

HEAVY TOLL CAUSES TANK BATTLE TO SLOW DOWN

DECLARES U. S. AN ASSISTANT TO COMMUNISM

Ribbentrop's Statement also Includes Britain

ANTI-COMINTERN PACT BROADEN'D

Agreement Signed By 13 Nations Hailed As Continental Solidarity Against U.S. Britain, Russia

Berlin, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The anti-Comintern pact sponsored by Germany was renewed for five years and broadened to include 13 signatories today in a festive ceremony at which Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop declared that the Western Democracies had become "assistants to world Communism."

Concluding the ceremonies in the Chancellery, where the pact was hailed as a demonstration of continental solidarity against Moscow, London and Washington, Ribbentrop declared the signatories "will never rest" until the destruction of world Communism.

Following the "gigantic events in the East," Communism without doubt, has received a blow from which it will never recover, he said, but he added that there still was much work to be done before Communist activity is "completely banished from the earth."

"Ignoring the real danger to themselves, the Western Democracies, out of pure egoism and opposition, have made common cause with Communists, and thereby have become assistants to world Communism," he declared.

Bulgaria, Denmark, Finland, Croatia, Rumania and Slovakia were officially signed up by their representatives in the noon ceremony, and Von Ribbentrop read a telegram from President Dr. Tsumin of the Japanese-sponsored Nanking regime of China that his government has also joined.

Rome, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fascist circles described the Berlin anti-Comintern meeting today as a mobilization of Europe's most vigorous forces for defense of the continent against Bolshevism.

Five points were stressed by Italian political sources:

- 1. The new order of the world will be explicitly anti-Bolshevik. 2. After the military danger of Bolshevism is eliminated from the East by victorious battle, there will remain the liquidation of Bolshevist ferment spread over Europe. 3. Axis policy is to create the spiritual and moral foundations for the future world's peace. 4. Bolshevism, as a new expression of the ancient Russian imperialism and Communism, as a political and social manifestation of Jewish intrigues, have no place in the new world's order. 5. The Atlantic (Roosevelt-Churchill) meeting proclaimed the hegemony of the Anglo-Saxon race and Russian Bolshevism over a disarmed world, administered by Jews. The Berlin meeting claims the world free for all and the world's roads belong to those who work. No supremacy, Justice, bread, rights and progress for all nations.

CITY CHAMBER NOTES STRIKES

Board Goes On Record As Opposed To Tactics

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce in regular session last night took note of the strike situation, especially the railroad strike called for December 1, and voted to advise the government that it is the feeling of the citizens of this section "that it is high time to put a stop to interference with the national defense program by strikes and other means."

The effect of the proposed railway strike on this section as well as the entire country was discussed by the board members.

Preliminary plans for the annual membership meeting were discussed and a committee composed of D. J. Whichard, Jr., J. B. Kittrell and Secretary Willard T. Kyzer was named to start making arrangements immediately. The banquet meeting is scheduled to be held during February. The special committee was instructed to obtain the best speaker possible for the occasion and to work toward making this year's affair the best in the section.

PRICE CONTROL BILL AMENDED

Committee Bows To Wishes Of Administration

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The House Banking Committee bowed again to administration wishes today and voted 14 to eight to restore to its price control bill authority for the government to buy, sell or store any commodity if necessary to maintain price stability.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) senior minority member of the committee, denounced the provision as "pernicious" and declared it would permit the price administration to "go into the stock exchange and buy or sell stocks." He said he did not see how "any self-respecting member of Congress could vote for it."

Originally, the committee limited the buying and selling authority to that necessary to obtain the maximum output from those who produce defense materials at a high cost or whose operations are just barely profitable. Administration spokesmen contended the broader authority was needed to control prices effectively, particularly prices of imports.

Red Forces Declared By Government Newspaper To Have Advanced As Much As 62 Miles In Counter Attack On The Southern Front; Exact Date Of Push Not Made Clear In Statement

Moscow, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Russian forces in the extreme southern front have advanced in some sectors west of Rostov as much as 100 kilometers (approximately 62 miles) in a powerful counter-assault against the Germans, the government newspaper Izvestia stated today.

The advance is still continuing, the paper said.

Izvestia did not state clearly the date of the advance, but it indicated that it occurred at the same time as a 60 kilometer (about 37 miles) push in the southern sector reported yesterday.

The Germans, Izvestia said, retreated 60 kilometers (in the main direction and as much as 100 kilometers in some sectors).

The big Soviet push was said to have begun a "few days ago."

The Berlin high command on Saturday reported that Rostov, key Russian city near the mouth of the Don river and a gateway to the oil-rich Caucasus, had been captured. (On Sunday, the Russians reported, however, that fierce battles with tanks and machineguns were being fought in the streets of Rostov, with the defenders exacting a heavy toll of the Germans for every step advanced.)

After artillery and air preparation, the Soviet troops passed to the offensive and attacked German fortified positions, Izvestia said.

The Russians then sent infantry and cavalry forces pouring into the battle, and rushed them through front line posts, while the Germans tried in vain to "put up a wall of explosives," the Russian account stated.

Although the high command did not give the number, size or type of boats involved in the operations in its curt reference, an authorized source belittled the incident by saying the whole affair involved a mere 40 or 50 men.

This source was unwilling to discuss the place of the incident, and the high command did not say whether the British actually had succeeded in getting ashore. (The British said the Normandy coast was the scene of the foray.)

London, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A "small British patrol" landed on the coast of Normandy in France, Sunday night, the Ministry of Information announced today.

The announcement said the patrol returned "complete," the only casualty being one man struck in the arm by a machinegun bullet. The Information Ministry statement said:

"The enemy is betraying anxiety about our intentions with regard to the coast of the occupied territory and hopes by making exaggerated claims to elicit information which will be withheld from him."

"It is learned in London that today's German communique probably refers to a small British patrol which was landed on the coast of Normandy."

NEGOTIATIONS ARE CONTINUED ON RAILROADS

Management And Labor Deliberate At Capitol

SEEK TO AVERT CALLED STRIKE

Although Unwilling to Admit Any Definite Formula, Spokesman Indicates Progress Made

(By The Associated Press)

Representatives of railroads and their workers meeting with President Roosevelt and other government executives in another effort to avert a strike, failed to reach an agreement today, but agreed to continue negotiations.

The entire group arranged to return to the White House later in the day.

While unwilling to admit that any definite formula for an adjustment of their wage controversy had been laid before the management and labor spokesmen, Senator Mead (D-N.Y.) indicated that some sort of proposals looking toward an adjustment had been considered and said that the situation still looked hopeful.

While the railroad conferences were taking place, the House Labor Committee instructed Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) one of its members who attended an extraordinary White House conference last night to draft new legislation by Friday based on the President's suggestions for cooling-off periods and compulsory arbitration.

A Senate committee was told the Navy approved of legislation to let the government take over defense plants held up by labor disputes.

The spread of a jurisdictional strike of more than 8,500 American Federation of Labor machinists in the St. Louis area closed down the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation plant, which has $4,500,000 in defense orders, and curtailed operations at the Curtis Wright plant, which has $100,000,000 in defense contracts. A union spokesman said 400 industries were affected.

L. M. Buchanan was elevated from the post of vice chairman to that of chairman of the Greenville District of the Eastern Carolina Boy Scout Council at an encouraging and well-attended meeting held in the directors' room of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company last night.

J. H. Waldrop, the retiring chairman, was named immediate past chairman, a post created in recognition of his services.

All committees were continued for another year.

Reports were made showing Scouting activities had been greatly enlarged and much progress was being shown in the work. The meeting was attended by J. A. Gaskins of Wilson council executive, and by Al Hodges of this city, assistant executive. It was revealed that two white and one colored assistant would be pressed into service to help carry on the work for the new year.

This year in keeping with the times and constant demands which citizens must fulfill for defense the Co-chairmen, Mrs. James T. Little and Mrs. C. H. Edwards, urge that "you make this a truly old-fashioned Christmas, and so the theme of the show will stress the use of strings of cranberries and garlands of pop corn balls. Let us cooperate with the cities principal of using our ingenuity with what we have."

Special chairman for the Christmas show will be: Swags and wreaths, Mrs. J. Hicks Corey; tables, Mrs. K. B. Pace; sweets and Christmas goodies, Mrs. M. L. Wright; mantels, Mrs. R. C. Deal; favors and novelties, Mrs. O. P.

Italy Claims Loss Of Another British Unit

Says Second Brigade Wiped Out In African War

Rome, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Italian and German forces in Libya have wiped out the second British brigade in two days in the North African battle of tanks and are liquidating a large part of the British armored forces caught in pockets, the Italians reported today.

The high command announced the British 22nd Armored Brigade was destroyed yesterday in the Bir el Bobi zone in the Libyan desert at the end of the encircling movement begun last Sunday. This area is the southwest of where the British said their armored columns had thrust at Tobruk.

The communique said prisoners were captured and the ground was strewn with immobilized and burned British tanks.

An authorized Italian source added that Bardia was still in Italian hands and said a British report that Axis forces had been cut off and caught was false. He also termed fantastic an unofficial British claim that 15,000 prisoners had been taken.

On the contrary, he said, a large part of the British armored forces has been caught in pockets and is being liquidated.

Urges Jap Action. Tokyo, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Premier General Tojo, speaking as president of the Imperial Rule Assistance Association at a rally sponsored by the organization, urged on Japanese today the need of speedy completion of Japan's war economy to base the increasingly tense international situation.

It is necessary, he said, that all Japanese subjects cooperate with the government in this program.

First U.S. Attack

Berlin, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The sending of troops to Dutch Guiana was called "the first military attack of the United States on South America" today by the authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Detuschland, which said the action was directed against French colonial possessions in the Western Hemisphere.

"Greatest attention" is being given in Berlin to this latest development, the commentary service added. This "is only the first step to action directed against French Guiana, Vichy French colony adjacent to The Netherlands territory," said Dienst.

The statement compared the American action to the British attacks last year at Oran and Dakar in French Africa and noted that the occupation coincided with the British offensive in Libya.

Casualties Suffered By Both Sides

Infantry Fighting South of Tobruk Intensified, However; Britain Pouring In Fresh Reinforcements Although No Indications Axis Is Boosting Strength; Nazi Supplies Being Cut Off

Cairo, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The great tank battle which has been raging for three days on an undefined desert battlefield near Rezeg began to die down today as the forces of both sides were reduced by heavy casualties.

Infantry fighting in this region 10 miles southeast of Tobruk was intensified, however, as the British poured reinforcements into the fray from their bases east and south.

There was no evidence that fresh troops were being sent into the battle by the Germans, who are being gradually cut off from their supplies by the swift British drive westward along the Mediterranean coast.

A headquarters communique said tank casualties on both sides had been heavy. It added that 2,000 prisoners, about half of whom were German, had been taken around Tobruk and an additional 1,000 in the frontier area.

South African forces were thrown into the battle first, the communique said, and contained a heavy attack by Nazi tanks and by German infantry rushed to the scenes in trucks.

The South Africans were heavily outnumbered, the British said, but they fought "with magnificent courage until British armored forces put in a counter attack which eventually drove off the German tanks with heavy losses."

The communique said New Zealand forces, supported by British tanks, were continuing their advance toward Tobruk.

The British forces besieged at Tobruk rushed from their trenches and captured over 2,000 prisoners, the communique continued.

In the southern sector of the desert, the British said troops of the Fifth Indian division have captured Augla, near Gialo oasis.

Officials said 119 Axis airplanes had been destroyed from the beginning of the offensive until midnight Sunday, 51 of them in aerial combats and 68 on the ground. British communique showed 44 British planes lost in the same period.

It was not known when Mr. Winslow would be able to return here.

If You Doubt That Wars

Distress Designers—Look:

1860
1867
CIVIL WAR

AT THE CIVIL WAR'S start, feminine fashions were elaborately fancy with the famed bell-shaped skirt embellished with tiers of graduated flounces. Hardships brought about by war soon had designers in the throes of fantastic experiments. Gradually a completely new style appeared. The bell-shaped skirt era ended completely. Skirt lines fell abruptly to the floor. Somber, military influences predominated. Suggested epaulets appeared at the shoulder. Then in 1868, after the war, another new contour began to emerge, with great bunches of material at the back.

1917
WORLD WAR

IN 1914 feathers, frills and the awkward hobble skirts were the vogue. Soon after the outbreak of war in Europe designers again rampaged but found eventually that they had to meet the demand of women filling men's jobs for liberation from corsets and hobble skirts. In 1916 skirts shot up a foot! Our entrance into the war and scarcity of materials placed emphasis on austerity. Heels were lowered by decree in 1918.

PRESENT WAR

IN 1939 the style was puffed shoulders, thin waist and wide, short skirt. What will happen if war continues two more years? Experts disagree. Designers now are going off in a dozen tangents. Some are trying to revive the hobble skirt and others the mannish silhouette of 1922. One New York fashion writer hazards the opinion that abbreviated trousers—with their durability and simplicity—will be in by 1943. She feels they will follow from more bicycling and manual work by women, and from scarcity of materials.

over to the front door, she swung it open wide and stood there, tapping her foot. "Come along, you two!"

Asey hooked his arm through Jennie's.

"Come on, Cousin," he said. "Laddy wants us to leave. Let's."

What do women DESPISE most in a man?

Here's the answer that countless women give: Bad breath!

Women simply won't tolerate it in a man. So if you want to make a hit with your girl friend, look after your breath before your next date with her. Be sure to rinse your mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. It's wonderful for combating bad breath, is sometimes due to systemic disorders. Listerine Antiseptic halts the fermentation and overcomes its odor. The breath quickly becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend.

Chapter Seven
Irate Guest

"I'm going to stay here till I see who comes out of this room," said Jennie. "And if it ain't that woman that was at the red lights, I'm going to eat my way out."

Asey never knew what Jennie intended to devour, for her sentence petered out in mid-air as bed-springs suddenly creaked inside Room Five.

Then someone moved.

Jennie smiled triumphantly.

The door key was turned, the door knob was twisted, and then the door itself was flung open.

A tall, pale, black-haired woman, dressed in a wide-skirted housecoat of crimson-and-white striped satin, stood and surveyed Asey and Jennie with an expression of one who had been tried beyond human endurance.

Jennie's eyes bulged, and Asey bit his lip to keep from smiling. This woman didn't bear a passing resemblance to the woman under the umbrella at the red lights.

"What you two are doing here," the woman said icily, "and why you have chosen this hallway to imitate a pair of screaming panthers in a cage, I cannot imagine. Move out of my way, please. I shall see what Mrs. Doane has to say about this."

Jennie gulped audibly as the woman sailed past her and disappeared with a great swishing of her billowing skirt, around a corner of the hall.

"Well, did you ever! Well, for goodness' sakes, what do you know about that! Asey, what you suppose happened to the woman I seen? Run after her quick and ask her where that woman went to!"

"I think Asey took her arm," that wad better get out of here before she comes sailing back with Mrs. Doane. From the look on her face I think we'll be lucky if she don't come sailing back with a fire axe. Come on downstairs, Jennie!"

He steered her toward the landing.

"But Asey! I—"

"No buts," Asey said. "What you seen is technically known as a mirage, and what you been doing is harassing an innocent bystander. That's that. Now, get along!"

Before they reached the foot of the stairs, snatches of a heated conversation taking place outside the front steps floated up to them through the open front door.

Jennie nudged Asey as she caught sight of a broad-shouldered figure in a raincoat.

"That's Mrs. Doane, Asey! Syl says she's the bossiest woman he ever met. Listen. That girl's catching it good and plenty!"

The girl, Asey thought as he walked across the living room, certainly was.

Mrs. Doane, with a sweeping, peremptory gesture that included Syl's truck the buckets of clams, and the clams strewn over the steps, wished to know exactly what her daughter was thinking about to permit such an evil-smelling scene.

The trouble with her daughter Freddy, Mrs. Doane announced, was not that she lacked brains. Freddy merely refused to use them. The result was a lackadaisical incompetence which sometimes terrified Mrs. Doane. Sometimes, Mrs. Doane said, she waked in the middle of the night shivering to think what would happen to the Whale Inn and its clientele, which she had so carefully built up throughout the years. If she herself were called away just for a single day. At once, Mrs. Doane was certain, the Whale Inn's old and valued clientele would depart forever. They would be gone with the wind. The hard, constant work of twenty long hours would be irrevocably and forever blotted out. It would all have been for nothing.

If that was not so, Mrs. Doane wound up, then why had Freddy allowed the clam man to park his hideous, smelly fish truck out in front of the Whale Inn, not to mention all those smelly clams littering the place?

Tantrum

"Dear me, Mother," Freddy said, "you're in rare form! That was practically like launching the curse

-- But Nobody Was Killed In This Strange Crash

Ivan Tomlinson of Magna, Utah, driving the top automobile, suffered a broken leg but six other men escaped with minor bruises in this spectacular automobile collision near Des Moines, Ia. H. K. Steadman of Los Angeles drove the bottom car. The machines crashed and one ended up on top of the other.

The woman in the crimson-and-white house coat spoke from the stairs.

At the sound of her voice, Mrs. Doane's expression changed from that of the presiding officer at a court-martial to one of friendly and kindly benevolence. It was so swift and complete a change that Asey found himself looking at Mrs. Doane with new interest.

Empty Closet

"Oh, Mrs. Hingham!" Mrs. Doane walked quickly over to the foot of the stairs. "Is your headache better? Should you like more coffee?"

"I shall have to ask you," Mrs. Hingham said frigidly, "to call a doctor. What with this pair screeching up and down the hallway, my migraine is worse. I do think you local friends—they are local people, aren't they? I do think you should request them to be more considerate of your guests."

"Freddy," Mrs. Doane said, "help Mrs. Hingham up to her room, and get her some fresh hot water bottles. I'll be right up with some coffee as soon as I've called the doctor."

She waited until Freddy and Mrs. Hingham disappeared from sight, and then she turned and faced Asey and Jennie.

"Mrs. Doane," Asey said before she could open her mouth, "I should have made myself known to you before now, but I wanted to find out if you was as much in the dark about things as your daughter seemed to be. I'm Syl Mayo's cousin. This is his wife. We came here at six with Syl's clams—"

"Whatever your connections may be with that irresponsible clam man," Mrs. Doane said brusquely, "I do not wish to know about them."

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WAITING FOR REAL MEN

We are told in the Bible that the whole creation groans and labors, waiting for the manifestation of the sons of God. This is the Biblical way of saying that the whole hope of the world is to be found in the character of good men.

The schemes continuously advanced for human betterment are legion.
We are told that this adjustment that will bring prosperity, that all we need to do is to improve our form of government, or change our officials, or adopt some plan for restraining the power of overambitious men, and all will be well. But all of these will not be well. We cannot make anything permanently better by changing a system. What the world needs is better people. It is true today as it has not been true in centuries, that the whole of creation is groaning and laboring, waiting for the manifestation, or the coming forth, of godly men to lead.

The heart of the world is panting today for men of vision. As those who, on a desert, scan the horizon desperately, hoping for relief, so we scan the horizon looking for the coming of men who will put the welfare of their fellows before any personal desire, for power or aggrandizement.

God is mankind's great servant, and a godly man is a man who, like the God he worships, tries to be a servant to a world in need.

OUR OWN SAFETY DEPENDS ON IT

At last this country has waked up to the fact that supplies sent to France, Spain and the French African possessions are in reality supplies for Hitler, and last night President Roosevelt cut off such supplies and in turn extended lend-lease aid to the De Gaulle Free French forces. This country long ago should have recognized the Free French movement as the only official French government and turned thumbs down on any pleas from the Nazi controlled Vichy regime. So long as the Vichy government is in control of the northern African colonies there is the threat of German use of French bases and the French fleet against England and eventually America. In view of this situation this country should give all aid possible in helping the De Gaulle forces wrest the African empire from control of the Nazi puppets.

THE SOONER THE BETTER

Despite the fact that the coal strike settlement is now in the making there is still the threat of the nationwide railroad strike, and nothing has been done to put a stop to strikes during the present national emergency. Conferences on the kind and extent of anti-strike legislation to be enacted are now being held, but the people of the country will feel much safer when Congress has taken definite action that will insure the continuation of our national defense preparations without further delays from unwarranted strikes.

Washington—Answering the mail orders:
Corp. T. L. Camp Barkley, Tex.
—The "air jeeps" will probably get their first real test in the Carolina maneuvers, but in preliminary tests the "grasshopper squadrons" of flivver planes already have proved themselves in the Louisiana maneuvers. The planes cost about $3,000 each.

Finger Print and Identification

Magazine, Chicago — I stand corrected. President Roosevelt was fingerprinted soon after he took office and, according to the double check which I should have made in the first place, practically all members of the First Family now have done their finger exercises for the great file that is kept in the FBI. By the way, I assume you know that the best story on fingerprinting in modern times, to my way of thinking, is the fingerprinting of aliens. It would be impossible to round up, in a fat volume, all the good human interest stories that came out of it.
There was the case of the Scot, 60 year ago, and a "legal voter" for 39 years who didn't know that he was NOT born in this country, and the Greek, who served in the World War and thought his discharge papers entitled him to citizenship. He has been voting for 20 years too.
There are thousands of such yarns that came out of the alien registration and fingerprinting law.

M. N. San Antonio, Tex.

The army has released no figures on it but inside guesses are that a far greater number of selectees are enlisting in the regular army (for 3 years) than anyone suspects. Even before the army announced its plan to urge selectees to enlist for regular army service (so they may be subject to overseas duty) some camps were reporting that from 50 to 60 per cent of the selectees were coming in as regular army enlistees.

P. R. L., San Mateo, Calif.

The narrow margin on the House vote on revision of the Neutrality bill to allow U. S. ships to go into ports of warring countries (212 to 194) is not considered here as any indication of sentiment in the country. The non-interventionists, for example, have been claiming that 80 per cent of the people are against war or any steps that might lead to war.
If this is such a step, as they argued, the almost 50-50 vote in the House would be far off. An overwhelming vote, say 80-20, or 70-30 vote against the Administration foreign policy, would be a much greater indication of disunity. As I have explained before, there were many factors entering into the narrowness of this margin. In reality, however, it pretty much is following the pattern of Congressional votes on highly controversial questions ever since the first Congress assembled — they nearly always are close. The important thing is that with few exceptions, like the Prohibition amendment, the people always have gone pretty much all out in backing the laws of the land, no matter if they passed only by a single vote.

K. N. Alexandria, Va.

There's nothing to that report that conscientious objectors and persons who ask deferment under the draft will not get their government jobs back when their cases are settled, of peace has returned. The Civil Service Commission has ruled that this is up to the hiring agency and, all things being equal (that is, that investigation indicated that the se-lectee was sincere) it is probable that CSC would go to bat for the applicant for reinstatement.

W. L. C., Carthage, Ill.

There are 429 members of the House, at present, with six vacancies (an unusually low number of vacancies).
There are no empty seats in the Senate — the reason being that Senators are appointed by the governors when vacancies occur thru death or resignation. The theory behind this, I'm told, is that it is all right for a governor to appoint a Senator, since he (the governor) also is state elected. The congressman must be elected because he represents a state district only — one that may be opposed to the governor's views.

Around... Capital Square

Reflector Bureau.
By BOB THOMPSON

Senate—Willis Smith, who almost, ran for governor two years ago, told this reporter that he had been approached by "quite a number of people" urging him to run against J. W. Bailey for the United States Senate.
These friends have become more numerous as well as more insistent since it became known that Senator Bailey's son was trying to keep out of the army, although he has been raised in class A-1 by both the local draft board and the board of appeals, said Smith.

"Consideration"—"Well, I just haven't given it any real consideration," said Smith when asked his reaction to the suggestion. Further than that he would not go, one way or the other.

The cost of a campaign and the financial sacrifice involved in giving up a good law practice caused Smith to change his mind about running for governor. It was not, he said, because he didn't think he could win.

"I feel certain that I could have been elected," he believed it then and I believe it now," he said.

"Friendly"—"I have always been friendly with the Senator," said Smith but he indicated that the friendship would not stop him from it, after he had got around to "considering" the matter, he decides that is what he wants to do behind this, I'm told, is that it is all right for a governor to appoint
a Senator, since he (the governor)
also is state elected. The congressman must be elected because he represents a state district only — one that may be opposed to the governor's views.

Despite the fact that Smith was not at all displeased that the press had heard about the "urging" for, after all, a balloon is a handy little gadget in politics—those who know him best around Raleigh do not believe he will make the race.
They say the Smith law practice runs into serious money. But if he does few of them believe Willis could keep the campaign on a "friendly" level. The fact that he is a veteran plus the fact that his own son, still under 21, is preparing himself for active military service, would become an important item in such a campaign whether Smith ever mentioned the matter or not.

South Carolina—The words
"thank God for South Carolina" once again are heard around Capitol Square. This time it is not because the sister state to the south has a higher rate of illiteracy than North Carolina but rather because it has a higher rate of automobile fatalities. Or does the way the State Highway and Public Works Commission figures it, anyhow.

According to SHPCO figures, there are 22.5 automobile deaths for every 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed in this state as compared to 23.2 deaths per 10-000,000 in South Carolina.

Speed—The commission is not trying to overlap the work being done by Bodie Ward and his motor vehicle department but it also is making a serious study of accidents.

The main thing that Chairman Ben Prince wants to know is how many of these accidents are caused by the condition of the highway rather than the condition of the driver and the car. So far the indication is exactly that found by Ward and his department. It is not bad roads or faulty cars or drunken driving that are killing North Carolinians at a rate in excess of 100 a month.
It is speed. And the only way anybody has found to stop it is, first, to try to teach people better and then, if they won't learn, arrest them, fine them and put them in jail.

Civilian Defense Insigna

The Office of Civilian Defense has released illustrations and specifications of dimensions, colors and materials for 16 different insignia.
Each of the activities in civilian defense, 16 in number, will have a distinctive design which the volunteer workers, after they have been enrolled and trained, will wear on white armbands or embroidered on the left sleeve of uniforms, 1 inch below the shoulder seam. One of the insignia is shown below.

Fire Watchers will be identified by a significant red flame in white triangle set in blue circle.

The menace of fire bombs calls for unceasing vigilance and prompt, intelligent action. Fighting incendiary bombs is a job for all able-bodied citizens. After the municipal fire departments train their Auxiliary Firemen, they will instruct citizens in the method of fighting fire bombs. The most alert and suitable persons will then be selected to act as Fire Watchers and will be assigned to posts on roofs, in doorways, and other vantage points where they can spot and quickly reach fallen bombs during air raids.

The wearing of this insignia is limited to workers enrolled with the Fire Watchers in the city of Greenville Civilian Defense Organization.

save now as never before, to meet the problems likely to arise when defense spending ends.

Home Accident Deaths Highest In Five Years

Infections arising from cuts and scratches play major role on the home accident front. Above—The kitchen butcher knife is a poor whittling blade, especially when it is drawn toward the body. Right—Falls last year killed 16,000 Americans in their homes. Never use a chair or other furniture as an improvised ladder.

Washington, D. C.—Carelessness is writing a new stanza to "Home Sweet Home."

According to the American Red Cross, home accidents last year accounted for their greatest fatality toll in five years. Some 33,000 persons lost their lives through falls, burns, poisoning and other hazards of everyday home life. Although less apparent—consequently less apt to attract public interest—home accidental fatalities ran a close second to death on the street and highway, claiming 3,500 deaths.

With carelessness playing the leading role, more than half of home accident deaths were attributed to falls—occurring on stairs, slippery floors, insecure rugs and use of chairs and other articles of furniture as improvised stepladders.
Burns and accidental poisoning followed in that order.

Injuries causing varying degrees of disability accounted for nearly 5,000,000 cases involving hospitalization or care of a physician, the Red Cross pointed out.

To reduce accidents in the home and on the farm, the Red Cross is launching its annual accident prevention program the last week of October. Throughout the nation, in schools and through the Junior Red Cross, some 10,000,000 "check lists" listing accident hazards will be distributed. Householders will be urged to conduct a cellar-to-attic check-up to determine and correct hazards.

HIRE SERVICES OF SPECIALIST

Revenue Department Employs Expert in Research

Reflector Bureau. By BOB THOMPSON. Raleigh, Nov. 25.—The job of director of tax research, which the Legislature created primarily for Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell, has never been filled. Since Mr. Maxwell flatly declined to be "shelved," which is the way he interpreted the proposed appointment—the administration seems to have lost some interest in the matter which it once considered of such importance. At least, however, a step has been taken in the direction outlined in the research bill.

Thomas W. Alexander, Jr., former head of the Revenue Department's franchise tax division but recently serving as a lieutenant in the Navy, has returned to Raleigh and been appointed a "research specialist" under Mr. Maxwell. It is expected that he and J. H. Barnes, head of the existing research office, will begin a study of tax facts for the special benefit of the next legislature. An important part of this report will be a comparison of the tax structure in this state with others. The state is very anxious to combat the report that an industry's total tax bill in North Carolina is greater than it would be in competitive commonwealths.

In announcing the appointment of Alexander, Mr. Maxwell made it clear that he will work "under the direction of the commissioner" and will be assigned various duties from time to time including the "adjustment of tax controversies."

The general interpretation of the announcement is that the job which the governor hoped Maxwell would take will never be filled. In other words the man who will both run the Department of Revenue and serve as the Legislature's No. 1 advisor on matters of taxation will be A. J. Maxwell, the man who has been doing it all along.

There is one thing you've got to give Maxwell. He doesn't win but he always lands on his feet when the fight is over. Who would have believed that any man would have been reappointed to such an important post by a man whom he ran against for governor? Maxwell was not once but twice. And the second time he survived in the face of the governor's hope that he would take another job, especially created for him and paying just as good a salary. Around Raleigh they tell you that "A. J." has as many political lives as a cat.

VICE CASE NOW IN HIGH COURT

Charges Against Taxi Drivers Being Argued Today

Reflector Bureau. By BOB THOMPSON. Raleigh, Nov. 25.—Three cases growing out of the alleged prevalence of vice in the vicinity of Fort Bragg will be argued today in the Supreme Court of North Carolina today.

The cases take on an especial significance because of last week's conference on the subject held in the Hall of the House of Representatives. Military authorities at that time told law enforcement officers that one of the worst phases of the situation was that so-called taxi drivers were acting as panderers, taking soldiers to prostitutes. Each of the cases to be argued today concern charges against these drivers.

Alex D. Willis, M. J. Horne and Alonzo Johnson are the three defendants. All appeals were from the Superior Court of Robeson county. The cases against Willis and Horne will be argued together. The charge against them is that they carried car loads of soldiers to a camp in the woods where prostitutes practiced their profession. Johnson is charged with having directed soldiers to a house of prostitution. In brief the first two argue that the charge of aiding and abetting against them was not proven by the evidence while Johnson was not paid for his "services," by the soldiers although there was testimony that he asked for 50 cents "for his trouble."

The arguments presented in the briefs are largely technical concerning the admission of certain evidence and whether or not there was sufficient evidence to justify the verdict. The alleged conditions around the post are not stressed in the briefs although they may be brought out in the argument.

street. It is small but intimate. Its decor is South Seas. One of Harry's rivals is The Hurricane, another South Seas atmosphere club. I mention this because at one time Harry Fink owned the late Kaiser Wilhelm's yacht. It cost him $75,000. This yacht, which had entered many a regatta, was captured during the first World War by the British. When Fink acquired it he took it to Florida and set it up as a floating nightclub. It was the first of its kind America had seen. But the venture was short lived. A hurricane came out of the Caribbean one night and swept most of Southern Florida, including the Kaiser's yacht, away.

We stepped out into the street. Across the way the marquee lights of "The Hurricane" glittered and were merged with the lights on Broadway.

"Yes," Harry Fink sighed. "It was a hurricane that got me in Florida. From the looks of that yonder, it has followed me to New York."

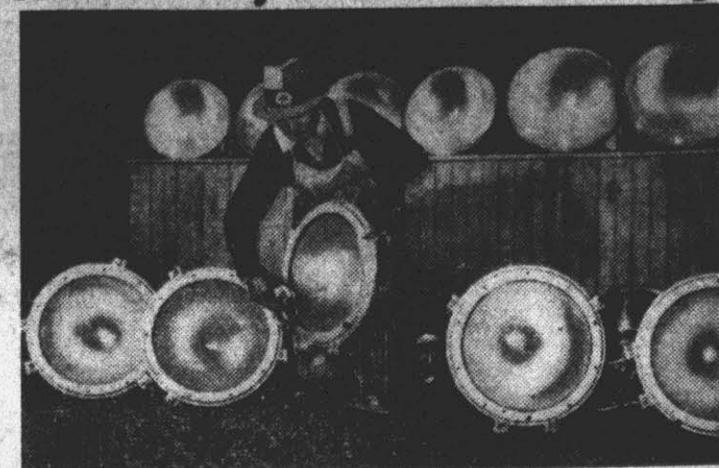

Matty Malneck, among orchestra leaders, conforms to no set pattern. Though quick willing to play any style of music you may desire, nothing on earth can keep him from suddenly switching to something of his own choice. During a concert session at the Rainbow Room the other night he swept suddenly into the William Tell Overture. Why? Well, there's something about the overture that he likes. He also likes the Flight of the Bumblebee, a piece which he has done well by. When he played it the other night he said suddenly to the audience, "Here we go, and I think my trumpet player is going to be in trouble." The bumblebee runs are fast enough to trouble any trumpet player.

Malneck is one of those boys who seems partial to the west coast. He comes into New York to play a Broadway theatre engagement or a nightclub engagement about twice each year. Usually he hits Chicago, going or coming. This time it will be going. But the rest of his time is utilized out there where people try to remember what rain looks like. Analyzing Malneck you come to no set conclusion. You wouldn't call him sweet, swing, or symphonic. You'll just have to call him Malneck.

Awaits Death

"Duchess" Evelita Juanita Spinelli, gang leader and directing genius of uncounted crimes, sits in California's San Quentin prison awaiting execution in the gas chamber. She was convicted of directing the murder of Robert Sherrard, member of her gang whom she feared would tell police too much.

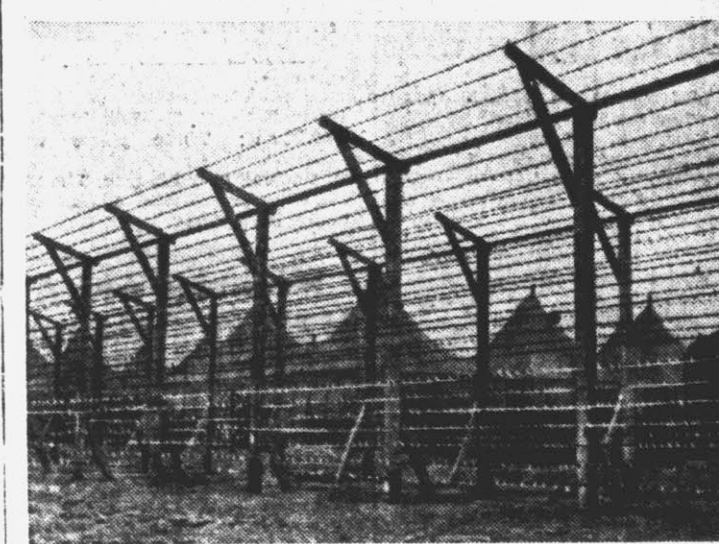

American Style Concentration Camp

The 1500-watt floodlights are being polished for installation in the guard towers at corners of the camp. Each tower also holds a machine gun, manned by a guard given special training for the task.

Allent inmates get the same food as the soldiers. The men pictured here were soldiers on "kitchen police" duty.

The barbed wire at Camp Upton extends deep underground; patrols walk between the two fences. The unused tents shown here are outside but are just like those assigned to the camp's occupants.

By JOE MORTON (AP Feature Service Writer). Camp Upton, Long Island, N. Y.—The concentration camps of Uncle Sam, who wants to keep a fixed eye on certain aliens, won't be far different from the summer camps many of his sons and daughters have been going to, judging by the one here that I have just viewed personally.

There will be barbed wire and machine guns—yet, but also, clean, roomy tents with stoves, recreation halls with the facilities to use them, and mess buildings that encourage an appetite. It's a fair bet some of the occupants will be better off inside than out.

The newest of these detention centers sprawls over 35,000 square yards of scrub pineland at Camp Upton. Beyond two formidable fences, it consists principally of several mess halls, an infirmary, and

Germans Reported In Sight Of Caucasus Oil Fields

The German high command reports Nazi troops have stormed the fortifications of Kerch, have pushed to the shores of the narrow strait facing the Caucasus (right) and are within sight of that major Russian oil-producing region. The arrows on this map indicate the course of two German drives, one aimed at Sevastopol. Further north, Rostov was still a German objective. London sources heard the Nazis had been beaten to a standstill there. Kerch, gateway to the oil fields, and Sevastopol, main Black Sea naval base, were said to be under running bombing attack.

Uncle Sam is building detention centers to "safeguard such aliens as the Government may deem necessary to hold." He is staffing each with specially-trained military police who may guard, in the case of Camp Upton, as many as 700 aliens.

October Sets Top In Savings Stamps Sale

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—Sales of Defense Savings Stamps for October reached a total of $5,935,934.50, establishing the highest monthly total since the stamps were placed on sale last May 1, the Treasury Department announced today.

This figure, compared with the $4,978,000 worth of Defense Stamps sold in September, shows an increase of 19.2 per cent. It marks the fourth straight month that the sale of stamps has risen.

Figures for Defense Bond sales for October, which were announced by the Treasury last week, also jumped sharply over September figures with an increase of 16.5 per cent.

By George Tucker. New York — I ran into Harry Fink in the lobby of a Broadway hotel. "I'm going on the air in a few minutes," he told me. He was enthusiastic. The way he talked you would have thought Harry was some young beginner, getting his first break.

But Harry Fink is an old timer, as experience goes. Perhaps this will help you remember him. He used to be a song writer. He wrote "The Curse Of An Aching Heart."

In the old days, Harry had a club on 45th street, where the Lobster is today. The original trimmings are still in the Lobster, a favorite dining place among people who are partial to sea food.
