JAP INVADERS PUSH CLOSER TO MANDALAY

British Fall Back 100 Miles; Japs Closing In On Mandalay From Two Sides; End Of Battle For Burma Appears Near; American Airmen Raid Rangoon

(By The Associated Press) Japanese troops were reported attacking only 20 miles south of bomb-wrecked Mandalay in Burma today after British troops defending the right flank of the Allied line had fallen back nearly 100 miles.

On the left flank, a late bulletin from Chinese headquarters reported that the Japanese captured Hsenwi, 25 miles northeast of Lashio, the gateway to China, which the Japanese captured on Wednesday.

The two late reports indicated that the Allies were rapidly losing ground in the climatic stages of the battle for Burma.

Chungking, May 1.—(AP)—Fighting is in progress at Hsenwi, 25 miles northeast of Japanese captured Lashio, a Chinese communique announced tonight. It said Japanese troops also were attacking 20 miles south of Mandalay on the Irrawaddy.

Chinese forces in the Tansuyi and Lolien sectors below Lashio still are threatening the Japanese rear, the communique said having made raids that cost the Japanese heavy casualties.

Imperiled by the Japanese thrust to Lashio, 130 miles northeast of Mandalay, the British were said today to have withdrawn to protect the overland routes to India.

While the crisis in Burma remained acute, with the Japanese invaders now standing at the gateway to China astraddle the Burma road, a Chinese announcement declared the fall of Lashio would not halt the flow of Chinese reinforcements for the continued defense of North Burma.

Moreover, the Chinese said alternative supply routes from India to China are already in working order.

Chinese dispatches said Lashio captured by Japanese mechanized columns Wednesday, had been reduced from a teeming boom town to smoking rubble heaps by Japanese bombing assaults and the Allies' scorched earth policy.

New Delhi, India, May 1.—(AP) United States planes carried out a night raid on Japanese-occupied Rangoon, in Burma, on the night of April 29. It was announced here today. Damage was done to the dock area.

The latest raid was the third on Rangoon by American planes based in India and commanded by Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton. In attacks reported on April 6 and April 18, heavy American bombers blasted Japanese supply bases in Rangoon and set huge fires.

Even earlier, on April 4, United States planes began their offensive action in the Bay of Bengal area by raiding Port Blair in the Andaman Islands, where one Japanese cruiser and one troop ship were set on fire and two other ships probably damaged.

Small Freighter Torpedo Victim

Lewis, Del., May 1 (AP)—Blasted by a single submarine torpedo, a small freighter sank within five minutes off the Atlantic coast Tuesday and apparently carried six men to their deaths, the fourth naval district announced today.

Thirty-seven of the crew of 43, including the master, were rescued by a navy craft after drifting two hours in a lifeboat. The survivors were landed here, four suffering minor injuries.

The ship's 35-year-old chief officer said the undersize raider attacked without warning about 9:30 a.m.

It did not surface. Some of the missing were believed carried under by suction after leaping from the sinking ship. Others were "killed below" when the torpedo crashed into the starboard side.

Air Crash Kills MacArthur's Aide

Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, chief U. S. air corps officer with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, was killed in an airplane crash April 27. This picture of him was made when he commanded Selfridge Field in Michigan in 1939. He accompanied MacArthur to Australia in his epic journey from the Bataan peninsula last month. Melville Jacoby, Time and Life magazine correspondent in Australia, also was killed in the crash.

Hunt For Parachutists In Vicinity Of Bayboro

Residents Reported Seeing 3 'Chutists Landing

New Bern, May 1.—(AP)—Pamlico county became an armed camp early this afternoon after reports that three parachutists had dropped from a plane in the Bay City section of the county about 11:45 o'clock this morning, according to information given out by a deputy in the office of Sheriff Robert Whorton at Bayboro.

The informant said that all cars on all highways leading out of the county were being thoroughly searched. Guards had been stationed and every effort was being made to apprehend any suspicious character within the county or any person leaving the county without full identification.

The report came from a resident of the Bay City section, which is between Bayboro and Aurora. A boy in that section is reported to have declared that he saw a plane over the section and that three parachutists descended from it.

Army officers at Camp Battle here who are in charge of army forces policing this section were notified at once. Soldiers and civilian defense volunteers were placed through out the section and a careful check was being made in an effort to apprehend any suspicious persons. The search was centered chiefly in the Bay City section but there were guards at Bayboro and throughout other sections of the county charged with searching every car and identifying every individual.

Bayboro, May 1.—(AP)—Civilians armed with shotguns, law officers and soldiers searched the woods about six miles from here today after reports were received that three parachutists had landed.

Only meagre information was available here, since most of the law officers were in the field. However, two boys named Dyvall and West were said to have made the original report. The two live in the Bay City section of Pamlico county where the search was being conducted.

Mrs. Robert Whorton, wife of the Sheriff, said she had seen three parachutists land in the woods near her home.

Allies Will Keep Supply Lines Into China Open

New Delhi, May 1.—(AP)—Come what may in Burma—and the situation looked dark today—Allied military men here are determined to keep open the supply lines to China and to maintain communications vital to a unified war effort.

The fall of Lashio, announced yesterday by the Chinese, complicated the situation, for establishment of a Japanese air base there would endanger operation of the big American freight planes now carrying war materials into China from India.

Military quarters expressed hope the rugged terrain now lying in the path of the Japanese—the most severe the invaders have yet faced in Burma—may delay their progress toward India's northeast frontier until the arrival of the heavy seasonal rains which are expected to halt large scale operations within a few weeks.

The possibility that all Burma may be lost, however, is clearly recognized and plans are being laid accordingly.

SEE JAP MOVE TO CUT LINES TO AUSTRALIA

Heavy Naval And Troop Concentrations Indicate Attack

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER, Washington, May 1.—(AP)—Reports of a concentration of Japanese warships and troop transports among the Marshall Islands in the south central Pacific gave rise to speculation in informed quarters today that a major thrust against the American supply line to Australia was imminent.

The island of Jaluit, center of the area in which the Japanese apparently are concentrating is but 1,500 miles north of New Caledonia, where American troops landed recently to join forces with the Free French. An equal distance to the southeast lies American Samoa and 2,100 miles to the northeast is Hawaii.

Because of this strategic location, experts said, the Japs would be able to move in any of three main directions or they could try a series of feints in an effort to test American strength and then strike with full force wherever conditions appeared most favorable.

First indications of what seems to be the latest development of Japanese strategy were given in dispatches from Australia recently, saying that the enemy was gathering ships and men in the mandated islands area. These reports were linked here with the disappearance of powerful Japanese naval units from the Bay of Bengal, off India, about a week ago.

Informed quarters suggested that those units, having carried out a purely raiding and reconnaissance mission against the British there had been withdrawn eastward in preparation for an attempt to sever the vital sea route between Australia and this country.

The strategy of the American high command in anticipation of just such a move began unfolding as long ago as last January, when a task force swept into the Marshall and the adjoining Gilbert Islands, laid waste numerous bases, installations, sank ships, and wrecked 44 planes at a cost of 11 American scout bombers.

Since then task forces probably have been in almost constant operation somewhere in that vast island studded area.

No one denies that in any general outbreak of amphibious warfare in this region the Japanese would be able to muster considerable strength.

Most authorities believe they had anticipated and prepared for the heavy losses they suffered in winning Singapore, the Indies, and much of the Philippines. Virtually all the warships they have lost thus far have been of the older types, and much of their main force of aircraft carriers and battleships has seen little if any combat.

General Is Killed Boarding Plane

Allied Headquarters, Australia, May 1.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Harold H. George of the United States Army Air Corps and Melville Jacoby, Time and Life magazine correspondent, were killed at an advanced airbase when struck by a fighter plane which got beyond control as it was taking off. Allied headquarters disclosed today.

Their deaths were announced yesterday when it was stated the accident occurred Monday.

Gen. George and Jacoby were about to board another plane when the fighter craft crashed into their party, the official announcement said.

Funeral services for Jacoby were held today at a Melbourne crematorium. More than 30 American, British and Australian correspondents and a group of United States Army officers were present.

A military funeral is planned Saturday for General George.

Crash Victim

Melville Jacoby, Time and Life magazine correspondent, was killed in the plane crash in which Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, of the U. S. Army Air Force, lost his life. Jacoby and his wife went to Australia from Bataan last month.

SERVICE MEN VOTE ABSENTEE

Registration Books Will Open Tomorrow

Men already in the armed services or men who will leave to enter the armed forces before the May 30 Democratic primary are entitled to vote absentee ballots should they so desire, County Elections Board Chairman J. H. Harrell stated today.

Applications for the absentee ballots must be made in writing to the elections chairman by the absentee voter or by his wife, brother, sister, parent or child. Upon receipt of such application the chairman will mail the ballots to the voter to be filled in and returned to the chairman who in turn must have them delivered with seals unbroken to the voting precinct official, in which the absentee is entitled to vote, on the day of the primary.

In making application for absentee ballot the voter must show on such application the precinct in which he is qualified to vote as well as the branch of service and the company to which he is attached.

No one is entitled to vote absentee in the primary except such persons as are members of the armed forces.

Chairman Harrell stated that should there be voters in the community who already know that they will leave for military or naval duty before the primary or should any voter now in the service come back to the county on furlough between now and the primary he could personally appear at the chairman's office, make his application for the absentee ballot and vote it while he is there instead of mailing it back.

The state ballot is already on hand at the chairman's office and the local ballots should come from the printer by Monday.

Chairman Harrell also called attention to the fact that registration books will open at every voting place in the county tomorrow and will be open at the same places the two following Saturdays, May 9 and 16 in order that persons who have not heretofore registered or persons who have moved into a precinct since the last election may register.

MORE ALLIED RAIDS STAGED ON JAP BASES

Thirty Jap Planes were Bombed And Machine-Gunned At Lae

Allied Headquarters, Australia, May 1.—(AP)—Thirty Japanese warplanes were up on an airdrome at Lae on the northeast coast of New Guinea were plastered with bombs and machine-gun fire yesterday by daring allied air raiders. It was announced officially today.

Three other Japanese planes—all fighters—which attempted to intercept a simultaneous assault on Salamaua, 20 miles to the south, were shot out of the air by allied bombers which went on to unload explosives on ground installations, a communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said.

"Our losses were slight," declared the bulletin.

The attack on Lae, which has been blasted repeatedly during the last two weeks, apparently caught the Japanese flat-footed, for the communique mentioned no opposition by enemy fighter planes.

After unloading their bombs on the grounded planes, the allied raiders swept over the airdrome again with machine-guns chattering. When they roared off toward home they left large fires burning behind them, the allied bulletin said.

It described the operation as "a brilliant attack."

The communique reported that eight Japanese bombers had raided Horn Island of Cape York at the northeast tip of Australia, but said they did little damage.

Another Japanese formation made a light raid on Tulagi in the Solomon Islands "without effect," headquarters said.

In the Philippines the Japanese were reported to have renewed their bombardment of Corregidor, attacking the fortress 12 times from the air yesterday but losing three planes in the assault. The sharp-shooting Corregidor anti-aircraft gunners also were credited officially with damaging two other enemy raiders.

The air raids on Corregidor were accompanied by heavy shelling from Japanese shore batteries, to which the big guns of the fortress replied.

"Our successful fire scored hits on enemy batteries, truck columns and supply dumps," the communique said.

No change was reported on Mindanao or Panay island.

Two U. S. Airmen Escape Unharmed

An advanced Allied Base, Australia, April 30 (delayed) (AP)—Two American pursuit pilots shot down in a Japanese raid returned unharmed today to their squadrons.

One of the fliers parachuted but alighted in a harbor five miles from shore and was in the water from 12:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. swimming with a lifejacket.

The other pilot made a crash landing on a beach and wandered through one night along the foreshore, tormented by mosquitos and sandflies.

Eventually he was trailed by army trackers and native woodsmen and his plane also was found and salvaged.

Explosion Wrecks Nazi War Plant In Belgium

By WILLIAM HUMPHREYS, London, May 1 (AP)—A chemical factory at Tessenderloo, in the new industrial district of northern Belgium—a particular one of activity for the anti-German "white brigade" of the conquered Belgians—has been destroyed in an explosion which, according to the German radio, killed 250 persons and injured about 1,000.

Berlin belatedly relayed an announcement today of the Nazi-dominated Belgian government that, not only the plant but a technical school and a number of nearby houses were destroyed or severely damaged by the blast two days ago. No cause was given.

The announcement emphasized that the factory produced "artificial fertilizers of various kinds and washing preparations for the Belgian market only."

This sporadic sabotage was said by the free Belgian news agency to have done considerable damage to mines as well as factories in the past several months.

COMMITTEE CALLS FOR EARLY LISTING OF ROOMS

With registration of service men at the Woman's Club social center growing each week, the local Organization for Service Men feels the need for even better organization and increasing cooperation with the entire community each week, especially in the matter of securing sleeping places for these men.

Last week-end nearly 300 men registered at the club. One hundred and sixty were placed in Greenville homes. The committee felt very gratified at being able to place this number. And the unfortunate fact that the special telephone was out of order part of Saturday probably caused the committee to miss some calls that would have come, offering homes.

Today, the committee wishes to make two special requests of the community in this work of home placement. First, those who can offer any rooms at all for service men are requested to call 4360 as early as possible. Last week almost all invitations were phoned in late on Saturday afternoon—which made a very difficult situation for the committee in charge. The sooner on Saturday morning your invitation can reach the club, the better it will be for all concerned—which does not mean that invitations for rooms or meals will not be very gladly received at any time. They will.

Second, if there are any people who would be glad to spare at 50 cents per night, the committee will be glad to list them. Many of the men would be glad to pay for rooms at this rate.

Ty Wagner, chairman of the committee, places stress on the fact that it is not essential to provide meals in homes for the men. The most acute need is for sleeping places. When meals can be provided it is very good. But if there are families who can invite service men simply for an overnight room, the home placement committee will be happy to add their names to the list of available homes.

And remember, if possible call early! The number is 4360.

ACTIVITIES FOR VICTORY AT THIRD STREET SCHOOL

Third street school has a beautiful new flag flying out in front of the building. The children of the school have made a substantial contribution, supplementing the cost which Mr. Rose gladly assumed when he saw evidence of so much interest and enthusiasm.

The new flag was raised for the first time this morning with a formal ceremony and program. As Tommy Deiner and Sherod White drew it slowly up the pole Mr. Douglas blew "The Calls to Colors." The following program was then presented:

Song: "The Star Spangled Banner"—School.

Song: "Pledge of Allegiance"—School.

Poems: "The Flag Speaks," Tommy Deiner; "Your Flag and My Flag," Herman Heath; "The Flag Goes By," Allison Hearne.

Song: "There Are Many Flags"—School.

The entire school has been active in Junior Red Cross work and in contributing to war work in every way possible for children to help. At the flag raising the following children were given certificates for outstanding work in paper collecting: Jimmie Lee, Frank Briley, Richard Briley, Josephine Stoneham, F. W. Godwin and Robert Johnson. The outstanding grade in this work was the sixth grade.

The seventh grade has an American Red Cross Standard Junior course. There is much enthusiasm as each day bandages are tied and instructive lessons held in first aid treatment for various accidents or sudden illness.

On Thursday afternoon the boys of the seventh grade gave very interesting demonstrations of all types of transportation in cases where it may be necessary to move an injured person.

These demonstrations were given to the standard First Aid class which completed the course at the Third street school on Thursday afternoon.—Reported.

D. O. Students Hold Banquet

The Diversified Occupations classes of Greenville High School entertained their employers, advisers, and friends last night at their third annual banquet at the Episcopal Parish house. The banquet was given in honor of the business men of Greenville who make Diversified Occupations training possible by giving employment and training to the students in this group. Sixty one persons attended the banquet.

The students of this group work several hours each day learning a business or trade here in Greenville under the expert guidance of an employer who wishes to develop him into a permanent and valuable employee. The student receives some pay and is thus able to earn as well as learn. There are twenty-two such young men and women in the present group working under twenty employers. Fourteen occupations are represented.

Bethel Has Modern School Plant For Negroes

For the past term, Negro children of Bethel, Pitt County, have enjoyed the use of a modern school plant. WPA workers constructed the school in four separate buildings. The left structure above houses the grammar grades, the gymnasium is center, the primary school is at the right, while the high school is in the rear. Standing in front of the building is the school's teaching staff. From left to right, principal J. H. Carraway, Mrs. A. F. Spence, Mrs. T. M. Grimes, Mrs. F. C. Ward, Mrs. E. S. Lloyd, Miss W. M. Gorham, Mrs. N. B. Welch, Mrs. M. T. J. E. Lowry, and A. A. Nimmo. T. Carraway, Miss Lula M. Garrett, the Pitt County Board of County Commissioners and the Pitt County School Board sponsored the WPA construction as well as the operation of a WPA school lunch program. WPA workers prepare and serve a midday meal to about 150 children. For Underprivileged children the lunches are free.

Secret Orders BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 20
Silk Stocking

Stephanie had no idea how long she had been asleep when it happened. She only knew that she awoke to find herself sitting up in her bed, someone pouring water over her ears full of the horrible sound of a woman's screaming.

Long, piercing sounds jagged with terror. And then suddenly, they stopped. The silence folded over them with dangerous swiftness as if to blot out all memory of the sound. So frightened she could scarcely keep her knees from mutiny, Stephanie thrust her feet into mules, pulled on a robe, ran to the hall. Aunt Allison, white as any ghost, met her at the head of the stairs. "What was that noise?" she demanded.

"I don't know, but I'm going to find out," Stephanie started down the stairs.

The older woman nodded, knotted the cord of her padded robe as she followed her.

Aunt Allison was frightened, all right, Stephanie stopped her own fears to notice. She hadn't just imagined the petrifying terror in Aunt Allison's not-too-dependable support, she thought as she sped through the lower hall to the kitchen.

She snapped on the light. The kitchen was in perfect order. She saw that instantly. The door to the room where Liu was sleeping was ajar. Probably, Stephanie began to reason more calmly, the girl had had a horrible nightmare as a result of her day's experience. Her own screams would have wakened her and no doubt she was back to sleep again now, reassured by her safe surroundings.

Stephanie hesitated at the door. Allison just behind her. No sound came from the little room.

"Liu!" she called softly. "Liu, are you all right?"

No answer.

"Liu?" she called again, and pushed open the door. "Liu, are you—"

Light over her shoulder pushed up on the bed. An empty bed from which the blankets had been torn back.

Stephanie flicked the light switch. There, in the center of the room, lay Liu, her own silk stocking knotted about her throat.

Murder!

"Murder!" Allison screamed hysterically, and began to cry. "It's murder! I told you we should all be—"

"Hush!" Stephanie ordered sharply. "Help me get this untied," and kneeling, struggled with the strangling knot. It gave finally and pressing her ear against Liu's cold breast, she listened for the heart beats that came faintly. "She's not dead—yet," Stephanie muttered grimly. "Call Dr. Hogan first. Then the police, hurry!"

Then pulling a blanket from the tangled heap on the bed, she tucked it around the little Chinese girl's slim, half-naked body. "She's breathing, all right," she said aloud and rubbed Liu's cold feet to start the circulation.

"I can't get him," Allison called wildly from the front hall.

"Try someone else. But hurry!"

"But I can't get anyone. I tell you. The telephone is out of order." Stephanie raced across the kitchen, out to the hall. "It can't be. It worked all right a few hours ago."

But no jiggling brought any response.

"Wires cut," she said with rising sharpness that betrayed her own dismay. "We've got to get help."

Then, before she could stop to consider the risks, she was pulling a reincoat out of a coat closet, pulling galoshes over her slippers. "You get hot water bottles for Liu. Smelling salts in the upstairs bathroom. Don't move her. Keep her warm."

"But—where are you going?"

"To the neighbors."

Stephanie knew the garden paths as well as the palm of her own hand. She ducked under overhanging branches, across the stretch of lawn, up the steps to the Miller house in what was practically total darkness.

She rang the bell long and insistently, rapped hard on the door. After ages, someone answered. It was Mr. Miller himself.

"Yes. Yes. What is it?" he called gruffly. "Oh, it is you," as she stepped past him into the lighted hall.

"Yes. May I use your telephone?" There's been an attempt at murder. Our phone is disconnected. And without waiting for his permission, she went on into the library beyond where she remembered having seen a phone on the desk.

She called the police first. Then Titan. But Guy Merrill had already left the plant, was driving to his home. Then he'd be along soon, she thought gratefully as she hung up. She hoped it would be soon.

"But I am so sorry to hear about this," Mr. Miller said as she stood up. "Is there anything that I can do to help? And who is the Liu that you speak of?"

Stephanie explained briefly, thanked him. "The police will come immediately. I think there is no need for you to come."

But he insisted. "It is very late. Miss Merrill. I will at least see you safely to your home."

"Well, thanks. I guess I am a little nervous," and suddenly she was trembling violently.

"There, now. Whatever danger there was, is passed now," he said, taking her arm. "Come. We shall see."

Back in Tsang's kitchen, Stephanie found Tsang himself sitting glum as any Buddha on his window bench, hands thrust into his coat sleeves.

"On, Tsang, I'm glad you're home," and went on into the little bedroom where Allison was rubbing Liu's wrists.

"How is she?"

"Better, now. She's conscious. Did you call the police?"

"Yes, Auntie. They'll be here any minute."

"No Good, No Good"

The police ambulance, the officer's car roared into the drive only seconds later. For the next few minutes, the kitchen where Tsang usually reigned supreme, looked like a police station. Stephanie answered questions briefly, giving all the facts as she knew them, only careful to reserve her own opinions—suspicions which would, she realized, only complicate the situation. The Chinese girl had been interested in a fellow student who had suddenly disappeared. Tonight, she had been followed to and from a visit to a strange, non-existent address, now this.

"Have you any idea who might have wanted to kill her?" one officer demanded.

"No, I haven't," Stephanie replied honestly. And closed her lips firmly against the thought that perhaps some of Henri's investigations might have aroused enemy suspicions. She must speak to Henri first. If he had gotten on the trail of anything, he must be the one to inform police authorities. If she talked too soon, she might spoil everything.

They took Liu in the ambulance to the Emergency Hospital.

"Just a precautionary measure," the young interne said. "Hospitalize her for examination. If there is no complication, she may come home tomorrow."

When they had gone, Stephanie turned to the old Chinese cook. "You must not be worried about her now, Tsang. She is in safe hands."

The old man shook his head mournfully. "She not my granddaughter. She bring evil fortune to the House of Tsang. She bring evil fortune to the House of Merrill. No good. No good."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PLEASANT TASKS ENCOURAGE US

Moral progress certainly depends upon our ability at times to say "No" to ourselves. The man who has not learned to do this is a poor doer, tossed back and forth by forces as powerful as a storm-lashed ocean.

But there is a way also in which we should learn to say "Yes" to ourselves. If circumstances permit us to do so, we should be doing in life the things we want most to do. This does not mean that we should be indulging ourselves in anti-social behavior, but it does mean that if you can paint pictures, you ought not to be keeping books, if we can write poetry we ought not to be mending clothes. Every man has his gift, and he does his best work when he employs that gift. The necessity of earning his daily bread may force him into a type of work he does not particularly enjoy, but he should try as much as possible to find some outlet for truly creative abilities. One of the greatest of English writers, who produced a five-foot shelf of first-class literature, did all his writing early in the morning before he went to a job in which he had little interest. Some of the finest works of art and literature have been done by men and women working spare time. A friend of mine, interested in business and very successful in it, used his leisure hours to study musical composition and composed a number of pieces of real distinction.

It can be done if we have the will to do it.

CAN IT BE SO?

Recently there was a news report from Statesville to the effect that a former postmaster of Charlotte was fined $1,500 in Federal Court for engaging in political activities while he was in the government employ as postmaster. Wonder if this law applies to Eastern North Carolina as well as the Charlotte section of the state?

A STITCH IN TIME

President Roosevelt made a wise move when he urged government employees in Washington to ride to work together whenever possible as a means of saving the fuel and tires now being used by each driving to work in his or her own car. What the President has suggested for government workers would no doubt work well in every community, including our own. Fewer automobiles would be used if neighbors would get together for their rides to work or shopping or other errands. We might as well face the situation and realize that it may be several years before we will be able to replace our present automotive equipment. Trying to save our cars as much as possible now might make it possible for us not to have to travel entirely by foot-power later on.

It doesn't hurt to remind you again that your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help our country to win the war. Next week is pledge week, when every worker will be asked to sign a pledge to place a part of his or her money in bonds out of each pry envelope. The hundred or more people who will canvass the town are giving their time freely to help make this campaign a success. When they call on you to ask you to pledge don't receive them like you think they are seeking something for themselves. It's your war just as much as theirs and it is up to everyone to do his or her part to help finance it.

A year or more. This dynamic was in the form of bills introduced, bills in committee, bills ready for debate and a vote—all of them dealing with those vital matters of price control, rationing, the wages and hours of labor, the wartime regulation of labor unions, corporate and personal profits, ceilings on incomes. And any one or all of these, if passed, could have more effect on you, whether you wear luxurious leather behind a mahogany desk in Wall Street, or hoe a rocky acre at the forks of the creek, than anything that has been done since Pearl Harbor.

It took a lot of phlegmating by administrative leaders on the hill to keep Congress sitting quietly while the President drew up his overall program. That Connally bill in the Senate, not a drastic measure in itself but clearing the way for argument and possible amendments on every labor issue from wage control to the closed shop, almost blew the lid off.

Although still in committee, the Smith-Vinson bill in the House of Representatives threatened to cause a similar explosion in the Capitol's south wing. The President's right hand men in Congress had some bad moments before they got all this dynamite wrapped up and labeled not to be opened until the President had had his say. Those who crave action may be asking why the delay. I know at least the administration answer. It is simply that they don't want any laws passed in the heat of battle that might boomerang on the war effort. Some of the laws proposed, in the opinion of the administration, might have done just that. That's why the President took a hand. That's how the full came about. But it's almost over and if you like legislative fireworks, keep your

Italy and Japan), appears to have been devoted to "the further conduct of the war by the two nations" (Germany and Italy). This is to say, we are left to draw the conclusion that perhaps Hitler is being forced to abandon his idea of fully coordinating the efforts of the European Axis and the Japs. There can be small doubt that Nippon is bent on feathering its own nest and that it has no intention of playing Hitler's game excepting as it is of benefit to Japan.

The Axis conferees announced the "stern determination of Germany and Italy to insure final victory by all means in their power." That means Germany's stern determination, of course, and it should be said at once that it isn't a thing to be brushed lightly aside by the allies. The great Hitlerian war machine is terribly dangerous.

A fair answer to this declaration comes from Premier Stalin of Russia in his May day order of the day to his nation. The Red leader declares that the Soviet, with aid from American and Britain, must and can make 1942 "a year of final defeat of the German fascist armies."

That is mighty encouraging talk, but the thing which strikes me most forcibly in Stalin's statement is that Russia has become stronger since the invasion of 1941. Now that is of vast importance, for we had been waiting anxiously to learn whether the Reds had been weakened as the result of the devastating onslaught of the Germans in the early days when so many vital war industries and other resources were lost to the Bolsheviks. It must be assumed that the Russians have made great strides in increasing their industries behind the Urals, and we do know that the United States and Britain now are hitting their stride in providing the Soviet with essential war equipment.

Stalin says that while the Soviet has become stronger, Germany has weakened. Of Nazism's position the Red leader says:

"Human reserves are running out. Oil is running out. Raw materials are running out. The German reserves are running low, and Italy is in bad shape. Still, even though Russia has grown stronger while Germany has grown weaker, I think we must see these two great fighting machines in action this summer before reaching any final conclusion as to their relative strength."

Beer Licenses Due Tomorrow

Raleigh, May 1.—State and local licenses to sell beer at retail are due and payable May 1. Figures, compiled by the Brewing Industry Foundation—North Carolina Committee, disclosed that the state department of revenue licensed 72 retail beer dealers in Pitt county for the tax year ended April 30. There were 5148 licensed for the entire state for this period.

Missing Plane Found.—Abuquerque, N. M., May 1.—(AP) A four-motored plane missing from the Albuquerque base since April 22 with seven men aboard was located from the air today at a point 15 miles southwest of Cimarron, in northern New Mexico, the Army announced. The fate of the men aboard the ship was not known immediately.

Vote On Wheat Quotas Tomorrow

Wheat growers of Pitt county will go to the polls at the county Agent's office between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. on Saturday, May 2, 1942, to vote on wheat marketing quotas on the 1942 crop with the knowledge that the United States has in sight the largest supplies of wheat in history, according to J. V. Taylor, chairman of the Pitt County AAA Committee.

Mr. Taylor said the total national supply on July 1, 1942, will be approximately 1,423,000,000 bushels on the basis of an estimated carry-over of 630,000,000 bushels and a 1942 yield of 793,000,000 bushels. This is almost 100,000,000 bushels more than the total supply on July 1, 1941.

"Total domestic consumption and exports in 1941 amounted to slightly more than 700,000,000 bushels. The estimated domestic consumption this year will be about 670,000,000 bushels, and our exports are virtually cut off. At this rate, we will have a carryover on July 1, 1943, of 753,000,000 bushels, which is more than many annual harvests," the chairman declared.

He pointed out that in 1917 and 1918 there was a great demand for wheat as the nation's supply was about half what it is now. Also, he said, during the last war this nation furnished bread for the people of sixteen other countries. He listed these as Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Turkey, France, Denmark, Holland, Ireland, Japan, India, and Egypt. At present, he said, these nations are blockaded and shipping for sending them wheat is lacking. He said the British empire has sufficient wheat in Canada and Australia to meet England's demands but they, too, are hampered by lack of ships.

The AAA leader contrasted the average price of wheat in this country last year with prices in other wheat producing nations. The average price received by American farmers, he said, was about 90 cents a bushel. The average price Argentina was about 50 cents a bushel, in Australia about 56 cents a bushel, and in Canada about 53 cents a bushel.

He said unless quotas are approved in a national referendum by at least a two-thirds majority they will not be in effect on the 1942 crop, and that without quotas there will be no federal loans on wheat. He added that quotas also assure a crop sufficient for demands, uniform adjustment of acreage, and noncompetitive market control. Quotas were approved last year by a majority of 81 per cent. North Carolina wheat growers voting in favor of quotas by a majority of 83.8 per cent.

Washington.—The spring lull on Capitol Hill is almost over. The President practically put an end to it the other day when he tossed in his message to Congress outlining the administration's ideas of the legislative needs to prevent that vicious spiral of prices and wages that is called inflation. The finishing touches on anything that faintly resembles Congressional compromise will come when the chips are in with your reactions to the President's fireside chat, explaining those administration ideas to you and you.

Camilli's Home Runs Help Brooklyn Continue Streak

INDIANS TOPS IN AMERICAN

Yanks Defeat Browns To Regain Second Place

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was quite a ruckus about Dolph Camilli during the winter, most fans will remember. By accident or design the Brooklyn Dodgers obtained waivers on the stocky slugger who led the National league in 1941 in home runs and runs batted in and was voted the most valuable player.

Perhaps fearing a holdout struggle and feeling that Camilli had reached his peak, President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers discussed deals for him with the New York Yankees and both Boston clubs. A trade might have been made, too, if the New York Giants hadn't bought Johnny Mize from the St. Louis Cardinals before MacPhail made up his mind whether he wanted him or not.

After being ill for five days and out of uniform, the veteran first baseman returned to the lineup this week in Brooklyn's important series with the Reds and hit four home runs in three games to help the Dodgers sweep the slate and run their spring surge to 14 victories in 17 games.

Yesterday the Dodgers were trailing 8-8 at the end of five innings. In the sixth Camilli hit his fifth homer of the season. In the eighth he singled the tying run across and in the ninth again homered, this time with two on, to win the game.

The Dodgers made 16 hits altogether, twice as many as the Reds, and blasted Paul Derringer out of the game with a six-run explosion in the fifth inning.

The Dodgers also moved to bolster their pitching yesterday by buying Schoolboy Rowe from Detroit for a price estimated at $15,000. The big fellow had started only one game for the Tigers this year and won it.

Cleveland continued to burn up the American league by crushing the Philadelphia Athletics again 6-1 to extend its winning streak to 11 games.

The New York Yankees regained second place by pouncing on the St. Louis Browns 3-0 behind the four-hit hurling of his Uncle Bonham, who raked up his second shutout and third straight triumph of the young season. Joe Gordon was out of the Champs' lineup for the first time since April 25, 1939, ending a string of 471 American league games, because of a pulled muscle in his back.

Early Wynn pitched the Washington Senators to a 4-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox in a mound duel with old Ted Lyons. The latter allowed only four hits to Wynn's five, but one of the Nationals' bingles was a triple by Stan Spence in the first inning and he came home on an infield out.

The Boston Red Sox raided the Detroit Tigers 8-3 with Dick Newsome pitching six-hit ball and Ted Williams shaking his slump for a homer.

Howie Pollet, southpaw sensation of the National league when he came up last August, captured his first 1942 victory with a four-hit effort that brought the St. Louis Cardinals a 7-3 verdict over the New York Giants.

The Phils backed up Frank Horner's nine-hit pitching with four home runs by Dan Litwiler, Ron Northey, Nick Etten and Benny Warren to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

The Boston Braves completed a sweep of their series with the Chicago Cubs by winning 3-2 on Jim Tobin's five-hit hurling. Buddy Gemp and Ernie Lombardi hit homers for Boston and Don Dalesandro hit one in the ninth inning to save the Bruins from a shutout.

From Oldest To Youngest Manager

The major leagues' oldest manager, Connie Mack (right), 79, of the Philadelphia Athletics, passes along some sage advice to the youngest manager, 24-year-old Boudreau of Cleveland, before their teams met in Philadelphia. But waster the advice, Boudreau's Indians eat the Mackmen 6 to 4 to take first place in the American league.

DERBY FIELD IS UNCERTAIN

No Outstanding Favorites As Race Date Nears

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Louisville, Ky., April 30—(AP)—Kentuckians boast of their great race horses and rightly so but a trio of three-year-olds from Texas cow country figure right strongly to have something to say about the Hardboots' own race when the bugle sounds the call for the 68th Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday.

Without making any attempt to pick the best of the three, they are Ben Whitaker's game little chestnut, Requested, and the double-barreled entry of Valdina Orphan and Hollywood from Emerson Woodward's Valdina farm.

The records of all three are so flattering that it wouldn't be surprising to see Requested go post-ward at about 5:30 p. m. (Central War Time), mighty near equal choice in the betting with Mrs. Payne Whitney's combination of Devil Diver and Shut Out, and the Woodward entry not far behind.

There was a rumor going around last night that neither Valdina Orphan or Hollywood would start due to lameness, but heads of the stable were willing, not only to wager you plenty that their horses would be in the parade to the post, but that one of them would be in front at the end of the $75,000 added mile-and-a-quarter run.

Whitaker took Requested out of the yearling sales for $1,300 and promptly he became the second best bargain of 1941, bowing only to Al Sabath's Alsab in that respect. His total earnings are $102,800.

Neither of Woodward's horses can come close to Requested from an earnings standpoint but Orphan has run out of the money only twice in 17 starts.

Meanwhile, as the horsemen on the backstretch settled on Devil Diver and his stablemate, Shut Out, as the pair to beat, this city gradually took on the traditional Derby air.

All modes of transportation are bringing additional fans, indicating there would be little, if any, falling off in attendance. The office of Col. Matt Winn, head man at the Downs, estimated there would be between 75,000 and 100,000 here. Sixteen horses are slated to start, making the largest field since War Admiral defeated 19 rivals in 1937.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 1.—Latest report from Louisville is that if there's a "sleeper" in the derby this year he must still be asleep. ... Probably the only reason the 700 newspapermen who are down to cover the race haven't made 700 different selections is that there aren't that many horses in the race. ... Tars Hold On To Lead in Piedmont

Charlotte, May 1—(AP)—The league-leading Norfolk Tars won the opening game of the series with the Durham Bulls last night 6-2 behind the steady pitching of Dvie Howell.

Meanwhile the second-place Charlotte Hornets won a 3-0 decision over Greensboro in a twilight game that was played early to avoid a conflict with a blackout.

Cliff Bolton hit an inside-the-park home run in the sixth with two on, the Bolton homer came with two out after Ivons had singled and Aderholt had drawn a pass.

Benevise, the Winston-Salem Twins' third sacker, made his debut by slaching out a triple in the third to drive in two runs as the twins defeated the Asheville Tourists 1-1. Matthews homered with one aboard in the eighth.

The Richmond Colts downed Portsmouth 14-8 in Portsmouth's first night game before a crowd of 1,500.

The clubs play at the same stands today—Greensboro at Charlotte, Asheville at Winston-Salem, Richmond at Portsmouth and Norfolk at Durham.

ing their dopes into the future books on Hollywood. These Irish horses are bred for distance and from here it seems that a mile and a quarter may be a long way for some of the Derby nags to travel. ... Eddie Arcaro definitely has selected Devil Diver as his mount. ... Whirlaway will stay at the Downs long enough to pay his respects to the winner and then will be shipped to Pimlico Sunday to run in the Dixie.

Woodman Spare Them Pins
Up at Berlin, N. H., recently, a gent named Joe Wood decided to investigate the game of bowling. On Wednesday he rolled 35 games; Thursday he increased his production to 33; Friday it was 28 and on Saturday he bowled 63 for a total of 149 games. He bowled 4,320 balls down the alley and while there's no record of his scores, it's certain that Wood knocked down a lot of wood.

When Col. Jake Mints, the Pittsburgh matchmaker who was a trifle annoyed when Abe Simon called off that fight with Harry Bobo, showed up late for a dinner the other night, he apologized: "You'll have to excuse me. I've been down at the railroad station waiting for Simon to show up."

Embezzlers Get Prison Terms

Raleigh, May 1.—(AP)—Seven former state revenue department officials, charged with either embezzlement of public funds or aiding others to embezzle, were sentenced in superior court here yesterday by Judge F. Donald Phillips.
Six of the defendants were given prison terms and prayer for judgment was continued for the seventh, Fred Brown Drake, former head of the sales tax division. Judge Phillips stipulated these conditions—that he pay a fine of $200, remain on good behavior for two years, and obtain some gainful employment.
Drake, accused of embezzling $100 and with aiding Clarence W. Sneed, former deputy collector, who pleaded guilty to taxing $5,999.30, was convicted of aiding and abetting but innocent of embezzlement.
The other men sentenced: Robert L. Ward, former chief of the division of accounts and records, sentenced to two to four years for embezzling $138.53 on May 1, 1941; two to four years for embezzling $203.95 on September 30, 1941, and two to four years for aiding and abetting Sneed. The sentences run concurrently.
Charles C. Huitt, former deputy commissioner in charge of collections, sentenced to three years for embezzling $2,427.17.
Lee C. Taylor, former deputy collector, one to three years for embezzling $1,066.65.
Rodney Warner, former junior auditor, one to three years for embezzling $1,181.11.
Harry S. Howard, former cashier in the division of accounts and records, one to three years for embezzling $1,650.
Clarence W. Sneed, former deputy collector, 18 months to four years for embezzling $5,999.30.
