Great—Perhaps Decisive—Battle Is Raging In Russia 3,600,000-MAN U. S. ARMY ORDERED

Move Aimed Put U.S. On Even Terms

Secretary Stimson Declares Huge Army Ordered To Hasten Victory Against foe Who So Far Has Held Heavy Odds; Also Announced In Washington Gen. MacArthur's Troops Holding Japs

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A mighty army of 3,600,000 men is in the making, Secretary of War Stimson said today, to hasten the victory fought for so far against heavy odds.

Whereas today's army communique told of "greatly outnumbered" troops holding fast against the Japanese in the Philippines, Stimson's announcement carried with it this picture:

Twice the number of present air combat units. Creation of 32 motorized or triangular divisions. Twice the present number of armored units.

Overall, a more than doubling of the army's present strength in ground and air forces. Stimson said the increase, authorized by President Roosevelt, would be made this year with the first three new divisions to be organized by March 25.

Looking to further increases of undisclosed size next year, camp facilities are to be expanded in the meanwhile.

As a part of the vast expansion, Stimson announced at the same time, 75,000 officers will be commissioned in special officer candidate schools this year and requirements for air force pilots, bombardiers and navigators had been lowered from 20 to 18 years. Married men now also may train as fliers, and intelligence tests have been substituted for educational requirements.

Stimson said the army increase called for a vast expansion also of housing and training facilities which, he added, has already started.

The army now is building nine new camps to accommodate 30,000 men each, he said. All training centers are being expanded to accommodate an additional 200,000. In addition, five temporary tent camps are being set up.

The daily report on the Philippine defense told of another whittling at the Axis air forces, with a statement that two heavy Japanese bombers were shot down and others hit, while the casualties among the defenders were few.

Japan's resort to a ruthless firing squad rule for the conquered areas of the Philippines gave the capital pointed evidence that a fifth column of Filipino patriots is at work for General Douglas MacArthur behind the invader's lines.

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Congressional action was completed by the House today on legislation for universal daylight saving time which would advance all clocks one hour.

Imperial Forces Lined Up For Defense Of Singapore

Fighting Rages In Dutch Indies

Japs Strike New Blow At Important Military And Naval Base; Dutch Planes Scour Jungle For Enemy Bases

Batavia, N. E. I., Jan. 15. (AP)—While Dutch warplanes roared out from their jungle bases today in search of new enemy targets, the Japanese struck a fresh blow in a bombing attack aimed at objectives near the important Netherlands East Indies military and naval base of Ambonia.

Ambonia, in the Molucca island group between Celebes and New Guinea, would be a long reach for the Japanese from Davao, 775 miles north in the Philippines, or from their footholds on northern Borneo. But it is only some 400 miles southeast of the Minahassa peninsula of Celebes, where the Japanese also have made landings.

A Japanese communique, as broadcast from Tokyo, reported air attacks on Ambonia as well as on New Guinea and New Britain, in Australia's Bismarck archipelago.

A brief N. E. I. communique merely reported the Japanese attack and added that "further interesting details" were expected.

The strangest Japanese foothold on Indies territory appeared to be at Tarakan, off Borneo's northeast coast, sized by troops landed from 14 transports.

Accounts of the Japanese operation at Tarakan agreed that a force of six large cruisers and six destroyers supported the fleet of transports, and covered the landings which were made at three separate points along Tarakan's east coast on Sunday morning.

The outnumbered defenders were forced back steadily. But while they continued their stubborn resistance other units carried out the pre-arranged plan for destruction of the oil wells.

Ironically, the insufferable heat of the oil well fires was a factor in the final surrender of the garrison on Monday morning. Only a few defenders were said to have escaped to the mainland of Borneo.

With Four-Fifths Of Malaya Already In Japanese Hands After Five Weeks Of Fighting, Armed Forces And Civilians Face Real Test; British And Dutch Fighters Battle Jap Raiders

By C. YATES McDANIEL Singapore, Jan. 15.—(AP) Sobered by the fact that only one-fifth of British Malaya remains in British control after five weeks of the Japanese offensive, Imperial armed forces and civilians knuckled down today for the major test which all believed to be in the offing: the battle of Singapore.

New positions were consolidated in the dripping green jungles of southern Malaya, while rain squalls and stiffened defenses gave this naval base-metropolis comparative respite from Japanese air attacks.

Relays of British and Dutch fighter planes, however, battled raiders over the Singapore area, using rain clouds for concealment.

The people of Singapore and Johore—the only one of the nine Malay states not occupied or penetrated on any considerable scale by the Japanese—have been brought face to face with the full Japanese threat by the simple official notification that delivery of Malayan mail could be assured only for destinations in Singapore or Johore.

The British news agency, Exchange Telegraph, recorded today a Rome broadcast, quoting a Tokyo report that Japanese forces had landed on an island of the Rho Archipelago, just south of Singapore, and that the town of Endau, 100 miles north of Singapore, had been outflanked.

The northernmost island of the Rho group is separated from Singapore only by the narrow Singapore strait.

Official broadcasts from Tokyo said that Japanese troops, forging down the west side of the Malay peninsula, crossed into Johore last night, occupied the railway junction of Gemas and "completely encircled" about 30,000 soldiers defending that approach toward Singapore.

The drive southward along the east coast was said by the Japanese to have reached Pekan at the mouth of the Pahang river, 130 miles from Johore strait, part of the water barrier about Singapore island.

Singapore realizes that she has yet to experience major air assaults in the London or Chungking patterns. The Japanese, however, used nearly 200 planes over Singapore on Monday and Tuesday. Official reports placed the casualty toll for the two days at 67 with correspondingly small material damage.

Woke Forest, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A truck driver was killed, and several railroad passengers were slightly injured today when a bakery truck and a southbound train collided at a crossing a mile north of here.

The Seaboard train, en route from New York to Miami, was partially derailed. Railroad officials said the engine and two cars left the track and all of the passengers were able to continue their journey. Railroad officials said their injuries were of a very minor nature.

The truck driver was M. M. Reynolds, about 30, of Raleigh. The train pushed the truck for about a mile, and finally was derailed at a crossing almost in the center of this college town. The engine barely missed hitting a drug store, which was badly wrecked about six years ago in a similar accident.

REDS FIGHTING FOR MOZHAISK

Russians Storm Germans In Frontal Assaults At Keystone Nazi Defense Position Only 57 Miles From Moscow While Other Red Army Units Closing Trap Around City Report Progress

By The Associated Press Russian shock troops were reported smashing in a direct frontal assault today against 100,000 Germans massed at Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, in what appeared to be one of the greatest and perhaps most decisive battles of the war.

Mozhaisk is the keystone of the dwindling German defense corridor from the Napoleonic road from Moscow to Smolensk.

The British radio said that a savage battle was raging at the gates of Mozhaisk.

Other Red Army forces, slowly closing a giant trap around Mozhaisk, were officially reported to have recaptured the town of Medyn, 35 miles to the southwest. This meant that the Germans now had only a 7-mile-wide escape route from Mozhaisk, with Soviet troops pressing down from Volokolamsk in the north and Medyn in the south.

Volokolamsk is 35 miles north of Mozhaisk. A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's high command, tersely noting "defensive battles" on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts, acknowledged that the Russians were making a new drive along the sea of Azov toward Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov-on-Don.

The offensive was termed "unsuccessful."

The Berlin radio admitted that Russian reinforcements for the new battle of the Crimea were landing at Feodosiya on the Kerch peninsula, and said German fliers had bombed large Soviet shipping concentrations, disembartering troops and war materials of all kinds. The Nazi high command said the Russian ships were damaged by bomb hits.

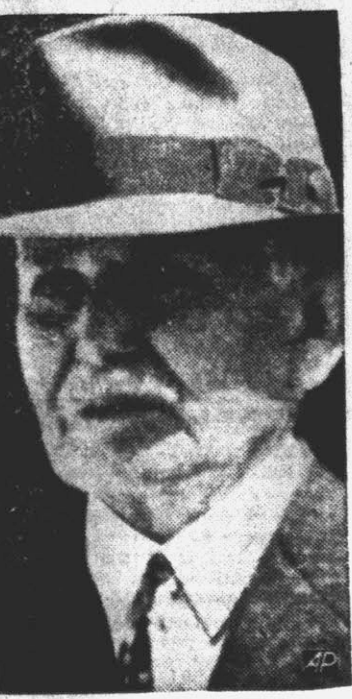

In the north, on the Leningrad front, German assault troops were reported to have destroyed several Soviet pillboxes and their gun crews in driving a 600-foot-wide breach through Russian lines. This implied that a Nazi counter-offensive had been launched in the Leningrad area.

By contrast, the British radio reported: "The Russians have now cleared almost the whole of the eastern bank of the river Volkhov, south-east of Leningrad, and captured a village on the west bank about 65 miles from the city."

Capture Of Booty Claimed By Japan Tokyo, Jan. 15.—(Official Broadcast Recorded by AP)—Imperial headquarters today issued the following review of operations in the Philippines since the fall of Manila:

"War prizes taken as a result of the battle of Manila up to January 12 include 130,000 rifles, four artillery pieces, 50 machine guns, 647,900 rounds of ammunition, 500 motor cars, 70 railway carriages, 91 vessels, a large quantity of gasoline and large amounts of food, clothing and other supplies.

U.S. SUB SINKS NIPPON LINER

Vessel Probably Convertible Into A Carrier Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The navy announced today that a 17,000-ton Japanese merchant liner had been sunk by an American submarine.

The vessel was of the fast Yawata class, owned and operated by the Nyk lines, and probably convertible into an aircraft carrier.

No other details of the sinking were supplied.

The navy said also in a communique: "The menace of enemy submarines off the east coast of the United States remains substantial."

A navy spokesman said at least one vessel of the Yawata class of three ships, frequent visitors to west coast ports, had been converted into an aircraft carrier, but it was not known whether this was the one sent to the bottom.

The communique, untimed, read: "Far East: A 17,000-ton Japanese merchant ship of the Yawata class has been sunk by an American submarine. "There is nothing to report from other Pacific areas.

"Atlantic area: "The menace of enemy submarines off the east coast of the United States remains substantial. "There is nothing to report from other Atlantic areas."

Sinking of the liner raised to eleven the total of enemy vessels sent to the bottom by American submarine action in the Far East. The ten vessels previously reported sunk by American undersea craft (Continued On Page Six)

ALLIES SCORE NEW ADVANCES IN LIBYAN WAR

Move Into New Positions In Halfaya Border Area AIR FORCE AIDS ARTILLERY UNIT

British, African And Polish Artillery Goes Forward Under Cover Of Aerial Activity

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 15.—(AP)—British Imperial and Allied infantry have moved to new positions against Axis holdout forces in the Halfaya border region of Egypt, facing Libya, under cover of a destructive aerial and artillery bombardment, British Middle East headquarters announced today.

"In the Halfaya area, in cooperation with our air force, British, South African and Polish artillery continued their bombardment of enemy defenses as a result of which an important enemy ammunition dump was destroyed and a number of direct hits registered on gun emplacements," a communique of the Middle East command said.

"Under cover of this bombardment, our infantry moved forward to new positions which are now being consolidated in face of increased enemy patrol and artillery activity."

Reduction of the German and Italian border positions, a thorn in the flank of the British offensive now more than 300 miles inside Libya, would release sizeable British Imperial and Allied forces for the drive westward toward El Aghelia and Tripoli.

The British said that the advance in the coastal sector toward El Aghelia was delayed "in difficult country by strong resistance from defended localities" in the Gasr El Brega sector, but that farther south the forward movement continued.

Gasr El Brega is about 40 miles southwest of Agedabia and 30 miles northeast of El Aghelia.

"As on the previous day, enemy air activity against our columns was on a considerable scale," the communique acknowledged.

"Throughout the day our air forces carried out protective sweeps over the area of operations together with successful attacks on enemy concentrations of mechanical transports in the rear."

Details Of Incident Off East Coast Not Known

Understood, However Attack Took Place Only 60 Miles Off Montauk Point, Or About 75 Miles from New York City; Second Atlantic Coast In Two Days

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP) The Coast Guard station at Quebec, Long Island, said today that survivors of a ship attacked off the Long Island coast were being brought to shore.

"Details of the attack were not immediately revealed. It was the second such attack in these waters in two days.

The victim of the attack was the Panamanian tanker Norms, torpedoed early yesterday about 60 miles off Montauk Point, at the eastern tip of Long Island. The two attacks were about 50 miles apart.

It was understood the attack occurred about 15 miles off shore from Hampton Bay, about 75 miles from New York City.

Headquarters of the Third Naval District here had no immediate confirmation of the attack.

The duty officer at the Quebec Coast Guard station said survivors were being brought to Shinnecock inlet which links the Atlantic with Shinnecock bay.

It was not known at once what vessels made the rescues.

(By The Associated Press) Survivors from the second ship attacked off the Long Island coast in two days were being brought in late today by the United States Coast Guard in an incident sharply underlining earlier warnings by the Navy that the enemy submarine menace off the east coast "remains substantial."

The details of this second assault in American waters were not immediately available from the Coast Guard.

All this again divided American attention between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Fliers Are Found By Rescue Party

North Woodstock, N. H., Jan. 15. (AP)—Breaking their way through five miles of snow-covered woodland, a volunteer rescue party brought to safety five of a seven-man crew of an army bomber which crashed into a mountainside last night, killing two of its occupants.

Army officials said the twin-engine motor ship was on a routine training flight from Westover Field, Chicopee, Mass.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE (World-wide News Analyst).

The sinking of a Panamanian tanker in our own home waters off the Long Island coast, presumably by an Axis submarine, looks mighty like the harbinger of the all-out U-boat campaign which Herr Hitler is likely to inaugurate when the good weather arrives—and that's not so far away.

It's hardly likely the Fuehrer would undertake a major offensive at this time of year, although this sinking follows the torpedoing of a big steamer off Nova Scotia Tuesday with heavy loss of life. The Atlantic kicks up too much fuss in winter to permit concerted submarine activity.

One Man Killed In Train-Auto Wreck

They hiked to Mr. Savage's stables and there Mr. Crawford, the man in charge, showed the children all the horses. Then "Bill" the pony was brought out and each child was allowed to ride him. Then Mr. Crawford showed them the horse trained to do tricks. They saw the horse "play sick" and groan and sit down, walk and turn completely around with lifting front feet, moving his front feet. Many attempts were made to get him pick up a hat, but the horse became "stage frightened" and refused to do it before the large audience.

After many thanks and goodbyes were said to Mr. Crawford, who invited them to return, the children went to play in the Guy Smith stadium.

The children were under the supervision of trained WPA leaders and a hike was planned once each week for them—Reported.

New Year's Eve Party.
Ayden, Jan. 15.—The Ayden community building was the scene of a most delightful New Year's Eve party Wednesday night when Misses Mary Darden Quinerly and Patsy McLawhorn entertained the younger set from 8 to 12 o'clock. The mantels and piano were ornamented with long leaf pine and beautiful sprigs of holly clustered with red berries. Ivy beautified a number of pedestals which held various plants suggestive of the present season.

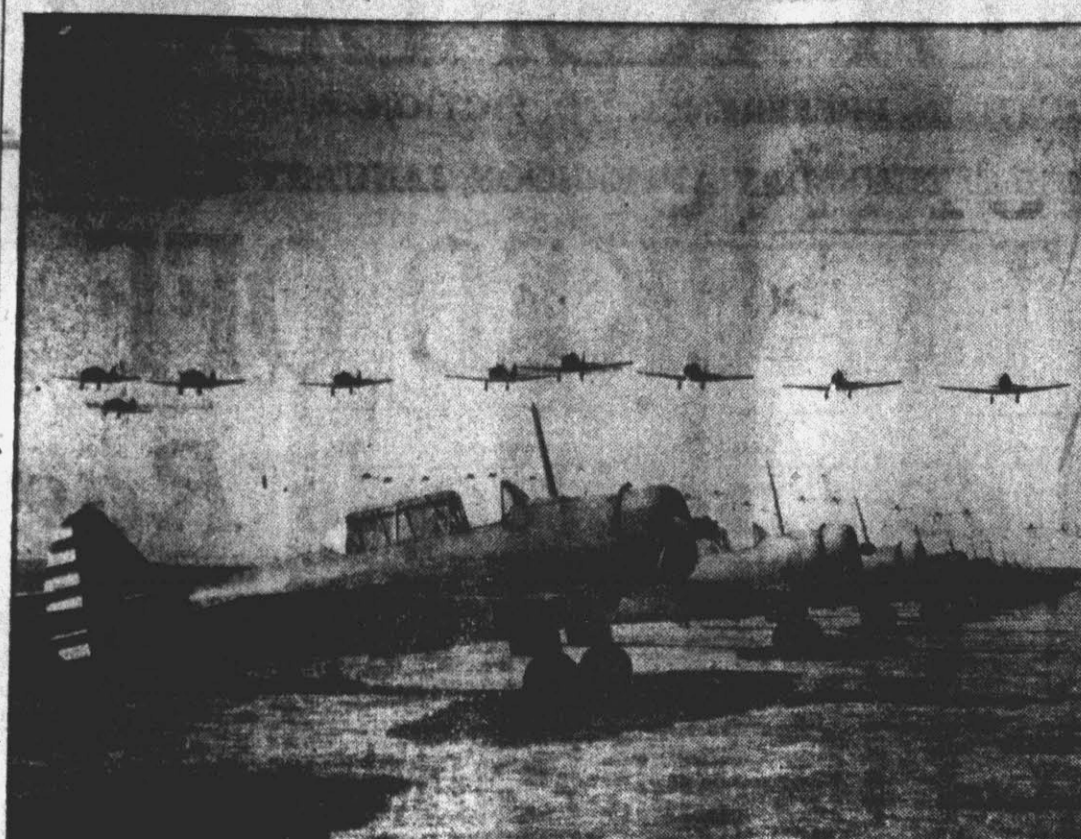

In the reception room the guests were met by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Martha Finch Worthington, at which time each was presented a resolution. Following introductions, the guests were ushered into an adjoining room where punch was served. Daphne McLawhorn and Bill Stroud presided over the punch bowl.

A series of games was directed by Miss Mary Ida McLawhorn. In order to make the guests better acquainted the girls formed a circle around the boys and marched the grand right and left. Next, the young people were divided into seasons according to their birthdays. Each group had charge of a contest; fall presented a miniature football game, spring presented a pillow race, winter presented a snowball fighting bee, and summer presented a riddle contest. An additional stunt was provided by spring which proved to be an April Fool hunt.

After the games, names were drawn to secure partners for the first dance. The names were those of characters of funny papers or famous lovers. Each boy sought to find the girl whose name corresponded to his; for instance, Romeo had no peace until he found Juliet. From 9 until 11, dancing was enjoyed by all those participating. At 11 o'clock, Miss Quinerly, Miss McLawhorn, Daphne and Bill McLawhorn and Bill Stroud served a delicious course consisting of lime ice and cherry ice cream and cakes decorated with Happy New Year and 1942. The refreshments carried out the color scheme of red and green.

After refreshments, dancing was again enjoyed until 12 o'clock. At midnight the New Year was welcomed in and the old year ushered out.

The parents of the hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Quinerly and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McLawhorn, acted as chaperones to the group. Those attending the party were: Betsy Hodges of Grifton, Jean Forbes, Ervin Crandall and Charles A. Forbes of Stokes; Grady Cox, Riley Cox, Edward Davenport, Bettie Ellis McLawhorn, Mamie B. McLawhorn and Powell Speight of Winterville; Ralph Best and John

The class includes Lieut. George H. Pittman, Jr., of Falkland and Henry M. (Matt) Phillips of Greenville.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Thursday, January 16, 1902

One of the greatest mistakes the young men of the present day are making, and it is the rock upon which many have stranded, is they fail to appreciate their position in life, and consequently instead of seeking to do their very best to improve their lot, become discouraged and despondent. They imagine if Providence in His wisdom had seen fit to have given them some important position to fill, either in state or society, they would have accomplished wonders. They forget the lines of the old poem that reads about as follows:

"If a cobbler by trade I'll make it my pride,
The best of all cobblers to be,
And if only a tinker, no tinker on earth,
Shall mend an old kettle like me."

PRICE CONTROL BILL STUDIED

Conferees Fail To Settle Major Differences

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A Senate-House conference committee reported general agreement today on broad purposes of wartime price control legislation but failed to settle any of the major differences between the two branches of Congress over the measure.

Senator Brown (D-Mich.) after the initial session of an hour and a half, said the joint congressional group was reading through the Senate bill, which drew sharp criticism from President Roosevelt because of farm price exceptions. The committee, Brown said, was for the present skipping over "all controversial sections."

Head of the six Senate conferees meeting with five House members in the attempt to iron out differences, Brown said the group would meet again later today but probably would not try to adjust disputes over the farm sections, licensing of business, or administrative procedure until later sessions.

Senator Glass (D-Va.) first to leave the closed-door session, said the Senate and House spokesmen still "are a thousand miles apart."

RED OAK NEWS

As chairman of Greenville township, I earnestly beseech my co-workers in the township to see each land owner and tenant in their respective neighborhoods and ask them to collect all scrap iron, brass, aluminum, copper, lead and pewter and deliver it to their nearest scrap dealer at once. A number of steel mills have already had to close down because of the lack of scrap metal. This is one way in which every rural man, woman and child can help their country in its fight for freedom. Won't you join hands in this small task and put it over in a big way? The following men and women have been enlisted to help this drive: Mrs. E. T. Forbes, A. B. Moyer, Walter Cherry, Mrs. Carl Langley, Mrs. T. A. Allen, Theodore Porter, Mrs. H. H. Holbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. Gus Forbes, Mrs. Lizzie Vandiford, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Caton, J. B. Hardee, Mrs. Novella Fornes and Mrs. W. L. Johnston. For any further information you may see or telephone Mrs. B. L. Tyson at 3610-8.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

Our nation's Victory Program necessitates good nutrition. You can do your part by cooking meats in such a way as to conserve their full food value and flavor. To keep precious juices from evaporating, cook meats at low temperatures. Wilson's Gela Seald fresh beef, lamb and veal have all their freshness and juiciness sealed in with a thin coating of crystal-clear edible gelatin. This protects meats as they cook—keeps them juicy and flavorful, and ends by enriching the gravy.

THRIFTY ROAST OF Gela Seald VEAL
Have pocket cut in a 4-pound piece of breast of Wilson's Gela Seald Veal. Season inside with salt and pepper, stuff with your favorite stuffing, and skewer. Rub outside with a paste made of 1 tsp. sage, 1 tsp. each of sugar and prepared mustard, 3 tsp. vinegar, 2 tsp. salt and 1/4 cup water.

Place on rack in open roasting pan. Add 1 cup hot water to pan for basting. Roast uncovered at 300° F. for 2 hours. Make gravy of pan drippings.
*Shred raw carrots, apples, onions; mix with Wilson's Mayonnaise.

DON'T DO THAT TO SAUSAGES!
Don't have pan hot. Don't prick sausages. Don't expect to find in any other sausage the rich flavor you get in Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausages. I know my sausages! And the sweet choice pork and rare spices blended in these sausages makes for perfection.

Best put them in a cold frying pan, add 5 tablespoons of water, cover, simmer for 15-18 minutes or until water is evaporated. Then uncover, and brown on all sides.

GLASS-SEALED FRESH LAMB
You can tell Wilson's Gela Seald meats by the sparkling, transparent coating of gelatin that seals out dust and dirt and seals in freshness.

Rector Recommends the following cuts from Wilson's Gela Seald Lamb: shanks, neck slices, steaks—all good sources of B vitamins, proteins and minerals. See you next week. G. R.

NO TIME FOR LOVE

By WATKINS E. WRIGHT

Chapter 14
Castles in Maine
"I was afraid you were not coming," Rod said when Lavinia joined him upon the top of a tall rock, one of their favorite spots, from where they could look far out to sea.

"And I," said Lavinia with an honesty which surprised her, "was afraid you'd gone away. I stopped at the cottage on the way up."
"I'd never go away without saying good-bye."
"I hope you wouldn't."
Rod moved over for her to sit down beside him.

"What were you dreaming about when I came up?" Lavinia wanted to know. "Castles in Spain?"
"No, castles in Maine," Rod said. "Hoping that I might some day build one."
"Why not be practical—and make it a bungalow?" Lavinia. I really think it would be splendid to have a castle in Maine—right here on this very spot.

"It would be picturesque at least."
"And I'd have a high tower with a wide window, so I could spend hours just watching the sun come tumbling in green on blue, blue on green—flecked with white caps like a lot of tossing plumes."
Lavinia loved to hear him talk like that, and found herself listening eagerly for more. She tried to convince herself that it was all just a lot of romantic nonsense Rod was talking—and could not.

Or what if it was romantic nonsense? Wasn't she supposed to be on a vacation, and oughtn't she to listen to something that had nothing on earth to do with business and the life she lived back in New York? Certainly. Very well, then—go on and listen; and stop trying to analyze everything.

"I think I'd prefer a low, sprawling sort of house," she said, when Rod stopped speaking. "With wide porches—and flower beds—and vines."
"And a widow's walk," said Rod. "What's that?"
"It's a sort of walk on the roof of the house, around a kind of cupola look-out. Wives of fishermen went up there to walk, to watch and look for their husbands who often never came back."

"Then I wouldn't want a widow's walk," said Lavinia. "Just a roof over my head—and one that didn't leak."
"You are practical, aren't you?"
"Yes, I started out that way when I was very young, and it's hard to change now."
"I was pretty practical myself for quite a while," Rod confessed. "But the more I saw of wars, the more rumors of wars that I heard, the more I thought about the matter. And now I've about concluded that being practical doesn't really matter. With things as they are in our troubled old world, I get the feeling that one should live each day—get as much out of it as one can—and give little thought to the tomorrows."

"Are you getting as much as you can out of each day—living this way?" Lavinia asked. "I'm inquiring through interest, Rod, not idle curiosity."
"I know you are," said Rod. "I'm merely trying to adjust myself, perhaps. This is a good place in which to readjust oneself, you know—find oneself." He laid his hand over Lavinia's. "And you are helping me. I think it's darned sporting of you to come and visit me like this—when there's so much gaiety going on at the Inn."

Life Story
"I don't care for that sort of gaiety," said Lavinia. "I think I gave you that idea the first time we met."
Then almost before she realized it, she was telling Rod about her work at the store, about her aunt and the sort of life she lived, about her dread of coming to Harbor Head, not even omitting the nightmarish evening when she played bridge with the Masters couple.

"And that," she climaxed, "is my story, and I seem to be stuck with it!"
Rod laughed. Then he spoke. "But maybe you should play bridge more and dance," he said. "I used to be a pretty good bridge player, and I happen to have a book on the subject. Perhaps we could help each other—you get me back into practice, while I teach you some of the tricks of the trade."
"You mean just the two of us?"
"Yes. It's called Honey-moon Bridge. We can lay out hands, and study them."

"I think I'd like that," Lavinia said. "Anyway, I wouldn't have stage-fright."
"Then we'll do it!" Rod said eagerly. "We'll become a sort of Culbertson pair!"
"You might become another Culbertson," Lavinia smiled, "but I'm sure you'd never make a Mrs. Culbertson out of me." She peered out over the water. "Is that an island out there—that dark something sticking up against the horizon?"
"Yes," said Rod. "It's supposed to have been headquarters of a band of pirates in the long, long ago. My grandfather used to tell me stories about it."

More Mystery
Lavinia hurried off. And sometime later when she went down to the beach she found Margot waiting for her.
"How do you like him—now you've seen him a number of times?" Margot asked.
"Who?" said Lavinia.
"The mysterious young man. Don't think for a moment that you can see him every day without someone knowing, do you?"
Lavinia shrugged.
"I hadn't given the matter a thought," she said. "And the 'mysterious young man' is quite nice, and thoroughly normal. I'd almost forgotten that he was supposed to be mysterious."
Margot lowered her voice as they passed a group of bathers.

"There's a rumor floating around that he's really one of those German prisoners escaped from Canada."
"Really?" said Lavinia. "Rumors seem to be the rage at Harbor Head."
"Rumors, my dear," said Margot. "Are always numerous at a summer resort. But, after all, there could be something in the rumor about your young man being from the internment camp."
"Of course. There could also be something in the rumor that he's a criminal hiding from the law. But let's forget rumors, and have our swim. Shall we?"
"Right!" said Margot. "Come on, let's dive through that big roller just coming in."

The night Lavinia lay long thinking of what Margot Linden had said. It was only a rumor, of course. Certainly Roderick didn't look at all like a man who'd been in an internment camp. It was too ridiculous. And yet, he did remain rather reticent about himself. He didn't want to talk about the war at all, which was just as well, since she didn't relish the subject either, and yet, come to think about it, maybe the reason Rod didn't want to talk about it was because he might be afraid that he would slip up and reveal something about himself.

But in spite of doubts that kept trying to creep in and spoil things for her, Lavinia went down to the pier at the appointed hour the next afternoon. There she joined Rod, and looked at the boat.
"I hope you had no illusions about her," said Rod. "I mean, I hope you didn't picture a yacht, or a launch luxurious, or anything like that."
"What I don't know about boats would fill a library," said Lavinia. "And I love this one! It looks so cozy, and used."
Rod laughed. "It's been used all right!" he said.
It was a flat-bottomed boat, with an outboard motor. Her paint had long since peeled off in generous proportions, and her bow looked as though it had made a practice of bumping into things.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

OLD RELIGION VERSUS NEW
Do we need a new religion? There are many who say we do. They point to the fact that the world has gone pretty well to pot and that an adequate conception of religion would undoubtedly have saved it. They are sure that if we could cast out some old religious notions and import new, everything would be well.

But the world's troubles have arisen not from any lack in our religion but from a lack in ourselves. There is nothing the matter with our religion, but there is something very desperately the matter with the way we interpret our religion and especially with the way we practice it. There has probably never been a time in the history of the church when men were more reasonable in their religious thinking than right now. There is less bigotry, intolerance, and fanatical ideas in the church today—especially in this country—than there ever has been before. Not in centuries have men been more assiduous than they are today to apply the gospel to world conditions. There is something fine and wholesome in modern spiritual life which breaks a more promising future.

What we need is not a new religion; we need grace from heaven to enable us to practice a religion which is as old as the hills. What we need is not to get something new but to ponder more thoughtfully and prayerfully what we already have.

IT'S EVERY AMERICAN'S WAR

The sooner the people of this nation as groups and individuals realize that this is a war in which everything that any of us has at stake, the sooner we can really attain that all-out effort that is going to be necessary for us to come out victorious. President Roosevelt has pledged our nation to an all-out effort in production to assure needed supplies for ourselves and our allies, but so far there is little indication that the all-out effort is actually starting. There are too many people and too many industries that apparently feel that the all-out effort is meant for the other fellow while they go about their "business as usual."

The automobile people express their willingness to do all they can to win the war but first they want to be assured that they will make a profit out of their venture. The farm and labor groups want price control for the things they have to buy but the farmers want no ceiling on wages and wants to hang on to its right to strike for higher wages at any time, regardless of its effect on the war effort. There are individuals who shout loud about the rubber shortage and shortage of other vital materials but these same people want the other fellow to do without, in the interest of national defense, not themselves.

Isn't it about time America was waking up to the fact that this is OUR war, and that means EVERY individual. All that we have, including our material wealth as well as our rights and liberties, are at stake in the present world conflict. Let's wake up to the seriousness of the situation and really go ALL-OUT to win this war.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stippert

Washington.—Government officials and automobile association leaders are in a huddle over a problem that already has been reported from numerous sections of the country—the theft and bootlegging of auto parts, tires and even cars. No sooner had Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced the rationing of tires, autos and the curtailed production of replacement parts than the whole country broke out with a rash of petty thievery of tires and parts and the theft (already a felony) on both state and federal statute books) of cars.

Officials fear that big-time crooks and racketeers, taking a page from the days of prohibition, might try to organize the petty thieves into rings and by wholesale operations seriously undermine the curtailment program.

Henderson's OPA is interested in the problem only in so far as it would, through its psychological and moral effect on the driving public, place a stumbling block in the smooth development of tire, car and parts rationing.

Realizing this, the American Automobile Association and several other agencies have asked Henderson to propose a bill to make the theft of tires, parts and accessories a federal offense.

Thomas P. Henry, AAA president, in his appeal to Henderson, said: "The widespread thievery is creating a bootleg market for illicit trade in these important commodities. This situation will develop into worse proportions unless strong measures are taken to counteract it."

This may look fine in print, but reducing it to actual application in everyday prosecution of community and state offenders is another matter. To make the thefts of tires, tubes, parts, etc., a federal offense when committed in intra-state traffic, would require a constitutional amendment. The only comparable one we have in the Constitution now is that applying to narcotics. I don't think the AAA or any other organization or agency really hopes to see any federal law passed which would eliminate this threat against one of the all-out war measures.

What they do hope and expect is that the individual states will take cognizance of the problem and pass laws which to make tire and parts thefts, heretofore for the most part no more than a petty offense, a felony.

In New York state, the legislature already has passed its legislative veto in the prohibition law, there will be none of that sneaking around alley corners with a "Hi Mister, how'd you like to buy a fine limner tub—just off the boat from the Dutch East Indies, where they grow the real stuff. It's 100-proof. I wouldn't sell me own mother none of that re-cap stuff, Mister, you know that."

step) of writing direct to the Prime Minister to warn that unless the submarine sinkings were got in hand, the allies might lose the war. That's how bad things were when we came in, and Hitler won't overlook such a bet.

Then we must note that things have changed since the first World War. The air has provided a new and frightful menace not only to merchant shipping but to warships. It is my personal thought that Hitler is likely to cut loose against the British navy and our naval ships in European waters in an effort to shatter the allied protection of the Atlantic and the Mediterranean. The Axis offensive which seems to superiority will tip the scales toward victory. Without underestimating Japanese air power, it is also pretty safe to conclude we are going to be superior in quality as well as quantity.

Pictures of Japanese dive bombers in flight over Hawaii did not impress American airplane designers. Their torpedo bombers, responsible for the damage to American warships, looked better—comparable to what we have in this country.

Japanese losses when they tangle with united nation fliers would indicate a definite inferiority both in equipment and in flying skill.

I base the prospect for later, strong retaliatory air raids on the probability that Russia and Japan will be drawn into war.

"It may be predicted," says the war analyst of the Army and Navy Journal, Strategicus, "that active be boiling up in the Mediterranean now may easily be part and parcel of this strategy.

There is no way of estimating accurately what power Hitler can unleash in submarines. Supposedly he has a big fleet, and guesses have placed the total at 600 and more. Whatever the number may be, we do know that he has weakened his Atlantic force by sending submarines to the Mediterranean and the Black sea, these being small U-boats which could be shipped overland and thus avoid passing through the strait of Gibraltar and running the British naval gauntlet. However, it would be unsafe to assume that his pack of sea wolves isn't formidable on the Atlantic side.

hostilities between Japan and Russia will break out as soon as spring weather permits large-scale military operations. x x x Stalin knows this Russo-Jap war is inevitable."

War between Russia and Japan would make available to American bomber crews the bases from which they could strike readily at Japanese industrial areas. Such bases are not available at present.

If sufficient planes were concentrated in Siberia for such attacks, they could be carried on almost with the regularity and force with which Germany attacked Britain during the winter of 1940-41.

For all the reserves which Japan has been able to pile up against the outbreak of war, she has no counterpart of America on which to draw for sustenance when those bombing attacks commence. Friendly hands reaching across the north Atlantic helped England in her worst hour of trial.

Can Japan be knocked out with bombs? Giulio Douhet, the great Italian exponent of intensive bombing, argued that a war could be won by wiping out with bombs the source of an enemy's strength for the war effort—its industries.

England disproved the theory. But England is not Japan, her energy sapped by four and a half years of war in China, and her troops, already engaged on two fronts facing war on a third front.

Champions of Billy Mitchell, who foresaw air war for what it is today, believe Russian and American heavy bombers can well break the heart of the Japanese seat of empire. Until events show it can't be done, I am inclined to string along with them.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"

"The requirements have been for 7,500 tons (of 375 carloads) of mimeograph paper; 2,500 tons (or 125 carloads) of typewriter paper; 2,000,000 rolls of toilet paper for each Army Camp; 50,000,000 file folders; 3,750,000 sheets of carbon paper; 1,000,000 paper milk bottles per day (at the present time) for each Army Camp; 30,000,000 Defense Stamp Albums; 100,000,000 pounds of super book paper and 100,000 pounds of cover paper for soldier's hand books. This amount of hand books, if stacked, would be sixteen times as high as the Washington Monument; 4,000,000 sheets of poster paper for the "Minute Men" National Defense Posters; 11,000 tons (or 550 carloads) of Target paper for rifle ranges; 14,000 pounds of asbestos paper for each cruiser manufactured, of which 64 are now being built; 12,000 tons per month (or 375 carloads) of Paper board for shell containers; 1,250,000,000 envelopes will be required this year by the Government. It is interesting to note that it required 30,000 pounds (or 1 carload) of Blue Print paper for each battleship constructed."

Tar Heel Sports Team Again To Face Stasica Of USC

HE IS THE MAN OF GRID FAME

N.C. Teams Idle Tonight; Plenty Tilts Thereafter

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Partisans of the University of North Carolina probably think that they have seen enough of Stan Stasica to last them until they get some football players capable of stopping him.

It was Sophomore Stasica, you may remember, who, unhindered by Tar Heels, rased 67 yards off tackle in the fourth quarter for the fourth-down which gave South Carolina its 13 to 7 football victory over North Carolina last fall.

Now the North Carolinians are going to come up against him again. They go to Columbia Saturday to meet the South Carolinians.

Stasica led his team with 12 points against Georgia Tech recently, and did a nifty piece of guarding in the Georgia and Wofford games, both won by the Gamecocks. Now the Tar Heels are wondering what he has in store for them Saturday night.

All the Big Five teams are idle tonight. Tomorrow, North Carolina plays Clemson there and Saturday in addition to the battle of the Carolinas, Duke goes to Annapolis to meet Navy.

The only Big Five team in action last night was Wake Forest, which defeated Clemson 58 to 40 despite a 21-point scoring exhibition by the Tigers' Merritt Craig. The forward made 10 field goals and one free throw, and kept the game close for 10 minutes of the first half, but the one-man stand was not enough. The Deacons pulled away and led 27 to 14 at half-time.

After last night's game, the Deacs began a short vacation from the court because of examinations. Their next game is with Duke in Durham, January 24.

ECTC TO PLAY ALL-STAR FIVE

Meets Strong Team From Norfolk Naval Base

Including a host of court stars and former all-Americans, the strong basketball team of the Norfolk Naval Base will sail into Greenville to meet the Pirates of ECTC at the Wright gymnasium at the local college tomorrow evening.

Seven of the nation's outstanding basketballers picked by Gene Tunney, lieutenant commander in charge of athletics at the base, Donald Brock, former ECTC stand-out is included in those seven. Brock is slated to start in the center slot for the Sailors in this meeting, and no local fan need be reminded of the basketball prowess of Mister Brock.

Other outstanding members of the Base team include Rickenback, former Purdue star; Powell, of the University of Cincinnati; Frankie of DePaul University; Captain Tucker, University of Cincinnati; Blenkie, Purdue; and Murphy. All of these men were picked by Tunney as members of the team. Still other standouts are Williams, Beckley college; Haynes, McCaully, Marshall College; Phillips, University of Maryland; Gillis; Hines; and Sipes, of Brevard College.

Already this fine naval team which includes some of the best teams in the South in its victim list, has defeated the Pirates once this week. The Sailors doubled the score on the locals in a battle in Norfolk on Monday.

The Naval team sports a record of ten triumphs in 11 starts this season, owing only to the University of Virginia. East Carolina has won three while losing five in the current campaign.

Calls Meeting Of Dealers In Meats

What the government's nutrition program means to the general public and how the retail meat dealer can use it to increase his efficiency in serving the housewife will be one of the topics of discussion at a meeting of Greenville meat retailers to be held Monday, January 19, at 8 p. m. at the Rotary building. John G. Fleming, chairman in charge, announced today.

"One of the highlights of the meeting," Mr. Fleming said, "will be a new motion picture which shows the meat retailer how he can make his merchandising efforts more effective. It tells some of the things that women want to know about the thrifty cuts and how to prepare them. It shows the retailer how facts on the nutritional value of meat make it easier for the public to buy."

This meeting, Mr. Fleming explained, is a part of the meat educational program which has been in progress for more than a year and through which consumers are being brought to a fuller realization of the important part meat plays in the daily diet.

PAID WELL FOR TOBACCO CROP

Final Summary Of Warehouse Reports Released

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—(AP)—North Carolina tobacco farmers received $127,961,856 for their 1941 flue-cured tobacco crop, an increase of 53 per cent over 1940, the State Department of Agriculture announced today in its final summary of warehouse profits.

Although the crop was 11 per cent smaller than in 1940, prices per pound were 73 per cent higher. The price average of $29.31 a hundred pounds for first-hand sales was the second highest on record. This figure, however, was 40 per cent lower than the all-time record, set in 1919.

Warehousemen reported the total sales of 428,609,657 pounds. The six flue-cured markets which operated last month sold 4,135,490 pounds of leaf for an average of $18.41 a hundred.

Two North Carolina burley markets reported December sales of 3,141,538 pounds averaging $31.23 compared with 3,680,054 pounds which averaged $18.68 for the corresponding period last season. The burley markets are at Asheville and Boone.

The 1941 season flue-cured sales value and price compared with 1940, are:

Old Belt, Type 11 A—Sales, 61,258,216, down 8 per cent; value $17,715,153, up 54 per cent; average price, $28.92; up 67 per cent.

Middle Belt, Type 11 B—Sales, 80,410,991, down 20 per cent; value $23,087,360, up 57 per cent; average price, $28.71, up 96 per cent.

New Bright Belt, Type 12—Sales, 220,130,079, down 10 per cent; value $66,746,952, up 53 per cent; average price, $30.32; up 70 per cent.

GEHRING'R OUT OF TIGER LIST

Not Included In Detroit Squad After 19 Years

By WATSON SPOELSTRA
Detroit, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers have retired Charley Gehring, slick fielding second baseman, by omitting him from their 1942 playing roster, but the door to his return to baseball is more than slightly ajar.

Detroit management is endeavoring to interest the 38 year old mechanical man infielder in a coaching job under manager Del Baker where he conceivably would undergo the usual conditioning process and thus might be available for active duty in an emergency.

But thus far the untalkative Gehring, pursuing his business as a manufacturer's agent, has been somewhat more than characteristically silent.

For the first time in 19 years the name of Gehring was missing from the Detroit squad list when it was announced yesterday. To fill the second base job the Tigers nominated Jimmy Bloodworth, acquired by trade from Washington, and Lambert (Dutch) Meyer, former Texas Christian footballer, purchased two years ago.

"Charley has the final word on whether he chooses to remain in baseball," declared General Manager Jack Zeller, "and the coaching job is open for him. Naturally we want to see how well our younger players can fill the second base job without putting extreme pressure on them in competition with Charley."

WHO'S THE GIRL FRIEND?—At least one two-month-old calf at the Flemington, N. J. county fair got a break when "Farmerette" Mary James of Skillman, N. J., gave him a lift.

Two Young Pitt Men Training For Pilots

Randolph Field, Texas, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Graduating the first wartime class of Aviation Cadets and Student Officers in his history on January 9, Randolph Field, oldest and largest of the Air Corps' basic flying schools, continues its major role in the Air Forces' huge pilot training program.

Two Pitt county men are included in this class. They are Henry M. (Mack) Phillips, 118 Pitt street, Greenville, and Lieut. George H. Pittman, Jr., of Falkland. Lieut. Pittman is a recent graduate of West Point Military Academy.

Having completed 20 weeks of intensive primary and secondary aerial schooling, these pilots-to-be are now ready for the final stage of their course at a specialized training field that will make them the best of any nation's first line military pilots.

Senate Group Condemns U.S. War Preparations

Says Bungling, Selfishness and Greed Evident

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Senate defense investigation committee charged today that American war production had been hampered seriously by months of official bungling, labor selfishness and management greed.

In a report covering its studies during last year the committee accused government agencies of slowing war output by a mesh of "bureaucratic red tape" and declared:

1. That after two years of frantic effort America has too few planes to allow adequate flying time for its pilots and that many of them are "mediocre."
2. That dollar-a-year men on loan from industry were actually lobbyists for their former employers and should be eliminated.
3. That the automobile industry had been allowed to continue civilian production virtually unchecked throughout '41, with no real conversion to military production even attempted.
4. That a concerted effort should be made to use all the facilities of small manufacturers in defense production.

Expressing full confidence that the war could be won if proper remedial steps were taken, the committee asked a reorganization of the Office of Production Management to do away with the "dollar-a-year" officials. This recommendation was already in type Tuesday when President Roosevelt announced reorganization of the war production system with Donald M. Nelson, former mail order executive, at the helm.

Made public by Chairman Truman (D-Mo), the report warned that:

"Carelessness and inefficiency have already cost us a great deal and, if continued, can cost us much more, even though in the long run we will win the war because of the sheer extent of our resources."

The committee said prospects for future airplane production were "not too good" and added that radical changes in methods must be made to meet the military demand.

"Apparently, there never has been and is not now any real planned and coordinated program for the production of aircraft," the report said.

"Our services (the army and navy) have merely purchased what the manufacturers had to offer instead of planning to use available facilities to produce what they needed at maximum capacity."

Gave All

Teddy Burton (above), 11, of Detroit, would like to join the maines but is too young. So he compromised by drawing all his money — $428.88 — out of the bank and sent it to President Roosevelt to "help win the war." His parents approved.

VESSEL IS SUNK OFF NEW YORK

Penamanian Tanker Victim Of Enemy Submarine

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The torpedoing of a Panamanian tanker by an enemy submarine almost within sight of Long Island brought the battle of the Atlantic into the east coast's front yard today.

Striking early, Wednesday morning just 40 miles southeast of Montauk Point, the submarine fired three torpedoes at close range, the Navy announced, and left the tanker Normax lying helplessly awash.

All but one of the crew of 40 officers and men—all of them aliens—were rescued and brought safely to New England ports, Navy officials in Washington announced early today, adding the ship was still partially afloat, more than 24 hours after she had been struck.

It was 1:20 a. m. yesterday when the submarine attacked the tanker, formerly under Norwegian registry, but her plight was not reported until late in the afternoon after a Navy patrol plane spotted her wallowing in the sea, her crew tossing about in lifeboats.

U. S. naval vessels sped to the rescue and picked up six officers and 24 men, landing them at Newport, R. I., last night, while the fishing boat Malvina took captain Harold Hansen, a Norwegian, and eight others in to New Bedford, Mass.

Rear Admiral E. C. Kalbfus, commandant of the Newport naval operating base, informed naval headquarters in Washington that only one crew member was seriously injured. Identity of the missing seaman was not disclosed.

Naval officials at Newport would not permit the survivors to talk of their experience, and placed them under medical care in naval custody pending action by immigration authorities.

The 9,577 ton tanker was built in Hamburg in 1939 and flew the Norwegian flag in plying between Liverpool, Key West and Trinidad before transferring to Panamanian registry. She was bound from Panama city for an undisclosed port when attacked.

This closest blow at the Atlantic coast by enemy warcraft since U. S. entry into the present war came on the heels of a navy announcement that hostile submarines were ranging "pretty well up and down the east coast."

It was the second attack in near-by north Atlantic waters in as many days. A large steamship, presumably British, was torpedoed 160 miles off Nova Scotia Tuesday with a reported loss of some 90 lives.

The brazenness of enemy craft in venturing so close to the mainland was a striking reminder of similar tactics in the last world war, when U-boats sank more than a score of merchantmen in offshore waters.

Maritime experts assumed that yesterday's raider was a U-boat since there has been no publicly known instance of any Italian U-boats activity north of the Spanish coast region.

They expressed belief the submarine was either of the 740 ton class or perhaps one of the few 1,080 tonners which Germany was listed as having in the latest official compilations.

FINDS PAPERS WILLING HELP

Censor Director Sees No Need To Issue Threats

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Byron Price, director of censorship, said today that 99.9 per cent of the newspaper and radio industry were in favor of voluntarily withholding news which might be of value to the enemy and that "we're not crossing the bridge of threats or penalties until we come to it—if we do."

"And I am not sure we are going to come to it," Price added in a press conference discussion of a code of censorship issued yesterday for newspapers, periodicals and other publications.

Price said that his censorship office would not censor government nor seek to control government publicity, but was interested in two things.

"First, we think there should be an ample supply of information given out," Price said. "And secondly, we think that the newspapers and radio should not be left holding the bag in conflicts between government departments, or between government offices in Washington and field offices, on what may or may not be used. We would like to hear of every instance of such conflicts."

Price said that the radio would be under considerably greater censorship restrictions than the press and that a code worked out with the industry probably would be issued tomorrow. He explained that radio stations taking news services would be expected under the code to omit the broadcasting of some matter which it might be entirely proper for newspapers to print.

State OPM Chief Killed In Wreck

Albemarle, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A collision at a highway intersection killed James T. Anderson, OPM director for North Carolina, yesterday and injured his assistant, Cecil Bell, both were of Raleigh and were on their way to Charlotte.

The OPM authorities' automobile and a tanker truck collided at the intersection of state highway 49A and U. S. 52 near New London, a village seven miles north of Albemarle on the route to Salisbury.

Coroner C. M. Lentz said an inquest was unnecessary.

Anderson was appointed to his post last week after serving more than four years as industrial engineer for the State Department of Conservation and Development. Bell was his assistant in that department.

Anderson came to this state from Cordele, Ga., where he was Chamber of Commerce secretary. He was a native of Tennessee. Surviving are his widow and three daughters. Bell's injuries apparently were limited to bruises and lacerations.

WAR-WISE—During so-called movement of British, Russian troops into Iran, country rich in oil, Iranian Minister to U.S. Mohammed Sharyateh had some anxious moments.
