Japan Broadcasts New Versions On Saturday's Raid

Says Island Attacked By Bombers From Three Carriers; Indicate Damage Was Greater Than At First Admitted; American Official Sources Silent

(By The Associated Press) Japan broadcast a new version today of bombing raids Saturday on Tokyo and three other great cities, implying that the assault was launched from three United States aircraft carriers in the Pacific and that some of the planes raced on to safety in China after losing their bombs.

Tokyo Imperial headquarters issued this announcement: "A hostile navy unit centering around three aircraft carriers appeared April 18 at a distant point off the eastern coast of Japan proper but, fearing Japanese counterattack, fled without approaching Japanese shores."

"On the same day approximately ten enemy aircraft of the northern American B-25 type appeared over Tokyo and other areas, flying singly or in pairs.

"Hostile planes which managed to escape being down appeared to have escaped to China."

"Damage caused was extremely light."

The world still was dependent on Japanese accounts or other Axis versions originating in Japan for news of what occurred Saturday, when the Japanese declared that planes bearing the insignia of the United States air force bombed Tokyo, the capital; Yokohama and Kobe, the two chief cities, and Nagoya, Japan's third city and center of aircraft production.

There was no word of such a raid from Washington or any other United Nations capital and if the raids were launched from a task force such as the Tokyo announcement describes, it may be ten days or longer before the American version is published. Washington's policy is to permit all units to return to their bases before publishing results.

As if to support the Tokyo thesis of a carrier-based attack with the raiders continuing to China, a Reuters dispatch from Chungking said the United States planes which struck home at Japan had arrived safely at their destination. Quoting "well-informed quarters" in the Chinese provisional capital, the dispatch gave no details as to this destination. Chungking had reported earlier that the attack was not launched from Chinese soil.

The North American Aviation Incorporated B-25 is a twin-engine medium bomber with a top speed of more than 300 miles an hour and a cruising range of 2,650 miles.

However, either the Japanese identification of the raiding planes or the implication that they were carrier-launched seemed in error.

The B-25, an army plane, is too heavy for carrier use. Navy carrier-borne bombers are single engine planes which are lighter and can take off from a shorter runway than the B-25 would require.

Either the B-25 or new longer range navy single engine bombers would have sufficient range, however, to strike from several hundred miles east of Japan and still be able to speed on 1,400 miles southwest of Tokyo to the Lushu section of southeast Chekiang province. The Japanese, in announcing recent air raids on that part of Chekiang, said their targets were air fields they believed were being prepared for use against Japan by American-made planes.

In London, the possibility that the American bombers raided Japan from advance bases in the Aleutian islands and then flew on to China continued to be discussed widely. This would require a range of about 4,000 miles.

British experts said that if carriers were used and the planes continued on to China, Japanese prepared for use against Japan by American-made planes.

JAPS WAGING NEW ATTACKS

Increase Efforts To Smash Corregidor Fortress

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Opening of an intense Japanese effort to batter the Philippine island fortress of Corregidor into helplessness by bombs and siege guns was reported today by the War Department.

From new positions on the Bataan peninsula and from the south shore of Manila Bay the foe began an intense artillery bombardment yesterday, and for the first time dive bombing raids were made on Corregidor.

Defending gunners replied effectively to the new attack, silencing at least three batteries, a communication reported, and breaking up three motor truck and troop concentrations on Bataan.

Five dive bomber raids were made on Corregidor and in addition Japanese light bombers attacked Corregidor and Fort Hughes several times from high altitudes.

One bomber was hit by anti-aircraft fire, the War Department reported.

Meanwhile near Zamboanga, on the island of Mindanao more than 500 miles to the south, an American-Filipino patrol ambushed two bus loads of Japanese troops and inflicted numerous casualties.

The three enemy batteries silenced by the fort's gunners were in addition, officials said, to at least four and possibly five which it was announced yesterday had been put out of action in the past few days.

Bombing attacks on the besieged island forts have been confined thus far to high altitude level bombing officials noted.

The dive bombers operated on the Bataan peninsula before defenses there were overcome, they were particularly deadly after anti-aircraft defenses had been reduced.

The text of the War Department's communique number 200, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m. eastern war time:

"On April 19 the enemy opened an intense artillery bombardment of our island forts from new positions in Cavite and Bataan. Corregidor was severely shelled while Forts Hughes and Drum also drew considerable fire.

"Our guns returned the fire, silencing at least three enemy batteries and breaking up three truck and troop concentrations in Bataan.

"Five dive bombing raids were made on Corregidor. In addition enemy light bombers, operating at high altitude, made several attacks on Corregidor and Fort Hughes. One Japanese bomber was hit by our anti-aircraft artillery.

"Near Zamboanga, in Mindanao one of our patrols ambushed two bus loads of Japanese troops inflicting casualties.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Yesterday the department reported that comparatively small defense forces continued to harass the Japanese on the islands of Panay and Cebu.

Cancer Lecture Here Tomorrow

The local Cancer Committee calls the attention of the public to the Cancer lecture at the Woman's Club tomorrow night at 8 p. m. The speaker will be Dr. Connell B. Cobb, Goldsboro, president of the North Carolina Medical Society.

This lecture is a part of a great national movement to teach the public the early signs of cancer and the significance of these signs when present and to warn the public against all persons advertising themselves as cancer doctors or guaranteeing to cure cancer.

In addition, the National Cancer Committee desires to take unnecessary fear of the disease from the public mind and to drive home to all intelligent persons that the control of cancer is a personal matter in that they must take the first step by asking their own physician for examination and advice.

The public is cordially invited to hear Dr. Cobb. There is no admission fee.

FDR TO MAKE VIEWS KNOWN

Will Discuss Necessary Anti-Inflation Measures

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Congressional leaders announced today President Roosevelt would send a message to Congress in a week or ten days setting forth his views on necessary anti-inflation measures.

House Majority Leader McCormack said this message probably would be followed shortly by a fire-side radio address on the same subject.

Although he avoided use of the word "inflation," to which the President has expressed objection, McCormack said the message to Congress would deal with "the cost of living during the war" and with "the factors that enter into it."

Wages would be included as one of those factors, he said, along with such other things, probably, as taxes, profits, and savings.

While the chief executive's message is expected to be more in the nature of an outline of administration policy than a definite request for specific legislation, McCormack would not go into details on it.

The program, it was understood, has not been drafted in its final form.

The message and the radio address which probably will come along shortly afterward are expected to present the results of weeks of study by administration officials who are confronted with the grave problem of spiraling prices and expanding purchasing power.

One of the aspects of this problem which has been causing particular concern is the issue of wage controls—uncompromisingly opposed by organized labor. This fight by labor to prevent injection of wage freezing or stabilization into the overall anti-inflation campaign was making itself felt in delaying a congressional show down on restrictive labor legislation.

According to a survey of the damage the boys evidently climbed one of the corners to the tower tearing loose the brick that had just been laid by the workmen prior to stopping for the day. In addition to the damage to the structure itself lumber had been knocked or thrown from the incomplete tower, a quantity of terra cotta pipe was broken and bags of cement were torn permitting the contents to spill out on the ground.

Mayor Sugg declared that such unwarranted destruction would not be tolerated further and issued his warning to parents to see to it that the children are so informed.

No Contests New Bern, April 20 (AP)—For perhaps the first time in Craven county's history, there will not be a single political contest for a county office in the forthcoming primaries.

Only Three Races For County Offices May 30

The majority of Pitt county offices this year will be filled by Democratic nominees who will be automatically certified by the County Board of Elections because no opposition candidates filed for the offices. Late filings developed two new races, that of coroner and judge of county recorder's court, but the latter eliminated an expected race for Pitt county's seat in the State Senate.

ALLIES BLAST 40 JAP PLANES

Gen. M'Arthur Mapping United Nations Offensive

By C. YATES McDANIEL U. S. Army Headquarters, Australia, April 20 (AP)—Allied airmen racing through tropical rainstorms in one of their attacks, were reported today to have destroyed 40 Japanese bombing and fighting planes on the ground in two raids on Rabaul.

While these continuing attacks indicated American and Australian determination to press the Japanese in their outer rim bases and perhaps force them to relax their grip, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's new high command in the southwest Pacific began a swift mapping of plans to carry out instructions to prepare an offensive.

As an initial step, Prime Minister John Curtin met with MacArthur and other allied service chiefs in a conference on a "highly confidential" subject.

The attacks on Rabaul in New Britain were made Saturday and Sunday. Thousands of pounds of high explosives were said to have been dropped on Lakunai airfield, Saturday, wrecking runways, blasting to pieces at least four navy Zero fighters with direct hits and wrecking many others with flying steel.

Moored flying boats were set on fire by another wave of raiders while in a heavy attack Sunday at least one Japanese ship in Rabaul harbor was reported damaged by bomb blasts.

The pilots at Lakunai swooped out of low clouds, fought their way through heavy anti-aircraft barrage and turned loose their bombs and machineguns. The operation was described as highly successful.

Attending the conference were MacArthur and Curtin were Gen. Sir Thomas H. Blamey, Australian commander of allied land forces and Maj. Gen. Richard Sutherland, American, who is expected to be MacArthur's chief of staff.

Boys Play Havoc With Fire Tower

Bethel Boy Is Aviation Cadet

Ellington Field, Texas, April 20—Flipping bombs at the Axis will soon be the job of four North Carolina aviation cadets studying to become bombardiers and navigators here at the world's largest multi-motor flying school.

One of them, Robert J. Burton, 24 son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland M. Burton of Bethel, was a student at East Carolina Teachers College before he signed up to become a cadet. He made his mark in college on the baseball diamond and the basketball court.

These future "hell-from-heaven" bombardiers are receiving seven weeks of intensive training on the greatest network of concrete ramps and runways. Here at Ellington, they are taking detailed studies that will fit them for air crew work. As members of the air crew, the world's finest precision team, they will assist and direct the pilot of a victory bomber.

RESTRAIN TWO STEEL FIRMS

Government Charges Non-Compliance With WPB

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Attorney General Biddle announced today that the Justice Department had filed suit in federal district court at Wilmington, Del., and Pittsburgh, Pa., seeking to enjoin the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation from violating priorities fixed by the War Production Board.

The suits involving more than one-third of the total steel production of the nation, were the first to be instituted under the war production board's priorities program.

The department's action was taken on recommendation of WPB general counsel John Lord O'Brian. Injunctions were sought to enjoin the two companies from "accepting, holding, using, producing, manufacturing, distributing, delivering or dealing with or in" iron, steel, or iron and steel alloy products, or filling, accepting or delivering orders for these products "otherwise than in accordance with" WPB orders.

The suits further would command the two companies to comply with all WPB regulations and orders.

The suits charged that unless the steel companies were enjoined, their continued failure to comply with such regulations and orders would make impossible effective and orderly administration of the WPB program to the detriment of maximum efficiency in the prosecution of the war.

The Carnegie-Illinois suit was filed at Wilmington and the Jones and Laughlin action at Pittsburgh. Both suits charged:

"Unless defendant is immediately restrained from continuing to violate such regulations and orders and is immediately compelled to observe and comply with all of the provisions of specific orders and directives, other producers, manufacturers and distributors, of steel, iron, alloy steel, alloy iron, and products thereof will be encouraged and will consider themselves to be compelled by economic necessity to refuse to comply with an observe said regulations and orders."

The Russians claimed to have advanced two miles against the Finns at one point after battering down new defense works.

Hitler was reported by the Russians today to be trying to put the old bits back into the air war with attacks by as many as 50 planes against single secret objectives.

The signs were that he had marshaled the bulk of his air force on that front, at the expense of his strength in western Europe. Poor visibility over the continent last night, however, caused a pause in the British offensive in the west.

Small RAF fighter forces swept over Northern France, the Russians said, but failed to restore positions lost by the Red army.

The German high command said its bombers had hit again at harbor installations and utilities on the Caucasian coast of the Black Sea, with one big Russian tanker damaged. German fighters were credited with destruction of 22 planes without loss in the southern sector.

The Germans said that "local" Russian attacks collapsed in the central and northern sectors and that in Karelia Germans and Finns exacted heavy Russian losses "in defensive battles."

At sea the Germans claimed to have sunk a Russian submarine.

German bombers ranged the vast Russian front, smashing at railway stations, airfields and front line positions. They were impelled to this activity by improving weather, the hope of starting a general offensive sometime and perhaps also by the widening breach which the Russians were exploiting against the Finns above Leningrad.

On the southern front the Germans were making a show of action by tank-plane teams. The Russians said, but failed to restore positions lost by the Red army.

Christian Science Service. "Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, April 19. The golden text was from Heb. 9:26. "Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "For what glory is it, if when ye are buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, by this is acceptable with God. For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps, who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins should live unto righteousness; by whose stripes ye were healed." (1 Peter 2: 20, 21, 24).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We acknowledge our sinfulness as the evidence of divine, efficacious Love, unfolding man's unity with God through Christ Jesus the Way-shower; and we acknowledge that man is saved thru Christ, thru Truth, Life, and Love as demonstrated by the Galilean Prophet in healing the sick and overcoming sin and death."

Opera Star To Appear Here.
Helen Jepson is one opera singer who likes popular music and sometimes likes to sing it, although her opera roles and concert programs call for the great songs of all times rather than the passing fad. She is also one that has no temperamental outbursts, except those demanded of her in the roles of the operatic heroines she sings.

Miss Jepson, who will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College on Friday evening of this week, is a wholesome, all-round human being. She says she finds an operatic career a 24-hour job, so she has no time for cocktail hours and tea parties. She finds her recreation in horse-back riding, swimming, fishing, hunting—doing the things she enjoys that keep her in superb physical condition. She has a mountain lodge in the foothills of the Catskills. Her hobby is rabbit-raising.

Mrs. Robert L. Hicks, who before her marriage in St. Paul's Church here Saturday night, was Miss Mary Elizabeth Chavasse Phelps, daughter of Mrs. Wallace W. Phelps of this city.

Hicks-Phelps.
St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Saturday evening at eight o'clock, when Miss Mary Elizabeth Chavasse Phelps became the bride of Mr. Robert Ledwidge Hicks. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion, a green and white color scheme being used. Standards of spruce and white iris graced the windows in the main part of the church, and were placed at intervals on the chancel. The altar vases held white gladioli and snapdragons and the altar was lighted with the seven-branched candelabra.

Music was furnished by the vested choir of the church, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop and E. H. Parkinson, Jr. Miss Eva Hodges, organist, played nuptial music as the guests assembled. The choir led by Sammy White, crucifer, entered from the rear of the church and passed down the aisle singing "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and took their places on either side of the chancel. At the close of the ceremony, they softly chanted the benediction "The Lord Bless Thee," by Ingham. The March from Tannhauser, by Wagner, was used as a processional, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional.

The gentlemen of the bridal party wore conventional dress suits with white buttonholes. The ushers were first to enter the church. They were: Robert Bruce Arthur and William Stuart Bost of Greenville, John Powers Hicks, brother of the groom, of Genoa, Ill., and John Hensel Jr., of Gladwyn, Pa., and Port Bragg.

Miss Florence Phelps, only sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She entered alone. She was becomingly attired in a vision blue marquisette floor-length dress trimmed with vision blue lace. With this she wore a becoming hat of corresponding organza and carried an arm bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses.

The bride entered with her only brother, Tom Chavasse Phelps, who gave her in marriage. She was never lovelier than in her wedding gown, fashioned on full lines and made of train. The tight fitting bodice with long pointed sleeves was of Chantilly lace and the sweetheart neckline was net frilled. The finger-up veil of bridal illusion was becomingly worn over a halo of Chantilly lace matching the gown. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of snow white bride's roses. Her only ornament was a pearl sunburst, a family heirloom, and she used her mother's wedding handkerchief. The groom with his brother, William Donovan Hicks, of Genoa, Ill., and Chapel Hill, as best man, joined the bride at the chancel. They wore conventional dress suits and the groom used his paternal great-grandfather's wedding handkerchief. Rev. John Armfield, rector of the church, performed the impressive ring ceremony, using the ever beautiful ring service of the Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Wallace Phelps and the late Mr. Phelps. She graduated from the Greenville high school and Woman's College in Greensboro. She made her formal debut in Raleigh and is popularly known over the state. She is now assistant manager of the Port Terminal in Morehead City, where she has made her home for the past few years.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rosecrans Hicks of Genoa, Ill. He graduated from the University of Illinois. He holds a position as manager of the Hatteras Oil Company in Morehead City.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length dress of moonlight blue floral crepe and a small matching hat of budding flowers and blue net. Her corsage was of deep pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Hicks wore for traveling a two-piece navy blue suit with white blouse and matching accessories. Her corsage was taken from her wedding bouquet.

Immediately after the wedding Mrs. Phelps, mother of the bride, informally entertained the members of the wedding party, family, and out-of-town guests at the home of Mrs. P. T. Anthony. Profusions of colorful spring flowers decorated the home. A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the dining room. The satin covered table was centered with white iris, narcissi and roses in a silver bowl, and lighted with tapers in silver holders.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan greeted the guests and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett presented them to the hostess and wedding party. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Howard showed them to the punch room. Here Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., served punch and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner registered the guests. Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Anthony, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anthony greeted the guests in the dining room, where bridal icees, cakes, nuts and mints in pink and white were served by Misses Elizabeth Bridgers, Hennes Ruth and Mary Andrews Whichard and Rosa-

Morris, Miss Anne Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Chavasse of Henderson; Mrs. George Dill, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Roberts, of Morehead City; Mr. and Mrs. James I. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. And Now Tomorrow
Recently a very human personage passed quite suddenly and tragically from our literary arena. Rachel Field left this earth of which she seemed so much a part. She who saw only a part of her forties had lived intensely during her allotted time. Her keen interest was in life—it's every minute detail caught her attention—and in her labor to portray it to others so that they might see and feel what she had seen and felt. She loved the world about her, particularly her beloved Maine, where time and again she laid the scenes of her stories. And how well she embodied in her books the spirit of this section, its zest, its sturdiness and its buoyancy.

This month her last book, "And Now Tomorrow" is being published. It will tell the story of Emily Blair who, looking back over the first twenty-five years of her life, realizes there has been some queer kind of pattern behind it. Some trace remains of everything—yet she can never be again as she was in the past. And so Emily recalls her story—an unusual one—and in it Rachel Field combines that nostalgia for the past, which lends new meaning to the present, with as beautiful prose and as heart-warming a love story as she has ever written. The Sheppard Memorial Library has ordered this new book and it ought to be here in a few days. In the meantime, other books by the same author can be found in the library. They are:

"All This and Heaven Too"—In fiction the author tells the life story of her great aunt by marriage, the French governess who in 1847 became involved in a famous murder trial in which she was known as Mademoiselle D. Although she was acquitted, life became so difficult for her in France that she came to America, where she married an American, and presided over a Gramercy Park salon, frequented by William Cullen Bryant, Samuel Morse, Harriet Beecher Stowe and Fanny Kemble and others.

"Time Out of Mind"—The story of Nathaniel Fortune who was in love with music and wanted to be a composer, but whose father determined that he carry on the family tradition of shipbuilding. After a disastrous trip around the world, two women, his sister Reese, and Kate Fernald, daughter of the housekeeper at Fortune's Folly, help him to reconstruct his life—Kate, a fine, generous girl, was loyal all her life to Nat, and for him gave up her chances of marriage. When Nat almost completely broken by life and his unsympathetic wife, returned to Kate, she was able to make him happy for a time, before the real tragedy. The story purposes to be written by Kate, who lived on in a Maine village for years after the Fortune family had died out.

"Calico Bush"—The story of Marguerite, called Maggie, a brave little French girl bound out to a family of American pioneers in the days of the French and Indian war. A group of children's books by this author is also in the library. Namely, "Hitty: Her First Hundred Years," "Just Across the Street," "Eliza and the Elves," "The Painted People" and "Hepatica Hawks."

Annual Report Shows Activity Of Auxiliary

The yearly report of the Greenville unit 39 American Legion Auxiliary is as follows:

Our membership quota was 63, which we exceeded by five new members. One program from the Public Relations department at Fort Bragg was sponsored, and the four Bragg units in the program were given dinner at our local hotel. In this program the Woman's Club of Greenville were guests of the auxiliary.

On February 17 the auxiliary sponsored the victory book drive. A house to house campaign was carried out. Six hundred books were collected.

Our birthday dinner was given March 17, which was the regular monthly meeting of the American Legion. Eighty seven members of the Legion and Auxiliary attended. Mrs. Arthur Corey presided. Mrs. D. M. Clark arranged a quiz program which brought out the history of the local Legion and Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary has sponsored one house call each Sunday at the Woman's club for visiting servicemen. Music, games and group singing are enjoyed in the afternoon.

In cooperation with the book clubs of the city the Auxiliary collected magazines, radios, mirrors, playing cards, games including baseballs, bats, and other things for the local N. Y. A. center.

We expect to sell 1,500 poppies this year.

We plan to send at least one girl to girl state this summer.

Our child welfare work for the year is as follows: Three dependent families including about 15 children have been aided by our unit. We were instrumental in obtaining free hospitalization for an operation for appendicitis for one of these children. Food for special diet was furnished by the Auxiliary to the sick wife of a veteran. Bedding was also furnished in this same case. Contributions were made to the Community Chest, Red Cross, Salvation Army, and fund for care of service men. Baskets of food and toys were given at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Garden seed have already been given for planting victory gardens. Approximately $100 has been spent for welfare work this year.

Our central fund for care of veterans at Oteen has been paid through April. Six of these patients

Strength FOR THE DAY

ATTUNED TO LIFE'S FREQUENCY

Life largely consists in getting our antenna attuned to the frequency of daily life.

Many people are continuously on the verge of nervous collapse, not because there is anything the matter with them or with the world in which they live, but simply because they are continually out of adjustment with their environment. Their life reminds one of a radio set only partly tuned in, or one that blares out one moment until it can be heard blocks away and then fades to a whisper the next moment.

There are lives like that. Everybody's life, as a matter of fact, should be that way, if he is in normal health—physical and spiritual. But great groups of people simply cannot get tuned in to the frequency of the life in which they live. They lack up every little thing and amplify it into a personal affront. They cannot endure criticism. They question the sincerity of those around about them and are in a continual dither because they are not popular. There is nothing the matter with these people save that they are out of adjustment with their environment. They are like a radio receiving set that for some reason or other is not satisfactorily attuned to the frequency of the station it is trying to tune in.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

In addition to what it uncovers in the way of commission of crime on the part of some of the Revenue Department employees now on trial in Raleigh, the trial should set forth one thing and that is that there should be some revamping of a system that is so antiquated as to permit irregularities or thefts to continue over long periods before being detected. The department handling the tax money for the state is too important a one to be operated in such a lax manner.

KEEP 'EM DYING

"Keep 'Em Dying" is indeed a cruel sounding slogan but now that the war has been carried to the doors of the aggressor nations, it is up to the United Nations to undertake to carry out just such a slogan if the purposes for which we are engaged in this war are to be accomplished. The freedom-loving nations of the world did not ask for, nor did they want this war, but it was thrust upon them by the forces of aggression whose only conception is that might makes right. There is only one language the Axis nations understand and that is death and destruction, and if we are to ever have a lasting peace they must be made to understand that there are forces mightier than they. We repeat, it is cruel to desire to kill but it is only upon the ruins of death and destruction that the United Nations must deal out to the Axis partners, that the new order of freedom,

Washington — Robert H. Hinckley is tackling the biggest air-conditioning job in history. He wants to "air-condition" the whole country. Let that raise a picture of a vast sealed dome stretching from Seattle to Miami and Boston to San Diego, with filters going full blast day and night, let me hasten to make clear what Hinckley means.

"This and succeeding generations," he explains, "must become what I call 'air-conditioned' if the United States is to be a nation on wings, which it is surely going to be. 'When I say air-conditioned I mean that we must become conditioned to the air and the machines of the air in just the same way that we are conditioned to the ground and the machines of the ground.' 'Today we pilot an automobile along the ground as easily as we walk, with as little conscious thought or effort. We must learn to pilot an airplane through the air with the same sure, almost automatic responses.' The announcement that aeronautics is to be taught in the nation's high schools was a big slap on the back for genial, bald-headed Bob

URUGUAY—CRUCIBLE OF DEMOCRACY
To improve oneself is to live," a philosophical aphorism from the pen of Enrique Rodo, Uruguay's illustrious man of letters, would seem to have become, whether by coincidence or conscious intent, key to explanation of why and how the smallest of the South American republics has come to occupy a place distinguished among the nations of the world.

From the beginning of their movement toward independence under the leadership of their national hero, General José Gervasio Artigas, the people of Uruguay have never shown lack of daring to blaze new trails, to experiment boldly with changes in social, political and economic structure and method which held promise of improvement. Today the progressive and beautiful city of Montevideo, the nation's capital, port famous the world over, center of social and economic life, seat of culture and learning, a Portuguese sailor lookout for Magellan gave the city its name, "Monte veo," or "I see a hill," he said, as the explorer's craft sailed past the cone-shaped "El Cerro," landmark of the modern city.

Uruguay is a land of broad, rolling plains broken in the north by hills and low mountains. The climate is delightfully temperate with only slight variations throughout the year. Uruguayan summers occur during North American winters. Stock raising has always been and still is the nation's basic industry. Small in comparison though its area is, and with a population little above two million, before the outbreak of the present war Uruguay was exporting in meat from 15 to 20 per cent of the world's export total. At least nine-tenths of the country is exceptionally well-suited to agriculture and grazing. Adequately watered, the undulating plains are covered with a rich natural pasture.

Uruguayan crops, with the exception of flax, an important item of export, are mostly to meet home needs. Wheat is by far the greatest harvest, with about a million acres sown annually. Other crops are corn, oats, barley and linseed. In the north are extensive groves of citrus fruits. Their yield, in great variety and exceptionally fine quality, commands premium prices in Montevideo, Buenos Aires and, before the war, was much in demand in London. Vineyards in the region of the estuary of the Plate are a source of about a hundred thousand tons of grapes and a million gallons of wine each year.

Speaker

NOTED SPEAK'R IS HEARD HERE

Dr. John Spencer Spoke at College Last Night

Analyzing from the point of view of first-hand observation the fall-out of the League of Nations to function in the Ethiopian War, Dr. John Spencer, authority in the field of international relations who was diplomatic advisor to Emperor Haile Selassie during the crisis in Ethiopia, pointed out in his address last night at East Carolina Teachers College that an organization based on public opinion but with no power to enforce that opinion could not hope to succeed in keeping peace among the nations. With the balance of power factor removed, he declared, and replaced by an organization with no real power to act, the road was open for aggressors. Only an organization that can send troops into the field to enforce its decision will solve the problem of peace after this war, he said, unless the old method of maintaining the balance of power between nations, with all its weakness, is again to be resorted to.

Dr. Spencer was speaking at the regular YWCA-YMCA Vesper hour at the College last night, under the auspices of the American Association of University Women. He had come to Greenville at the invitation of the International Relations Committee of the organization extended through his personal friends Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Humber.

Sam Crandall, YMCA president, conducted a brief devotional period and then put the program in charge of Miss Louis Williams, re-organizing president of the AAUW who presented Mr. Humber to introduce the speaker.

In his introduction Mr. Humber referred to the tendency of history to be marked off into periods by episodes such as the Crusades, the Reformation, and the French Revolution and declared that the people of the world are now standing as such a turning point. "This hour," he said, "introduces a new age that will affirm for all time the solidarity of mankind" and the prelude to it was the Ethiopian crisis. In this crisis Emperor Selassie asked the Institute of International Studies at Paris to recommend an adviser on whom he could rely implicitly, the director responded by referring him to Dr. Spencer, then studying at the University of Berlin, but with a broad background of information through earlier study in American Universities and at the University of Paris. And tonight, he said, we are privileged to hear from one who has had the opportunity to gain a world view through contacts with leaders in the struggle.

Dr. Spencer described his life in Ethiopia and told something of the work he did there as the Emperor's diplomatic adviser. He traced the effort of the country to stir the League of Nations to act against the aggressor and said that the League in its inaction was not only a failure, but even an instrument of defeat for Ethiopia.

Then pointing out how the balance of power had been upset and how the League, with no power to enforce its decisions, had failed to maintain even the partial peace of the old system, he closed with his statement that any such international organization must have more behind it than just public opinion. Dr. Spencer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Humber while in Greenville. Mr. Humber himself had come for the week-end from his activities in New Jersey, where he has been working for the past four months for legislative endorsement of his proposed plan for a world federation.

Boston Red Sox Take Top Place In American League

PUSH YANKS TO THIRD PLACE

Boston Braves on Top In National League Loop

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Patriots' Day in Boston took on added significance today, with the Red Sox and the Braves setting a pace in the major league baseball races that would have made Paul Revere's dash through Middlesex county look like a trot.

As the Red Sox returned home from a successful invasion of Yankee stadium to play Washington in a Patriots' Day doubleheader, they were in supreme command of the American league and the Braves owned a third interest in the National league lead.

The Red Sox took over sole possession of first place yesterday by stopping the New York Yankees, 5-2, their second victory over the World Champions in two days. The St. Louis Browns, who had been deadlocked with the Red Sox and Yankees, slipped into second place ahead of the New Yorkers as they divided a double header with Detroit, winning 2-1 and then losing 1-0.

The Braves and Pirates formed a cozy little twosome at the top of the National loop until both lost yesterday, allowing the Brooklyn Dodgers to muscle in on their party by brushing aside the Philadelphia Phils.

From the spectators' standpoint, the first Sunday of the 1942 season was a shining success, although the action was confined to seven front when the weather forced postponement of the Cleveland game between the Indians and the Chicago White Sox.

In spite of the postponement, the American league with its two doubleheaders drew 80,798 of the day's total of 134,247 customers, and 51,522 of them were present at Yankee stadium to see Heber (Dick) Newsome of the Red Sox chalk up his second pitching victory of the season.

Buck Newsom pitched the Washington Senators to a 5-4 triumph over the Athletics in the second tilt of a twin bill at Philadelphia after the A's had grabbed the opener, 5-1.

Although it had nothing to do with the standings lead, the prize game of the National league was a 14-inning affair between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs at Chicago which the Reds won, 2-1.

At Brooklyn, the Dodgers captured the rubber game of their series with the Phils, 6-2.

John Beazley's four-hitter gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-3 decision over the Pirates at Pittsburgh.

At Boston, the Braves suffered their second straight setback at the hands of the New York Giants, who cashed in on a five-hitter by Cliff Melton, for a 5-2 triumph.

Big Week Ahead For State Big 5

Raleigh, April 20.—(AP)—Four members of the Big Five, Duke, Wake Forest, N. C. State and Davidson, will continue to squabble among themselves at baseball this week while North Carolina is tackling Virginia, Maryland and Navy in a northern trip.

The undefeated Tar Heels, Big Five and conference champs, have won seven conference games this season. The Duke Blue Devils have won 10 games and lost one in conference play.

Duke's 10th victory was scored over Wake Forest in a game at Durham Saturday. The Deacs went into the eighth inning with a 4-2 lead, but the Blue Devils staged a four-run rally and came out on top 6-4. The Duke-Wake Forest rivalry will be continued Saturday in a game at Wake Forest.

The Big Five baseball program for the week follows:

- Monday—North Carolina-Burlington at Burlington, N. C. State-Morris Field Air Base here.
- Tuesday—North Carolina-Morris Field Air Base at Chapel Hill, N. C. State-Davidson at Lumberton.
- Thursday—North Carolina-Virginia at Charlottesville, Duke-N. C. State at Durham.
- Friday—North Carolina-Maryland at College Park.
- Saturday—North Carolina-Navy at Annapolis, Duke-Wake Forest at Wake Forest, Morris Field vs. Davidson, at Charlotte.

Favorites For Kentucky Derby Dime A Dozen

New York, April 20 (AP)—Alsab and Requested packed their toothbrushes and extra shirts and caught a train for Louisville today, figuring it would be a good idea to get settled at Churchill Downs before the Kentucky Derby rush starts.

And from all indications, there's going to be quite a crowd sitting in that starting gate when Col. Matt Winn's music-makers give out with "My Old Kentucky Home" May 2.

In fact, all signs point to the biggest entry list since War Admiral showed some snappy hoofing to 19 others back in 1937.

At least a dozen starters—three of them out of last Saturday's Chesapeake stakes—already were just about a cinch to answer the starter. And between 20 and 25 others were to get together in the Blue Grass stake at Keeneland Thursday and the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday to see who else is going to the Mint Julep country. From among these, there might be six or eight more.

Favorites were still a dime a dozen, and much to the delight of the bookmakers, future bettors were going somewhat wacky trying to tab their good things. Off the most recent doing, Alsab, who came from far back to run second in the Chesapeake, remained in the select set, at about 4 to 1, along with William Woodwards Apache, Warren Wrist Sun Again, Col. Ed Bradley's Bless Me and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver. Dropped out of this lot, by a couple of points anyway, was Ben Whitaker's Requested, who faded in the stretch of the Chesapeake and barely finished third.

New York, April 20.—When Red Barber was broadcasting the Dodgers' first game of the season, he put in an appeal from the Red Cross for blood donors.... Before the game was over there were 157 telephoned offers from Brooklyn fans.... Suppose they figured they might as well shed blood for the Red Cross since they've done it so often for their bums.... It isn't official yet, but the chances are that next fall's Army-Navy football game will be played for the two service relief societies.... That isn't a Navy blimp hovering around Quonset Point at Providence, R. I.; just your old friend Shanty Hogan on a defense job.... SECRET ORDERS—MONDAY—10 Chapter Ten New Neighbors

"Well, fancy seeing you here!" Stephanie laughed as Henri strode nearer. "What in the world are you doing down here?"

Henri swept off his hat, smiled as he explained, "Oh, just killing off a little time, as you say. Waiting for some friends who have promised to take me on a little yachting trip up the Bay."

Stephanie glanced over his shoulder to the smelly little fishing boat. "Not in that?"

"Oh, no," Henri laughed too. "I was just curious to see what a fishing boat looks like. I was about to ask that worthy seaman if I might have a look around his craft."

"Well, you've more curiosity than sense of smell, I see," and then she suddenly became aware that her father stood in stony silence. "Daddy, you remember Henri de la Pagerie, don't you?"

Guy Merrill bowed stiffly. "I remember Mr. Pagerie very well."

But to greeting, he didn't even offer to shake hands. Embarrassed, Stephanie flushed, murmured, "Nice to have seen you, Henri. We must run along, Daddy's had an accident to his arm."

"So I noticed. I am very sorry, sir. Nothing serious I hope."

Still her father only shook his head coldly.

"No—it was just a burn. You see there was an explosion at—" tennis tour, Bobby Riggs became annoyed at a spectator who was "riding" him and slammed a ball up into the gallery, removing the heckler's hat.... The customer about twice Bobby's size, stood up and apparently was undecided whether to make a ten-foot leap down to the court.... Riggs stroled over to the sidelines and shook hands with Olin Parks, Notre Dame player who stands 6-feet-10 and weighs 230 pounds.... "I just want to show that guy up there that we're good friends," Bobby explained.

"Stand up a minute, will you?".... Parks stood up and the spectator promptly sat down.

Not in the Book
When an interviewer was questioning Mrs. Lilly Barrow, Joe Louis' mother, about Joe's boyhood days he asked: "Did you ever have occasion to whip Joe when he was a boy?".... Mrs. Barrow thought it over for a moment and then smiled: "Yes, I'm afraid I hold a couple of decisions over Joe."

happened to a back to the office to finish up some work this morning instead of taking the Sunday off to go fishing as I usually do, that fire would have gotten a beautiful start before anyone discovered it. And the resultant explosion would have wiped Titan completely off the map."

"But—now they'll be back to try again, won't they, Daddy?"

"Certainly." Guy winced as Stephanie turned the car sharply into their drive, stopped under the porte cochere. "But next time they'll be dealing with the F. B. I."

"Oh, I'm so glad you finally reported it. I wish you had long ago."

"So do I." Turning, he looked out across the harbor. "Beautiful spot, this. Always glad to get back to it."

Stephanie nodded, sharing his feeling. Then as she started up the steps, the sound of a lawn mower on the other side of the hedge brought her up short.

"Seems as if we have neighbors again," her father observed, answering her own thought.

Then she noticed that the rambling old mansion next door, deserted since the crash of '29 had ruined old Mr. Stone, had curtains at its wide windows again. And, as a dust cloth fluttered from an upstairs window, a little Japanese maid to fight the cobwebs. Two Japanese maids, she added a moment later as a second little brown face peeped from a window.

"Glad they are doing something" about that garden," Guy Merrill approved as he stamped up the steps. "I'll take a couple of good Jap gardeners to turn that wilderness into anything like what it was in Stone's day."

Too Many Gardeners
Stephanie saw the gardeners then. Pruning the flowering almond trees, ruthless. Strange gardeners, those!

Old Tsang, anxious when he saw his beloved Myster Guy was injured, shook his head dolorously. "Devil pretty busy today," he muttered.

Guy laughed around a grimace as Tsang helped him out of his coat. "The Devil certainly had something to do with getting this infernal burn. You're right about that, Tsang. What's he been doing for you, today?"

Old Tsang didn't smile. "Devil give me Japanese gardeners right under my kitchen window. Big house next door now full of Japanese. That bad sign for good Chinaman."

Stephanie laughed. "Oh, Tsang. You and your signs. The gardeners won't bother you. And surely the new tenants aren't Japanese too?"

"No. White. But not much good. They make talk sounds like many pigs. Not good."

"Poor Tsang," Guy grinned, stretched out on the old sofa in the library. "Got your troubles, haven't you?"

The old Chinaman would not be cheered. "Much troubles. My son's girl-child bring disgrace now."

"Not pretty little Frosted Wil-lows?" Stephanie asked, remembering the little Chinese girl who had come sometimes to visit her grandfather.

Tsang nodded. "My son send her to the big school. That bad."

"The University? But why? She's a smart girl."

"Not smart. She make friends with Japanese boy." Old Tsang shook his head scowling. "That very bad."

"But after all, if he's a nice Japanese boy," Stephanie suggested.

Tsang drew himself up proudly. "Wong Liu Tsong my grand-daughter. She Chinese girl."

Guy sighed wearily, propped his injured arm against a cushion. "Poor old Tsang. The Devil has been at work today, all right."

Stephanie smiled too, but somewhere in her mind that thought caught on a snag.

PLEAD GUILTY EMBEZZLEMENT 4 Other Revenue Department Employees Deny Guilt Raleigh, April 20 (AP)—Two former deputy commissioners of the North Carolina Department of Revenue—Lee C. Taylor and Charles C. Huit—pleaded guilty today to charges of embezzling tax funds. Pleas of innocent were entered, however, by four other former employees. They are Robert L. Ward, Jr., former chief of the division of accounts; Fred Brown Drake, former chief of the sales tax division; Harry S. Howard, former cashier in the accounts division; and Rodney Warner, former junior auditor.

Attorneys for Howard and Ward immediately moved to quash indictments returned against their clients, but no action was taken immediately by Judge F. Don Phillips, who is presiding over Wake Superior Court. The major development as the trials opened today came immediately after Huit's plea of guilty. This development was testimony by a state's witness that Huit had been allowed to repay a portion of the alleged shortage with a bad check. The witness was C. H. England, supervisor of the Department Field unit. England said that Huit, whose headquarters was in Statesville, was discovered to be about $2,400 short in 1939. Huit admitted the shortage at that time, England said, and was allowed to resign. England testified that a bonding company paid $2,000 of the alleged shortage, and that Huit gave the department a check for the balance of about $400. The check was worthless, England added, and was not made good until the recent investigation of the revenue department. The investigation started several months ago, with the arrest of Clarence W. Sneed, former deputy commissioner, on charges of embezzling $5,990. Sneed turned state's evidence, and sentence has not been passed on him as yet. Another defendant, A. A. Kafer, junior accounting clerk charged with embezzling $51.83, died at his home in New Bern yesterday. His attorney, D. L. Ward of New Bern, told the court today that Kafer died of a heart attack. "He would have pleaded innocent if he were here," said Ward, "for he is innocent of any crime." Still another defendant, William Mack Robbins of Charlotte, still has not been apprehended. Officers said they understood he was in South Carolina, and Judge Phillips issued an alias capias for his arrest.

The so-called "missing witness" in the revenue cases, Mrs. Mabel N. O'Neal, a revenue department employee, was on hand this morning. SBI officers said last week they were unable to locate her. Judge Phillips gave no indication when he would pass sentence on the defendants, who entered guilty pleas. It appeared that the first of the innocent pleas to be heard would be that of Howard.

Despite the official assertion that raid damage was "extremely light" other Axis broadcasts suggested that industry and transport vital to the war effort had suffered and that there had been numerous casualties. The Berlin radio told of government grants to rebuild factories and other structures in the Tokyo area; Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported a meeting of five ministers to discuss raid destruction and control of "baseless rumors"—suggesting that public reaction was not all the government desires—while Premier Gen. Hideko Tojo conferred with Emperor Hirohito, and then summoned the Home and Railway ministers, officials who deal with construction and transport. One broadcast recorded by CBS said that one of the raiders was forced to land in mountainous central Japan because of engine trouble, that its crew of five had been captured and were under close examination. One Tokyo broadcast gave a possible indication of where some of the bombs fell Saturday. It said 10,000 students, "including 3,500 from Waseda university, were most active in air raids precautions service; they lent their assistance in many places and in many ways and aided especially in keeping traffic going." Waseda university, one of Japan's largest, is in Ushigome ward in the northwestern section of the old city, some two miles from the imperial palace enclosure. Half a mile to the east of the university is a big arsenal and to the west an industrial section with extensive railway freight yards and warehouses. Most of the arsenal's plant, however, was removed some years ago to less congested areas. Still another version was offered in the Italian press: The newspaper L'Gazzetta Del Popolo of Turin expressed belief that the raiders started from bases in Soviet Russia secretly ceded to the United States. That, of course, would be no solace to Japan. Neither was there comfort for Japan in the United States' unbroken silence on the attacks, still concealing their origin, and her jittery week-end indicated how insecure she felt about the possibility of a return visit to her capital and great ports and industrial centers. Twice yesterday air raid alarms put central Japan, including Imperial Tokyo itself, on the alert, each time for about two hours—once in darkness starting at 2 a. m., and again in daylight at 1 p. m. These may have been precautions against hostile planes, real or imagined, or merely rehearsals. The radio listener of the London Daily Mail quoted a Tokyo broadcast announcing that air observers who failed to give timely warning of Saturday's visitors would be court-martialed. Berlin, whence has come reports of destruction in Japan on wider scale than was acknowledged at first, gave conflicting versions of yesterday's alarms. One broadcast said no enemy planes were sighted but another said reconnaissance planes and fighters crossed over Tokyo without dropping bombs. "The Japanese government," said the Berlin radio yesterday, "has provided funds for the rebuilding of factories and dwelling houses and one cinema which were burned down in the Tokyo area." This, from one of Japan's own Axis partners, was the first ac-
