FOES STRUGGLE FOR AIR SUPREMACY IN FAR EAST

Axis Suffers Russian And Libyan Reverses

Aim Of Reds To Drive Foe From Russia

Soviets Represented As Pressing Offensive To Push Germans From Russian Soil; Pravda Lists Nazi Losses To Date As Six Million Men; Axis Reported Repulsed In Libyan Thrusts

By The Associated Press
The Russian army was reported today pressing an offensive for the extermination of all German armies on Russian soil. Pravda, Communist party organ in Moscow, said the Soviet troops already had destroyed "an entire generation of Nazis."

The Red army's general offensive northwest of Moscow, was concentrated on an effort to restore the main Moscow-Leningrad connection through Klin.
The Communist organ Pravda said that the Russians had recaptured Solnetschnogorski, 31 miles northwest of Moscow and east of Klin, having taken 42 communities and 75 German tanks in a single day. The Tikhvin-Volkov railway southeast of Leningrad, has been cleared of the enemy, Pravda said.
Meanwhile, as the Russians took the offensive after reporting the successful defense of Moscow, Leningrad and the Caucasus, they claimed Adolf Hitler had lost, since the invasion began June 22, 6,000,000 men, more than 15,000 tanks, 13,000 planes and 19,000 cannon.
German forces in the southern Russian port of Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov, now are surrounded, the Russians declared.

London, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Indian troops fighting with British North African army, were reported today to have repulsed two Axis counter attacks south of Gazala and destroyed 16 of the 40 tanks participating.

The Indians captured 21 Axis officers and 350 men, advisers from the Libyan war front said.
These dispatches declared that the German-Italian front at Gazala, reported yesterday to be about 50 miles wide, had been narrowed to 25 miles under continued British pressure. Gazala is approximately 40 miles west of Tobruk and about 150 miles from the Egyptian border.

Mopping up operations in the area between Gazala and the Egyptian frontier were said to be progressing with the number of German and Italian prisoners steadily mounting. It was acknowledged, however, that Axis troops still were holding out at Bardia and Halaita (Hellfire) Pass, which is on the Egyptian side of the border.

London, Dec. 15.—(AP)—British submarines were credited today with sinking a 12,000-ton ship believed to have been an Italian transport and with damaging or destroying a half dozen smaller vessels, two of which, the Admiralty said, were picked off in the harbor Candia, in German-occupied Crete.
The 12,000-ton ship, which was attacked in convoy, resembled the Italian liner Virgilio, a communique said.
The foray into the harbor of Candia, the Admiralty declared, resulted in the torpedoing and sinking of a supply ship and a salvage tug.

FRANCE HELDS GERMAN ORDER IS TOO SEVERE

Openly Opposes Nazi Authorities For First Time

GROW'G UNREST SEEN ELSEWHERE

Active Resistance Encountered By German Armies Of Occupation In Yugoslavia And Greece

By The Associated Press
Coming out openly against an order of the German occupation authorities for the first time since the armistice, France last night condemned a German order for the execution of 100 alleged Jewish Communists and anarchists in occupied France.

The French acknowledged the 100 were "delinquents" instead of hostages such as the Germans have executed in groups this fall, but said the very high number provoked "profound uneasiness among Frenchmen."

The Germans said Saturday the 100 would be shot in reprisal for "recent attacks against the occupation troops." They also fined the Jews in the occupied zone 1,000,000 francs ($200,000).
In partitioned Yugoslavia and Greece, several hundred thousand Axis soldiers were reported tied up with steady and strong resistance by Serbs and Greeks in a small-scale war.

Draza Mihailovic, a colonel in the Yugoslav army before the Germans overran his country last spring, has been promoted to the rank of a full general for his "magnificent work" in organizing the Serb resistance, the Yugoslav government in exile said yesterday.

A spokesman for the Greek government in exile declared that 24 Axis divisions—about 360,000 soldiers—were tied up by a "vast pocket war" in Greece which is growing despite near starvation of the Greeks and their lack of arms.
Swift raids from Macedonian mountain hideouts were said to be wiping out occupation forces, giving the Greeks some food and equipment.

ENLISTING NOW IN HOME DUTY

Volunteers Being Enrolled For Civilian Defense

The enrolling of volunteer workers in the entire county was started on Saturday and will continue for several days. The Defense Council cannot function properly until it knows who are the men and women, boys and girls in the county willing to take courses in order to be able to render patriotic services free.

Dr. A. D. Frank of East Carolina Teachers College is chairman of the Committee on Training Courses. The names of the other committee members will be announced shortly. Dr. Frank is already at work on the problem and is planning to secure instructors for the needed classes from the college, the city and county schools, the NYA, the skilled trades and the American Red Cross forces.

The matter of enrolling the volunteer workers is most important, John G. Clark is enrollment chairman and there will be a later announcement of the names of the helpers who will carry on the enrolling until the entire citizenship has had an opportunity to offer services. The work of conserving waste materials is proceeding rapidly and J. B. Kittrell, the chairman, has already made great progress. Mr. Kittrell wants people to get in touch with him if they can help in any way in the matter of conserving waste materials.

They Helped Even Score Against Japan

Captain Colin P. Kelly, Jr., (center), 26, a native of Madison, Fla., was cited as an Army flyer who helped even the Pearl Harbor score by planting three bombs on the Japanese battleship Haruna near the Philippines, leaving her afire and sinking. Cited for bombing the Japanese battleship Kongo was Lieut. C. A. Keller (left), Navy flier who according to Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet, sighted the Kongo or a ship of her class, off northwest Luzon and held contact a long time despite anti-aircraft fire. At right is First Lieutenant Boyd D. Wagner of the army air corps, cited by Lt. General Douglas MacArthur. "When attacked by five enemy pursuit ships," MacArthur said, "Wagner shot two planes out of the air and machine gunned 12 on the ground, leaving five burning." The action took place near Aparri. Captain Kelly was listed as dead.

Secretary Knox Discloses Actual Losses At Hawaii

MAKES REPORT ON LEND-LEASE

Amount Totals $1,202,000,000 As Of November 1

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt reported today that lend-lease to America's allies—33 countries listed as eligible—had totaled $1,202,000,000 through November 30.

Actual exports to December 1, however, were worth only $595,000,000, he said.
The third report submitted to Congress on lend-lease activities said aid extended amounted to on $18,000,000 in March, but the effort had been speeded to the extent that $283,000,000 worth of material was made available in November.

(Congress has voted nearly $13,000,000,000 for lend-lease.)
Mr. Roosevelt said in a letter to Congress that the weapons from the arsenal of democracy must be used most effectively and that means we must let Britain, Russia, China and other nations including those of this hemisphere, use the weapons from that arsenal so that they can put them to the most effective use.

The total lend-lease of $1,202,000,000 included $723,000,000 of articles transferred, some of which have not been lent-leased, or are to be used in this country.
Of the lend-lease appropriations the first of $7,000,000,000 and the second of $5,985,000,000, the report disclosed that $9,186,000,000 or approximately three-fourths had been allocated, while $5,243,000,000 had actually been obligated.

In the past 90 days, the report said, "steps have been taken which have greatly accelerated the rendering of lend-lease aid."

Legion To Aid In Navy Enlistments

D. J. Whitchard, Jr., commander of Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion, today issued a call to all members of the Legion throughout the county to contact any young men in their communities who might be interested in joining the Navy and have been called The Reflector office for full information.

For some time the Legion has been active throughout the state in aiding in the drive for enlistments in the armed forces and today's call for greater efforts on the part of the veterans of World War I was issued by the post commander because of the increased need of men for the Navy since America's active entry into the present conflict.

Battleship Arizona And Five Other Warships Lost

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox reported today the battleship Arizona and five other warships were lost in Sunday's Japanese air raid on the Pearl Harbor naval base in Hawaii.

He said 91 officers and 2,638 enlisted men were known dead.

Known Japanese losses, Knox said, included three submarines and 41 aircraft.
After reporting to President Roosevelt on his return from a hurried five-day round-trip to survey the effects of the raid at first hand, the naval secretary told a press conference that aside from the Arizona, ships destroyed included the old target ship Utah, three destroyers—the Cassin, Downes and Shaw—and also the mine layer Agallo.

Damaged vessels included the old battleships Oklahoma, which captured but can be repaired.
"The entire balance of the Pacific fleet with its aircraft carriers, its heavy cruisers, its light cruisers, its destroyers and submarines are uninjured and are all at sea seeking contact with the enemy," Knox said.

Quickly he told a questioner that the fleet included battleships as well "The Japanese failed," Knox said. (Continued on page six)

FDR CONDEMNS NIPPON ACTION

Says Attack Made While Negotiations Under Way

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told Congress today how Japan's course of aggression in the Pacific was climaxed by an attack on the United States at the very time she was voicing a desire for peace, and declared that "there is the record, for all history to read in amazement, in sorrow in horror and in disgust."

"We are now at war," the President said, "we are fighting in self defense. We are fighting in defense of our national existence, of our right to be secure, of our right to enjoy the blessings of peace."

The chief executive's message was a chronology of American and Japanese negotiations and of history prior to Japan's onslaught in the Pacific eight days ago.

Supporting his summary with documents and correspondence, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the "barbaric aggression of Japan in Manchuria," 10 years ago set the example and pattern for the course of conquest pursued by the Axis powers.

He disclosed that several formulas were offered and discussed in negotiations by which the United States hoped to achieve an understanding with Japan for achieving

CAPITAL SEES SWIFT ACTION ON WAR BILLS

Extension Of Draft Age Limits First Measure Up

NAVAL EXPANS'N IS ANOTHER AIM

Third Measure On Must List For This Week Would Give Extraordinary Powers To President

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A Congress rapidly becoming accustomed to American participation in war, geared itself today for swift action on bills extending the draft age limits, granting the President extraordinary control over government functions and authorizing a 30 per cent naval expansion.

These three measures topped the week's list of "must" legislation as both houses prepared to give final approval today to a $10,000,000,000 appropriations measure carrying funds for completing the equipment of an Army of 2,000,000 men and of obtaining aerial supplies for an additional 1,200,000.

The Selective Service legislation scheduled for House consideration Tuesday and Senate action immediately thereafter, was designed to provide a coordinated increase in military man power as quick as new equipment becomes available. It would require registration of all men from 19 through 44 years old for military service, with 18-year-olds and those from 45 through 64 listed for defense duties.

Selective Service officials said they planned to begin drawing at once the 1,000,000-man reservoir already available in the age brackets up through 35 years old under the Selective Service act as it now stands. Up to 50,000 of these were expected to go to the Navy and up to 10,000 to the Marine Corps.

Beyond that, plans were indefinite, but most legislators thought that the actual size of the Army henceforth would depend chiefly on the equipment, housing and training facilities available.

Committees of both houses prepared to give speedy approval to bill delegating to the President sweeping war powers.

EXPANSION OF NAVY PROVID'D

Increase Is Reduced From 900,000 To 150,000 Tons

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Authorization for an expansion of the United States two-ocean Navy was approved quickly today by the House Naval Affairs Committee after the size of the contemplated increase was reduced from 900,000 tons to 150,000 tons at the request of the Navy.

The measure left the type of ships to be constructed to the discretion of the President and the Navy Department, but Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said that it would include no battleships.

He hastened to add, however, that "this does not mean that we are abandoning the idea of battleships, but it takes longer to build them."

He said that the committee was willing to authorize the full 900,000-ton expansion proposed in a bill he introduced but that the navy had decided upon the smaller amount after a re-examination of its needs.
Vinson declared that the 150,000 tons would not necessitate expansion of present shipbuilding facilities now working on a top speed around the clock schedule on both coasts. He said that all the ships to be built under the authorization would be laid down in the calendar year 1942.

There are one-half million more women than men in urban areas in the age group 20 to 24 years, as shown by the 1940 census.

Thousands Of Japanese Lost Aboard Transports

To Play At Duke

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The New Year's Day football game scheduled to be held in the Rose Bowl between Duke University and Oregon State College was officially transferred to Durham, N. C., home of Duke.

Director of Athletics Percy Loecey of Oregon State announced the official transfer after a telephone conversation with Wallace Wade, athletic director and coach at Duke.

The Rose Bowl site was abandoned at the request of Army officials because of the national emergency.

Duke invited Oregon State to use its 52,000-seat capacity stadium for the big game. The Pasadena Tournament of Roses, sponsors of this annual game, hopes will be represented at the contest.
"It is still the 'Rose Bowl' game," said Loecey. "The only change is one of location."

The county was divided into 14 districts, consisting of the 13 areas comprising the various school districts and Greenville.

U.S. To Take Over Assets Of Aliens

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The government prepared today to seize a billion dollars of enemy alien assets as collateral for any American claims, against the hostile governments, and a special force of G-men was ready to impound the enemy-owned property.

Title to the property to be taken over is vested in enemy aliens living outside the United States and Axis nationals who are in custody.
Officials emphasized that the government does not intend to disturb the property of law-abiding aliens. For that reason, Germans, Italians and Japanese need not worry about their homes and their bank accounts unless they are in the small minority which has been arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The lowest total of annual deaths since 1918 was in 1921, in the same year that saw our all-time highest total of annual births.

Nippon Invasion Of Philippines Resolved Into Struggle For Control In Air; British And Japs Battle For Position In Malayan Campaign; Nippons Concentrate On Hongkong

By The Associated Press
With uncounted thousands of Japanese troops plunged to death on bombed and torpedoed transports short of land fronts, the Japanese invasion of the Philippines was resolved today into a struggle for air supremacy and the Malayan campaign into a war of position in jungle fastnesses.

Earlier the U. S. command at Manila said Army bombers severely damaged two Japanese transports yesterday in the area around Legaspi in southeastern Luzon, 250 miles from Manila, where the Army earlier said the Japanese had made a small and then unopposed landing.

That brought to 15 the total of Japanese vessels, excluding warships, reported sunk or damaged in the Far East since the Japanese began their southward push nine days ago.

The midday communique of the War Department in Washington said that air action continued over Luzon, the principal Philippine island, and that ground operations were continuing in the northern and northwestern sections of the island as well as in the vicinity of Legaspi in the southeast.

The northern area referred to apparently is the Aparri region and the northwestern section, the Vigan area.

Hongkong, British crown colony on the South China coast and number two naval base in the Far East, appeared to be the point of greatest pressure of Japan's greater East Asian offensive.

The British acknowledged a withdrawal from Kowloon, a city of the colony, which permitted the Japanese to advance to within rifle shot of the island of Hongkong, just off the Kowloon peninsula.
Unless this was the forerunner of complete abandonment of Hongkong, it represented a strategy of permitting the Japanese to plunge into the extremity of the Kowloon peninsula in the hope that Free Chinese armies operating at their rear would cut them off.

London's announcement said that the withdrawal was "progressing according to plans."

The afternoon communique from Manila, indicating that the Japanese were checked in the land operations at three points on the main island of Luzon, said that "enemy activities throughout the day were confined entirely to the air."

At Manila, Japanese bombs fell again at midday on the Nichols field area.

The British said that empire forces protecting British Malaya and Singapore from Japanese drives based in Thailand had made a "slight withdrawal" amid "very heavy fighting." Singapore, Britain's number one naval base in the Far East, lies at the opposite or southern end of Malaya.

On Friday afternoon at six o'clock Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner entertained at a lovely pre-nuptial party in honor of Miss Anna Long and Mr. O. L. Joyner, whose marriage will be solemnized tomorrow.

The party rooms of the Flanagan home were beautiful with decorations of white carnations and fern, except in the sun room. In this room, where Mr. and Mrs. Hogan Gaskins and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thomas served punch, red carnations, fern and burning red candles were used. In the dining room all of the appointments were in green and white. A silver candelabra holding white tapers and tied with white tulle, with a tracery of southern smilax around its base, centered the table which was covered with a handsome cloth.

Vases of white carnations and fern placed at either side of the candelabra and silver dishes filled with candies, mints and nuts made a lovely table. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. John Flanagan, Mrs. Egbert Lloyd and Mrs. Graham Flanagan.

Coffee was poured in the breakfast room by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flanagan.

A large number of guests enjoyed this delightfully informal affair.

MY SON

A pure heart, a clean mind, a stalwart boy—
My son: Years of dreaming have been spent and many days of toil—
To make a noble, upright man, of him.
But a mother's dreams are fragile things.
When hate and malice stalk the world, and bugles sound a gruesome call.
It matters not what hopes are built, What plans are made for a strong fine son.
When cannons roar, and bombing planes are great black wings against the sky—
A mother's only solace lies in her son's high courage, and glow of valor in his eyes.
When he goes to lift his gun, and march with thousands of other sons,
To the wild hoarse beat of warring drums.

—Mrs. E. T. Harris.

Christian Science Service.
"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, December 14.

The golden text was from Psalms 40:11. "Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord; let thy lovingkindness and thy truth continually preserve me."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee. I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth. For thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, when the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall." (Isaiah 25: 1, 4)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must find refuge in Truth in order to escape the error of these latter days. Every trial of our faith in God makes us stronger. The more difficult seems the material condition to be overcome by Spirit, the stronger should be our faith and the purer our love. The Apostle John says: 'There is no fear in Love, but perfect Love casteth out fear.' He that feareth is not made perfect in Love."

Christmas Musical Program.
The series of Christmas musical tableaux, "The Light of the World," presented last night at the college by the Music Department, drew an audience that overflowed the Austin auditorium.

The theme of Light was brought out in both tableaux and music, with a reader giving continuity to the whole by giving an introduction to each part. The series began in darkness symbolizing the darkness that was upon the people of the world before the coming of Christ, and gradually increased the light used in the scenes, until at the end the nativity scene, with choruses in the background, was shown in brilliant light.

The first tableau "Give Us Light" showed figures groping in darkness, and had its idea suggested in music by the orchestra and a capella choir.

"The Message of Light" and "Holy Night" showed a colorful representation of a stained-glass window with three angels, and for the accompanying music the Women's Chorus sang three selections and Donald Perry of Washington, sang "O Holy Night."

For "The Light that Leads to the Greater Light," the tableaux, was the star that shone in the east, and the musical accompaniment was furnished by the a capella choir and the orchestra.

The next scenes showed the shepherds in the fields and at Bethlehem. The Women's Chorus, a capella choir, a brass ensemble, and the orchestra all gave parts of the music for these scenes. For the last part of this, a procession of the two choirs carrying lighted candles in double line down the aisles and up to the stage for the final tableau, gave an impressive touch.

For the closing scene, the nativity both choirs were on the stage which was bathed in light.

Devon G. Russell directed the tableaux and served as reader; Miss Gussie Kuykendall directed the Women's Chorus; A. L. Dittmer, head of the department, directed the A Capella Choir and the orchestra; and R. W. Getchell directed the brass ensemble. Clifton Britton had charge of the stage and lighting. Assisting him were Penny Spear, James Earl, Ophelia Hooks, and William Shelton.

Taking part in the tableaux were Gladys Mumford, Mary; Walter Mallard, Joseph; Katherine Kizer, Margaret, Lewis and Shirley Johnson, angels; Nick Zuras, Bill Lucas and James Gianokos, shepherds; and Beatrice Barfette, Rosalie Brown, Norma Hodges, Mary Jordan, Miriam Sexton, Mary Ann Stevens, Pat Teal and Evelyn Whitfield, figures in the darkness. About 23 people played in the orchestra six in the brass ensemble, and 40 or 50 in each of the two choruses.

The program will be presented again tonight at 8:15 in the Austin auditorium.

Library News

Last week many new books of fiction were placed on the shelves of the Sheppard Memorial Library. A number of them are featured in this week's Time as being among the best fiction of 1941. One in particular will appeal to a wide group of readers, Edna Ferber's "Saratoga Trunk." It is an epic of America in the making, being a fantastic story of an adventures and a flamboyant Texas cowboy making their way in the 80's in New Orleans and Saratoga. It is very interesting as a period piece but not as important as some of the writer's novels. However, it is vital, romantic and fresh. Another book with its locale in New Orleans is worthy of note, "Wild Is the River," by Louis Bromfield. It is a triumph of technical skill, a splendid dramatization of the Civil War, rich in detail, color and action. Other new books received were:

"Windswept" by Mary Ellen Chase—A novel of a solitary house on a headland of the coast of Maine has been hailed as Miss Chase's strongest and most beautiful piece of work, and the most far-reaching in its influence. The story brings three generations of one family through the American past to the eve of the present war.

"The Hills Beyond" by Thomas Wolfe—a last novel that contains some of the finest work of the man who was the most promising writer of his generation. In this book he aimed to tell the story of his forebears and there are vital portraits here. This volume also includes one of the finest of Wolfe's shorter pieces "The Lost Boy."

"One Red Rose Forever," by Mildred Jordan—A moving narrative opening with the arrival of "Baron" Stiegel, the eighteenth century glassmaker, at the port of Philadelphia in 1750.

"My Friend Flicka" by Mary O'Hara—The story of a boy who had an understanding mother, and a father who had no patience with a day-dreaming son in the stern reality of a Wyoming horse ranch. Offered a colt, the boy Ken chose an outlaw; the plot centering about this acceptance of responsibility and his devotion to the wild fly he tamed.

"Botany Boy" by Norhoff and Hall—The story of the famous penal colony established in Australia in 1788, dealing especially with one convict's efforts toward a decent life in the midst of criminals, and his hopes, spurred by love, for eventual escape.

"All That Glitters," by Frances Parkinson Keys—A novel the background of which is the national capital during the last 15 years—Washington's evolution as old social dictates melt away and new ones take their place.

"The Heart Remembers" by Fritz Baldwin—An exciting love story that takes you behind the scenes in a New York publishing house.

"The Corpse in the Snowman," by Nicholas Blake—There is intelligent sleuthing and exceptional puzzle interest in this terrifying mystery.

The library is indebted to the John Flanagan Buggy Co. for a copy of "You and the Ten Commandments" by William J. Cameron. —H. L. R.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 24
More Mystery
"Not to expect her back when?" Tonight? Assey demanded. "Who took the call? What did he say, exactly?"
"I answered," Freddy told him. "I said, 'Whale Inn,' and a man's voice said, 'Is this where Miss Olive Beadle lives?' I said, 'Yes,' and he said, 'Well, don't expect her.' Then he hung up before I had a chance to ask who he was, or how he knew about her, or where she was, or anything else! I called Hanson and told him, right away, and he tried to trace the call. But he couldn't find out anything about it except that it was made in town here. The operator said there'd been a flurry of calls right about then, and she didn't notice who called the Inn. All she knew was that it wasn't a long distance or a toll call."
"What d'you make of that?" Cummings inquired. "That make any sense to you, Assey?"

Assey shrugged. "Course," he said slowly. "It's perfectly possible she just happened to do something out of the ordinary tonight, and wanted Mrs. Deane to know she was all right, but'd be late. On the other hand—"
"On the other hand, she doesn't do things out of the ordinary!" Freddy interrupted. "I wish I could make you understand that!"
Freddy broke off as Hanson entered the living room. He looked distracted, too.
"Where the hell have you been, Assey? I wish you wouldn't go dashing off! Peterson wanted to talk with you before he left. Look, he says there's everything to indicate Colt rifling on the bullet the doc found, and the markings on the bullet show no slippage as it took the rifling, so it's probably from a Colt automatic and not a revolver."
"Huh!" Assey said. "In other words, she probably was killed by a bullet from the twenty-two that was there in the booth with her. Peterson was pretty sure, was he?"
"He said there's always the chance it wasn't, but I think he's sure. He'll phone us back later, and he's going to look up and see if he can't find out who bought the gun—what's the matter with her?"
He pointed to Mrs. Clutterfield, who was still squealing at intervals. "Ooooh!"
"What's the matter with you?" Hanson said brusquely.
"Ooooh! I didn't know a goat was so important!"
"What's she talking about?" Hanson appealed to Assey.
"I don't think," Assey said. "It's worth the time to go into it. Tell me, Mrs. Clutterfield, just what was you looking in windows for, anyway?"
"Ooooh!" Mrs. Clutterfield said. "I saw all these policemen moving around! I'll tell you the fine and you will. Right now, you go up to your room and stay there!"
Mrs. Clutterfield scurried up the stairs.
Now For Rankin
"What did you pack her off like that for?" Cummings wanted to know.
"I can't concentrate with her squealing so," Assey said. "Besides, I'm sure she ain't got a thing to do with this. Her problem is running over a goat."
"What's all that about a goat?" Cummings persisted.
Assey grinned. "That's just a charitable problem, Doc. Where's Rankin?"
"You'll find your friend in the smoking room," Cummings drew on his overcoat and picked up his little black bag. "A blend of tolerant amusement and refined irritation. He was only waiting for a street car—I mean, he was only chasing someone else. I always enjoy that it wasn't me it was two other fellows angle. Have fun with him. I'm going to join Carey."
"You're going to do more work tonight?" Assey asked in surprise. "Thought you hated working up there at night. You always claimed the place didn't have enough light."
"It doesn't," Cummings said. "But there are several things I wanted to find out. I'll let you know if anything comes up I think would interest you Good-by."
Assey made his way to the smoking room, where Rankin was reading a Sears Roebuck catalogue.
"Hullo," Rankin looked up. "Why do you look at me that way? Have I aged?"
"Nope," Assey said. "I just never had a good look at you before tonight, what with our either being outside or in a car or in a hall. I thought you was older."
"It's the beard," Rankin said. "A wise uncle of mine pointed out years ago that successful geologists wore beards. People somehow connect beards with ancestors. I'm forty-eight, as a matter of fact. Mayo I gather it's Ann who's been killed, and not Miss Olive, and I also gather from Cummings' mutterings that he thinks I killed her. I didn't. I was very fond of Ann. But, as I told Cummings, if it'll make the authorities happier, go upstairs and go through my things. Find anything that strikes your fancy. You'll find a forty-five Colt in my bureau drawer, and a license to carry it in my pig-skin wallet. And—tell me, why does Dr. Cummings dislike me so?"
"Wa-el," Assey said. "I think it's mostly the bill you owe him."
"The bill I owe him? But I don't! I left money with Freddy to pay that bill last year, before I went home! If he forgot, why didn't he send me a bill? My God!"
"He said that he did, but—"
"He never did! I never got any! How utterly ridiculous, to suspect me of killing Ann because I didn't pay a bill he never sent me! Was that the reason he had me seized by that trooper? I was brought in here and told to wait for you. Nobody explained why."
"Didn't they bring up the matter of somebody lurking around peering into windows?" Assey asked.
"I brought up that matter, myself!" Rankin said. "Look, you remember my cigarette lighter? You threw it at Hanson, and in all that rush after Elissa, I forgot to retrieve it. I'm fond of that lighter, so I went out to see if I could find it. And when I turned the corner of the house, I saw someone dart away from the bushes and waited to see if the fellow might come back. In my own way, I was trying to be helpful. I thought that, under the circumstances, someone darting around bushes in a surreptitious fashion was someone to grab and investigate. And while I was lurking there in the bushes, waiting, this trooper grabbed me. 'I'm sure,' Rankin concluded, 'that he meant well. So did I.'"
Bright Girl
"I see," Assey said. "Now, tell me about this girl Ann Joyce, will you?"
"She was an awfully bright and talented girl," Rankin said promptly. "and I was very fond of her. She worked for me as my secretary the winter before last. It was admittedly a stopgap job. She wanted to go on the stage. She was good-looking and had one of the loveliest voices

United States Army Air Corps bombers are shown lined up for inspection at Hickam Field, near Honolulu, which was bombed by Japanese planes December 7. A direct bomb hit was reported to have killed 1500 men at the field.

I ever heard, and I thought she had ability. So I told people about her, and helped her get a job here in the South Pochete Barn Theater last summer. And I don't mind telling you that whatever success the theater enjoyed was due wholly to Ann. Last winter she got some understudy jobs, and this summer, she came back to the Barn Theater to get more experience."
"Then," Assey said thoughtfully, "you couldn't hardly, in all honesty, refer to her as a star, could you?"
"No. That's why," Rankin said in a troubled voice. "I can't begin to understand this business of her being shot! Ann wasn't important, in the sense of her being any colossal glamorous success in the theater! She wasn't. She was just a talented, ambitious youngster starting to work her way up."
"And being at the foot of the ladder," Assey said, "she wasn't far enough advanced on her career to have what you'd call awful complicating problems, was she?"
"She had problems," Rankin returned. "Who doesn't have problems? The problem of getting three meals a day is no less acute in the theater than it is anywhere else!"
"Uh-huh. But there wasn't Hollywood agents fighting over her," Assey said, "or admirers challenging each other to duels, or people she'd stepped on yearning to pick out her eye teeth. Nobody stood to lose millions because she did this thing instead of that thing. The point I'm making is that while her problems mattered to her, they weren't important and far reaching enough to make someone want to kill her."
"I don't see why anyone would want to kill her anyway!" Rankin said.
"You can't think of anyone you might call an enemy of hers?" Assey asked. "Anyone that might have a grudge against her?"
Rankin hesitated.
"D'you remember," he said at last, "I told you earlier in the evening that it wasn't fair for you to ask me any opinions of the people at the Inn until I knew who was killed? Well, now I know it was Ann. I'm not going to pretend to pull any punches. The Barn's success last summer was due to Ann. Elissa Hingham's one of the Barn's backers. Elissa's husband, Horace, is—"
"By the way," Assey interrupted, "just for the record, what's Horace's last name?"
"His last name?" Rankin said. "Why, it's—let's see, Sprout, I think. No, it isn't. It's Henderson, or Sanderson, or Martinson, or something. I don't really remember. Anyway, Horace has will enough to know that Ann is good. To Be Continued

Better Than A String Sapulpa, Okla.—(AP)—Even if the drama critics did overlook it, the Pioneer and Indian Day play at Jefferson school must have been good. Little Nancy Thompson, who was in the audience, got so excited she pulled a loose tooth.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

HUMAN AND DIVINE MEASUREMENTS

Vision is the capacity to see in things both their present and latent possibilities.

Ordinary men working upon a huge piece of stone would see a stone and nothing more, but Michael Angelo, standing before the same piece of stone, beholds an angel in it before hammer or chisel has touched it. Men looked at falling apples for hundreds of years and saw nothing remarkable in their falling, but Newton saw in a falling apple the demonstration of the law of gravitation. The people of Bedford could see in their fellow townsman, John Bunyan, nothing more than a loose-living, swearing tinker, but God saw in him the dreamer and writer who was later to tell to the betterment of men's souls through the centuries the story of "The Pilgrim's Progress." The people of Springfield, Illinois, could see nothing remarkable in the young attorney Abraham Lincoln, shabby of dress and eccentric of action, but God had use for him in the hour when the destiny of a nation hung in the balance.

We read that as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are God's ways higher than our ways and His thoughts than our thoughts. His standards of measurement differ vastly from ours. What we regard as base, He often exalts. What we scoff at and cast aside, He picks up and uses to the embellishing of the Holy City.

Those who keep close to God come to see with His eyes and to estimate the worth of things with His judgment.

WE WILL FIGHT TO VICTORY

War came to the United States on December 7, 1941, in typical totalitarian style. There was no warning. Japan struck while diplomatic talks were in progress between the United States and that country. Yet the scope of operations showed conclusively that many weeks of planning and at least two weeks of actual maneuvers were necessary before these final lightning raids.

The United States must never forget these facts. They prove conclusively that this war with Japan is but a part of the larger world-wide war. Japan attacked with the same savage treachery that characterized German blows against Austria, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, Poland, Belgium, The Netherlands, and all the rest. It was in keeping with Mussolini's attack against a beaten France, his advance into Greece.

This is ancient history. But it is important that the people of the United States remember these facts. They show the nature of the foes we face. They show that no fair play, no regard for international law, no regard for civilians will enter into Axis methods. This war will be long and dirty and bloody.

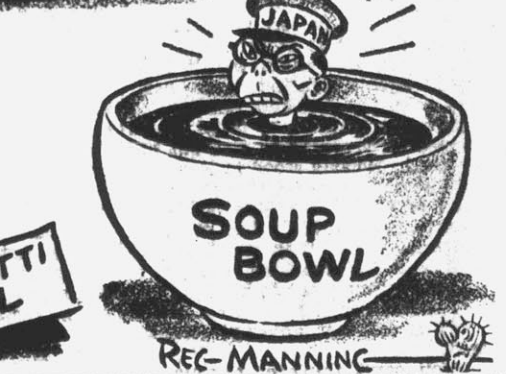

The United States can thank Japan for one thing. We enter the war with no de-lusions. We know exactly what we are in for. We know that there is nothing "phony" about this war. We know that it will take all our manpower and all our resources to win. We know that all the people of the United States are prepared to pay whatever price is necessary for complete victory.

President Roosevelt spoke for the nation when he said that no one is to be called upon for sacrifices. True, the people of this country are going to pay unprecedented taxes, do without luxuries they have come to accept as necessities, work longer and harder than they ever have before. But, as the President has said, these are privileges. There is no sacrifice when the safety of the nation is at stake. There is no sacrifice in fighting to remain free.

There is little use to dwell on the need for unity. When Japanese planes bombed Honolulu and Pearl Harbor, when they struck at military bases and air fields in the Philippines, the people of the United States became one. There is no dissension. Party lines were wiped out.

in Congress. Labor and industry dropped their differences and redoubled production efforts. Isolationist leaders and organs rallied to the fight. Past disputes and past differences were forgotten.

Final victory is taken for granted. But there is no use fooling ourselves that it will be easy. Certainly, the initial losses in the Pacific have made this clear.

But the opportunity is ours, with the other free peoples of the world, to prove conclusively that those who fight from choice merely to preserve their way of life can outfight the slaves of dictator nations which fight to gain world power. The myth of totalitarian invincibility has been proved false. The United States must explode this theory beyond redemption.

There can be no quarter, no treatment with the mad men who have plunged the globe into war. They are false. Their words and actions convict them of infidelity. They are tricky and dangerous. They must be destroyed.

So the time of indecision waiting is ended. Our enemies are out in the open. The issues are clear cut. Our course is fixed.

The United States has never sought war. We can be proud that the United States took every possible step to avert this one. The attempt ended in early losses. But this is just the beginning. The United States has never lost a war. It will not lose this one.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington—Just when Washingtonians were convinced that the nation's capital was becoming the world center of bedlam—war broke loose.

It caught thirty-odd thousands of official and unofficial Washington at their favorite Sunday pastime, watching a "pro" football game. The news, ten minutes after it was flashed over The Associated Press wires, reached a group of F.B.I. officials. It was called up over two rows of spectators by a messenger who had taken a telephone call from headquarters. Like waves from a pebble in a puddle, the news circled the field.

Within a few minutes the half was over and the stands were deserted by thousands as Army, Navy and other government officials rushed to report for duty.

Lights went on in the early afternoon winter dusk in the White House, the State Department, O.P.M., the Army and Navy building, and many of the embassies—to be dimmed only by daylight.

Light went on around the Japanese embassy, too, but a different kind of light. It was the flicker of a big bonfire that rose from the backyard of the embassy on Massachusetts avenue as officials heaped box after box of records and papers into the flames. The avenue became a glut of traffic as the curious piled in to see what was going on. And on the roof, as long as the light lasted, a son of Nippon took pictures of the crowd.

Overnight, the capital, which heretofore has seen uniforms on only the non-commissioned officers and men of the armed forces, took on the appearance of an armed camp as the thousands of Army and Navy officers on desk duty here went into uniform. Only those who were here more than 20 years ago when the hordes working in Washington were ordered "out of uniform" have any basis for comparison of the warlike appearance of the capital.

The utter confusion of commentators who for days had been predicting that nothing would happen in the Pacific was matched only by the surprise of those who had been saying that something would.

Digging down through the clutter of predictions from government officials, I found one from the same man who wrote a report for the President, saying that the war on the Russian front would outlast the winter. What this minor government official (he must remain anonymous) said this time was that the Japanese "would precipitate a war with the United States" and soon. He called it hara-kiri (recognized by the Japanese as "an honorable suicide" much more preferable than living in dishonor. He said it was the only way Japan could "save face" both with her allies and her enemies, and that to the Japanese this would be much more important than economic, industrial and military considerations.

So far as wartime personnel is concerned, Washington and the nation are far ahead of that spring in 1917. There are approximately a million persons in the District of Columbia and its suburbs, more than twice what it had 20 years ago before most of the World War expansion had been eliminated. There are nearly a quarter of a million persons working for the government here—and throughout the country and foreign lands more than 800,000 additional. There are now about 2,000,000 persons in the armed forces.

Another million is enrolled for civilian defense and that figure is expected to double immediately. Housing and office space here are at such a premium that the stories of overcrowding and high rentals would fill a volume. On weekends when soldiers from nearby camps and government employees are on the move, it is impossible to get within a block of Union Station—only a few years ago ridiculed for its size as something to which the city could never grow up.

Is it any wonder that Washingtonians are saying that the capital is far ahead, in bedlam, of what it was when World War I broke out?

HOW TO TELL ARMY PLANES

90TH BOMBING SQUADRON: The "galloping dominoes" were selected by this World War I unit as its flying symbol. The dice show a natural 7, and represent the fliers' position for luck aloft. The digit seven also figures in the 90th's 191 campaign in France when it scored that number of confirmed victories. The unit lost two men killed and one wounded in that war.

Duke Vs Oregon Or Powerhouse Vs Stonewall Defense

Duke Stresses High-Gear Offense

Durham, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Coach Wallace Wade of Duke said today there was "a very good chance" that the Rose Bowl game between the Blue Devils and Oregon State would be played in Duke stadium on New Year's day.

Wade said he expected to receive a definite decision from Oregon State and Rose Bowl officials this afternoon.

48--DUKE VS heeTmy.t By FRANK B. GILBRETH AP Feature Service

Durham, N. C. — They've got the same old coach, the same old single wingback system, and the same old plays.

But West Coast fans will see very little similarity between the Duke team which played in the Rose Bowl in 1939 and the Duke team which will oppose Oregon State in the Rose Bowl on this New Year's Day.

The "Iron Dukes" who lost to Southern California, 7-3, in the 1939 game, were primarily a defensive club. They didn't yield a single point during the regular season.

This story, prepared by Frank B. Gilbreth, head of the Associated Press offices at Raleigh, was written and mailed out to papers throughout the United States before it was known that the Rose Bowl game not be played this year.

A movement is on to have the game played at Durham and should the game be played in this state or anywhere else, the same powerful offensive of Duke would be pitted against the stonewall defense of Oregon State.

But they weren't too potent offensively; they scored only 114 points—an average of 12 1/4 a game.

Duke this year is primarily an offensive team. The Blue Devils have rolled up 311 points — an average of 35 a game. But they're not too strong defensively; 41 points have been scored against them.

The "Iron Duke" Team had a fine offensive back in the person of George McAfee, but George had trouble with his feet and didn't see much action that year. Consequently, Coach Wallace Wade built his team around Eric Tipton, a great coffin-kicker, and Dan Hill, a defensive star at center.

The result was a club which won five of its nine regular-season tilts by scores of either 7-0 or 6-0.

This year Wade has a half-dozen elusive backs and probably the best collection of offensive ends ever to wear the Duke colors.

Why two backs who aren't even good enough to be regulars — Bill Wartman and Moffet Storer — run the 100-yard dash in less than 10 seconds?

Team play, rather than individual brilliance, is probably responsible for Duke's present undefeated and untied record. But if Steve Lach isn't an individual star, he'll do until one comes along.

Lach, a tailback, is one of the greatest defensive men ever seen in these parts. In addition, he's carried the ball 51 times this season for a net average of eight yards a try; he's thrown two passes, both of which were complete; he's punted 21 times for an average of 45.3 yards from scrimmage; he's caught 22 passes for gains totaling 366 yds. Tom Davis, sophomore back, has carried the ball 96 times for an average of 5.9 yards a try; has completed 35 out of 66 passes; and has a punting average of 34.7 yards.

Moffet Storer has carried 65 times for an average of 3.3; has completed 19 of 41 passes; and has a punting average of 39.1. Sophomores Leo Long and Bobby Rute, fullback Winston Siegfried, and quarterback Tommy Prothro all are fine players and have seen plenty of action.

Jim Smith, an end, has carried the ball 10 times on end-around plays and has gained a net average of 14.2 yards a try. Al Piasecky, probably the best end on the team, has been slowed up by injuries but should be in shape for the Rose Bowl game. Bob Gantt, sophomore end, made the All-Southern Conference team this year.

Other stars include Mike Karmazin, all-conference tackle; Pete Goddard, who plays guard although he weighs only 168; and Bob Barnett, all-conference center.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigurd Arne

The story so far: Carl, a peasant's son in King Harald's land is riding into the next kingdom to help find a witch who is burning the crops. Santa, in disguise, helps him.

Chapter Thirteen CARL'S ARROW STRIKES THE WITCH

Carl rode a short distance the next morning when he noticed an old man beside a well.

"Sir," shouted Carl at the old man, "I am in a hurry, but can I help you draw up water?"

"That you can," said the old man, "and if your horse is strong you can give me a lift."

"That I will," said Carl. He jumped down from his horse, drew a bucket of water, and both he and the old man had a cool drink. Then Carl mounted his horse and helped the old man up behind him.

"Are you going into the next kingdom?" asked the old man.

"That I am," said Carl. "There is a witch abroad who is burning the crops. I hope to catch her."

"H-m-m," said the old man. His face broke into a pleased smile. But Carl couldn't see that, of course. You see, it was Santa Claus who was riding with Carl. But he could not tell Carl because it was best ari make his own plans without any help.

That night Carl and Santa crossed a wide bridge over a deep river into the next kingdom where Prince Hildur lived. They slept in the first farm house they saw. Before they went to bed the farmer told them all the crops were dying and many people were hungry. Santa sat silently and carved a wooden horse for the farmer's small son.

Santa told no one who he was except the small boy, and the boy promised to keep his secret. The next morning the boy gave Santa a pocketful of ginger cookies.

That morning Carl and Santa rode along an hour before they met anyone. Then Carl saw a young man in a field beside the road. He shouted, "Ho, friend! What news of the witch?"

The young man shouted back, "The witch is burning west of here. No one has seen her, but she must be there. I am trying to protect our land."

So Carl galloped ahead and turned left on the first road.

Finally over the third hill Carl saw rolling clouds of smoke. "There she must be, old father," Carl called back to Santa.

"Be careful, son," Santa called back. But Carl galloped all the harder. They came to a part of the road where wheat fields were burning on both sides. Sparks flew in their faces, and suddenly the horse dug his hoofs into the ground, threw up his fore legs and refused to go any farther.

Carl laughed, and turned the horse back to a safer place. He hopped off and helped Santa down.

"What are you going to do?" asked Santa.

"Why, if I can't ride I'll walk," said Carl. "You stay here until I come back."

So Santa tied the big horse to a tree and sat down by the road where he picked a handful of dried grasses and began to weave a doll's hammock.

Carl walked down the road, thru the rolling clouds of smoke, watching sharply to left and right. Suddenly he saw a tiny, old woman darting along between the rows of wheat. As she ran red flames sprang up.

"There she is," said Carl. He fitted an arrow into his bow and shot. The arrow went straight through the old woman. She started as she felt the arrow, but she only laughed and ran on, disappearing in the wheat field.

"What now?" thought Carl. "She can't be hurt by arrows." He felt very discouraged.

Just then in King Harald's castle something happened that would help Carl. The King took down that magic pipe Santa had given him, and said to it, "Now, if you have any power to help, I need it."

Tomorrow: The Witch is Captured.

That night Carl and Santa crossed into the next kingdom.

Governor Proposes School Bus Safety Drive

By BOB THOMPSON

Raleigh, Dec. 15.—Governor Broughton plans to ask the Council of State to approve a special allotment from the contingency and emergency fund to finance a school bus safety campaign in the very near future. The campaign, it at last has been decided, will be conducted by the Motor Vehicle Department's division of highway safety.

At the same time the Governor may ask the council to O. K. a department. Although the last Legislature, at the Governor's request created new jobs for Commissioner Bodie Ward and his assistant, no appropriation was made with which to pay them and at the moment the department is faced with the necessity of running in the red, or curtailing part of its activity.

There has been considerable delay and confusion about the school bus campaign. After a week or so several months ago, the Governor announced that the State School Commission was going to do something about teaching the boy-drivers rules of safety. A special committee was set up with John Oats chairman. Then was discovered what was pretty obvious all along. The commission has neither the personnel nor appropriations for such work while the safety division has.

Bodie Ward, head of the Motor Vehicle Department, said he did not have enough money to do the job. The school commission said it didn't have any oney either, and if it had it did not have the set-up.

This week the School Commission threw the whole thing back in the Governor's lap with the request that the job over the safety division which had the responsibility to begin with.

SECRETARY KNOX DISCLOSES
ACTUAL LOSSES AT HAWAII

in their purpose "to knock out the United States before the war began."

Knox said flatly that the "United States services were not on the alert against the surprise air attack."

A formal investigation, he said, would be instituted by President Roosevelt immediately. In the meantime, he said, there had been no changes in command.

Taking part in the Japanese attack, Knox revealed, were two German submarines.

Of the three submarines known to have been lost, he said, one was normal size, one small, and the third, which was captured, was also a small one.

Aside from those killed, 20 officers and 636 men were listed as wounded.

The ratio of dead was heavy.
Knox explained, because some ships rolled over.

"I think the most effective fifth column work of the entire war was done in Hawaii, with the possible exception of Norway," Knox said.

from now until December 22. Please notify your members and any retailer of tires you can possibly reach."

In compliance, retailers were beers of Pitt county and emphasized the aims and objectives of the Farm

The council appointed a committee composed of R. R. Bennett, Mrs.
Margaret S. Williams, J. H. Mobley,
Miss Mildred Beeton, and Robert A.
Darr to make plans for an Achievement Day program to be held in special recognition to farm families who have reached their established goals in the food and feed program. Families cooperating and reaching their goals will be awarded a certificate signed by Hon. J.

Melville Broughton, governor of our state.

Vernon E. White reported on the activity of Pitt County Agricultural Defense Board and requested those present to cooperate by encouraging farmers to repair their farm ma-iron available, which is essential in our defense program.

vice plan. This plan is new in that it permits the car owner a plan whereby he can have his car com-permanent peace in the Pacific. But the Japanese government, he said, continued upon its course of war and conquest.

For the record of history, he noted that the actual air and submarine attacks in the Hawaiian Islands—this was the first disclosure that underscored had attacked the island along with planes—began at 1:20 p. m. Washington time

At 2:20 p. m. the Japanese ambassador here delivered to Secre-

sage which said that establishment of peace in the Pacific and in the world had been "the cherished desire of the Japanese emperor."

FOES STRUGGLE FOR AIR
SUPREMACY IN FAR EAST
The British were confronted with another Japanese invasion of empire territory on the Kra Isthmus west of the Malay peninsula where British Burma shares a narrow stretch of land with Thailand.
The Japanese were said to have crossed into Burma from a landing on the eastern side of the isthmus.
Britain now regards Thailand a friendly occupied territory "with all the consequences which follow."

The Japanese acknowledge no slowdown of their Pacific-Asiatic drive.
