Reds Battle Desperately In Defense of Stalingrad

Two Nazi Attacks Hurdled Back But Another Has Wedged Deeply Into City's Defenses; German Dead Piled High Before Russian Trenches; Caucasus Drive Continues

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Soviet troops have hurled back German attacks both above and below Stalingrad by vigorous counter-attacks, but enemy tanks and infantry are wedged deeply into the city's defenses in another sector and the Nazi command has moved two fresh divisions into action, the Russians said today.

Dead men clad in the greyish green of Adolf Hitler's legions were reported piled high on the sandy steppes before Soviet trenches and the government newspaper Isvestia described prisoners as hungry and almost exhausted.

Red Star said the Germans were having difficulty supplying their tanks with fuel. At one place, along the Don front, 700 tanks were reported halted because of a gasoline famine and Russian bombers destroyed many of them.

(The British radio said the Russians in their great counter-attack on the central front had captured the Rzhev airdrome and cut an important road linking German positions. Fighting in Rzhev was said to be proceeding from house to house.)

Nevertheless, a major defense crisis was apparent.

A Nazi tank division and one more infantry division maneuvered into position after a forced march from the Don bend bridgeheads and aerial transports, plying the skies with fighters and Stukas, brought up hundreds of other Germans.

Some of these dropped as parachutists behind the Russian lines. Automatic gunners duelled in the areas between fortified positions. Smoke spiraled up from bombed areas of Stalingrad, sprawled on the west bank of the Volga.

The government declared 2,800 Germans, Rumanians and Italians dead in a vain attempt to hold one wedge under Russian counter-attacks northwest of the city.

Red army men were declared bearing up under mass bombings and their sharp flanking blows southwest of Stalingrad were reported to have put the Germans on the defensive.

The sector of the deep German penetration was not identified, but the implication was that it was west of the town. The mid-day communiqué said that in this engagement also the Germans suffered heavy losses in men and equipment.

Russian forces were reported to have struck heavily at Axis columns driving into the Caucasus and recaptured 13 additional villages during increased assaults upon German fortifications in the upper Volga bog lands near Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow.

Soviet companies still hold the northern section of Rzhev, a Pravda dispatch said, and are striking at the Germans behind plane-laid smoke screens.

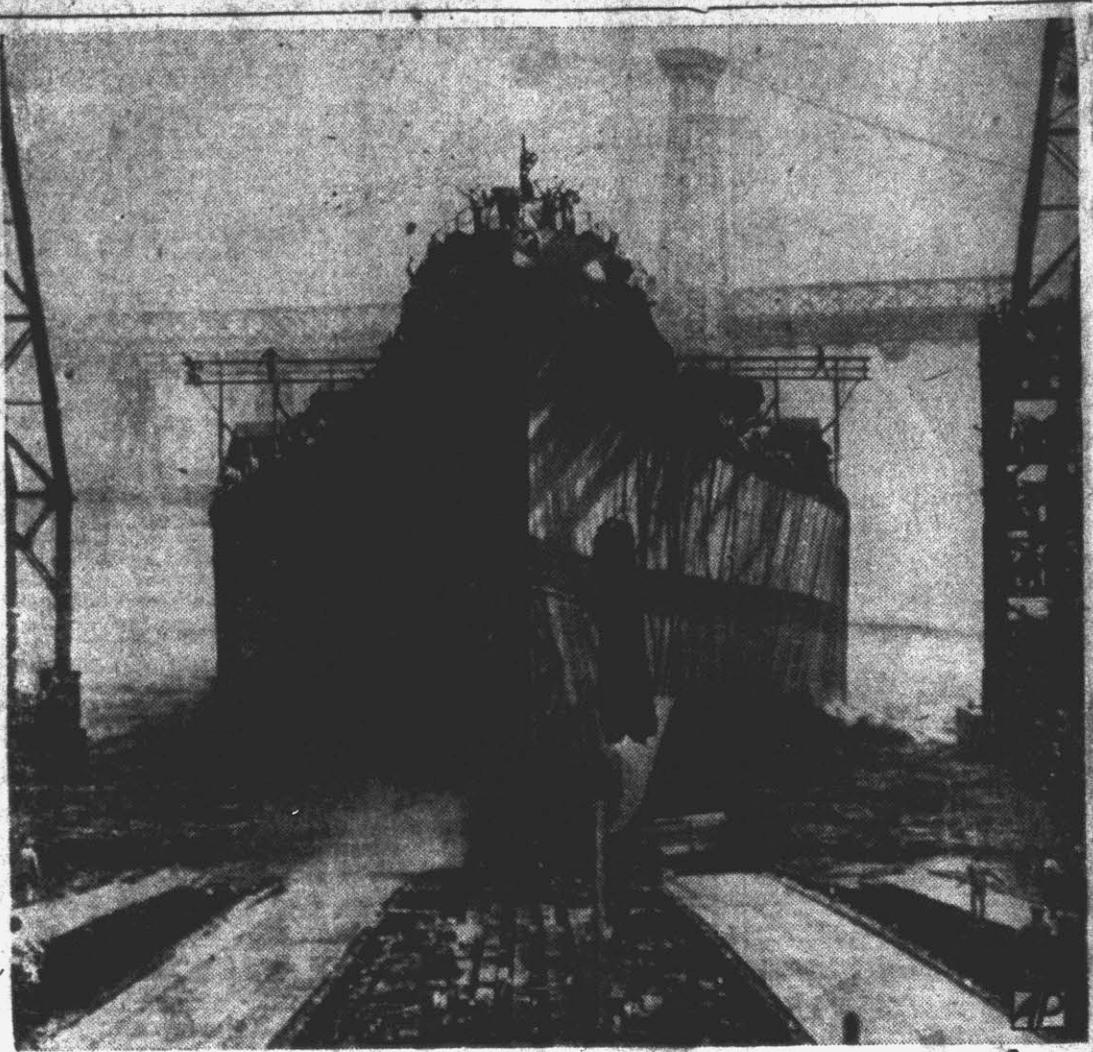

The Red navy and supporting warplanes were credited with the destruction of four more Axis vessels, a submarine in the Black sea, a transport in the Baltic and two transports totaling 12,000 tons in the Barents Sea.

Numerous prisoners were declared by the army newspaper Red Star to have been captured on the central front where Field Marshal Model was reported in charge of Nazi defenses as commander of the Ninth (Continued on Page Two)

Ask D. O. Students Complete Schedules

All Diversified Occupation students in Greenville High School whose schedules have not been definitely worked out should see Wallace Bourne, vocational instructor, Monday afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock in his room in the high school. Students who have not signed up for D. O., but are thinking of taking this type of instruction, should also report at this time. Boys who are planning to take the course in gasoline engines but whose schedules are incomplete, should see Mr. Bourne not later than Monday afternoon to make final arrangements. Mr. Bourne will also be in his classroom on Monday morning to see anyone who is unable to come in the afternoon.

Mightiest U. S. Battleship Is Launched

Christened by Mrs. Wallace, wife of the vice president, the 45,000 ton "Iowa," largest battleship ever built by America, slides ponderously into the East river at New York from the Brooklyn navy yard. In background is the Williamsburg bridge. The 580-foot monster hit the water months ahead of schedule and is described by the navy as being able to "fire faster and farther than any other ship afloat."

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

The Hitlerite claim to have planted the Nazi flag atop Mount Elbrus, highest peak in the lofty Caucasus range or in all Europe for that matter, has aroused a great deal of curiosity and I've been asked to explain the significance of this garish exhibition.

Well, it presents an interesting study in Prussian psychology. Perhaps one might better describe it as a psychopathic problem, since it has to do with the psychosis which has resulted in the Deutschland-Uber-Allies mentality and the more recent belief in the super-human qualities of the Aryan race.

Here it should be said in fairness that this mountain-climbing stunt isn't entirely due to the March hare fanaticism which pro-

Gandhi's Son Is Released

New Delhi, Aug. 29 (AP)—Devadas Gandhi, son of Mohandas K. Gandhi and managing editor of the Hindustan Times, was discharged by a magistrate today at his hearing on charges of violating the defense of India regulations.

The younger Gandhi was arrested Aug. 19 following publication of reports in his newspaper concerning the rioting which followed the "non-violent" civil disobedience campaign started by his father.

Pay-As-You-Go Income Tax Plan Gains Favor

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.), said today the Senate Finance committee probably would reassess the Ruml plan for pay-as-you-go collection of individual income taxes before voting on a house-approved provision of the new revenue bill levying 5 percent on wages, interest and dividends beginning January 1.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said after conference with George and Senator Clark (D-Mo.) that Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, would be available next week for testimony before the committee if it decides to reconsider two previous votes rejecting his plan.

Ruml recommended erasing 1941 income liabilities and applying payments made this year on the 1942 income, with adjustments at the end of the year if the taxpayer's net receipts were either more or less than his income for 1941.

Payments, therefore, would be made weekly or monthly on the current year's income. (Continued on Page Four)

RAF BOMBERS AGAIN BLAST NAZI CENTERS

War Plants At Nuernberg And Saarbruecken Bombed Last Night

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Nuernberg, a great war industries center and the rally ground of Hitler's Nazi party, and the Saar Steel center of Saarbruecken were attacked heavily by a strong force of British bombers which left large fires burning in both cities last night.

The heaviest assault was on Nuernberg, the Air Ministry said. Thirty bombers were lost from the "large force" of perhaps several hundred, many of which packed 8 tons of explosives each.

Objectives in Northern France were raided by the smaller and swifter fighters during the night. The heavy bombers used the "saturation" technique of attack by which great numbers of bombers crowd into the air space over their targets.

The extent of British losses was ascribed by British observers to the brilliant moonlight and cloudless skies, highly favorable to anti-aircraft and night fighter defense.

While the strength of the raiders was not officially disclosed, it was understood to have run well into three figures but not to have been near 1,000-bomber proportions.

The RAF bombers flew nearly 500 miles to reach Nuernberg, deep in Southern Germany, once a peaceful old city and now a center of Nazi war production. Saarbruecken, on the French border and only about 35 miles from Metz, is a rich coal and iron-producing center.

An Air Ministry communiqué said 30 bombers failed to return from the mission. On the basis of average five per cent losses on similar large-scale raids in the past, this would put the number of participating planes at 600.

The assault was the third this week against German industrial centers. On Thursday night a force of approximately the same strength smashed at the former Polish port of Gdynia, only a few miles west of Kassel, a locomotive-building center. Monday night Wiesbaden and Frankfurt were the targets.

Nuernberg is the home of the Nan Tan factory and has a large aluminum works manufacturing piston rods and castings. The Siemenschuckert factory there makes heavy electrical equipment.

The quaint old German city is also an important railway center and has large repair shops for locomotives and rolling stock. It is on the Ludwig canal, connected with the Rhine. (Continued on Page Six)

Moore Funeral Held Yesterday

Funeral services for W. M. (Bud) Moore were held at the home on West Eighth street at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, followed by burial in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Services at the home were conducted by Dr. J. D. Simons, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, while at the grave the services were in charge of the local Masonic order of which Mr. Moore was one of the oldest members.

Mr. Moore who celebrated his 85th birthday in July, died at his home early Thursday morning following a long period of declining health. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. David H. Bland of Goldsboro, and Mrs. Hugh S. Ragsdale and Mrs. Harvey Tripp of this city. Other survivors include five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral services at both the house and the cemetery were largely attended and the profuse floral tribute evidenced the love and esteem in which Mr. Moore was held in this community.

AMERICAN BOMBERS SINK JAP DESTROYERS

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that American planes operating out of the Marine-held Solomon Islands had attacked a squadron of four Japanese destroyers, sinking one large destroyer, probably sinking another, and leaving a third badly damaged and burning.

The destroyers, the Navy said, appeared to be loaded with supplies and equipment for isolated Japanese patrols believed to be operating near the eastern end of Santa Isabel Island.

"2. After reporting contact, the patrol planes attacked and secured one hit on the small destroyer.

"3. A striking force of 'Douglas' dive bombers from Guadalcanal answered the contact report by proceeding to attack the three large destroyers. The attack resulted in the following damage to the enemy:

"(A) One large destroyer sunk as the result of a heavy explosion following bomb hits.

"(B) A second large destroyer severely damaged and probably sunk.

"4. During this attack the striking force observed that the destroyer previously hit by the patrol planes was crippled and burning.

"5. No further action has been reported in this area."

AXIS PLANES OVER EGYPT

Cairo And Alexandria Bombed Last Night

Cairo, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Axis planes raided both Cairo and Alexandria last night.

An Egyptian communiqué said there were four deaths in Cairo and no casualties in Alexandria.

Egyptian officials were seeking 50,000 volunteers for civil defense work in the event of further attacks.

Continued RAF attacks on Axis motor vehicles in the central sector of the Egyptian front were accompanied by a slight increase of enemy air activity yesterday, a British communiqué said today, but there was no sign of a break in the hull in land fighting.

The communiqué said British patrols had been active by night, along the entire front, skirmishing with enemy patrols and harassing working parties.

Minor artillery exchanges in the southern sector, however, was the only other activity.

Rome (From Italian Broadcasts), Aug. 29.—(AP)—Axis forces repelled a motorized attack in the central sector of the Egyptian front yesterday and "numerous enemy vehicles were set on fire or immobilized."

The Italian high command said today.

The high command also reported the destruction of five British planes in Egypt, three by Italian anti-aircraft artillery and two by German fighters.

Axis bombers continued their attacks on Malta, the Italian communiqué stated, destroying one Spitfire in the raid.

An Italian convoy was attacked by British planes in the Mediterranean, and three of the machines, caught in the fire of escorting vessels, crashed into the sea, the bulletin added.

Sab Sinks Vessel. London, Aug. 29 (AP)—A Norwegian government spokesman announced today that a submarine entered Hammerfest harbor in July and sank a German-employment Norwegian ship with 160 German soldiers aboard, many of whom drowned.

No Holiday. Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today there would be no Labor Day holiday for the War Department.

Some plan could be worked out for Byrd told reporters he believed assess a withholding tax to make the collections under the Ruml plan. George said he was sure a majority of the committee wanted to study such a proposal if a modified version could be worked out.

The chairman added that despite committee revisions, much dissatisfaction remained with the machinery set up to collect the 5 per cent withholding levy placed in the bill by the house.

Affecting payrolls primarily, this levy would require employers to deduct 5 per cent of an employee's salary—less certain specified exemptions—as payments on the employee's 1942 income tax. On March 15, 1944, the employee would pay the difference between what had been collected from him by the withholding method and the amount of his regular income tax.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he expected the committee to reconsider the Ruml plan next week after voting, probably Monday, on corporation tax rates.

FINAL RITES DUKE OF KENT

London, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Four kings—George VI of England, Haakon VII of Norway, George II of Greece and Peter II of Yugoslavia—and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland attended a simple funeral service for the Duke of Kent at St. George's Chapel at Windsor today.

The Duchess of Kent entered with Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mother Mary, and the former helped the Duchess up the steps to the choir stalls. All three wore heavy crepe veils.

The Duchess sobbed throughout the brief rites, and as the coffin was lowered to a purple bier she sank to her knees in prayer.

Queen Elizabeth comforted her while the Dean of Windsor intoned the burial service.

"The King, with tears in his eyes, moved forward and sprinkled earth on the coffin as it descended slowly into the vaults.

The coffin was draped with the personal colors of the Duke, and two wreaths lay on it. One was from the King and Queen, the other from the widow. The wreath of the Duchess was made of red and white roses, the Duke's favorite flowers, which the Duchess had cut in the garden.

The Duke was killed in Scotland in the crash of a plane which had set out for Iceland on a military mission.

The battle was proceeding several miles from the head of Milne Bay along the north shore. A narrow beach there fades into the swampy jungle land.

While there was no indication of how the land fighting was going, a recapitulation of Allied communiqués issued during the past week showed that the Japanese air force has been taking a severe mauling in the Australian theater.

According to these bulletins, the Japs have lost 42 of their famed Zero fighters, four heavy bombers and two dive bombers since last Sunday, in addition to an unestimated number of planes damaged.

Allied losses in the same period have been put officially at only four planes.

American-built P-40 fighters—of them flown by Australian airmen—have been playing a big part in the Allied air victories.

Today's communiqué did not mention any Japanese aerial activity in the Milne Bay sector, where the sturdy P-40s previously had been credited with the destruction of two enemy dive bombers and two fighters.

Three Japanese planes were reported to have attacked Darwin on Australia's northwest coast during the night, but the bulletin said they did no damage.

There has been no word here concerning the battle of the Solomons since a U. S. Navy communiqué. (Continued on Page Two)

Russians Raid Finnish Capital

Helsinki, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Finnish communiqué today said 60 Russian planes attacked Helsinki in waves late yesterday in the heaviest raid ever attempted upon the Finnish capital.

The alarm lasted four and a half hours.

The communiqué said only two planes penetrated the defenses and only a few bombs were dropped. Two fires were caused, some buildings damaged, five persons killed and 20 injured, it said.

Merchantman Sunk. Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Navy announced today that an enemy submarine torpedoed and sank a medium sized United States merchant vessel in the Caribbean area in mid-August. Survivors landed at a Gulf port and the Navy said it was understood there were no casualties.

Must Turn In Batteries. Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The War Production Board today ordered storage battery users to turn in their old batteries for scrap.

The order, effective immediately, prohibits producers and distributors from selling or delivering a replacement or rebuilt battery to a consumer without receiving a used battery in return.

Fight Rages Along Shore Milne Bay In New Guinea

Australian And U. S. Land Forces Engage In Heavy Fighting With Jap Invaders While Allied Planes Give Aid From Air

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Fighting appeared to be growing in intensity today along the muddy shores of Milne Bay as veteran Australian troops battled with effective United States air support against Japanese forces attempting to consolidate a shaky grip on the southeastern tip of New Guinea.

A communiqué from General MacArthur's headquarters said the Australians were in close contact with the recently landed Japanese and described the fighting as "heavy."

A small number of United States service troops were reported in the battle area, but the Allied fighting forces were said to be composed of tried Australian Imperial and military.

Allied medium bombers, piloted by Americans and escorted by Australian airmen in fighter planes, were raking the beach heads established by the Japanese and the communiqué reported that "numerous fires were started."

The Japanese apparently filtered into the forbidding jungle where they were engaged by the hard-bitten Australians, slashing along infrequent trails and slashing their way through mangrove swamps to meet the invaders.

A spokesman said the weather, which had slowed the early progress of the land and air battle, was "better now," but the troops still were fighting in heavy mud.

The battle was proceeding several miles from the head of Milne Bay along the north shore. A narrow beach there fades into the swampy jungle land.

While there was no indication of how the land fighting was going, a recapitulation of Allied communiqués issued during the past week showed that the Japanese air force has been taking a severe mauling in the Australian theater.

Practice Blackout Unusual Experience

By CHESTER WALSH
The county-wide practice blackout last night, ordered by the United States Army, was satisfactory and official observers were enabled to make suggestions for making future blackouts more complete. Charles A. White, commander of the local Civilian Defense Council, directed the blackout. June H. Rose, assistant state director of state civilian defense, gave the benefit of his experience in the eastern part of the state.

The air raid control center at the City Hall and the air raid, police, fire and other war-time functions efficiently and learned much from the experience, heads of groups stated.

Lights at several places downtown and in a few homes were left burning, but were quickly extinguished when police wardens gave notice.

All traffic in the county, except that engaged in interstate transportation, was expected to come to a stop. This rule was well observed, except for one car that sped around and about the city during the blackout in violation of a city ordinance which provides a fine of $50 or 30 days in jail for violation of blackout rules, wardens reported.

Good order prevailed during the blackout.

MAKING A WILL

Babson Shows Readers How Live Forever

Babson Park, Mass., August 28, ahead.

—Whatever happens to our physical bodies, our property goes on just the same. When we "make" or "save" money we are taking on a responsibility which we cannot shake. If we inherit or put our savings into land, it can never be destroyed. If we put them into good buildings or securities they will long outlive us.

This land, these buildings and these securities are going to be a source of good or evil throughout the ages. Even if our heirs lose their money, the money is not "lost." It is represented by property which somebody has and which someone may always have. Yet we alone are largely responsible for how it is used during the ages ahead.

Everyone Should Make a Will. Hence, it is of great importance that every reader make a will. One of the most painful things to me is to see a man work, scrape and save throughout his lifetime and yet give little thought to how his money will be used after he goes. I saw a sailor kiss his, too. I knew that parting made them blue. Then I saw a mate of mine, a Marine. Kiss his girl, what a touching scene.

Just then a pretty girl passed by. And all I did was sigh. For five service men were going her way. By chance, so they say.

Then an officer came by. I saluted, you know why. "Hey, Marine, come here," he said. Then I wished that I were dead. For I was sure he had a job for me. And I was on liberty.

"Do a favor for me?" he asked. Now I knew my time for fun has passed. "You see, my daughter doesn't know the town. And I'd like you to show her around."

I'd have bet a buck she was a pill. Then his daughter came up, and I lost the bill. For she looked like an angel without wings. The kind a pleasant dream brings.

"I'd be glad to," was all I could say. Boy! this was my luck day! We went for a walk in the park And saw children playing with Noah's Ark.

We watched fish in the brook swim. We saw lots of things at the museum. We walked, talked, danced and dined. No pleasanter day had ever been mine.

I showed her all the town. And took her home at sundown. Now every liberty you can find me at the same scene. Hoping the same officer will call, "HEY, MARINE!"

Two Greenville Men At Kessler Field

Private Howard Tebeau Waldrop, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Waldrop, and Private Marvin Hoyle Turner, son of Mrs. W. H. Turner, both of Greenville, were enrolled this week in Kessler Field's Army Air Force Technical School at Kessler, Miss., and have started an intensive 19-week course to train as airplane mechanics for active "line duty" with the Army Air Force.

The men were transferred from the St. Petersburg, Fla., reception center to Kessler Field.

long Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line.

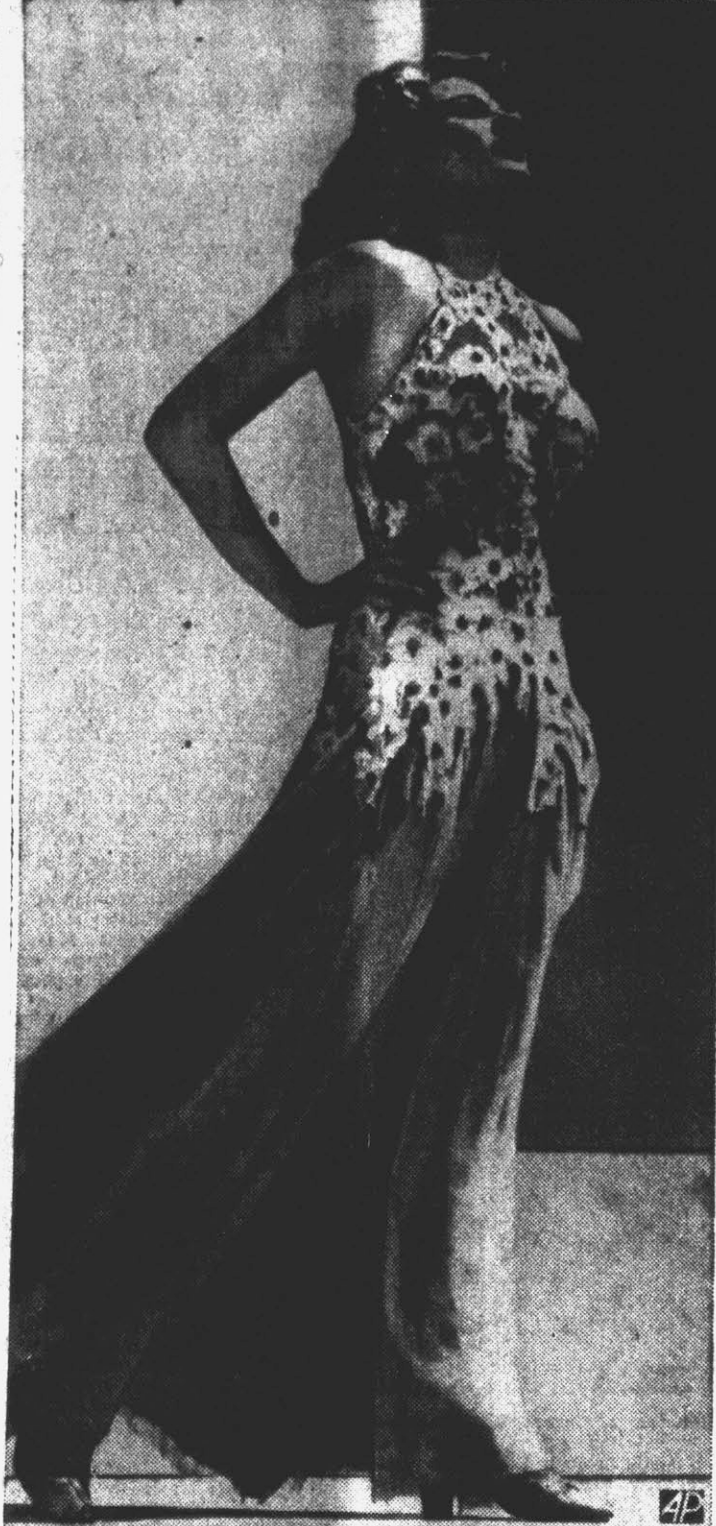

An official Chinese review said both sides suffered high casualties in the Chekiang-Kiangsi fighting. The Japanese, it was reported, used more men than in any campaign since the drive on Hankow in October, 1938.

The Japanese, the review said, suffered 14,000 casualties in attacks on Kihwa and Lanchi, 18,000 at Chubansen and 8,000 at Shangjiao. The situation in Kiangsi province has now been restored to the position prevailing when the Japanese began their eastward drive from Nanchang, it was reported.

In addition to 170,000 troops, the Japanese used the largest air force ever employed in any battle in China, the review said.

It asserted the participation of the American Volunteer Group of fliers under Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault was particularly encouraging and added "the support they rendered constituted an important factor in the recovery of Linchuan."

The Netherlands comprises an area of 15,000 square miles.

Nutrition Meet Here Thursday

The temporary Pitt County Nutrition Committee has called a meeting for 4 p. m. Thursday afternoon, September 3, at the City Hall.

This is to be an organization meeting to which the public is cordially invited, especially all who are interested in "Better Nutrition" for all citizens as a civilian defense measure.

The meeting will be addressed by Dr. John F. Kendrick of the State Board of Health, assistant chairman of the State Nutrition committee. Dr. Kendrick will be introduced by Mayor Suggs, and Dr. N. Thomas Bennett, Pitt county health officer and temporary chairman of the Nutrition committee will preside.

que issued in Washington Thursday announced that "Japanese surface forces appear to have withdrawn from the vicinity of our position in the Tulagi area."

Tokyo (From Japanese Broadcasts), Aug. 29.—(AP)—A Japanese spokesman said today that 43 United States ships had been sunk or damaged in the battle of the Solomon Islands, the Tokyo radio reported. Included in this list, the spokesman said, were three large warships, seriously damaged.

(These Japanese claims have no support whatever from any other source and, in the face of communications issued by the U. S. Navy Department concerning the action, are fantastically exaggerated).

Miss Prichard Is Eloquent Speaker

Miss Ruth Prichard, librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library, was a guest speaker at the Kiwanis club's weekly supper session last night. She made an interesting talk about the work of the library and emphasized the many books there suitable for underprivileged children. Incidentally, the Kiwanians marked Miss Prichard down as an eloquent public speaker. Miss Beale Brown entertained with two songs, "Tommy, ad." and "Love Is Sweet," and was invited to sing again. Mrs. Ray Tyson was accompanist. Judge Dink James had charge of the program.

T. Y. Walker, manager of the Pitt Theatre, explained that movie theatres are cooperating in the sale of War Bonds and announced that the theatre here is taking an active part in the campaign.

Reagan Jones was welcomed as a new Kiwanian. J. Roy Wilkerson, new principal of the high school, was a special guest. President Claude Ward presided.

A Letter To Our Customers

Dear Customer:

One of the most important metals in our country's War Program is Copper. Supplies of this vital material must be stretched to the limit to provide for War needs. Therefore, none can be spared for civilian use.

Copper is also vital to you. It forms the "nerve system" of your home. Every time you flick a switch to turn on lights — to make toast or waffles — to vacuum rugs — to start your washer or ironer — to hear late war news — copper wires carry the electric current which makes these things possible.

The copper in many homes — particularly those built ten years ago or more — was installed to take care of lights and a few appliances, without thought for the new and improved electric labor-savers to be added as time went on. Today, the wiring in such homes is inadequate to carry a full measure of electricity for all the lamps and appliances.

Homemakers everywhere are seeking to learn how to make the best use of the things they have. The wires which carry electric current through the home are seldom thought of, for they are out of sight, within the walls. But without them, the home would cease to function. Isn't it important that we know how best to protect and use this vital part of the home?

A leaflet will be enclosed with your Electric Bill in the near future titled "Check Your Wiring for Wartime Service." It will show how you can use what you have to the best advantage until it is again possible for every home to obtain adequate wiring.

Desolate Corregidor In Jap Hands

Graphic Scenes As Commandos Advanced On Dieppe

These photos, just received from England, show two scenes as the heavy Commando raid smashed at Dieppe, France August 19. At bottom are light naval craft of the Royal Navy covering the landing and used in transporting men and materials and fighting off Nazi planes. Top, actual scene as boats pushed onto the Dieppe shore to land men and weapons.

Famous Air-Builders Meet With Kaiser

Women Politicians

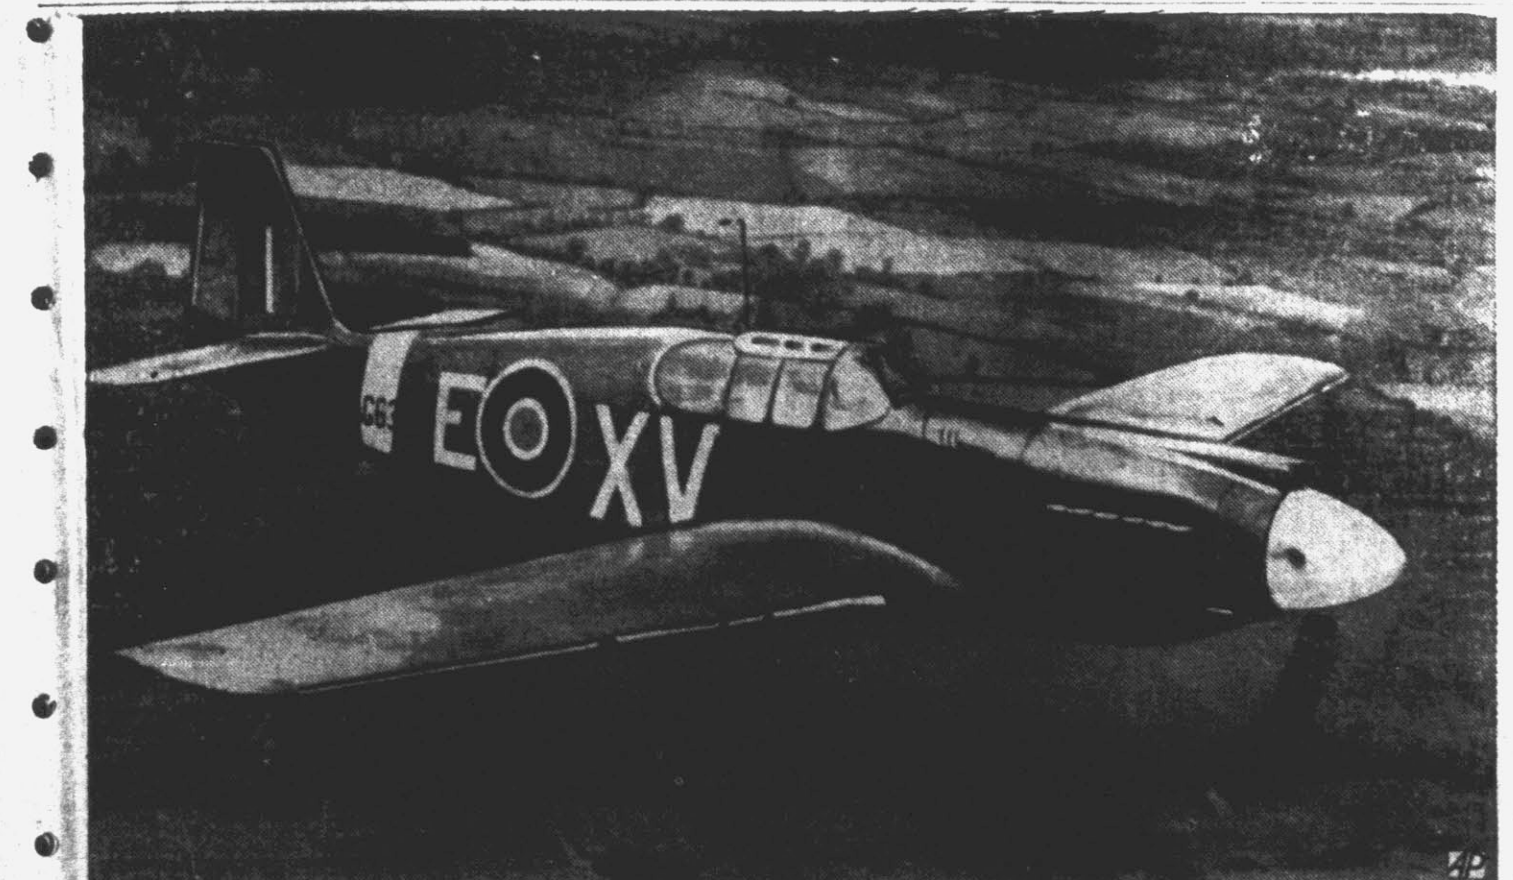

Miss Vivien Kellems (top), president of a manufacturing company, has announced her candidacy for the GOP congressional nomination in the Fourth Connecticut district in face of other GOP talk that blonde and brilliant Claire Boothe Luce (bottom) would be drafted to run. The political pot promptly began a merry bubbling as Miss Kellems let fly some choice political remarks about her possible opponent.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

A GREAT CHRISTIAN SPEAKS
Many people maintain that young children have no interest in a church service and that to insist on their attendance only builds a prejudice against religion and makes them less disposed in later years to be faithful in their religious duties.

The words of the famous Dr. Albert Schweitzer, one of the most influential Christians in the world, bears upon this point with great cogency. Says Dr. Schweitzer: "From the church services in which I joined as a child I have taken with me into life a feeling for what is solemn, and a need for quiet and self-reflection, without which I cannot realize the meaning of my life. I cannot, therefore, support the opinion of those who would not let children take part in grown-up services till they to some extent understand them. The important thing is not that they shall understand, but that they shall feel something of what is serious and solemn. The fact that the child sees his elders full of devotion, and has to feel something of their devotion himself, that is what gives the service its meaning for him."

The absence of children from the modern church services is an alarming symptom of spiritual weakness and lack of wisdom on the part of many parents. Sunday School attendance can never be enough.

ASSOCIATED PRESS BEST, GOVERNMENT SAYS SO

No one could have written a better advertisement for The Associated Press and its member newspapers, of which The Reflector is justly proud to be one, than that written by the government in its suit filed in New York yesterday against The Associated Press and all its members.

So far as the merits of the suit are concerned it is our opinion that the case will end in favor of the AP for if the association is guilty of violation of the anti-trust laws because it seeks to protect the interests of its mutual membership, then no mutual organization of any kind is legal and no exclusive agency contract is legal.

The present suit is the result of failure of Marshall Field, III, of Chicago to obtain membership in the association for his Chicago Sun. The Associated Press is already represented in both the morning and afternoon fields in Chicago but Field, in his complaint to the government, contends that The Associated Press news is best and that he cannot compete against AP newspapers unless he can carry AP news. In other words, he thinks the public would rather buy from him but they prefer the product of someone else because it's best. The same argument could be true with any local merchant who has the exclusive agency for a product and his competitor across the street should complain to the government that the public would rather buy from him but it wanted the better product sold by the other merchant.

In no instance has The Associated Press refused a membership in a field that was not already adequately covered by an Associated Press membership and therefore the association has not kept from the public the news that the government says it is entitled to receive. It is for this reason that we feel that the AP has little to fear from the present suit brought by the government.

But getting back to the fact of the superiority of The Associated Press, here's what the government says:

In the mind of the general public, the name 'Associated Press' has long been regarded as synonymous with the highest standards of accurate, nonpartisan and comprehensive news-reporting.

One reason for this is that the Associated Press exceeds its competitors in expenditures for collection and transmitting news, in the length of news reports it furnishes, in physical facilities, in size of staff, in number of geographical distribution of news bureaus, in number and geographical distribution of newspapers supplying it with news of their localities and in the unique requirement hereinafter set forth that these newspapers must serve the Associated Press exclusively.

A second reason is that the character of the organization of the Associated Press—a membership corporation composed of persons repre-sending every shade of economic, political, and religious opinion and every section of the country—is an invaluable guarantee that the promise and claim made by each news agency—that it presents the news without any political or sectional bias—will in fact be fulfilled.

Continuing its emphasis on the superiority of The Associated Press, the government makes the following comparisons between The Associated Press, United Press and International News Service:

AP—Maintains offices in more than 250 cities of the world and 94 news bureaus in the United States; of the U. S. bureaus seven have staffs of 50 or more full-time employees, 5 staffs of 30 to 49; 26 from 10 to 29; its staff of 7,200 employees includes 1,940 full-time; it distributes basic news reports of 1,000,000 words every 24 hours; it spent approximately $12,000,000 in 1941 for the actual gathering and distribution of world news; it serves more than 1,200 domestic member newspapers.

UP—Maintains 94 domestic and foreign bureaus of which 60 are in the United States; employs 1,326 full-time employees; only 9 of its 60 U. S. bureaus had staffs of over 29; furnishes news to approximately 900 newspapers in the U. S.; in 1941 spent $5,929,638 for gathering and distributing news to newspapers.

INS—In 1941 employed 382 full-time employees in New York and 31 other domestic bureaus, only three of which had more than 9 employees; serves approximately 325 domestic newspapers; 1941 expenditures for gathering news and its distribution to newspapers was $2,371,379.

As we said in the beginning, the government in its complaint has written the best advertisement for The Associated Press that could be written and we remind our readers that it is Associated Press news coverage that they have been receiving through the columns of this newspaper for nearly a quarter of a century and they will continue to receive this best of news services. Based on the government statement, if you are not reading an Associated Press newspaper you are not receiving full and unbiased coverage of the world's news.

Washington Daybook

By JOHN GROVER

(For Jack Stinnett On Vacation)
Washington.—You've been told that the nation's capital is practically popping at the seams with the influx of federal war workers, but it remained for reality to go the stories one better and illustrate in real life fashion just what the overcrowding and inconvenience is doing to people's nerves here.

This is a day in the life of Felix Finzel, a local bus driver. Felix is one of those hardest hit by the crowds here. They take out their bad temper at sardine-packed transportation on the bus jockey. But let him tell the story himself:

"The day started when I saw a man sneak on the bus through the automatic back doors when another passenger got off. I tried to make him pay up, but he pulled out a knife and threatened to cut my throat and got off.

"I made one round trip on my run. On my next out trip, the foot throttle broke. When a break-down happens, we are instructed to put the passengers on the next bus, have that driver take care of the crippled bus, and carry through. Well, it happened that the next bus was one that follows a slightly different route, so I had to double back and forth between both routes. Some folks were late getting home, and they made some cracks. I was getting pretty fed up.

"Later that evening I got caught in a blackout with a packed bus. We were supposed to stop and put the passengers off, but we happened to be in a tough neighborhood and I told them they could stay on the bus if they wanted to. The did and then a man—who turned out to be a cop—knocked on the door and wanted to know the score. "I made him identify himself and he ordered all the passengers out and into a drugstore. After the blackout we went on our way.

"Then I got a theater crowd at one stop. They were practically standing on each other's heads. They were crowded so far front I couldn't see out. I told 'em they'd have to move back so I could see. They didn't move, and just began popping off.

"I told them they'd have to move before we could go on, and that I could at there all night. They said

WILDERNESS GIRL

By LETA ZOE ADAMS

Chapter 15
Declaration
For the next few days Sandy was in no condition to worry about anything that transpired in camp. Helen and Gil took turns sitting beside him to watch that he did not break any of the pustules, but he talked to them infrequently.

Tyra, ignoring Helen's tongue lashing, visited the camp every day, usually spending a few minutes making suggestions for Sandy's care, much as a doctor might have done. Helen, at these times stood to one side saying nothing.

Tyra spent a good deal of time with Gil, but it was not until Tyra began to recover that he learned Tyra was coaching Gil in how to live off the bush. They hunted together, not only for meat but for other foods, so that all manner of delicacies began appearing on the camp menu—yucca roots, wild coffee, the succulent nuts from the coquito palm, mangoes, avocados, limes. Above a hardwood smudge which burned night and day hung strips of deer meat, curing, for Tyra said they would need it on the trail.

Still, with all these friendly overtures and preparations, Sandy had no notion of Tyra's future plans. For all he knew, as soon as he was able to travel, Tyra might slip off in the night again.

Sandy discussed this possibility with Gil and Helen. Gil suggested Tyra's suggestion continued to maintain stoutly that the expedition would be better off without Tyra, but agreed to abide by the decision of the men.

"Tyra has helped us some, I suppose," Helen admitted reluctantly. "But I can't trust her."

As soon as Sandy was able to move about freely he decided that he would approach Tyra himself.

On the evening he selected for a trip to her camp there was a moon, theatrically large and yellow, and a whisper of a breeze in the tops of the feathery palms. He left camp soon after the evening meal.

A vague restlessness was upon him, hurrying his steps, stirring his blood. Every night call of a bird overhead, every movement in the brush, held some significance. It was as if he had walked through that moon-laved jungle before, upon the same urgent errand.

Call By Night
Through the interstices of the bushes he saw the faint glow of Tyra's fire, he halted as though held to the spot by invisible hands. For Tyra herself was stooping over the fire. Her hair, which Sandy usually saw bound under a scarf to protect her head from insects, cascaded to her shoulders in rippling waves, her tanned bare legs caught the ruddy fire-glow like rubbed copper and her eyes held the mystic serenity of a baby.

"Tyra, Tyra!" Sandy's lips just moved over the words. But, as if the girl by the fire had heard, she straightened and swung her head to peer into the shadows.

He showed himself then, for he did not want to frighten her. "Just your next-door neighbor, come to make a call," he announced.

He thought she stiffened a little as though to brace herself, but he could not be certain of that.

"You make bush life sound quite civilized," she retorted. "Too bad Manuel has tossed out the remains of the tea or I'd offer you refreshment."

"Hospitalable of you, Tyra, but I didn't come for refreshments."

Sandy stood on the other side of the little fire. Now that he was here he scarcely knew how to present his errand. In fact, he was not even certain that he wanted to present it. There were more important things to tell Tyra!

They had been accumulating during those long days when he lay on top of his sleeping bag and stared up at the hot sky. Seeing Tyra there by the fire had brought it all to a focus.

Sandy was aware that Tyra watched him curiously, and after a brief silence, she said— "Maybe he came to talk about the trip ahead."

He muttered, "Yes, that's it. I'll be ready to travel in a day or two, you know. The question is: Are we going on alone, or are we going with your party?"

He waited breathlessly for her answer. She gave her head a toss so that every brown hair came alive for an instant in the fire-glow.

"There doesn't seem to be any choice," she said.

"For you?"

"Yes."

"That means you'd rather not have our company?"

She said carefully, "I wouldn't put it that way."

Sandy asked bluntly, "Would you want me to put it, then?"

Again he waited while she gazed into the fire, as though pondering her answer.

"I mean it isn't a—personal thing."

"Yet you don't want us. Is it because you're afraid we'll hamper you? Hold you back?"

"That wouldn't matter a great deal."

Love By Firelight
Somewhat Sandy spanned the distance they could, so we sat there for 15 minutes blocking traffic.

"Well, I can't say I blame the passengers. They wanted to get home, and so did I. After some more arguing, I decided I was going to get home, anyway. I just decided the bus business could get along without me."

"So I took my change carrier and told the passengers another bus would be along, maybe, and left."

Payoff on the story is that the bus company announced that Finzel was "temporarily suspended." But they don't catch Felix again, not in wartime Washington.

"I am through," Finzel announced.

polson Bonaparte's grand Are De Triomphe.
When the Nazis stormed their way into Greece last year they immediately hot-footed it to the home of the ancient Greek gods on Mount Olympus and there planted Herr Hitler's emblem. The highest point in Athens is the Acropolis and naturally the swastika was unfurled there.
And so it goes. Herr Hitler's favorite retreat is his mansion high in the Bavarian Alps at Berchtesgaden, and nearby is the home of his crown prince, Reichsmarschall Hermann Goering. That gets 'em as near to heaven as they ever will be unless, as United States Senator Pepper (I believe it was he) has declared, we hang the further "higher than Haman" after the war.

Now the mere fact that a chap likes to climb mountains doesn't mean that he has brain-storms, but the idea of dominating the world as a superior being is a Prussian characteristic. It's the same thing which used to make the Prussian army officer knock ordinary civilians off the sidewalk as he swanked by, and which bred the insufferable arrogance for which the Prussian is notorious.

Now Nazism is the bedeviled spirit of Prussianism. Hitler—some-times erroneously called Schickelgruber because that was the name of paternal ancestors—isn't a Prussian by birth. He is an Austrian, but from his boyhood the Prussians have been his ideals, and it is recorded that as a youngster he used to dream of the time when all Europe would be ruled by such a race.

That dream has persisted until we have his distorted ambition to rule the world and make all other peoples literally the slaves of the Prussians. We see him carrying this out in Europe right now. He must be on top, looking down.

He has made this unholy doctrine an integral part of Nazism, and to my mind this goes far toward explaining the unnatural ferocity of the climbing complex. The scaling of the heights to attic attention helps satisfy an ugly desire.

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

Yankees Continue Forge Ahead Despite Many Injuries

BEAT INDIANS BY 3-0 SCORE

Champs Hold Eight Game Lead In League Standing

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Disheartening as it may be to the Boston Red Sox, the citizens of Brooklyn and the manufacturers of medical supplies, it begins to look as if the New York Yankees will be able to finish the American League pennant race without the aid of an ambulance.

With their injury list crowded much of the time, the Yanks have done little better than break even since the start of the month, winning 15 games and losing 11 for an average of .577.

But the cripples have started shedding their bandages and turning up at their regular posts, a situation that spells trouble for their clubs in the league and particularly the Red Sox, who have won 16 of their last 18 games in a desperate drive to overhaul the Yanks.

Two fugitives from a hospital bed took their places in the lineup yesterday as the Yankees applied their 17th whitewash job of the year, a 3-0 shutout over the crumbling Cleveland Indians.

Spud Chandler made his first start on the mound since Aug. 19, when he wrenched his back at Boston, and demonstrated that he has recovered completely.

He was touched for seven hits while registering his 14th triumph against four defeats and his third shutout of the year. Buddy Hassett also returned to his first base post, enabling utility infielder Gerry Friddy to shift to the opposite corner and give Red Riffe a much needed rest.

Chubby Dean, a lefthander with two previous decisions over the Yanks, matched Chandler's seven-hit job, but two of the blows were doubles by Phil Rizzuto, who tallied after each one, and another was a homer by Buddy Rosar.

The victory kept the Yankees eight games in front of the Red Sox, who blanked the Chicago White Sox, 4-0, on the four-hit hurling of Joe Dobson.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Browns strengthened their hold on third place by nipping the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4, in ten innings, and the Detroit Tigers moved to within a game and a half of fourth-place Cleveland by whipping the Washington Senators, 10-7, in 14 innings.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the Chicago Cubs, 7-1, but watched their lead shrink to five games as the stubborn St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a double bill from the Philadelphia Phils.

Claude Passeur went fater his 18th pitching victory for the Cubs but wound up with his tenth defeat. Three relievers also failed to check the Dodgers' 17-hit attack.

For seven innings, Kirby Higbe handcuffed the Bruins on four hits, but he landed the bases in the eighth and had to have help from Hugh Casey, who pulled out with the loss of only one run.

The Cardinals, inspired by the success they enjoyed in taking three out of four games from the Dodgers, dropped the Phils, 7-4 and 7-5.

It took a three-run triple by George Kuroski to snap a tie and decide the opener, but the Cards put the nightcap away early, scoring all their runs in the first five frames.

The New York Giants were kept idle by weather at Pittsburgh but their hold on third place was strengthened when the Boston Braves knocked over Bucky Walters and the Cincinnati Reds 4-2, in a night game.

Winning Run; Cards Do It Again

Those battling St. Louis Cardinals did it again—beat the Brooklyn Dodgers the third straight game in the crucial four-game series at St. Louis. Here is Jimmy Brown, Card infielder, leaping over Dodger catcher Mickey Owen to score the winning run from third base on an infield roller by Coaker Triplett. Ump Al Barlick is calling him safe as the ball arrives too late. Action was in the 10th inning and gave the Cardinals a 2 to 1 win.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Aug. 29.—Max Hill, former AP foreign correspondent who just got home from Tokyo, reports that one of his most exciting adventures in Japan came because he had a yen to bet on a horse race. ... It seems Japanese race fans are allowed to buy only one ten-yen ticket worth about $5 on the horse they pick. ... When Max went back for another ticket he was apprehended and tossed into jail. ... Just goes to show the difference. Here guys who bet $10 on a race usually want the jockey and the owner judged. ... Old Honus Wagner is back in circulation after 11 weeks in the hospital because of an eye infection. ... When Notre Dame opens the grid season against Wisconsin, September 26, the Badgers will use the "Notre Dame" system while the Irish will rely on the "T."

Double Steal
Hank Wolfe of the Richmond News Leader relays this incident from a sandlot game for the benefit of all guys who claim you can't steal first base. ... On a hit and run play, the batter failed to swing at the ball. The runner on first broke with the pitch and was almost down to second when he suddenly pulled up and sprinted madly back to first. ... He made it safely, but it wasn't until the inning ended that his teammates learned why he had reversed himself on an apparently successful steal. ... seems the catcher made a looping toss down to the second baseman and the runner, just catching a glimpse of the ball, figured it was a pop fly.

Today's Guest Star
J. P. Wynne, Lock Haven (Pa.) Express: "Can't figure out whether the two-night ball clubs should be called cold supper clubs or cold shoulder clubs, seeing that the Hollywood inaugural attendance was only a little over 500."

Service Dept.
When Camp Lee (Va.) called off its football program, the athletic staff already had acquired 50 of the newest game uniforms you ever saw and 200 practice suits. ... And Bids? ... Ensign Bob Swisher, former Chicago Bears halfback, just can't escape his old rival, Getrge Sevenden, former Green Bay Packers center. ... They're both at the Iowa pre flight school, and in the first scrimmage Svendsen stepped on Swisher's hand and busted a finger. ... Featherweight Champ Chalky Wright will take on two soldier opponents—Sgt. Johnny Ristano and Corp. Tony Davis—for two rounds each as the feature of the all-star athletic carnival at Fort Monmouth, tomorrow.

When Dick Harlow was watching his Harvard footballers the other day, a pleasant sight was a big, fast, rugged-looking freshman who appeared exceptionally good at pulling out of the line. ... Turning to Line Coach Lyle Clark, Dick asked "Who is he?" ... "Don't get excited," came the reply. "His name is Hollingsworth; he comes from Groton, and he joins the Marines September 10. He's just doing this to toughen himself up."

Cleaning The Cuff
Trainer Dutch Wilhelm plans to ship W. E. Boeing's Devil's Thumb to California right after the hopeful at Saratoga today to give the horse a long rest before he starts preparations for the '43 Kentucky Derby. ... Army emergency relief officials have set $75,000 as the goal for the Dodgers-Army all stars game at Baltimore September 16. ... Oklahoma U. will get most of the stars from the north-south high school all star game at Oklahoma last night—unless some of the visiting coaches turn out to be high-pressure salesmen. ... The Japanese evacuation station at the Santa Anita race track is being closed down since all the Japs have been moved out, but there's no indication as to when the horses will move in again.

These are vital questions; the future of hundreds of beneficiaries and descendants is intimately affected by the answers.

Get Family Approval
Only a coward or lazy person refuses to make a will and keep it revised from time to time. Only a very selfish person refuses to take time to think out how his will should be written, who should be remembered and to what extent. Then you should decide to whom and what portion you should give outright and what portion you should leave in trust. God holds you alone responsible for your decisions.

Before going to the lawyers to draw your will—talk your plans over with your family and get their approval. When alive you can perhaps make them do as you want them to; but after you go they will be free to do as they wish. Hence, the only safe way to have your wishes carried out is to convince your family of your wishes in advance.

Select Your Executor
Some people have the idea that if there is no will a man's estate need not be administered. This is not so. Without a will the law will divide; but the law cannot provide for charities or lifelong friends whom you might wish to remember. Even though you might divide your estate in the same manner as the law would today, tomorrow the legislature may change that law.

Without a will, the court will appoint someone to act as administrator—perhaps someone you do not like. Through a will, you can name an executor of your own choosing, and a guardian for your minor children. You can exempt both from furnishing surety company bonds, thereby saving expenses to your estate. In short, you have the privilege of making your own plan and choosing the man to carry it out.

Your will is the most important document you can ever write; but a homemade will is the most expensive one. Therefore, go to a good lawyer. Tell him of whom your family consists and their ages, or any special circumstances such as sickness or other incapacity or any of them. This is important because, in some states, wives or husbands have certain statutory rights which must be provided for; while in other states, failure to mention certain relatives may invalidate the will.

It is essential that the person drawing your will know the size of your estate, where it is situated, an accurate description of the property and in whose name it stands, whether it is encumbered by mortgage or otherwise, and whether investments and bank accounts are in single or joint names. Remember, joint property is not a reason for making no will, but for making two wills.

Life Insurance and Trusts
How about your life insurance? If payable to your estate, it will be taxable. If payable to a named beneficiary, as your wife or your children, in many states it will not be taxable; and does not pass by the terms of your will. Alternate beneficiaries should be named in the event the one first named dies before you do. If you carry a substantial amount of life insurance, it might be better to leave this in trust, rather than have it paid to those inexperienced investing money.

As to the will itself: (1) Provide for the payment of debts and the expenses of administration. (2) Provide for the distribution of personal and household effects mentioning specific articles. (3) Provide for gifts to your church, favorite charity, friends as well as to members of your family. Where such gifts form a substantial part of the estate it may be better to give each a percentage of the estate rather than a fixed sum, otherwise the main beneficiaries, who are usually the family, may get little or nothing. (4) Consider forming a trust to assure wise management of your property after you go so that the principal shall be conserved and dependable income be provided. The varying needs of the future can be met by allowing the trustee to supplement income with payments from principal, whenever advisable. Such a trust makes it possible for one tax, one executor's fee, and one probate cost to carry your estate across three generations.

Don't Forget

In case you have made a will and want to change it, it is probably safer to make a codicil rather than a new will. Your lawyer will tell you why. When making such a codicil, here are a few things you may have forgotten when making your will. Put these into the codicil:

- (1) Provide the executor with cash and authority to use same to keep the family going while your estate is being settled.
- (2) Authorize the executor or trustee to sell real estate and securities without order from the court. Tell him when to sell.
- (3) Arrange for estate taxes, also that the stock of one or more close corporations may be held by any trustee you may appoint.
- (4) If you want your business carried on by the executor or any trustee specifically say so.
- (5) Have your will kept by your bank or executor with a copy in your safe deposit box. Notify the executor when you have appointed him and talk the will over with him often.
- (6) Sign every page of typewritten documents.

Red Sox Increased Lead In Piedmont

Charlotte, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Greensboro Red Sox increased their grip on the Piedmont League lead last night as they trimmed Winston-Salem's Salem 6-5. Lukasluk's single in the extra inning scored Rice from third with the winning run. A three run Hornet rally in the ninth forced the game into overtime.

Single runs in the eighth and ninth innings enabled Richmond to edge out the Durham Bulls 6-4 behind Wright's five-hit pitching.

Norfolk won the series opener from Portsmouth 3-1 behind the 5-hit pitching of veteran Garland Braxton. Jack McKinney, Tar outflied, hit a home run in the second inning.

Behind The Scenes With Cecil B. DeMille On New Production

Mixing adventure with romance, the charm of the old South and the terror of the hurricane—we have opening Sunday at Pitt Theatre.

Merchant Ship Burns At Pier

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—(AP)—A medium-sized merchant ship tied up at a Delaware river pier burned for almost four hours early today, then capsized from the weight of water sprayed into it by four fire companies and a fire boat.

The flames broke out shortly after 2 a. m. in the bow below deck, burst through and raced toward the stern despite emergency efforts of the captain and crew of 14. In 10 minutes the entire ship was ablaze.

Five crewmen were burned, one was cut and four were made ill by smoke. Ten firemen also needed hospital treatment.

Tugs tried to keep the vessel upright but had to flee the flames. Shortly after 5:30 a. m., it rolled over on its side.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined.

French Down British Plane.

Vichy, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Dispatches from Rabat, French Morocco, reported today that French fighter planes had shot down a British aircraft over nearby Port Lyautey.

Pitt Schools . . .

(Continued from Page One) resigned during the summer to take up work on wartime projects. The superintendent, trustees and principals and patrons of the county schools have cooperated wholeheartedly in the task of filling all positions with well qualified teachers.

Following is a list of principals and teachers at the Belvoir, Falkland, Bethel and Stokes schools:

Belvoir School—J. T. Lewis, principal; T. L. King, Falkland; Misses Ursula Carr, Farmville; Pauline E. Abeyounis, Greenville; Elva Templeton, Cary; Frances Cash, Wendell; Mamie Frances Waterfield, Menden, Va.; Shirley Latham, Bath; Edith Kemp, Lousburg; Lou Nichols Joyner, Greenville; Oleva Zahniser, Greenville; Floribelle Garner, Newport; Mrs. Lillie Mae Aycock Isley, Pinetops; Mrs. Hazel Forrest Bowling, Greenville; Mrs. Alda Vick Mozingo Dupree, Greenville.

Falkland School—W. E. Cain, principal, Falkland; Misses Anna Winifred Jones, Farmville; Mavis Parker, Greenville; Irene Worthington, Winterville; Grace Johnson, Konston; Mary Olive Ellenberg, Greenwood, S. C.; Mrs. Ruth Smith Watson, Falkland; Mrs. Elizabeth Adley Edwards, Greenville.

Bethel School—Carl Edwin Wike, principal, Bethel; S. D. Dewar, Bethel; Misses Clella Abernethy, Reidsville; Nancy Flanagan, Bell-air; Joyce Stokes, Henfield; Christine Harris, Thomasville, Tenn.; Whitmel Gurley, Windsor; Juanita Bass, Black Creek; Mary Katherine Gilmore, Wadesboro; Mary Olive Mayo, Alliance; Mary Perrebee, Camden; Sulou Johnson, Kenly; Ada Lillian Blanchard Woodland; Jane Copeland, Ahoskie; Mrs. C. E. Wike, Bethel; Mrs. S. D. Dewar, Bethel.

RAF Bombers . . .

In striking at Nuernberg, the RAF was attacking one of the best-known German garrison towns. In recent years, it had acquired considerable notice as the parade ground and sounding board for the annual Nazi party conventions, but these have been suspended for the duration of the war.

Saarbruecken, in the rich Saar

Valley, is in the center of some 70 square miles of coal mines. It has gigantic iron works and steel mills. Royal Canadian Air Force fighters on the raid said conditions were so nearly perfect last night that every detail of the streets and buildings of Saarbruecken stood out in relief.

"We took three runs over the target before dropping the stuff and just couldn't miss," one pilot said. Another pilot said, "It was a marvelous trip as far as flying and bombing conditions were concerned. The place was alive in a number of spots when we arrived and there was no mistaking the target."

In addition to the massive RAF assaults, the Germans have suffered under daylight precision raids in occupied territories by flying fortresses of the United States Air forces.

Yesterday the fortresses raided Meaulte, an important airplane center in northern France and the day before the high-flying American bombers spread destruction among the docks of the German-occupied Dutch port of Rotterdam.

Apparently roused by this round-the-clock schedule, the Germans struck back last night, dropping explosive and incendiary bombs in northeast and eastern England, mostly in coastal areas.

Eight persons were killed in one town in northeastern England when a bomb destroyed four homes. Workers dug in the debris throughout the night and rescued a baby boy alive. He was the only survivor.

Bombs were dropped during daylight today on a west-England town.

COLORED NEWS

The Greenville Girl Scouts closed their five-day camping period held on the C. M. Epkes High School grounds Friday, August 28. More than forty eager and interested scouts including Brownies attended the Day Camp.

The leaders, Brownies and Scouts feel that the local council, the Parent-Teachers Association of Fifth and Fleming street schools, the Service League, and the school authorities did everything possible to make their first attempt at Day Camp a success. Each day brought new activities, and interests.

Helpful lectures were made each day. On Tuesday August 25, Mr. J. T. Welch of the City Sanitation Dept., gave a health talk, which was enjoyed by all. Wednesday, August 26, Mr. R. H. Whitlow spoke on Christian citizenship. Mrs. Carolyn Sinclair, regional director of Girl Scouts, visited the camp and inspected the site on Thursday the 27th. She spoke to the girls on Patriotism, Citizenship and how true scouting is helpful in these serious times.

Cook-outs were held Tuesday and Thursday and Friday. Each girl received a half pint of milk each day, sandwiches or a meal providing all the required ingredients to make a balanced diet.

Many thanks are due the P.T.A. of Fleming Street and Fifth Street for their contributions, the Service League for bathing suits, presented through Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mr. Frank M. Brown for installation of shower heads, Mr. J. T. Welch of Sanitary Dept., Mr. R. H. Whitlow, First Aid, Mrs. Hannah Brown, city nurse;

Mrs. Hannah Brown, city nurse; Mrs. M. F. Wilson, committee and first aid, Mrs. J. A. Battle, Mrs. Dennis Dupree, Mrs. W. E. Flanagan, city nurse and troop committee and to Mrs. E. B. Moore and Mrs. E. L. Henderson with Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Girl Scout commissioners who spent quite a bit of time helping to make the Day Camp a success from start to its close.

Mrs. F. W. Moore and Mrs. R. M. Hardy were pleasant visitors to the Day Camp Thursday and on Friday Mr. Dennis Dupree, farm demonstrator made an inspection tour of the camp site encouraging girls and leaders to become interested in Victory Gardens.

Leaders present during operation of Day Camp: Director S. S. Sauter, arts and crafts; Miss L. L. Graye, L. R. Taylor, Assistant Director; Mrs. C. F. Artis, games; Mrs. D. R. Daniels, music; Mrs. N. W. Cherry, dramatics and games; Mrs. C. V. Chase, and to Miss Ruth E. John-
