AMERICANS HOLDING OFF JAP ATTACKS

Corregidor Undergoing Incessant Air Raids

SEVERAL SMALL JAP SHIPS SUNK

New Jap Raids Cause Minor Damage To Island Fortress; No Communications With Cebu; Loss Of Two U.S. Freighters Announced

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—The War Department reported today that Corregidor's gunners sank a number of small Japanese boats and kept the enemy air raiders so high over the Philippine island fortress that bombings in a series of new raids caused only minor damage.

A communique said the Japanese boats were in the harbor of the fishing village of Mariveles at the tip of the abandoned Bataan peninsula. Several were set afire in addition to those sunk.

Meanwhile, communication between Corregidor and Cebu was cut off for the past 48 hours so Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright was unable to report on the efforts to beat off an invasion of the Central Philippine island, more than 300 miles south of Corregidor.

The communique reported belatedly the sinking by enemy action of two army freight ships, the Liberty and the Meigs, both of which went down in the southwest Pacific. The Liberty was torpedoed twice by an enemy submarine January 11 when 12 miles from the Netherlands Indies island of Bali. No lives were lost. The vessel was beached and 53 crew men and one passenger were rescued by Dutch planes, some being flown to Soerabaya, and others to Bali.

The Meigs was sunk February 19 in a bombing raid on the harbor of Darwin, Australia. The master, Captain P. S. Ling, was wounded. One crew member was killed and eight were wounded.

Ten raids were made on Corregidor in the past 24 hours, the war department said, raising the total to 22 in the last two days.

The communique said there were some casualties but military installations sustained only minor damage.

The text of the war department communique number 188 based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., eastern war time.

"The Philippine theater: "Fire from Corregidor and the other Manila bay forts sank a number of small Japanese boats in Mariveles harbor and set fire to several others.

"There were ten Japanese air raids on Corregidor during the past 24 hours making a total of 22 in two days. Our anti-aircraft batteries again kept hostile bombers at high altitude. Our installations sustained only minor damage. There were some casualties.

"Communication between Cebu and Corregidor has been cut off for the past 48 hours, so nothing is known of the present situation on the island of Cebu.

"Far East: "The war department today announced the loss by enemy action in the Far East of two freighters of the army transport service, the Liberty and the Meigs.

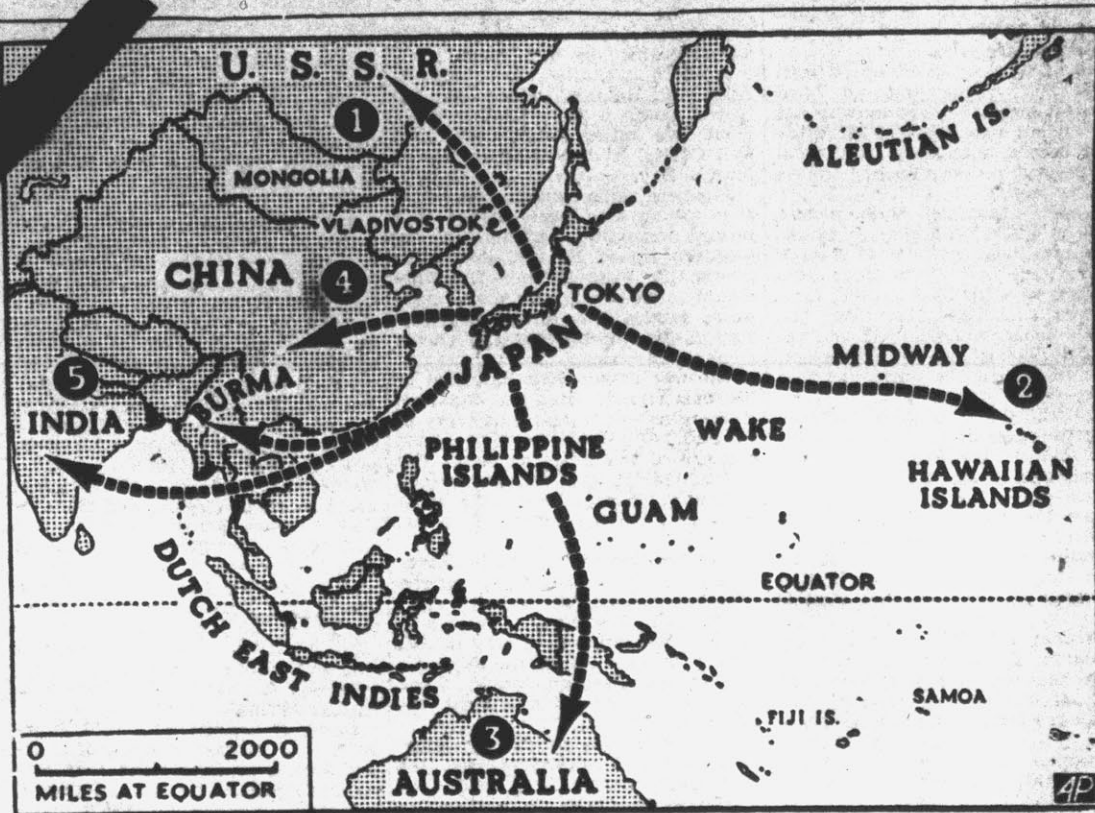

The Liberty was torpedoed twice by an enemy submarine on January 11, twelve miles from Bali in the Netherlands Indies. The vessel was beached and 53 members of the crew and one passenger were rescued by Dutch planes, and some were flown to Soerabaya and some to (Continued On Page Two)

14 Killed

Livermore, Calif., April 13.—(AP)—Forty-four U. S. Navy fliers perished yesterday when two big PBV-5A patrol bombers crashed and burned near each other in the Livermore hills.

A fifteenth man survived, without serious injury. The crash-ups occurred in foggy weather as the giant land-and-sea ships were flying on an undisclosed mission at a point about 30 miles southeast of their base at the Alameda Naval Air station. The sole survivor was Earl P. Patrick, 29, aviation machine fliers' mate, first class. He was flung clear when plane No. 2 struck, and was found walking about dazedly, but suffering only from cuts and bruises, by rescue squads reaching the scene. After emergency treatment, he was transferred to the Naval hospital at Mare Island.

Bataan Success Frees Japs For New Effort—Where?

Allied strategists are studying reports from all fronts for clues as to how Japan will use the troops released from duty in the Philippines with the collapse of U.S.-Filipino defense of the Bataan peninsula. Among the possibilities discussed in Washington were: (1) A surprise attack by Japs on Russia. (2) A grand-scale thrust at Hawaii. (3) Invasion of Australia. (4) An attempt to clean up the war in China quickly. (5) A reinforced drive into Burma and India.

A. C. L. TRAINS TO BE REMOVED To Discontinue Passenger Service On April 26th

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company will discontinue all passenger train service to and from Greenville after Sunday, April 26, according to official notice posted at the local station on Saturday. The removal of the A. C. L. trains will leave this city with but two passenger trains daily, one east bound and one west bound trip over the Norfolk Southern railroad.

The matter of removal of the Coast Line passenger trains has been up for consideration for some time during which time business men of this section have protested against discontinuation of the service on the grounds that it would cripple mail and express service as well as travel. Some time ago the State Utilities Commission granted the railroad company the right to remove the trains but notice of applicants was filed by the contestants and the trains have continued to operate. Whether or not further action will be taken to force the railroad to keep the trains in service or replace them, if they are taken off, was not known here today.

Under the present notice the train would make its final round trip between Kinston and Rocky Mount on Saturday, the 25th, and would make its regular run to Rocky Mount on the morning of the 26th but would not return to Kinston.

After dropping their bomb loads the allied planes raced over their targets again and sprayed the ground with machine-gun fire. The Saturday attack upon Rabaul coincided with raids on Lae on the northeastern coast of New Guinea, and Faial, in the Solomon Islands to the east.

At Lae, a communique said, flying fortress bombers pounded Japanese ships, gun emplacements and buildings, destroying a number of grounded aircraft. The escorting Australian fighters were credited with downing two Japanese planes (Continued on page six)

ABC Officers Get Two Stills

Pitt County ABC enforcement officers captured two stills Sunday morning and destroyed a quantity of beer and equipment.

One of the stills was located near Winterville while the other was about three miles from Bethel near the Stokes road. About 150 gallons of molasses beer was found at the stills and was destroyed along with the equipment.

Churchill Reports On Losses In Bay of Bengal

London, April 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill disclosed today that the Japanese are operating in the Bay of Bengal with powerful naval forces headed by at least three battleships and five aircraft carriers and including heavy and light cruisers and several flotillas of destroyers.

Reporting to commons on the loss of the aircraft carrier Hermes and the cruisers Dorsetshire and Cornwall, whose sinking by Japanese bombers in the Bay of Bengal was announced last week, the premier said the Japanese battleships there included at least one of the modernized 16-inch gun Nagato type of 32,720 tons. It was against this vastly superior force headed for Ceylon, he disclosed, that the Hermes, Dorsetshire and Cornwall were preparing to make their stand when they were sent to the bottom by Japanese bombs. Military observers, commenting on the size of the Japanese naval force, said that it probably had been sent into the Bay of Bengal to support Japanese invasion of India. With such a force, they said, the Japanese could guard the seaward flank of a descent from Burma across the Bengal border into the Ganges basin. The premier said that the commander of the intercept force, Admiral Sir James Somerville, whose hastily gathered fleet of big and little ships rescued the BEF from Dunkerque and who helped staff the German battleship Bismarck to her end in the Atlantic, had done nothing "to weaken the confidence of the Admiralty in his judgement." Churchill said thunderstorms and low-hanging clouds which enveloped the Japanese aircraft carriers and warships interfered with British counter-attacks by air. Nevertheless, he asserted, British bombers, torpedo planes and fighters pressed the attack until all (Continued On Page Two)

GREATER NAZI AIR ACTIVITY OVER RUSSIA

Russians Divert River To Drown German Troops

OUTFIGHTING NAZI AIRMEN

New Gains Scored Near Bryansk; Reds Claim 2,000 Nazis Killed In Engagement Front; Russians Confident of Smashing German Invasion

Kuibyshev, Russia, April 13.—(AP)—The German air force accelerated its activity today in support of light counterattacks with infantry and tanks as the Germans sought to feel out the depth of the Soviet front.

Warm and slushy weather—probably the warmest thus far this year—prevailed in the fighting areas.

A dispatch from the front said that the German aviation arm still was strong, but asserted that the Soviet fliers were overtaking the slower Nazi planes at any height and beating them—with machine-gun cannon and ramming.

Three German counterattacks were reported on the Bryansk front south of Moscow, but Soviet reports said they definitely were not a major operation.

Russian sappers, extracting all possible aid from nature, were reported today to have changed the course of floodwaters and washed the Germans out of a fortified village in one of a series of triumphs recorded by Soviet Russia during the week-end.

Dispatches from the rain-drenched front said the engineers defied German guns and dug trenches through which the flood surged upon enemy positions.

Just as the waters swept over the Germans in this village, so is a wave of confidence in ultimate triumph sweeping over the Soviet Union.

Optimistic Russians give three reasons for their confidence.

1. They believe the expected spring offensive will be a Russian offensive.

2. They are convinced the German army will be smashed on Russian soil this year.

3. If the worst should come, they are prepared to fight on, in the Urals or Siberia.

Boistering the first point, a Soviet brigade commissar broadcast from the front that "a German offensive this spring appears to be most unlikely."

He said he based his belief on the statements of German prisoners of war and on the quality of reinforcements the Germans have sent up, consistently "mainly of very young, half-trained men or semi-invalids, deaf and one-eyed, or of wounded not quite recovered."

Giving expression to the heightened confidence, Michael Kalinin, nominal head of the nation, says: (Continued on Page Six)

Thanks People For Hospitality

T. I. Wagner, chairman of the Greenville Organization for Service Men today issued a statement of thanks to the people of Greenville for their fine spirit of cooperation in furnishing homes for the visiting service men here each week-end and especially for the week-end just passed. Mr. Wagner's statement follows:

"Greenville citizens have never been known to fail on any worthy project and we want you to know that your response to our request to take service men into your homes was the best last week-end ever. With your cooperation we placed 75 boys in your homes Saturday night through the Woman's Club and probably as many more were taken in voluntarily.

"This is real spirit and is greatly appreciated by the boys. Keep up the good work."

The Indian rejection of Britain's offer of Dominion status, a change for support in the war effort, certainly is porridge and cream for the Axis bowl, since this lack of coordination in defense of one of the strategically vital bases is a grave threat to the allied cause.

Filipinos Foiled Jap Landing

Filipino soldiers grinned their pleasure as one admired a trophy of war—a Japanese officer's sword—after they had cleaned out Japanese, who had landed on a western Bataan shore point. Today all cause for such grins were gone with the invaders in control. Clark Lee, Associated Press, reporter, made this picture, just released by the War Department.

Primary Will Not Lack Interest In This County

Contests For Several Offices Are In Prospect

While this year is commonly termed the time for "off-year" elections, several contests have developed which will give the coming primaries at least an interest for the people of Pitt county. Although there is only one statewide race, that of United States Senator, the congressional, district solicitor, and three-way sheriff's races with other county races thrown in will furnish political activity hereabouts.

While at present no contests have been announced for some of the county offices, the fact that aspirants have until six o'clock, war time, next Saturday evening to file makes it possible for other races to develop.

To date here's how the picture stacks up in this county: From a statewide standpoint Senator Josiah W. Bailey is being opposed by R. T. (Dick) Fountain, former lieutenant-governor and candidate against Bailey six years ago.

The First Congressional District race is a three-way affair between Marvin K. Blount and Jack Edwards, both of this county, and Herbert Bonner of Washington, the present incumbent.

The next in order is the Fifth Judicial District solicitor race in which D. M. Clark (incumbent) of this city, is being opposed by W. J. Bundy, also of this city.

Getting down to the strictly county races there is a two-way fight for the office of State Senator from Pitt county, J. Con Lanier (incumbent) is being opposed by Arthur B. Corey, who formerly held the post and was defeated by Lanier for re-election two years ago. Lanier has already filed his candidacy with the County Board of Elections. Corey has not done so but he is already campaigning and stated Saturday that he was a candidate for the office and would file before the Saturday deadline.

Dr. W. I. Wooten and Sam O. Worthington, present incumbents, have both filed for Pitt county's two seats in the House of Representatives (Continued on Page Six)

Nazis Claim British Cruiser Is Damaged

By The Associated Press

The war in Africa and the Mediterranean was marked by a German report that a British cruiser had arrived at Gibraltar heavily damaged by attack at Malta, Axis accounts of continued raids on Malta, and an Italian claim that Axis planes had forced a withdrawal of British advance units south-east of El Mechill.

The Italians said that six Curtiss planes were downed by German fighters yesterday over Libya. The British said merely that heavy dust storms on the Libyan desert restricted operations to patrolling.

Bern, Switzerland, April 13.—(AP)—Marshal Petain and Former Vice Premier Pierre Laval were reported today to have conferred three times since Saturday in an Axis-prompted renewal of negotiations for increased French-German collaboration which neutral dispatches from Berlin said were inspired by Nazi fears of an allied offensives against German-occupied western Europe.

Informed diplomatic sources said the aged marshal and his pro-Axis former assistant met for the third time today in preparation for what German dispatches said might be reorganization of the Vichy government, probably tomorrow.

Their conversations, these dispatches declared, concerned fresh efforts by Laval, aided by German Ambassador to Paris Otto Abetz, to get back into the French cabinet, revised procedure of the Riom trial of responsibility for France's military defeat and reduce Anglo-American influence in Vichy, particularly before Germany's long-awaited spring offensive against the Soviets begins.

The Reich government, especially the army command, would like to be assured of a protected rear before starting an offensive in the east, a neutral dispatch from Berlin said.

The Germans apparently mustered all their French collaborationist aides in the new attempt to push Laval back into a cabinet position after their first effort met stubborn refusal from Petain on April 3.

Marcel Deat, editor of the Paris pro-German newspaper L'Espresso and leader of the National Populist party, joined with Jacques Doriot, head of the French Popular party, in urging heightened collaboration with the Germans.

A speech by Deat in Paris and an article under Doriot's name in the Paris German-language newspaper Pariser Zeitung echoed re-

RAF BOMBERS POUNDING AT AXIS ARSENALS

Stage Series of Raids Over Axis-Occupied Countries

BRITISH LOSE ELEVEN PLANES

Swarms of Fighters Drop Bombs On Axis Industries In Italy, Germany And Occupied Countries; Nazis Claim 24 British Planes Downed

London, April 13.—(AP) Britain's far-ranging bombers pounded at Axis arsenals in Germany and Italy early today in a bombing offensive designed to smash the equipment of many German divisions before it is able to leave the factories.

Swarms of RAF fighters swept across the channel during the afternoon in such numbers that the incessant drumming of the motors reminded coastal residents of the busiest days of the battle for Britain in the Autumn of 1940. The new formations were flying toward France and they passed others returning from offensive sweeps. Some planes were so high they were hidden by lofty, fleecy clouds.

The Royal Arsenal at Turin, where much of Italy's munitions is produced, was reported to have been one of the main targets of the raid against Berlin's Axis partner. It was the first raid on Turin since September and the 18th since Italy entered the war in 1940.

An authoritative source said the attack on Italy was carried out without the loss of a single bomber on the 1,500-mile round trip.

The Krupp Works at Essen, Germany, was one of the objectives in the 45th raid on that Ruhr manufacturing city, it was reported. The Essen raid was a subsidiary attack on docks at Le Havre, occupied France, and airdromes in France and the low countries cost the RAF ten bombers and one fighter, it was said.

The thunder of bomb blasts rolling across the channel could be heard on the English shore.

The skies already were gray this morning when residents on the Kent coast heard the last crump of exploding bombs on the other side of Dover strait, and the sun was well up in the sky when the last group of British planes winged overhead homeward bound from some distant mission.

There was every indication the British were taking maximum advantage of the spring nights—when now they are about seven hours of darkness—to step up aerial operations fast developing into the United Nations' first real European offensive of 1942.

There was no German air activity over Britain during the night but this morning two planes swooped upon a south coast town and dropped a number of bombs from a low altitude on a previously bombed area, most of which had been evacuated.

In a neighboring town there were some casualties but none was believed fatal.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), April 13.—(AP)—The German high command reported today that 24 British bombers were destroyed in RAF attacks over Europe which included raids during the night on sections of west and northwest Germany.

Neither military nor war industry objectives were damaged, the Germans said.

Farmers Can Get All Fuel Oil Needs

Raleigh, April 13 (AP) Fuel oil used in curing tobacco, operating chick brooders and curing sweet potatoes will be available to all farmers whose equipment was installed prior to April 14, Agriculture Commissioner W. Kerr Scot was informed today by the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Scott recently conferred with Paul A. Best, assistant director of marketing in the Department of Interior, urging that sufficient fuel oil be allotted for farming operations.

Where possible, conversion of oil burning apparatus to some other fuel was urged by Best, who said, however, that such conversion is not mandatory.

Convoy Safe

London, April 13.—(AP)—Reuters said today that the Stockholm newspaper Dagbladet Nyheter published a Moscow radio announcement that a big convoy of American, British and Dutch ships had berthed at Murmansk.

Christian Science Service.
"Are sin, disease and death evil?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, April 12.

The Golden Text was from James 5:16. "The prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made" (John 1:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If sin, sickness, and death are as real as Life, Truth, and Love, then they must also be from the same source; God must be their author. Now Jesus came to destroy sin, sickness, and death; yet the Scriptures aver, 'I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill.' Is it possible, then, to believe that the evils which Jesus lived to destroy are divine or the off-springs of the divine will?" (Page 474).

Garden Pilgrimage.

Receive High Rating.
The Chi Pi Players of East Carolina Teachers College were among those awarded the highest rating in the play production contest which was a part of the North Carolina Dramatics Festival at Chapel Hill this past week. Awards were announced and citations made at the closing session Saturday night.

The E. C. T. C. production was one of five given a special citation for good work, with "Rainbows in Heaven" commended especially as an "interesting experiment" in coming music, setting and pantomime, and as an example of good directing.

The play, a mountaineer folk-comedy about a soldier of whittling who comes back to life at his funeral to convince his fellows of the value of his hobby, was directed by Clifford Britton, graduate student at the college.

Those taking the leading roles in it were Russell Rgerson of Greenville, the whittler; Bernice Freeman of Hickory, his wife; Lois Sessoms of Aoshkie, their small daughter; Janie Eakes of Greenville and Jack Young of Burnsville, the grand-children and Penny Spear of Chapel Hill, the person who considered whittling a tool of the devil.

This closes an active year for the E. C. T. C. Dramatics Club, in which the players had, before the contest play, given three major productions of their own—the melodrama "On the Bridge at Midnight," the serious three-act play, "Double Doll" and Ibsen's problem play, "A Doll's House," and had collaborated in a number of other productions.

College Vesper Service.
Devey Tyson of Campbell College, was speaker at the Y. W. C. A. vesper service in Austin Auditorium of East Carolina Teachers College on Sunday evening.

Plaint for the service was Miss Edna Mitchell of Hobbesville, Miss Miriam Sexton of Rocky Mount, a former student at Campbell, introduced the speaker.

Mr. Tyson talked on "Youth Seeks Life." "Young people are vainly and earnestly searching for the thing called life," he began. Their minds have become possessed with a longing for peace, happiness, joy, rest of the soul. They are looking for something to lean on. Life sometimes seems nothing but an empty dream. War has cast its shadows. The future has become a whirlpool of shadows. Youth is employing unsound methods for finding happiness, he declared. As long as the extremely rich con-

Too many people are attempting to gain happiness, peace and joy without God, stated Mr. Tyson, saying that "life without God is void—it is vain, it is futile, it is hopeless." Pleasure gives no lasting satisfaction. All normal young people like life full of thrills, romance, and adventure, but God doesn't want young people to stoop. ### U. D. C. Meeting.

The George B. Singletary chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met with Mrs. F. C. Harding on Harding Street, at the regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon April 9. The meeting was opened with reading of the Ritual and song "Carolina." The president Mrs. E. W. Harvey, presided over the interesting business session. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Eugene Robeson, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. P. E. Wells. Reports were given of the District Meeting, held in New Bern on March 28, by Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. P. E. Wells, delegates. Greenville chapter will entertain the District Meeting next year. It was decided to accept the generous offer of Mrs. Robeson to teach a Red Cross First Aid Course to a class of the members, soon.

All the defense work being done by the members was reported to the Defense Chairman, Mrs. R. C. Deal. Contributions were made to the General Historical Fund and for Confederate books for Southern Libraries. It was brought to the attention of the members that April 28 is Founders' Day of the U. D. C. Mrs. Harvey told about the new camp at Blackstone, Va. named for Major General George Pickett, of Confederate fame. The program chairman, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, presented Mrs. F. W. Picklesimer, a special speaker, whose talk about "State Universities" was ably given and showed considerable research. It was much enjoyed by all present.

During the social hour that followed, Miss Mary Harding, assisted by Miss Estelle Green, served delicious refreshments. Special guests at the meeting were Mrs. Maude Dameron, Miss Lucy Davis and Mrs. Walter Taylor.

ON OUR FAR-FLUNG BATTLEFIELD

From the blood-stained grounds of Europe

To the bloody fields of Bataan, Our American sons have fought

And perished in the sand. Our heroes that fought are not really dead

For they've just gone away; Because the spirits of the brave still live.

Even those of yesterday. We will always remember

The heroes of Bataan— Especially when we walk through the streets

Of Tokyo, Japan. We're always tough in battle

And victorious in every fight; But when we see the murderous

Japs. Now that's a horrible sight.

We must win this war. And victory must belong to us.

So if your foods get high There's no need to fuss.

This war depends on you So buy a bond and a stamp;

And your sons will be home With a tramp, tramp, tramp.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jackson of Greenville spent yesterday afternoon with relatives and friends here.

non-essential of scholarship, for a blackout of education would shut us out of one of the objects of our struggle. We are, rather, referring to the individual who recognizes that education does not stop with graduation from a college but must continue throughout all of life. There is an understandable tendency to cut down on all reading not directly related to the war effort, but neither the alarms of headlines nor the physical necessity of war duties should be permitted to prevent any of us from continuing, so far as possible, his or her program of informative reading."

The above was lifted from an advertisement of the publishing house Farrar and Rinehart. It is such good advice that it is well worth reprinting.

The Shepherd Memorial Library has many of the books referred to in the second paragraph as tools. It also has a number of the books spoken of as directly related to the war effort, three of them being:

"Mission to Moscow," by Joseph E. Davies.—This book tells the inside story of Russia from the treason trials to the Nazi-Soviet pact, the outbreak of the war, the German attack on Russia, and the amazing resistance of the Red army. The book is made up entirely of confidential dispatches to the State Department, selections from diary, and correspondence both official and unofficial.

"The Crisis of Our Age," by Pittirim A. Sarakin.—A book showing our present crisis involves the whole of our modern culture; its fine arts and science, philosophy and religion, ethics and law, its forms of political, social, familial and economic organization; our ways and thought and life. And in a sense it marks the end of an epoch.

"Women for Defense,"—An attempt to tell American women not only what they must do at the moment, but how it relates to what has been done in the past, to their own history as the freest women on earth, to their own future which is in jeopardy. It tells briefly what is being done in other countries at war by the women of those nations. —H. L. R.

Pan American Program

The Pan American Day program was presented this morning at 11:15 by the Modern History and Spanish classes under the supervision of Mr. H. H. Cunningham and Mrs. Howard Mims. The auditorium was attractively decorated with the flags of the 21 republics made by the art class under Miss Ruth Henry.

The program consisted of an explanation of Pan Americanism by Charlene Moyer, excerpts from national anthems by Margaret Savage, Carl Allgood and Pat Waldrop, and skits portraying the history of the Pan American republics and union.

Douglas Nelson directed a map study using the map he made. The band played our National Anthem and the much enjoyed program was brought to a close.

The radio programs connected with the study of Pan American Day will continue through tomorrow night. The chairman of tonight's program at 8:30 is Josie Barnes White, and tomorrow Ed Batchelor will be chairman.

Glee Club

The Greenville high school glee club left today at 1:15 to attend the Spring Music Festival to be held at Greensboro Tuesday and Wednesday. The glee club received a 1 at the district festival held at E. C. T. C. March 27, thus it was able to go to Greensboro.

The 40 glee club students with their instructor, Miss Ona Shindler, were transported on the new school bus.

The band received a rating of 2 at the district festival, so it will not go to Greensboro.

Lord Brougham said: 'Education makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to subvert.' The way of life which we have fashioned for ourselves here in America, and which we are now fighting to preserve, is embodied principally in the great books which each generation has produced. In them our democracy has been defined, expanded, perfected, made clear to each succeeding generation."

Methodist Hear Guest Preacher

By WYATT BROWN

Seven things that will persist through this period of chaos and crumbling ideas were named yesterday morning by Reverend J. A. Russell, District Superintendent of the New Bern District of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church, in his sermon at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. Following the service Mr. Russell presided in his official capacity in his final capacity in the second Quarterly Conference of the year for Jarvis Memorial.

Indicating a world of chaos with people both young and old filled with zest since they are moving but they do not know where, Mr. Russell proceeded to indicate that would endure and be permanent in the shaking world.

"Critical thinking will persist. There is critical thinking in China, India and some nations of Europe. Through all ages there have been thinkers who think situations thru. Are you doing it? How do you know you are doing it? If you are doing it, people ask the schools and churches, why is the world like it is today."

"The second that abides still — the reputation of certain well defined moral standards. Honesty, justice, and truth will abide," he said.

Then he mentioned friendship, courage, God. In speaking of God he indicated he did not mean the tribal God that enabled one nation to attack another for that God is gone.

"Critical thinking certain moral standards, friendship, and courage abide because they are rooted in God. If one goes on living, one must have faith in something worth while. We know nothing is going to happen to God, but we do not know what is going to happen to this world," he declared.

Then he showed that through what God Christ and the church would abide. "Christ of ecclesiasticism has been done away with. The church abides because it is of God. You may destroy all churches and all Christians but the church abides. When this struggle is over, the church of the living God will abide. It is the hope and the light of mankind."

"Maybe the church is not what it should be but there are six million members. The church faces the greatest challenge since the time of Christ. It is the church of God which will abide as teacher and as leader of people who will find their way to God," he declared in conclusion.

Chungking, China, April 12—(AP)—The Chinese press urged today that the United States, China and other United Nations intervene for a settlement of the Indian question.

The influential Tsungting Sun suggested that all political issues in India should be settled by a joint agreement among India, Britain, China and the United States, with the last two guaranteeing any British pledges.

Order Halts Road Building

Raleigh, April 13—(AP)—North Carolina Highway Commission officials expressed the opinion today that a recent order by the War Production Board would virtually halt road construction work within the state.

The order, as interpreted by Chairman Ben Prince and Chief Engineer W. Vance Baise, bans all construction projects except those with priorities and those for which special permission may be granted.

The order not only outlaws construction, but lacks virtual priorities on men and machinery. Baise said that, even if the commission could get materials for certain roads it would not be allowed to hire the labor and machinery.

As a consequence, the commission may not be able to build the so-called floating road in Camden county, or many other contemplated projects, unless it can have those projects placed on the priority or special permission list.

Baise said that four or five projects which already had been let to contractors, but on which work had not yet started, might have to be abandoned.

The Meigs was sunk by enemy bombing planes in the harbor of Darwin, Australia, on February 19. The master of the vessel, Captain F. S. Link, was wounded. One crew member was killed and eight were wounded.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

The war department reported 12 aerial raids last night but said that defending marksmen compelled the Japanese pilots to keep so far above the target that damage was slight and "only a few casualties were sustained by our troops."

Artillery assaults were reported from both Bataan, which at the closest point is only slightly more than two miles from Corregidor, and Cavite, on the opposite side of Manila Bay.

Japanese radio reports said heavy field pieces had been moved into newly won emplacements on the southern tip of Bataan, and these presumably were shelling the American fortress day and night. Japanese tactics call for almost continuous fire to prevent the enemy from gaining sleep.

The war department indicated in previous reports that the Japanese were using guns and howitzers of 155 and 240 millimeter caliber, with a range of ten miles or more. The 155 millimeter gun throws a shell of nearly 100 pounds and the other weapon a missile several times as large.

Life on Corregidor, in the words of a newly returned army officer, was "like living on a bull's eye." Lieut. Col. Warren J. Clear, who reached Washington by way of Australia, predicted that the Japanese having won Bataan, would throw everything they have against the Corregidor target.

Interviewed on an "army hour" radio program sponsored by the war department, Clear said "the Japanese attacking Corregidor still must combat American courage and American marksmanship and American ingenuity and American steadfastness."

Yesterday's war department communique, based on reports received until 3 p. m., eastern war time, said bomber raids were concentrated on the center of the besieged island. It contradicted earlier reports by the Japanese news agency Domei which said American anti-aircraft batteries on Corregidor had been completely silenced.

The communique said an enemy cruiser sunk a few days ago by a United States motor torpedo boat was reported to have been the "Wasquama class." Since available records do not list such a class, it was suggested in naval circles that what possibly was meant was the Yasukuni, an 11,939 ton converted auxiliary, or one of the five cruisers of the Kuma class.

Churchill Reports . . .

Churchill said he could not make any statement concerning the disposition of the British fleet in the area, which is under command of Sir James Somerville, without disclosing information useful to the enemy.

Asked whether the RAF or fleet air arm had been able to carry out attacks against the Japanese fleet, he said:

"It is quite clear that while the attack on Ceylon was being delivered by the Japanese our torpedo aircraft sailed out to attack the carriers x x x but owing to thunderstorms and low clouds in that vicinity they did not make contact on that day."

"With regard to Trincomalee, very violent attacks were made by torpedo aircraft that we possessed and also by fighter and bomber aircraft which were on the spot in such numbers as were available. As has already been published, one of the Japanese carriers was said to have had near misses, but whether any damage was done I have no knowledge."

"Practically all our aircraft taking part in the attack were knocked out, or seriously damaged, or became inoperative in such a way that already has been announced."

"To a suggestion that the Admiralty might revert to the old naval strategy of sending only armed raiders and submarines into the zone where the enemy is known to be in preponderant strength, Churchill replied:

"We have the Pacific ocean and the Indian ocean with the Japanese occupying an intermediate position between the two. It is possible to use large forces on one side and small forces on the other, or vice versa."

He declared, however, that British naval losses in the Bay of Bengal had not weakened the Admiralty's confidence in Admiral Somerville.

It is quite impossible, the spokesman said, to afford continuous air protection by shore-based or carrier-borne aircraft to all British ships at sea.

The Dorsetshire, Cornwall and Hermes were sunk by Japanese planes.

"Many scores" of British ships are at sea every day without air protection, he went on, adding that "unless these risks are taken there is no means of carrying on the immense business of convoy and sea war which falls upon the Royal Navy."

Turning to the Malayan campaign the spokesman disclosed that a still report now has been received from Major General Henry Gordon Bennett, commander of the participating Australian forces, but said it was not suitable for publication.

The government is not satisfied with the final facts assembled on the Malayan campaign.

He said General Sir Archibald F. Wavell, now commander in chief of British forces in India, had been authorized to designate agents to collect further information from officers who succeeded in escaping from Singapore before it fell.

Commenting on the attitude of the natives during the Malayan campaign, he said:

"All my information is to the ef-

May Force Showdown On Labor Question Next Week

WOULD EXTEND WORK WEEK TO 48 HOUR BASIS

Unions Asked Waive Overtime Pay For 48-hour Week

Washington, April 13. — (AP) — Advocates of restrictive labor legislation served notice today that only an agreement by unions to waive overtime pay for a 48-hour work week in war industries would avert them in their efforts to force a congressional showdown on this question next week.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) paved the way for such a showdown by inviting those of different mind to argue their case if he is successful in bringing before the Senate his bill to permit the government to take over strike-bound war plants, freezing working conditions and labor relations in such plants.

Connally predicted a majority of his colleagues would vote to consider the measure when the question comes up next Monday. "I'm going to tell them if they want a showdown, this is the time to get it," he said. "If we get the bill up, then we can trash out the whole labor question."

Senator Lee (D-Okla.) who has been in the vanguard of those urging suspension of the 40-hour week, said he would welcome settlement of the issue through a voluntary agreement between labor and management. He said, however, that nothing short of such an accomplishment would satisfy him and others of like views.

Administration leaders have been reported seeking such an agreement and Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) predicted that an understanding might be reached this week. Maloney advocated enactment of legislation to freeze open and closed shops in war industries for the duration of the conflict, an action he said he would go a long way toward eliminating present controversies.

Congressional leaders expected to get a fuller outline of this program soon, but reports indicated it would include wage, profit and credit controls, a broadening of price fixing authority and possibly tax increases beyond any thus far recommended by the Treasury.

As the House got back to work on this general subject, its Judiciary committee studied a piece of labor-industrial legislation which would force both unions and business and trade associations to register with the Department of Commerce and report details of their finances and lists of their officers.

This new bill would establish:

1. A 48-hour work week—instead of the present 40 hours—with time and one-half pay beginning after that ceiling was reached.
2. An eight-percent profit limitation on all war work on contracts over $100,000, with a $6,000 "cushion profit allowance" to provide "an incentive to encourage the conversion of small industry to war production."
3. The status-quo of unions in war plants; in other words, those plants now operating as closed shops would retain that status for the duration of the war, while unions would be prevented from converting present open shops.
4. A $5 maximum for initiation fees to any union.
5. A system of "incentive bonuses" for workers in a move to speed up individual effort in war production.

Secret Orders

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

YESTERDAY: Stephanie Merrill met Capt. Kurt Knudsen because she tried to miss a dog in the road, and smashed her car. At first she disliked him, and then she almost fell in love with him. But her cousin, Vicky, has cut in on that and appears to have plans for further cutting. So Stephanie seems to be relegated to the attention of Henri de la Pagerie, whom she likes well enough, but does not quite trust.

Chapter Four—Golf Game As Bait
Stephanie was just turning out her light when she heard Vicky's silvery laugh followed by the slamming of a car door. A moment later she came up the stairs.

"Stevie dear," she called softly, tapping at the door. "Are you awake?"

For a moment, Stephanie was tempted not to answer. Listening to all the details of Kurt's capitulation wasn't going to be any pleasure. Then, with a grimace, she answered:

"Come in. Have a good time?"
"Oh, simply divine," Vicky perched on the edge of the bed. "Didn't you?" and then without waiting to hear, "Isn't he simply adorable!"

Stephanie's smile twisted. "Adorable" was hardly the word to describe Kurt.

"He's so terribly good-looking and such a divine dancer and you know," Vicky pursed her lips thoughtfully. "I don't think I've ever met a man who is really intelligent as he is."

Something inside Stephanie began to ache dully.

"And do you know, angel, I do think he's interested in me," Vicky's eyes misted dreamily. "I think I'll be married in palest pink satin."

"Well, aren't you rather counting your bridesmaids before they're hatched?" Stephanie laughed but her own persistent hopes silently folded their tents and slunk away.

Vicky wrinkled her nose, flounced off the bed. "You'll see!" Then, brushing a kiss against her cousin's cheek, she said, "Get some sleep, angel. We're playing golf with Henri at six in the morning."

"Six? We are?" Stephanie gasped. "Since when have you taken to rising before dawn?"

"Since tomorrow," Vicky smiled knowingly.
And not until the next morning as they walked through dew-wet grass approaching the Mayfair's tricky third hole did Stephanie begin to understand Vicky's little scheme. At best, Vicky's game was erratic but this morning it was simply wild. She'd already lost two balls and since she'd insisted they play without caddies, she spent most of the time searching "out in the rough." Finally, Stephanie saw why. Beyond a water hazard and a sand trap and just putting onto the fifth green, was Kurt Knudsen.

Surprise?
"Why—there's Kurt Knudsen," Vicky echoed her thought aloud with so much surprise in her voice that any innocent bystander would have been completely fooled. "And he's playing alone, too. Maybe he'd like to join us?"

Vicky called, waved and Kurt, missing his put, looked up scowling. But, instantly, a smile appeared. He picked up his ball, walked toward them.

The best-laid plans of a wily woman, Stephanie thought savagely as she sliced her own ball disastrously, went off like clockwork. And, for all his intelligence, Kurt Knudsen was certainly falling for some pretty old tricks.

Stephanie drove again. This time her ball soared beautifully straight toward the green, rolled obligingly into good putting range.

"Beautiful shot!" Kurt's deep voice just behind her.

Stephanie flushed. "Thanks. It was—just luck."
"Used it wasn't," Vicky defended her with suspicious ardor. "Stevie's a marvelous golfer. She does all the sports so well. I envy you, angel. Truly I do. You have so much strength."

Stephanie could have strangled her. Nice work, cousin. She was making Stephanie feel exactly like an Amazon. It took all she had to shrug carelessly, "Don't be silly," and walk off after her ball.

But, she determined, she was not going to let Kurt see her temper again. Not even if she mistook her for a feminine Samson. Besides, maybe if she gave Vicky enough rope, she'd hang up her own silly strategy for Kurt to see.

But Kurt was blind to everything except Vicky's beautiful face apparently. He fell for all the little tricks like showing her how to stand, now to hold her club, helping her decide which club to use. And finally, abandoning his own game, he actually suggested Henri play ahead with Stephanie.

"No need for you to wait," he suggested, smiling. "I'll help Vicky."

And Vicky needed plenty of help. Out in a sand trap, she lost her ball, was frightened by "something" in the brush, ran screaming up a bank and—turned her ankle. So badly that Kurt must carry her to the club house.

Stephanie ground her teeth, and tried hard to make her concern pass for genuine. Tried hard not to see the way Vicky's arm curved around Kurt's neck, the way tender concern had written itself into his face.

He carried her straight to his own car. There, he put her carefully into the seat, pulled off her shoe, examined the injured foot.
"Nothing broken, anyway," and smiled up at her as he knelt to massage the ankle, to bind it quickly, skillfully.

"There," he said finally, "that will do until you get a doctor."

"Oh, it feels much better already, Kurt. You've just helped it wonderfully. Thank you so much."

"And you are a very brave little girl," Henri offered, still carrying Kurt's golf bag and Vicky's as well as his own.

Call To Duty
Et tu, Henri? Stephanie thought and despised herself for being mean about it all. But when even worldly sophisticates like Henri made pack-horses of themselves to please Vicky, things were certainly pretty hopeless.

GALLEY TWO—SECRET ORDER
"Oh, I'm not a bit brave, Henri," Vicky's blue eyes widened. "I'm just an awful baby, I'm afraid."

Stephanie glanced at Kurt. Surely Vicky was over-playing her hand this time. Surely any reasonably intelligent male could see through that. But Kurt's blue eyes didn't betray even the ghost of a smile.

She was grateful then, that a boy from the club ran toward them shouting Kurt's name.

It was an order from Kurt's superior officer. He was to report, in uniform, at once.

"I'm sorry," Kurt apologized. "I'll have to leave immediately." He turned to Henri. "You'll see that the girls get home safely, won't you, sir?"

Henri bowed. "But of course."
And then to Stephanie, Kurt said, acting as if she were Vicky's mother instead of her cousin, "And you'll see that Vicky's foot is properly attended to?"

For an instant, Stephanie met his eyes, tried in vain to see something there to revive her own secret hopes. "Certainly," she said finally. And then watched Kurt pick Vicky up again and with incredible gentleness, transfer her to the seat of Henri's car.

As he swung into his car, drove off Stephanie remembered the word she'd been hunting for almost from the moment she'd first looked up at him. Kicking He looked, she decided, like a hero straight out of Beowulf or off an ancient Norse battlefield.

And so what! She demanded of herself furiously. There was certainly nothing particularly virile about the way he'd let Vicky wrap him around her little finger. And doing a lot of wishful thinking about him wasn't going to improve the situation any. She might better concentrate on charming Henri just—she added wryly—to convince her own wounded ego that she was still not exactly a wallflower.

THE RAILROAD WINS
What if any further action toward keeping or restoring passenger service on the Atlantic Coast Line after April 26 will be taken is not yet known, but we do feel that loss of these trains will prove a handicap to this section of the state, temporarily at least, while plans are being worked out for some adequate way to handle mail and express shipments.

ing worked out for some adequate way to handle mail and express shipments. It has been a hard fight on the part of business men who have exerted every effort to keep us from losing these trains, but it is another case of the big corporations having all the answers and in long run having their own way. Of course the railroad can keep books so as to show a loss most anywhere it wants to do so, but so long as the branch line shows a profit on freight and passenger service combined we don't believe they should be permitted to do away with a part of the service that is essential to the public need and convenience.

Whether the Japs will seize upon the weakness produced by the British-Indian imbroglio and attempt an invasion remains to be seen, but the situation is an invitation to them. The Nationalist idea of refraining from acting with the British and of organizing their own opposition to invasion probably is further encouragement to the Japanese, because such disorganized and conflicting defense must hamper its own ends.

The people of Guatemala are among the most colorful of the Americas. Lineal descendants of the Mayas, they have preserved many of the rites and customs of their ancestors. Maya religion has given way to priest and church, but their fiestas, dances, music, retain the flavor of other years.

THE WAR TODAY
Perhaps we might better say that many Indians feel they are held in bondage as an inferior race. One of the deep-lying causes of the nationalist bitterness towards Britain, as I know well from study of the situation at first hand, is the Indians' claim that the British never have treated them as equals. There is a very definite racial problem there, and it is well that we should understand this in trying to assay the present crisis.

Stage All Set For Opening Of Big Leagues Tomorrow

GOOD SEASON ANTICIPATED

Club Managers Optimistic Over Prospects

By AUSTIN BEARBEAR
New York, April 13.—(AP)—If all the hopes, desires and predictions are fulfilled this year for managers of major league baseball teams, the first divisions of both the circuits are going to be a little crowded.

Not a single manager could be found today who was willing to admit that his club wasn't tagged for an upper berth.

Half of them, if the weather doesn't interfere, are due for a setback tomorrow when all 16 teams are scheduled to break from the barometer together in the first wartime season in 24 years.

The line-up sends New York to Washington, Philadelphia to Boston, St. Louis to Chicago and Cleveland to Detroit in the American League, while the National loop will find Brooklyn at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Chicago at St. Louis.

From 24-year-old Lou Boudreau who befits his assignment as manager of the Cleveland Indians, to 70-year-old Connie Mack, ready for his 49th season as a skipper and his 42nd with the Philadelphia Athletics, the club leaders agreed that baseball is in for a big year in spite of the war.

Most of them believe that the conflict will have some effect on the play of the teams, varying as the season progresses and the draft makes further inroads on the personnel but none expects business at the gates to decline.

Few dared to pick a winner in the National League, but American League managers, with the exception of Joe McCarthy, think the New York Yankees are the boys to bet.

Mack picked the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox to run one-two in the American League but warned that the Chicago White Sox have hidden strength that might put them on top.

"There will be plenty of plavine talent," said Mack, explaining that he felt the leagues would have no difficulty surviving the wartime season.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion Yankees, thinks the season will be a good one and promises "something interesting" from his club, which will be after its sixth American League pennant in seven years.

"We have a good ball club," said McCarthy. "As good as last year, in my opinion. It will help a lot if we get started right. I am sure we will be able to give the fans something interesting and the way they turned out to see us this spring, I know they still like baseball."

There was a note of confidence in the statement of Manager Leo Durocher of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers, who declared:

"I feel that I have a better club than last year and we won the

Roosevelt Gets Passes To The Ball Game

Ford Frick (center), president of the National League, and Clark Griffith (right), president of the Washington club, called at the White House April 10 and handed President Roosevelt passes for the major league baseball season which opens April 14. Included were a purse and passes for the First Lady.

pennant with that one."

"I hope the Indians finish in the first division," said Cleveland's Lou Boudreau. "If the team makes any berth better than fourth, 'I'll be very happy."

Boudreau's blondest moment is his pitching staff. "I think the best of Bob Feller was just about the most serious blow a club could possibly suffer," he said.

Another American League base who likes the Yankees is Del Baker of the Detroit Tigers.

"They are well built, both in power and in pitching," he said.

"We should have a chance for third with Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis."

Frankie Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates declined to name the position he expected his team to occupy at the end of the season, but said:

"We figured to be in the pennant race, but we've got to get away to a good start. Eleven of our first 14 games are with the Reds and Cardinals. We can't afford to let down a minute."

In the opinion of Billy Southworth, whose St. Louis Cardinals are being picked to battle it out with the Dodgers for the National League flag, the 1942 Cards "are a stronger defensive ball club, and have added speed and pitching to an already good pitching staff."

"I am depending on strong defense, good pitching and enough power to keep us in the race," he said.

Joe Cronin believes his Boston Red Sox are as good, if not better than last year. "The Yankees are favored, of course," he said, "and it's up to Boston, Detroit, Chicago,

Cleveland and St. Louis to knock them off."

"It'll be the Yankees again in the American League," said Jimmy Dykes of Chicago's White Sox. "There's an improved ball club but the best I'm hoping for is third place."

Take Sewall of the St. Louis Browns summed up the situation with: "Anything can happen. The team that gets the breaks will win the race in the American League."

"The war is the important thing here. If we don't win that we won't have baseball. The general players' meeting last in the armed services so far haven't been drafted—they enlisted."

Optimistic is the word for Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds. The club looks better," he said. "The new regulars—Garry Walker, Bert Haas and Rellie Helmsler—look like they have what it takes to help us. Our pitching is tops and I am sure our attack is going to be much stronger."

Max Ott, new skipper of the New York Giants, displayed optimism for a man whose team lost 17 of the 26 exhibition games.

"Our pitching, which was the big problem when we went south, has shaped up encouragingly and I'm sure our hitting will come along as soon as we get a chance to play every day," he said.

Brooklyn was picked to repeat in the National League by Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, who added: "The Cubs are going to be a lot stronger than last season. We're out to win the pennant just like every other team. I hope we'll finish above the contenders."

Said Buckey Harris of the Washington Senators: "The Senators' hitting is improved. We expect Buck Newsom to help the club a lot. We're weak around second, but I believe the infield will work out okay. The Senators were hard hit by the draft, but we've still got plenty to give the other clubs trouble. I'm nacking up for fourth, but I'm not betting."

"The Phils will be a fighting, aggressive club throughout the season," assured Hans Lobert, the new manager of Philadelphia's National League entry.

Lobert's observations were echoed by Casey Stengel of the Boston Braves who said: "This is an uncertain year, and I just don't know

Kentucky Derby Picture Jumbled

New York, April 12 (AP)—The Kentucky Derby picture today and in the weeks ahead is as jumbled as a pack of cards.

The south of last month's winner, the Kentucky Derby, was the subject of a lawsuit filed in the Federal District Court in Louisville, Ky., by the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission.

The suit is based on the fact that the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission, which is the governing body of the Kentucky Derby, has filed a lawsuit in the Federal District Court in Louisville, Ky., against the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission.

SAYS WAR MAY GO FIVE YEARS

Rickenbacker Says Only Miracle Can Shorten It

Mitchell Field, N. Y., April 13—(AP)—Col. Eddie Rickenbacker, the American flying ace of the first World War, told the fighters at this air base today that in his opinion "this war will last a minimum of five years, barring miracles, with a possibility of it lasting ten years."

"Anybody who thinks the war can function effectively without the superiority or control of the air, which also goes for the land forces of the Army," he said, "will need at least 300,000 pilots to achieve victory—100,000 as instructors and 200,000 combat pilots, scattered over the four corners of the world."

Col. Rickenbacker, who has just completed a 15,000-mile survey flight of all our air combat units, said that the men of the U. S. air force "are all full of fire and spirit today as were the minute men of Concord and Addis."

"I can tell you without batting an eye that man for man, and planes for plane, Uncle Sam has the greatest aerial fighting machine in the world today.

"As for equipment, there is nothing superior anywhere under the skies to American inventive genius. American engineers are the skill of American workmen. Don't worry you will be flying planes that are the last word in performance and armament. No force in the world can lick you.

"No pilot or combination of pilots, nor planes or formation of planes, are superior to yours. If you have any doubts about score just turn your eyes to wherever American pilots and American-made planes are doing their stuff in the theatres of war.

"Don't get me wrong, I am not underestimating our enemies and their equipment. Never underestimate your enemies. But on the other hand let's not get a frame of mind that he is the top dog."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 13—(AP)—Stocks had a slight upward slant today with benefits somewhat unevenly distributed and a number of industrial leaders disposed to extend last week's decline to four-year lows.

Certain of the blue chips were non-participants although their losses were small as a rule. Dealers totaled around 225,000 shares.

Mrs. G. G. Whitehurst Died This Morning

Mrs. G. G. Whitehurst, 76, died at her home in Bethel at 7:05 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held from the Bethel Methodist church Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock followed by interment at Bethel cemetery. Services will be in charge of Rev. J. G. Phillips, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. M. M. Johnson, pastor of Bethel Baptist church.

Mrs. Whitehurst, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Teel, was a life long resident of Bethel and became a member of the Methodist church at 27 years of age. Both from age and in years of membership she was one of the church's oldest members. Fifty seven years ago she married Mr. G. G. Whitehurst who with four sons C. G., W. C., E. G. and F. L. Whitehurst, all of Bethel survive. Other survivors include 12 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Wall bearers will be her grandsons Woodard T. Alton J. Walter R. and Billie Whitehurst, Clifton Everett, and Dennis Hardy.

U. S. Army Private Marries Colleen

Belfast, Northern Ireland, April 13—(AP)—Private Herbert Cooke of Cleveland braved possible U. S. army displeasure today to marry an 18-year-old Colleen in a church locked against those who might interfere.

He was the first AEF man to wed and his bride was Miss Thelma Smith. When her father reached the Presbyterian church, he found the doors locked and had to return home.

Army authorities do not require enlisted men to obtain specific permission to marry, but say it "is advisable." Private Cooke apparently obtained only the permission of his bride and her parents.

The bride's father had been invited, but he arrived too late for the start of the service, which was conducted with such secrecy that only four persons, including the sexton, were witnesses. The doors had been locked when the bridal couple entered the church.

Extra Clerk Bill Is Back To Committee

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Senators still smarting under the wave of criticism touched off by the now-repealed legislation to provide pensions for congressmen today sent back to committee a $27,696,048 legislative appropriations bill which would have given each senator at least one additional $1,800-a-year clerk.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.), one of those opposed to the clerkship amendment put in by the committee, said the proposal would be re-drafted.

COURT DECIDES AGAINST GOVT

Loses Part Of Its Claims Against Reynolds Estate

Washington, April 13 (AP)—The Supreme Court partially overruled today the government's contention that it was entitled to collect approximately $100,000 in taxes on the estate left by 20-year-old Zachary Smith Reynolds, North Carolina tobacco heir, when he died in 1932.

Justice Black delivered the opinion, which held that Reynolds' great-grandfather had a substantial interest in trust property aggregating approximately $20,000,000 did not justify its inclusion in his gross estate.

The litigation was returned to the board of tax appeals for determination to whether 37 1-2 per cent of a majority part of the estate, which went to his brother and sister, should be taxed.

The trusts involved were created by Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, parents of the youth.

Chief Justice Stone and Justices Roberts, Frankfurter and Byrnes contended that the question of taxability of the part going to the brother and sister should be decided in favor of the Reynolds estate.

Young Reynolds died at Winston-Salem seven months after his marriage to Libby Holman, the torch singer. A child was born after his death. He previously had been married to Anne Cannon, but she obtained a Reno divorce.

The Federal Commissioner of Internal Revenue assessed an $8,530,820 estate tax, less $2,000,000 paid the estate of North Carolina, interest raised the amount involved to approximately $10,000,000.

This was reversed by the board of tax appeals and by the fourth federal circuit court on the ground that Reynolds did not have sufficient interest in the trusts to warrant their inclusion in his gross estate.

A trust created by his father provided that young Reynolds should receive only income until he became 28. Under two trusts created by his mother, he was to receive the income for life. He was permitted to specify by will who should receive the money when he died. Under North Carolina law, he could not dispose of his property by will until he became 21.

Municipal Court Has Busy Session

Dog owners paid fines in municipal court this morning for permitting their dogs to run at large after repeated warnings to the public by Chief of Police George Clark that owners should keep their pets off the streets. A third of the 18 cases heard by Judge Louis C. Skinner this morning were those against the dog owners.

Complete list of today's cases follows:

Bessie Hagan (col.) charged with assault with a deadly weapon, nolle prossed; Dave Creech, drunk and disorderly, 30 days in jail suspended upon payment of cost and good behavior for a period of one year; Minnie Moore (col.) allowing dog to run at large, fined $3 to apply on cost; Buster Little (col.) dog at large, nolle prossed; Dr. S. In a case against Isiah Grimes and Lance Wooten, both colored, charging careless and reckless driving Grimes was adjudged not guilty and Wooten was found guilty of double parking and had prayer for judgement continued; R. D. Grady, colored, disorderly conduct, and damaging personal property ordered to pay half the cost and $3 for the benefit of Henry Cox; Bo John Atkinson, (col.) operating a gambling house, nolle prossed; June White, Johnnie McCoy and Virgil Brown, all colored, gambling, adjudged not guilty; Farrow Ham, drunkness 30 days in jail; Watt Smith, and Crisp Landon, both colored, assault with weapons and discharging firearms, Landon not guilty, Smith 30 days suspended upon payment of costs.

Blood Needed

A call went today for persons who would be willing to give blood for transfusion for a patient who is critically ill in Pitt General Hospital. The patient, a world war veteran, is said to be without relatives or funds and his condition is reported as so grave that a transfusion is absolutely necessary. If you would like to aid in this case in this manner please contact the hospital at once.

Primary Will . . .

What is expected to be one of the county's most hotly contested races is that for sheriff in which J. Knott Proctor (incumbent), Sam A. Whitehurst, former sheriff, and Joe L. Stokes are running.

For the office of Clerk of Court J. Frank Harrington has filed for re-election and so far there has been no indication that he will have opposition.

J. Vance Perkins has filed for re-election as County Treasurer with no indication of opposition. Dink James and Charles Whedbee, judge and solicitor of county recorder's court, respectively, have both filed for re-election.

Dr. J. D. Hemingway of Bethel, has filed for the office of coroner now held by A. A. Ellwanger. While Ellwanger has not yet filed it was understood that he would make the race for re-election.

While all five members of the present Board of Commissioners have announced for re-election only two of them, M. Brown Hodges and G. H. Pittman had officially filed late Saturday afternoon. The five and the districts they represent are: J. Noah Williams, Greenville, first district; David T. House, Bethel second district; George H. Pittman, Falkland, third district; Godfrey S. Porter, Simpson, fourth district; and M. Brown Hodges, Grifton, fifth district.

In Greenville township J. Gus Stokes has filed for re-election as constable with no indication so far of opposition.

Present Facts On Blackout Lighting

William A. Darden, superintendent of electrical distribution for the Greenville Utilities Commission, stated today that there had been so many requests regarding the types of lighting for use in blackouts, especially blue light, that he had obtained latest information on the subject from lighting manufacturers.

The statement in part follows:

"Blue light has proven to be the color which is most readily detectable when viewed from the air and therefore does not have the wide application given it by many people.

"People adapt themselves to low levels of blue light very slowly. This slow dark adaptation under blue light is a great detriment because people on the ground, either indoors or outdoors, are less likely than aviators to have a long period for dark adaptation. As a matter of fact, several times the intensity of red light may be used without any greater danger of detection from the air than if blue is used. Also, seeing is easier with red because the eye focuses more sharply under red than under blue; if, therefore, other than white light is used for indoor blackout red would be preferable to blue.

"Since a definite pattern of red lights might indicate vulnerable objectives, very low brightness white light would probably be used for blackout street lighting."

Airmen Make . . .

Explanation:

"Neither of us could have done it without the other.

"The two Americans who flew the patched-up plane, last Allied aircraft to escape from Bandong before the Japanese captured that former Allied headquarters, also saved three Dutch air force officials and eight women and children of Dutch officials.

Veterans of 16 years in the United States Air Force, the two Americans had finished their work the afternoon of March 7 and were just preparing to take off when Japanese planes swooped low and landed 75 parachutists.

Simultaneously a small Japanese force which had approached undetected began to attack.

The Dutch and Japanese defenders of the airport went into action and soon wiped out the parachutists and comrades.

They cleared the runways of bodies and Sergeant Hayes tuned up
