Tank-Led Nazi Columns Threaten Russian Black Sea Naval Base; Nazis On Road To Vast Baku Oil Fields; Vichy Says Fighting In Progress In Stalin's Defense Zone

By The Associated Press
Tank-led German troops were reported imperiling the Red fleet's Black Sea naval bases at Novorossiysk and Tuapse deep in the western Caucasus today, while in the north a Vichy broadcast asserted that fighting was in progress within Stalin's defense zone.

The broadcast said there were indications that the Germans shortly would launch a general assault on the great Volga river industrial city. Another Vichy report declared that Nazi columns, striking more than half way down the Caucasus on the road to the vast Baku oil fields, were advancing on Mordok and Ordzhonikidze.

Mordok lies about 300 miles northwest of Baku and 70 miles above the important Grouny oil center. Ordzhonikidze is 50 miles southwest of Grouny.

Soviet dispatches acknowledged that the Red armies were falling back from the burning Malkop oil fields and that separate German columns were within 60 miles of the Novorossiysk and Tuapse naval bases as the invaders spread out through the northern foothills of the Caucasus mountains.

As the crisis grew darker by the hour, official Soviet newspapers appealed to the Red armies to save Russia, and Red Star, the army's official, declared:

"The fate of our country is being decided in the violent battles of the Don and the Kuban."

Front-line dispatches said the Germans were shoving parachute troops behind Russian lines near Kotelnikovo, 55 miles below Leningrad, but said the aerial invaders were being promptly mopped up.

A bulletin from Nazi field headquarters declared the Russians were attempting to flee from the Black Sea ports of Novorossiysk, Tuapse and Anapa, and said German warplanes, stepping up their attacks on embankment, movements had sunk 11 transports.

The German high command said the Russians had been thrown back from Malkop into the Caucasus mountains in several sectors, but gave no indication that Nazi spearheads had advanced anywhere near Ordzhonikidze or Mordok.

In the battle of the Don river bend, before Stalingrad, the Nazi command asserted that Marshal Semen Timoshenko's defenders were "driven together in a narrow space where they faced annihilation."

To the north, in the Rostov sector 120 miles west of Moscow, the Germans acknowledged that they were fighting a "heavy defensive battle" with the Red armies, newly reinforced, pressing a strong attack.

At mid-day, after bitter all-night fighting, Red army headquarters conceded that the Nazis had broken a new gap in the Russian defenses at Armavir, 180 miles below Rostov. (Continued On Page Eight)

Women's Rest Room To Be Opened Here
Rest rooms for women will be opened at 111 East Fourth Street, in the office formerly occupied by Dr. E. B. Aycock, when the tobacco market opens on August 25. Miss Martha Lee Correll, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, announced today.

The rest room, or recreation center for women who work and those who visit the city, will be formally opened with appropriate exercises. The mayor and city and county officials and other community leaders will have part in the program.

The rest rooms are specially equipped for its purpose. Conveniences for the women of the city and county have needed a long time, will be provided. The name of the person in charge will be announced later. It will be open daily except Sunday from 10 until 6 o'clock, probably 9 p. m. on Saturdays, Miss Correll stated. Women will be welcome.

Arrangements have been made for reading matter, games, etc., and modern, sanitary facilities. The plans indicate that the rest rooms will be a blessing for mothers from out of the city who have young children with them.

A member of the "war cabinet," which meets near the Reflecter office daily, except Sunday, today suggested that the rest rooms have a name, and offered as a suggestion, "Idle Hour."

The city and county contributed funds for maintaining the rest rooms. Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club secured furnishings and other equipment.

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—The German radio, in a special announcement, reported that the British aircraft carrier Eagle had been sunk by a German submarine today in the western Mediterranean. Four torpedoes hit ship, the radio said.

The Eagle was in a strongly protected convoy and was attacked "at midday," according to the Germans.

The Eagle, completed in 1918, had a displacement of 22,000 tons with a complement of 748 and carried 21 aircraft.

JAP BASES IN CHINA BOMBED
U. S. Airmen Attack Vicinity Of Hankow

Chongking, Aug. 11 (AP)—Fighter-bombed American bombers in a low-altitude attack on Hankow and vicinity bombed newly constructed warehouses and other objectives yesterday, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Hankow, Japan's greatest inland base in China, is on the Yangtze river and has been a frequent target of the American bombers.

The headquarters war bulletin said there was no anti-aircraft fire and no air opposition.

"Incendiary as well as high explosive bombs were dropped," it said. "A number of hits were scored in the town and on newly constructed warehouses. At least two large fires were started."

The headline said followed on Sunday by American airmen on Hainan. French Indo-China port where a Chinese army spokesman said today, Japanese reinforcements for Thailand and Burma landed around July 27. These enemy forces and others which arrived at the same time at Saigon, farther down the Indo-China coast, possibly will be used in an attack on India or Yunnan province in southern China, this informant said.

Japanese troops were reported also massing in Formosa, with Japanese warships again active off the southeast coast, indicating a possible new invasion of Fukien province, it was stated.

The Chinese high command said life troops had dislodged Japanese forces entrenched in the western suburbs of Linchuan (Fuchow), forcing them to fall back inside the walled city in central Kiangsi province.

A Japanese sortie at the southern outskirts of the city was reported repulsed.

The Chinese communiqué said the Japanese also were beaten back when they attempted to drive Chinese forces from the village of Ehr-tonan, northwest of Linchuan. The Chinese took Ehr-tonan a few days ago.

Axis Raider

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Brazilian Department of Press Propaganda authorized publication abroad today of a report that an Axis surface raider was operating in the south Atlantic, having attacked one or more freighters yesterday and another Saturday.

Records of the attacks were not disclosed, but it was reported that coastal shipping was taking precautions.

The reports were not published today.

SEE THREAT TO MIDDLE EAST
More Serious Than Loss Of Russian Oil

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—A British military source said today that the allied hold on the Middle East was gravely menaced by the on-rushing German forces in the Caucasus and Marshal Rommel's German-Italian army in Egypt's western desert.

"Infinitely more" is at stake than preservation of Russian oil fields and British bases in Egypt, said this source, which declined to permit close identification.

"These objectives are only incidental to the German drive to isolate Russia and Turkey, dominate the Middle East and bridge joining Asia, Europe and Africa, and unity with Japan to exchange the booty of three continents," this source stated.

He expressed belief that the Germans would try to drive down to Tiflis with special tank and mountain troops while the remainder of their forces in south Russia pushed eastward toward the Caspian.

At the same time, the position in Egypt was causing some anxiety in military quarters, which said a drive through Alexandria and Cairo to Suez, then northward toward Syria and Iraq was an indispensable part of the vast German plan campaign in the Middle East.

Italian Sub Lost
Rome (From Italian Broadcasts)—Aug. 11 (AP)—The Italian high command said today that an Italian submarine had failed to return to its base.

They follow. Didn't they predict that China and the United States together would whip Japan?

Even Japan's Chinese puppets have begun to waver. They have told American unflinching doctors in the over-run areas how they and the forces under them now are holding on, playing at cooperation with the enemy—because non-cooperation means death for themselves and all the Chinese around them—until the day comes to strike.

To sympathetic American ears they whisper that they have learned that there is no such thing as cooperation with the Japanese, only slavery under Japanese masters.

China's war effort is in top gear. Behind the lines, far from smoke of countless daily battles, millions of Chinese—men, women and children—toll in thousands of small factories.

British Troops Aid In Quelling Indian Riots

Dreaded Rioting Between Hindus and Moslems Is Expected

By PRESTON GROVER
Bombay, Aug. 11 (AP)—British troops, some armed with machine guns, came to the aid of police today to quell a riot in Bombay.

The toll of casualties since outbreaks began Sunday thus was brought to 28 dead and more than 200 injured, with disorders and mill stoppages spreading wider over India and indications that dreaded communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems might break out.

The Bombay government announced that troops had participated in the firing on crowds on one or two occasions. Police marched in formation through the various disturbed sections.

In a radio broadcast to the nation Sir Roger Lumley, governor of Bombay, declared that he could not allow the disturbances to continue, and said "police and troops have orders to take severe measures whenever necessary."

Work was interrupted at the General Motors assembly plant in Bombay. The Ford assembly plant continued in operation.

The government took increased measures to restore and keep order. In some areas troops marched in where police strength seemed inadequate to cope with expected outbreaks.

From Bombay on the west coast to Calcutta on the east coast came reports of demonstrations, hartals (Continued On Page Three)

Word that "we are holding our own" in the Solomon Islands in the face of strong Japanese counter-attacks carries us as far as we are entitled to venture in our eagerness to figure out how the battle goes for Uncle Sam's fighting forces which are staging our first major offensive.

This brief report comes from Australian Premier John Curtin. It is not much, and we shall be well advised not to try to read into it more than it indicates, namely, that at the time of the announcement we were getting on with the job, and that the enemy resistance was heavy.

MORE TALK ON SECOND FRONT

Nazis Trying Hold Occupied Areas In Check

By The Associated Press
Second-front talk increased in Europe's conquered nations today as Nazi firing-squads took nearly 100 more lives and the Germans clamped down with ruthless new measures to prevent an uprising in the event of an allied invasion of Europe.

Ninety-three Frenchmen were executed in Paris and at least six Czechs in old-Glasgow-Slovakia, the latter on charges of "high treason and favoring the enemy."

France seethed with bitter unrest. Roundabout reports from Vichy said pro-German Premier Pierre Laval had called up police and troop reinforcements to protect the hated Vichy regime against a rumored coup d'etat.

Simultaneously, the Dutch News Agency Aneta quoted Swiss reports that the Germans had seized 300 more Dutch hostages to be "held responsible with their lives for the conduct of the Netherlands people in the event of a British invasion of Holland."

More than 1,500 prominent Dutch clergymen, physicians and business men had previously been taken as hostages by the Germans, Aneta said, in their attempt to forestall a bloody revolt when the allies attempt to open a second front in Western Europe.

Dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, said the Germans had threatened reprisals against every man, woman and child in occupied France as an aftermath of new anti-Nazi outbreaks which sent 40 more Frenchmen to their deaths before German troops arrived.

The German military commander in Paris was quoted as threatening to "take measures for which the whole population will suffer" unless those responsible for attacks on German soldiers were brought to light.

Underground reports from Belgium and Holland told of new preparations by the Germans against a possible allied invasion.

One report said a high Nazi officer in Belgium had been authorized to apply the torch to everything in sight if the Germans were forced to retreat before allied armies.

All interested persons are urged to enroll for the class. There will be no tuition charge, states Instructor Horne.

Bob Kittrell, also a Red Cross Water Safety Instructor, is anxious for more persons from 12 to 17 years of age to enroll in his class in Junior Life Saving, which is meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning. "It's not too late to sign up," declares Bob.

Six Soldiers Drowned
Titusville, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP)—Six soldiers were drowned today when an army truck skidded and crashed through a bridge railing into 16 feet of water in the Indian river.

The accident was announced by the Army Sub-sector Command for Florida at Miami which said details of the accident had not been received.

Names of the drowned men were not immediately available. Witnesses said the truck was carrying about a score of soldiers.

Air Forces Continue To Hunt Axis Shipping

Cairo, Aug. 11 (AP)—British air attacks over the still-quiet Egyptian front were concentrated yesterday on Axis transport, both ashore and afloat, and enemy communications in the desert, British headquarters announced today.

In another successful blow on Mediterranean shipping, a communique said, RAF light bombers sank one lighter and damaged another.

On the ground, headquarters said, "there was nothing to report" in daylight after continuing night patrol activity on the whole front.

Rome (From Italian Broadcasts)—Aug. 11 (AP)—The Italian high command reported increased air and ground activity on the Egyptian front claiming the destruction of a number of allied reconnaissance cars which approached the Italian lines.

The tank attack was repulsed, the communique said.

It said nine RAF planes were shot down by German fighters and two others were downed during an attack on Tobruk.

Improvement In Tobacco Crop
Raleigh, Aug. 11 (AP)—North Carolina's fine-cured tobacco yield is estimated at $13,730,000 pounds, or one per cent more than the indication in July.

J. J. Morgan, statistician of the State Department of Agriculture, announcing the estimates, said the state's bright leaf crop was expected to be 15 per cent above the 1941 harvest but two per cent under the 1940-39 average.

The prediction was based on the August 1 Federal-State crop reporting summary.

Primaries Produce Test Presidential Influence
By The Associated Press
Primary balloting in five states today produces a test of presidential influence and pre-war foreign policies in New York's selection of congressional nominees and convention delegates who will pick candidates for governor.

Voters determine congressional and gubernatorial candidates in Idaho and Nebraska and decide a run-off between two senatorial aspirants in Arkansas. But chief political interest centered on the contest in President Roosevelt's home state.

New York's selection of delegates to the Democratic convention, August 19, was expected to disclose the respective strength of the party's two gubernatorial candidates, Senator James M. Mead and State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

The President has asserted he would support Mead if he could vote in the convention. Mr. Roosevelt's former campaign manager, State Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, is backing Bennett.

Meanwhile, supporters of Thomas E. Dewey, 1938 Republican nominee for governor, claimed pledges from enough delegates to win him the party's nomination.

The Democratic contest shared the spotlight with Rep. Hamilton Fish's race against three opponents for the Republican renomination for congress in the President's home district.

Fish's opponents, who based their campaign on what they termed his isolationist views, are Augustus W. Bennett, Newburgh attorney; State Assemblyman Emerson D. Fife, Vassar college professor, and Edward J. Bowen, a frequent candidate.

In Ohio, democratic nomination for the governorship was sought by Frank A. Dye, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Walter H. Herr, a county democratic committee chairman; former State Treasurer Charles

Invasion Forces Holding Despite Heavy Jap Counter-Attack; Allied Airmen Give Support To Ground Forces; Land Action Drives Back Japanese In Kokoda, New Guinea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 11, (AP)—The Allied forces which accomplished their planned landings in an air, land and sea-borne attack on the Solomon Islands are under strong Japanese counter-attack, but "we are holding our own," Australian Prime Minister John Curtin announced today.

Curtin said that American Admiral Ernest J. King's Washington announcement yesterday, despite its listing of the loss of one allied cruiser, that two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport damaged, indicated allied gains as far have greatly outweighed losses.

Admiral King spoke of "a large number" of enemy planes destroyed and "serious" units put out of action, and referred definitely to "Tulagi operations as a success" and to the "end of the offensive."

The Prime Minister's statement was the first official announcement on the main operations in the Solomon Islands since the Japanese landed there last December.

Today's communique said of a third day of fighting on the island of Guadalcanal, Japan's main base in New Britain, and at Timor, more than 4,000 miles to the west, in which a heavy destroyer and two merchant ships were knocked out.

It also was disclosed that Australian land forces were involved in the Solomon Islands attack, but that Australian naval units participated and Australian air forces were cooperating in the successful defense of the islands.

A dispatch from an advanced base said that the attack at Timor was carried out at low level by Australian-armed bombers.

"My home made a noisy hole in a 4,000-ton ship," said an Australian flight lieutenant. "After bombing, I (Continued on page three)

Improvement In Woman Performs Own Amputation
Jacksonville, N. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The story of how a woman performed an emergency amputation on her foot when her socks caught in the drive shaft of the motor in her fishing boat and dragged her foot into the motor's set-screw, was told here today.

Mrs. C. F. Thomson, in company with a local youth, was fishing in New River at the time. Her foot was badly mangled. She performed the operation with a fish knife, making the amputation just above the ankle. A strip of cloth from her blouse served as a tourniquet.

A nearby boat towed her craft into Petterfield Point, 15 miles away, and Coast Guardsmen rushed her to the local hospital at the New River Marine Base. Blood plasma was administered and another amputation was made, below the knee, because the mangle of her leg was badly torn.

Mrs. Thomson was conscious during the second operation and inquired as to an artificial limb, physicians said.

CITIZENS ENJOY STAY OF ENGINEERS HERE

(By Lucy Cherry Crisp)
When the Engineers pulled out from the Armory Monday to leave Greenville for their next appointed station, there was the mutual regret felt always when farewells are said among friends. The Engineers, according to their spokesmen, hated to leave Greenville. And townspeople, according to their spokesmen, hated to see them go.

Quartered in the Armory for several months, these Army Engineers have gone about their work quietly and unobtrusively, gradually making for themselves a lasting place in the affection of many in the community. They will be missed among us, especially at the Woman's Club, where they came in, and out each week and with the easy familiarity of "home folks." Since they will still be stationed in North Carolina, we hope they may get back for visits. Some of them already plan to.

Then maybe we can accept some of these room-for-the-night invitations you people have been offering us all these Saturday afternoons, one of them said last week, with a laugh at the expense of hostesses who sometimes did not recognize a local Engineer for what he was. And then he went on to say something more about what the club had meant to him during his stay in this community.

We hope they do get back to make use of such invitations, for in saying farewell to them after their stay in our community, we can with warm appreciation and since good wishes add "And a salute to the Engineers."

Seek Bodies Of Warehouse Victims

Milwaukee, Aug. 11 (AP)—Grime-stricken rescuers fighting their way inch by inch through tons of broken glass and debris uncovered today the body of one of the 13 men believed to have died when a warehouse collapsed in suburban Wauwatosa.

Frank Dreyer, warehouse employee identified the body as that of William Schaedlich, 37, Milwaukee. The body, badly crushed, was found about 16 hours after the accident occurred. By mid-morning the bodies of 4 others were partly uncovered. They could not be removed at once as debris at the top of the huge pile of wreckage hung precariously, holding the two-fold danger of injuring the work crews and of plunging added tonnage onto the victims.

NAZIS CLAIM SHIPPING TOLL

Say U-Boats Sunk 13 Vessels In Three Days

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) Aug. 11.—(AP)—A special high command communiqué said today that U-boats in three days have sunk 13 vessels totalling 86,231 tons, and a destroyer, and damaged 10 additional merchantmen totalling 48,000 tons, and a destroyer.

(These claims were without confirmation from other sources.)

The communiqué said six of the ships, totalling 41,000 tons, and the destroyer were sunk in repeated attacks by under-sea boats on a strongly protected convoy bound for England. In the same attacks seven ships were reported damaged.

Of the other ships reported sunk and damaged the communiqué said some were attacked while on their way from America to Egypt loaded with raw materials and the rest were attacked off the American and West African coasts.

Nebraska's republican governor, Dwight Griswold, competes with one opponent for re-election while three democrats are vying for the designation.

In Idaho, Governor Chase A. Clark looked for renomination on the democratic ticket. The Republican candidacy was sought by William Detweiler, Thomas D. McDougall and C. A. Holtzgren. Senator John Thomas' effort for republican renomination was opposed by two contestants and five others contested for the democratic designation.

Former Representative John McClellan and Attorney General Jack Holt competed for democratic nomination as senator in the Arkansas run-off.

the Japanese almost without opposition for five years, are scattered and camped in hundreds of mud-walled villages.

Not only are they the arsenal of China's struggle for survival, they also are the pattern of a new China. They raise community living standards and spread employment and wealth to the impoverished laboring classes. When the war ends they will make ploughs instead of swords.

At the front, huge armies continue to play their old game of wait-and-ponce, a wily scheme which has kept the invader at bay despite his wealth of armament.

The Chinese pay heavily in men because the Japanese know the same now and blast at the inexhaustible manpower which flows against them. But China's millions keep coming.

More millions of communist and other guerrilla forces harry the invaders' communications, ambush his transports, massacre outlying garrisons and sabotage his political and economic schemes in the dominated regions.

Even poorer armed than the regulars, the guerrillas show a morale and courage which flames more passionately today than ever.

Last spring and summer, the Japanese sent division after division against the communists in North China in what was announced as the final anti-guerrilla mop-up. The Japanese announced, as usual, that the guerrillas were annihilated. The next night the hit-and-run fighters

Police said the slightest spark might touch off rioting between the sub-continent's opposing religious groups, Hindus and Moslems.

Two days of rioting already had brought the death toll in Bombay alone to 17—all Indians shot attacking police or attempting to destroy suburban railroad stations or grain warehouses.

There were new demonstrations this morning in the Dadar, Parel and Matunga sections of the city. Bonfires were started in the streets and fed with hats, neckties and other articles of European clothing snatched from passersby.

Police opened fire twice when mobs set fire to a wooden police guard post and attempted to halt traffic.

Two were killed and several injured during the morning.

In many places the mere presence of troops prevented outbreaks. A regiment marched into Ahmedabad where students and mill workers had seemed on the verge of disorder. Troops marched ceaselessly through the streets of Bombay. Machine-guns were mounted covering a beach where a meeting of Indians had been scheduled. An armored car stood guard at one intersection. Two score soldiers, veterans of the Burma fight, stood with fixed bayonets at another corner.

In the Kokoda sector of New Guinea, the headquarters announcement said, allied forces strongly engaged the enemy yesterday and forced him to withdraw from prepared positions.

This was a variation from previous announcements of patrol activity in this theater on the Papuan peninsula 60 miles east of the allied base at Port Moresby.

An Australian government spokesman disclosed that shipments of supplies of "highest possible value" that would "revolutionize offensive operations in the north" were landed recently in Australia.

"Supplies constantly are coming in," said the spokesman, who gave much credit to the negotiations recently conducted in Washington by H. V. Ewart, Australian attorney general and minister of external affairs.

"In three or four months Australia already has had results of Ewart's visit in the arrival of all kinds, such as army equipment, war materials and tanks," the spokesman said.

Judge James Takes Drivers' Licenses

In County Court today Judge Dink James meted out similar judgment to four violators of the North Carolina speed laws and ruled that they should forfeit their driver's licenses for 10 days.

Possessing liquor for sale: Rommie Mills, colored, 60 days, judgment suspended on payment of $50 and remand of good behavior two years; Robert Robertson, 60 days or $50 fine and padlock place for 10 days; Charlie Lewis and Thad Little, cases transferred to Superior Court.

Driving while drunk: Moses Anderson, colored, not guilty.

Forcible trespass and assault: Moses Anderson, six months in jail, suspended on payment of $25 and remain away from the County Home two years.

Abandonment and non-support: Herbert Ross, not guilty.

A capias was issued for Joe Harvey, colored, charged with non-support.

"Rainy-Day Fund" Liked By Farmers

Farmers in Pitt county, served by the Pitt National Farm Loan Association, are showing considerable interest in the Federal Land Bank of Columbia's future payment plan, according to G. N. Edwards, president of the association.

The future payment fund, commonly known as the "rainy-day fund," Edwards explained, is a plan whereby Federal Land Bank borrowers can make advance payments on their loans and receive interests on them compounded semi-annually at the same rate they pay on their land bank installments.

"Most farmers are familiar with President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program," Edwards said, "and the future payment plan was inaugurated to help promote this program. In my opinion, this is the best addition to the bank's loan repayment plan that has been made since it was organized in 1917."

Strength
FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE LAW OF THE SEED

Some people insist on digging into their lives and keeping themselves continually miserable. If they start on any course of action, they question the outcome anxiously. Every day they torture themselves needlessly because they believe,
sometimes with very little cause,
that they are desperately wicked of heart, or inferior to other people, or perhaps the object of widespread ridicule.

In the parable of the seed, our Lord intended among other things to teach men that, having decided upon a right course of action, they should put the whole situation in God's hands, as the farmer puts seed into the ground, and then go off and forget it. Many people insist on continually digging up the seed to see whether or not it is growing. And thus, in such prospects of growth in a plant, so it ruins the prospect of growth in things which have to do with our daily lives.

The farmer has nothing to do with fashioning the seed and giving it life. Seeds are the gift of God.
All the farmer can do is to cast seed into the ground. Within the shell of the seed are life-giving powers which, when combined with the fertility of the earth, produce growth. We do not doubt that seed cast into the earth will grow, certain requirements of weather and fertility being present. But we do so often doubt that once we have put the good purposes of our lives into God's hands, He will make them bring forth fruit.

Daybook

Washington—"Air raid" in the Senate:

It is one of those off days and there is only a scattering of senators in their seats or wandering in and out of the cloakrooms. There is a handful of newsmen in the press gallery. The public galleries hold perhaps 150 persons.

So faint that it almost is no
noise at all, the sound of a siren
drifts down through the skylight.
Business drones on. Senator Smithers, in the presiding officer's chair, is calling for reconsideration of a bill already passed. An assistant sergeant-at-arms runs in and whispers in the ear of Majority Leader Barkley.

The senator is on his feet so quickly he scatters papers on his desk. "Mr. President, if there is nothing further, as in legislative session, I move that the senate adjourn until Monday next."

That faint siren sound was the second and final air raid alert. It is 2:30. The senate is three minutes behind the air raid schedule.

The exodus begins. The Capitol elevators already have stopped running. The stairs are jammed as wardens and deputy wardens (all Capitol or Senate employees) guide
the lines of senators, pages, clerks, sightseers, newsmen and Capitol spleen through the north door and out across the plaza.

The line wavers as it emerges
from the air-cooled Capitol into a surging wall of Washington heat,
but the wardens hustle it along.
It's a city block to the basement of the Senate office building.

Across the Capitol Plaza to the east, there is no sign of activity in the U. S. Supreme Court building.
We wonder why for we know that the supreme court is sitting. We find out later. The supreme court, deep within the thick walls of its marble edifice, was unable to hear the alarm. They probably wouldn't have adjourned if they had.

But now we are piling into the "air raid shelter"—a basement hallway of the Senate office building.
The air conditioning has been shut off and already the packed hallway is warming uncomfortably. The last of the stragglers move into the shelter and the doors are closed. It has taken 14 minutes for the senate side of the Capitol to get to their shelter—enough time for bombers from beyond Baltimore to reach here, drop their eggs and scoot for home.

Hard as it is, it's well that we adjust ourselves now to the certainty that there will be a casualty list. And we should recognize too, that as the war progresses such lists will grow in length. Victory cannot be achieved without these sacrifices of life, and I'm very much afraid that the way this war is going we must be prepared for a far greater loss than we experienced in the last one.

The amphibious operation which we are carrying out under the direct command of Vice Admiral Gormley, commander in the South Pacific, is one of the most difficult and dangerous which war provides.
That is the landing of men from transports in the face of a heavy enemy defense. We are seeing in miniature an attack such as would be involved in an invasion of France
across the English Channel.

The land fighting thus far reported seems to have been centered on the islands of Tulagi and Guadalcanal. These two islands are of great strategic importance.

Tulagi possesses a vast harbor which would provide anchorage for a Japanese armada. Guadalcanal was being prepared as a great airbase. The Japs have been landing there for several weeks now, to disappear into the jungle where they
have set natives to work building
airdromes.

However, while these two dots in
the sea appeared to be the storm
center, the operations spread
throughout the whole area comprising the Solomons, the Bismarck
archipelago and New Guinea, for General MacArthur's allied war-
planes were hitting here, there and
everywhere. Not only were they covering our troop landings but they were reaching far afield to slash at Jap airdromes and so protect our
ground forces from Nipponese air
attack as much as possible.

appear into the jungle where they
have set natives to work building
airdromes.

However, while these two dots in
the sea appeared to be the storm
center, the operations spread
throughout the whole area comprising the Solomons, the Bismarck
archipelago and New Guinea, for General MacArthur's allied war-
planes were hitting here, there and
everywhere. Not only were they covering our troop landings but they
were reaching far afield to slash at Jap airdromes and so protect our
ground forces from Nipponese air
attack as much as possible.

MRS. MURDOCK
TAKES A CASE

By George
Harmen
Coxe

Chapter 47
"Dean Did It!"
"And if Hardacker came to us when he should," Bacon said, "he'd be alive right now."

"He had a job to do first," Fenner's glance flashed with Bacon's.
"He took Raeburn's money and he had to do his job first."

"Ahh—"

"Thornike probably didn't know about the envelope until Hardacker came to him—just as he came to Della," Murdock went on. "There are a lot of things we'll know for sure, now, but it must have been something like Ward said. Thorndike stalled, made a date with Har-dacker, knowing he'd have to kill him or face a constant threat of ex-posure. By that time he must have been pretty curious about that envelope and made Hardacker call Delia. I doubt if he actually knew what it contained until after he'd finally taken it away from Raeburn
on the street."

He looked at Ward Allen. "Har-dacker came to you, too."

Allen nodded. "He said he wanted
the envelope. I told him I'd get it.
I knew Della must have it—I didn't know there had been someone else
up there—and I went to her place to try and find it. So I could give it to him—so he wouldn't go to the police and tell them she'd been there."

Della looked up at him tenderly and her hand found its way inside his.

"I never dreamed the bonds were there, the money," Joyce said. "I thought it was the envelope, although I wasn't sure why."

A Light Dawns

The telephone rang and Bacon
answered it.

"I've got to shove off," he said when he hung up. He looked from one to the other, rubbing his chin, his glance accusing. "There are still some things I don't know about.
What I ought to do, after the run-around I got, is take you all down and make you sing. I could do it, too."

"Sure," Murdock said. "And I can hand in a story that'll make you wish you hadn't. All about how Mrs.
Murdock solved your case for you
—with Fenner's help."

"Ahh—"

"What are you crabbing about?
You got what you need, haven't you? Look at me. Here I am running around not knowing which way is up, with not even a camera.
Now I've got to go down and—"

"Never mind," growled Bacon.
"I'm sorry I mentioned it." He grinned crookedly at them and went out.

Joyce went over to Della. "You'll want to stay and help Ward unpack, won't you? We should run along I think. There's just one thing I'd like to know—what happened here before I came? How did Dean find out?"

Della shivered. "I'm still scared every time I think of it."

"They came right after you'd phoned me," Allen said.

"I'd made up my mind I was going to have it out with Ward," Delia said. "Uncle Dean said he'd go out in the kitchen and get himself a drink and we were to see if we couldn't straighten things out."

Della colored and lowered her glance. "I said awful things—I'm sorry, darling—but I couldn't help
it. I told him he was acting the fool and that I knew he'd been up to Perry Clarke and I'd been protecting him and—oh, a lot more things."

"And then I got sore too," Allen said, looking sheepish. "I let go with both barrels and told her what I knew. When she saw that I'd been thinking all the time that she did it, she got even angrier. How could I say such a thing? I was a beast and—"

"Please, Ward."

"All right. . . . Anyway, I told her what Clarke had said before he died. I could tell by her expression that I had been wrong, and yet there it was—the thing he said. 'Dee did it.' I kept repeating it and then something hit me between the eyes.
If it wasn't Dee, what had Clarke said? Dean. . . . I said. And it dawned on me and I said the name over again and then something made us turn and he was standing in that doorway."

Telegram For Fenner

He gestured towards the hall. "He came in slowly, slipping an auto-matia from his pocket, and then I knew why he'd stayed. He was afraid we might know something and, getting together, reach some conclusion. And we had—and there we were."

"I'll never forget the expression
on his face," Della hunched her shoulders again. "Never."

"I hardly know what I said after that," Ward said. "I didn't know what he was going to do, but I guess I said we'd keep his secret—something like that. He just looked at us. I couldn't get any reaction; then I thought of Joyce. I said she was coming, that she was on her way.
That's when he told us what would happen if we gave him away.
He made Della sit beside him and tucked the gun under his coat. 'If anything happens, she goes first,' he said."

"And then Raeburn came in with you," Della said.

"I didn't know what was going to happen," Ward said. "Dean just sat there pretending surprise—and then the rest of you came."

Fenner put on his coat. "You did all right. That was a swell story you told. Just enough lies in it to tip off Joyce, but not enough to make Thornike start anything."

Della came over to Joyce, who rose to meet her. The girl hugged her; then, still holding her, drew back slightly, trying to say something and having a hard time.

"It's all right," Joyce said. "I understand. We'll call you later."

They stood that way a moment and Della smiled. The smile did things to Joyce and she could not tell whether there were tears in Delia's eyes or only in her own.

The knock on the door gave them respite. Fenner opened it and a uniformed boy said:

"Telegram for Mr. Fenner."

"What?" the detective took the envelope, stared at it, turned it over.
"I guess you're right," he said and signed it, handing the boy a coin.

He shut the door and tore open the envelope. There were two sheets inside and when he had scowled at them he looked up, grinning and shaking his head.

Yanks And Boston Red Sox Meet For Three-Game Series

TRAIL YANKS BY 13 GAMES

Individual Duels Expected Mark Contests

By AUSTIN REALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer
There doesn't seem to be much else that can do to catch the New York Yankees, but the Red Sox get another chance today to slow them down and renew a few personal duels at the same time.
As the Red Sox moved into Yankee stadium for a three-game series they came to second place in the American league by a lone percentage point but they trailed the defending champions by 13 lengths—just one shy of the marking the Yanks held at this stage in their runaway campaign of 1941.
Although the Yankees divided a Athletics yesterday, they lacked a full game to their lead with the help of the Washington Senators, who swept a two-night series from the Red Sox, and the Chicago White Sox, who whipped Cleveland again.
It was the ninth straight victory for the White Sox and it enabled them to step into fifth place ahead of the idle Detroit Tigers.
One duel the customers will be looking for in the Yankee-Red Sox series is that between Ted Williams of Boston and Joe Gordon of New York for the batting crown which the Red Soxer now bears. They are one-two among the hitters of the league, with Gordon only seven percentage points behind.
Another interesting development should materialize in the meeting of two of the devastating Dittaglio brothers, Boston's Dominick and New York's Joe. Each has collected 100 hits this season, but Joe has the edge in most of the other departments and is hitting .307 to Dom's .292. Joe has hit 10 homers to 11 for Dominick and leads in runs scored, 41 to 35.
Today's battle also brings together two of the league's top three pitchers—Frank Harvey of the Yankees with ten wins and two losses and Tex Hughson of the Red Sox with a record of 13 and three.
The Senators pounded Oscar Judd and Mace Brown for 11 hits in taking the first game from the Red Sox, 9-3, last night, but the second game was a pitching duel in which Walt Masterson of the Senators triumphed over Joe Dobson, 1-0, although the Nats were outlived, 5 to 4. A single by Stan Spence and a double by Bruce Campbell decided the issue in the first frame.

At Chicago, the fast-traveling White Sox collected only five hits off Chubby Dean, while the Tribe clipped Joe Humphries for 11, but the Sox won, 3-1. Dean walked in the run that put Chicago ahead to stay.
The Athletics tripped the Yankees and Red Ruffing, 4-1, in the opener of their double bill, but Ernie Bonham pitched the champs to a 3-2 decision in the nightcap.
After Ruffing had pitched one-half for six frames, the A's tagged him for four blows and all their runs in the seventh. Bonham pitched six-hit ball in the second game.
In the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers blanked the Philadelphia Phils, 6-0, in a two-night affair and increased their lead to nine games over the St. Louis Cardinals, who went down before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, in the only other contest on the day's card.
Kirby Higbe handcuffed the Phils on four hits. His mates could manage only six of the combined offerings of Frank Horst, Ike Pearson and St. Johnson but they made each one count for a run.
The Pirates, who drove Mort Cooper off the mound in a 16-inning tie game last Saturday, routed him again yesterday in the fifth inning of the playoff or the deadlock.
Bob Elliott's three-run triple sent Cooper to his sixth defeat, compared with 15 triumphs. The Cards rapped Don Wilkie and Loyd Dies for 11 hits.
Sabe Young, playing outfield for the Giants, is a first baseman. Buster Maynard, outfielder, is trying out in the infield.

Portsmouth And Asheville Split

Charlotte, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Asheville Tourists inaugurated twilight ball for the pace-setting Portsmouth Cubs last night and the Piedmont League cellarites copped the first game 6-4 but dropped the nightcap 8-2.
Night baseball has been banned in Portsmouth by the dim-out order and last night's first twilight tilt attracted only 600 customers, a far cry from the night crowds there.
The Tourists won three out of four games in their latest series with the loop leaders. In the seven-inning first game last night center-fielder Leblanc had a big night at the plate, getting a double and three singles for four times at bat and batting in three runs.
Portsmouth took the second game by putting across the winning run with one out in the ninth.
Curtis Johnson, the loop's leading hurler, had win No. 16 to his credit today after the Richmond Colts beat the Winston-Salem Twins 5-2. Sonny Dixon pitched four-hit ball and the Charlotte Hornets blanked the Norfolk Tars - 9-0. It was Dixon's second straight shutout within a week. The Bees got nine hits off Grubb and scored single tallies in the first, third and sixth frames.
The Greensboro Red Sox beat the Durham Bulls 3-1 as Ostrowski chalked up his 16th win of the season.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist
New York, Aug. 11.—If the Dodgers get involved in any more feuds, they'll have to change the name of Ebbets field to the "Dust-Off Bowl".
Of course, nobody can prove that a "beaner" is intentional, but Ford Frick's latest idea of fining the managers as well as the offending pitchers should help calm things down a bit. And if that doesn't work, how about forfeiting a few games? ... The Hambletonian support the contention that the favorites nearly always win trotting-horse races, but we wonder if that isn't because the folks who follow the trotters know more about horses than the frequenters of running-horse parks. ... Baseball season must be over: On a recent visit to Iowa, Dizzy Dean told scribes that he'll be back in baseball "for sure" next year.

Port Bragg, N. C., lost no time challenging the claim of Camp Callan, Calif., as the principal producer of army all-star footballers. Port Bragg has contributed Lieutenants James Bruhl, William Cary Cox and William B. Robertson to the eastern squad and Lieutenants Robert Peters and Norman Williamson to the western division. The Carolina outfit would have had a sixth man if Corp. Ben Kish had not gone to the officers' school at Miami Beach instead of the football school at Yale. ... Virtue rewarded: Then Lieut. Steve Stavers, the old Columbia swimmer, took up the Marines' style of rough-and-tumble fighting. He earned a commendation as one of the three best instructors in individual combat in the armed forces. As a result he was ordered from the New River, N. C., base up to nice, cool Maine for a couple of weeks to demonstrate his skill in a movie about the Marines.

"T" Time
When Johnny Fenlag, Richmond U. coach, read a newspaper story about Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest (who didn't say "git thar fustest with the mostest men") he underlined these words of the general: "I would give more for 15 minutes of jump than for a week of tactics. One man in motion is worth two standing to receive an attack." ... Then Johnny added a note: "The 'T' was employed quite some time ago."

RUSSO RETIRES
New York, Aug. 10.—Marinus Russo, veteran New York Yankee southpaw, will be out of action the balance of the season due to an arm injury suffered earlier in the year. President Ed Barrow disclosed tonight.
Russo, who won 14 games last season, injured his arm May 20 in, scoring his second victory by beating the Chicago White Sox. He aggravated the injury by hurling two innings against the Senators last week.
Jim Turner, veteran pitcher, is with Newark, giving relief to a mound staff badly used up. But in getting him the Bears lost their home run star, Francis Kelleher.

TALKS ON WAR ARE HEARD BY ROTARY CLUB

Prominent Local Business Men Discuss Various War Activities

After welcoming the return of Rotarian Phil Gorden at the Rotary club meeting last night, President S. C. Wilkerson welcomed visiting Rotarian Ted Haigler of Sanford and guests, Edward Vann of Richmond, Va., and C. G. Walker of Anniston, Ala. Mr. Vann is a son-in-law of J. E. Winslow and Mr. Walker is a brother of T. Y. Walker.

The program was in charge of J. W. Overton, chairman of the Rotary Vocational Service committee. Mr. Overton presented four Rotarians to speak on "The Rotarian's Vocational Service in the War Effort."

Those presented as speakers represented a good cross-section of the club's membership. J. H. Waldrop emphasized the part that bankers today are playing in the sale of War Bonds. He referred to a recent meeting of bankers and bond dealers held in Eastern Carolina to assist in promoting the sale of war bonds, stating that at the meeting a great deal of emphasis was placed on the necessity for the purchase of war bonds in order to prevent further inflation. He also showed how there is already some inflation, which the government has been able to control, and he pictured the difference in the banking world between today and August of 1932. With government estimates of 17 billion dollars excess purchasing power, it was clearly indicated that it is imperative that the public subscribe for war bonds to the maximum ability of each individual.

"John Webb then told of the part the dairy industry is playing. His Greenville plant has been pasteurizing milk for various army and government camps in the eastern section of the state, and that while the New Bern plant was making necessary changes, our Greenville plant pasteurized New Bern's entire milk supply, working 24 hours a day. He said. Recently, army officers have called for further cooperation, in particular by asking present dairymen to increase the size of their herds. Milk consumption in North Carolina has more than doubled in the last two years, Webb said.

Dr. Karl Pace spoke for the war efforts of the medical profession. His emphasis was on the large percentage of doctors and dentists who have answered the call of the armed forces. A fact not generally known is that the Southern States have provided a great many more than their pro rata part of medical men. With so many doctors and dentists in the armed forces, a heavy burden rests on those left in their own communities. They are gladly assuming the heavy burden to extent of their physical capacity to "keep going." Also, they are giving a full day each week to the examination selectees without charge, Dr. Pace said.

J. E. Winslow, nationally known farm leader, spoke of the farmer's part, and a major part is the one that they play. The part each member of a community plays is integrated with that of all others, but it is recognized that first of all every man and woman and child must eat, and it is the farmer's part to furnish food, as well as clothing. Mr. Winslow explained the part the ever-normal granary has played in placing the farmer in the position to be able to fulfill every demand so far made on him by the leaders in our war effort. He also quoted speeches and articles condemning the attacks that certain sections of the press and public have made on the farmers for asking fair prices for their products. With the farmers called on to produce more with less, to outstrip their record yields with less machinery available and with less manpower available; to use the old and young, the entire family, all day and half the night. And yet, the same day that the steel workers were granted a pay increase, the farmers were given a kick in the pants in Washington. The farmers have more than fulfilled every demand made on them by our nation's leaders in our war effort, they deserve better by the press and the general public, Mr. Winslow concluded.

Two Die in Bus Wreck
North Branch, N. J., Aug. 10—(AP)—Two New Yorkers were injured fatally and 12 other passengers aboard a westbound New York-Chicago All-American bus were hospitalized after the bus struck a pole and overturned last night on state route 28.

Laval Fears...

The chief of government's speech, broadcast to the nation, was made at Compiegne, northeast of Paris, where he welcomed home a first trainload of 1,000 war prisoners exchanged for workers already in Germany and saw off another worker group.

France, he said, still has 1,200,000 of her soldiers captive in Germany and the Nazi government, needing 150,000 specialists, will release 50,000 prisoners in return for them.
(A Reuters report in London quoted Laval as telling the released prisoners that France's hour of liberation would be the hour of German victory.)

But the policy, he said, "unfortunately was not understood by everyone" and "it is to try to resume this policy that I am in power."

English Hospital Wrecked By Nazis

London, Aug. 11—(AP)—Patients and staff members of an East Anglian mental institution were killed last night by a direct hit from a German plane during raids on East Anglia and southeast England.
Emergency squads toiled through the night to recover the dead, and rescue the injured at the institution. By noon 12 bodies had been brought out of two flattened wards.
The Germans scattered a large number of their new phosphorous fire bombs in the surrounding district without causing damage or casualties.

(The German radio said Hastings, on the English Channel, and Colchester, 50 miles northeast of London, were the main targets of the night raiders.)
London's air raid sirens shrilled early this morning but the all clear followed shortly and no bombings were reported.

Traitor Is Now Losing Nerve

Milan, Mich., Aug. 11—(AP)—Max Stephan, 50-year-old German-born American traitor, sentenced to hang November 13, has lost his bravado, and yesterday told his attorney:

"I'm in a hell of a mess."
"Never said," the rotund Stephan declared, "that I'd bet all the tea in China, or anything else, that I wouldn't hang."

Stephan had shouted after his sentence that "Germany will not let me hang."

His attorney, Verne C. Amberson, came to the federal correctional institution here, where the execution will be held, to consider an appeal from the sentence imposed by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle.

Stephan was convicted of traitorously aiding Lieut. Peter Krug, Nazi flier, who had escaped from a Canadian concentration camp. Krug was captured in San Antonio, Tex., by the FBI.

Russians Falling...

Soviet dispatches said the Germans were paying a terrible price for their drive against Stalingrad. Listing 2,800 Nazis killed in a single sector near Kletskays, 75 miles northwest of the Volga steel city.
Another 900 Germans were reported left dead on the battlefield amid "very tense" fighting near Kotelnikovsk, 95 miles south of Stalingrad.

Meanwhile, U. S. Ambassador Admiral William D. Standley, said in Moscow that the Russians had three lines of defense—the present one, the Volga and the Urals—and the Germans have not yet reached the Volga.

Standley said he had found "not the slightest indication that the Russians have any idea of quitting."
