and claims success for it. The system:

"If I don't read the script, I can't complain about my roles. If I don't complain, I don't get upset. I come to work fresh each day and ask the assistant director for the two or three pages we'll shoot that day. There are only about six ways a scene may be played and I ask the director if I'm to read the lines in Fashion 3 or Fashion 4.

Fifteen Burn To Death In Alabama Bus Tragedy

A gasoline explosion filled the interior of a passenger bus with flaming spray after the big motor carrier struck a bridge rail near Clanton, Ala., and 15 persons were burned to death. Seven others were injured. Here are the ruins of the bus after the fire burned out. It was running between Montgomery and Birmingham with a heavy load.

Last year's marriage rate in England was the highest in its history. Civilian air raid deaths for all England in the first eight months of 1941 total 19,078.

Navy Reveals Tanker Torpedoed

"From the terrific force of the explosion it is a possibility that the magazine exploded. It is a probability that a majority of the casualties occurred in the forward section although two of the survivors were from that part of the ship."

of a place identified as "village K" have succeeded in hammering a wedge into the Red armies' position, acknowledged to be "several miles long."

After smashing this wedge, however, the Germans were declared to have been halted. The 16th German tank division, which carried out the attack, was said to have lost more than 400 men killed, along with 15 tanks and 20 field guns.

Fighting all along the Southern front was reported continuing with unabated ferocity with the Germans making stubborn attempts to break through toward the Caucasus and meeting fierce resistance on every sector.

At the southern end of Moscow's defenses, Germans encroaching upon the outskirts of Tula, 100 miles below the capital, have begun to shell the town, dispatches from this area stated.

The battle for this strategic anchor to the Moscow defense line was described as becoming increasingly intense.

Roll Call Started In District Areas

The annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross begins today in the various districts throughout the county. Volunteer workers have been busy for the past several weeks preparing to make this the most successful Roll Call in Red Cross history. Funds realized during the Roll Call period will be used to enable the American Red Cross and its chapters to carry on its expanded services to the army and navy as well as to widen its national defense program for the civilian population.

The Roll Call chairmen for the county district areas are as follows: Ayden, A. P. Rowe; Arthur, Mrs. Mack G. Smith; Belvoir, J. T. Lewis; Bethel, Mrs. C. G. Garrenton; Chicod, Jimmie Edwards; Falkland, Woodrow Wooten; Fountain, Mrs. J. A. Mercer; Farmville, Mrs. J. M. Hogood; Grifton, Marsh Knott; Grimesland, Mrs. Jim Clark; Pactiva, H. L. Hart; Stokes, W. R. Hardison; and Winterville, Mrs. L. A. Barnes.

These and other persons who are helping with the Roll Call in this county are hoping for a whole-hearted response to their appeal. Pitt County's quota of membership is 3,800 and it is necessary that this quota be reached if the Red Cross is to carry on its many constructive programs.

New Members Of ECTC Faculty

MISS MADELON POWERS

R. W. GETCHELL

Two new East Carolina Teachers College faculty members in the field of arts are Miss Madelon Powers of San Fernando, California, teacher of public school art, and R. W. Getchell of Iowa, assistant in music and director of the band.

Miss Powers came to the college from a position with the Public Works Administration in the Navy department in Washington, D. C., where for the past year she had been drawing up plans for the building and equipment of schools to be constructed under the defense program. The first building to be erected from the plans is now nearing completion at Gauntico, Va.

In addition to this experience, she has been art instructor and supervisor at Western Washington College of Education, in Bellingham, Washington; a teaching assistant in the art department of the summer session of Teachers College, Columbia; and art consultant and supervisor of Post School, Quantico, Va.

She is a graduate of the State Teachers College at St. Cloud, Minn., and has a Master's degree from Teachers College, Columbia University.

She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity. Besides her work with college classes, she teaches art in the Training School.

Robert W. Getchell, new assistant in the department of music education at the college, comes to Greenville from Cedar Falls, Iowa, with a Bachelor's degree in music from Iowa State Teachers College, and a Masters' degree from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. Getchell has done professional work as a member of studio orchestras in Chicago and New York. During the summers of 1934 and 1935, as the leader orchestra which furnished music for ocean liners on the Cunard-White Star and American Export lines, he toured England, Scotland, France, Ireland, Egypt, Italy, Spain, Palestine and Syria.

Mrs. Getchell also is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers College and has done graduate work in speech at the University of Michigan. She took part in dramatics at the university theatre there, and has had professional experience in acting for radio at station WMT in Waterloo, Iowa, and WJR in Detroit. Mr. Getchell also has done some work in dramatics.

The ECTC band is now under the direction of Mr. Getchell.

TO DECIDE ON COTTON QUOTA

Growers To Go To Polls On Saturday December 13

Raleigh, Nov. 4 — North Carolina cotton growers will go to the polls along with growers of other cotton-producing states December 13 to decide if quotas will be applied on the 1942 crop. E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive assistant at N. C. State College, announced today.

The national acreage allotment has been placed at approximately 27,400,000 acres, or about the same as this year. However, the 1942 quotas will not become effective unless by two-thirds of the eligible producers who vote in the referendum.

If approval is given, this would mark the fifth year that American

Albert Foust, Jr., colored, speeding, pay costs and license suspended for 10 days; Joe Tyson, colored, driving without license and proper brakes and violating school bus law, pay costs and not drive for 60 days; Troy Riddle, driving while license suspended, 30 days, suspended sentence, license revoked for additional six months, and ordered not to ride in any motor vehicle, except a public bus, for 90 days; Johnnie Vick, driving drunk and careless and reckless, eight months, license revoked 18 months, appeal noted to Superior court and bond set at $200; Willie Oakley, drunk on highway, acquitted; Daniel Baker, violating school bus law and driving without a license, pay $25 and not drive for four months after securing license.

growers have produced their crop under quotas, the first restrictions having been placed on the 1938 crop.

"Cotton is one of the surplus crops for which no acreage increase is asked under the farm defense program," Floyd stated. "Faced by restricted world markets, we have on hand a supply about twice the size of recent crops."

Under provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, as amended, loans are prohibited in years when quotas are rejected by producers. Regardless of whether quotas are approved by cotton producers, the conservation phases of the AAA program will remain the same.

According to the Act, marketing quotas are supplied in any year in which the supply of cotton reaches more than 107 percent of the "normal supply." A "normal supply" is defined as an average year's domestic consumption and exports, plus 40 percent for normal carry-over.
