MATRUH CAPTURED BY AXIS FORCES

Germany Begin New Offensive Against The Russians

Drive Aimed At Cutting Rail Lines

New Blow Struck 280 Miles South Of Moscow; Weary Defenders Hold Sevastopol Despite Brutal Nazi Assaults; Red Counter-Attacks Gain Ground In Kharkov Area

By HENRY C. CASSIDY Moscow, June 29.—(AP) Probing the long, resilient Russian line for a weakness, the Germans were smashing out from Kursk, about 280 miles south of Moscow, today in a new drive presumably aimed at cutting the vital railway connecting the southern and central fronts.

The new offensive—the fourth started by the Germans this spring—came as the battered and weary Soviet defenders of Sevastopol fought off a succession of brutal Axis blows at the Black sea fortress, now under attack for the 25th day. Other Red army units were counter-attacking fiercely in the Kharkov region and winning back some lost ground, front dispatches said.

Today's mid-day Soviet communiqué gave no details of the fighting east of Kursk, saying merely that during the night "in the Kursk and Sevastopol directions our troops engaged the enemy in battle."

A supplement to the communiqué said the Germans had opened 25 field hospitals at Simferopol, north-east of Sevastopol in the Crimea, to handle the large number of wounded from Sevastopol.

The new blow in the Kursk sector came Sunday and the Russians said only that the Germans "had gone over to the offensive" there. The drive was pointed directly at Voronezh, 120 miles to the east, an important railway center 300 miles south of Moscow and about 400 miles north of Rostov, the gate to the Caucasus now held by the Russians.

The Russian winter offensive had failed to dislodge the Germans from Kursk and the Russian line in this region runs roughly north and south of the east of Kharkov, Kursk and Orel.

A German breakthrough east of Kursk would not only threaten vital Russian communications, but also could be maneuvered to bring the Russian forces in the Kharkov sector into reach of an encirclement movement from the north.

Dispatches from the Kharkov front said last week's German drive through Kupnyansk, 60 miles south-east of Kharkov, had been blunted and that Russian troops had taken the offensive, throwing tanks, planes and even an armored train into the battle. The Germans were retreating in some areas, the reports said.

Although admitting that the Germans "succeeded in somewhat pressing our units" in one sector of the bitter siege of Sevastopol, the Russians announced that "on all other sectors the enemy attacks were repulsed with enormous losses to him."

Of the four major spring thrusts initiated by the Germans into the occupation of the Kerch peninsula has been successfully concluded. Sevastopol still is fighting back and a succession of German drives on the Kharkov front has been dived and diverted, according to recent reports. The progress of the push (Continued on Page Four)

Raid Jap Bases

Allied Headquarters, Australia, June 29.—(AP)—Allied airmen in their most prolonged attack on the Japanese bases at Lae and Salamaua, on the northwest coast of New Guinea, harassed enemy troop positions for several hours during the night, it was announced today.

A communiqué from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters called the attack "a light, prolonged and harassing raid" and a spokesman added that it was the longest raid in that area.

The war bulletin also announced a night attack on the wharf area of Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, but details were not disclosed.

Explosive Devices Landed From A Nazi Sub

Nazi agents, landing on U. S. shores from a submarine, buried these explosive devices on a beach near Jacksonville, Fla., J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has announced. This FBI photo shows the contents of one box, including electric blasting caps, pen and pencil delay mechanisms, detonators, ampoules of acid, and other time delay devices.

Military Units Coming For Fourth July Rally

FARM LABOR IS DISCUSSED Fear Labor Shortage Might Cause Loss Of Tobacco

By CHESTER WALSH The tobacco crop in this county is rapidly ripening. Cropping and curing is now getting into full swing, a group of businessmen and farmers pointed out at a conference with city officials here today. They warned that unless ample labor to harvest the crop is available at once the tobacco crop will suffer. The reduction in production will result in depressed business conditions when the tobacco market opens.

It was developed at today's conference that there is ample labor—white and colored—in the county to house the tobacco crop if the people will work. Tobacco workers will be paid approximately 50 per cent more than last year.

Pitt County Needs More Scrap Rubber

W. L. Allen, chairman of the special rubber salvage committee, reports officially 144,776 pounds collected through last week. This much old rubber has already been delivered to the distributors by station operators. Several stations have not reported last week's collections. They should have an additional 20,000 pounds.

Mr. Allen urges everyone to make a special effort to bring in every pound of scrap rubber that can be found by tomorrow night when the drive ends.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

Things apparently weren't going well for the British in the battle for Egypt as this great engagement upon which so much of Allied hope depends, moved into this third day of fierce fighting.

Both Berlin and Rome claimed that Axis forces had occupied Matruh, the coastal stronghold to which the British right wing was anchored. Simultaneously a London military commentator said there was some reason for thinking

Gen. Robert E. Lee, Fort Bragg, to Deliver Address

General R. E. Lee, commanding officer 15th Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Bragg, will be the principal speaker at the July 4th Victory Day exercises to be held in Greenville. Accompanying General Lee to Greenville will be "B" Battery of the 36th Field Artillery and the 36th Field Artillery band. This Battery will bring with it four of the new 155-mm. Howitzers and the tractors which draw these Howitzers. They are the new army guns, and on Saturday afternoon after the parade the guns will be set up at various points, and demonstrations of handling the guns will be put on for the benefit of the general public.

General P. E. Weatherford of Fort Bragg will also probably be present for the exercises. The unit of the Engineers stationed in the local Army will take part in the parade, as will also the local unit of the State Guard.

June H. Rose, chairman of the committee on speakers and military units made the above report today, having spent Friday at Fort Bragg making final arrangements for these units. Captain MacGuire, commanding officer of "B" Battery of the 36th Field Artillery, will come to Greenville today and work out final details for the movement of the troops to this city. Mr. Rose also announced that in the afternoon some of the military units would go to Farmville to participate in the Farmville celebration in honor of General Hal Turnage.

The exercises in Greenville will take place from ten to twelve, and the exercises in Farmville will take place from two to four.

John G. Clark, general chairman of the Victory Day celebration has called a meeting of all members of the Victory Day committee for tonight at 8:30 in the Chamber of Commerce offices to work out all final plans.

The state dining room in the White House can seat 100 guests.

Registration

Washington, June 29.—(AP)—Uncle Sam tomorrow will register some 3,000,000 youths of the 18 to 26 year age group for possible military service under the Selective Service system. When that registration is completed, the government will have a record of about 43,000,000 men—every male in the country between 18 and 65 years of age.

SHIP SINKINGS NOW TOTAL 323

Entire Crew of 33 of One Ship Reported Lost

(By The Associated Press) Three more small merchant ships, a Norwegian, a Yugoslavian and an American have been sunk in the Atlantic, the Navy announced today, bringing the unofficial Associated Press toll of western Atlantic sinkings since Pearl Harbor to 323.

The Norwegian vessel went down first May 14 off the northern coast of South America, survivors at a Gulf coast port said, with a loss of two of the crew of 33. The survivors were picked up 25 miles away by the Yugoslav ship which was sunk the following day. Two out of 41 crew members were lost. Survivors of both ships have reached the United States.

Crew members said the same submarine sank both ships and re-provisioned itself with supplies from the sinking ships by raking in goods floating in the water.

Public Warned To Watch For Spies

Raleigh, June 29 (AP)—Aware that potential saboteurs have free access to North Carolina highways, Motor Vehicles Commissioner T. Boddie Ward today instructed the State Patrolmen to examine as many drivers' licenses as possible.

He reminded that patrolmen had been closely working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and that they on their own initiative had made multiple inquiries of suspected persons.

Examinations of drivers' licenses on the highways, Ward said, will give the patrolmen opportunity to study drivers and occupants of automobiles and, where advisable, to puff them through detailed examination.

The commissioner said that the State's many military camps and war plants made North Carolina particularly inviting to foreign agents and that unless due care was taken they would have opportunity to move about at will.

WAKE BOMBED BY U.S. PLANES ON SATURDAY

Damage To Air Field And Shore Installations Is Reported

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The Navy announced today that United States bombers had attacked Japanese-occupied Wake Island in the Pacific last Saturday, damaging the enemy's air field and various shore installations.

The Navy's communique, based on reports received up to 2 p.m. (E-WT) today, said:

"Central Pacific area: "1. U. S. bombers attacked Japanese-occupied Wake Island on June 27.

"2. Under favorable conditions of weather and visibility our planes, attacking in formation, damaged the air field and various shore installations.

"3. Enemy anti-aircraft and fighter defense was weak and, although one bomber suffered minor damage during the attack, all of our planes returned safely."

Tiny Wake Island, which overwhelmed enemy forces wrested from an American Marine garrison Dec. 23, is Japan's nearest base to the Hawaiian area. It is 2,000 nautical miles west of Pearl Harbor and little more than 1,000 miles southwest of Midway, the American outpost nearest Japanese territory.

The raid reported today was the second made by American aircraft on the atoll. Planes from a task force led by Vice Admiral William F. Halsey wiped out shore installations and some minor surface units Feb. 24.

It was considered probably by authorities here that American raiders on Saturday were looking for a concentration of enemy shipping of the sort which they found in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands raid Jan. 31 when they destroyed 16 ships as well as 41 planes and land works. If that was their hope, apparently they were disappointed since the communique mentioned no damage to shipping.

The blow also was interpreted here as a "nuisance raid" coupled with reconnaissance activity with the objective of keeping Wake Island unusable for the Japanese even though no effort was made to recapture it.

RUBBER DRIVE IS EXTENDED

Ickes Seizes White House Mat For Salvage

Washington, June 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt extended the rubber collection drive today for an additional ten days because collections through Saturday had brought in a disappointing total of 219,000 tons.

Originally scheduled to have ended at midnight tomorrow, the campaign now will continue through July 10.

The continuation was ordered up on the recommendation of Secretary Ickes, in his capacity as petroleum coordinator, and William R. Boyd, Sr., chairman of the Petroleum Industry War Council.

Speaking for Mr. Roosevelt, presidential secretary Stephen Early told reporters:

"In the face of the very serious needs for rubber, the total collection (Continued On Page Two)

House Committee Turns In Appropriation Bill

Additional Twenty Millions Cut From OPA Requests

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST Washington, June 29.—(AP)—The House Appropriations committee fired another financial salvo in the war program today, sending to the floor a $1,810,487,615 supply bill which it estimated would boost to approximately 228,000,000,000 the amount projected for national defense since June 1940.

The new bill carries funds for almost a score of war agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. Most of them have been operating in the past on emergency allocations.

While more than one-half the total, $1,100,000,000, is for the war shipping administration, a $75,000,000 item for Leon Henderson's Office of Price Administration was expected to be the only part of the bill over which a controversy of any consequence would develop.

The committee more than halved Henderson's original request and shaved $86,000,000 from the Budget Bureau's recommendation. To make certain the $75,000,000 would be all that Henderson's agency would have to spend during the new year, the committee wrote into the bill a restriction that the OPA funds "shall not be augmented by allocations or transfers of funds from any other appropriation."

The OPA item was almost certain to bring into the open the resentment that has been smoldering in some congressional quarters since Henderson began appointing state administrators "without consulting the patronage views of Capitol Hill House economy bloc leaders promptly announced they would seek to cut the $75,000,000 at least in half. The House Appropriations sub-committee recommended $36,000,000 but the full committee, on motion of Rep. Johnson (D-Okl.) (Continued on Page Six)

Gasoline Users To Register July 9-11

Gasoline users must register again on July 9, 10 and 11 for the permanent coupon rationing system which became effective July 22, the Pitt County Rationing Board has announced.

After July 22 gasoline dealers may only secure new supplies by turning in consumer coupons for what they have sold.

Announce July War Bond Quotas

Washington, June 29 (AP)—New York State will be asked to buy $171,596,000 of War Bonds in July, slightly more than one-sixth of the national quota of $1,000,000,000, Secretary Morgenthau announced today.

Quotas by states include: North Carolina, $12,153,000; Pitt county's quota will be $229,700.

Opening Exercises Held Girl Scout Camp Sunday

By CHESTER WALSH Formal opening of Camp Hardee, Girl Scout camp on Pamlico river, below Washington, Sunday was an outstanding event in Eastern Carolina, honoring Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hardee of Norfolk, Va., who donated $10,000 for the camp buildings. The "thank exercises" for the Norfolk philanthropist appeared to be a christening when a violent thunder storm, with a tropical downpour of rain, sent the assemblage to cover in the main building, one of the best camp site structures in the State.

The rains came in torrents and were welcomed for saving millions of dollars worth of crops. "The spirit of the Girl Scouts never can be dampened," Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Girl Scout commissioner, and master of ceremonies, stated. Mayor B. B. Suggs, of Greenville, congratulated the Girl Scouts on their good work and said Mr. Hardee, who wanted to do something for his home town, could have found no other way to touch more hearts and do more good for the community (Continued on Page Four)

Nazis Drive Deeper Into Nile Valley

Anchor Of British Defense Line Fell Into Axis Hands Today; Heavy Fighting Over Wide Area; Alexandria Bombed By Axis Planes; U. S. Planes In Fight

By EDWARD KENNEDY Cairo, June 29.—(AP)—

Continuous and heavy fighting raged on today in a wild melee of men and machines over an ever-broadening battlefield around and south-east of Matruh, main British bastion 175 miles west of Alexandria.

(Both Berlin and Rome announced the capture of Matruh together with 6,000 British troops and there was little doubt in London that their claims were true.)

Many newly arrived planes, including those of the United States Air Corps, were thrown into the battle to help stem the Axis tide.

The German struggle has been in progress without a break since Saturday afternoon, when an Axis armoured column, after a week's falling advantage of the glass of the sun in the defenseless west, struck at positions northwest of Matruh.

"Matruh" bombed today, the full force of his forces against the British at 5 p. m. Saturday—his favorite hour for launching attacks to the east.

Contacts And Associates of Saboteurs Arrested

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight Nazi spy-saboteurs larded by U-boats on the east coast was announced last night by the FBI, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the startling case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20,000 increasing the total of "pay-off" money carried by the saboteurs to $170,000.

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl J. Connelley, assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in announcing the new roundup 24 hours after Hoover had revealed the capture of the agents bent on a two-year campaign of destruction against the American war effort.

Some arrests of the suspected accomplices were made in Chicago, and some here. Those here were believed to have been German people among a group of German people living on Long Island not far from the deserted beach at Amagansett, where the first group of four Nazi terrorists landed June 13.

Smart Pilot

Somewhere in Australia, June 29.—(A7)—Destruction of two Japanese Zero (Naval) planes in an anti-aircraft barrage after an allied pilot had saved them from point-blank range was described today by a member of the gun battery.

The pilot was on patrol when the Zero swooped down on him from a cloudbank. Unable to shake them off, he started for home.

With Zero repeatedly firing at him, the pilot went into a power dive toward a clump of trees he knew contained the battery.

The Zero missed down for the kill and the anti-aircraft gunners held their fire until the last moment.

"We spotted them while open at 500 yards," a gunner said.

Christian Science Service. "Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, June 28. The golden text was from I Peter 2:1-2. "Laying aside all malice, and all guile, the hypocrites, and envies, and all evil speakings, as newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope." (Rom. 15:4). The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Christian Science, understood, coincides with the Scriptures, and sustains logically and demonstratively every point it presents. Otherwise it would not be Science, and could not present its proofs. It presents the calm and clear verdict of Truth against error, uttered and illustrated by the prophets, by Jesus, by his apostles, as is recorded throughout the Scriptures."

George Foster Pratt officiating.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was rendered by J. Marshall Nutting, organist, and John Van Nye, vocalist.

The bride is a graduate of Needham Broughton High School and attended Saint Mary's Junior College. She is a member of the Junior Woman's Club of Raleigh.

The bridegroom was graduated from Needham Broughton High School in 1938 and later attended the University of North Carolina. He took his basic flight preparation at Hemet, Calif. After completing his primary training at Merced Field, he finished his advanced training at Stockton. He has been stationed in Charlotte.

Mrs. White is the granddaughter of Mrs. Nannie D. Holloman of this city. Her mother was formerly Miss Gladys Bagwell of Greenville.

Birthday Party for Mrs. Hoell.

A charming social event of the week was the surprise party given Friday evening when Mrs. Dan White and Miss Martha Hoell entertained complimenting Mrs. Lela Belle Hoell on the occasion of her birthday. The party was given at the home of the honoree in Grimesland, and during the early evening Mrs. Hoell had been invited to the home of a friend ostensibly to play bridge. After guests had assembled, she was asked to return home to discuss business matters with her employer. As she entered the living room, lighted by candles which burned upon the birthday cake, she was greeted with the traditional birthday song and best wishes. The room was beautifully decorated with quantities of mixed summer flowers, predominantly gladioli, verbena and Queen Ann's lace, and the mantel was flanked by tall candles in holders of silver. The white spread gift table, arranged in the living room, was centered with the white frosted birthday cake decorated with pink candles and many lovely remembrances, which were opened and displayed and placed around the centerpiece. A patriotic motif was carried out in the dainty tally cards passed prior to bridge, and the honor guest's chair was draped with an American flag. Table numbers were miniature flags on military mounds. At the conclusion of games, Mrs. Hoell, high scorer, was presented a make-up kit, and the score high score award, a breakfast set was won by Mrs. Clinton Elks. The prize for the most games bid and made in hearts, a kitchen memorandum, was awarded Mrs. Ethel Tucker. Mrs. Lloyd Whichard was also remembered with a special gift. Salted nuts were on the tables during refreshments. Delicious refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, tomato sandwiches, pickles and iced tea were served, and each plate was marked by small American flags.

Guests were: Mrs. Hoell, Mrs. Hick Galloway, Mrs. F. A. Elks, Mrs. W. F. Galloway, Mrs. Ethel Tucker, Mrs. Casper Galloway, Mrs. Lloyd Whichard, Mrs. Raymond Elks, Miss Jennie Neuby Outlaw, Mrs. Clinton Elks, Mrs. Maybelle Godley, Mrs. Paul Midyette, Mrs. J. J. Elks of Grimesland, and Mrs. Gilbert Hale of Washington.

Library News

Bombs, Boys, Books
In these days when we are mostly concerned with bombs and soldier boys, we should not forget about books, particularly books of an informative nature. For good books are a stabilizing influence. Really, it is good psychology to forget worries and concentrate on books. The mind can feed on books of essential information while it can't thrive on unpleasant thoughts.

Every month or so now a splendid book on the current situation is published. Some are worth the while of everyone's notice, especially those coming forward with a perspective of the aftermath of war, and dealing with plans for peace, security and progress. And even though it is well-nigh impossible to have a historical viewpoint of present world affairs when we are a part and parcel of the unfolding events, it is well to ponder over these books. Remembering too, the mistakes of the quickly gotten up peace treaties of other wars, we ought to be greatly interested in what is in the minds of our great thinkers concerning future peace and the world of tomorrow. For A. Lincoln once said, "I will could first know where we are and whether we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it."

Attesting of the fact that Americans are interested in the making of tomorrow is the featuring of the leading article in the New York Times Book Review, Anne O'Hara McCormick's review of Hugh Gibson and Herbert Hoover's new book bearing on this subject, "The Problems of Lasting Peace." This reviewer considers these men well-qualified to speak of the rebuilding of the world because of other varied experiences in World War I. Since the review is rather lengthy, it becomes a short synopsis of the book tersely put. The book will no doubt be widely read in the North and the West.

The Shepard Memorial Library has three new books along this line of planning for the morrow that ought to be interesting to laymen. They are:

"The Making of Tomorrow," by Raoul de Roussy de Sales—A scrutiny of our way of life. In part an interpretation of our way of life. And it is more than this. It is an analysis of the way of life of the whole western world which is now at war with the totalitarian states. The book attempts to draw together into an understandable pattern the various ideas and ideals which go to make up our scheme of thinking and the way they have grown to their present state. By drawing these ideas together he has inevitably pointed out certain significant trends for the future which all of us, if we are to survive, must consider.

"New Adventures in Democracy" by Ordway Tead—This book bears directly on three of the most crucial areas of possible democratic behavior—education, public service and industry. The unity of theme and purpose which runs through the entire volume makes it one of the most stimulating discussions for all citizens of a democracy—particularly, of course, for Americans.

"Latin America" by Preston E. James—A fine interpretation of our neighbors to the south. The reader finishes the book with clear ideas about the Latin American countries, what their trends may be and what they may mean to us as neighbors and allies.

(Continued from Page One) leaders were conferring on the farm labor situation in the City Hall today, Judge J. W. H. Roberts was presiding over the Recorder's court upstairs and finding numerous Negro men and women guilty of working at the same time drawing unemployment compensation.

Arnold F. Barwick, manager of the State Employment office here, informed a recent farm labor meeting here that the Farm Security Board would probably send in farm workers from upstate points where the tobacco will not ripen until later. If this is done tent colonies will be provided in districts for the workers. Local and federal agencies are cooperating to provide the necessary farm labor.

Pitt county high school boys and girls are offering to work at the tobacco barns, June H. Rose, school official, stated.

At today's farm labor conference with city officials the chief of police was called. He was ordered to strictly enforce the vagrancy laws requiring persons to have visible means of support. A businessman reminded that numbers of men loaf on the city streets every day; that many women who had always worked received the impression that during the war loafers are going to be looked on with the same contempt that Americans hold for German spies.

"When you see people loafing at home, you may know that they are expecting the white and colored soldiers in the army to do all the work. This war will be won just as much at home as on the battlefronts," a leading businessman said.

All persons willing to work on the farms curing and housing tobacco should contact the Unemployment office on Fifth street, opposite the high school.

They came ashore in a rubber boat with their store of money and explosives, together with lists of key railroad centers, bridges and war plants which Hoover said they planned to blow up. They also were equipped with forged selective service and social security cards, Hoover said.

Similarly equipped was the group of four which landed at Ponte Vedra beach near Jacksonville, Fla., June 17, Hoover said, listing them as Edward John Kerling, 28, group leader; Herbert Haupt, 22; Werner Thiel, 35, and Herman Neubauer, 32.

Ship Sinkings . . .

(Continued from Page One) 24 with 23 men rescued, three missing. Their ship settled slowly, crew members said, and they were able to leave in a leisurely fashion. They were rescued 20 minutes later and landed the following day at an east coast port.

The entire 33-man crew of one of three American merchantmen announced by the Navy yesterday as having been sunk perished when the vessel, "a flaming mass," went down in the Gulf of Mexico June 22.

Air and surface rescue craft racing to the spot where a column of smoke had been sighted found only a life preserver bearing the name of the ship and an empty, small boat. No distress call had been sent and the manner of attack was not learned to explain the end of this medium-sized cargo vessel.

The other sinkings announced yesterday took the lives of 39 of 79 seamen aboard the vessels, both of which were attacked several weeks ago hundreds of miles from land, one far out in the Atlantic and the other in the Caribbean.

From the skipper of an American vessel torpedoed recently in the Caribbean came a report that Nazi submarines were attempting to capture masters of stricken ships and take them to Germany as prisoners.

JAP MIDWAY LOSSES HEAVY

Latest Reports Show At Least Ten Ships Were Sunk

By EUGENE BURNS
Pearl Harbor, T. H., June 28 (AP)—The defeat of the Japanese invasion fleet off Midway Island was even worse than first reported.

The Navy, waiting until it had rounded up all the reports and checked them, flatly wrote off as Japanese losses: The aircraft carrier Akagi, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Kaga, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Soryu, 10,000 tons; the aircraft carrier Kiryu, 10,000 tons; two heavy cruisers, probably the 8,500 ton Mogami and the 8,500 ton Mikuma; three destroyers and a reaching New Orleans after his ship was sunk that all ship captains were marked men as during the last war when he said capture and imprisonment of veteran masters was a regular practice of U-boats operating the Atlantic.

The sub that sank his ship stayed around the scene for several hours trying to get information from survivors about the skipper, Captain Fagen said, and "they even flashed a light in our faces in the hope they would recognize me."

Two Mexican tankers sunk within two hours Saturday 50 miles off the Mexican coast were among the last week's submarine toll of 28 reported losses.

The Caribbea area was hardest hit in point of sinkings announced during the week. It reported victims swelling that area's war toll of losses to 101.

That added up to at least 10 ships sent to the bottom in the big sea-air battle earlier this month off Midway. The definite report of four carriers sunk contrasted with tentative reports on June 16 of "two and possibly three." The same reports listed only one other Jap ship as definitely sunk, a destroyer.

The loss of 10 likewise was in sharp contrast with Japanese admissions that only one ship, a carrier, went down.

The navy, summarizing the losses in a communique issued yesterday, said that a fourth destroyer very probably was sunk and that considerable damage was wrought on two or three battleships, three or four other heavy cruisers, a light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels. Another transport or cargo ship was listed as probably sunk.

Civil Air Patrol Playing Important Part In War Effort

VARIED TASKS PERFORMED BY ORGANIZATION

New Courier Service Is Big Help to War Industries

By BILL BONI
Wide World Military Editor
Washington, June 26—The civil air patrol, whose light planes and civilian pilots already have turned in valuable work on coastal patrol against submarines, is leaping into another breach with all the enthusiasm that can be generated by upward of 50,000 volunteers organized in squadrons, wings and groups in all of the 48 states.

Since the army took over control of the nation's airlines and much of their equipment, and with the country in a stew over the air carrier problem, the cap has instituted a courier service which, in many respects, bears the same relation to the main commercial routes as does auxiliary truck service to railroad operations.

But it goes even beyond that in making vital time-saving contributions to a war program in which time is the one main essential.

Under the supervision of Garnet W. Hughes, executive officer of the New York wing, an economic survey was made for a Long Island war production plant which had frequent calls for small shipments of parts, tools and other materials, and got them by truck, motorcycle or private car.

In one month 286 such trips made covering 14,700 miles, involving 422 hours spent in transit, and costing $1,700. The cap estimated it could save the mileage to $11,040, reduce the time-in-transit to 150 hours, and operate at less than half the previous cost. The cap now has been entrusted with these missions.

A New Jersey shell loading plant has to send samples of all its new "runs" to the nearest U. S. army proving ground and can't continue production until the sample is given okayed. The cap now makes these deliveries, and production has been speeded appreciably.

In the six months of its organization it already has branched out into many fields. Cap planes have flown army officers on short hops where military planes were not available and fast transportation was necessary.

Notably in Georgia and the Carolinas, Cap planes have aided the U. S. forest service in locating forest fires and taking fire-fighting officers on survey flights which enabled them to map out their plans.

Great lakes shipping through the Detroit river was speeded up this spring because Michigan Cap planes brought in daily reports on the break-up of the winter ice jams.

Two planes of the Arkansas wing flew 50,000 sugar rationing cards to boards in outlying counties. An Oregon aerial searching party under wing commander Capt. Leo G. DeWally by mid-morning located an enemy bomber that had disappeared on a night flight.

Units in the southeast and elsewhere have helped the army and navy locate potential secondary air fields, away from major bases, where aircraft could be dispersed in case of enemy bombing raids.

For security reasons the army and navy will release no specific information on what the Cap is accomplishing in submarine patrol.

It is known, however, that these accomplishments have been considerable, at least in keeping the U-boats below the surface—even in the case of the pilot who, sent out on his first flight armed with a secret code in which to report any enemy periscopes, suddenly saw a surface dead ahead of him and burst into his microphone, "Holy smoke, a submarine!"

Carver Library News

Vacation time is here. Reading books provides many happy hours for children. A reading club has been organized at the Carver Library for children of the city and county as a whole. On September 1st three prizes will be given to the three children who read the highest number of books over twenty-one. On last Thursday afternoon the children of the club gathered on the library lawn and listened to very interesting stories told by Miss F. L. Rich. Several of the children gave their book reports also. The club meets each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 5:00 to six o'clock.

Books to suit the interest of both children and adults are included in our collection of new books. A short list of such books are as follows:

"General McArthur, Fighter For Freedom," by Francis T. Miller; "Ricks, Ricks, Dicks, and Next Door Girl," by Lindman; "Grow Your Own Vegetables," by Dempsey; "St. Peter Relates An Incident," by James Weldon Johnson; "Feeding the Family," by Mary S. Rose; "Mothly Came Instead," by Ann Todd; "First Air Text Book," American Red Cross.

Be sure to visit our war information center at the Carver Library. Hours 2 to 7 o'clock daily except Sunday.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

COMMON SENSE IN PRAYER

What can we expect to get as a result of prayers?

Some people have quite infantile ideas on this subject. A woman tells how as a little girl she lost faith in prayer. She and her brother, when they were both very young children, broke a bottle of vanilla one day. They had been warned not to touch it, and the catastrophe had come about because of deliberate disobedience. When the bottle fell to the floor, the horrified children stared for a moment at the broken glass, and then the little girl, grasping her brother by the arm, pushed him down on his knees. "Pray," she commanded. "Pray that the vanilla bottle isn't broken."

They prayed desperately. When they got back to the house and found their prayers had not been answered, their disappointment was so great that this grown woman in her young years could say, "That ended prayer for me."

It was a tragedy, but it was a stupid tragedy. That a woman of mature years should allow a circumstance such as this to destroy her belief in prayer is inconceivable. For some people prayer consists of conjuring a great magician to grant favors. True prayer means loving petition which a child in need sends up to a Heavenly Father.

If people would put as much common sense into their praying as they do into other things in life, their praying would be much more satisfactory.

The people of Pitt County will have the opportunity next Saturday to participate in two patriotic celebrations, one here Saturday morning and one in Farmville Saturday afternoon. These celebrations will include military and civilian defense displays to acquaint our people with what is going on and to impress upon them the fact that we are engaged in a war and that everyone has a part to play. We urge the citizens of our county to attend one or both of these celebrations Saturday.

Tomorrow is registration day for all youth between 18 and 20 years under the Selective Service law. If there are such youths in your community whom you think might not be aware of the registration you will be rendering them and your country a service by seeing to it that they go to the nearest registration place and enroll tomorrow.

Someone has said that the weather is a poor subject of conversation, but such a rain as the one we had yesterday, coming at a time when all our crops needed rain so badly, is certainly something worth talking about. The downpour, no doubt, was worth millions of dollars to this immediate section of the state.

There still seems to be a divided opinion in Washington as to whether the gas rationing in the eastern states is because of the shortage in the area or for the purpose of saving tires. If it is the latter, we don't see why making the program nation-wide isn't in order.

Just what action the government will take regarding the recently arrested German saboteurs has not yet been announced, but to our way of thinking they should be tried by a military court and given the death penalty if guilty. Nothing short of killing is too good for any persons who would hinder our war effort at this time, whether they be American or foreign citizens.

Washington — To the laymen of 47 states and the territories, the name of Rep. Robert Ramspeck of Georgia, the new House Democratic whip, may not ring the bell of memory, but he probably is the best known man in Congress to more than 2,000,000 government workers.

creases and retirement pay. Mainly through his efforts, with the help of such senators as O'Mahoney and Mendel, 90 per cent of the government workers now hold their positions under the civil service merit system and are free from those vast patronage upheavals which used to follow every change of administration.

It was an uphill fight and certainly NOT a very popular one. Every time he extended the civil service act, he cut off a juicy slice of his colleagues' patronage.

By all rights, he should be a most unpopular man. But the fact that "Bob" Ramspeck (no one knows him by any other name) was appointed to succeed the extremely competent late Rep. Pat Boland of Pennsylvania as party whip proves otherwise. His appointment makes him the No. 3 party man in the House, rating only below Speaker Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack, and will put him in line eventually for a shot at the speakership.

Proof of the confidence of his party colleagues is found also in his appointment on the heels of the mis-called "pensions" bill furore. Ramspeck was the author of the original bill and as such it was about as harmless a security measure as ever put in its appearance, merely making it possible for the congressmen to pay, during incumbency, for retirement benefits out of their own pockets.

The appointment came, too, after Ramspeck had been handed the tally of another highly controversial bill. Management of the proposal for time-and-a-half pay over 40 hours for government workers is undaunted by that, Ramspeck has introduced his own measure—a $300 a year bonus for the majority of government workers during wartime.

The job of party whip is a vital one. It's up to him to see that all members are present for the vote on important legislation; to know just how the vote is going to be on all measures and to keep the leader informed of that division.

Boland had raised the job to one of high efficiency, dividing his work among "assistant whips" who could in a short time check the majority party opinion on almost any measure. Ramspeck already has said that he is carrying on the Boland system.

In appearance, Ramspeck is a quiet, studious-looking, pleasant southerner. He has spent 31 of his 52 years in city, state and federal government work. Watching over voting machinery in the House will be nothing new to Ramspeck. News-men on the Hill and many of his colleagues have been running to Ramspeck more and more in recent years to find out which way the wind was blowing. He nearly always knew, too.

The WAR TODAY

Word that the battle had spread to the southeast of Maturah made it clear that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel was trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress. There is danger that Hitler may choose this critical moment to employ his air force either to strengthen Rommel's striking power or to try a lightning invasion of Syria with air-borne troops. Thus far, the Fuehrer's winged might on the rocky isle of Crete and on the neighboring Greek mainland has remained mysteriously quiescent.

The Greek government-in-exile stated in London today that the Nazis have moved thousands of troops by air into Crete this month and also have considerably increased their air force. Crete is certainly the breeding ground of trouble for the Allies in the Near and Middle East.

We are told that the British have been receiving land reinforcements in Egypt to deal with Rommel's offensive. One hopes that these troops didn't come from Syria, since the weakening of the Allied defense in that country would be an invitation to Hitler to strike there.

There is some satisfaction in the fact that Rommel's supply problem becomes more difficult as he advances. His line of communication is thinly drawn along the endless coastal highway that runs back across Libya to his sources. Already he is 500 miles from his principal base at Benghazi, and if his supplies there should become exhausted he probably would have to go back more than 500 miles to the big Axis base at Tripoli.

One of the most cheering dispatches of the week-end was an Associated Press report from Alexandria that during the past fortnight not a single Axis supply ship had been able to reach Benghazi owing to intense British submarine activity. Meantime British and American bombers have been blasting at Rommel's lifeline.

More Govern't Jobs Awaiting Applicants

The U. S. Civil Service Commission today issued a new announcement for custodian officers, junior grade, and modified its requirements for junior public health nurse. It also extended until further notice of the acceptance of applications for radio monitoring officer, $2,600 and $3,200 a year, and for bindery operatives for the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

Chapter Ten
"No Pictures, No Details"
Lieutenant Bacon of the homicide squad was a stiff-backed, graying veteran with shrewd gray eyes and a matter-of-fact way of talking that was deceptive.

"What else do you know about that guy?" he asked.
Kent Murdock replaced the telephone. "Nothing. I've already told you. I only met him last night."

"Tell me again, then," Bacon said, rolling the cigar between his lips with apparent relish.
"He married his first wife," Murdock said. "Three or four years ago, but I never knew that until yesterday."

"How did she shape up to you?" "Like a rat."
"He did, huh?" Bacon sucked smoke and made some signal to his blocky assistant, Sergeant Keogh, who brought out a note-book. "And he was at the Lomax woman's party this afternoon, and you were there, and your wife, and Dean Thorndike, and this Ward Allen and his girl. Who else?"

"John Nason was there," Murdock said.
"Keogh was writing all this down and he said the lawyer guy who used to be a purchasing agent for the Germans. Who else?"

Murdock went over near the door and picked up his camera.
"No wait a minute," Bacon said. "I told you no pictures."
Murdock opened his plate case and found a flashlight. "That's before you found out I could help."

"That makes no difference," Bacon said. "I told you no pictures and—"
"Okay," Murdock shrugged. "No pictures, no details."
He screwed the flashlight in the synchronized flashlight and waited dark eyes steady, a grin tipping his mouth. Actually he did not particularly care whether he got any pictures or not. The less publicity the better, considering those involved—and yet, it was his job. If he did not take them now he never would have the chance; if he did, he would have them in case they were needed.

Bacon was growling, now. "You can be made to talk."
"You always say that."
"I know you're not. I can be made to talk—later."

Sergeant Keogh was watching them. So was the fingerprint man and police photographer, both grinning covertly. Bacon made a snorting sound.

"Ah—nuts. One of these days I'm gonna—" He choked off, turning away, turned back quickly, pointing the stogie. "But just one, understand?"

Murdock was adjusting shutter and focus. "Over by the body," he said. "You and the Sergeant. Block off a little, will you, and try and look interested...."

All right," Bacon said when it was over. He was still growling, but without force. "Now who else was at that cocktail party?"

Murdock told him. That he was here at all had been largely a matter of chance. On his way home from the Courier-Herald he had passed within a block of police headquarters and on a hunch had stopped in to see if Bacon was on duty. A well-known labor organizer had been murdered three days previous and he had wanted to know if anything new had developed. As a result of his curiosity, he had been in Bacon's office when the telephone call came.

He put away his camera as he finished talking and took a turn about the room, which was a typical furnished apartment layout with a few new-worn-over-stuffed pieces. The fingerprint man was again busy with his camel's hair brushes and powders; so was the photographer. Throughout the building a couple of plain-clothes men were questioning tenants in an effort to find out who had tipped off the police.

At the arrival of the medical examiner, the body had not been touched, and Murdock circled over to it.
His profession had accustomed him to the sight of death, yet he could seldom look upon it dispassionately, and there was something about the still figure on the floor that stirred him. Still clad in the gray flannel trousers, Perry Clarke lay flat on his back a few feet from the door, his feet pointing towards it. He wore a heavy silk house-jacket and underneath this a pearl gray vest which had been unbuttoned.

Both this and the shirt were blood-soaked and there were two or three small stains along the front of the trousers, extending to the knee. One thing which became at once apparent after close inspection of the vest was that the position of the two tiny holes proved that this garment had been opened after the man had been shot.

"Hey, look!"
Next Door
The fingerprint man was standing by the doorway to the inner hall, pointing to something in the wooden frame. "Here's your slug. One of 'em anyway."

Murdock went over with Bacon and Keogh. About three feet from the floor and half buried in the oak wood was a bullet.

"Good," Bacon said. "Cut it out and don't scratch it. The other one's in his hip."
The fingerprint man dropped to one knee and, when the door opened and he walked a dapper, middle-aged man clad in Chesterfield and black Homburg. He wore thick-lensed glasses and a mustache, and in on hand was a leather bag which he promptly dropped on a chair.

"Hello," he said to the room at large.
"Hello, Doc," Bacon said. "Sorry to get you out—"
"Bah!" said the examiner's physicians. "You did me a favor." He slid out of his coat, removed the one underneath and rolled up his sleeve. "Yes, sir, and in the nick of time, I'd just bid four no-trump and my wife laid down her hand, and you should have seen it. I'd've been lucky to take six tricks...."

Bacon and Keogh moved up as the doctor knelt beside the body. Murdock sat down again, trying to remember what Joyce had told him about the meeting of Perry Clarke and Ward Allen the night before. Even then, he realized, she had been troubled by Allen's reaction; now with the added complication of murder Murdock was more worried about the affair than he liked to admit. Perry Clarke had been in Caragua—Allen had been in Caragua....

"Who opened the vest, Lieutenant?"
The doctor had paused in his inspection to ask the question and there was a note of asperity in his voice.
"I wish I knew," Bacon said.
"It was like this when you found him, huh?"

Bacon nodded and looked up as the doctor opened and a burly six-footer entered.
"Yes, Malloy."
"Got something I'd like to show you," the plain-clothes man said.
Bacon went to the door and Murdock tagged along behind Keogh. "We can't find anybody that called or heard the shot," Malloy said. "There's four apartments on a floor. The one next to this—he gestured toward the front of the building—'But this one—I want to show you.'"

Success Of Church Up To The People

By WYATT BROWN
"Some people today say the church is an ineffective institution," posed Reverend George W. Perry yesterday morning in his sermon at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church.

"They fail to see that the church holds that it is possible to become more Christ-like."

In opening his sermon Mr. Perry quoted a remark made by J. F. H. Rose during the Sunday School worship program to the effect that Hitler did not close the churches in Europe—the people did it. "So long as people love the church, they will stand by it and before they see it closed," commented Mr. Perry in a ringing challenge to his congregation.

"There are people who do not believe in the church. In many lands many people, many of them, have grown hoarse speaking. If those who speak could have the cooperation of those who listen, the church of God would grow and grow. If the mother—the church—is neglected, the child—Sunday School—will die. If there ever was a time the church of God was needed it is today. If people had adhered to the church, we could have avoided this wholesale bloodshed today."

"It is most difficult to be still in the rush and hurry of today's life. They will not be in a hurry to busy. We have so many things to do—I am not sure we are any busier than our fathers were."

"People in church come there on business—to become better acquainted with Jesus Christ. In every church there is somebody seeking Jesus Christ. What are we doing about it?" queried Mr. Perry with a beseeching question.

In commenting upon the query Mr. Perry remarked how most people seem to be in a hurry to get out of the church as quickly as they can. And how the preacher is gently reminded if his sermon runs three minutes over.

"If the people come to church deeply concerned with the souls of men, they will not be in a hurry. If churches have no interest in the souls of men, I will have nothing to do with." Mr. Perry declared vehemently.

At this point Mr. Perry introduced the idea George Herbert Moore advanced that God has to put up with humans as well as humans have to try to suit Him. Then he posed another question—his text: "Do we know Him?"

"We know about Jesus and His ministry but how many know about Him and life eternal?"
"Could you say today I know that is Jesus, the son of God? Did you get ready for church this morning with the same enthusiasms that you go to your work?" questioned Mr. Perry further.

In a few words Mr. Perry brought out now people find it too hot for church but next day mention at the office how much cooler it is. He said that it would not cool men off to go to church with a picture of an iceberg in their minds.

"The thing that cools men in the church of God is lack of knowledge in Jesus Christ. It never becomes too hot for one who knows Jesus Christ to share Him. Do you believe in a God who hears and answers prayers?"

"When you pray for some erring person they are better for it. How many of you pray for unfortunates in prison just like as if you were there? Those who are tempted are helped with prayer," he said.

With a few telling strokes he brought out the difference of praying for one's own child in danger and praying for someone else.

"Preachers go into the pulpit not expecting anything to happen. We have grown into habit of not expecting, so we are not disappointed. The explanation is that we have an intellectual knowledge of Jesus."

"Becoming witnesses for Jesus Christ, God or one who will let Him," declared Mr. Perry in conclusion.

Germans Begin ...

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), June 29—(AP)—The high command announced today that German and Rumanian troops have forced a crossing of the Tchernaja valley and infiltrated to Sapah hill at Sevastopol.

The German communique said from June 7-28 the besiegers of Sevastopol captured 15,687 Russians and 2,579 bunkers and destroyed or captured 221 guns, 462 trench mortars and 112,644 mines.

A special high command announcement that a big Russian force had been pinched off below Leningrad with high losses in men and weapons and an official report of the second meeting between Adolf Hitler and Finnish Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim shifted German attention today to the northern front.

The Germans had received no advanced preparation for either announcement and the news shunted even the great battles of Libya, Sevastopol and the Ukraine out of front-page prominence in the German press.

The Germans said yesterday that the Russians had lost all of one army, the second, and parts of the 52nd and 59th armies on the Volkhov front 75 miles southeast of Leningrad.

It indicated that the coup de grace was struck only a few hours before the special bulletin was issued.

The Russians, it said, lost 82,750

Yanks Mauled By Chicago White Sox In Double-Header

DODGERS SPLIT DOUBLE-BILL WITH THE REDS

Yankees Two Best Pitchers Go Down Before Sox

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
It begins to look as if the New York Yankees, expected by many to be naming a starting pitcher for the World Series by the fourth of July, won't even be in first place at that fast approaching stage of the campaign if they don't pull out of their current spin.

Kicked around at three stops out of four on their two-weeks swing to the West, the Yanks hit bottom yesterday when the Chicago White Sox mauled them twice, 6-2, 13-1. Not only did the sixth-place White Sox sting the champions of the world with their first double defeat of the year, but they did it at the expense of topnotch pitchers, Red Ruffing and Ernie Bonham.

As a result, the Yankee lead shrank to five and half games and would have dropped to four and a half if the Cleveland Indians had not become fed up with the treatment they were receiving from the second-place Boston Red Sox and salvaged the final contest of a four-game series.

To make matters worse for the Yankees, Manager Joe McCarthy was put to bed with a recurrence of the internal ailment that plagued him last season and wasn't able to leave with the team last night for Philadelphia.

Ted Lyons out-pitched Ruffing in the first game, scattering eight hits, putting his team ahead to stay with a two-run double and drawing even with the Yankees hurler's lifetime record of 251 triumphs.

After pounding Ruffing for 14 hits, the White Sox landed on Bonham in the seventh inning, driving him off the mound and continuing their assault with six more hits off Norma Branch and Johnny Lindell. Red Rolfe made his first appearance fielding this year when Phil Rizzuto twisted a knee in the second game. Rolfe went to third and Frank Crossetti moved to Rizzuto's shortstop post.

At Cleveland, the Red Sox took the first game, 8-3, by scoring all their runs in the fifth inning, but the Indians took the second when pinch-hitter Chubby Dean singled the winning run across for a 3-2 decision.

Dom DiMaggio led the scoring spree against starter Jim Bagby and two relievers in the opener, driving in three runs with a triple and a single.

The Detroit Tigers also split a pair with the Philadelphia Athletics and missed a chance to climb over the Indians into third place. Hal Newhouser pitched three-hit ball in enacting a 3-2 decision for the Tigers, but Luman Harris blanked them on five hits in the afterpiece, 3-0.

Washington's Senators nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 14-13 and 7-6, in a pair of games that saw 13 pitchers bombarded for 60 hits, including 18 doubles, two triples and two home runs. Vern Stephens of the Browns collected four doubles and three singles in 12 times at bat, hitting five-for-five in the nightcap.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders of the National League, narrowly escaped the Yankees fate when Joe Medwick tripled to give them a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in the second game after the Reds had bagged the opener, 6-3.

Paul Derringer pitched five-hit ball in the first as the Reds chased Whitlow Wyatt and kept up a 6-hit barrage. Larry French gained credit for his eighth victory without a defeat when he replaced Kirby Hiebe in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

Seven home runs carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a double victory over the New York Giants, 8-7 and 9-3. Elbie Fletcher's four-bagger in the ninth inning decided the first game after the Giants and tied the score four times.

Tommy Hughes pitched the Philadelphia Phils to a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 15 innings, going all the way and yielding only ten hits, but the Cards took

Jeanne Hits Dead To The Pin

Jeanne Cline, 18-year-old golfer from Bloomington, Ill., sends one dead to the pin at the Elmhurst Country Club, Chicago, where she met Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., in the semi-final matches of the Women's Western Open Golf tournament. Jeanne advanced to the semi-finals by a surprise 2 and 1 victory over Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., in the quarter-finals.

Fight Features Piedmont Game

Charlotte, June 28.—(AP)—Everybody was swinging with their fists—yesterday in the final game of a Charlotte-Durham Piedmont league series but nobody was hurt as Glenn Moulder pitched a five-hit 3 to 1 victory for the Durham Bulls.

The free-for-all followed a protest by Manager Harry Smythe of the Hornets in the seventh frame, when the Bulls were leading 1 to 0, on the ground that Durham had more than the allowed 16 players in uniform and on the bench.

Words between Smythe and Manager Bruno Betzel of the Bulls were followed by a personal encounter and soon players from both sides were in action. A later flare-up between Betzel and Eddie Lyons, Hornets second-sacker, resulted in both being banished.

In the actual playline Wels, the Bulls' heavy-hitting shortstop, got three for four.

The Bulls thus were just one percentage point out of a tie for fifth place as the Asheville Tourists lost a twin bill to the Richmond Colts, 4 to 1 and 3 to 0.

The Colts, riding a six-game winning streak, gave the Tourists lacings which gave warnings to other clubs that they mean business as they moved closer on the heels of the Greensboro Red Sox.

In the opener Russell Gantz and Julio Acosta combined for a seven-inning no-hit win as second baseman Grotev got three for three.

Dewey Wilkins turned in his second straight shut-out to boost his wins to five against two losses as he allowed the Tourists only two hits in the nightcap. Olmo, Colt rightfielder, hammered in the first frame to drive in one run.

Old Tony Lazer's league leading Portsmouth Cubs continued their winning ways by blanking the Red Sox, 4 to 0.

Woody Johnson, in racking up his tenth win against three defeats, allowed the Red Sox seven scattered blows, one of them a three-bagger by Lee Mohr.

It was the third win in a row for the Cubs over Greensboro. The Norfolk Tars and the Winston-Salem Twins were not scheduled.

Old Guns Scrapped For New War Weapons

One of four British World War I howitzers, this 9.2 inch 1918 model siege gun is being sliced with an acetylene torch by a worker at Fort Moultrie, S. C. The guns had been standing on the grounds as ornament pieces for eight years. They will be melted to make new guns. A solid pile of 100 pre-Civil War cannon balls also was uprooted by a junk dealer.

New York, June 29.—Thomas Kay, who writes from Washington, D. C., suggests launching a campaign to have all baseball clubs and college teams kick in their home plates for scrap rubber. He figures wood or stone could be substituted. Most clubs could whitel out a nice ivory plate from the over-supply found in the players' domes. Here's reason 2,001 why you lost your $2. At the Fairmont host track the other day, even the camera was wrong. The host whose nose was nearest to the wire finished second. The judges called it right, however. They looked closely and saw that a strong wind had curved the wire about an inch away from the leading nag. Until they were soothed by getting Clyde Vollmer, Birmingham fans were boiling because the parent Cincy Reds sent Lindsey Deal to Atlanta, a rival club. Hereafter Mr. Deal will be nicknamed "Raw."

Gloria Callen, whose big collection of swimming trophies seldom is noticed when Gloria is around, has two more medals she can contribute to the scrap metal drive. When she was graduated from high school at Nvaek, N. Gabe Genovese, back home in Syracuse after 14 months on the west coast, says he's thinking of disbanding his stable of fighters to take over a club in Washington.

Last time the folks around Pittsburgh saw Ensign Herbert (Babe) Bonn, former Duquesne basketball biggie, he was heading for San Diego and he had a hunch something was brewing just west of there. That was November 30. A recent letter indicates Babe was somewhere in the midst of the Coral sea scrap. Another veteran of the Coral Sea affair is Ensign John I. Drew, former Marquette U. hurdler, who was one of the last to leave the Lexington. He rode a raft 45 minutes before a destroyer picked him up. Second Lieut. Gil Fitch of the army air corps ought to be versatile enough to cope with any situation. He won nine letters at Temple U. in baseball, basketball and soccer and then played a few years with the Philadelphia semi pro court team before he quit to organize an orchestra and direct musical productions. He recently finished a course at the school for special service at Fort George C. Meade, Md.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 29 (AP)—The stock market took bearish war news in stride today and, with rally in front, selected issues moved into recovery territory with gains of fractions to more than two points at the close.

Dealing sluggish at the start picked up as bidding appeared. Steels did well for a time but later backed away. In the closing hour top marks elsewhere were achieved in most cases. The pace slowed appreciably as the advance met resistance. Transfers were around 275,000 shares.

Renegotiation Saves Big Sum

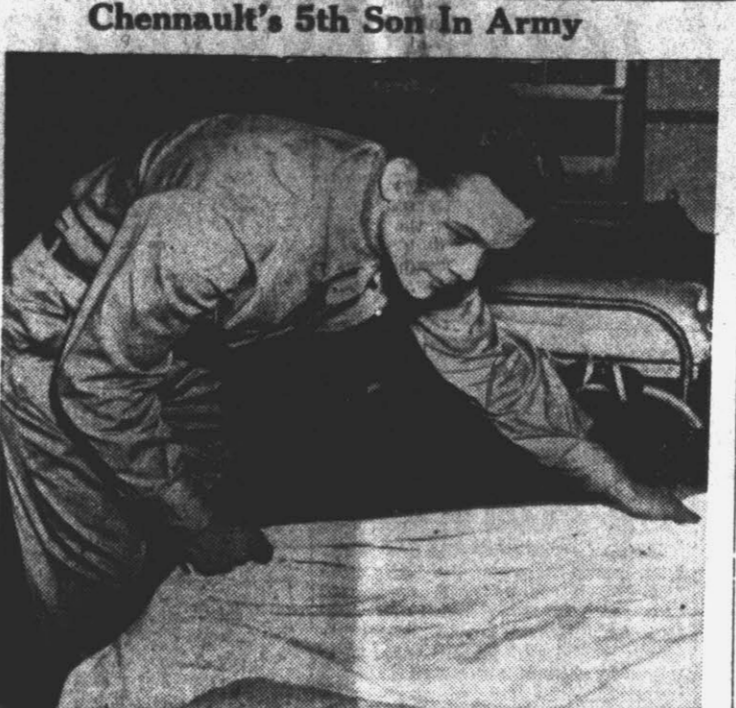

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The War Department has made potential savings of $1,157,000,000 through the renegotiation of contracts which otherwise would have provided excessive profits for manufacturers Congress learned today.

This estimate was given to the Senate Appropriations committee by Brig. Gen. C. G. Helmick in testimony on the $2,820,000,000 military supply bill.

At the same time Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) declared that the largest manufacturing companies in the United States had obtained $2,783,000,000 or 62.5 per cent of the total of war contracts let between June, 1940, and April 1, 1942.

RAF BOMBERS OVER EUROPE

Submarine Base at St. Nazaire Blasted Last Night

Charles Chennault, fifth of Gen. Claire L. Chennault to join the United States armed forces, has been inducted into the army at Fort McPherson, Ga., and is learning the intricacies of bed-making. His father is the former Louisiana school teacher who became commander of the famous American Volunteer Group of "Flying Tigers" in the Chinese air force. Charles, age 24 and married, expressed preference for assignment to a ground crew in the air corps. (Associated Press Photo from U. S. Army Signal Corps.)

London, June 29 (AP)—The German submarine base at St. Nazaire on the occupied French coast was attacked sharply last night by RAF raiders in a follow-up to the devastating Saturday night assault on the Port of Bremen, where many of the undersea raiders are constructed.

British fighter planes also blasted German airfields and railway objectives in Northern France during the night, the Air Ministry said. Loss of one plane was acknowledged.

Two Canadian pilots attached to a Hurricane bomber squadron which participated in the forays against the occupied coast were reported to have damaged a heavily-escorted enemy merchant ship in a low-level attack, leaving the vessel stationary and heeling over at a 45-degree angle.

The Saturday night assault on Bremen was the second raid on that city in three nights, and was reported to have left the port—Germany's second largest—a mass of charred ruins.

"There can't be much left of Bremen now," military quarters declared as they scanned reports filed yesterday by British airmen who set new fires blazing in the city in a mass attack Saturday night, sequel to Thursday night's 1,000-plane assault.

Eleven planes—nine bombers and two fighters—were lost by the RAF in the Saturday night raid, the 96th aimed at Bremen since the start of the war.

Official quarters indicated that the devastation in Bremen was comparable to that previously wrought by the RAF in mighty assaults upon Cologne and Essen and it appeared that Prime Minister Churchill's pledge to blast Germany city by city with overwhelming power was being fulfilled swiftly.

In retaliation the Germans bombed the British southwest coast last night for the second successive night, striking sharply at one town for 40 minutes, but the government indicated the raids were insignificant in comparison with the RAF's.

Weston-Super-Mare drew this heaviest assault and it was announced officially there were a number of casualties there.

The government also permitted the disclosure that the famous Cathedral at Canterbury had been damaged, along the several other historic buildings, by German bombers which attacked that cradle of the Anglican church on June 1. Much of the residential section of the ancient town was said to have been laid waste.

GAS SHORTAGE OVER THE EAST

LaGuardia Says Price Increase "Discriminatory"

By The Associated Press

The price of gasoline went up 2 1/2 cents a gallon along the eastern seaboard today, but there were few stations open where you could buy it at any figure.

More and more dealers, their supplies exhausted, were forced to turn away motorists by the hundreds of thousands over the week-end as the gas-drought became acute.

In New York City, Mayor F. H. La Guardia attacked as "discriminatory and unfair" the price jump, which together with 2-cent-a-gallon increases for range oil, kerosene and certain other fuel oils, was ordered by the Office of Price Administration to cover fuel oils, was ordered by the Office of Price Administration to cover higher costs of moving petroleum east by means other than tankers.

Police were called out in Rhode Island to control lines of cars at some gasoline pumps with scanty supplies yesterday, while in Boston defense workers expressed fear they wouldn't be able to get to work today because of the gas shortage.

Even in the unrationed Buffalo area in western New York several filling stations had empty tanks before midnight Sunday as drivers rushed to buy supplies before the price boost.

Only one gas station was reported open yesterday in the nation's capital and that station's fuel was sold in 25 minutes. The Washington Retail Gasoline Dealers Association said more than half the city's filling stations would be out of gas today.

Ration Card Seal Good July 15-21

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration announced today that the reproduction of a war bond seal on "A" and "B" gasoline rationing cards could be used to purchase gasoline only between July 15 and July 21.

Previously, OPA had said that the seal appearing in the upper left hand corner of the ration cards would be good for one ration of gasoline as a means of carrying motorists over the lag between July 1, when the temporary rationing originally was scheduled to expire, and July 22, when the new permanent eastern rationing program has been ordered effective.

The gallonage value of the seal will vary with the type of card, it was explained. For passenger automobiles, for example, the seal on the "A" card will be good for three gallons; on the "B-1" card it will be good for four gallons; "B-2" five gallons; and "B-3" six gallons.

Smith Assails Rationing Plan

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Objecting to an increase of 21-2 cents in the price of gasoline in the east, Senator Smith (D-S.C.) told the Senate today that "this business of rationing gasoline is an insult to the intelligence to the American people."

Smith complained that thousands of small filling station operators were going broke while producers were to receive a higher price for their oil.

"I for one am sick of it," he declared. He said Congress ought to reclaim some of the power it had delegated to "miserable misfits" in the government.

Assailing the whole rationing system, Smith said he was informed that many dealers were being forced to store sugar in the open because their storage facilities were full.

Contending there was no real shortage, Smith declared: "We ought to introduce a resolution declaring the sugar shortage null and void—repealing the sugar shortage."

Smith added that because he had not yet removed the cuffs from his trousers, he expected to "go before a firing squad at any time."

Struck By Lightning

Fort Moultrie, S. C., June 29 (AP)—A lightning bolt knocked out three soldiers and momentarily stunned five others when it struck a power pole on Marshall reservation at 11:55 o'clock last night.

The bolt interrupted telephone service for the time being, and a sergeant sped in his car to the post hospital and had an ambulance sent to the scene.

The three most seriously stunned were reported today as suffering from shock but otherwise all right.

Invaders Fail Reach Chinese Tungsten Fields

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, June 29 (AP)—The Japanese have failed to reach one of their major objectives in their present drive in East China—the tungsten fields of Kiangsi—an official Chinese government statement declared today.

And meanwhile Chinese pilots, flying under the tutelage of veteran American volunteer airmen, have sunk two Japanese warships in the Yangtze and inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese ground forces in Eastern Kiangsi, the Chinese reported.

The official statement said that while the enemy accomplished much to prevent the use of the bases from which the Chinese hope to bomb Japan, the tungsten deposits are still far from the most advanced Japanese spearheads.

These deposits, the statement noted, "are hardly less important than the airfields of Chekiang and Kiangsi put together."

"The Chinese produce from 60 to 70 percent of the world's tungsten from Kiangsi whose annual output is estimated at 5,000 tons," the statement said. "Contributions from other provinces of China are: Kwangtung, 4,000 tons; Kwangsi, 2,500 tons; Hunan, 1,200 and Yunnan, 1,000."

The official Central News agency which announced the sinking of the two Japanese warships said they were attacked June 21. After the sinking, the Chinese bombed Japanese positions in Eastern Kiangsi last Tuesday.

Airmen Are Killed In Airplane Crash

Dayton, Ohio, June 29 (AP)—Apparently circling for an emergency landing, a two-motored medium bomber plunged into a hayfield 25 miles south of here late yesterday, carrying its crew of four army airmen to death.

Frank Teitmeier, a farmer, reported that he saw the "circle several times as if it was trying to land, and then take a nose dive straight down." It did not burn.

Capt. John Van Cleave of the Public Relations Office at Patterson Field here, said the plane took off about 5 p. m., for Albany, Ga.

He identified the victims as Second Lieut. W. K. Van Zandt of Canton, N. Y., pilot; Second Lieut. Ralph A. Oelman, Jr., of Guilford College, N. C., co-pilot; Tech. Sgt. W. E. Elder of Denver, and Staff Sgt. Earl J. Corder of near Kansas City, Mo.

Versatile Pastor At Immanuel Church

Immanuel Baptist church here has a versatile pastor. After participating in the Sunday School exercises and preaching a timely sermon to a large congregation at the Sunday morning service, the Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell, last night played the organ during a 15-minute pre-vening service, and then played the piano to accompany the singing of hymns at the evening service.

Delivered a brief sermon, then went off to visit the sick and get ready for his numerous community activities for today.

Attendance at the Sunday evening services at his church is improving.

Sales Tax Fight Looms In House

By DONALD A. YOUNG

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Whiel technical experts prepared a draft of the once-completed $5,900,000,000 bill, House Ways and Means committee members said today that four major fights, headed by new sales tax arguments, probably would be reopened before the measure reaches the House.

They said opportunities, undoubtedly would be represented to consider again not only a "war consumption tax," but postwar credits for corporations and corporate excess profits tax rates, the "withholding" plan of income tax collection and proposed increases in second and third class postal rates.

Sale tax advocates were counting noses in the House to determine whether such a levy might be passed despite the committee's 14 to 9 decision against even considering it. It has been estimated that a 5 per cent retail sales tax would produce $2,500,000,000 a year.

More Cloth For Army.

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The War Production Board disclosed today that it had planned production of approximately 12,000,000,000 linear yards of cotton fabrics this year, compared with record-breaking output of more than 10,500,000,000 yards last year, to fill steadily increasing military and civilian requirements.

Matruh Captured

British craft were lost Saturday and Sunday.

British headquarters said yesterday that Axis armored forces actually had by-passed Imperial defense positions west of Matruh, but declared they were met by shock troops who were believed here to have the thrust in hand.

The immediate object of both sides obviously was to destroy as much as possible of the opposition's armored strength and win a preponderance of striking power.

Artillery, therefore, was playing an important role in the bitter struggle, with tanks and mobile batteries engaged in almost point-blank duels. Tank versus tank combats were held to a minimum.

The big United States four-motored bombers manned by American airmen, also was carrying the battle to the enemy, strafing his advance ground forces, blasting at his communication lines and pounding his major supply ports—Bengasi and Tobruk.

Axis bombers were less active in the initial phases of the battle and it appeared that Rommel was conserving his air strength with the idea of trying to deliver an all-out blow at the crucial moment.

The town of Matruh itself is a relatively unimportant settlement of about 500, situated directly on the coast some 130 miles east of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

To counter the Germans' famous 88-millimeter cannon, which proved a decisive factor in Libya, the British were throwing into action quantities of newly-arrived guns, especially an anti-tank six-pounder.

House Committee

cut off $20,000,000.

OPA's cut was the largest the committee made. For other agencies it followed almost to the letter the budget recommendations. The exceptions included a $1,000,000 cut for the office of censorship, elimination of a $250,000 item for codification of military and naval laws, a cut of $356,719 for the war manpower commission, disapproval of $205,000 for salaries and expenses of the Bureau of Home Economics, a reduction of $175,000 for the Bureau of Reclamation, and elimination of $15,000,000 for the agricultural marketing administration for emergency supplies for territories and possessions.
