

Great Armored Battle Rages Along Center Of Battlefront In Egypt

New American-Made Tanks Strengthen British Defense Of Newly-Won Positions; Sharp Fighting Reported At The Southern End Of Line Pushing Back The Enemy

Cairo, July 17.—(AP)—British troops, engaged in a violent and still indecisive tank battle since yesterday in the center of the El Alamein desert line, were reported today to have brought up the American-made General Lee tanks to give additional power to their defense.

The General Lee, an improved version of the General Grant, mounts 75 millimeter guns in the turret instead of at the side and has streamlined armor. The General Grants previously had proved a mainstay of British armored forces in the desert.

The British were making stubborn efforts to hold their newly-won positions in the center of the line. New Zealand infantry and armor scored a number of successes there against attacking German tanks.

In the northern sector, too, the British Imperials were having success. After a three-day all-day fight yesterday they re-occupied their original positions on the lower ridge of Tel El Eisa. They already had held the higher ground.

The British were reported by Reuters to have advanced seven miles in the central sector Wednesday, securing control of the Ruweisat ridge.

Sharp fighting also was reported at the southern end of the line where the enemy was said to have withdrawn slightly, and in the coastal sector to the north.

The communiques gave no hint as to how the battle in the center was going, but said that a number of enemy tanks had been knocked out. "Details of our losses are not yet known," the bulletin added.

Other dispatches from the front indicated that much of the armored strength of both sides was engaged in the struggle and it appeared that a crisis in the battle for Egypt was near.

British headquarters said that the RAF was strongly supporting the Imperial ground forces and that bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters were continuing to hammer at the enemy around the clock.

Art Exhibit At Woman's Club.
The art exhibit placed by the local WPA Art Center at the Woman's Club this week-end holds special interest for our particular section. It is a group of reproductions of paintings of our tobacco country done by 12 of the most notable living American painters, and offers an opportunity to see ourselves as our big business of making and marketing the golden weed is concerned. Commissioned by one of the big tobacco companies, these artists came to the Carolinas, made their own observations and sketches, and then painted our tobacco scenes as they saw them. Prints of their paintings are currently appearing in national magazines. The 12 used in the exhibit at the club this week, collected and mounted for display at the local WPA Art Center, afford an interesting comparison of typical work of such artists as Thomas Benton, John Steuart Curry, Doris Lee, Armand Blanch, Aaron Bohrod, Ernest Pines, and others equally well known in art circles today.

The prints will be on display at the club for the service men's center, and for the Kiwanis and Lion's club meetings on Friday and Monday nights.

executive committee of five locals at Bethlehem, Pa., expressed disapproval and said the situation in that steel center was "tense and explosive."

The decision, the committee declared in telegrams sent to President Roosevelt, Murray and Chairman William H. Davis of the Labor Board, was "causing definite unrest in the Bethlehem steel plant here."

It added: "Our government says we are at war. We agree. For a soldier's day wage adjustment we want, if not, we fight."

Bethlehem officials would not comment.

At the press conference in Washington at which the WLB ruling was announced, a labor member of the board, Thomas Kennedy, remarked that the new policy "stymied" collective bargaining and an industry member, Roger Lapham, replied that "industry is pretty well stymied."

As the policy laid down in the steel case claimed major attention, because the ruling directly affected 17,000 workers and was expected to be repeated in other pending cases, involving more than 1,000,000 men, shovels and other industries, daily-operated shaft coal mines in Indiana were awarded a 40-cent a day pay increase, retroactive to January 1.

Russians Continue . . .

On the Leningrad front Red air force planes staged two raids on long-range guns which were battering the city. The Russians used their own big guns blasted into silence long anti-aircraft batteries.

"In some sectors of the Voronezh front, the initiative has passed into Soviet hands," a communique announced. "The Germans are on the defensive."

Dispatches said the Russians pounded the invaders with surprising tank strength in several areas, forcing them to take cover.

Twin tanks were reported made in invasion formations west of Voronezh, which Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zhuraviev, a Red army commentator, described as "a mill to grind German troops crossing the Don into a bloody pulp."

Medical conditions persisted for Red army divisions fighting within the Don river bend to check the threat of an invasion of industrial Stalingrad, now less than 175 miles east of the front, and more distant Caucasian oil fields below the Don.

Southeast of Nazi-occupied Mikhov, itself 80 miles south of Voronezh and 120 miles from the front, another fighting withdrawal of outnumbered Soviet forces was reported.

"In this area," the Soviet Information Bureau said, "the men of one of our units in three days have killed about 4,000 Hitlerites and destroyed 200 German tanks."

A report from the army was reported to have been made by the army, which killed 1,000 Germans and destroyed 11 of their tanks. This was one of a series of actions to beat off strong Nazi tanking maneuvers.

"Our artillery and mortar crews opened fire on enemy tanks and infantry concentrated at a river crossing (probably the Kalliva) and set fire to 14 tanks and wiped out about 800 Germans," it was announced.

Nazi tanks were declared stalled in the Voronezh battlefield, "littered with German corpses and dozens of buried out enemy tanks, and a single regiment was said to have lost more than 800 men under short range defense fire."

"Our tanks pursued the retreating Germans, broke into a populated place, destroyed two artillery batteries and seven heavy machine-guns and wiped out more than 300 Germans," the Bureau said.

Soviet artillery, tank crews and infantrymen cooperated to break into a Nazi fortified zone and "take up advantageous positions" in fighting which cost the Germans 600 men and five tanks, it was announced.

On the Bryansk front, 200 miles northwest of Voronezh, Russian dispatches said the Germans were observed missing tanks and motorized infantry, and that Soviet bombing raids in two days killed 3,000 of these troops in one sector and 2,000 in another.

Prisoners and escaped Russians were quoted as reporting that be-

Details of damage at Dutch Harbor and Fort Meade, Chukotka Island, were given for the first time and showed that in addition to the burning of the Northwest, a warehouse and a few fuel oil tanks were hit and set afire and one heavy aircraft hangar was hit.

The Navy linked the attack on the Aleutians, particularly the initial Dutch Harbor raid, directly to action at Midway, describing the whole maneuver as "a two-pronged thrust at our westernmost possessions."

It was added that the use of the forces involved in the Midway action, where the Japanese attacked with approximately 80 ships, "shows the attack on Midway to have been the primary objective."

The testimony will be transcribed for the consideration at a future civil term of superior court.

SEEK 'CHUTES' AT HYDE PARK

Six Parachutes Reported Descended In Vicinity

Rhinecliff, N. Y., July 17—(AP)—Search for six "parachutes" reported seen descending in an area near President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate was renewed at dawn today, but the belief was expressed they may have been festival balloons.

A farm superintendent's unconfirmed report of sighting parachutes late yesterday afternoon brought a small army of military, FBI and state police officials to the scene but they postponed their search until daylight today after townfolk advanced a theory the reported aerial objectives probably were balloons sent aloft by a group celebrating a religious holiday.

Robert Milroy, a hotel clerk in nearby Rhinebeck, told investigators he had heard fireworks about the time the "parachutes" were reported sighted and recalled that persons of Italian descent gathered at Glasgow on the opposite bank of the Hudson river celebrating a feast day by shooting off fireworks, Roman candles and releasing balloons.

Other nearby residents also clung to the balloon rather than the parachute theory, several police officers explained.

For nine hours last night, Hudson Valley residents and motorists within a radius of 50 miles were questioned as to whether they had seen any parachutes.

The report originated from Clyde B. Swenson, superintendent of Fox Hollow Farms, former estate of John Jacob Astor III, which is about 11 miles north of the Roosevelt country home.

The public relations officer of the eastern defense command announced at New York last night that a military investigation was under way but emphasized there had been no confirmation of the landing of parachutists reported seen in New York state. Searchers scoured the Glen Falls area all day yesterday after residents of Athol, about 100 miles north of here, told of seeing a parachutist descend.

Judge Helping To House Leaf Crop

Judge J. W. H. Roberts, in Recorder's Court today, revived memories of the late Judge John Jeter Crutchfield, of Richmond, Va., when he ordered Willie Daniels, colored, to go to work in green tobacco and report back to the court on August 10 that he "is at work or serve a jail sentence for assaulting a female."

His Honor followed up the "old southern custom" by sentencing Cornelius M. J. colored, to 12 months in jail for assaulting Amanda Gastins, a blind colored woman, with a chair. Judge Roberts is administering justice in his court with one hand on a law book, the other on the Bible and an unusual understanding of human nature, court officials say.

Other cases disposed of included: C. B. Barfield, drunk charges, 30 days in jail on each term to run concurrently; Sam Suggs, colored, drunk, 30 days, sentence suspended on payment of costs; Otis Moringo, same charges, same sentence; John Parker, colored, dog at large, $5, to apply on costs; Tony Harris, same charge, $3, to apply on costs; and James Oscar Williams, colored, disorderly conduct and assault, six months on city streets.

H. C. Zimmerman, driving drunk, three months in jail, sentence suspended on payment of costs, and to forfeit license for a year.

the functioning of legation officials on their consular capacity, contrary to "treaty rights."

Helsinki, July 17—(AP)—An official statement issued through the Finnish News Bureau today said the Washington decision to close the American consulate here and to request closing of Finnish consulates in the United States was "a surprise" to the Finnish government, which "had no reason to suppose" that its policy could lead to such an action.

Burke County Deputy Killed

SUBSIDIES MAY END GAS RATION

Increased Supply For Eastern States Is Predicted

Washington, July 17 (AP) - Senator George (D-Ga) said today responsible representatives of large oil companies had told him that payment of government subsidies to meet increased transportation costs soon would assure a sufficient flow of petroleum into eastern states to make gasoline rationing unnecessary.

At the same time, he disclosed that a federal "war service" tax of 1 1/2 cents a gallon on petroleum products had been suggested to absorb the cost of these subsidies. He added that if the treasury approved, he would lay the proposal before the Senate Finance committee, of which he is chairman.

Previously, Secretary of Commerce Jones announced that the Defense Supplies Corporation would assist in financing transportation and distribution of petroleum products to the eastern seaboard.

A gasoline price increase of 2 1/2 cents a gallon, permitted by the Office of Price Administration on 17 rationed states, generally was expected to be cancelled when such subsidy payments become effective. However, a high government official, who asked that his name not be used, cautioned against expecting too much in the way of gasoline price reductions.

He explained that subsidy details had not been worked out yet and added that the primary purpose of the arrangement was to hold down the price of fuel oil and other necessary oils needed in homes and factories for heating or lubricating.

Announce More Ship Sinkings

By The Associated Press - Axis submarines torpedoed a small Dutch merchant ship in the Caribbean in a bold daylight attack May 24 taking a toll of two lives in the ships crew of 31 and the next day sank a British small cargo vessel in the Atlantic with a loss of three more lives, the navy announced today.

These losses, and three reported yesterday, two of which were American and one Norwegian, raised to 379 the unofficial Associated Press count of allied and neutral ships sunk in the western Atlantic since the U. S. entered the war.

Survivors of the Dutch ship said their vessel sank so rapidly they barely had time to launch a lifeboat and a raft before she went down. The 29 survivors were rescued three hours later by another merchantman and taken to a Caribbean port.

After the ship sank, the sub surfaced and its commander questioned crew members on the name of the ship and its cargo. The sub commander pointed out two crew members swimming in the sea before submerging.
