WORK TOWARD SOLUTION FOR MINE DISPUTE

UMW And Steel Industrial Officials in Conferences

CONTRACT ENDS WITH MIDNIGHT

Union Committee Re-cesses Until Late In Day; No Report Forthcoming From Industry's Parley

Washington, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Leaders of the United Mine Workers and the steel industry worked today toward a solution of their union shop dispute, while the hours rolled on toward a midnight expiration of the miners' contract in steel's captive coal mines.

The two groups conferred, as they had late yesterday, in the light of President Roosevelt's declaration that it was his "indisputable obligation" to see that the steel mills get the coal they need to fill defense orders.

The UMW committee recessed until late today without action.

John L. Lewis, president of the miners' union, said after the policy meeting that he had reported informally to the union delegates from all coal fields in the country on Mr. Roosevelt's request for an agreement which will keep production going.

But at mine workers' headquarters frequent references were made to contract provisions that upon expiration of a working agreement miners have no right to go upon company property. A truce extending the contract for the captive mines will expire at midnight tonight unless an extension should be ordered by the policy committee.

Benjamin Fairless of the United States Steel Corporation immediately upon convening of the new conference with union leaders came from the hotel room meeting place to say that no indication of the progress of negotiations would be given until a recess.

Rapid Progress Shown In Pitt Farm Situation

Annual Report Submitted By County Farm Agent

A composite picture of the farm situation in Pitt County, its progress and the part being played by the extension service is presented in the annual report of County Agent R. R. Bennett as submitted to the Agricultural Workers Council and the Board of Agriculture.

Following is a general outline of the report:

"The objectives of the extension service is to show by doing through demonstrations, individual projects, and mass education methods the best and most economical way of farming, marketing, and family living both in the home and on the farm."

"We attempt to assist farmers in solving problems and bring them from our research staff and expert-ment stations through our extension specialists, and bulletins from the college, from the State and Federal Experiment Stations, the most accurate and up to date information and progressive agricultural methods available."

"Originally when the Extension Service was first set up, one of the first problems attacked was that of increasing yields, and production of the various kinds of crops needed by the family on the farm as in the city and for industry."

"Since the beginning the problems have changed. Industry has benefited to a certain extent at the expense of agriculture. Farming has become more competitive, farmers have had a small share of the national income, farmers have had to educate a larger per cent of the nation's children on a smaller per cent of the national income, distribution of farm commodities has become more of a problem, surpluses and loss of foreign markets for agricultural products have come into the picture."

"With these and other conditions existing emphasis has had to be placed on the various problems as they arise."

"Pitt is one of the larger counties of the state with a total of 5,650 farms averaging 52.6 acres per farm. Two thousand one hundred seventy-one of the farms run 10 to 29 acres, 1,142 farms run from 30 to 49 acres, 1,162 of the farms run from 50 to 100 acres. There are 366,344 acres of farm land, 165,446 acres of which is crop land including cultivated pasture land, 6,312 acres idle crop land, 199,579 acres woods and other non-crop land, and 1,285 acres non-crop pasture land. In 1940 we planted 123,355 acres of soil-depleting crops, in spite of the big reduction which has been made in tobacco, cotton, and other so-called cash crops acreages."

"Here is a sample of the adjustments that have taken place in the acreages of crops in Pitt County: Acres—1929-58,863 1940-28,000 Cotton 1929-32,240 1940-14,000 Corn 1930-6,121 1940-5,605 Wheat 1930-49,385 1940-72,108 Barley 1930-111 1941-575 Hay 1929-1,091 1941-300 Soybeans 1929-1,071 1940-2,000 Hay 1930-6,662 1940-25,000"

JAPANESE DIET CONVENES FOR CRISIS SESSION

U.S. Marines Begin Packing To Leave Chinese Cities

SPECIAL NIPPON ENVY NEAR GOAL

Kurusu On Way To Washington With Mission Of Understanding Many Japs Regard With Pessimism

Tokyo, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The special "crisis session" of the Diet assembled today with a two-fold job—to feed more men and money to the Japanese war machine and levy new taxes to help pay the bill — amid increasing tension in the Pacific.

As a setting, United States marines in Shanghai, Peiping and Tientsin began packing up to leave on President Roosevelt's orders and Saburo Kurusu neared Washington as a special envoy with a mission of understanding which many Japanese regarded with pessimism.

The decision to withdraw the marines was published in Japanese newspapers under Washington date-lines without comment.

Washington, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Saburo Kurusu, special Japanese envoy, today reached the end of his aerial journey from Tokyo reportedly bearing his government's final terms for peaceful settlement of Japanese-American differences in the Pacific.

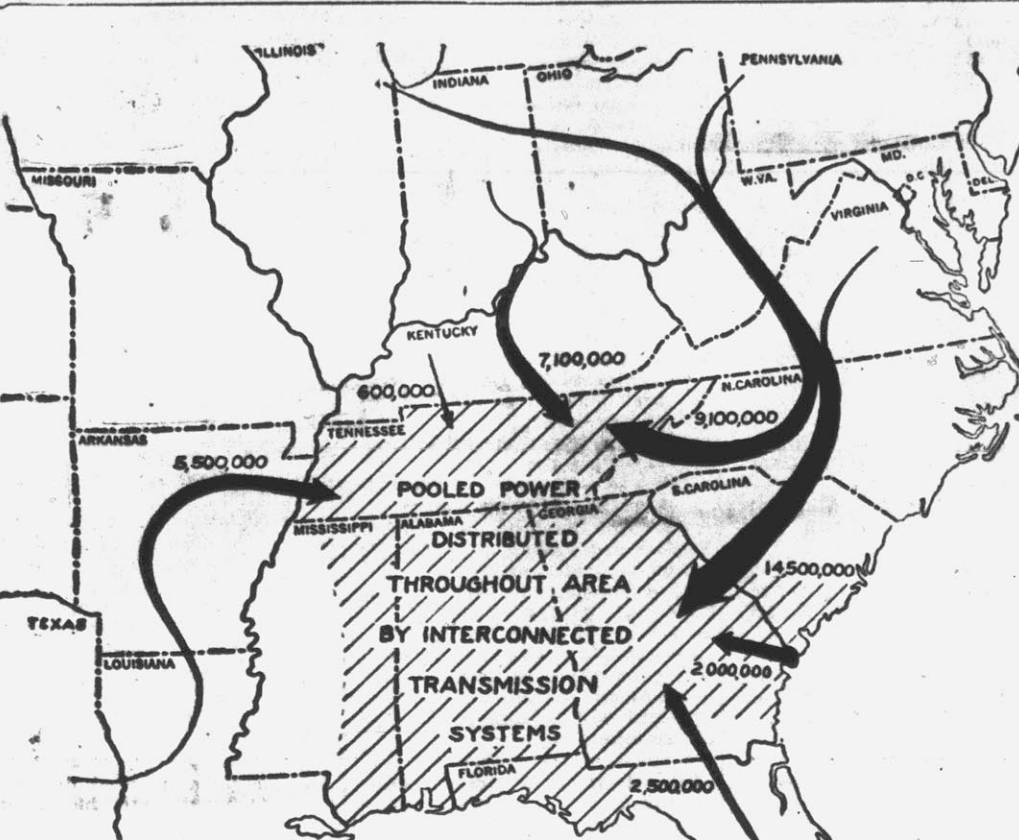

Officials said that since Kurusu, according to diplomatic quarters, is carrying a personal message to the President from Premier General Tojo, the Japanese may request an immediate conference at the White House. General Tojo is understood to desire to have his message delivered to the President before he addresses the Japanese Diet on Tuesday.

The State Department announced that arrangement had been made for Kurusu to call on Secretary Hull Monday, accompanied by the Japanese ambassador, Kichisaburo Nomura.

Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have declined to comment on the possibility of a peaceful adjustment of Japanese-American relations as a result of the renewed discussions, pending study of whatever proposals Nomura and Kurusu may present.

"At San Francisco, however, when reporters asked Kurusu yesterday about the chance for peace, the envoy replied, 'If I didn't have a hope, why do you think I came such a long way?'"

How Power Pooling Plan Works

Here, at a glance, is how the power pooling plan works. Surplus power from 13 states, forming almost a solid block from Pennsylvania to Florida, and from Illinois to Texas, is flowing into the southeastern states where a power shortage exists because of drought and heavy defense loads. The width of the arrows indicates the volume of the power transfers as additional power is picked up all along the line. The figures show the kilowatt hours of power each arrow brings into the area per week. All the states through which the arrows flow are contributing to the pool. The shaded part indicates the shortage area. The power pooling arrangement was carried out by an order issued by O. P. M.

WAGES AND PRICES Babson Discusses Real Cost Of Living

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 15.—I know something about "cost-of-living" indices. When I was Assistant to the Secretary of Labor I had a hand in making the government cost-of-living index then in use. The U. S. Bureau of Labor's present index is complete, but impractical. One hundred ninety-eight different goods and services are priced. Rents are priced in 33 cities for a varying number of dwellings where wage earners and clerical workers live, depending upon the size of the city—from 450 in Manchester, N. H., to 2750 in New York City.

What's In The Index? The cost-of-living index is made up by combining a separate index for each group of expenditures. The food group is derived from such items as cereals and bakery products; meats, fish and poultry; eggs and dairy products; fruits and vegetables; fats and oils; sugar and beverages. "Cereals" include white flour, macaroni, corn flakes, and corn meal; whereas "fruits and vegetables" in clude apples, bananas, oranges, green beans, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, onions, potatoes, spinach, sweet potatoes, as well as tobacco, cotton, and other so-called cash crops acreages.

Other groups cover clothing, rent, fuel, electricity, house furnishings, insurance, and miscellaneous. There is an index for each of the 33 cities covered. Thus, the index is not meant to represent the cost-of-living on farms. I have adjusted this U. S. index to cover the 15 per cent waste which goes into the garbage pail and elsewhere. I, how- ever, have made no allowance for the billions wasted on crime, harmful drugs, etc. The importance of waste cannot be too highly emphasized in computing a cost-of-living index, particularly in these times.

Axis Assaults Everywhere Except The Crimea Officially Described As Blunted Down; Invaders Declared to Have Been Dislodged From Positions Where Attempts Made To Dig In

Kuibyshev, Russia, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Red army has nullified the German offensive everywhere on the vast battle front, save the Crimea, Russian spokesmen declared today.

Only on that sidelong approach to the Caucasus is the Red army's position regarded as serious. Military dispatches described the Axis assault as blunted and bogged down from the snow fields of Leningrad and Moscow to the mired Ukraine.

In sector after sector along the front the Russians said their own counter attacks were gaining steadily in force.

An account of the drawn-out battle for Leningrad, in the army newspaper Red Star, estimated that the Germans had lost 200,000 dead and wounded including three generals in the fighting there.

It said the Germans launched their attack on the big port four months ago with 20 massed divisions.

(That would be approximately 300,000 men and with the figures of Nazi losses, would indicate the Germans probably were forced to send large replacement forces to maintain their siege.)

Red Star said the Germans had been dislodged repeatedly from positions where they attempted to dig in for the winter. It said morale remained high although the city was being shelled by German artillery.

The paper said the Germans, attempting to adapt their forces for the winter campaign, had painted tanks white and equipped scouts with full length white robes. It said most of the Germans, however, still were inadequately dressed and suffered from the intense cold.

Heavy battles were reported continuing near Kalinin and Tula, northeast and south of Moscow, but the Russians said the Germans had been checked at both fronts and in some cases were pushed back by counter attacks of increasing force.

West and southwest of the capital, the Russians were said to have recaptured villages, smashed the Germans back in the Maloyaroslavets region, and held the initiative with counter attacks at Mezhsak and Volokolamsk, where the Germans were said to have lost 1,000 men in a single battle.

Latest reports from the Crimea said the Germans were trying with an intense land and air assault to break through to the Caucasus across the narrow strait guarded by Kerch.

Defenders of the naval base of Sevastopol were said to be holding out firmly and counter-attacking, supported by naval artillery and bombers of the Red fleet.

Lost And Found Orleans, France.—(AP)—Not everybody was the loser in the great panic which accompanied France's defeat in 1940. Some people were finders. The latest story is about 218 pearls of great price in search of their owner. They were found in a swamp near the village of Olzon, where a farmer some time before came upon a case containing three million francs' worth of jewelry while tilling his field. Nobody has yet claimed them.

Over-All Agriculture Committee To Be Named

An election of an over-all Agricultural Planning Committee representing each neighborhood in the county will be held at meeting places outlined in the following schedule.

What will the committee want to know of me when I fill out my food for defense plan? The rates of payment under the 1942 Agricultural Conservation program has just been announced and we will bring you this information.

The 1942 tobacco, cotton, peanut, and potato allotments have been set up and will be delivered by committeemen at the meeting places according to the following schedule:

Hail Sinking Of Ark Royal As Great New Success

Berlin, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The German high command disclosed today for the first time that U-boats are operating in the Mediterranean by announcing that German submarines damaged the British battleship Malaya and sank the aircraft carrier Ark Royal in an attack on a formation of British battleships.

The Malaya was so badly damaged she had to be towed into Britain's fortress harbor of Gibraltar, the special bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters declared.

Two submarines were credited with having sunk the Ark Royal in what the high command acclaimed as a "great new success" for the German navy.

Other British vessels were torpedoed, the communique said, but it gave no indication of what or how many there were.

Neither did the terse announcement indicate whether the German under-water craft were operating out of Italian harbors, whether some other part of the Axis-held Mediterranean coast was sheltering them or whether they had slipped through the narrow strait of Gibraltar past Britain's guardian rock.

Manning, who made the introductions to the receiving line, composed of the host and hostess, two members of their bridal party, Mrs. R. E. Jones of Rocky Mount and Mrs. J. T. Turner of Bethel, and the children of Mr. and Mrs. Manning—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. X. E. Manning of Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Manning of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Manning of Durham, Mrs. H. J. Stephens of Willow Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Robertson of Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Jones received at the door to the music room, and directed the guests to the dining room where the dining table, covered with a handsome imported Madeira cloth, was centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, over which was suspended a tiny golden wedding bell. Bordered the reflector on which the cake rested were tiny yellow pom-poms, and clusters of yellow pom-poms tied with tulle were used at each corner of the table. Silver candlesticks tied with bows of tulle held gleaming yellow tapers. From the chandelier over the table three wedding bells were hung with yellow tulle.

Guests were served ice cream decorated with a golden bell, individual cakes with gold frosting, yellow mints and salted nuts, by Mrs. F. P. Pollard, Mrs. Clayton Cannon, Mrs. Dewey Edmondson, Mrs. G. T. Whitehurst, Mrs. Lucius Ward, Little Miss Martha Chesson Manning, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manning, and Miss Mary Wells Bunting.

Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ives. Two hundred and fifty friends called during the evening to felicitate the host and hostess.

An enjoyable program of music appropriate to the occasion was given by Mrs. W. J. Smith and Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst.

Achievement Day
Approximately 200 people gathered at the Memorial Baptist Church Wednesday morning at 10:30 for the annual Home Demonstration Club Achievement Day. The church was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. Throughout the day the club colors, green and yellow, were carried out in flower arrangements, table decorations and program booklets. The theme of this Achievement day program was centered around Thanksgiving.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. B. Tyer. After the Thanksgiving hymn, Rev. J. D. Simons had charge of the devotional. Mrs. Ola Tucker rendered a solo. A most gracious welcome was given by J. D. McArthur. Mrs. McCoy Tripp responded to the welcome address.

Winterville club won a prize of $2.50 for having the largest per cent of members present, 22 out of the 27 members on roll.

Outstanding achievements have been accomplished this year by home demonstration club members. Mr. R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, praised the members for the fine work they were doing and congratulated them on the numerous achievements they have made. Mr. Bennett gave a most inspiring talk on achievements of Extension Service in cooperation with Farm Men and Women. Mr. Brantley Speight told of the achievements he had made in cooperation with the agricultural program. The secretary of each club gave a most interesting report of the achievements her club had made. These reports were presented in the form of dialogues poems and readings. The achievements made were numerous. They include the following accomplishments: Refinished furniture, refinished walls and floors, improved color harmonies, rearrangement of furniture, slip covers, storage space, installation of water lines, glassed in porches, labor saving devices, reports of canned products by use of pressure cookers, ready made garments, community activities, book reviews, and county, district and state meetings attended.

Each person ended her report by expressing gratitude and thankfulness for the bountiful harvest season bestowed upon the people in Pitt county.

The morning program ended with a presentation of an award of merit to Mrs. Simon B. Tucker. Miss Joyner presented the award. At this time she expressed her appreciation to the club members for their splendid cooperation since she has been in the county.

She congratulated them on their many achievements during the past year and expressed her wishes for a successful coming year. She asked for the support of all the members during the next year and stated "There is much we can do to better the standards of living for rural people in Pitt county."

Practically all 200 of the people present gathered at the Woman's Club building for the luncheon program. The banquet tables were decorated with flowers, candles and favors in the club colors. A delicious luncheon was served by members of the Greenville Woman's Club. Group singing was led by Mr. A. L. Dittmer. Patriotic songs, Thanksgiving hymns and others were enjoyed. The group was thoroughly entertained by a talk "My

"Thrift and Health for Better Living." They hope to reach every family in Pitt county and better the standards of farm living. These 200 club women went home with high spirits and determination to make the year 1942-43 even better than the past. One new club member said, "This is my first Achievement Day, but I have thoroughly enjoyed it, and I am looking forward to coming back next year." With the hopes and ambitions of this group of fine people, I am sure that much constructive work will be done in-home demonstration work next year.

Meat Canning Demonstration
The attendance at the two meat canning demonstrations was unusually good. The demonstrations were given at East Carolina Teachers College on Saturday and Monday. Mr. Hall, a representative of the Burpee Company, gave the demonstrations. The demonstration included the canning of the different cuts of pork. Mr. Hall also showed how the entire meal could be cooked in a pressure cooker. He stressed the fact that canning should be fun. Everyone present enjoyed the demonstration and went home with new and improved methods for canning meats.

Civilian Defense Insignia

The Office of Civilian Defense has released illustrations and specifications of dimensions, colors, and materials for 16 different insignia. Each of the activities in civilian defense, 15 in number, will have a distinctive design which the volunteer workers, after they have been enrolled and trained, will wear on white armbands or embroidered on the left sleeve of uniforms, 1 inch below the shoulder seam. One of the insignia is shown below.

AUXILIARY FIREMEN

The Auxiliary Firemen will wear a red cross in red within white triangle set in blue circle. Because numerous fires can start simultaneously and spread swiftly during or after a raid, it is necessary to augment the regular fire-fighting forces. Auxiliary fire stations with an officer or first grade fireman in charge of each probably will be established around each existing engine company. Enrolled volunteers will be assigned to each fire station. They should be men who are not subject to military draft.

The wearing of this insignia is limited to workers enrolled as Auxiliary Firemen in the Greenville Civilian Defense Organization.

Scoring once in the second quarter on a 26-yard punt by Leonard Briley, again in the same period on a pass from Hubert Musciewhite to Cecil Crawford, once in the third period when Andrews picked up a blocked punt and raced 22 yards to pay dirt and a fourth touchdown on John Spearman's 56-yard dash, the Green Phantoms yesterday defeated the Roanoke Rapids eleven 27-0. Spencer Carroll, tackle, converted on three tries.

Yesterday's victory was the first for the locals over the Yellow Jackets.

Captain Bo Farley's protégés were never in any serious danger, allowing the Halifax team only four first downs while they were piling up a total of 15. While the backfield was taking advantage of every opportunity and playing heads-up ball, the line was doing its part by holding the Jackets and making holes for the local backs.

Uncle Sam To Insure Warmth For Soldiers

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14.—With the thermometer hovering around the freezing point, Uncle Sam has taken steps to assure complete sleeping comfort to the maneuvering soldiers of the Fourth Army Corps, now participating in the Carolina war games with Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum's First Army.

Brigadier General James L. Frink, quartermaster of the Fourth Corps Area, which embraces the maneuver area, announced today that an additional 98,000 blankets have been shipped to the Fourth Corps outfits in North and South Carolina. The issue supplements the present blanket supply of three to each man.

The extra supply of blankets, it was revealed, will go to soldiers who will sleep in "pup" tents.

Great Sophs And Not-So-Great Foes Help Duke

By FRANK B. GILBRETH
Durham.—Coach Wallace Wade of the Duke Blue Devils, at the start of the 1941 football season, was both blue and bedeviled.

He had lost five regulars from his 1940 team. His squad was smaller than it had been in years. With two games left to play, he was coasting toward an undefeated and untied season.

There's a double-barreled reason for his team's remarkable showing: average sophomores who became great; great opponents who became average.

The sophs are Tom Davis of Wilson and Lee Long of South Orange, N. J. backs, and Bob Gantt of Durham, an end.

Davis is a brother of Duke's ace back, Jap Davis, who graduated last spring and now is on the coaching staff. Tom is one of the greatest sophs ever seen at Duke. He's a triple-threat, and threw passes in Duke's 14-0 victory over Georgia Tech.

Long, a big raw-boned guy with a displacement of close to 200 pounds, is a hammer-headed line cracker. He is promised to be the best fullback Duke has had since 1938, that spot.

Here's Duke's veteran Steve Lach on a typical run when Irish Bob O'Mara held down Gantt, who is a son of another Bob Gantt, who starred for Duke (then called Trinity) on the gridiron and diamond. Young Bob is 6-2 tall and weighs 210. He's a fine defensive end, and he is positively guaranteed to catch any pass which lands within a country mile of his immediate vicinity.

These rookies have teamed up with some really great veterans. Steve Lach of Altoona, Pa., for instance is described by Wade as just as good a collegiate back as were Ace Parker and George McAfee.

Mike Karmazin of Irwin, Pa., is generally regarded as the finest tackle in the South; Bob Barnett of Albany, Ga., upholds the Duke tradition of fine centers, and Moffat Storer of Wheeling, W. Va., is a whirlwind back who weighs 130 and runs the 100-yard dash in 9.6.

In the first seven games the Devils have whipped Wake Forest, Tennessee, Maryland, Colgate, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech and Davidson.

Ordinarily, Tennessee, Colgate, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech and North Carolina have great teams. This year, however, they aren't in any super-special class.

PIRATES NEAR PERFECT YEAR

Unbeaten College Eleven Playing Belmont This P.M.

Unbeaten and untied in six battles against stiff small-college opponents this season, the "Terrific Teachers" of East Carolina Teachers College have to down the Belmont Abbey Gridders at Gastonia this afternoon to complete the 1941 season as the first undefeated team in the school's history.

Five out-of-state teams, including two highly-rated small-college grid powers, have fallen to the Pirates of ECTC this fall. Tusculum College, Greenville, Tenn.; the Naval Apprentices, Portsmouth, Va.; the Naval Hospital, Portsmouth; West Carolina Teachers College of Cullowhee; Erskine College, Due West, S. C.; and Bergen College, Teaneck, N. J. have been victims of the Pirates.

Probably the highlight of the Pirate season occurred last Friday when they upset the favored Bergen footballers 13-7. Before that battle, in which the Teachers were forced to make a desperate last-minute goal-line stand, Bergen was undefeated and untied for the season and had lost only once in three years. The local college also scored somewhat of an upset when they smashed the Erskine Seceders 14-7 with a last-minute score.

Rolling up 146 points, the Teachers have an average of slightly more than four touchdowns for each game. Although complete statistics in other departments of play are not currently available, it is an established fact that the Buccaneers have outclassed their opponents in every branch of play.

Full credit for the almost phenomenal success of the 1941 ECTC grid machine should go to Coach John B. Christenbury, who has brought the Pirates from the football cellar to a top position in two short years. Taking over last fall after a complete losing season for the Teachers in 1939, Christenbury piloted his first Pirates team to five victories against three defeats last season. This fine work was done without the aid of subsidization of any form by the college.

This year Coach John has developed two of the outstanding small-college gridgers in the south, Dan Waddell, senior quarterback for the East Carolina team who has done great work in directing play on the field, and Captain Jimmie Gianacos, hard-charging guard who has paced the terrific play of the ECTC

Every year the second week in November the students and teachers of the Pitt County Training School, Grimesland, celebrate American Education Week by giving some type of program in chapel each day of the week. This program is under the direction of Miss M. J. Kelley who plans the program. The theme this year was: "Education for a Strong America."

The program was as follows: Monday the subject was "Building Physical Fitness." This program was under the direction of H. C. Barnhill. His home room class, the eighth grade, gave a very excellent program. The subject for Tuesday was: "Strengthening the National Morale." Directed by Miss M. J. Kelley. Some members of the Junior and Senior classes took part in a round-table discussion. Wednesday's program was titled: "Improving Economic Well-Being." The New Farmers of America's club had another round-table discussion which aroused a great deal of interest. The discussion centered around "Food and Feed." On Thursday Mr. J. W. Maye and his home-room class the 9th grade had an excellent program on "Learning the Ways of Democracy." The last program on Friday was given by the Home Economic Department, directed by Miss A. W. Jones. The subject was: "Enriching Family Life." Bettie Chapman gave an address on the subject followed by a duet by Annie Baker and Bessie Pittman.

Chapter 29 New Deeds

Sue Ellen knew now why Johnny was delayed—why he had brought Deedora. Johnny had been with Deedora.

The thought sickened her. It was Ginny who brought the details of the events leading up to Rive's accident.

At first she determined not to see anyone who would mention Rive, when Aunt Car came in to tell her that Ginny was down stairs. It was Aunt Car who showed a sudden spirit and demanded that she talk to Ginny.

Ginny tiptoed in and stood staring at her wide-eyed. Her woeful expression aroused the first spark of amusement in Sue Ellen. "Come in. I'm not dying. I'm just lousy." "I had to see you, Sue Ellen, before Toby and I left this afternoon to be married. I am meeting him at one o'clock and we expect to be back Sunday. With all your added worries, I don't expect you to break the news of my elopement to Mother, and will leave her a note explaining everything."

Ginny continued: "Toby is so excited about our marriage, but terribly upset because he thinks he helped patch up things with you and Rive. Can you imagine anyone with a broken back not dying?"

The Rhythm band of the Primary department trained by Mrs. M. Wyche gave a very good musical selection titled: "America." Two other selections were rendered by the boys quartet and the mixed octet.

After Ginny left, Sue Ellen lay for a long time, fitting together what Ginny had told her. For some unexplainable reason, Johnny had gone out to see Deedora while she sat waiting for him at Magnolia House. Toby, misinformed by someone, had persuaded her to fly to Rive as though he were her lover on a deathbed, and with a heart sick and sore and bewildered, she had forgotten everything but her pity for Rive and done something which Rive might understand and others would certainly misconstrue. No one mattered but Johnny. Did he understand?

There was no opportunity to learn what Johnny thought or felt. In the following weeks, he called—she wrote. But the conversation hinged upon Belle Acres and her success in starting the plans he had made for its reconstruction. At Christmas he sent her a short fur coat—with a note saying that the coat might be of no use in Mississippi, but when she came East—the note stopped there. It was the one scrap of evidence that Johnny believed that there was a future which they would share together.

On New Year's Day, Colonel Moore called. Rive was back from the Memphis hospital, where they had taken him the same night she had rushed off through the rain to see him. Rive wanted to see her now. "I have no right to be with Rive," she told the Colonel. The Colonel looked old and shattered. Rumors about Tyler Springs hinted that he had had to mortgage Oak Hill heavily to finance Rive's care in Memphis. Others said that sympathizing friends had managed to hush up a hint that Colonel Moore was heavily involved at the bank. "Could you do anything to help Rive?" pleaded the Colonel. She shook her head. "Rive will have to learn to help himself." Good advice, but after the Colonel had gone she wondered just how she could apply that same advice to herself. Not by fretting and worrying and misinterpreting Johnny's actions. Work might help, and for the next few weeks she worked feverishly with the plan to restore Belle Acres to its former beauty. Johnny had thought he might return in January, but January passed with no mention of that promise. The weather was not warm, but clear and pleasant, and work was started out at the plantation and Sue Ellen became absorbed in it and the desire to have as much as possible done before Johnny's coming. It was a strange marriage. She tried not to think of it—to busy herself so that the days would pass quickly until Johnny would come back. She tried not to harbor a single doubt about Johnny, never she knew that gossip had never ceased about the fact that Johnny had been with Deedora on that rainy December night and that it was rage over this, as well as too much liquor, which was responsible for Rive's wild driving. It was not wise to dwell on this. It embittered her and made her uncertain of the future.

She bought a car. Johnny had sent the check and told her he had put in an order with a local dealer. She should pick out a car and a man would teach her to drive. After that she drove all over the county to sales and auctions, and at last Belle Acres began to take on character. The workmen finished the repairs on woodwork and painting the first week in February, and the first furniture was moved in. Then there were trips for draperies—she worked now in a fever of impatience, with one idea. When Johnny came, he should meet her at Belle Acres. They would be together there and talk together and reach that perfect understanding to which she looked forward. Wedding Warm days came in February. The nights were chill but the sun was like a spring sun, bright and clear and hot on her neck when she superintended the landscaping of the great sweep of front lawn and pushed over the clearing of the tangle of brush and brambles in the rose garden. Finally she turned the rose garden over to Aunt Car's supervision. Aunt Car seemed to blossom as she worked; she took on weight and her pale cheeks glowed a rosy pink. "Aunt Car! You're beautiful." Aunt Car blushed. There was something puzzling about her confusion. A few days later Sue Ellen heard the reason. Aunt Car had received not one but many letters from Johnny's father, the man she had loved so long ago. He was in Washington and planned to come South to see her. He was eager to renew their acquaintance—and meet Sue Ellen. Aunt Car confessed all of this one evening when she slipped into Sue Ellen's room. "I don't dare tell Pleas," Aunt Car said guiltily. "Aunt Car—you still love him!" "He says that he has always loved me." "But Aunt Car—he's practically a stranger! How can you know you'll be happy after all these years?" demanded Sue Ellen. Aunt Car was trying on the dress in which she would be married. Grey, like her hair, with soft touches of fur. Her eyes were clear and shining as a girl's. "She has no doubts," thought Sue Ellen enviously, even before Aunt Car said: "I love John and he loves me. That's all I need to know." Johnny wired congratulations and regrets. He had hoped to attend the wedding—but he would be in Tyler Springs the following week. The next week! There was so much to be done. After Belle Acres was almost ready, the rains descended and ruined all the lawn and put an end to work until the storm was over. Rain and more rain, a steady, miserable downpour which lasted for a week with no sign of cessation, and with the rain all the old doubts returned. Why be so sure that Johnny loved her? NO COMPLEX IN FOURTH CORPS

Ready To Go Against Force Twice Its Size

Chester, S. C., Nov. 14 - Troops of Major General O. W. Griswold's Fourth Army Corps, who in their preliminary war games in the Carolinas have already played a big part in development of the probable "corps of tomorrow," will by no means have an inferiority complex when they go against a force twice as large in maneuvers during the next two weeks.

Fighting alongside the regular Fourth Army Corps units will be the formidable First Armored Corps, composed of the two pioneer tank divisions of the United States army, which have operated as a corps only twice before, each of those occasions giving only a brief test to these powerful panzer outfits.

While the total number of men involved in the climax of the September war games in Louisiana was slightly larger, the forthcoming exercises over the wooded hill country of the two Carolinas will bring a greater display of power and mechanized might and is expected to result in mock warfare of a faster tempo than has ever been seen before in this country.

Both General Griswold, who will direct the Fourth Corps and its attached units, and Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, chief of the First Army, are known as aggressive commanders, and lightning assaults are expected when their two forces clash.

The First Army, one of the four field armies of the United States, has been assembled from its camps in the east and along the Atlantic seaboard, and has been engaged in preliminary maneuvers in this section since early in October. Some 200,000 men are in this command.

Troops in the Fourth Army Corps, seasoned by two months of maneuvers in Louisiana during the late summer and fall, came into this South Carolina area the first of the month and staged two corps-conducted problems in the frost-bitten Piedmont highlands by way of preparing for the big tests to come.

General Griswold will have close to 100,000 men, armed with the army's most modern weapons and equipment, to hurl against the numerically superior First Army.

Error Made In Ad Of White Chevrolet Co.

In yesterday's issue of the Reflector a few of the first papers to come off the press carried a Chevrolet automobile advertisement with the Folger Buick signature.

The ad featured the new Chevrolet "the finest Chevrolet of all time." The popular make cars are still sold by the White Chevrolet Company, Inc. The Folger Company is agency for Buicks.

The error in the advertisement was soon observed and the correction made.

In acreage of tobacco, cotton, and peanuts has been brought about by the A. A. program in an effort to avoid further burdensome surpluses and low prices in face of loss of world markets.

"The corn acreage has increased due to the increase in the hogs and cattle and for lack of experience in producing other crops and livestock to utilize the idle acres taken out of other crops.

We are urging berley and other small grains to help replace some of the corn since with small grain we can better conserve our soil by interplanting with lespedeza, vetch, Austrian winter peas, crimson clover, or by following small grain with soybeans and cowpeas. With flour produced from wheat raised on the farm for home use we hope to have better fed people.

buy things which are plentiful, as squash and apples are now. Buy cheaper cuts of meat. Bottom of the round sells in Boston for 32 cents a pound and has as much food value as sirloin at 65 cents. Why buy for "tenderness" when you can get as much nourishment for less money and have a smaller dental bill? There is a three to five cent difference between canned "standard" peas and "fancy" peas. The standard peas has more food value and costs less. The fancy pea only looks and tastes better.

Cost Of Shelter

Building costs, including materials and labor, are about 12 per cent above a year ago. Before building a new house today prospective homeowners should perhaps consider the purchase of foreclosed property from banks and insurance companies. Much of this property is available and has been put into good shape. Such property may be financed on a modest down payment and easy monthly installments. Thus the total cost of owning a house today may be even less than in the past if people will take time to shop around.

The rise to date in the over-all cost of living is fully compensated for by the fact that there has been a continual increase in the number of people employed. This monthly increase is now running at the rate of about 450,000 persons. As some member of a family, heretofore unemployed, gets employment, this raises the total family income and compensates for any increase in the cost of living.

Combating Living Costs

Some 80 per cent of our workers are engaged in non-defense industries which cannot possibly pay increased wages. Civil service and other government employees are in the same boat. They will feel rising living costs more than any other group. The five per cent group can readily adjust, themselves to meet higher prices. Most of those, however, who are not in the defense industries must change their purchasing habits.

This 80 per cent of our people will surely have to be content with wasting less and spending less on their car. They can do much, however, to combat rising living costs by shifting their purchases from items that have gone up to items that have not gone up. This can be done. We can, all also remember the old New England proverb, "Eat it up, wear it out, and make it do!"
