Report Nazi Subs Operating Off Newfoundland

DECLARE SUBS WITHIN SIGHT

Statement Made By Canadian Navy Minister In Elaborating On Declaration That More Than One German Submarine Has Been Sunk By Canadian Ships

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Navy Minister Angus MacDonald said today that Nazi submarines are operating "off the coast of Newfoundland—within sight of the shore."

The Navy minister's statement was made when reporters asked him to give further details of his report to the House of Commons last night that Canadian ships have sunk more than one German U-boat.

"You can say there are submarines right off the coast of Newfoundland—that they are actually within sight of the shore," he said. "Naturally we are attacking them wherever we can find them. So are the patrol planes of the Air Force Coastal Command. We usually find them by sound and attack by depth charge. They (the planes) sight them and attack by bomb. But we are working very closely together."

Rear Admiral Percy Nelles, naval chief of staff, was present and gave his approval of the statement.

"The Germans certainly know where they are," he said.

Marine observers in New York said the report of U-boats operating within sight of Newfoundland was forecast several months ago when Nazi submarines attacked and sank three ships in a convoy less than 200 miles from St. Johns, Newfoundland, a vital convoy course.

They said the Nazis had been getting closer and closer to the American continent as diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States worsened.

To Conduct Revival At Hollywood Church

Beginning Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock evangelistic services will be held at Hollywood School House and will continue through Sunday night. Dr. Robert S. Boyd will preach through Sunday night and Monday night Rev. Z. T. Piephoff, Williamson, will preach till the close of the services. The young people of the community are to form a chorus and lead the music. All people of the community, young and old, are cordially invited to attend and assist in this meeting by their presence and their prayers.

James Whitfield On Army Paper's Staff

James L. Whitfield, E. C. T. C. senior and former press correspondent for a number of papers in this section, has been appointed press representative of Battery D of the Coast Artillery at Fort Eustis, Va., according to news just received by friends here.

Whitfield has been stationed with the Coast Artillery for his 13 weeks of basic training, which began this week.

As press representative he will write news of his battery for The Defender, weekly newspaper at the Fort, which is printed in Newport News.

Colleagues Clash In Senate Debate

Downey and Johnson In Disagreement On Sentiment Of California In Regard To Revising Neutrality Act

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Senator Downey (D-Calif.) told the Senate today he had been "very much surprised" to learn that 75 to 80 per cent of the people in California favored neutrality act revision, and his Republican colleague, Senator Hiram Johnson immediately disputed him.

"Take it from me," Johnson shouted in debate. "I am in touch with the state of California."

Johnson argued that to revise the act to permit the arming of ships and their travel to belligerent ports would surely mean war. He added:

"Take your people into war if you want to, but remember when the casualty lists come rolling in x x x California, no less than any other state, was against war."

Downey, who previously had been associated with the Senate's so-called "non-intervention" bloc, told his colleagues that he had talked with a representative cross section of California citizens in arriving at his percentages.

The Downey-Johnson exchange came shortly after Senate leaders reported that President Roosevelt voiced the view at a White House conference that Congress should enact pending legislation without tacking on amendments designed to curtail defense strikes.

The Capitol Hill readers said they had assured the President that the (Continued on page six)

AT FULL FORCE IN MANEUVERS

More Than 1,000 Tanks Thrown In To Mock Battle

With the Army in the Carolinas, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The full force of an armored division—more than 1,000 tanks and other fighting machines—was thrown into the training battles of the Carolinas today.

All through a cold, rainy night the first armored division moved about 50 miles in a semi-circle from North Carolina into South Carolina in a desperate attempt to save the first army corps from being squeezed by the stronger first army.

Soon after dawn the mechanized infantrymen and artillerymen of the armored division struck the scout cars and horse cavalry of the first army near McBee, S. C.

A pitched battle in the streets of McBee with blank cartridges and smoke screens followed. The artillery was in position to shell the town.

From McBee, the tanks pushed northwestward for the main attack that, if successful, will give the first corps a breathing spell and possibly throw the first army attack into confusion for a day.

Express Agency Here Represented At Meet

The local office was well represented at a district meeting of Railway Express Agency employees held in Goldsboro last night. Five from here having attended.

Other Eastern Carolina cities were represented at the meeting. Speakers included E. C. Berry, general manager, and C. H. Frame, district sales manager, of Washington, D. C., and V. W. Shives, superintendent of the Pamlico-Cape Fear district.

Those who attended from here were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells, Mrs. J. D. Simpson, Shelby Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hatem and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Clark.

U.S. - CANADIAN BOARD SET UP

Designed To Coordinate Defense Production

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada had created a 12-member joint defense production committee to coordinate the capacities of the two countries for production of defense materials.

The new board was set up on recommendation of the joint economic committee of the two countries.

Milo Perkins, executive director of the economic defense board of the United States, was named chairman of the American group. Other American members:

James V. Forrestal, Undersecretary of the Navy; Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War; W. H. Harrison, director of the production division of OPM; Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Lend-Lease administrator, and H. L. Vickery, vice-chairman of the Maritime Commission.

Native Of This City Wins Navy Promotion

Jack B. Griffin, son of John H. Griffin of 208 Manhattan street, recently was transferred to the U. S. Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., according to an announcement by that station's Public Relations office.

Griffin enlisted in the Navy at the Greenville recruiting office in July and was sent to the U. S. Naval Training Station at Norfolk, Va., for his elementary training. He is one of the many enlisted men in the Navy today who are serving their country and at the same time building their future in a profitable, established trade.

At Pensacola he will take up duty with the ground crews of one of the flying squadrons stationed at the "Annapolis of the Air," and soon will be eligible to enter the Aviation Service Schools for training in aviation mechanics or metal smithing to prepare for a petty officer rate with a considerable increase in pay.

Courses in aviation mechanics, ordnance and metal smithing, photography and radio are among the many opportunities open to enlisted men entering the Navy to become specialists by attending the navy trade schools for working under-

Informed Quarters Express Belief German Planning To Transfer Main Theatre Of Battle Of The Atlantic By Employing Wolfpack U-Boat Tactics to Halt American Aid To Britain

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Germany intends to make the waters west of Iceland a major theatre in the battle of the Atlantic, informed sources concluded today, and battle for a decision there with wolfpack U-boat tactics.

The record of the past two months as far as American interests are concerned all points in that direction, they said, and the intensification of the sea war in recent weeks may well herald greater Nazi efforts as turbulent wintry seas give submarines their safest hunting.

Until the Atlantic fleet began policing the sealanes with shoot on sight orders, the gravest undersea threat to Britain's lifeline was conceded in the immediate approaches to her ports.

Reports on recent sinkings, however, show that the packs are raiding farther westward, particularly in the few hundred square miles of ocean that lie south and west of Iceland.

It has been in that limited area that U-boats have sunk four American-owned ships of Panamanian registry and the destroyer Reuben James. In those waters the destroyer Kearny and the naval tanker Salinas were damaged by torpedo attacks and a submarine tried without success to sink the destroyer Greer to the bottom.

The Navy Department officially acknowledged the heavy loss of life in the Reuben James sinking, announcing that all hope had been abandoned for the destroyer's missing—seven officers and 88 men. Counting two previously known dead this made the official toll 97.

The Navy took its heavy casualties stoically and officers privately voiced the belief that the type of submarine warfare being waged in the North Atlantic would continue to take a toll of life and that there would be losses incident to patrol operations.

H. Matt Phillips At Randolph Field

H. Matt Phillips of this city, son of Mrs. E. E. Rawl has been transferred from the Army flying school, Grider Field, Pine Bluff, Arkansas, to Randolph Field, San Antonio, Texas, for his final training in the army air corps.

Young Phillips has just completed his ten weeks of training at the Arkansas post and has been promoted to the rank of Cadet-Lieutenant. Prior to entering the army air service he completed the CAA course at the flying field here and worked six weeks in ground school instruction.

Power Reduction Order Considered

Charlotte, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A conference was held here today to determine whether it would be possible to provide power essential for defense industries without effecting a five per cent curtailment now ordered to start Monday.

J. A. Krug of Atlanta, chief of the OPM power division, said that his office was of the opinion such might be possible if the power companies fully cooperated. But, he said, that could not be determined until the companies made a thorough canvass of the situation. The survey companies made the survey yesterday and planned to meet today with engineers of the OPM.

The five per cent curtailment would affect only non-defense industries.

Even though no curtailment is found necessary, the blackout of non-essential lighting or other use of electrical energy will remain in effect.

Walkout Of Other Welders Throughout California Aircraft Industry Not Affected By Action

By The Associated Press

A committee representing welders on strike from west coast shipyards agreed today to ask the strikers to return to work immediately.

A walkout of other welders whose strike was spreading through the California aircraft industry was not affected by the planned action.

Announcement on decision of the shipyard welders committee—representing the United Welders, Cutlery and Helpers of America—was made by Sidney Hillman, associate director of the Office of Production Management.

The number involved in this strike, started three weeks ago, was variously estimated by the union as 20,000 and by the OPM labor division at 5,000. Ten thousand other workers had been made idle by the strike.

The Navy announced meanwhile that a union jurisdictional dispute had forced a shutdown of work on gates at a $3,000,000 graving dock at its San Diego destroyer base.

At Washington, the Defense Mediation Board was called into executive session to formulate its decision on the troublesome issue of a union shop for steel companies' captive coil mines. Chairman William H. Davis said the board's recommendations for settling the dispute would be prepared before the week-end.

Jim Goss, president of Independent Aircraft Welders declared that 75 per cent of the overnight shift welders had walked out at the Vega and Lockheed plane factories in Burbank, Calif. The management, on the other hand, said that only 38 of the 118 welders on that shift were off the job.

District Dentist Meet Set In City

The Fifth District of the North Carolina Dental Society will hold its regular meeting in the court room of the Municipal building here Sunday and Monday, it was disclosed today by Dr. B. McK. Johnson, president-elect of the organization.

The meetings will be presided over by Dr. A. R. Mallard of Goldsboro, vice president. Dr. V. Parker of New Bern has deceased since he was elected president at the last annual meeting.

The program will get under way with an oyster roast at Third Street School Sunday night.

The Monday session will begin at 9 a. m., and following the invocation by Dr. J. D. Simons, an address of welcome by Mayor B. H. Sugg and the response by Dr. G. L. Sverman of Goldsboro, the sessions will take up its regular business. The meeting will continue throughout the day, with a business session for the election of officers and naming the next meeting place scheduled for the afternoon.

Among those to appear on the program are Col. Kenybeck, commander of the dental corps at Camp Davis; Dr. L. B. Brown, associate professor of dental prosthesis, Atlanta Southern Dental College; Dr. Sandy Marks, Wilmington; Dr. C. R. Riddick, Ayden; Dr. Stuart Ward, Greenville; Dr. Darden Eure, Morehead City; Dr. J. W. Stanley, Wilmington; and Dr. H. J. Harpole, associate professor of oral surgery, Atlanta Southern Dental College.

Hobgood Man Victim Of Sunken Destroyer

Tarboro, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Theo House received a message from the Navy department today that his son, Hugh House, a gunner third class on the destroyer Reuben James, was among those given up for lost.

A memorial service will be held Friday at Hobgood school. Young House married Miss Gertrude Walston of Scotland Neck in February of this year.

Former Jap Ambassador To Germany Being Sent Here To Attempt Accord

Langer At Hearing

William Langer, Republican of North Dakota, is seen as he appeared before a senate committee in Washington which is conducting a hearing on his fitness to hold a United States Senate seat. A group opposed to seating him presented testimony that Langer tried to buy influence with a federal judge before whom he was tried six years ago on a charge of soliciting campaign funds from relief workers paid with federal money. He was convicted but won acquittal in a new trial.

CITES NEED OF ARMING SHIPS

Knox Says Action Would Reduce American Losses

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Arming of merchantships was described by Secretary of Navy Knox today as one means of helping reduce American ship losses due to submarine attacks in the battle of the Atlantic.

At a press conference the secretary was asked whether the employment of tactics new in submarine warfare as compared with World War methods meant that the arming of merchantmen would not be so effective as in 1917-18.

Emphatically, Knox replied that plying guns on such vessels would help reduce losses.

"Submarines have no love for ships with guns on their decks," Knox declared. He noted that the subs "are hunting on the surface at night," and he declared that the arming of merchant vessels would make such raiding operations much more difficult than when they were carried out against armed convoys protected only by warship escorts.

Asked whether recent developments, sinking of the destroyer Reuben James and the torpedoing of the naval tanker Salinas, had in any way modified the situation in the Atlantic, Knox said that "the orders have not been changed and work is going on as before."

Orders given by President Roosevelt in mid-September were to shoot hostile ships on sight.

Final Tabulation Set For Tonight

Chairman Charles B. Bissette of the Community Chest campaign declared today that final tabulations were being made and all reports should be in for a final tabulation tonight or tomorrow morning.

Although yesterday was the most successful of the drive to date, Chairman Bissette declared that the campaign was still short of its goal and called upon anyone who has not been seen to see either him or Jonathan Overton and personally make their contribution or pledge.

Thermometers showing the progress of the campaign were boosted to the $5,600 mark today. Several workers have not reported and officials are hopeful that they will turn in a substantial amount in cash or pledges.

Will Attempt Reach Accord With United States

JAPAN BELIEVED TO BE ALARMED

Opinion also Expressed That More Nazi Pressure Is Being Brought On Tokyo To Assume Role In War

By The Associated Press

The Japanese government announced today it was sending Saburu Kursu, former ambassador to Germany, to Washington by trans-Pacific clipper in a new attempt to reach an accord with the United States "in view of the very serious situation prevailing."

On the surface, the urgency of Kursu's trip appeared to indicate that Japan was now thoroughly alarmed over a possible eruption in the Pacific.

There were indications, too, that Germany, Japan's Axis partner, may have been putting heavier pressure on Tokyo to assume to an active role in the European conflict—perhaps by attacking Russia from the east or hampering United States aid to Britain by hostilities with this country.

For several days past the Japanese press has renewed its attacks on the United States and openly demanded "a final showdown," reversing the previous week's overtures to the United States and Britain to accept Japan as a mediator in the European war.

Domestically, the Japanese news agency, said Kursu would second the efforts of Ambassador Admiral Nomura to "explain the Japanese situation to the United States leaders, including President Roosevelt."

On the Leningrad front, Hitler's high command said heavy German fire had smashed another Russian attempt to cross the Neva river a few miles south of the old Czarist capital.

German military commentators declared that "daily repeated attempts by the Russians to break out" of Leningrad, which has been siege-bound for many weeks, indicated that the situation inside the great northern metropolis was becoming "more unbearable."

FINNISH PRESS ANSWERS U.S.

Declares Finland Is Fighting Only For Own Interest

Helsinki, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Finnish press, answering the United States' warning to cease fighting Russia, said that the action was fundamentally inspired by a desire to open the Murmansk-Moscow railroad to British-American supply shipments for the Red army. The Finnish army has captured part of the line.

Newspapers said Finland had no alternative except to fight for her chance to live free and independently in the future.

They said that the country was not fighting for the Nazi cause nor under Nazi pressure, but only for Finland's vital interest. She must secure herself now against the eternal Russian threat.

The government has not yet announced an answer to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's note informing Finland that she risks loss of United States friendship if she persisted in fighting Russia.

Boosts Asked For Railroad Workers

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A presidential emergency board recommended today temporary wage increases for the nation's 1,150,000 railroad workers, including a seven and one-half per cent raise for the 350,000 in the five operative brotherhoods and a nine cents an hour, or 13 and one-half per cent average increase for the 800,000 non-operating employees in the 14 other brotherhoods.

The board which reported in person to President Roosevelt, also recommended a week's vacation with pay effective January 1, next for the year 1942 and each year thereafter to employees of the nine operating brotherhoods.

Employees of the Railway Express Agency also were recommended for a wage increase of seven and one-half cents per hour.

Red Retreat Likened To Dunkerque

Roads Leading From Area Declared To Be Littered With Smashed Trucks and Artillery, with Roadside Ditches Heaped With Snow-Covered Corpses; Russians Find Cheerful News On Moscow Front

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were reported to have stormed across the rugged Yaila mountains and reached the Black sea today, thus apparently splitting Russia's Crimean defense forces into three parts after a 100-mile advance in eight days.

The Berlin radio compared the Red army's retreat with the British-French withdrawal from Dunkerque last year, declaring that roads were littered with "smashed trucks and artillery, while snow drifted over corpses heaped in the roadside ditches."

German troops were pictured as pursuing the Russians south of Sevastopol.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said Nazi troops had planted the swastika on the Crimean peninsula's south coast between Sevastopol and Kerch.

German dispatches yesterday said that Kerch at the eastern tip of the Crimea had been isolated by Axis forces which captured the coastal town of Feodosiya.

With the Crimean struggle evidently nearing its final stages, the Russians found more cheerful news on the central front before Moscow, where Red armies were reported to have recaptured the city of Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the Russian capital.

Soviet front line dispatches also declared that a German column which advanced five miles into the Moshak sector, 57 miles west of Moscow, had been thrown back after a four-hour battle of mechanized units.

On the Leningrad front, Hitler's high command said heavy German fire had smashed another Russian attempt to cross the Neva river a few miles south of the old Czarist capital.

German military commentators declared that "daily repeated attempts by the Russians to break out" of Leningrad, which has been siege-bound for many weeks, indicated that the situation inside the great northern metropolis was becoming "more unbearable."

Local Bank Opens Vanceboro Branch

The Guaranty Bank and Trust Company of this city today opened its 11th unit with the establishment of a branch at Vanceboro.

A. F. Whitley, who has been with the bank for several years, being stationed in the headquarters unit, was transferred to Vanceboro as cashier there.

In addition to the home office, the Guaranty operates branches at Greenville, Belhaen, Bethel, Elizabeth City, Hamilton, Robersonville, Snow Hill, Washington, Williamson and Vanceboro.

After receiving a petition from a large number of Tarboro citizens, the Guaranty recently filed application with Banking Commission to establish a branch there, but stood aside when a group of Tarboro citizens started a move to establish a bank with home capital.

Brides-elect Honored. One in the series of lovely parties given to honor Miss Jamie Merritt and Miss Jean Hodges was a luncheon given on Tuesday by Mrs. E. B. Ficklen at her home on West Fifth street.

Chrysanthemums in beautiful arrangements were used on the mantels and on the console tables throughout the rooms. The luncheon tables, set for groups of four in the drawing room and library, were centered with pom-pom chrysanthemums in pastel shades.

Miss Merritt and Miss Hodges each wore a corsage of gardenias, presented to them by the hostess.

The places of Mrs. Charles Plantagan and Mrs. James Davenport, brides of recent months and Miss Helen Fleming, whose wedding takes place tomorrow, were marked with corsages.

A delicious luncheon was served in two courses.

Entertains At Bridge. Mrs. F. L. Allen entertained at two tables of bridge at her home last Thursday evening.

Pumpkins, fall leaves, nuts and other Halloween decorations were used in the living room.

Mrs. Wilson Ferrell won high score and Mrs. James Allen was awarded the booty prize.

Food drinks were served during the game and later a most delicious plate was served.

Shower For Bride and Groom. Mrs. Spm Pollard of Red Oak and Mrs. Frank Brown of Greenville were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower last Friday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pollard who were recently married.

The Red Oak community club house in which the shower was given, was decorated with autumn leaves and lovely fall flowers.

Mrs. Ruth Arnold of Greenville played several piano selections and Mrs. B. L. Tyson led in some enjoyable games and songs.

A delicious plate with iced tea was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. and Mrs. Pollard received a large number of lovely and useful gifts.

Birth Announcement. Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Hewth announce the birth of a son on Monday, November 3, 1941.

Sans Souci Club.
The Sans Souci Book Club met at the home of Mrs. J. B. Kittrell on Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. H. S. Regsdale assisting hostess.

Each guest on arrival was given a lovely chrysanthemum shoulder-ette and the home itself was festive with colorful arrangements of this beautiful fall flower.

Mrs. W. I. Wooten presided at a short business session, following which Mrs. Kittrell presented Miss Florence Lanning, Girl Scout executive, who gave the program for the afternoon.

Continuing the club's study of American Regionalism, the speaker herself a westerner, brought to her listeners a clear version of the life and people of this great empire of the new middle-west, that area that bids high for the title of "most American region."

There, too, we were shown an emerging industrial area set in the midst of a vast wealth of natural resources which is today chafing against the east to become the heart of this great nation.

Following this most interesting talk, current events were given by Mrs. W. L. Hall.

Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp, director of the local WPA art gallery, was present. She invited the club members to attend a class in block printing which is being held at the gallery during November.

The hostesses served a delicious supper to more than twenty guests at the close of a most delightful meeting.—Reported.

Mrs. Hannah Hostess.
On Tuesday morning at 10:30 Mrs. Lee Hannah was hostess at a coffee, at her home on Country Club Drive, honoring Mrs. James Davenport, Miss Jean Hodges, Miss Jamie Merritt and Miss Helen Fleming.

An antique bowl filled with chrysanthemums in shades of pink, were used with white candles to form the centerpiece on the coffee table, at which Mrs. H. L. Hodges presided.

Mrs. Hodges was assisted in serving by Mrs. Reid Perkins.

Chrysanthemums in varied hues decorated the home throughout.

County Commissioners
The Board of County Commissioners met on Monday, all the members being present.

Payments from the general fund were as follows: For paupers $137; county home $108.13; Supt. Health, $25; jail $150.08; Judge Superior Court, $160; bridges and ferry, $267.13; court cost $50.84; witness tickets $183.91; jurors $118.45; conveying prisoners and insane $4.30; stationery and printing $5.25; coal $48; register of deeds $23.25; roads $1,605; commissioners $20.80; stock law $12.15.

The sheriff was ordered to issue a foot peddler's license for twelve months.

The members of the Hope Fire company, Red Hawk fire company and Rough and Ready fire company were exempted from poll tax for the year 1901.

Athenum Club.
Mrs. W. H. Bradsher was hostess Tuesday at one o'clock to her book club. Mesdames J. J. Perkins and J. J. White served a two-course Spanish creole luncheon from the dining room table, which was beautifully appointed. Colorful fall flowers made an attractive setting for Mrs. Bradsher's luncheon and for the interesting program which followed.

Mrs. K. B. Pace, president of the club, presented Mrs. Bradsher, who gave a studied account of women in South America. Their economic and social standing as compared to ours, their abilities, interests and mores in contrast to American standards were of vital interest. To sum up, "South America is truly a theatre of male domination" which might also be of marked contrast to the existing conditions in the United States.

A brief business session was held consisting of book exchanges, current events and important announcements.

Club Gives Assembly Program.
The fifteen members of the Jarvis Forensic Club, headed by their president, Mildred Beverly of Ahsokie, gave the assembly program at the college Tuesday. Miss Beverly presiding, they appeared in a typical meeting of the club, taking up a debate topic and speaking on it pro and con in a discussion carried on according to rules of parliamentary procedure.

The secretary, Cornelia Keuzenkamp of Greenville read the question which had been handed her in the form of a resolution—that the Federal government regulate by law all labor unions in the United States.

Merle Slater of New York, Mary Gaskins of New Bern, and Mildred Beverly of Ahsokie, spoke for the affirmative, Miss Beverly having resigned the chair to the vice-president, Elizabeth Bishop of Raleigh, while she took the floor.

For the negative Frances Elliott of Oxford, Ben Miller of Greenville, and Louise Thomas of Oakboro were the speakers.

The club meets regularly for practice in various kinds of speaking. Adviser for it is Dr. M. N. Posey.

End of the Century Club.
The End of the Century Club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. L. Hessel hostess.

A short business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Batchelor at which time invitations were extended the members to visit the library during Book Week, also the garden center recently established in the library building and the art gallery which is housed in the same building. Attention was called to the fact that the art gallery is open every Tuesday evening for the inspection of paintings and free instruction in block printing, clay modeling, drawing, etc.

Mesdames J. T. Little and Hortense Moye volunteered to assist Mr. Picklen Arthur in the Red Cross campaign.

Mrs. White, chairman of the program committee, presented Dr. A. D. Frank, head of the History Department of ECTC, who gave a most interesting and informative talk on current events. He began his talk with a discussion of the rising price-es of commodities and said we were headed for a very bad inflation which was one of the worst economic disasters which could befall a nation unless something could be done to prevent it. He then spoke of the international situation, of Russia and the Battle of the Atlantic, clarifying many points in response to questions asked by members. The End of the Century Club is indeed grateful to Dr. Frank for coming to us several times each year and discussing world events with us. We feel that we are a much better informed organization because of his interest in us.

Club members were so happy to have with them again one of their former members, Mrs. W. S. Harden of Griffin, Ga.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Hessel invited us into the dining room where Mrs. J. L. Little and Mrs. Hortense Moye served a delicious salad course with coffee, from a beautifully appointed table.

Pollard-Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. Major Smith announce the marriage of their daughter Rubelle to

Mr. W. G. Pollard on Saturday, October twenty-fifth Nineteen hundred and forty-one Dillon, South Carolina

On Saturday, October 25, Miss Rubelle Smith and Mr. W. G. Pollard were united in marriage in a private ceremony in the home of Judge Earl A. Alford of Dillon, South Carolina, after which they made a brief tour of parts of North and South Carolina.

Mrs. Pollard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Major Smith of Winterville, and is popular among a large circle of friends in Greenville and surrounding territory. She received her education in Chocoll high school and East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville.

Mr. Pollard is the son of Mr. Tuttle Pollard and the late Mrs. Ida Mayo Pollard of the Belvoir community. He received his education in Belvoir and Greenville public schools and at present is employed by the City Plumbing Company of Greenville.

On the evening of their return Mr. and Mrs. Pollard were entertained at a bridal supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown. Mrs. Brown is a sister of the groom.

Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Pollard have been entertained by Mrs. Pollard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mayo, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pollard.

At present the couple are making their home at 1012 Evans street, Greenville.

Chatham Book Club.
Mrs. Will Moore and Mrs. E. Lee Moore were joint hostesses to the Chatham Book Club at a luncheon meeting held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson on Fourth street, on Tuesday.

The house was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums which carried out the club colors.

A delicious three-course luncheon was served and each guest was given an attractive Thanksgiving favor.

After a short business meeting presided over by the club president, Mrs. Luther Bowling, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas, who gave a brief sketch of the lives of the authors of the new club books. Mrs. Thomas' paper was very entertaining as well as informative.

Mrs. Frank Bendall gave current events, after which the meeting adjourned.

Additional luncheon guests were Mrs. Carl Womack, Mrs. Fred Blank, Miss Molly Lanning and Miss Elizabeth Titsworth.

Round Table Meets.
The Round Table met with Mrs. E. B. Higgs at her home on Dickinson avenue Tuesday, November 4, at 3:30 p. m. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. E. Winslow, who presided over a short business session. At this time the Defense Bond and Stamp sales were stressed.

The meeting was turned over to the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. W. A. Browne, who presented Mrs. S. J. Everett, the speaker for the afternoon. As a prelude to our year's study of Latin America, Mrs. Everett gave us a bird's-eye view of our own West as she saw it on a recent 16,000 mile tour. She confined most of her talk to the trip from San Francisco to Vancouver, B. C., touching the highlights of the trip, one of which was the day-lighted tunnel along the highway. By means of spacious open arches, one gets a marvellous view of the Pacific. She mentioned her visit to the very modest home and garden of Luther Burbank, and passing through the little town with its huge baskets of eggs on either side of the highway entrance to the town. She discovered the town is known as the "egg-basket of the world."

She particularly dwelled on the Redwood Empire with its immense and stately redwoods. She says no one has really seen the redwoods unless one has taken this 120-mile drive through the Empire and experienced the reverence one feels there. She ended her talk with a description of the Bonneville Dam and the exciting experience of observing the salmon jump the ladder as they are going upstream in the Columbia river.

Mrs. Higgs had as her special guests for the afternoon, Mrs. Katherine Thomas a former guest of the club, Miss Lois V. Gorrell, Dr. Lucille Turner and Mrs. Watters of the college faculty.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. H. Duncan and Mrs. E. J. Beverett, served a delightful salad course.

Winterville Public Library Notes. Why not celebrate Book Week with us this week? Come in and get acquainted with our library, the librarians, and the large assortment of books.

In celebration of Book Week we have placed the following books on a special table: Awake My Heart; Teaching for the Stars; Let the Record Speak; Invitation to Live; The Secret of the Marshbank; White Oak Heritage; Call the New World; The Fire and the New Wood; and Raleigh's Eden.

We also have a number of excellent books for the children. Encourage them to read by bringing them with you to get a good book.

During this week help us to enlarge the Winterville Library by donating a book or two out of your own library, or perhaps you would like to make a cash donation to help buy new books or to pay a subscription to a magazine.

Remember too, that we have a table for old magazines for the use of the school children. Any time you are in Winterville leave your back numbers of magazines for the table.

If you or members of your family have books out that are overdue and you return them this week in good condition, we will not charge you the fine. Cooperate with us and we will help you make the Winterville Public Library a bureau of service to Winterville and the surrounding community.

Inter Se Club Meets.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Wyatt Brown was hostess to the members of the Inter Se Club. In the living room were placed colorful arrangements of fall flowers, while in the dining room bowls of bright colored fruits were used.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. M. K. Blount, the president. After calling the meeting to order, Mrs. Blount presented Mrs. Wyatt Brown, who was the leader for the afternoon. Mrs. Brown explained that the program was to be divided into two parts; the first part she would give, the second part would be a talk by Mrs. Robert L. Humber.

Mrs. Brown prefaced her remarks by saying that she was born in Scotland and came to America at the age of five, her family settling in northern city, Philadelphia. Since her marriage she has made her home in the south. Thus she has lived in two sections of our country where manners and customs are rather different from each other, and different also from those she had known as a small child in Scotland. Then, in a manner both charming and whimsical, she discussed her early impressions of America, followed by her later impressions of the south. Her comments included her reactions to various foods such as ice cream, tomatoes, chewing gum, and corn on the cob; observations on the differences in British and American trains, and the English and "American" languages, and the money of the two countries. She also spoke of the greater formality found in the rearing of British children as contrasted with the free and easy American way. Comparing the northern and southern modes of life, she has found our nonchalant attitude toward housekeeping amusing and amazing, while the general air of friendliness and neighborliness seem a delightful and integral part of our daily lives.

After bringing her talk to a close, Mrs. Brown introduced Mrs. Robert L. Humber, recently of Paris, France. Mrs. Humber chose as her subject "The French Home and the Life of the Average Frenchwoman." Her discussion, which was most instructive and delightfully presented, proved that the speaker was as much at home in the English language as in her native tongue. The French home is a compact, close-knit unit, strong and more important than the individual. Divorces are rare, and marriages are dissolved only for the most serious reasons. Engagements are regarded very seriously, and they last two years or more before marriage. Though French women do not have the right to vote, Mrs. Humber asserted that perhaps in no other country have women exercised such tremendous power in politics as in France. Their influence has been indirect rather than direct. She gave as examples Madame de Maintenon, Madame de Staël, Joan of Arc, Charlotte Corday, and others.

In telling about the daily routine of the French woman who has one or two servants, she stated that the morning hours are busy with marketing, meal planning, and in some cases, teaching the children. In the afternoon, if she lives in Paris, she may go to lectures or conferences at the university which are open to all and free of charge. Or she may attend concerts, the theatre, or art exhibits. Admission is low as the French believe "education is a process going on throughout life." Her evenings the French woman devotes to her husband. The two may go to a play or concert, or stay at home, entertaining friends, or remain alone discussing matters of mutual concern. Mrs. Humber closed her remarks by again emphasizing the unity and importance of the French home and French family life.

At the conclusion of this unique and most interesting program the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. M. Buchanan, served delicious refreshments.

Library News

On Tuesday afternoon the Book Week meeting of the children's reading club was held in the auditorium at Sheppard Memorial Library. Each year a short but excellent program is given for club members, their friends, teachers and parents who come with them. Miss Margaret Sellman, head of the nursery school of East Carolina Teachers College, told an old, old story, "The Sweet Stringed Dulcimer." The story has a Russian setting and with certain scenes in the reading Miss Hazel Elsom, violinist, played beautiful Russian folk songs. Miss Estelle McClees at the piano assisted Miss Elsom.

Following the program, Miss Ruth Pritchard, librarian, complimented the children on their reading interest, inviting them to see the new books in the junior room and attend other Book Week features at the library. She then presented reading certificates to 122 children, the largest group that has yet finished the suggested summer reading.

Book Week Arouses Interest In Books For Boys and Girls

My New Order—Adolf Hitler. Edited with commentary by Raoul de Roussy de Saes. Introduction by Raymond Gram Swing.

One of the most prolific orators of all time, Adolf Hitler has delivered well over 1,500 speeches during his career as leader of the National Socialist party which now constitutes the complete German government. As an index of his remarkable ability to control others by the spoken word it may be noted that his first publicly recorded speech, in Munich, Feb. 24, 1920, was made before an audience of 107 persons. Less than a year later, on Feb. 3, 1921, he had an audience of 5,600 and before the end of that year, his audiences were numbering 20,000 and more.

The significant portions of Hitler's most important speeches during the period 1920-1941 are here set forth, each preceded by a brief resume of world affairs currently taking place, as they are reflected in or affected by the speech.

Following each speech are press comments, showing reactions by the leading German and world newspapers which, in retrospect, are highly interesting as they reveal the ability of these editors to realize the import of each of Hitler's moves in his progress toward world domination.

Two primary objectives are attained by the editor of this volume. In the reviewer's opinion. Firstly, it is the first of its kind to bring home to the reader a fuller understanding of the state of mind of the German people who are, almost unanimously, behind their ruler. Hitler's words are those of a consummate politician who knows what his listeners wish to hear. His ability to gauge the public mind and his total lack of conscience are, by now, of course, legendary, and these two factors are the basic reasons for his success as a leader of men, rabble-rouser, or whatever you wish to call him. Of far more importance, however, is the adaptation of Hitler's technique in gaining complete control of Germany to his program for world domination. Using precisely the same methods that made his Reichsfuehrer, he has confounded his en-

Chicod High School News By MILDRED ADAMS
Hallow'en Festival
The annual Hallow'en Festival was held in the Chicod auditorium October 31. This is one of the most exclusive affairs of the school term's entertainments. The outstanding event of the evening was the beautiful and impressive ceremony of crowning the king and queen of popularity. The title holders were Stanley King and Margie Mills. Esther Smith, popularity queen of 1940-41, crowned the two. Other entertaining features were the elementary department's program directed by Miss Stevens, the costume parade, the cake walk, and many other attractions that made the festival quite a gala and successful evening.
Teacher Resigns
Miss Geraldine Harris resigned her position as teacher of French and English in the high school to become the bride of Joseph Lennon, a former teacher of Chicod. Mrs. Lennon was a favorite among many of the students and they feel a great loss at her absence. She was replaced by Miss Ruby Beck of Georgia, who has proven very efficient. It is predicted that she will gain the admiration and love that the student body as a whole had for Mrs. Lennon.
Post-Graduates
Chicod has its first post-graduate class this year. The three members are Nell Moore, Macon Page and Ralph McLawhorn.
Senior Class Plans Trip
The senior class is raising a fund to finance a trip to Washington, D. C., in the spring. Inspired by the leadership of their new teacher, Miss Beck, the very energetic boys and girls who make up the senior class hope to raise the desired sum. They will be accompanied by the post-graduates and Elizabeth Wil-

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

POWER OF GOOD EXAMPLE

A man who in recent years has written a good book on the Christian home, declares that the most potent religious influence in his life has been the recollection he has of his father's praying. They lived on a farm, and one night the bedroom was so cold that his father came out into the living room, knelt down at the sofa and said his prayers there. This made a deep impression on the boy, and in later years when he was inclined to be disturbed by changing theological thought, he always remembered his father, in his old-fashioned flannel nightgown, kneeling in the corner and performing his religious devotions, apparently unconscious that he was doing anything unusual.

The parent who is perfectly natural about his religion, who makes a pretty good job of living up to it every day, and who never feels called upon to apologize for his fidelity, makes a deep impression upon his own children and upon all young people. Too many parents today want to keep on the good side of their children, and they earnestly covet the desire to be considered modern and broad-minded. Yet grown-up children more often look back with pleasure and admiration upon parents who were unwavering in their religious devotion than they ever do upon the type of parents who are inclined to be wobbly. In the family, as in every other circle in life, it pays to decide a course of action and stick to it.

A RARE TREAT

Citizens of this community will have the rare opportunity to hear Hon. Josephus Daniels deliver the Armistice Day address at Wright Memorial Auditorium at the college next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. The American Legion was most fortunate to be able to secure Mr. Daniels as the speaker and our people should welcome this opportunity to hear him.

NOTHING TO IT

It's a free country and everyone has a right to his say, but as we see it, the complaint made to the Board of Commissioners regarding the conduct of the recent $250,000 school bond election was most unfortunate and can accomplish no good for the Greenville School District, while on the other hand, it can raise a question in the minds of bond buyers that would cause them to try to purchase the bonds at a price less favorable to the district. As we see it, the complaint was based on technicalities that would not make the bonds illegal. As a matter of fact the complainant says that he himself helped to bring about the chief irregularity during the time of registration and yet he failed to register a complaint on the day for challenge set up under the laws governing such elections. In the face of this it appears to us that there was no desire on the part of the complainant for a fair election which he now claims we did not get, but rather a desire to throw a stumbling block in the way of the matter being decided according to the will of the majority of the registrants.

When the commissioners meet on November 17 to give final consideration to the matter we are sure that again the people will win as they always have in the past, when efforts were made to block progress by frivolous complaints.

Washington Daybook

Washington - The United States is preparing to go all out for boosting civilian morale with an elaborate network of information and discussion groups that will blanket the country's educational system from first grade to college seniors. It is called the School and College Civilians Morale Service and its first objective is to establish "freedom's forums" in every community and classroom for a "free discussion" at regular intervals of all the problems now plaguing the nation and the world.

Even as this is being written, pamphlets on methods of participation are going out from the U. S. Office of Education to more than 1,700 college presidents; 18,000 school superintendents; 26,000 high school principals; 9,000 librarians; and many civic organizations.

This latest development in trying to prepare the United States to face the world situation and national upheaval was born with the President. In September, he wrote Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, instructing him to ask U. S. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker to "inaugurate an appropriate educational program designed to help students and adults in understanding the many complicated problems of these critical times."

In the ensuing two months, Studebaker, with the aid of McNutt, Civilian Defense Director Fiorello La Guardia, a national advisory committee of 21 college presidents and other prominent educators, drew up the present preliminary outline of the school and college civilian morale service. Actually, it is a broad expansion of the public forums program started five years ago - but if present plans are carried out it will call for participation of millions of students and adults, who have never taken part in any of the existing "study-discussion groups."

ual aids for discussions and lectures. The libraries, both public and school, will be asked to become "arsenals of facts and information" on all matters pertaining to democracy, dictatorships, world affairs and all phases of national defense.

The colleges and universities are to be allotted defined areas, for which they will be speaker bureaus, and centers of information and speaker training. These college centers of information and training will be asked to cooperate closely with speakers and discussion leaders within the area. And to these centers also will fall the task of raising their own budgets for carrying on the work.

The U. S. Office of Education, with funds from its regular budget, has prepared the pamphlets and booklets which will serve as organizational guides. Through the more than 1,700 college centers of information and training, it will serve as the focus and spark plug of the entire program.

It looks like the United States is in for a siege of speechmaking and discussion, the like of which hasn't been heard since the "4-Minute Men" took the field in the World War.

Around... Capital Square

By BOB THOMPSON

Raleigh, Nov. 5 - FLOGGING - Highway Chairman Ben Prince and Prison Director Oscar Pitts have not been able to do away entirely with flogging prisoners - as was announced as their policy - but they have come closer to it than any others.

Since May there have not been but two prisoners beaten by prison authorities, said Pitts. Last year there were around 40 cases so at the present rate the reduction has been 90 per cent. "And those two weren't beaten until we had tried everything else," said Pitts. "Why I talked to one of those men for two hours trying to straighten him out. It just did not work and we were forced to have him beaten."

PEEVED - If you want to hear some first class cussing drop around to the Department of Conservation and Development and start talking about the new issue of "Variety Vacationland."

In the first place it was months late. The booklet with a cover showing two girls in bathing suit didn't come from the printers until sometime in September, after most of the beaches were closed. But the thing that makes them maddest is the color engraving. There is a difference of opinion as to where lies the fault but both the conservation and the purchasing department admit it is not an attractive job.

"It all comes of getting engraving from the cheapest man," argue the conservationists.

"We didn't do that," returns Purchasing and Contract, "we got it from a man in Richmond whose supposed to be one of the best." "Yeah and that's another thing," says the C. and D. staff. "Here we are trying to boost and develop North Carolina industries and you go into another state to buy the stuff we use to boost with."

FAULT MULLET - The "Mullet Line" - as the State owned A. and N. C. Railroad is usually called - is in a fair way to make some serious money. Not only one but two ship building concerns are ready to build plants in the vicinity of Morehead City and the Marine air base is now under construction.

Back when Harry Edwards and Ed. Buchan formed themselves a company and agreed to pay the state $60,000 rent a year for the road, many state officials didn't think they could make the grade. "We'll have the thing back on our hands soon," they said to each other, "but at least we'll collect for a while and that's better than losing regularly like we've been doing under state operation."

Builders - In compliance with the law, Governor Broughton has appointed a committee to make a survey to learn what new buildings the state needs around Raleigh and make its recommendations to the next Legislature. When that's done he may have to appoint another committee to look around for something to build the buildings out of. Unless the Supplies, Priorities and Allocations Board changes its mind, or the national defense program slows down or steel production climbs beyond all expectations, it's going to be hard to get in 1943. And SPAB already had announced that it frowns on any new state building except in the interest of national defense.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

- Q. What are payroll allotments for the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds?
A. They are portions of employee earnings set aside each pay day voluntarily by individual workers for buying Defense Savings Bonds, or Stamps to be exchanged eventually for Bonds, which become the personal property of the employee. Hundreds of companies have set up such arrangements to help their personnel save continuously and regularly.
- Q. How can I give a Defense Savings Bond as a gift?
A. Buy a Series E Bond at your post office or bank, and have it issued in the name of the intended recipient.

Note - To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasury, of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York - Except when it touches the Nazi theme, the drama on Broadway this season has been willy-nilly. Of more than a dozen openings, only two seem to have been worth the effort. One of these was "The Wooley," which this department has talked about before. The other is "Candle In The Wind," a play by Maxwell Anderson, which brought Helen Hayes to Broadway in an interesting first night event. Since the prime holdover from last season's successes is another anti-Nazi drama, "Watch on the Rhine," it would seem that the headlines are paying out handsomely for the playwrights. Only those who ignore the contemporary scene have failed to get anywhere.

I am speaking, of course, of serious drama. There is always room for hokum and other ingredients of burlesque-comedy. The baggy-seat pants of the tramp comedian, the trap door, and the throwing pie are as essential as calories. "Helzapoppin'" may be going out "Sons O' Fun" is coming, and vaudeville will not be cried down. Olsen and Johnson will see to that.

ONE BAD WAY KILL WEEVILS

Farmers Are Advised Against Burning Adjacent Woods

Raleigh, Nov. 4 - Burning woods near cotton fields to destroy the boll weevil is like burning the barn to get rid of rats, J. O. Rowell, extension entomologist of N. C. State College, said today.

Although many growers burn their timberland to destroy hibernating weevils, Rowell considers the practice wasteful and unjustified. It is true that some weevils hibernate in the woods, he pointed out, but they generally do so within 50 feet of the edges bordering cotton fields.

Burning over large areas of forest destroys timber, kills undergrowth and seedlings, injures wildlife, and often aggravates soil erosion by destroying leaf mulch. "What's more," Rowell said, "there are always enough weevils left to start infestations the following spring and summer if weather conditions are favorable for their survival."

Instead of burning woods in fighting the No. 1 insect enemy of the South's cotton crop, the State College entomologist suggested that the growers use the following plan:

- 1. Encourage the growth of young timber and sell the woodland products as a cash crop.
- 2. Use the money to buy dusting machinery and calcium arsenate to combat the weevils during the summer.
- 3. Follow a system of fall cotton-field sanitation by cutting or plowing under the cotton stalks as early as possible after the cotton has been picked. By removing the cotton supply of green cotton early in the fall, they go into winter hibernation half starved and are less likely to survive until spring.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

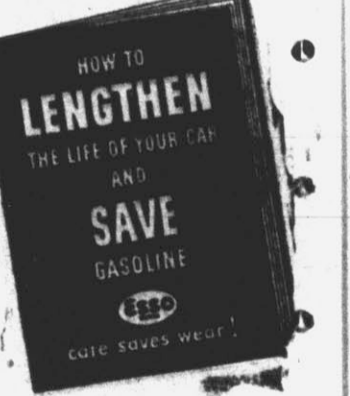

North Carolina - Pitt County. In The Superior Court Before The Clerk In The Matter of: Pitt County Drainage District No. 2 ORDER

This matter coming on to be heard by the undersigned Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County and it appearing that the terms of office of two of the members of the Board of Drainage Commissioners of Pitt County Drainage District No. 2 have expired, and that it is provided by law that the Clerk of the Superior Court provide for an election of successors to any such members of a board of commissioners of a drainage district whose term has expired: IT IS NOW, THEREFORE, ordered that an election be held in the Courtroom of the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, at 11:00 o'clock A. M., on Wednesday, November 12, 1941, to vote for a Commissioner to succeed Commissioner F. C. Martin and to vote for a Commissioner to succeed Commissioner J. T. Taylor. Each individual land owner within the said District shall be qualified to vote in this election and shall be entitled to cast the number of votes equalling the number of acres of land owned by him included within the boundaries of the said District for each commissioner. The Court will appoint as commissioner to succeed Commissioner F. C. Martin and as commissioner to succeed Commissioner J. T. Taylor the person receiving a majority of the votes in said election for each office, or if no one receives the vote of a majority of those voting, the Court will appoint said commissioner or commissioners from those receiving the highest number of votes cast in said election. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order be posted at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, and at the Martin County Courthouse in Williamston, North Carolina, and at five conspicuous public places in said Pitt County Drainage District No. 2, and that a copy of this Order be published in The Daily Reflector, a newspaper of general circulation in Pitt County, once each week for four consecutive weeks immediately prior to the date set for the election. Dated this October 8, 1941. J. F. HARRINGTON, Clerk of the Superior Court. Oct. 22-29-Nov. 5-11.

Green Phantoms To Invade New Bern Bears On Friday

TIME OF GAME IS UNCERTAIN

Locals to Enter Game With 500 Conference Mark

By SPENCER CARROLL

A powerful squad of battling Greenville High School football Phantoms will invade the den of New Bern's victory hungry Bears Friday. This will be the fifth contest for the locals, who have won two and lost as many Eastern Conference wars.

Because of the defense curtailment of electrical power, the game may have to be shifted from night to day. However, this is not official and a definite kickoff time will be tested tomorrow.

Greenville turned back a fighting Elizabeth City Yellow Jacket team last week by a score of 18-6. This was revenge for last season's 19-2 loss to the Eastern Conference champs of 1940. Incidentally, this was the first loss for the Jackets in several years.

In Friday's game, Coach Bo Parley's proteges will be out to trample the hosts into submission and bring home a bear hide. They have been undergoing tireless scrimmages in preparation for the affair and hope to repeat last season's 45-13 score or even do a better job. This will, however, be a tough job.

Parley will probably start Andrews and Crawford at ends; Lee and Carroll, tackles; Edwards and Christopher at guards and Goodall at center. In the Green and White backfield will be Spearman, wingback; Turner, blockingback; Muschelwhite, fullback and L. Briley, tailback. Numerous subs are slated to see action.

New Bern is by no means a push-over. The Bears have proved to be formidable all year for other Conference teams and will be scrapping to bounce into the win column. Their lineup is not available today, but will be released tomorrow. This game will mean the downfall of Greenville or the rise to glory for the Bears.

Blue Devils Move Nearer To Title

By CHARLES BROWN

In the WPA-City Football Circuit yesterday the undefeated Third Street Blue Devils rolled on for another victory against the Training School Wolfpack in the championship series for the Junior City League.

The Third Street stars were Jimmy Lee, driving, plunging and running back gaining more yardage than all his team mates; the pass throwing of Graham Leggett to Ed Williams for a nice run and the Blue Devils' first touchdown, Ralph Ward in the backfield, plunging in for nice gains and Jimmy Lee.

The stars for the losing Wolfpack were the one-man team Jimmy (Happy) Gibson, triple threat back, Bobby Smith, David Clark, Jimmy Cox, Etheridge and Joe Allgood. Carl Allgood was referee.

Fifty boys of the WPA-City football league will be given a winter roast at Cotach Street playground at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon under the direction of Charles Brown, recreation leader, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gibson, J. G. Fleming and other parents.

Games will be played before serving.

THE QUEEN—Came time to pick a homecoming queen for Tulane university at New Orleans, and Louise Nelson, attractive, popular—and simply was the logical choice. Despite all the above, she says she doesn't go in for glamor.

Is it Love? by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Chapter 20 Long Distance

The Colonel held up a large white handkerchief. "You will tell what I want to tell," he said positively, "unless you want to see your two aunts forced to go on relief."

Sue Ellen stared at him too enraged to speak.

"Magnolia House belongs to the bank," said Colonel Moore smoothly. "It has been mortgaged and re-mortgaged, just as Belle Acres was mortgaged to keep up an appearance when no Fairhope can maintain without substantial backing today."

"And you are that backer?"

He smiled and, reaching over, patted her hand. "Sue Ellen, I like your spirit. I'm quite reconciled to having you for a daughter-in-law. I want you to marry Riv when everything has been cleared up. I think you understand the best and the worst about the situation, but he shook his head. "Not a word. It was unfortunate that you rushed off so impulsively, but even that has made me see and admire you for you're a girl of spirit and determination and that is what Riv needs."

"Colonel Moore," her eyes were startlingly bright and her lips set and positive. "I will not marry Riv. Prigs made me close my eyes to things I should have seen. Riv doesn't love me—he never did. Like myself he read love into a childish affection, and if Deedora Waller could make him forget me, another woman could, also. Whatever our financial condition, the fate of the Fairhopes has no part in my affair. For a long time I've disliked your principles, your methods, the way you have taken advantage of our bad luck in Tyler Springs, to sell our plantations to greedy Yankees."

"Why not?" asked the Colonel smoothly. "They have money. Someone has to buy places like Belle Acres when they are thrown on the market for back taxes and to pay overdue interest on mortgages."

"Belle Acres will never fall into your hands or that of a Yankee."

He smiled. "Tonight when you are all upset and think you have no further use for Riv, I have the greatest sympathy for you, my dear, and feel that this is no time to bring you bad news."

His voice took a sympathetic tone, but his cold hard eyes were stern.

"Bad news?"

He nodded. "I have been patient. I have listened while you maligned my son for doing what any impetuous, infatuated young man might easily do, but I cannot listen to remarks which hint that I am unscrupulous and underhanded in my business methods. You, like many southerners, are sentimental and have no idea about business, no regard for legal transactions—financial obligations. But you must know that I have been patient and lenient with your aunts up to the point where my own credit was jeopardized if I continued to carry a bad investment any longer."

Johnny again

"What are you trying to tell me?" for he was working up to some climax, some final blow in retaliation for her unkindness, her unwillingness to marry Riv. She knew from the experience of others that he could be hard and ruthless when he was thwarted, and she had told him that she would go back and disclose the truth to everyone about Riv and his unfaithfulness. It was the only way unless—she remembered Johnny. She missed his call, but she knew where he was staying. She would go to him as soon as possible and explain the whole situation.

Before the Colonel could reply to her question, she arose and held out her hand. "I'm tired. Whatever you have to tell me could only make me more miserable. I can guess—you want to say that unless you have the interest on that Belle Acres mortgage, you must foreclose the mortgage and sell the place. Well, that is going to be taken care of. Your interest is in the bank and Aunt Car is only waiting for your return to pay you what she owes and refinance the plantation through a government loan."

He was smiling and she did not like his smile.

"And you—what will you do?" she asked.

"I'm getting married."

She waited for his reaction with a warm feeling of triumph singing in her veins. She had surprised him. She had shaken that smooth mask—his complacency. The mask slipped and his face was crimson with anger, and distorted.

She would marry Johnny Harris on whatever terms he proposed. She would marry him immediately, she would return to Tyler Springs and say "I fooled you. I planned this all the time. Didn't I say that I was going to Washington to marry? And so I did. I broke my engagement to Riv Moore because I no longer loved him." "I don't love Riv; I love Johnny—Johnny—she said to herself, and forgot Colonel Moore's presence until he caught her by the shoulder and whirled her about so that she faced him.

He was not angry now. He was smiling. That cold lip smile with his eyes hard and shrewd and ugly. "Whom are you marrying?" he demanded.

She smiled at him. "No one you know."

He released her and picked up his hat. "I didn't mean to tell you," he said slowly, "but since you are marrying immediately, you should know, Belle Acres is sold. One of those Yankees whom you dislike so heartily found out through the bank that the place might be for sale. Technically, there was no reason why I should not sell it. The mortgage was over due—back taxes and interest had accumulated for several years. The bank refused to advance anything on it, for Magnolia House was already mortgaged to the hilt and that was the only other property your aunts owned. I did the best I could."

"You sold it?" The words came slowly.

He nodded. "I sold it. I sold it to a northerner who has been angling for it ever since he came down to Camp Shelby. You may have met him. Knowing how you despise the thought of a northerner owning Mississippi property, I have been like Riv; a coward about telling you bad news. Now—I think you should know that a man named Harris holds the deed to Belle Acres."

Then, as she said nothing, he continued: "I hope that you will reconsider your plan to leave tomorrow, Sue Ellen. There are some things I should like to talk over with you when you are not so tired. Get a good rest. Riv will call you." He held out his hand, but Sue Ellen made no move to take it. As he walked away, a bellhop came toward her and said that there had been a telephone call for her earlier in the evening. The call had come through again, would she take it in the booth or in her room?

"Tell the gentleman I'm not in," Sue Ellen said wearily.

The boy looked puzzled. "But it isn't a gentleman. It's a lady calling long distance from Tyler Springs, Mississippi."

No Plan

"A telephone call from Tyler Springs, Mississippi?" Sue Ellen repeated the words stupidly. She had been so sure that the call was from Johnny Harris.

It was Aunt Car who answered, when she closed the door of the booth behind her and took down the receiver.

"Sue Ellen—"

"Yes, Aunt Car."

"I've been trying to get you all evening," said Aunt Car. Her voice was high and strained and unnatural. "I went to the bank this afternoon." She then told how she had learned that it was too late to redeem Belle Acres. That the mortgage had been foreclosed weeks before and the Colonel had not notified her—that the banker declared the whole transaction irregular—that Magnolia House was threatened—that she never had understood legal transactions, for her father had managed all that, and she was bewildered and frightened and would Sue Ellen return to Tyler Springs as soon as possible, for they needed her desperately.

Sue Ellen promised to return the following day. She would see the Colonel, although even as she promised she had a gloomy feeling that the further discussion of Belle Acres would only prove humiliating and ineffectual unless she met the Colonel's demand to marry

Riv. She hung up the receiver, feeling so weary in mind and body she could scarcely walk across to the elevator. Back in her room, she slumped down in a chair without removing her short fur coat.

A man would know how to handle the Colonel, Johnny Harris would know, if she could forget that he had been ungrateful enough to buy Belle Acres, when he knew—But did he know how much the place meant to them? How loath they were to part with it? How could she know what picture the Colonel had painted to Johnny to put over the transaction?

There was only one way to find out, and that was to ask Johnny Harris himself.

It was too late now. At three in the morning, she would call him the first thing the next day, and even though she did not consider Johnny's offer of marriage, she could talk over her problem and Johnny might offer some solution.

She undressed and went to bed and tossed wide eyed. It was grey dawn when she fell asleep and nine o'clock when she opened her eyes. She felt dull and drowsy and only half awake, when she realized that her telephone was ringing shrilly.

Johnny! She reached over and took the receiver from its cradle, with her heart leaping with an emotion which made her fairly dis-

1. If you take the last name of the "Sweetheart of the A. E. F." and the first name of a distinguished senator from Virginia, you have the screen name of this Cleveland miso who came to movies via modeling and musical comedy. She's.....?

2. A famous movie feud in military circles has been revived in a new movie. The same actors who began it in "What Price Glory?" in 1926 are at it again, but they're wearing different character names—McGinnis and Curtis. Who are they, and what were the old monikers?

3. What in common have these fictitious characters, seen in various films: Nick Charles, Sam Spade, Simon Templar, Charles Chan, Nero Wolfe?

4. (a) What has Tyrone got that dictators crave? (b) What have Helen, Margaret, Linda and Gabby got that $2,000-a-week ain't?

5. What is it that the ladies in these "lady" pictures ("Lady for a Night," "Lady from Louisiana," "Lady of the Tropics," etc.) seldom are?

Count 20 points for each question answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 excellent and 90 or above colossal.

TWO CALIFORNIA COLLEAGUES CLASH IN SENATE DEBATE
Senate would act tomorrow or Friday on the legislation, which would eliminate the present neutrality law provisions preventing American merchant ships from carrying arms and entering belligerent ports or combat zones.
House leaders, it was said, had advised the chief executive a substantial majority of their chamber would favor the measure provided it was limited to the issue of revising the neutrality law and did not contain extraneous amendments regarding labor.

N.Y. Stock Market
New York, Nov. 5. - (AP) - In the face of dark spots in the foreign news, the stock market today worked up a fair recovery momentum and leaders posted gains which at the best ranged from fractions to a point or so.
Indicating some accumulation of buying orders over the election holiday, the opening was moderately active and first hour transactions were well above the average of recent sessions. Buying interests covered principally the steels, aircrafts, industrial specialties and selected tobaccos and shipping stocks. Profit selling slowed the advance near the fourth hour.

HOLLAND GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Death Sentence Committed By Governor Broughton

Raleigh, Nov. 5. - (AP) - Shephard Holland, who has lived for more than two years on death row at central prison while his execution date rolled by 10 different times, received a commutation today from Gov. Broughton.
Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill announced that the death sentence had been changed to life imprisonment by the governor following a conference with Solicitor J. Abner Barker of Roseboro, and others who helped prosecute Holland.
Holland was scheduled to die Friday. He was convicted in Duplin county in June, 1939, of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of his four-year-old step-son, Ray Goodman in an alleged insurance collection plot.
His death date was stayed once by an appeal to the State Supreme court and he subsequently received nine reprieves. Several of the reprieves were granted that he could testify at the trial of another man accused of complicity in the killing. The man was acquitted.
Gill quoted Baxer as saying: "It is my view that Holland's guilt comes nearer being that of accessory before the fact than murder in the first degree and I still believe that some person or persons other than Holland are guilty of the capital offense."
Gill said that others joining in recommending the commutation for Holland included Rivers D. Johnson of Warsaw, Robert Wells of Kenansville and Robert West, all members of the private prosecution, Howard Pierce of the S.B.I. who investigated the case, Sheriff D. S. Williamson of Duplin county, Deputy Sheriff German Powell, Duplin Coroner R. J. Jones and 12 members of the jury.

SERVE YOUR COUNTRY
★ protect your future ★
GET IN THE NAVY NOW!

America needs volunteers to keep the light of liberty burning... to safeguard our American shores... to man our new two-ocean Navy.

The United States is now building the most powerful Navy the world has ever seen. But it takes more than ships and planes to patrol our shores, safeguard our liberty, protect millions of American homes and families. It takes men! Volunteers!

Every new battleship, new cruiser, new destroyer is just so much steel and iron until a crew of trained men - mechanics, electricians, radiomen, signalmen, carpenters and other specialists - goes aboard.

That is why the U. S. Navy may train you to be an expert in any one of forty-five modern trades and professions. You will get regular Navy pay while you are learning. And it is possible for you to be earning as much as $126.00 a month before your first enlistment is completed.

Right now in the Navy young Americans have a double opportunity to serve their country while building their own security and independence at the same time.

Grow with the new, greater Navy

The Navy wants men to learn, to advance, to get bigger pay, to qualify for the positions of responsibility which must be filled as our naval forces are expanded. It is a real opportunity for every young man - one well worth thinking about. There is a place for you in America's new Navy.

If you have a trade now or would like to learn one, why not get the full facts about Navy opportunities and training today!

LOOK UP THE U. S. NAVY AND NAVAL RESERVE OFFER YOU

FREE TRAINING worth $1500. 45 trades and vocations to choose from.
GOOD PAY with regular increases. You may earn up to $126 a month.
EACH YEAR you are entitled to a generous vacation period with full pay.
GOOD FOOD and plenty of it.
FREE CLOTHING. A complete outfit of clothing when you first enlist. (Over $100 worth.)
FREE MEDICAL CARE, regular dental attention.
FINEST SPORTS and entertainment.
TRAVEL ADVENTURE, THRILLS - You can't beat the Navy for them!
BECOME AN OFFICER. Many can work for an appointment to the Naval Academy or the Annapolis of the Air at Pensacola.
FUTURE SUCCESS. It's easy for Navy-trained men to get good-paying jobs in civil life.
LIBERAL RETIREMENT-PAY for regular Navy men.

Get this FREE BOOKLET

Mail coupon for your free copy of "Life in the U. S. Navy." 24 illustrated pages. Tells pay, promotions, and vacations you can expect... how you can retire on a life income. Describes how you can learn any of 45 big-pay trades from aviation to radio... how many may become officers. 27 scenes from Navy life showing games you may play, exciting ports you may visit. Tells enlistment requirements and where to apply. If you are between 17 and 31 (no high school required), get this free booklet now. No obligation. Ask the Navy Editor of this paper for a copy. Or telephone him. Or mail him the coupon. You can paste it on a penny postal card.

WEAR THIS BADGE OF HONOR! If after reading the free booklet you decide to apply for a place in the Navy, you will receive this smart lapel-emblem. It is a badge of honor you will be proud to wear.

Are you considering joining a military service? WHY NOT CHOOSE THE NAVAL RESERVE!

Don't wait. Choose the Naval Reserve now. The Secretary of the Navy has announced: "All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."
Remember - the regular Navy and Naval Reserve offer you the same training, promotions, pay increases. Physical requirements in the Naval Reserve are more liberal. Find out all about the Naval Reserve. Send in the coupon now!

Tear out and take or send this coupon to the Navy Editor of this newspaper E3

Without obligation on my part whatsoever, please send me free booklet, "Life in the Navy," giving full details about the opportunities for men in the Navy or Naval Reserve.
