Other Two Saboteurs Given 30 Years Each Instead Of Death Penalty Because They Aided Government In Prosecution Of The Case

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The White House announced today that six of eight Nazi saboteurs had been executed today, the first going to death by the electric chair at noon.

The two saboteurs spared were Ernest P. Burger, who was given a life prison sentence at hard labor and George John Dasch, sentenced to 30 years at hard labor.

These, a White House statement said, had prison terms granted them rather than death sentences "because of their assistance to the Government in the apprehension and conviction of the others."

Special Methodist Services.
Knowing that many people of this community feel the need of special prayer and communion with our Heavenly Father in these days of war and strife, the pastor and officials of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church are announcing a special service from 12 to 12:15 each weekday. This brief service will consist of a hymn, a scripture lesson and a prayer for this troubled world.

This church is conveniently located in the heart of the city and members of all denominations are invited to stop for a few minutes any day in the week for a brief prayer and meditation.

Worship-Simpson.
The wedding of Miss Marie Tingle Simpson of Greenville, to Technical Sergeant Francis Henry Worsley of Rocky Mount and Greenville, was solemnized on Saturday, August 1, in the First Methodist Church in Washington, D. C. The Reverend R. T. Raum was the officiating minister.

The church was decorated with beautiful palms, cut flowers of white and pink gladiolus.

The church organist, Miss Berch, presented a program of nuptial music and traditional wedding marches were used as processional and recessional.

The bride and groom entered the church together and were unattended. The bride wore a becoming dress of white eyelet embroidery made with fitted skirt and full skirt. She wore an off-the-face hat with short veil. Her bouquet of military design, was of red and white roses with blue delphinium.

Mrs. Simpson, mother of the bride, wore a moss green dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Mrs. Worsley, a young woman of pleasing personality, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Simpson of Greenville. She attended Greenville high school and since graduation has held a position with Bell-Tyler Company in Greenville.

Sergeant Worsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Worsley of Rocky Mount, was graduated from the Rocky Mount high school and until he was called to service at Fort Bragg, a year ago, was wholesale salesman for Carolina Sales Corporation. At present he is attending Officers Training School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Mrs. Worsley will remain in Greenville until Sgt. Worsley completes his training at Fort Belvoir.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Wright of Washington, aunt and uncle of the bride entertained in honor of Sergeant and Mrs. Worsley. Mrs. Wright was the former Miss Corita Tingle of Rocky Mount.

The bride and Mrs. Wright included Mr. and Mrs. Wright including Mr. Guilford Worsley of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Howard Simpson and Miss Virginia Simpson of Greenville.

Mrs. Sager Honored.
Mrs. Meta Chestnut Sager, a former Pitt county resident, but for the past fifty-two years a pioneer resident of Chicksaw, Okla., was house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Hazzis in the city Thursday.

In the afternoon a few other young ladies came in to visit with her. While the group reminisced of the yesteryears, Mrs. Sager served them black hot coffee with cream, sandwiches and mints, and please, not any sugar in the coffee for the young ladies.

The guests were Mrs. Sager, honor guest, 79; Mrs. Mittle Savage, 79; mother of Mr. Frank Savage of this city; Mrs. Elizabeth McLaw, 87; mother of Mrs. Bob Abbott of Winterville; Mrs. Tempie Spence, 74; mother of L. S. Spence of Greenville; Mrs. W. B. Brown, 77; mother of Miss Bessie Brown of Norfolk, also joined them.

As each one departed they declared it had been so pleasant seeing each other that they would seal this date, August sixth, in their individual memory box for future reference.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT AT WOMAN'S CLUB
At the Woman's Club this weekend there is an interesting show from the sample portfolio of a young commercial artist now with the Marines at New River—Pfc. Howard Muncie of Westport, Conn.

Included in the exhibit are original drawings, as well as printed pages from magazines, showing the work Muncie was doing in the field of commercial art before he joined the Marines. Following study at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, he was for a while on the staff of "Pic" magazine, doing work also for the Shepard-Lerner and Levine Studios and for the Schulte Cigar Stores.

At the time of his enlistment, he was with the well known magazine illustrator, Stephen Dohanos. A member of the Silvermine Guild of Artists, Muncie has a number of honorable mentions and awards to his credit among them an honorable mention for his work in the Railroad exhibit at the World's Fair in New York City.

Last week-end when Pfc. Muncie was in Greenville on week-end leave he visited the library and the WPA Art Center and was interested to see among the large posters in the lobby of the library one on which he himself had done some work just before he joined the Marines.

The local WPA Art Gallery takes pride in presenting a show of this promising young artist's work at the Service Men's Center at the Woman's Club this week-end.

Town Matters
The Board of Aldermen had a labored session Thursday night, being together until one o'clock and then adjourned to a special meeting to be held Monday night.

Upon the recommendation of the Finance committee the tax on real and personal property was increased to 45-4 cents on each $100 valuation and the poll tax to $2.

A motion was made that the town proceed at once to build a new market house, but consideration of this went over to next meeting.

The tobacco auctioneers of the town petitioned to be released from the payment of a special license tax, which was rejected.

The druggists also presented a petition to be released from a special license tax, which was granted. H. L. Carr, treasurer, presented his official bond which was accepted.

Col. J. Y. Joyner Was Visitor Here

Mrs. Travis Hooker entertained at luncheon yesterday honoring her uncle, Dr. J. Y. Joyner of LaGrange, on his 60th birthday.

Dr. Joyner was State Superintendent of Public Instruction from 1892 to 1916, and was appointed to that office by Governor Aycock. He also was a teacher in the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The home of Mrs. Hooker was decorated throughout with mixed summer flowers and the dining room with pink crepe myrtle and ivy.

The table was covered with an imported embroidered and lace cloth and the centerpiece was a flat arrangement of pink gladiolus and fern in an oblong bowl.

A course luncheon was served. A beautifully decorated birthday cake in green and white was presented to the honor guest. While blowing out the candles he made a loving wish for all present.

Dr. Joyner received many telegrams and gifts.

The guests included his sons, Col. W. T. Joyner of Raleigh, and James T. Joyner of LaGrange, also Col. Joyner's wife and their daughter, Sue Miss Beale Ross of LaGrange. Also present were Mrs. W. H. Bradsher.

TO MY MOTHER—FROM JUNIOR
Mom—I read your letter yesterday—you just sit tight. And pray—and I'll come marching home when we have won this fight.

My "Uncle's" taking care of me and feeding me just swell—We haven't started fighting yet. You wait—we'll give 'em hell.

You just get up your pots and pans. That rubber hose under the porch—that ash can ruined by rain.

And use those extra pennies You used to give to me. When I was just a tiny kid. And just upon your knee.

To Buy Defense Stamps with.
You'll do that, Mom, and I'll get by. And I'll come back, and we'll come back.

THE STORMS OF LIFE
The storms of life are brewing in the thunder of my soul, And my heart through the night is crying.

Like a wolf that's lost its mate I live in this world of desolation and of hate. A world wherein all people seem to have lost all faith.

Oh, there's no wonder that my heart does weep When I think of the innocent whom Shells caused forever sleep. And the brave perished in the deep. Then too there are the bombers that claim the sky.

This is a period of darkness for all mankind. But some day the light of victory will shine. And happiness will be yours and mine.

Then will the church bells ring. And youthful voices in harmony sing. Flowers will bloom in the spring, to live, not die. Beneath marching feet or be killed. By shrapnel that falls like sleet.

Mothers will again their sons hold. A treasure to them dearer than gold. The old folks will cheer and smile. And their joy will be heard for many a mile.

Then will the cloud that hovers over my heart Be lifted and as a mist from me apart. Chesley Venable Morton planes in a surprise assault without loss to themselves.

Stillwell's communique said extensive damage was done to the "White Cloud" airdrome as well as to docks and harbor buildings in this morning's raid, in which the American bombers operated with a fighter escort.

At least nine Japanese fighters rose to challenge the raiders but only after they had dropped their cargoes of high explosives in the target area, the bulletin declared.

Capt. Charles Sawyer was credited with shooting down one of the enemy fighters and Lieut. Patrick H. Daniels another—both new type planes.

"Aerial gunner Cooing, a rear gunner in one of our bombers hit and probably destroyed a third Japanese fighter," the communique said.

The exploits of the American Army fliers, who have been nicknamed the "Sky Dragons" by the Chinese, brought a glowing tribute from the newspaper Ta Kung Pao.

"They are sowing the seeds of hope in the people in occupied areas," the paper said. "They provide a stimulus for Chinese soldiers at the front and heighten the morale of our people behind the firing line."

"The American government and people can well recognize the fact that the U. S. Army Air Forces in China represent the maximum gain for the smallest price."

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) Aug. 8.—(AP)—German fighters shot down 13 British planes in six combats in North Africa yesterday, the German communique said today.

German and Italian bombers attacked British battery positions and motorized concentrations with good results, the war-bulletin added.

Rome (From Italian Broadcasts) Aug. 8.—(AP)—Fifteen British planes were shot down out of formations raiding Axis positions in Egypt yesterday, the Italian high command said today.

Strike Blow . . .
was aimed at Yamanaka airdrome, the main enemy air base in New Britain. An Allied communique said every one of the bombs hit the target area.

Medium bombers carried out the attack on Lae, also by daylight, and the communique's reference to the use of 2,000-pound bombs was the first disclosure that such potent explosives were being dropped on the Japanese.

Direct hits were reported on the Lae airdrome. The daylight raid there was coupled with extended harassing raids at night against enemy positions.

Activity in the northwestern sector was limited to reconnaissance activity on both sides. Allied scouts presumably extended their operations to include the islands of Koi, Aru and Taninbar, which the Japanese now have occupied.

A headquarters spokesman said the situation in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea, where Japanese land forces now are within 60 miles of the Allied base at Port Moresby, was unchanged.

Australian Army Minister Francis M. Forde said in a speech today "We are face to face with a great crisis in our history" and warned that the Japanese would try to knock Australia out of the war by invasion.

Fortunately we have been given a breathing space to prepare which will make a big difference when the battle is joined," he said.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE by George Harmon Coxe

Chapter 45
Tables Turned
"We've got to stop him," Joyce said.

"We'll stop him," Murdock started for the door and terror struck at Joyce again and she ran after him, seizing his arm.

"Oh, please," she whispered.

"He's got a gun. He must have. The way he sat there on the sofa all that time without moving. Don't you remember how his arms were crossed—with his hands out of sight? It must be something like that or Ward would have said those things. It's Della he's afraid of."

"Thorndike, huh?" Fenner said. "The whole thing was an act."

Murdock's face was sombre and taut. "We've got to get in—but if we knock—"

"We can get in," Joyce said. "I fixed the lock. When I came out I pressed the button that regulates it."

She heard Fenner grunt; then Kent had turned. He gave her a quick hard look, and without warning, took her face in his hands. He kissed her roughly, his lips bruising hers, and just as suddenly released her.

"Good girl," he said.

Fenner blocked him off. "This is for me," he said. "Watch yourself!" And then he was at the door.

Joyce stood where she was, un-

PROBE 3 NEWSPAPERS

Charged With Publishing "Confidential Information"

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Publication by three metropolitan newspapers of what Attorney General Francis Biddle termed "confidential information" concerning the battle of Midway, became today a subject for grand jury investigation.

The investigation, recommended by the Navy Department and requested by Biddle after a preliminary inquiry will concern possible violation of any criminal statutes, particularly the act of March 28, 1940, prohibiting unlawful communication of documents on information relating to national defense, the Attorney General announced last night.

The official announcement of the inquiry will not name the newspapers, but the Tribune said. "The political pot has been brewing for months."

The Tribune asserted in Chicago that war correspondent Stanley Johnston "made up an estimate of the size and strength of the Japanese armada the Navy defeated west of Midway Island."

"That Washington would attack the Tribune and other newspapers which have demanded an all-out war effort and the removal of high officials who have been tumbling the ball at home came as no surprise," the Tribune said. "The political pot has been brewing for months."

The Times-Herald had no comment on the announcement. The New York Daily News stated merely on June 7 it published the story to which the investigation referred.

Former United States Attorney General William D. Mitchell of New York, was appointed a special assistant to launch the grand jury investigation in Chicago and direct "any prosecution which may result therefrom," Biddle said.

Horton said the three newspapers attacked a story June 7 stating that the strength of the Japanese naval forces in the Midway battle was known in advance in American naval circles.

The story, he said, cited its authority as "reliable sources in the Naval Intelligence" and listed both the enemy's striking force and the occupation force which were engaged.

Judge Roberts won a nod of approval from white and colored taxpayers recently when he suspended sentences in a number of cases and ordered the defendants to work in "green tobacco" or go to jail.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts disposed of a light docket in Recorder's court today. Sam Underwood substituted for collector Ed Bloom who is out of the city.

then his body. She saw his startled face, the recoil of his facial muscles; then the mouth drew back and there was an explosion of sound and Fenner was moving up.

Kent was at his shoulder and she could see better now and took a step, and someone was crowding her from behind.

Something thudded to the floor and with the sound Thorndike had willed and was diving for a gun that had dropped from his fingers, stooping, reaching desperately with his left hand.

Fenner's voice hit her and her. "Don't touch it! Let it lay!"

Thorndike never stopped. In one continuous movement he swept up the gun and turned, his face twisted and stiff. Then, once again there came that explosion of sound and this time the room seemed to rock under Joyce and her ears rang with his fury.

Thorndike staggered and sat down hard; then the room was very quiet.

Fenner moved slowly up to him. The fallen gun was but inches from his hand and the detective kicked it to one side with his toe and plucked it up.

"That's what you get," he said, appealing to no one in particular, "for trying to do a kind of a favor. You plug him in the arm and then you have to cool him off anyway, I should've known better."

He glanced about, putting his gun away, and went over to the telephone.

Joyce heard him talking but for another second or two she could not take her eyes from Thorndike. His face was no longer twisted and stiff. There was a curious look of surprise in his eyes and the muscles of his jaw were slack.

He glanced down to his left and his eyes were fixed on the back of it, but though he tried he could not raise it; after that he put his left hand inside his coat and sat like that, holding his chest.

Just Nerves

Joyce shuddered as reaction shook her. Weakness was eating her strength, and while she fought for control of her senses she heard Della.

"Oh, it's so horrible," she sobbed, "so horrible."

Ward turned her quickly away and his arms went about her. Joyce saw her slump and for a moment thought she had fainted. Then the sobbing quieted and her hands came up and crushed Ward's lips and he bent his head. He began to talk, his lips close to her ear and his voice soft and husky and unintelligible to anyone but Della.

Kent's arm slid around Joyce's waist. Suddenly she became aware of his strength and put her arms about his neck because she could not stop her trembling. He pressed her tight and she felt his hand stroke her hair.

"Steady," he said.

She held to him for long seconds and then released her arms and looked up, aware now that her eyes were brimming and his image blurred.

"I'm sorry," she said. "Just nerves."

"You were magnificent," he smiled. "I'm sort of proud of you."

She went to the kitchen and found the brandy. She put a little in a glass and added water. When she returned to the living room Hester was sitting on the edge of the love seat. Her face seemed older or now the make-up garish against the pallor of her skin.

She was wondering about you, Dean," she was saying. "You were so curious about my divorce. I thought a thousand to Perry. I wondered if you were so attentive because you wanted to handle the rest of my money."

Oil, Rubber And Cargo Planes Figure In Week's News

NATION MOVES TO SOLUTION OF PROBLEMS

East May Have To Heat With Coal; Board Studies Rubber Problem; Order For Cargo Planes Is Authorized

By JAMES MARLOW AND WILLIAM FINKERTON

New York, Aug. 3.—(Wide World)—Oil, planes, rubber—three great problems since the war's start last December—still were great problems this week but strong action seemed closer than in months.

President Roosevelt vetoed the bill to create an independent agency to stimulate production of rubber from grain. He said the measure would block the war effort's progress.

Then, asking for a quick, adequate survey, he appointed a committee to examine the entire problem and recommend the best program for producing the synthetic rubber necessary for war and essential civilian use.

Some observers believed there would be no attempt at national gasoline rationing until the survey was completed, at least.

The President, however, warned the east's 1,250,000 householders with oil furnaces that fuel oil even for "minimum requirements" might not be available this winter.

Petroleum Coordinator Harold Ickes additionally warned that "deliveries may have to be refused any consumer who is able to convert his furnace from oil to coal but who has not done so."

Ickes called upon tank car companies in the unrationed middle west, southwest and Rocky Mountain states to release 5,000 tank cars to carry increased petroleum shipments to the rationed east.

As U-boat sinking of merchant ships in the Atlantic and Caribbean mounted to at least $16, creating one of the allied nations' worst bottlenecks, the discussion over the need for giant cargo planes increased and war production board chief, Donald M. Nelson announced:

The WPB committee on cargo planes appointed by him May 29 finally had submitted a report recommending arrangements be made at once to double at least the nation's existing cargo plane program while the development of longer-range land and sea planes should be accelerated.

The production chief approved construction of 500 big planes of the Glenn L. Martin "Mars" type by Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder. He indicated the first 100 could be ordered soon for the navy, with the other 400 of the 70-ton cargo carrying flying boats contingent upon success of the initial program.

Nelson said he hoped they could be built without hampering war plane production and added: "At least we can try."

Kaiser, strong advocate of freight planes, viewed the action as just the beginning. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. army air forces, disclosed that 21 per cent of the multiple-engine bombers to be built in this country during the second half of 1944 would be cargo planes and before the end of 1945 the ratio would be 33 per cent.

Effect of the U-boat sinkings was made evident when the WPB limited imports to about 500 items in order to allocate shipping space.

Hot news still crackled around the graying head of Andrew Jackson Higgins, New Orleans shipbuilder, whose contract for 200 Liberty cargo ships was cancelled last month by the U. S. Maritime commission on the grounds there was insufficient steel available to carry through the program.

Nelson and Leon Henderson, boss of the Office of Price Administration, ordered investigations by their respective agencies of a reported "black market" in steel purchases by the Higgins yards.

This action followed assertions by Frank Higgins, the builder's son, that there existed "all over the country a black market in steel." President Roosevelt himself, said this called for an investigation.

Senator Truman (D-Mo) chairman of the special committee investigating national defense, charged that the Navy Bureau of Ships had given "biased and prejudiced treatment" to plans submitted by Higgins for a secret "vehicle important to the success of any invasion attempt."

The charge was denied by navy officials who said the delay was caused only by necessity of testing all such "vehicles," of which the Higgins model was only one.

The National War Labor Board, applying its wage stabilization formula, refused a general wage increase to 2,750 General Cable Company employees in New Jersey and advocated government control over all general wage increases.

That labor might close its divided ranks appeared possible for the first time in years.

Phillip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, proposed to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the two organizations "initiate discussions regarding possible establishment of organic unity."

Green immediately accepted the offer to open negotiations between the groups which split six years ago. Leaders named to negotiate the proposed merger were expected to meet in Washington in about three weeks.

Navy Training Ship Crashes; Two Killed

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two airmen were killed today when a Navy training plane crashed into the woods three miles south of near Alexandria, Va.

The Navy Department said names of the victims would not be announced until relatives had been notified. The ship was en route to Norfolk, Va., from Philadelphia.

The cause of the crash was not determined, the first knowledge of it being a dull explosion heard by residents of the area.

Ferbid Bathing Suits And Shorts

Wrightsville Beach, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Board of Aldermen has enacted an ordinance forbidding the wearing of shorts or bathing suits at the resort after nightfall.

The board explained that it was a wartime measure taken at the request of military authorities "for the safety of the inhabitants of the town of Wrightsville Beach and of the Allied Nations."

Absent-Minded

New Bern, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With the plea that he had lost his gasoline rationing book, a man appealed to the local rationing board for a new one.

The board said it would have to think the matter over on the theory that a gasoline rationing book was so important it was not likely a person would forget where he left it. After the man had departed, the board was convinced he was telling the truth, for he had left on the board table a wallet literally bulging with money.

Mysterious Gas In Subway Puzzling

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The results of a chemical analysis were awaited today with hope they might disclose the nature of a mysterious gas which twice flooded Eighth Avenue subway trains yesterday.

Separated by more than eight hours, the two incidents occurred under identical circumstances and drove hundreds of coughing passengers from the trains. A police chemist took samples of the foul air for testing, and fragments of tiny capsules found in one car also were examined.

TOO BUSY TO HEAR

An elderly woman who had experienced much sorrow in her life used to tell how as a little girl living on a farm she and her sister were sent out every evening to bring in the cows.

"We didn't hear the bell during the long afternoons because we were busy with something else," she used to say.

God is always trying to be friendly with us, trying to counsel us. And sometimes years go by without our hearing a single word.

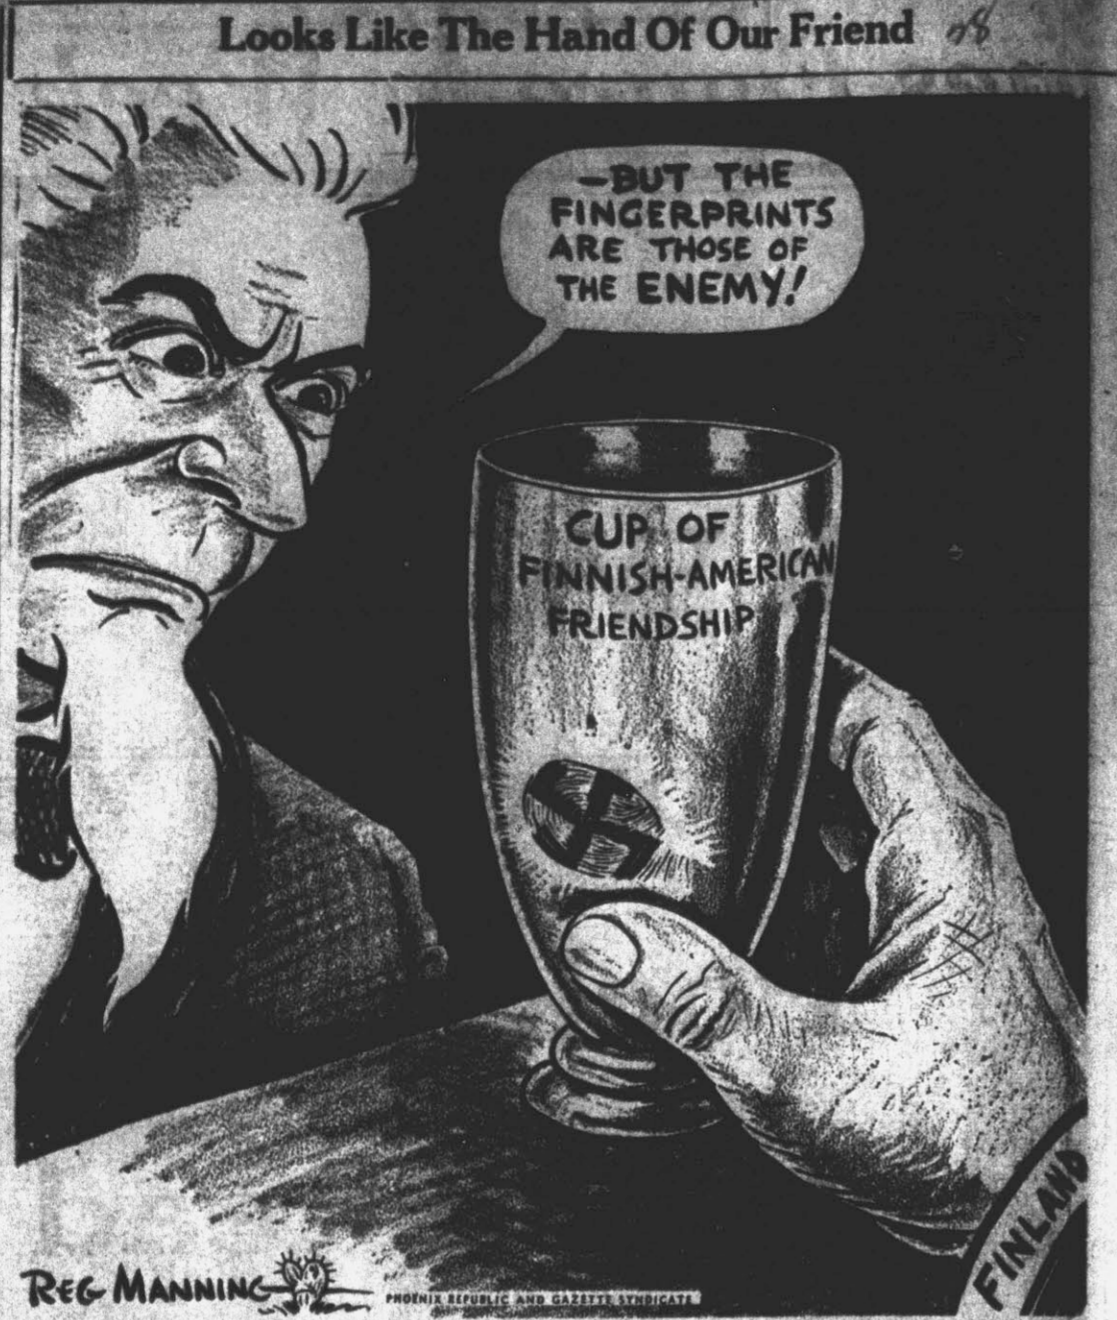

ALMOST AT THE BOTTOM

Pitt County prides itself on being called one of the state's and nation's leading agricultural counties, yet when it comes to the number of milk cows and milk production on its farms our county ranks 98th in the state's 100 counties.

A DISGRACE TO THE STATE

The report made yesterday by the board appointed by the Governor to inquire into conditions surrounding the operation of our hospitals for the insane should cause North Carolina to drop its head in shame.

Pointing out that North Carolina ranks 45th in the 48 states in its appropriations to care for its mental patients, the examiners reported that there were far too few doctors and nurses to give even custodial supervision to the patients and it was admitted that there were cases of mistreatment of patients as punishment. Other findings included improper housing of patients and poor diets.

Now that the Governor has received the facts it is to be hoped that doing something to bring about the reforms recommended by the examining board will be made a first order of business for the next legislature.

What May Be Rationed Next Of course, many things such as automobiles, refrigerators, bicycles, radios, garden tools, etc., need not be rationed because few more of them can be manufactured.

FORECAST ON COTTON CROP

Production To Be Greater Than Last Year Washington, Aug. 6—(AP)—The Census Bureau reported today in its first forecast of this year's cotton crop that production was indicated as 13,085,000 bales of 48 pounds gross each by the condition of the crop August 1.

Production last year was 10,744,000 bales and in the ten years, 1931-40, averaged 10,000,000 bales. The area of cotton in cultivation July 1 this year was 24,065,000 acres, while last year it was 23,132,000 acres. This year's acreage, after applying the average abandonment from natural causes—2 per cent—is placed at 23,554,000 acres. Last year's harvested area was 22,238,000 acres.

The condition of the crop on August 1 was 79 per cent of a normal, compared with 72 a year ago, and 73, the ten-year August 1 average. The indicated yield of lint cotton, an acre is placed at 266.7 pounds, compared with 231.8 pounds produced last year, and 245 pounds, the ten-year average production.

The Census Bureau reported that cotton of this year's growth ginned to August 1 totaled 48,615 running bales, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, compared with 1,969 bales a year ago, and 32,187 two years ago.

Pittsburg Pirates Showing Signs of Coming Back to Life

BEAT CARDS BY SCORE 13 TO 6

Boston Braves Beat Dodgers Two To One

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Just when Pittsburgh fans were becoming resigned to having their Pirates finish in the second division of the National League and friends of Manager Frankie Frisch were feeling nutty about his future, the Buccaneers have launched a five-game winning streak.

They still are a good stone's throw from fourth place—five games—but are within one step of their longest winning stride of the season and are showing signs of becoming ambitious again.

Last night they bumped off the St. Louis Cardinals 13-6 with one devastating eight-run blast in the second inning. The Redbirds kept scrambling, using five pitchers themselves and making Frisch remove Hank Greenke in the third inning during a three-run rally.

But there never was any doubt of the result because the Pirates made 16 hits and Lefty Aldon Willie pitched winning ball in relief.

This kept the Brooklyn Dodgers from losing any of their ample first place margin, although the champions were noed out 2-1 in eleven innings by the usually docile Boston Braves. The trick was turned through a triple by Nanny Fernandez after two were out. A few moments after Fernandez perched on third, Shortstop Feevee Reese fumbled Max West's grounder to let in the deciding run.

The Braves were held to seven hits by Curt Davis and Hugh Casey, but used two of them and a fly to score in the second inning while Al Javery kept the Dodgers in check except for the eighth, when Arky Vaughan doubled and came around on a sacrifice and a fly.

Manager Leo Durocher was banished in the seventh inning for protesting against Augie Galan being called out at first.

The New York Giants downed the Philadelphia Phils 6-4 with a 14-hit attack that had plenty of authority. However, interest in the game centered around Carl Hubbell, veteran southpaw star of the Giants, who pitched perfect no-hit ball for 5-1/3 innings. Then he tried and was touched for a two-run homer by Mickey Livingston in the seventh, and another two-run circuit clout by Able Gump in the ninth, after which Ace Adams was called in to relieve him.

In the only American League game, the St. Louis Browns beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2 with Chet Laabs' 20th homer of the year helping provide the impetus.

Elmer Trout limited the Browns to eight hits, three less than Detroit made off Knuckle-baller Johnny Niggeling, but he couldn't keep Fleet-footed Vernon Stephens from racing home from second with the winning run when Mike Chartak scratched an infield single in the eighth inning.

Weather postponed the other games on the freak schedule, which originally called for one two-night and six night engagements.

ORTIZ LIFTS BANTAM TITLE

Wins 12 Round Decision Over Lou Salica

By ROBERT MYERS
Hollywood, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The new bantamweight champion of the world is a 25-year-old Mexican who a few years ago picked beans in his native Imperial valley of California for $2 a day.

The ex-beanpicker, Manuel Ortiz, lifted the bantamweight bauble off the weary brow of Lou Salica of New York's last night in a 12-round match that kept 8,000 fans alternately excited and bored.

The El Centro lad won going away, as they say around the horse park, but the game little New Yorker, a veteran of more than 10 years in the prize ring, gave his best when he knew from the outset that his crown was slipping away from him.

He tried to fight in close and got whipped. He stood off and let fly from long range, and the long-armed Mexican boy slapped him across the ring. Some of the rounds were close, but Referee Abe Roth gave Salica but one round, the first. The Associated Press card, along with two ringside judges, was more charitable. It scored three rounds for the dark-haired Italian.

It was revenge for Ortiz. Salica outpointed him in 1939, two years after Ortiz, winner of the National Golden Gloves title at Boston as a flyweight, had emerged from the amateur ranks.

Salica almost won the bout last night in the first round. He walked out out at the gong, missed a cautious left, fell into a clinch and Ortiz came out with blood streaming from the corner of his left eye. There was doubt whether it was from a punch or an unintentional butt. It looked like the latter, but it didn't cease Ortiz' attack.

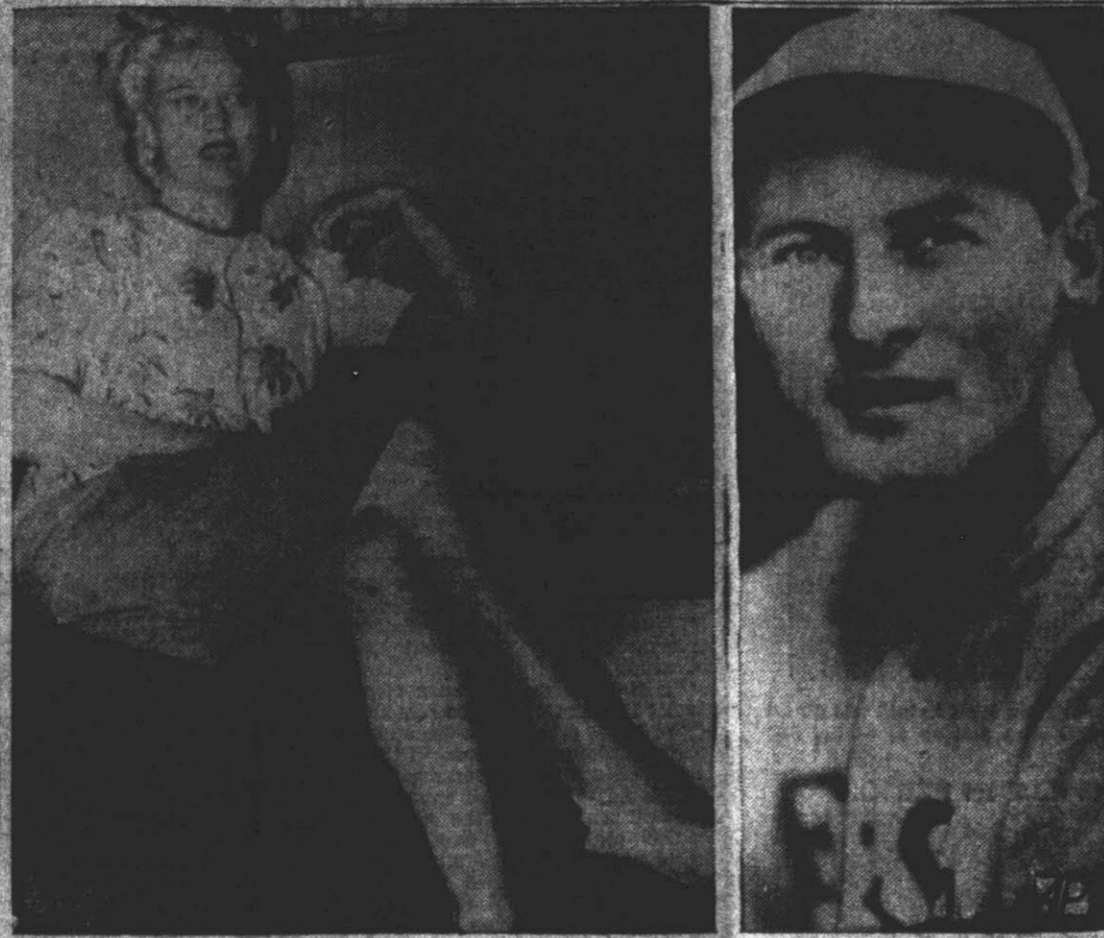

The going was rough for the next few rounds. The boys stood inside clipping away. The partisan Ortiz crowd boomed Salica.

The match settled down to a walk, but the milling was bruising. Both boys were firing at the finish. So was the crowd until the fighters opened up in the latter stages, each trying for a kayo. Salica finished the stronger, but Ortiz was by this time in no danger. He proved he was the new champion.

Edgar Smith, the hard luck pitcher of the White Sox, may get some relief before the season ends. He is 1-4 in the draft.

Mike Santos, who lost his first game of the season and then embarked on a long winning streak for Johnston in the Penn State League, is a Brooklyn boy who belongs to the Brooklyn club.

Woman Named Slayer Of Ex-Ball Player

Mrs. Eleanor Williams, 25, blue-eyed and blonde, sits in a Chicago police station after Police Sergeant Eugene McNally reported she shot and killed Gordon McNaughton (right), 32, former major league baseball pitcher when she found him in a hotel room with another woman. A former car-horn driver, Mrs. Williams surrendered to police. To visitors in jail, she commented: "If I used my head, I wouldn't have done it." McNaughton pitched briefly for the Boston Red Sox at one time.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, July 8.—Although most of last year's young big league players are in the service, Madison square garden is definitely counting on having pro hockey this winter. . . . Hasn't been explained yet how teams will be rounded up, except that there will be plenty of 18 and 19 year old Canadian boys in the lineup. . . . Anyway, the boys who make the arrangements have been given the go-ahead signal.

The army plebes should have a few kicks coming this year. . . . Wayne Brown, who was an all-state back in Minnesota at 98 and headed for you-know-where, came east to Ansonia, Conn., a while back for ten days of tutoring from Rev. University of Washington fans saw watch for Fred Provo, soph halfback who is hard to corner as a greased rabbit. . . . After giving out with the usual quota of sobs, North Carolina's dope sheet tells something about the Navy Pre-Flight school team and concludes: "The entire picture adds up to the fact that this fall Chapel Hill should be the football center of the south."

Hard Luck Harry
Jimmy Johnston, who is old enough to know better, took a holiday at Indian Lake, N. J., the other day, fell off a bicycle and fractured two ribs. . . . But if you think that's a tough break, Freddie Sommers (1) wants to raise a big squawk over the decision they handed his boy, Cleo Shans, at Holyoke, Mass., the other night; (2) he has to explain to his Los Angeles draft board why he couldn't report there the same day the notice reached him in New York; (3) he wants

Portsmouth Holds To Piedmont Lead

Charlotte, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The fight for the runner-up notch in the Piedmont league is getting to be a neck-and-neck affair.

Despite a 5-0 whitewashing at the hands of Charlotte last night, Portsmouth still has a fairly comfortable lead. But Greensboro, Richmond and Charlotte, in that order, are piling into one another to form the remainder of the first division.

After last night's games, the standing heap appeared thus:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Portsmouth	9	4	.692
Greensboro	8	4	.667
Richmond	5	4	.556
Charlotte	5	4	.556
Richmond's	4	5	.444

Greensboro twice last night, by scores of 5-1 and 13-7, to gain a half-game on Charlotte—enough to give the Colts a halftime advantage for third place.

In the league's only other game, Winston-Salem copped the series opener with Durham, 5-2.

Norfolk and Asheville had an open date.

Today's games find Norfolk at Charlotte, Asheville at Portsmouth, Winston-Salem at Durham and Richmond at Greensboro.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Slim was the word for the stock market today, with exceptionally light offerings just about balanced by timid buying.

The principal encouraging feature of the proceedings was the failure of more depressing battle developments in the Caucasus to touch off any real liquidation. There was the usual reluctance to broaden commitments over the week-end although special situations aided individual stocks and a persistent dribble of investment demand again proved a stabilizing influence.

Minor fractional price changes either way ruled from the start. Numerous issues were unchanged and many leaders never appeared on the ticker tape. Transfers of around 100,000 shares were among the smallest in two years.

Governor To Act On Report

Raleigh, Aug. 8.—(AP)—After reading a report of a five-member board of inquiry recommending sweeping reforms in state institutions for mentally ill, Governor Broughton said some of the recommendations would be carried out at once and others would be called to the attention of the 1943 General Assembly.

The report, prepared by a committee named by the Governor to investigate conditions at the State Hospital at Morganton, was made public yesterday by Broughton.

It said that patients had been willfully mistreated by attendants, that they were not fed properly, and that the hospital lacked the staff necessary to render more than "inadequate custodial care."

The Governor intimated that conditions the board found at the Morganton institution probably existed at other institutions, and he said he was asking the board of other institutions for the treatment of the insane to study the report for "helpful suggestions."

Six Saboteurs . . .

(Continued from Page One) month to the day after a military commission began trying them on espionage and sabotage charges. The eight men came equipped with explosives and materials for incendiary bombs, four landing in Florida and four on Long Island.

The text of the White House announcement: "The President completed his review of the findings and sentences of the military commission appointed by him on July 2, 1942, which tried the eight Nazi saboteurs. "The President approved the judgment of the military commission that all of the prisoners were guilty and that they be given the death sentence by electrocution. "However, there was a unanimous recommendation by the commission, concurred in by the Attorney General and the Judge Advocate General of the Army, that the sentence of two of the prisoners be commuted to life imprisonment because of their assistance to the Government of the United States in the apprehension and conviction of the others. "The commutation directed by President in the case of Burger was for confinement at hard labor for life. In the case of Dasch, the sentence was commuted by the President to confinement at hard labor for thirty years. "The electrocutions began at noon today. "Six of the prisoners were electrocuted. The other two confined to prison. "The record in all eight cases will be sealed until the end of the war." The six who were electrocuted were Edward John Kerling, Herbert Hars Haupt, Richard Quirin, Werner Thiel, Herman Otto Neubauer and Henry Harm Heineke.

The announcement of the executions was handed reporters by Stephen Early, presidential secretary.

Several miles away, reporters outside the District jail watched ambulances drive into the prison yard at 1:24 p. m. (EWT). No official word was given there that the six Nazis had been electrocuted, however.

The District of Columbia coroner, Dr. Magruder Macdonald, had come to the prison shortly before noon and Army chaplains and three medical officers also were on hand. From 11 a. m. on, virtually all lights in the prison had been extinguished. Talking to reporters, a guard said that six stretchers had been put in the prison.

The District electric chair was in readiness if the military custodians of the prisoners demanded its use. In mid-morning, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early would say only to reporters: "On the question of the eight prisoners in the District jail, there is as yet no news for you." Early would not indicate when there might be some news. Yesterday President Roosevelt said he had not yet completed his review of the findings.

Since 8 a. m. a curtain of strict military silence had hung over the building. Correspondents on the inside were directed not to attempt any outside telephone calls.

Inside the jail when this ban was a down high army officers, Military applied was Brig. Gen. Albert L. Guyre, who said that Cox must be "Cox, proved marshal of the military district of Washington in. Outside the building, reporters whose custody the prisoners have and photographers gathered, waited to be placed. With him were about ing some official word from beyond the line of bayonets. Major Thomas Silver, assistant provost marshal, was seen by reporters to go to the telephone switchboard and check his watch against official time.
