INVADERS SMASHED ON MOSCOW FRONT

Britons Reported To Be Plunging Across Libya

NAZIS CONCEDE DRIVE BY FOE

Although Acknowledging British Pushing Toward Tobruk, Berlin Sources Declare Contact Has Not Been Established And Claims Axis Forces Executing Encirclement Attack

By The Associated Press Britain's desert armies were reported today to be plunging westward across the sandy wastes of Libya, striking at the heart of General Erwin Rommel's main German corps, while other Imperial forces closed in on trapped Axis units between Tobruk and the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

Advices reaching London said the "artillery is thinning out" in the Tobruk sector, 90 miles west of Egypt, but it was uncertain whether they were being withdrawn to the west—indicating a German retreat.

The Nazi high command conceded that the British were pushing toward Tobruk, but a Berlin spokesman asserted that they had not yet established contact with the Tobruk garrison as officially claimed by the British—and said Axis armored legions were executing encirclement attacks on British forces advancing from the southeast.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported the "annihilation" of a British motorized brigade, along with the capture of more than 1,000 prisoners in bitter fighting in the central desert zone.

At Tobruk a new attack by the adversary in the easterly direction to break the ring which holds him tightly was completely broken by troops of the Bologna division, Fascist high command said.

By contrast, the British yesterday reported the destruction of almost the entire Bologna division.

British front line reports said small pockets of Axis resistance were being mopped up along the Bardia road, while other pockets still held out at Sidi Omar.

Plans Broadcasts On Seal Campaign

The Reverend Wm. A. Ryan, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau for the Tuberculosis Seal Sale, announced today a series of broadcasts over WTCC on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of next week, from 7:15 to 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Ryan stated that the topics selected for discussion had been arranged to cover specifically, as well as generally, the work done through the sale of seals and to answer such questions as are generally asked concerning the expenditure of funds received for community work.

The dates, speakers and topics scheduled for these broadcasts are as follows: Monday—Miss Matthews of the Health Department, "An Interview on Case Histories"; Tuesday—Hon. M. K. Blount, "Your Money—Where It Goes and What It Does"; Wednesday—D. J. Whitchard, Jr., "Sealing Seals and Buying Protection"; Friday—Mr. Ryan, "Why Sell Seals?"

The people of Greenville and Pitt county are urged to listen to these messages that they may be intelligently informed concerning the need for their support of the current campaign for the sale of seals. Many will be astonished when they learn of conditions existing in our own community which are potential threats to every life, every business, and every interest with which they are concerned. The Seal Sale is promoted to provide funds to carry on a war against a deadly enemy and none can afford to remain ignorant of either the conditions or their own responsibility. Remember: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, 7:15 p. m.

COLONY UNDER VICHY REGIME

Indo-China Policies To Be Directed From France

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Nov. 29.—(AP)—French Indo-China's role in the event of war in the Pacific will be directed solely by the French government in Vichy. Vice Admiral Jean DeCoux, governor general of the colony, said today in an interview.

A Japanese army now is stationed here under the terms of a joint French-Japanese defense agreement.

Asked whether Indo-China areas for bases would be placed at Japan's disposal in case Japan was involved in war in the Pacific, the governor general replied:

"I would remind you only that Indo-China is part of the French empire, and being so it intends in matters of foreign policy to conform strictly, as it must, to the instructions of the French government."

BLAME PLACED ON AMERICANS

Declaring War Almost Inevitable Now, Full Responsibility is Placed On This Administration; Acknowledged Question On Japan's Doorstep

By The Associated Press Japan's press and radio bitterly assailed the United States today, declaring that "America has no sincerity, has broken the peace," and that "the United States alone is responsible for what seems to be almost inevitable now"—in other words, war.

Amid an atmosphere reflecting alternate gloom and bristling hostility, Premier General Tojo's cabinet met anew to deliberate on Japan's final stand on the negotiations with Washington.

Observers agreed that President Roosevelt had laid the question of peace or war in the Pacific directly on Japan's doorstep, and that the White House statement that there was no possibility of a "compromise" with Japan on the China war keynoted refusal by the United States to yield to any of Japan's demands. These include:

- 1. That the United States stop sending war aid to China.
2. That the ABCD powers of America, Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies stop their economic blockade against Japan.
3. And that the ABCD group recognize Japan's "co-prosperity sphere in East Asia" with its program for expansion southward.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, quoting authorities Tokyo quarters, said that if the United States established an air patrol over the Burma road—key route for China war supplies—Japan would regard it as a "directly hostile action, an example of the most provocative armed aggression."

Domei said Japan would be unable to overlook such an extension of the United States "defensive zone" to the Far East regardless of whether the United States "attempts to justify the move from the point of strict interpretation of international law."

President Roosevelt sped southward from Washington for a long postponed visit to Warm Springs, Ga., stirring two types of speculation:

1. That the chief executive would not have left the White House if there had been any chance of hopeful further negotiations with Japan's special envoy, Saburo Kurusu.

2. That he would not have left if a sudden deterioration of the crisis were to be expected.

A cast of eleven students at the College has been at work for some time on the play, "Double Door," a strange and different melodrama to be presented December 4 and 5, at 8:30 in the Austin auditorium. It is warranted to make the audience sit forward in their seats and feel shivers up the spine.

U. S. SOLDIERS END MANEUVER

Men Look Forward To Baths, Payday And Christmas

With the Fourth Army Corps in the Carolinas, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Three hundred thousand soldiers looked forward today to baths, relaxation, pay, day, fun and Christmas furloughs, in that order.

For the first time in at least a month, they were released from simulated war—the last great field exercise of the Army's 1941 training year.

Since June, each of the nation's four field armies have gone through long sleepless hours, eaten canned field rations and lived in the open—to show Army General Headquarters what progress has been made since the Army was mobilized more than a year ago.

The last big maneuver of 1941, with the 200,000-man First Army pitted against the Fourth Army Corps—half as large but with speed and punch—ended last night.

From 5:20 p. m. until long after dark, soldiers extended their blank ammunition in celebration of the end of the war games, which began November 15.

The County Home, under the direction of Superintendent D. C. Wilson, is noted for its hog raising. There are 13 more hogs to be killed after Christmas, one of that number weighing about 900 pounds.

In addition to raising its own pork, the Home maintains its own dairy, has a large flock of chickens and produces and cans its own vegetables.

Reds Claim Capture Of Rostov Area

Picture Is Further Brightened By London Broadcast That 10 Villages Recaptured in Soviet Counter Attacks On Central Front; Nazis Acknowledge Reds are Again Fighting At Rostov

By The Associated Press Russia's armies reported today they had recaptured part of Rostov-on-Don in the Ukraine, smashed back German assault forces in three key sectors on the Central front before Moscow, and killed more than 9,000 Nazis in bloody fighting along the 1,200-mile battle line.

Linked with this brightening picture, a British broadcast said Red counter attacks on the north flank of Moscow's defense arc had recaptured 10 villages between Klin and Kalinin, respectively, 50 and 95 miles northwest of the capital.

The Moscow radio said General Gregory K. Zhukov's Red armies had launched a powerful counter attack northwest of the capital, crossed the ice-topped Volga river and driven the Germans out of town after town in an advance still continuing.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that Soviet armies were fighting again "at Rostov," although previous Nazi reports asserted that German forces had pushed the Russians 35 miles beyond Rostov.

The German communique said the Russians suffered heavy losses "in ruthless renewed attacks" at Rostov, while the Soviet radio declared Red army troops had re-taken the old section of the port city after a fierce fight.

The Nazi high command said German forces were clearing the center of the city in "necessary measures against the population which, contrary to international law, participated in fighting at the rear of German troops."

Presumably, this meant that when Red army troops stormed into the old part of Rostov, driving the Germans out, residents of the captured town hid their arms and snipped at the Nazis from the rear.

On the Central front, Hitler's high command claimed a new advance in the two-months-old drive on Moscow, but gave no details.

Christian Church To Conduct Forum

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the first of the season's forum meetings will be held in the Eighth Street Christian Church. This meeting will be in the form of a symposium. Three speakers will present certain aspects of the general theme and the presentations will be followed by an open forum for general discussion by the audience.

The theme will be Mrs. Roosevelt's address and "Its Implications for Greenville." The several implications will be presented as follows: "Implications for City Government," Rev. W. A. Ryan; "Implications for Church and School," Dr. R. L. Hilldrup; "Implications for the Individual and Family," Mrs. J. H. Blount.

The speakers have been assigned ten minutes each and a half an hour has been assigned for open discussion. Rev. Mr. Ryan declared, "This should provide an excellent opportunity for the people of Greenville to bring down to detailed application the many excellent suggestions made by Mrs. Roosevelt concerning the ways in which the principles of democracy can be made applicable to and put to work in the community in which we live. Until we find ways to do this the whole question of democracy remains in the realm speculative theory."

The public is cordially invited to attend the symposium.

Church Is Sponsoring Community Sing Here

The public is invited to attend the usual fifth Sunday night community sing to be staged in the Greenville F. W. B. church tomorrow night. Clarence Bowen, a student at Bales Creek College, will be near with several voices to participate in the numbers of special music.

Babson Criticizes Stockholders

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 29.—Every cloud has a silver lining! World War II will bring about many much-needed reforms. Its cost will not all be in vain. One of the good results has been bringing labor unions got started. Hence, collective bargaining has become universal in the larger industries.

What About Labor Unions? Certainly, the wage workers of a factory have as much right to combine, and negotiate through their own leader, as have the stockholders. Although many wage workers today would be receiving more money if they were not tied into their labor union; yet the total group in these unionized industries are perhaps getting more than they would if they were not unionized. I say "perhaps" as it is debatable whether workers' labor unions or companies' research laboratories are really responsible for the high-

Subscription Prices Advance JANUARY 1ST

PAPER

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON
In Publishers' Auxiliary

During World War I, paper, and especially print paper, went up to undreamed of prices. Western Newspaper Union, the largest consumer of sheetprint in America, paid as high as 13 cents a pound in carload lots, and even at such prices found it impossible to obtain an adequate supply.

During that war all daily papers were forced to reduce their consumption of print paper by 25 per cent. Book and periodical publishers were cut 30 per cent. The government forced newspapers to go to a cash-in-advance basis and cut off subscribers who did not pay promptly. No special editions could be issued. No new papers could be established. Exchange lists were limited. Through such methods the use of print paper on the part of newspapers was reduced approximately 25 per cent.

Several hundred newspapers quit publication because they could not get paper.

We are rapidly approaching similar conditions because of the present war. The government is calling for rigid economy in the consumption of paper of all kinds. Our normal supply of print paper from Sweden, Finland, Norway, the Baltic states and Germany was stopped more than a year ago and that supply is a big factor in the paper market. Our own accessible wood pulp supply is practically exhausted. We are almost entirely dependent on Canada for our print paper, or the wood pulp from which it is made. The labor supply in Canada grows less week by week, as men are enrolled in the fighting forces, and those remaining in industry are absorbed by the war production plants.

Wood pulp has a definite place as a material in our own preparedness program, and more and more of the diminishing available quantity is going in that direction. The government is using largely increased quantities of paper because of our war activities.

THERE WILL BE A SHORTAGE OF PRINT PAPER. THERE IS SUCH A SHORTAGE NOW. THE PRICE OF PRINT PAPER WILL BE HIGHER, MUCH HIGHER. The continuance of many a country newspaper may be, in all probability will be jeopardized. It is a serious condition that lies in the almost immediate future of but a few months.

Between now and that date you have the opportunity to subscribe or renew your subscription for a year in advance at the present rate of $5.00 per year.

It has been many years since there has been an increase in our subscription price despite the fact that during this time there have been many items that have increased our production and distribution costs, but in view of the further pending increases in costs of production we find it necessary to advance our prices as we cannot absorb the increases ourselves and continue to keep our paper up to standard.

Subscription Prices Effective January 1, 1942 Will Be As Follows:

One Week	15c
One Month	60c
Three Months	$1.50
Six Months	$3.00
One Year	$6.00

Even at the new prices The Reflector will cost you less than two cents a day which is still cheap for your favorite daily newspaper.

Strength For The Day By EARL L. DOUGLASS PRAYER OF A RIGHTEOUS MAN Some years ago when the Turks were at war with the Balkan states, they found to their consternation that foreign munitions makers had sold them empty shells. They soon learned how ineffectual their military efforts were with these empty shells.

Sometimes the most devout Christians have the feeling that as they pray their petitions are empty words with no more power than the empty shells that were foisted upon the Turks. We are told in the Bible that the efficient, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. Or, as one of the modern translations puts it, "The heartfelt supplication of a righteous man exerts a mighty influence." Real prayer has its source in the heart. It is filled with faith, hope, and holy urgency. It goes forth not like an empty shell but like a full one, with power to shake the world.

Why do our prayers so often seem ineffectual? Sometimes it is because we have not handled the problem of sin in our own lives. Frequently it is because we really do not want the things we pray for—those lofty virtues which are inconsistent with the policies of our daily lives. Then again our prayers are often selfish. They do not comprehend a brother's good as well as our own. Effective prayers must be spoken in faith, sent forth with great expectancy. When this is true, they indeed "exert a mighty influence," and we become fellow laborers with God in the answering of such prayers.

All Rights Reserved— Babson Newspaper Syndicate IT CAN BE STOPPED With fatalities on North Carolina highways on the increase official attention is being given the matter, but there comes no concrete plan as to how to go about putting a stop to the useless slaughter. Despite the fact that there are many elements entering into the highway accidents, including increased traffic resulting from greater activities in the camp and defense areas, the fact remains that the great cause of highway deaths in North Carolina is TOO MUCH SPEED.

When we say too much speed, we don't mean for just a few reckless drivers, but for practically all persons who drive automobiles on our streets and highways. Even our previous sessions of the legislature are partly to blame for the present loss of life on our highways because they increased the legal speed limit in our state from 45 miles an hour to 60 miles.

We say and believe that traffic accidents in North Carolina can be reduced to a minimum if our Governor will call the legislature into special session, have it reduce the legal speed limit to 45 miles an hour on our highways and then see to it that this and other traffic laws are rigidly enforced even if it takes a larger highway patrol to do it.

We believe the day will come when the federal government will require that all automobiles be equipped about the dignity of a constitutional office?" some mean spirited friend asked him. Mail.—Few people get as much goody mail as does the Governor of North Carolina. The other day, for instance, Governor Broughton's desk was decorated by a pamphlet on the reasons why the national capitol should be removed from Washington, a long article on "rules for building thought substance into helpful forms," and another essay on "sex taboo."

Dinner.—The Democrats of North Carolina just as well get ready to "shell out" again. According to plans this winter's Jackson Day Dinner program will be bigger and better—which means that it will raise more money—than ever before. State Democratic Chairman Eugene B. DeLoach was here this week conferring with Governor Broughton on the plans. He will see former Governor Hoy, the national committeeman, and Miss Beatrice Cobb, the national committeewoman, next week. The four will choose the Jackson Day chairman and the campaign will get under way soon after the first of the year.

Civilian Defense Insignia The Office of Civilian Defense has released illustrations and specifications of dimensions, colors, and materials for 16 different insignia. Each of the activities in civilian defense, 15 in number, will have a distinctive design which the volunteer workers, after they have been enrolled and trained, will wear on white armbands or embroidered on the left sleeve of uniform, 1 inch below the shoulder seam. One of the insignia is shown below.

RESCUE PARTY Rescue Squads will be identified by a red ladder in white triangle set in blue circle. There are many phases to rescue work in modern warfare. An "all clear" signal after an air raid may find civilians trapped in debris, shelters, flooded cellars, or exposed to danger from broken gas and water mains or unprotected electric wiring. Rescue parties must be ready to go into action at all times to extricate them. Each squad usually consists of about 10 men, equipped with suitable protective clothing and necessary equipment. The wearing of this insignia is limited to workers enrolled in the Rescue Squads in the Greenville Civilian Defense Organization.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER by Phoebe Atwood Taylor Chapter 11 Rumping Rankin "Now look, Mayo, who has been killed," Rankin demanded. "Elissa Hingham?"

"What makes you think she might've been?" Assey countered with another question. "You've heard of people who were born to be killed, haven't you?" Rankin said. "Well, Elissa is one of those. She's been asked to be killed all her life, and I shouldn't be at all surprised to find her lifeless body crumpled in a little heap somewhere, under the present circumstances. Was it Elissa?"

"What do you mean by the present circumstances?" Assey wanted to know. Rankin took a few steps down the driveway. "Right around here is where I lost that lighter," he said. "I had my raincoat slung over my shoulder, and it popped out of the pocket—na! I thought I'd find it!"

"Who?" Rankin laughed. "That's my own private name for Mrs. Clutterfield. Violet Clutterfield, or know her, don't you? You don't really know Mayo, I'm beginning to think that you don't get around much in Quisset's upper crust!"

"I don't," Assey told him. "For the last six months, I've been so busy training Bill Porter around the Cape at all very much. I know some folks here, of course, but Quisset's never been a town I seem to get to, somehow, and if I do, I just pass through without noticing if its got an upper crust or a meringue. Tell me about Lady Boop—and look, let's stroll down the drive a bit so we ain't quite so visible from the Inn."

"About the only place you're visible from now," Rankin said, "is my bathroom window. Why don't you want to be seen?" "I'm trying out the enough-rope theory," Assey said. "It being about all I can do till Lieutenant Hanson of the state cops shows up. What about Lady Boop?" Rankin smoothed his neat Vandike and looked at Assey reflectively. "Do you think it's entirely fair," he asked, "to pump me this way, without telling me who's been killed? I can only give you my opinions, which are largely biased, and might not coincide at all with someone else's opinions. For all I know, I may be either maligning the dead or slipping a noose around someone's throat! You're out of sight here, by the way, but you can still get a pretty good view of the place, if that's what you're after."

best thing to put the body elsewhere, she'll probably drag it along to that adjoining sun deck and leave it there. Could happen, you know. But, on the other hand, if it's Assey's body she's responsible for, as you might say, she's probably got some idea of removing it to as far distant a place as she can manage. The more effort she makes to take it away, and the further she takes it, the redder her hands are, and the harder it's going to be for her to deny anything. Then you really got her."

"I think that's nonsense," Rankin said flatly. "Maybe so, but you," Assey said, "ain't seen what I seen tonight in the line of bodies being one place one minute and elsewhere the next, and nobody seemingly knowing anything about it, or being involved with it. Now that it got someone with a body I want to run 'em to the ground with it. I think—what in time!"

"She's running back to that eve door!" Rankin said. "Something's frightened her!" Assey pointed to the man marching down the middle of the driveway. "It's Hanson! Golly, he would turn up now!" he said. "If he goes barging into the Inn, he'll spoil everything. And if Mrs. Hingham spots us rushing up and hailing him, that won't work out, neither—hey, gimme your little lighter, quick, will you?"

Rankin looked puzzled, but he dropped the lighter in Assey's outstretched hand, and Assey promptly raised his arm and pitched the lighter straight at Hanson. "It hit him on the shoulder, and Hanson stopped and looked around him curiously. "Keep on walking, Hanson," Assey said as he neared them. "Don't stop. Keep walking about six feet more, and then turn around and look down the way you come. Go down the road as far as that locust grove, then circle around back here to us so you won't be seen from the Inn. We'll wait here. I'll explain later."

Hanson obeyed without question. "Do you mind my saying," Rankin sounded amused, "that this seems really rather involved?" "Nope," Assey told him. "I don't mind speak. It is involved. But I hope it's going to have a simple ending, which you wouldn't get if you barged inside the Inn right now and started slating around, yelling for explanations. Think of all the Doanes and Mrs. Hingham, all denying and affirming and talking at once."

Reflector Bureau. By BOB THOMPSON Marriage Bruce Etheridge, director of the Department of Conservation and Development, is no friend of Dan Cupid according to the way some of the little girls in his department interpret his rule regarding matrimony. The rule is that when a girl working in the department gets married she has in effect, given notice and will terminate her employment within three months. Bruce makes some exceptions. For instance, if a husband goes in the army he does not insist that the wife quit her job. But for the most part he sticks to the belief that a husband's job to support his wife and a wife's to run the husband's home rather than work in an office. Secret.—Not long ago there were

Approximately 2,000 Fans Attend Annual Classic

It was the last game of the season; it was the big classic with their arch rivals; it was a tilt which approximately 2,000 fans gathered to see—it was the Phantoms' annual gridiron battle with the Pam Pack of Washington.

The whole story is that the Green Phantoms' fleet-footed backfielders stole the show and lashed away with a 19-0 victory.

John Spearman and Leonard Briley took the flashy Phantom offensive honors with Spearman reaching the goal for two touchdowns and Briley, who was the spark of the Greenies' line bucking, scoring the last touchdown.

Scoring late in the first quarter, Spearman grabbed a Washington punt on Washington's 42-yard line and swept around the right of the field to payoff territory while a half dozen fighting Pam Packers tried desperately to stop his high-stepping stride. Spearman again scored in the first part of the fourth quarter after Briley had brought the bigskin to Washington's 19 and from there the Pam Pack received a 15 yard penalty for unnecessary roughness which placed the ball on the four yard line, then Spearman on a reverse from Rawls, dashed over the goal line.

After a series of rapid line plunges one minute before the end of the game, Briley hugged the ball over on a off-tackle jaunt from the two yard line making the score 19-0. Spencer Carroll's kick for the extra point was blocked.

Not only did the local boys wind-up their football season holding second place in the conference standings but they also set an all-time Phantom record in scoring. After last night's meeting they added 19 points to make a total of 208 points to 32 made by the opponents. The previous record was 196 points to opponents' 39.

Executing a big passing attack, the Pam Pack's outstanding scoring threat came during the last seconds of the second quarter when they had control of the ball on Greenville's 39 yard line after making good on a pass from the 45. The Garard sent the ball through the air to Garner who snatched it and was dropped on the 21. On the next play Garard completed a looping pass that landed into Stancil's hands in the end zone. Washington received a offside penalty on the play but couldn't resume playing as the half whistle blew while the ball was floating in the air.

TAX ARGUMENT IS DISCOUNTED

Declares No Industry Lost Because Of Levies

By BOB THOMPSON

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—Jim Anderson, director of the Bureau of Commerce and Industry whose job is to attract new industries into North Carolina, says "insofar as I know we have never failed to get a new industry solely because of the tax structure of this state."

Anderson's statement was, in effect, an answer to the argument of certain secretaries of Chambers of Commerce who have made public statements that the state, or their particular communities, were not getting new industries because North Carolina taxes were too high. Anderson, with the aid of the tax research division of the Department of Revenue, has prepared a comparative study of the total tax bill a hypothetical industry would have to pay in this and other southern states. Although there are two states in which that bill would be lower, the mythical industry's taxes here would be well below the average for the section.

The head of the bureau declined to make public the comparative study. "After all, that's our secret ammunition," he said. But he will show it to any secretary who is interested. "I don't mean that a study and reveal of our entire tax structure is not needed for I think it is," said Anderson. "But the management of a worth while industry which is moving into the South is going to consider many more things than taxes. For instance, I think the stability and attitude of the state government, the fact that it runs on its income and delivers the proper public service, would make a far better impression than lower taxes in a state with an unstable government."

Anderson said that the proximity of the proposed site to both raw materials and market, the availability of power and water, the availability and class of labor and the cost of transportation were in many instances more important in determining an industry's movements than a small difference in the tax bill.

BABSON

(Continued From Page One) er standards of living which labor is enjoying today. Unfortunately, labor unions—like many other good movements which start with unselfish intentions—gradually become "businesses." In many cases their leaders are receiving huge salaries and living like feudal lords. The jobs of these officials are so attractive that others are constantly trying to seize them. As a result, there is keen competition. Labor leaders think they must constantly be getting something for their group or at least must be getting publicity for themselves. They first secured collective bargaining; then better wages and working conditions. The only thing left for them to fight for now is the "Closed Shop."

The closed shop is not a serious matter in some industries. It often removes friction. Of the 6,000,000 workers in America's ten leading industries, one-third are under closed shop practice. It has been favored by the Wagner Bill, the National Labor Board, and even the new Defense Mediation Board. The danger comes when it is applied to an industry which is vital to all industries. SANTA CLAUS TO ARRIVE HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

YOUTH COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED

(Continued from page one) we stand divided concerning the means whereby our ideals can come into expression, we have nevertheless joined hands in our common task to lift high the cross of Christ that it might be seen above the darkness of this world. Our purpose is one. Our ways of achieving it differ, but we stand in the confidence that God will lay his hands upon us and that we will rise to meet the compulsion of his loving will.

"As we outline the work of Christian youth across America for the coming year, we stand humbled by the light which is yet ours. Not only do we seek the forgiveness of God for our failures to reflect his light into the darkness but we would seek the compassion and patience of those of you who in darkness have lifted your lives radiantly through it.

"As long as there are Christian youth throughout the world who believe in the power of Christ to overcome the world, even in the darkness around them, we can believe no less. As long as there are Christian youth who are suffering for the faith they know will transform the world, we cannot fail them. As long as there are Christian youth dedicated to the task of reconstructing the world, we dare not rest in our part of that work.

"This is the power of human fellowship which can redeem the world—a power which fills us with the determination to reflect the light of life into all the world, that there may be joy, peace, and a new day on earth. To this end let us seek to sustain each other through friends, through correspondence, through prayer.

"Let us rise together. Let us all, wherever we are, never fail the cause of Christ. Let us place our complete confidence in Him, and let us consecrate ourselves to the life task to 'Build Today for a Christian World.'

Gun Shy Civilians Shy at Fireworks Camden, S. C.—(AP)—"It's a night attack!" started Camdenites proclaimed as they left their beds not rest in the wee hours when they heard big guns roaring and machine guns rattety-tat-tatting. They had in mind the First Army's simulated warfare in this area.

But imagine the citizens' chagrin when it became known that the boom of the heavy guns and the tapping of the machine guns in reality was fireworks at the Kershaw county fair.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN CARDS

By MARGARET KERNOBLE (AP Feature Service Writer)

Making your own Christmas cards is more fun and more work and gets more appreciation than you realize when you start out. I've been conversing the folk who make their own. Here are some of the things they're doing this year. (And it's time to get going):

Glazed chintz (using the chintz left over from the new upholstery in the den) is being pasted on bright pasteboard squares in family silhouettes. It's sort of a calico cat and gingham dog effect.

Then there's the lazy bones who is buying Christmas seals and bright wrapping paper and putting the two together for cloves paste-on cards. You could do the same thing with magazine cut-outs. It's an easy trick if your children are eager to make cards.

And in line with those new cards by the American sculptors' group—which has put out the first cards that look like bas-relief—you could use sealing wax to make modern-looking Christmas symbols.

Family photos might be more up-to-date on cards if they seem to be framed.

And don't ignore the boy or girl who suggests that you use linoleum blocks in homemade card printing.

It's a fascinating stunt and will win you praise.

MISTLETOE MAY MEAN MARRIAGE IN 1941

You can always get someone to help you hang mistletoe . . . by paying for the service

Mistletoe changes from parasite to paradise about this time every year. Already from the mistletoe state of Oklahoma, from Texas and from New Mexico, most of the American mistletoe is coming from treemap to your chandelier. From the west coast mistletoe travels packed in ice like fragile flowers. No priorities, tent caterpillars nor killing frost finished the crop off short. It's a good thing, because forecast is this will be the most marrying Christmas of them all. One diamond maker put out more than 50,000 engagement rings for the Yuletide season, rings like the streamlined square-shape on the third finger under the mistletoe pictured here.
