British Forces Hold New Won Positions In Egypt

Three Heavy Axis Counterattacks were Crushed Yesterday; German And Italian Armor Damage Is Heavy; Three Axis Vessels Sunk Off Tobruk; Americans Take Part

Cairo, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The British Eighth army held firmly today to new-won positions on the central sector of the El Alamein front after smashing three heavy Axis counter-attacks and military commentators here declared that the first week of the renewed battle for Egypt had ended in a limited victory for Allied arms.

A joint Headquarters-RAF communique said General Sir Harold Alexander's forces met and hurled back the successive battering-ram assaults by Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel yesterday in a futile effort to regain positions lost by his German and Italian troops on Thursday night.

Reviewing the first week of Rommel's campaign aimed at Alexandria, Suez and the valley of the Nile, British military men said the Cairo, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Three Axis vessels, including a destroyer, were set afire and probably sunk in the Mediterranean north of Tobruk Tuesday night by Allied bombers and torpedo planes, British Middle East headquarters announced today.

Nazi commander incurred an initial setback when he penetrated an Allied minefield, where Allied heavy artillery and air bombardments twice forced him to withdraw.

British armored formations and infantry broke through the enemy rearguard during the Axis withdrawal and captured the central positions which they held today. The value of these positions to Rommel was emphasized by the three furious but futile efforts he made with infantry and tanks to regain them.

One military observer expressed the view that damage to German and Italian armor had been heavy. This he said, was inflicted chiefly by British 25-pounders and a new 4.5-inch howitzer.

Rommel's quick withdrawal after brief but sharp action over the desert sands was believed to have been inspired by supply difficulties, especially a shortage of gasoline.

In this event, military quarters said General Alexander might press (Continued on Page Two)

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

What's going to beat Herr Hitler in the long run—and never doubt that this throw-back to barbarism is going to be smashed—will be the Allies' overwhelming resources of all sorts, coupled with their control of the seas over which their resources must be moved to the theaters of battle.

Therefore, the disclosure that the past two months have produced record-breaking destruction of U-boats, and a sensational drop in sinkings of merchant ships in the western Atlantic, is great news for the United Nations.

Without control of the seas we would lack adequate means of moving our resources, and our moun-

OPPOSITION TO DRAFT YOUTHS

Bailey And Reynolds Against Taking Boys

Winston-Salem, Sept. 5.—(AP)—In reply to a poll being conducted by the Sentinel, Senator J. W. Bailey announced today: "I shall not vote for the drafting of men under 20 until it shall have been made perfectly clear to me that the drafting of such men is necessary to the security of the American people."

Senator Robert R. Reynolds, in reply to the poll, said he was seeking more information on the matter before making a definite statement as to his stand.

Text of Bailey's reply: "My information is that we can provide an army of more than six million men without drafting men under 20 and also that we cannot possibly arm and equip and train five million men within a year from this date. If this information is correct then the reply is academic. I would not favor the drafting of men under 20 years of age unless and until I shall have been persuaded that so grave an act is indispensable to the security of the American people. Probably in the next several months the data will be laid before us and I shall be actuated by one single sole consideration, and that is the necessities of our national life. Frankly, I hope to be spared having to pass upon such a question and I shall not vote for the drafting of men under 20 until it shall have been made perfectly clear to me that the drafting of such men is necessary to the security of the American people. "I know there are people who are calling on us to vote to draft men under 20, but most of those people do not have young sons. No (Continued on Page Three)

Obtain Decree Against Kaiser

Cleveland, Sept. 5.—(AP)—OPA obtained a consent decree permanently enjoining Henry J. Kaiser's west coast steel-shedding concern from paying above-ceiling prices for steel.

The Office of Price Administration had complained that the Kaiser Co. bought 504,000 pounds of steel in a lot from a Cleveland company, and that price maximums were evaded by having the steel shipped in less than carload amounts. Lots amounting to less than carloads are sold at a higher price.

Judge Robert N. Wilkin, in issuing the decree, noted that while the Kaiser company assented to the injunction it "does not admit any willful violation" of price regulations.

Mayor Sugg Urges People Send Scrap

"I earnestly urge the people of Greenville and Pitt county to get busy and salvage scrap metal, rubber and fats for war time purposes and cooperate whole-heartedly with Miss Leila Higgs, chairman of the Pitt County Salvage Committee in the salvage campaign which gets under way next Saturday, Sept. 12," said Mayor Bruce Sugg today.

"Unless scrap metals are provided at once many steel mills and foundries will have to stop work on war production and close down. Every bit of metal—bottles, screws—anything that's metal, should be put into community scrap piles and metals in larger quantity and size should be sold to junk dealers. I urge everybody to bring in or send scrap metal so that it may help to keep the steel mills running to supply our fighting forces with war equipment," the Mayor said.

RAF Blasts Bremen While Russians Scatter Bombs over Eastern Germany; Budapest And Vienna Also Hit

London, Sept. 5.—(AP)—American light and heavy bombers made two attacks on target sin occupied France today, it was announced officially.

All the American bombers returned safely but six allied fighters were missing.

London, Sept. 5.—(AP)—British and Russian airmen administered a punishing whipsaw assault upon Germany from west and east last night, a strong RAF kindling big fires in Bremen and the Russians scattering bombs over eastern Germany and occupied Poland while unidentified raiders made their first attack on Budapest.

The German war bulletin which reported the raids on eastern Germany failed to name the cities attacked, but the British radio quoted Scandinavian dispatches from Berlin as saying that the targets included Vienna in Austria; Koenigsberg, in east Prussia; and Breslau, in German Silesia.

Berlin broadcast an official Hungarian announcement that Budapest and points in northern Hungary were hit by bombs dropped during a two-hour alarm by high-flying raiders. The Budapest announcement failed to give their nationality, but the Germans said they were Russian and substantiated this by saying they came from the northeast—the direction of Russia.

The German version said damage in Hungary was insignificant, but the Vichy radio said many civilians were killed in the Hungarian capital alone.

CHINESE DRIVE GOES FORWARD

Heavy Fighting Reported Around Kinwa

Chungking, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Chinese high command said today that severe fighting continued in the outskirts of Kinwa and near-by Lanchi "with the Chinese steadily gaining the upper hand."

Kinwa, 85 miles southwest of Hangchow, is the provisional capital of Chekiang province. Lanchi, 10 miles to the north, was recaptured by the Japanese recently in the first Japanese success in weeks of retreat from Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces.

"Enemy troops in both cities were reformed repeatedly but they failed to break the Chinese cordon and suffered heavy casualties," a communique said.

The high command indicated that Chinese troops driving north from Southern Chekiang were attempting to cut off the Japanese. Other Chinese were striking for the northeast at Kinwa, site of an air base within Easy bombing range of Japan.

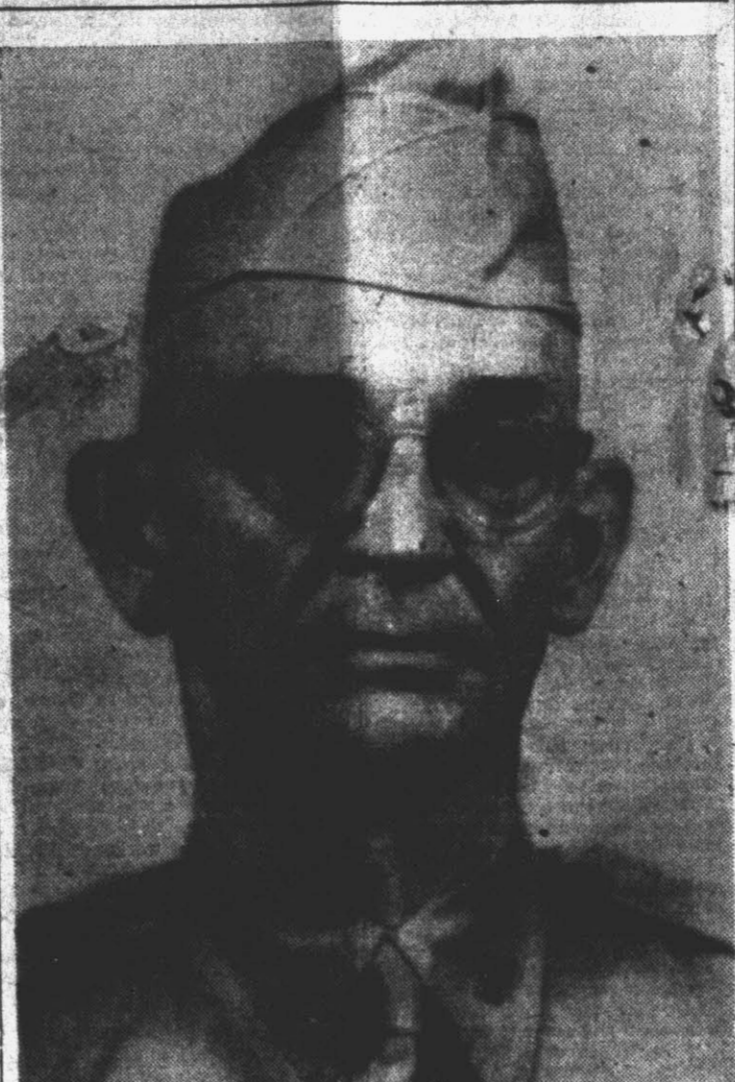

The Chinese said they captured a point south of the railway town of Tungyang, 70 miles south of Hangchow and 30 miles northeast of Kinwa.

"Enemy troops fled leaving many killed and wounded," the communique said.

Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A drastic presidential order limiting all wages, salaries and farm prices was in store for the nation today in an unprecedented move, government officials revealed, to thwart a threatened runaway rise in the cost of living.

The responsible sources who can not be quoted by name, said the decree, as drafted by President Roosevelt for issuance on Labor Day, calls for creation of an economic administrator to carry out these policies and others designed to halt rising wartime living costs.

Major General Is Greenville Native

Above is a recent photograph of Major-General Durward S. Wilson, native of Greenville, but at present commanding officer of the 24th Division, U. S. Army. General Wilson holds the highest military rank ever conferred upon a Pitt Countyman. He graduated from West Point in 1916 and since that time, in addition to his services in the Philippines, Hawaii and various posts in this country, he has completed courses in every service school of the army and also the Naval War College. He was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack on December 7. General Wilson arrived in Washington a few days ago to visit his family who were evacuated from Hawaii immediately following the attack. General Wilson, the oldest son of the late W. B. Wilson, of this city is one of five brothers all of whom are high ranking officers in the army and whose combined military services total approximately 150 years. The brothers are Colonel Frank W. Wilson, U. S. Medical Corps, Lt. Col. Bascom L. Wilson, U. S. Medical Corps, Lt. Col. Carl S. Wilson and Major William B. Wilson.

PREDICT RUM PLAN TO PASS

Senate May Adopt "Pay-as-You-Go" Tax Plan

By JACK BELL Washington, Sept. 5 (AP)—Revelation of the Ruml "pay-as-you-go" plan for collection of individual income taxes was predicted today by some of its supporters on the Senate Finance Committee.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he understood that Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and originator of the program for current payment of taxes, would be available for consultation with committee members next week when they approach decisions on individual rate schedules in the new bill.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) added that he believed the committee might call Ruml for further explanation of his plan, to which treasury officials have entered some objections and which they desire to modify if it (Continued on Page Two)

Roosevelt Will Order Limit On Wages, Prices

Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A specifically forbidding any price ceilings on farm products at less than 110 per cent of parity.

The President will say his wartime powers and duties are sufficient authority for the order. Already mentioned as possibilities for the post of economic administrator were Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Wendell Willkie and Bernard M. Baruch.

General provisions of the decree as outlined by authoritative informants is expected to prohibit wage increases above the January 1, 1941, approximate rise in living costs since that date. Workers paid by the hour, however, will not be prevented from receiving more for extra hours employed, and it was indicated that those who had received more than a 15 per cent increase since January 1, 1941, will be permitted to continue on the basis of the increased pay.

While wages will constitute the amount paid by an hourly rate or other compensation up to $75 weekly (Continued on Page Six)

More Than 150 Ships Included In Launchings And Keel Laying Program; Designated As 'Naval Victory Day'

By The Associated Press More than 150 tough fighting ships and many other types of vessels will be launched or have their keels laid Monday in a Labor Day program which the navy was termed "another naval victory—a victory won by the workers of America."

The navy, in announcing what probably will be a record day of shipbuilding activity, did not specify how many of the total would be launched, but in at least 75 shipyards in 2 states, champagne will be splashed against prows of new ships or keels will be laid. In some yards there will be no special ceremonies. The men who build the sea warriors aren't going to miss a minute of work.

The new vessels will include destroyers, submarine chasers, motor torpedo boats, mine sweepers, coastal transports, tank landing craft seaplane tenders, rescue vessels and others.

In the third naval district, comprising New York, Connecticut and the upper half of New Jersey, there will be 18 launchings and keel layings. At Port Newark, N. J., keels for four landing bases for infantry, will be put on ways, and at the New York navy yard, four others for tanks will be readied.

At New Orleans, two 10,500-ton Liberty ships, five torpedo boats, eight tank lighters and 16 Eureka landing boats will be launched. A minesweeper will be launched at Chickasaw, Ala., a PC boat at Nashville, Tenn., and five unspecified vessels at Brownsville, Tex.

FRANCO QUIET ON INTENTIONS

May Not Make Statement For Three Months

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS Bern, Switzerland, Sept. 5 (AP)—Reliable private information from the Spanish border said today that Generalissimo Franco is consolidating his government after ousting Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner under a program designed to keep Spain out of the war and is not hastening to please Germany by a clarifying declaration of policy.

Informants at the Spanish border, who cannot be quoted by name, said the new Franco regime was embarking on a cautious course that may involve the first concessions of consequences to republican elements in eclipse since the bloody civil war.

German comment on the government shakeup, in which their staunchest friend was toppled from the place second only to that of Franco, still was practically nil. German press dispatches yesterday said Berlin was awaiting a Franco pronouncement, an apparent hint at a demand for an explanation.

Urge Red Cross Workers Report

The Red Cross station for making bandages was opened on Thursday, September 3, in the basement of the new class room building on the E. C. C. campus. This commodious room was lent by President Meadows and the few alterations were made through the generosity of Mr. L. B. Garris. The room which is light, airy and comfortable will be heated during the winter. The rest room facilities are ideal.

This station may not be as convenient as one located on Five Points, but who thinks about personal convenience any more. An ideal station would have been in the downtown section, equidistant from every part of town, but this ideal station was not available. Certain requirements of the Red Cross had to be met, heat, lights and rent had to be considered. So the slight inconvenience of the station being in the east end of town was overlooked by other advantages. "It is so inconvenient for me to come all the way across town, that I shall (Continued on Page Six)

BUSY WEEK OF COURT ENDED

Prisoners Are Removed To Raleigh Today

By CHESTER WALSH In Superior Court yesterday after sentencing George B. Rogers, 41, to 30 years at hard labor in the State Penitentiary for the second degree murder of Mrs. Ada Peavey, said "Thirty years is not a long time—not as long as death. I will live through it. I feel like I will live to be 90 after three months confinement near Death's Row in the penitentiary."

The court expressed a desire to give her a chance and placed her on probation under the Sampson County Welfare Department under continued judgment. She will live with relatives. If Marie Peavey violates any welfare rule or any law during the next five years the court can pass judgment and give her five years in State Penitentiary. The judge and Solicitor D. M. Clark agreed that the girl had not had proper training and that she had been under the unsavory influence of George Rogers. A welfare officer took Miss Peavey to Sampson County today.

LABOR DAY THOUGHTS

Babson Says We All Must Work Or Fight

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 5.—We approach the celebration of Labor Day. There will be a lot of well-deserved Efficiency Awards. But there is still too much dissension in read of more wage disputes and to see strikes continue. For the last month of record these numbers 180. They are down substantially compared with the same period of a year ago; but the point is that these workers are not a single strike should not be over a single day of loss of work. Unless the war effort is to be seriously curtailed, Washington must adopt a tougher attitude toward both the demands of labor and the activities of the farm bloc. (Continued on Page Five)

Second Front Depends On The American Army

Authorities Admit U. S. Must Furnish Major Part In Invasion Force

By WES GALLAGHER
London, Sept. 5.—(Wide World)—The tide of war forced Britain to concentrate on production of fighters at the outset—for defense. Then, because of the great distance between Britain and Germany, production turned largely to the big four-motored night bombers.

To support an invading army, thousands of light bombers, reconnaissance and ground support aircraft would be needed in addition to the clouds of fighter ships—and these are types in which the United States excels.

Under the division of operations which this indicates, the RAF would deal ponderous blows at the heart of Germany and clear the skies with fighters. The American air force would be called upon for support of the army in daylight operations.

The greater part of the transport job for invasion would necessarily go to the Royal Navy. The American task force now in these islands undoubtedly would take part, but British and American authorities agree that the major assignment of the United States' sea forces is keeping the Japanese subdued in the Pacific.

Next to the United States and Britain, Canada probably would be the biggest contributor to an invasion force. The Canadians have a well trained commando army which Ottawa announcements have placed at more than 150,000. Exiled governments in London would contribute little more than token forces to a big scale invasion.

British Forces . . .

Allied fighters had a big night, shooting down three enemy planes near Alexandria and five others over the battle area, military sources reported.

The positions, which the Axis forces were attempting to regain, had been taken Thursday night when British forces struck out to the southwest in the central sector.

The objectives sought by the British were reached and occupied, the communiqué said.

Yesterday Axis infantry and armored units were sent against the same objectives, but intense Allied artillery fire slowed up the counterattacks and helped the infantry to drive off the Axis troops.

While the British were improving their positions in the central sector, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces on the southern end of the line in the region of Himeimat "again moved slightly westward," the communiqué said—a new withdrawal of Rommel's units.

British mobile units and artillery continued to batter at the thwarted Axis forces in this sector and "continued their pressure on the enemy's main concentration," it was reported.

German tanks, abandoned during the withdrawal, were destroyed, it was said.

Rommel's determination to find a favorable place in the Allied line for an all-out assault was further indicated in the movement of Axis vehicles, bound east on the road between Salam and Sidj Barrani. These vehicles were successfully attacked by long-range Allied fighters, the communiqué said.

Although air activity over the battle area was on a reduced scale yesterday, Allied aircraft pounded at enemy transports both on the roads leading to the battle front from Libya and over the Mediterranean.

Three Axis aircraft were reported shot down near the battle area last night.

RAF and Russian . . .

A few weeks ago, however, American four-motored bombers attacked oil fields in Rumania from some Middle East Rumanian base, and recently Axis radio has broadcast reports of strange planes making reconnaissance over Sofia in neighboring Bulgaria.

Following its night activity against Bremen, big northern seaport of Germany, the RAF sent swarms of fighters and bombers across the channel in daylight today and the Germans sent a single nocturnal raid over London and another over East Anglia where a shopping district was bombed.

Shanty guards broke out in London during the brief alert touched off by the appearance of the enemy craft.

Four persons were killed and ten injured by bombs jettisoned from a German raider being chased over an East Anglian town by an RAF fighter. Three houses were demolished.

The British radio quoted the German newspaper Danziger Vorposten today as saying that 6,000 refugees had arrived in Danzig and 2,500 in Poland from German areas razed by RAF bombs.

A number of persons were killed and injured by bombs dropped by a lone raider on a town in the Netherlands. One direct hit demolished a short time later and buried the occupants.

Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair was addressing a Liberty party meeting when London's sirens sounded, but he continued, asserting that he was content to "leave the situation to the RAF."

"A heavy weight of bombs was dropped and many fires were left burning," the Air Ministry said of the Bremen assault. Fighter command aircraft were over northern France also on offensive patrols during the night.

London, long raid-free, had an alert today and there was a sharp signal cauld a short time later. Eleven aircraft were reported missing from the raid on Bremen, a familiar bombing target on the Weser river 40 miles from the North Sea.

This was the 99th in a series of RAF smashes against Bremen, of which the greatest was a 1,000 bomber affair June 25. Submarine shipways and railways are major targets in the area.

It was the fourth straight night of British assaults against war industries and communications of Adolf Hitler's Reich.

British, American or Soviet bombers might have made the long flight against Budapest, the capital of Axis-allied Hungary and a commercial and industrial center of 1,500,000 population on the middle Danube, but the Berlin radio said they struck from the northeast—the direction of embattled Russia.

Budapest's alert lasted an hour and 50 minutes. A heavy explosion sounded on the outskirts at midnight and several hits were scored within the capital, the Berlin account reported.

The Vichy radio said a number of civilians were killed in the raid on the Hungarian capital.

It is a round trip of about 1,850 miles to Budapest from Malta, the fortified British island in the Central Mediterranean, 9,000 from English bases and a still more round trip here regarded as probably springboards for such long-distance operations against the Axis eastern European home fronts.

The German radio acknowledged that points in eastern Germany had been attacked and said some damage was done in "a town on the north German coast" by high explosives and incendiaries.

Nazi planes cruised over the south coast of Britain during the night but there were no reports of bombings. Heavy damage was done yesterday to railways and buildings near Folkestone and Sandgate, the Germans declared.

Dover straits batteries exchanged fire for a time. German batteries near Cap Gris Nez initiated the action with two salvos after nightfall and long-range British guns replied immediately. Flashes lit up the sky like summer lightning and waterfront buildings were shaken.

The Air Ministry said weather conditions over both Britain and Germany were generally unfavorable during August, but the RAF's bomber command ranged over Germany on 12 nights and made five daylight attacks on the Reich or Nazi-held territory within the 31 days.

Release Refrigerators. Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The War Production Board released today for sale to the general public about 50,000 domestic mechanical refrigerators, which had been frozen in the hands of dealers and distributors since February 14.

Predict Rum . . .

(Continued from page one) is to be adopted. As tentatively outlined, the Ruml plan would cancel all 1941 income taxes and apply payments made this to 1942 taxes, which ordinarily would not be due until March 15, 1944.

Continuing this system thereafter, the taxpayer would compute his actual income at the end of the year and make adjustments, adding the necessary amount to satisfy his liability to the payments he already had made or receiving a rebate.

The treasury has suggested that only the 1941 taxes on the normal and first bracket surtax earnings be excused, and that persons in the higher brackets of income be given two or three years in which to pay this back tax while making payments on the current year's income.

The senate committee, after six hours of discussion yesterday, put off until Tuesday any decision on whether it would accept a treasury proposal for spending tax or counter suggestions for the imposition of retail sales taxes.

Russian Forces . . .

(Continued on Page Four) Fedor Von Bock. "The enemy attacks were repulsed," the mid-day communiqué said. Checking of the German squeeze upon Stalingrad and an improvement of Red army positions on the Axis flank within the Don bend had been reported 12 hours earlier.

Russia's central-front troops, assuming an offensive against the Rzhev-Vyazma salient west of Moscow, were reported to have captured a number of additional settlements.

"Red army men of one unit," it was announced, "wiped out about 400 enemy officers and men."

Violent pressure in the western Caucasus forced the Russians back in one sector northwest of the Neorossak naval station, but Red Marines, land batteries and the guns of the Black sea fleet pounded the Germans and their Rumanian allies hard, the midnight communiqué said.

Second Front Depends On The American Army

Authorities Admit U. S. Must Furnish Major Part In Invasion Force

By WES GALLAGHER
London, Sept. 5.—(Wide World)—Allied hopes of opening a second front and dealing Germany a knockout blow in this fourth year of war rest largely on the shoulders of a young and ever growing American army. That is the combined opinion of qualified military observers—and figures bear them out.

With a population half as large as Germany's, Britain has an air force that now stacks up as equal to or better than the Reich's, and Britain's navy is far superior to anything Hitler can offer. But it is physically impossible to put a British army in the field to match the German war machine.

Britain has drained her manpower and womanpower reserves in the last three years. Military experts usually estimate that a country can mobilize 10 per cent of its population for the fighting forces, a basis which figures 4,000,000 fighting men for Britain.

Prime Minister Churchill announced in his last speech in Commons that at least 950,000 soldiers had been sent abroad, and at least another million were in the RAF. No one except the Admiralty knows how many are in the navy but there are certainly at least half a million and this does not include the many thousands in the Merchant Marine.

This leaves about 1,500,000 for the army in the European theater, about half of whom would be needed in behind-the-lines supply services. Many thousands of home guards—over and under-age men—could be mustered for defense against invasion but these would be of slight use in any offensive action.

The general public has had an impression that colonial fliers, soldiers and sailors are doing most of the fighting, possibly partly because of an RAF rule that, while the exploits of Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders, and South Africans may be mentioned freely, no British pilot or crewman would be mentioned by name unless he has been decorated for bravery. A similar rule exists in the navy.

In the army, anyone may be mentioned in the press but it has been the policy to give more details on the exploits of colonial troops although the British are in the majority, particularly in the Middle East, and India, and also were predominant in Malaya and Singapore.

Any allied force invading the continent, should number at least 2,000,000 combat troops, in the opinion of military men—and that is why the American army must be called upon for a major role. That the United Nations' command fully recognizes the situation shown by the large numbers of American troops which are being poured into the British Isles every month in an ever-increasing tide. The United States army air force also is preparing to shoulder a big burden. The tide of war forced Britain to concentrate on production of fighters at the outset—for defense. Then, because of the great distance between Britain and Germany, production turned largely to the big four-motored night bombers.

To support an invading army, thousands of light bombers, reconnaissance and ground support aircraft would be needed in addition to the clouds of fighter ships—and these are types in which the United States excels.

Under the division of operations which this indicates, the RAF would deal ponderous blows at the heart of Germany and clear the skies with fighters. The American air force would be called upon for support of the army in daylight operations.

The greater part of the transport job for invasion would necessarily go to the Royal Navy. The American task force now in these islands undoubtedly would take part, but British and American authorities agree that the major assignment of the United States' sea forces is keeping the Japanese subdued in the Pacific.

Next to the United States and Britain, Canada probably would be the biggest contributor to an invasion force. The Canadians have a well trained commando army which Ottawa announcements have placed at more than 150,000. Exiled governments in London would contribute little more than token forces to a big scale invasion.

British Vessel Reported Sunk

(By The Associated Press)
The sinking of a medium-sized British merchantman in the Caribbean in mid-August, disclosed today by the Navy, brought to 456 the Associated Press total of United Nations vessels announced sunk since Pearl Harbor. Six crewmen, including a soldier assigned to the gun crew, were lost and 49 survivors were picked up, the Navy said. Last night the loss of the Greek freighter Leonidas M. was announced from Lisbon. She was of 4,573 gross tons and was sunk in mid-July.

Dr. Ennett in reporting the good response at today's clinic stated that it was to be hoped that all patients would come along voluntarily so that legal action would not be necessary, but he emphasized that the legal steps as outlined would be taken against anyone delinquent in receiving treatments at the end of the 10 days' notice period.

In Florida, a 110 foot sub-chaser for the navy and two aircraft rescue boats for the army will be launched in addition to a torpedo V-boat, a minesweeper and a patrol chaser.

At Los Angeles, champagne bottles will be smashed on a destroyer and four chasers for the United States and a torpedo boat for England. At San Francisco, two naval transports, a navy salvage ship and a navy steel lighter barge will be launched, and keels will be put down for three more barges and two freighters. Five aircraft rescue boats will be launched in Texas and eight U. S. and British ships in the state of Washington.

Four keels for sub-chasers will be laid in Rhode Island, and in Oregon, a cargo carrier and two sub-chasers will be launched while keels will be placed for two more chasers and two sea-going navy tugs. More launchings and keel-layings will take place at other yards.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

What's the matter with the world?
Nothing at all, save that it harbors within its hospitable expanses a race of weak, erring men. They take God's good world, fill it with tears, and make its fair valley run red with blood. There is nothing the matter with the world; the trouble lies with the people who live in the world.

We are engaged today in what is commonly called a war. This is really a policing expedition sent against a group of criminals whose activities have become international in scope. The object in sending all these policemen is that this disorder may be stopped and the well-intentioned men and women of all countries allowed to return to the peaceful pursuit of their life and work. A few sanely minded men have gathered certain of the discontented, the ignorant, the underprivileged, and the malicious about them and have started out to achieve world domination. There can never be normal life again upon the planet until these disorderly persons are arrested and punished for their crimes.

But during this time, what of the world? Is it still the same as it has always been. The sunshine is still as beautiful. The lakes and rivers sparkle as they always have in the morning light. The sun goes down behind the western hills as majestically as it ever did in the past. The birds still sing with all their glorious sweetness. There's nothing the matter with the world—only with the people who live in the world.

Along with other forms of clean-ups hereabouts some public action about the mosquito problem might bring about beneficial results. With an excess of mosquitoes for this season of the year, if something isn't done about the matter a lot of our people are going to be in for some malaria.

Local bar members as well as citizens who had occasion to visit this week's session of criminal court have been most complimentary of the manner in which Judge Luther Hamilton keeps things moving. In addition to several capital cases the court during the week has disposed of a number of minor cases.

The country needs the full support of every one of its citizens in its present war effort. It needs all the scrap metal in the country, it needs financial support, it needs other materials that would be available in more abundance if the citizens would practice common sense and conservation. But what are we as individuals doing about it? Other than reading the war news, glorying in our military successes, growing about our reverses and paying lip service to the men in our armed forces, are you really making any sacrifices to help our country win this war? Let's face this matter honestly, realize fully what it means to us and then give our whole-hearted support to our country's war effort. Nothing short of this will win the war for us and preserve those freedoms that are so dear to us.

Washington Daybook

By JOHN GROVER
(For Jack Stinnett, On Vacation)
As Washington—That British semi-expert who cast slurs on "inferior" U. S. four-motored bombers certainly got a quick and pointed answer to his charges that the American "big boys" lacked armament, fire power and speed. In four forays unescorted over enemy territory, not a big bomber manufactured in the U. S. was lost.

His crack that the Flying Fortresses and Liberators "lacked speed"—actually U. S. big bombers are faster than any others—got the retort discursive from an Air Force sergeant when reports of the raid came in.
"Yeah, they ain't as fast as theirs—coming down."

It's the inside report that the RAF is hopping mad over the belittling of the American heavy bombardment planes. Actually, they're tickled silly with the performance of U. S. ships in the raids over Germany. The ability of the U. S. planes to take punishment and still reach base has been amazing.
Don't be at all surprised if there's an official slap in the face administered to the British by a monkey by the work of the big bombers.
Incidentally, it's about time that somebody stepped on these stories that American military airplane design is inferior to Allied and to enemy aircraft. It's a cockeyed myth.

The facts are, American airplanes in all theaters of operations have a plus batting average. They've always downed more enemy planes than they've lost. Operating with U. S. planes is considered obsolete. The Flying Tigers knocked down a dozen Jap ships for every one lost. It can be said authoritatively that U. S. planes are more sturdy built than any in the air today. No other ships will take the punching around and still get home. This is a vital factor in a war where trained flying personnel is even more precious than planes—it takes longer to make a pilot or bombardier.

It has been a keynote of U. S. airplane construction policy that there is no all-purpose plane. Different planes for different jobs has been the rule. The squawk about the inadequacy of P-40 and P-39 planes came from those who didn't know the facts.

These ships were designed as mid-level fighters. Their best work is done around 15,000 feet or less. We've been slow to get into production of fighters for the 40,000-foot level, but our British allies had plenty of high-level fighters, crack ships that ask no favors of any high-altitude fighters. Our own P-38's and P-47's are now coming in to quantify production, and they'll equal anything at the top of the aeronautical stairs.

In certain critical sectors, it's been necessary to throw mid-level fighters into the air against high-level enemy ships. Even then, they gave a wonderful account of themselves against odds. The score of U. S. pilots in U. S. ships against enemy aircraft in all sectors where they've seen action far outweighs losses. That doesn't sound like inferior planes.

The Air Forces are getting pretty tired of the recurring beefs of self-styled critics, and one day soon may have some very interesting things to say about the critics' motives and knowledge. It can't come too soon. The notion that American youth is being sent to fight in inferior planes is pure bunk.

terrible peak of 108 in June, the shipyards were outdistanced in their efforts to keep pace. Then came a drop to 45 sinkings for July, and a further slump to 23 for August.

A few days ago Rear Admiral Emory S. Land said American shipyard production was slipping, but surely getting the edge on Axis marine activity. And Captain Leland P. Lovette, Navy public relations director, said that for the first time since February the nation's shipyards in July built more ships than were sunk.

Down The Past
A guardian of the codex? Sandy said slowly, "Where there is one Indian, there must be others."

Gil had been scouting along the lip of the cave and now calmed from the shadow of the cliff. Here's a path, chief! It goes down.

Sandy's eyes remained fixed upon the Indian. He had reached the base of the precipice now and, suddenly, vanished in the heavier growth of the canyon.

Helen passed closer to Sandy. "We're going to follow him, aren't we? We can't go back—not knowing."

"I wouldn't want to quit here, no." Helen urged—"Tyra and I have revolvers. Four of us, armed make quite an army."

Sandy looked across at Tyra. She had been facing the mouth of the cave, but she turned with a flash of her hazel-brown eyes and sent him a small, soiled, soot-light-hearted, that he was reminded of that first time he had seen her dancing at the fiesta with the Tehuano.

"I came for the ride, you know, and if it's a giddy ride I have only myself to blame. Besides," a dimple appeared, briefly, miraculously. "I have a regular carbuncle-sized curiosity. That Indian isn't one of who he is."

Her frolicsome mood was puzzling to Sandy after the harassing experiences of the last hour or so. However, he accepted it as a gift of the gods, and calling the group together, gave a few simple instructions.

The Spy

He brought up so short that the others, stumbling along behind, almost ran him down.

"We'll have to go back. . . I've missed the door." "The air current is strong here. Maybe it will lead us out. Let's keep going," Gil barked.

Sandy hesitated. It was a chance, either way. The passage might lead to the surface somewhere. . . and the menace was in the Chamber of the Serpent God through which they must pass again if they sought the other entrance.

"Keep close and look sharp!" he directed, and started on.

They had gone only a few yards when they emerged into another cavern, smaller than the first but, like it, festooned with quivering icicles of stone. Sandy held up a moistened finger and found the direction of the current, once more.

They crossed the knobby floor and entered another tunnel. It turned and twisted upon itself, expanded and contracted, but the general trend was downward.

Sandy could not tell how far they had gone, but it must have been half a mile when, in making a turn, he caught a glimpse of light ahead. Shortly thereafter the passage widened and they found themselves several hundred feet above a U-shaped canyon in the face of the plateau.

At the arch of the U a cascade tumbled from the cliff, like a fault-line of cut crystal through the pite-rune jungle.

The country was completely strange to them, strange and aching lovely in its virgin aloofness. They gathered in the cave mouth, murmuring their relief and astonishment.

"We made it!" "Wonder if there is any way to get down without hacking through the bush."

Then Tyra cried out—"Look! There—see! Isn't that a man?"

Their eyes followed where she pointed, and presently, saw a brown, shadowy form moving among the bushes some distance below on the face of the cliff. There could be no mistake. It was a man.

"Looks like an Indian," Sandy exclaimed, his mind reaching out desperately to grasp the meaning of an Indian in that wilderness.

"He must have come from this passageway."

"It was he we heard!" Helen observed. "He must have been watching us."

Down The Past
A guardian of the codex? Sandy said slowly, "Where there is one Indian, there must be others."

Gil had been scouting along the lip of the cave and now calmed from the shadow of the cliff. Here's a path, chief! It goes down.

In skins came and went between the cook fires and the stream. There were men visible, too, taking their ease around the huts or sauntering about the village. They were short and squatly. Their stringy black hair fell about their shoulders and their features were immobile as stone.

Sandy puzzled over the costume, for in it he recognized certain features known to have been common to the ancient Maya.

He stole back to the others, reporting briefly what he had seen.

"They look like bush Maya."

Helen asked, "What are bush Maya?"

"The kind who live far from the haunts of the white man, in the depths of the jungle. A scrubby, degenerate lot, but they usually have woven fabric and some modern weapons. These fellows appear to have neither."

Gil said, "Anyhow, they solve a few riddles for us, chief. We know who was responsible for that path up the big pyramid, and the copal on the altar of the Serpent God."

Sandy said thoughtfully, "But their presence makes new difficulties. They must be worshipping that Serpent God, or they wouldn't be burning incense to him. And we know that one of them saw us there at the altar. He is probably reporting it right now to his head man."

Helen's eyes opened wider. "And they wouldn't like our interfering with their gods, would they? They might make us trouble."

Dodgers And Giants Begin Three Game Grudge Series

OUTCOME MAY DECIDE RACE FOR PENNANT

Dodgers Now Only 4 Games Ahead Of Cards

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bolstered by the return of Pete Reiser and the bankroll of Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn Dodgers faced a showdown in the National League pennant race today as they moved into New York's Polo Grounds to tangle with the galloping Giants, who have waited eight years for this opportunity.

It was in 1934 that the Dodgers jumped up from the second division and tripped the Giants on the threshold of the National League championship, forcing Bill Terry to eat his widely publicized query concerning the whereabouts of the Brooklyn club.

With the shoe on the other foot, Manager Leo Durocher of the Brookes has been careful not to include among his many utterances a statement which he also might have to devour, but the Giants haven't forgotten the humiliation they suffered in 1934.

Nor did they appreciate the Brooklyn hospitality on their last visit to Ebbets field, when the Dodgers took four in a row. In spite of that quadruple setback, the Giants are winding up their best season since 1937, when they won their last pennant.

All of which makes the three-game series opening today the toughest test for the Dodgers beyond here and the end of the line. Once over this hump, the Dodgers have only two more games with the threatening St. Louis Cardinals, one with the Giants and 11 with the Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils, all but three of them on their home grounds.

When they take the field today the Dodgers will welcome Reiser back to the fold after an injury layoff and the Brooklyn fans will welcome Pitcher Bobo Newsom, purchased by President MacPhail on the road trip just ended to help the club "insure" the pennant.

Taking advantage of Brooklyn's idleness yesterday, the Cardinals jumped to within four games of the race setters by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, in a night contest, one of two which comprised the entire National League program.

The Cardinals scored four runs off Paul Derringer in the first three frames, one of them a homer by George Kurovski, and coasted through.

The Chicago Cubs collected ten hits off three Pittsburgh pitchers and whipped the Pirates, 5-3, behind the seven-hit hurling of Hiram Bithorn.

Play in the American League was confined to two teams, the St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians, who started a doubleheader with an afternoon game and finished it under the lights.

The Browns took both games, boosting their third place margin over the tribe to two games and a half. They won the opener, 6-3, although they were out-hit, but Johnny Niggeling pitched four-hit ball to hang up the nightcap, 4-0. Rookie Vern Stephens smashed a home run in each game, with a man on base each time.

WRIGHT IS INDUCTED INTO ARMY AT BRAGG
Port Bragg, Sept. 5.—Taft Wright, 29-year-old Chicago White Sox outfielder and second ranking batter in the American League, reported here today for examination and induction into the Army. His home is at Lumberton.

Wright began his professional career in 1923 when he signed with the Charlotte Hornets of the Piedmont League. Later he moved up to an outfield position with the Washington Senators. He was traded to the White Sox in 1939.

Norfolk Loses To Portsmouth

Charlotte, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Portsmouth and Greensboro threw in all their blue chips today and everything was ready for a pennant deciding series between the Piedmont leaders and rival cellarite clubs.

The season ends Monday with Labor Day doubleheaders, so it isn't out of place to give you the current picture:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Portsmouth	77	55	.583
Greensboro	73	53	.579
Richmond	72	58	.554
Charlotte	68	60	.531
Durham	63	68	.481
Asheville	59	75	.440
Norfolk	57	76	.429
Winston-Salem	52	76	.406

Starting today, Greensboro's Red Sox face six games against the lowly Winston-Salem Twins, while Portsmouth's Cubs, who defeated Norfolk 6-3 last night in the loop's only game, have four remaining games with the Tars.

If Greensboro and Portsmouth both win all their remaining games, Greensboro would take the pennant with this standing:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Greensboro	79	53	.593
Portsmouth	81	55	.595

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Sept. 5.—Everything was so quiet when the Dodgers got back to Brooklyn yesterday that, as one fan remarked, you could hear a pennant drop. But from here it looks as if them bums could win without too much trouble. If the Dodgers win 12 of their 23 games—and those seven with the Phils look good—the Cards will have to play better than 700 ball the rest of the season to catch up. When it was announced in Stockholm that Gunter Haegg was going after the mile record yesterday, they sold out the stadium (20,000 tickets, including 7,000 standing room) in only three hours. Watch out Southern Conference: the Chicago Bears are moving in at the University of Maryland to tune up for their tilt with the Redskins and the Army.

Sound Advice
Al Holder, widely known Buffalo amateur golfer, dug up this one from an old English book on golf: "If the decision of the match hangs on the last putt, do not have a gloomy face showing Christian resignation, but fill your mind with vacancy, not even allowing yourself the consolation of religion." That "fill your mind with vacancy" may be okay, but most guys we know also fill the air with strong language.

Bill Dudley, who has been turned down as a naval aviation cadet because his weight (190) is too great for his height according to Navy standards, won't need much tutoring for his height according to the grade enlisting if he makes the grade later. Besides having a busted finger, he played 23 minutes of the Philadelphia All-Star game with an injured foot and squawked mightily when Bob Zupke wouldn't let him go back for the second half. Mary Hardwick, the English tennis player, hears from her former Wightman cup teammate, Peggy Scriven, that Peggy's husband was shot down over Germany nine days after their wedding and now is a prisoner. When Nickle Tujillo of Colorado beat Domingo Diaz of Los Angeles in a fight at Denver the other night, he was hailed as "the new featherweight champion of Puerto Rico." Well, if they can play the Rose Bowl game at Durham, N. C., why not?

George R. Farrar, Jr., Woonsocket (R. I.) Call: "Perhaps the professor of Fordham University should check their seismographs more carefully. It could be that they have mistaken earth tremors in the South Pacific for the quakes of Manager Leo Duroches as he watches the Cardinals snap their teeth at the heels of his dragging Dodgers."

The Fort Monmouth, N. J., football team, whose schedule includes games with Columbia and Rutgers, actually will be composed of picked players from three Signal Corps encampments—Monmouth, Camp Wood and Camp Edison. Don Whitmire, Alabama's 230-pound sophomore tackle, figures on losing 20 pounds in a couple of weeks of grid practice but that isn't enough for the Marines. Order from Marine Corps headquarters said to take off 40—and then it could be decided whether his blood pressure is too high to enter the Marine Reserve Corp. René Dussaq, a former tennis champ in Cuba and Switzerland, once was an automobile stunt driver in Hollywood. Now he's at Fort Benning, Ga., trying for a commission in the parachute officers' training school. Apparently he just doesn't give a darn.

Blues on the Green
Crooner Bing Crosby, who starts a golf exhibition tour for the Army relief, Red Cross and U. S. O. at Binghamton, N. Y., today, has agreed to warble a few songs from the 18th green—instead of from the 19th hole shower like ordinary guys.

At the end of the season the Cubs will talk trade with any club that wants Stan Hack, Phil Cavarretta, Dom Dallesandro, and Rip Russell.

a War Labor Board but—unless labor leaders now behave—the Board will crack down on labor as it is now persecuting employers. The law of action and reaction continues to rule.

My Position
Let me say that in normal times I believe that labor leaders are both useful and necessary. In these critical war times, however, labor leaders should show a more cooperative spirit. They should remember the millions of our boys in the armed services who are working for $50 a month under great hardships and at the risk of being killed or wounded. This is no time for selfishness by any group.

Washington has favored labor since the beginning of the New Deal. Workers should realize, however, that there is a limit even to the Administration's patience. Already the President has ordered the department heads to stop bickering and devote their time and energy to fighting the enemy. The day may not be far distant when he will crack down on labor leaders. Labor controversies that plague the war effort are certainly against the public interest.

Congress At Fault
In and out of session, Congressmen are customarily fair game for criticism. On the whole their lot is not an easy one and I sympathize with them. Their personal expenses in Washington are high. They have a certain position to maintain and probably feel the effects of rising living costs as much as, if not more than, any other group. Like everyone else, they want to hang on to their jobs. Being friendly toward labor has, in the past, been one way of keeping these jobs. How long this will continue is a question. If pensions for Congressmen were available we might well see members develop a more independent spirit and act differently on many important matters.

I trust after the November elections that Congress will pass some real legislation dealing with wartime strikes and boycotts. The President should not stand for any group of workers or employers challenging the War Labor Board's ruling that wage increases should contribute only the 15 per cent rise in the cost of living from January, 1941 to the inauguration of price ceilings last May. Firm adherence to this policy would do much to narrow the vicious inflation circle. Congress should insist that this W. L. B.'s stabilization formula be accepted; also that the cost of living figures provide for substitutes and cut out waste.

Work Or Fight

Considering the importance to the men in the army of the materials which workers are producing, it is necessary that individually, and in groups, they set a good example. It matters not whether the issues involved pertain to fellow workers or to management. Unless labor and management, in cooperation with mediation boards, can amicably settle their differences the national economy and the whole future of labor relations may be seriously affected.

The National War Service Bill which the McNutt War Manpower Commission is drafting may ultimately kill labor's golden goose. It provides that workers who strike may be drafted into the armed services. Those now in non-essential industries may be forced into armament employment. All of us able-bodied men and many women may find ourselves forced directly to contribute to our coming offensive drives. There may be no such thing as either an indispensable or a live worker. Wake up workers, so that next year we may celebrate another Labor Day under better circumstances than we observe September 7, 1942.

Farm prices will be frozen also although revision may be made later on the charges for some products with some of the revisions to be downward, it was said.

The government officials said income tax laws will be enforced particularly to enforce wage provisions of the order. Refusal to allow employers "business expense" deductions for unauthorized wage increases, would bring increased taxes on em-

While the order is not expected to affect directly other cost-of-living angles, it is anticipated Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress and his radio address to the public will stress necessity of more taxes, more war bond purchases, more rationing, prompt payment of debts, and avoidance of hoarding.

As for an executive dismissal of legislation bolstering farm prices: it was expected that Mr. Roosevelt would count on forestalling farm bloc protests by answering some of the objections in advance in a message to congress preceding a radio address to the people.

The President has said his message will not constitute a request for any legislation and consequently, it was expected he will explain his belief of necessity for freezing farm prices at present levels.

When the President advised congress in 1940 of the trading of 50 destroyers to Great Britain in exchange for outlying air and naval bases, it was recalled that his announcement also was accompanied by an opinion of former Attorney General Jackson, now a supreme court justice, affirming his authority for the act. The message constituted a report and an explanation to the legislators. There was no request for congressional action.

In the preparation of his anti-inflation program the President was known to have conferred with Attorney General Biddle and other Justice Department officials.
