American Airmen Deal Blow To Japs At Both Ends Pacific War Area

Two Ships Sunk, Five Others And Three Submarines Damaged; Japs Suffer 500 Casualties In Aleutians; Marines Beat Off Jap Assault In Solomons

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Renewed American aerial assaults on Japanese invaders in the Aleutian and Solomon islands left the enemy today with a loss of two ships, damage to five others and three submarines, and 500 troop casualties.

In the southwest Pacific, where U. S. Marines hammered down a third Japanese attempt to regain Guadalcanal territory, the Navy reported Marine and Navy aircraft bombed and torpedoed enemy ships south of Choiseul Island and damaged two cruisers.

Almost simultaneously, the Navy and Pacific fleet headquarters told of striking a new blow in the Aleutians far to the north where Army planes sank two Japanese mine sweepers, damaged three submarines, three large cargo ships and several small craft, killed and wounded an estimated 500 troops, shot down six planes and fire storehouses and supply dumps.

The big Aleutian raid, centering about Kiska harbor occurred Monday, the Navy disclosed yesterday, in the first report on that area since August 22 when an American submarine sank an enemy merchantman. A Pacific fleet headquarters communique said the action occurred Tuesday, but both agreed on all substantial facts.

U. S. bombers and P-39s, on their latest mission in the Aleutians, escorted Army heavy bombers, Consolidated "Liberators," on the two-day raid without loss except for two P-39s which collided over Kiska.

Enemy resistance with fighter planes was weak, enabling American forces to carry out what the Pacific fleet headquarters termed a "most successful attack."

At the other end of the far-flung Pacific theater, Marines still clung to their Guadalcanal base, as the Navy announced intensity of fighting had decreased. Marine patrols, meanwhile, still sought to drive enemy units from the interior of the island.

A Japanese cruiser and destroyer force, was spotted yesterday off Choiseul, the Navy said, by Navy and Marine Devastator dive bombers and Navy Grumman Avenger torpedo planes. One of the cruisers was damaged by a bomb, the other by a torpedo, in action about 200 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

The hits scored on the two cruisers boosted the toll on enemy shipping in the Solomons to more than a score sunk or damaged. In the Aleutians, the Japanese had had 32 ships lost or damaged to date as a result of the latest U. S. air attack.

Explosion Wrecks Small Arms Plant

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 17.—(AP)—A midnight explosion so powerful it knocked sleepers from their beds shook the town of New Haven, where Winchester Repeating Arms Company, employs 14 persons.

Eight of the injured were taken to New Haven hospital and six to the plant hospital early today. Doctors said the condition of none was serious and the name of the most severely injured worker had been removed from the danger list.

Winchester Works Manager Thomas J. S. Bock, termed the explosion "accidental," said it occurred in a small, sheet metal outbuilding when a worker dropped a tray containing explosives. Fifteen persons, most of them women, were in the building at the time.

The roof of the building, not attached to the walls, was blown to bits and windows throughout the factory were shattered. Although the army's explosive safety branch in Chicago said no machinery was destroyed, Bock estimated the damage at $10,000.

The mighty blast was heard in towns 12 miles away, rattled windows and rocked houses in far corners of the city, and some persons reported to police and newspapermen, threw them to the floor as they lay asleep.

There was no fire after the explosion although an alarm summoned about ten pieces of city and factory apparatus.

Heat Sinks Sinks
All classes in the city schools—white and colored—were dismissed at noon today on account of the hot weather, a school official announced.

Prowler

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Eastern Defense Command announced today that a small raft had been found along the Atlantic coast of Long Island last night and that a shot was fired in an unsuccessful attempt to halt a prowler.

An army beach patrol, together with police and Coast Guard, later searched the vicinity but "discovered nothing unusual."

The announcement said the incident occurred at about 10 P. M. Eastern War Time.

MADAGASCAR TO FIGHT ON

Vichy Says Armistice Terms Unacceptable

London, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The governor general of Madagascar, who yesterday asked the British for terms, has decided to defend the island "to the extreme limit," a French communique broadcast by the Vichy radio said today.

The communique, announcing continued resistance against British columns converging upon Tananarive, capital of the island, said the British terms of surrender "appear to be unacceptable to such an extent" that Governor General Amédée Annet could not even consider them.

British forces were believed to be continuing their week-old advance today upon Tananarive, pending an agreement on armistice terms.

Sources here said there was no official information in London on the progress of negotiations which Governor Annet's attitude might indicate.

British columns, closing in since last Thursday from west coast port, were reported officially to have pushed more than half the way inland toward the capital.

Previously, reports had described the French resistance as slight, showing the British more by road blocks and destroyed bridges than by gunfire.

A Berlin broadcast said a large crowd in Paris, attending a meeting in protest against the British attack on Madagascar, was told by a former governor of the island that "this New Britain attack is a last warning to all those Frenchmen who as yet have not conceived that the French Colonial Empire is endangered."

British Bombers Attack Jap Ships

New Delhi, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Japanese river craft and the waterfront at Mandalay were attacked by British bombers yesterday for the second time in three days, an RAF communique announced today.

"Bombs fell in the Quay area and a direct hit was scored on a barge," the communique said. "The results of other attacks on steamers and barges was not observed."

All the raiding planes returned safely.

Robber Gets $30 In Small Change Here

Police had no clue today as to the identity of the robber who broke into Sutton's Service Station on Dickinson avenue at Wade street last night and carried off about $30 in small change.

Money was the object of the robbery, police stated, since nothing else in the station was taken. Three were passed up.

Crewmen Tell Story Of The Yorktown's Sinking

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Yorktown, sent out hastily repaired merely to trail other plane carriers for the "clean-up" job, fought to death bearing the brunt of the Midway sea-air battle.

This information was disclosed today in the story of the gallant ship's last stand, as constructed by the 12th Naval District headquarters here from accounts of her rescued crew members.

These sailors, their eyes bright with pride for their lost ship, also told how some of their mates died and how the carrier's 53-year-old commander, Captain Elliott Buckmaster, saved a Negro mess attendant at the risk of his own life.

Aircraft Carrier Yorktown Lists Before Sinking

Her guns still pointing skyward, the U. S. aircraft carrier Yorktown lists heavily to port after taking a beating from Jap bombers and torpedo planes in the battle of Midway. A destroyer (right) attempts to assist and a salvage crew on the deck of the Yorktown tries to right her. But a few hours later, a Jap submarine hit her twice with torpedoes and she sank. This official Navy photo was taken dead astern.

BLACKOUT ON SEPTEMBER 29

Plan For Statewide Blackout Announced Today

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The entire state will blackout on September 29, 1942, that the British terms of surrender "appear to be unacceptable to such an extent" that Governor General Amédée Annet could not even consider them.

The date was selected, Douglas said, because of its historical significance to North Carolina. It was on September 29, 1918, that the 60th division, including a large number of Tar Heels, broke through the Hindenburg line. "It is about time that someone recognized the boys of the last war and honored them in this one," Douglas said.

Lights in defense plants will not be blacked out, said the director. "The same rules that apply to all test blackouts will apply to this one."

The council head Charles H. Murphree, regional director of civilian defense, said that "North Carolina is vulnerable to air attack. x x x We in civilian defense must furnish the leadership necessary to mobilize every man, woman and child in this country. The people are not complacent. They are confused and need leadership, and definite programs."

Announcement was made by Solace Mitchell, regional director of mobilization of the OGD, that a citizens service corps had been established in the state to do "everything from selling war bonds to providing nurseries for mothers in war industries." Under local civilian defense offices, administrative units will be set up over the state. The workers also will participate in salaried drives, victory gardens, home nursing, nutritional study, and undertake clerical duties.

On the previous night, Tobruk, a vital Axis supply port, was blasted by heavy bombers. There have been no activities on the land front except for patrol skirmishes and artillery exchanges, the communique said.

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Tons of explosives, blew Axis supplies, batteries and fortifications sky high in the British sea and air raid on Tobruk last Sunday night, it was reported today by George Palmer of the United Press, who is in Alexandria from the expedition which ended with Larry Allen of the Associated Press believed to be a prisoner in Italian hands.

The United Press, declining the advantage given it by Allen's misfortune, made Palmer's story available to the Associated Press.

Palmer and Allen were the only American correspondents accredited to the British Mediterranean fleet and Palmer was the only one to return from the storming of Tobruk.

Says Tax Bill Is Inadequate

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that the new tax bill was "wholly inadequate" from the standpoint of the amount of yield and because "it does not contain any special provisions for restrictions on expenditures."

Discussing the bill at a press conference, Morgenthau expressed disappointment that the bill as it stands in the Senate Finance committee "fails to correct some important loopholes. Among these he listed the absence of a provision for taxing income from outstanding tax-exempt securities and the failure to require joint returns by husband and wife."

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Air raid sirens sounded an alarm at the Norfolk naval operating base and the Norfolk navy yard early today. Army and naval officials gave no explanation of the sounding of the signals at 1:45 a. m., with the all-clear coming 45 minutes later. No alarm was sounded in Norfolk proper.

President Opposes Any Change Parity Formula

Price Stabilization Bill Gaining Support

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in letters to chairman of the senate and house banking committees, expressed "unwavering opposition" today to any move to change the present parity formula for farm prices.

Advised at a White House conference that amendments might be offered to pending anti-inflation legislation to alter the level of parity returns to farmers, the President wrote Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Rep. Clegg (D-Ala.), opposing such a move.

Parity is a price level calculated to give farmers a return for their crops comparable to a past favorable period, usually 1909-14. Some farm bloc members had contended that this formula ought to be revised to take farm wages into account, thus increasing the level to which farm prices might rise before ceilings came into operation.

"I should like to make clear my unalterable opposition to any re-computation of parity at this time," the President wrote. "In my message of Sept. 7, I stated, 'in computing parity, we should continue to use the computations of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics made under the law as it stands today.' This will continue to be my policy."

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Support for the administration's price stabilization bill appeared to be developing among Republican senators today as they assembled for a caucus to formulate their general position.

While the bill is only 32 miles by air from Port Moresby, it ordinarily takes two days to travel between the two points by land along narrow, tortuous trails.

Allied planes were reported giving the ground forces good support by continually strafing the Japanese from low levels. Jungles provided the enemy with cover which made detection from the air difficult.

Adoption Voided In Superior Court

In Superior Court today Judge Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw, ruled that the adoption of Ruby Belle Tighman in 1925 by Elisha Moseley of near Pinecroft, was illegal and void and that Moseley's brothers and sisters are the legal owners of the land he owned prior to his death last spring.

The action was instituted by S. L. Moseley and others against Mrs. Ruby Deans and her husband, Louis Dean, of the Falkland section.

Judge Albion Dunn represented the plaintiffs. J. B. James of this city, and R. T. Martin of Farmville, were counsel for the defendants.

Court was adjourned for the term. Judge Stevens will remain over to sign a number of judgments.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT McKENZIE
Wide-World News Analyst

The world's big ears are twitching with the announcement by General Hata, Jap commander in chief in China, that "the East Asia war is about to take an important step in cooperation with the European war—a statement calculated to convey the impression that Nippon is going to attack Russia or India."

Just what scheme motivates the devious Oriental mind in spreading this propaganda isn't apparent, although the odor of red herring is strong along the trail. Maybe the Japs are telling the exact truth—adopting Hitler's tactics of fooling the enemy by announcing his real intentions in advance. It's equally possible that Hata is just lying, for benefit of Mikado and country.

Probabilities are Japan doesn't want to undertake either of these dangerous adventures. They would be illogical military moves since her whole business now should be to (Continued on Page Four)

German Tanks Penetrate Outskirts Of Stalingrad But Reds Continue Fight

Japs Ships Sunk

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that United States submarines operating in the western Pacific had sunk four enemy ships and damaged four others in recent actions.

Listed as sunk were two large freighters, one medium-sized freighter and one small patrol boat.

The damaged vessels were one large tanker damaged and left adrift, one large freighter, one medium-sized freighter and one large transport damaged.

These actions have not been included in any previous Navy announcement.

RAF BOMBERS BLAST NAZIS

Large Scale Attack on Ruhr Valley Industries

London, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Massed squadrons of possibly 800 RAF bombers unloaded another huge load of explosives upon the industrial heart of Germany last night, striking at the Ruhr in a renewed effort to aid Soviet Russia by crippling Adolf Hitler's war-making machinery.

This massive night blow at the Ruhr, the Air Ministry disclosed, followed a daring dusk attack by light British bombers on Weisbaden, in the Rhineland. Wiesbaden is the seat of the German armistice commission that deals with French armistice matters.

The night raid, delivered by "a very strong force of bombers," left many fires burning, some of them very large, the communique said.

British losses in the two air forces were 39 planes, it was announced. If the usual five per cent loss ratio prevailed, the RAF may have sent over as many as 800 planes. The authoritative source said specifically, however, that it was not a 1,000-bomber operation.

An authoritative British statement said: "A very strong force of our bombers attacked objectives in the Ruhr last night."

"Many fires, some of them very large, were left burning. Thirty-nine of our bombers are missing."

The RAF ran its string of night assaults on the Reich this month to 10 by this attack.

The dusk curtain-raiser of the British air assault was the second blow against Wiesbaden within a month. Chiefly a spa but also a manufacturing city where surgical instruments are made, Wiesbaden was one of the chief targets of a strong raid on Frankfurt and the upper Rhineland on the night of August 24. It had not been mentioned before in RAF communique.

To reach their goal with night-bombing, the RAF has been forced to use a tactic of "bomber sweeps" (Continued on Page Two)

Will Auction War Bonds Court House

Plans are being worked out to hold an auction sale of War Bonds on the court house lawn in the near future. W. H. Woolard, president of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co., and T. Y. Walker, manager of the Pitt Theatre, are planning the event.

Some celebrity will be the auctioneer. An entertaining program will be provided. Pitt county and Greenville failed to sell some of the mid-summer quotas of War Bonds. Those promoting the auction sale at the court house hope to make up the quotas at the auction.

Mr. Woolard is chairman of the Victory Bond Committee for the Pitt county area.

Consider Steps Freeze Social Security Taxes

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A resolution to freeze social security taxes at present levels was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Vandenberg said the measure not only would counter an anticipated treasury proposal to increase these taxes to a total of five per cent, but would, if adopted, prevent the automatic doubling January 1 of present levies of one per cent on employers and 1 per cent on employees.

Randolph Paul, treasury general counsel, recently told the Finance committee that after Congress had acted on the pending tax bill the treasury plans to set a date for a broadening of the social security program and a boost in payroll levies to a total of five per cent. Asserting that there was no present necessity for increasing these taxes, Vandenberg said he had learned that present levies would pour $319,000,000 into the social security reserve fund in 1943. He said that had already exceeded by 30 times the amount Congress had said "be maintained to keep social security benefit payments on a sound actuarial basis."

"Of course," the Michigan senator told reporters, "social security taxes are a form of compulsory savings. I can see why the treasury wants to increase them. To get more money into its vaults to aid in financing the war."

"But I am against putting more I. O. U.'s into the social security reserve fund. There is a moral principle involved that we ought not to violate. If we are to have compulsory savings, let's have compulsory savings as such, and not disguised as a Social Security tax."

Mid-day Soviet Communiqué Stresses Successful Defensive Action And Does Not Intimate City Is Falling; Nazis Push On Despite Tremendous Losses

by HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, Sept. 17.—(AP)

Stalingrad struggled for existence today against German vanguards lodged within the outskirts and swarms of Nazi bombers holding clear superiority.

The Moscow radio announced the invaders were maintaining their advance, despite thousands of casualties.

Successful defensive actions were stressed by the Soviet Information Bureau's mid-day communique a few hours later, however, and Russian field dispatches in no way intimated that the fighting was lessened or that the city was falling.

"In the northwestern outskirts of Stalingrad, enemy tanks were repulsed by Soviet infantry," the communique said. "Six tanks were disabled or set on fire by anti-tank fire, grenades and incendiary bottles."

The radio broadcast a Transoceanic dispatch reporting that Soviet troops "are now ofering stubborn resistance in small and large groups which military quarters in Berlin characterized as 'isolated.'"

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said tonight that "Stalingrad has ceased to be a solid block of resistance," that the Germans had driven a wedge through the city to the Volga and that parts of Stalingrad were "under complete control" of the attacking forces.

The radio broadcast a Transoceanic dispatch reporting that Soviet troops "are now ofering stubborn resistance in small and large groups which military quarters in Berlin characterized as 'isolated.'"

About 650 Germans were reported slain on other sectors of the Stalingrad defense zone in engagements which developed hand-to-hand fighting. Nazi tanks, armored cars and ammunition trucks were brought under the damaging fire of Red Army artillery.

The Army newspaper, Red Star, said a Lieutenant General Rittau, commander of the 129th German division, had been killed in action near Rieber, 130 miles northwest of Moscow.

The General's body, found in a field, was reported identified by a captured German officer, Lieut. Fritz Keisler.

"The enemy is sustaining enormous losses," the Soviet radio said, "but it still presses forward."

German tank groups were reported earlier to have cut into Red Army lines on the northwestern fringes of the Soviet nerve center only to suffer extinction at the hands of Russian gunners and grenadiers still striking back powerfully.

Admission that armored detachments of enemy forces were hard upon the northwestern outskirts was contained in the midnight communique, even though it emphasized the repulse of attacks.

A change of pressure was noted in the Nazi assault tactics in the sweep against the bomb-ravaged and smoking city from the northwest, for recent emphasis had been upon the west and southwestern fronts.

"On one sector individual groups of enemy tanks drove wedges into our defenses, but they were wiped out in the head-on fighting that ensued," the midnight communique said.

It noted the rout of a Rumanian rifle regiment, the annihilation of a German infantry battalion and the destruction of 13 Nazi tanks and 34 motor vehicles in other areas of the defense are anchored on the Volga.

With the weather already approaching the overcast point and the coal strike yet unsettled, some folks are beginning to wonder how they are going to keep warm the coming winter.

If the town horses had been sprinkling Evans street today while they were doing hauling in opposition to licensed drays, it would have been more in keeping with public needs.

Boy Scout Council Meets Next Monday

The Boy Scout District Council will hold an important meeting at Hooker & Buchanan's office next Monday night at 8 o'clock. L. M. Buchanan, district chairman, will preside.

James Uzzle, new executive secretary for Boy Scouts here, will report on his survey of the local scouting situation and tell of his recent trip to a week's session of the regional training school for Boy Scout executives at Atlanta, Ga., the last week in August.

Boy scouting is credited with doing some fine work in the Greenville area since it was started some years ago under Herbert Stuckey, first Boy Scout executive for the Greenville district. Incidentally, James Uzzle, present scout executive, who was principal of the Jamesville High School, in Martin county for many years and a scout leader there, married Herbert Stuckey's daughter, Charles B. Bissette, effectively functioning head of the Community Chest the past year, married Uzzle's sister. Bissette has been one of the most ardent supporters of boy and girl scouting in Greenville.

At the Boy Scout meeting Monday night plans for the fall and winter activities will be outlined.

Protests Changing Baby Boy's Name

By CHESTER WALSH

The Associated Press and two other press gathering associations picked up a story, "What's In A Name?" from the Daily Reflector some weeks ago. It was circulated all over this country and in American possessions. It told of two men, partners in business, who had a falling out and separated. One of the partners had named his new baby after his partner, who provided a suitable gift and rejoiced in having a youngster bear his name. They were a friendly pair until the partnership was dissolved. The partner who had named his bringing about a dissolution, went to the authorities and had the baby's first name changed. The other partner, for whom the baby had been named, did some farming on a small scale, and named a new-born mule for his retiring partner. It really happened!

Clippings from papers in Tennessee, Florida and New York which carried the Daily Reflector's baby-naming story were sent to different people in Greenville with comments. A letter with the clipping from a former resident of Pitt county to Mayor Bruce Sugg was caustic in its criticism of city and county officials for "brutally allowing a man to vent his spleen against a former business partner on an innocent baby when the child was just getting old enough to answer to its name."

The letter to the mayor was bitter. The writer said he was ashamed of his birthplace and the people who run the government.

Back in the 1920's Irvin S. Cobb, famous author and humorist, said, while on a visit to the State, "All North Carolina needs is a press agent!" From the way the clippings of the baby-naming story have been coming in, Greenville and Pitt county are being press-agented.

"What's in a name?"

Wardens Ordered To Enforce Game Laws

County game wardens have been instructed to be on the lookout for out-of-season trappers and hunters of wild game. Heavy penalties are provided by state law for violators of game laws. A hunter taking game but of season and on Sunday without a license was recently fined $50 in a magistrate's court here when County Game Warden Joe Teale apprehended him near his home at a rural point.

The open season for hunting squirrel, bear, deer, opossum and raccoon begins October 1. Foxes may be taken with guns during the open seasons on other game animals. The quail and rabbit open seasons begin November 26 and close February 10.

Any person convicted of buying or selling quail shall be fined $50 or imprisoned for 60 days. Hunters convicted of violating any of the game laws are required to forfeit their licenses.

Hunting near army, naval, marine, air corps or coast guard bases will be considerably restricted this year, it is understood.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
By EARL L. DOUGLAS

EVEN TO BE FREE
The way to catch a monkey—as everyone knows who lives in coun-tries where monkeys abound—is to attach a gourd to a tree, hollow out the gourd, put into it some nuts and rice and wait for results. The monkey comes, generally at night, sticks his hand into the gourd, grabs the delicacies he finds there, and then, is, of course, unable to withdraw his clenched fist. It is well known that under no consideration will the monkey let go the rice and nuts. He will allow himself to be taken captive before he will do so.

All of which reveals monkey men-tality, whether the monkey lives in the jungle or in a Fifth Avenue apartment, whether he swings from tree to tree or rides about in the latest model sedan. Monkey men-tality puts possession first, holds on to delicacies even if it means the ruin of all the things he values most.

The monkey covered with hair and the monkey who wears a sack suit have the same philosophy of life. They both put getting first. And both insist that once you have something the thing to do is to hold on to it regardless of consequences.

Someone once said of the French Bourbons that they never learned and never forgot. Neither do the monkeys. The controlling factor in monkey mentality is the unwilling-ness to let go sweets and good things when to be free.

IT'S OUR WAR, TOO

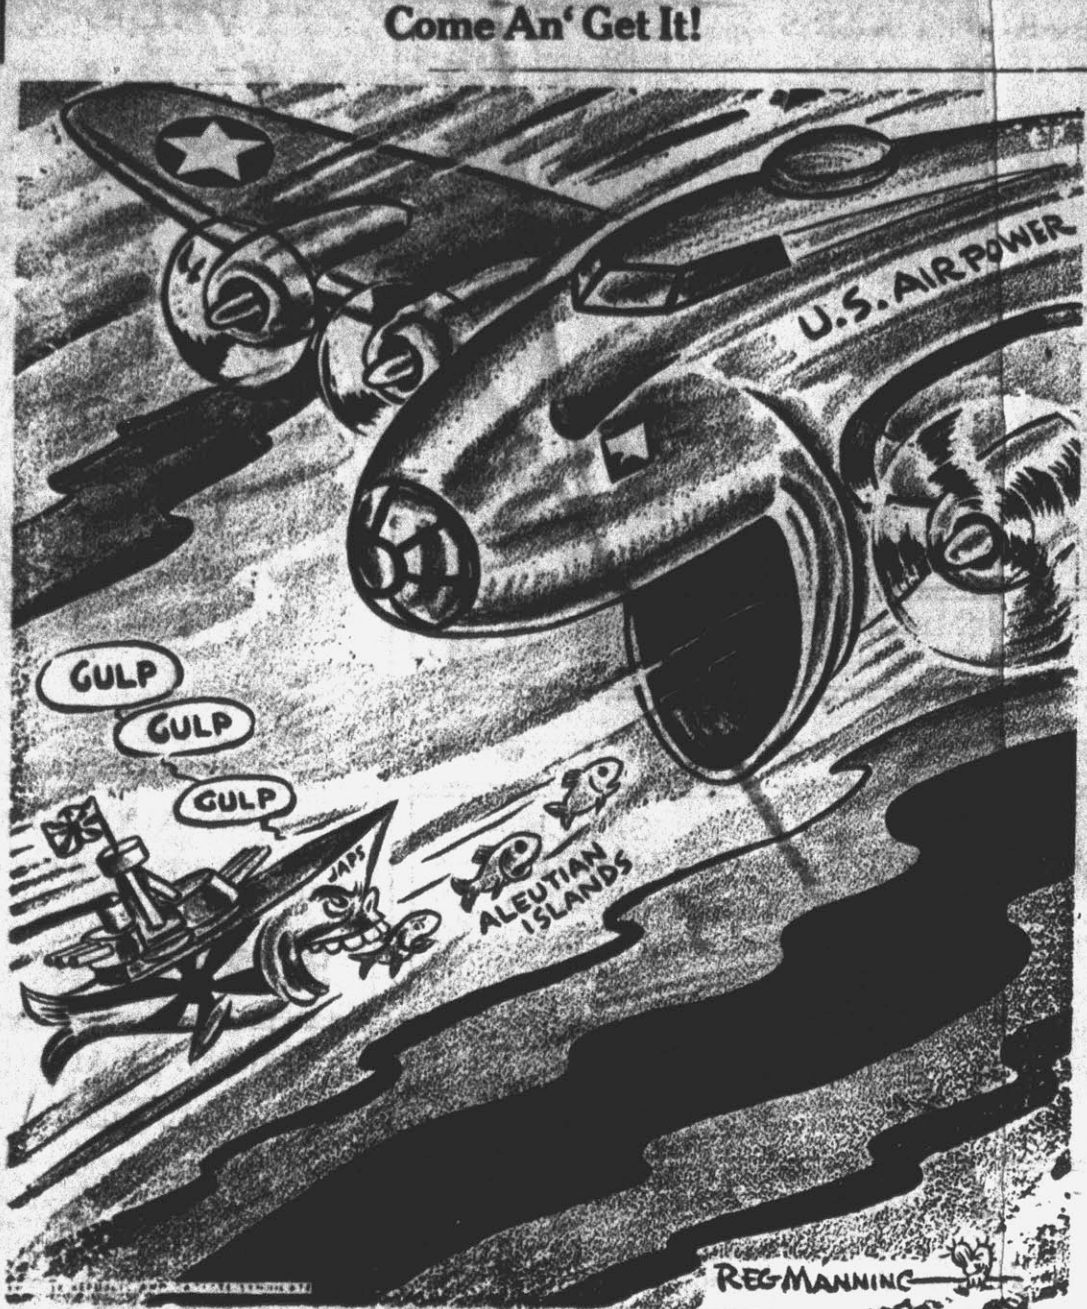

When those in charge of the scrap metal drive are asked how it is progressing, the answer is "Fair, but not up to expectations." The same answer is forthcoming when those in charge of War Bond sales in this community are asked how bonds are selling. Many of us might think we are doing a lot to help win the war but we might as well make up our minds now that we are going to have to do a lot more sacrificing if our nation is to be victorious.

There are scattered about this county at this time tons and tons of scrap metal that should find its way into pro-ductive sources for our war effort, but as long as our people take the attitude of "let-ting George do it," this scrap will remain in our county and will do no good in the war effort.

With tobacco selling the highest in years and with the prospects for more money in this community—and with fewer commodities to buy with it—the place for the excess cash is in War Bonds, but far too little is finding its way into govern-ment use through this chan-nel.

Naturally our nation ex-pects to be victorious in this war, but that expectation is based upon every American being willing to do his or her part to help make victory possible and with less than 50 per cent effort on the part of all our people it is possible for us to lose the war.

Yes, folks, what has happened in some other parts of the world can and may happen here unless we quickly come to the realization that we have a job ahead of us that requires nothing short of our full sup-port and effort.

Get that scrap metal mov-ing now and put that excess cash of yours into War Bonds and Stamps. Every pound of scrap will help to make more guns, bullets, planes, tanks, ships, etc., so badly needed at this time and every dollar spent for War Bonds will help our government to purchase those things necessary for victory.

Let's not put these impor-tant matters off any longer. Let's start doing our part today!

Come An' Get It!

capital hot-stoves—have two op-inions of the President's recent speech and message to Congress.

- That it was the rarest stroke of political genius the President has yet shown.
- That in that speech and mes-sage the President kicked politics out the window for the duration.

The No. 2 men argue that Presi-dent Roosevelt showed supreme contempt for political dallying. He named names. He said that farm prices and wage controls had to be established. He said that wartime taxes had to be levied. He gave Congress three weeks to get the job done. He served notice that if Congress delayed beyond October 1, he would exercise his powers as chief wartime executive and do them himself.

This solemn pledge to regulate farm prices and wages in less than five weeks before the national elec-tions, the No. 2 men continue, is proof that the President is NOT interested in politics. He has served notice they say, on the powerful farm and labor blocs—just before election—that this is WAR; that he will play no favorites; that he will bring all of his great wartime pow-ers to bear to see that Congress plays no favorites either; that only the future victory of our nation is on his conscience and he doesn't give two whoops in a voting booth how the voters cast their ballots.

Those who argue Theorem No. 1 get a political glint in their eyes, rub their hands in gleeful appreciation and shout, "By the whiskers of Uncle Sam, he's done it again." What they see in the President's speech and message to Congress is something different:

By issuing his ultimatum to Con-gress and placing the deadline on October 1, five weeks before elec-tion, he has given the farm and labor bloc boys in the Democratic ranks a perfect out. He has taken the responsibility on his own shoulders.

He has fixed it so the incumbents can point out to the strong-arm lobbyists that if they (the candi-dates) fail for re-election they ac-cessed to the President's demands he would have put them into ef-fect anyway.

He has provided also a band-wagon that the heretofore lukewarm members of Congress can crawl onto with impunity.

In addition to all this the No. 1 arguers say the President has side-stepped two potent political left jabs, and crossed over with two equally deadly right hooks. First, he HAS consulted Congress before cracking down with legislative pow-ers already placed in his hands.

Second, he has disclaimed all in-terest in "dictatorship" with that one strong paragraph: "When this war is won, the powers under which I act will automatically revert to the people—to whom they belong."

The perils the Japs would risk in going after Siberia or India would be many. The most vital consid-eration is that she would be seriously weakening her forces in the south-west Pacific, thereby making Uncle Sam's task easier.

This would be particularly true as regards India. Overland in-vasion through Burma and across the towering mountain ranges isn't feasi-ble on a big scale. The Japs have to employ a great water-borne ex-pedition. This would mean that at a time when they need every trans-port, warship and airplane for use in the Pacific warfare, they would have to make a heavy call on these badly reduced arms.

In the case of Russia, the Nippon-ese would lay Tokyo and other great cities open to aerial bombard-ment the moment the Japs began. The Reds have a strong air fleet at Vladivostok, and presumably have warplanes at other Siberian sta-tions.

Russian territory would become available for American air bases. The Soviet submarine fleet at Vlad-ivostok, estimated at 10 boats, would start raiding Japanese waters. Of course failure to smash Russia would mean the Japs had invited an avalanche which added to their strength, must crush the island em-pire. She most certainly would be driven into the sea from Manchuria, Korea and all her other Chinese conquests.

Naturally, should Japan attack Russia it would be with the hope that the Muscovites have been so weakened in their long and bloody conflict with Hitler that the added weight of an assault in Siberia would bring about a quick collapse of the Soviet. The Japs also would aim at acquiring military security by conquering Vladivostok and other bases which now are a potential menace. There further is the not unimportant matter of gaining rich new territories.

A successful conquest of India

WILDERNESS GIRL

By LETA ZOE ADAMS

Chapter 31
The Code
Sandy went off, then, with only a last hurried glance at Tyra's hut to see how Helen was faring. He saw the fear in Tyra's eyes when he told her what he intended to do.

"Sandy be—oh, be careful!" He stepped over to where she sat on a crude little stool beside the bunk upon which Helen lay.

"Tyra, can you ever forgive me?" She caught her breath. "I've never blamed you for not believing my story, this morning. It was weak. That's why I had to show you—I knew nothing less would ever con-vince you."

"That a miracle had taken place," he finished for her.

Her face, upturned to his, was a temptation too strong to resist. Quickly he bent and touched his lips to her forehead.

"That's just to hold you until I come back!"

She stared up at him, unblinking, like a child. "Sandy..."

"Be seeing you soon!"

He ducked through the low door and strode out of the camp.

But, in spite of the exultation in his blood he proceeded cautiously, scanning each clump of brush as he approached it, keeping his hand upon his revolver.

With ears and eyes alert he be-gan searching the brush around the old camp, commencing with the side nearest Helen's tent. He had been looking only a few minutes when his search was rewarded: For, in parting a clump of brambly brush, he saw it—an ochre-brown jar a foot long—a wide-mouthed jar with a sealed stopper!

Sandy knelt to take the urn in his arms. Then he went taut as a brown form catapulted from the brush.

"Senor! Senor Morse! The Indies! Senor Morse sends me to tell you to come quickly!"

It was Erasto, who had been watching upon the plateau.

Sandy swooped the jar into his arms and went crashing back through the deserted camp upon Erasto's heels.

When he arrived, he found every-thing in a turmoil. Fleming shout-ing orders to his Yaguis, the brown men dragging down pup tents and stuffing supplies into knap-sacks.

"About 75 men are on the way!" Fleming shouted as soon as Sandy appeared. "Our only chance is to run!"

"But—Helen—we can't leave her." "We'll have to carry her on the stretcher. It's been done before. Means reducing our packs. I'm leav-ing all the sleeping bags, except these. Leaving some of the personal stuff, too."

Flight
Gil came up just then. "You did find the codes, chief. I'm afraid you wouldn't have time. I'm orga-nizing the packs. Want me to take this precious burden?"

"Wrap it in one of the tents," he instructed Gil.

Sandy did not question Fleming's decision to flee before the Indians could reach their camp, for he knew that with Hunac-Ceel on the war-path there would no longer be any safety on the plateau, even should the white men beat back the In-dians today. It would be awkward traveling with a stretcher, but when they had moved out of Hunac-Ceel's territory they could halt until Helen was able to walk.

Tyra appeared at the hut door and called to her father and Sandy that Helen was ready to move.

Fleming snapped, "I'll send two of my Yaguis ahead with the stretcher while we finish up."

Not until then did Sandy remem-ber Fleming's mine. He asked quick-ly, "What about your gold? Are you putting it in the packs?"

"Gold!" Fleming all but hooted. "It's buried down near the claim. Someday when I get old maybe I'll come back and dig it up."

"It seems a shame," he began.

Sandy, but Fleming cut him short.

"Tyra and I had our fun locating it. Come to think of it, I don't know what we'd do with the dam-ning stuff if we had it."

Sandy had no answer to that.

A moment later the stretcher, padded with Helen's sleeping bag moved out of the camp toward the game trail. Shortly thereafter the others straggled out of the hastily abandoned camp wading quickly to reach the cover of the bush before the Indians appeared. They were none too soon for Sandy, who had elected to guard the rear, was still in the open when he saw brown shadows moving silently out of the forest gloom. He could not be cer-tain they hadn't seen him, al-though he was sure they would not survive pursuit until they had sur-rounded the camp and satisfied themselves that it was empty.

He hurried to join the others and to report what was taking place. There was no need for comments. All knew that it was a life and death race.

Descent In Fear
At the rim of the plateau they found the Yaguis with Helen, and held a brief consultation upon the best method of taking the stretcher down the fault-line. Helen was con-scious enough to know what was going on. She called out weakly not to bother about her comfort.

They were already roping her to the stretcher. "Bet you've never been a peepose before," Sandy said. Her eyes widened a little. "Don't try to carry me."

"We're just going to ease you down the fault-line by the hand to hand method," Sandy told her. "Relax now. It may be a wild ride but you won't fall off. Ready?" he called to the Yaguis and Gil who had placed themselves opposite each other on the fault-line for the first lap of the stretcher's journey.

It was a wild ride, the stretcher passing from hand to hand, swing-ing with astonishing speed down the steep side of the plateau. The six men formed three pairs of "handlers" and worked like one unit. As soon as the stretcher had left two pairs of hands, those men planned past the others to take a place below, thus the chain formed and reformed with only the char-acter of the terrain to break the timing. Tyra went ahead to choose the best route.

They kept watching the rim of the plateau for a sight of the In-dians, for should they be caught on the fault-line, they would be help-less under a rain of spears from above. No Indian appeared, but Sandy did not draw a free breath until they had reached the base of the plateau, far out of range of spears or blow-guns.

There they rested only a few min-utes before starting on. When night overtook them the plateau lay two or three miles away. They camped without making a fire, and posted a guard. There were no alarms, but neither Fleming nor Sandy felt secure, so at dawn they pushed on across the man-killing country to-ward the high peak where Sandy had first looked upon the mystical plateau.

Several days later they reached the peak, and Sandy again stood with his binoculars and gazed off at the plateau floating like a dream-world upon the horizon. Tyra came to his side.

MEAT BUYING SHOWS SLUMP

Loss Being Purchased For Lend-Lease Shipments

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP)—Purchasing of meat by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, government agency which buys for lend-lease shipment to other United Nations, has slumped sharply in the past several weeks, a compilation of Department of Agriculture reports showed today.

Scaling down to the agency's buying was a necessary result of the meat shortage, livestock experts said. The AMA, which formerly made heavy purchases weekly, now buys only every other week in an effort to make more supplies available for domestic consumers.

Actual shipments of AMA purchased meat to other countries are a military secret, and the total supplies held by the agency are not disclosed.

The recent reduction in purchases does not mean that a corresponding downturn has occurred in the food stocks of Allied Nations, trade sources asserted. They added that the agency could be making the same total available, drawing from its stocks.

It was expressed by livestock experts that the AMA's buying would expand within a few months as the autumn and winter run of hogs and cattle, which will be exceptionally large, comes to market.

Prices of hogs, which are more influenced by AMA buying than cattle, have declined recently, but livestock men attribute the slump more to the threat of ceilings and increased offerings than to the AMA's program. The top price of hogs yesterday was $14.40 compared with $18.30, a 22 year peak, in mid August.

Commission Warns Of Bus Situation

The North Carolina School Commission has sent the following information to school superintendents, with a warning to heed it and pass it along to school teachers and students and the patrons of the schools, Don H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools, announced today:

The war emergency has produced new and serious problems of school transportation. It is the responsibility of school officials to see that every practicable adjustment in the school transportation program is made at once.

Production of new motor vehicles has terminated. There is only a very limited supply of rubber available for all needs. Materials used in making repair and replacement parts are now classified as critical war materials, sorely needed in our war effort.

There was a general discussion among the committeemen and board members of an upstate county of the acuteness of the transportation problem due to the present war emergency. Some of the facts brought out were:

1. That 71 per cent of all children attending school in the county are transported.
2. That transportation is more vital to rural children than those of towns, but those in town are likewise affected.
3. That for the duration of the war, and perhaps a year afterwards, no more new buses will be available.

Picking their way along the sloping flight deck of the listing aircraft carrier Yorktown, hard-fighting crewmen head for damaged sections to see if they can catch up the e-way. Later, they had to abandon the vessel, and torpedo hits by a Japanese submarine sent her to the bottom. This picture was made by the Navy.

In pure gratitude to L-K and with a sincere desire to help other sufferers, hundreds of Carolina men and women are telling of the wonderful relief DR. FOSTER'S L-K brought them from the distress of acid indigestion, loss of appetite, weight, and strength, insomnia, muscular aches and pains due to toxic wastes of sluggish bowels, weak rundown feeling, undermourishment, and similar symptoms due to the insufficient flow of stomach digestive juices, nervousness and constipation. Among the scores of grateful Greensboro men and women is Mrs. J. W. Creed of 2005 Textile St., who declares:

"For a year or more I suffered terrible distress from sour indigestion, kidney stones, toxic aches and pains, and after every meal I would spit up a sour liquid that was so hot it seemed to burn my throat. Then my stomach would begin to bloat with gas and soon I felt like it had a hard knot in it. I was forced to get up many times at night and therefore got very little sleep, and what little I did get did not seem to give me any strength. Finally I got to where it was all I could do to get through my housework and I was about as discouraged as any woman in

Cardinals Hold On To Two Game Lead Over Dodgers

BOTH WON YESTERDAY

Nip And Tuck Battle For National Loop Pennant

Associated Press Sports Writer

Ferdinand the flogger flibbert popped out of his hole today, right smack into the National league lawn party, and threw such a scare into the folks in Brooklyn they all but leaped over the garden wall.

Ferdinand the flibbert, in case you've forgotten him, is the little guy with an adding machine for a head and a percentage table for a heart, and when he starts counting over you—well, pal, it may not be deadly, but it's no vitamin tablet.

And the way Ferdie has it figured out right now, what with the St. Louis Cardinals two games in front of the Bums and moving right along, the layouts look tougher for the daffiness boys than the steaks they used to squawk about when they were doing their spring training stuff in Havana.

Naturally, you'll point out that the Brooklyn broke out of their building slump yesterday like a dinged downer trying to get into a debutante's size 12. They turned loose a 19-hit bombardment that tore the feeble Pittsburgh Pirates apart 10-3 in a game marked by a brawl in the stands among some fans, a couple of ushers and Dixie Walker and Mickey Owen. No one was "hotted".

But the Cards bowled over Boston's not-so-brave 9-2 at the same time and are still in there winning. And those festivities caused Ferdinand to point out that if the Cardinals should even lose four of their remaining nine games, the Dodgers would have to take nine of 11 to win. Or, the Cards can even go under the 500 mark—say win four and lose five—and in that case, the Gowanus Gallants would have to grab eight and lose only three. And if the sons of St. Leo should fall completely apart and drop six out of nine, Durocher's darlings still would need seven of 11 to come home on the bandwagon.

Many suffer from nagging backache, and they don't know it. The real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and toxins out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 quarts a day.

When disorder of kidney function begins, various matters to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent, or scanty urination with burning and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

As both outfits went back to work today for more target practice at the same bulls-eye, here's the way the layout lined up:

Cardinals—98 games won, 47 games lost, 9 games to play.

Dodgers—95 games won, 48 games lost, 2 games behind, 11 games to play.

However, the Dodgers are still better than a hundred-to-one shot. Certainly, the manner in which they came back after their two days in drydock for repairs did them no harm.

It is true they didn't look at any pitching that might be called classy, but they were swinging as though a Cardinals' face was painted on every ball. Dolph Camilli connected for two homers and two singles and knocked five runs in for the brassing job and every one in the line-up collected at least one hit during the afternoon to back up Whit Wyatt's steady elbowing.

Meanwhile, the Cards combed Jim Tobin for only nine hits, but they put five of them together for a winning four-run rally in the sixth.

But White didn't need much to work on, and for a guy who's been walling lately about a sore arm, the southpaw, looked about as injured as Whirlaway.

The pitching job of the day, however, was turned in by Mary Breuer in twirling the New York Yankees to a 5-1 win over the Detroit Tigers. For seven innings he had a no-hitter and he wound up by giving up only two for the afternoon.

Paul Derringer also tossed a better-than-bad job with a four-hitter that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-1 decision over the Giants.

Just in case you're interested, the Chicago Cubs climbed over the Pirates into the National league's fifth place by splitting a twin bill with the Phillies, losing the first 2-1 to Johnny Podgany and taking the nightcap 4-1 behind Hiram Bithorn.

Johnny Miggel whitewashed the Boston Red Sox with seven hits for a 3-0 St. Louis Browns' victory. Jim Bagby tossed a five hitter for his 16th win as the Indians beat the Senators 5-1, and the Philadelphia Athletics trounced the Chicago White Sox 4-2.

Ted Lyons and Sam West, oldest of the White Sox regulars, soon will be in the Army.

Yanks Clinch Pennant—And Celebrate

Ernie Bonham (second from right in front), the winning pitcher, was joined by his teammates in the New York Yankees' dressing room at Cleveland to celebrate their 8 to 3 victory over the Indians by which they clinched the 1942 American league pennant. In pitching the Yankees to their sixth league championship in seven years, Bonham became the first American league pitcher to win 20 games.

CARDS TAKING ORDERS FOR DUCATS TO SERIES

St. Louis, Sept. 17—The St. Louis Cardinals, leading the National League by two games, announced tonight they will accept applications for World Series tickets, contingent upon the club's winning the pennant.

Tickets will be sold for the games scheduled to be played Sept. 30, Oct. 1, and Oct. 7. Applications for tickets will be received only by mail, addressed to the World Series of the St. Louis National Baseball Club.

The price for one seat for the 3 games will be $17.25.

Cubs And Sox In Play - Off

Charlotte, Sept. 17 (AP)—Portsmouth Cubs, who finished the Piedmont League pennant race two percentage points behind the champion Greensboro Red Sox, will meet the North Carolinians in the finals of the Shaughnessy playoffs.

The Cubs advanced to the finals by beating Richmond, 2-1, last night in the seventh and deciding game of their series, which required 11 innings.

In the stress of the contest, Richmond's Manager Ben Chapman, struck umpire I. H. Case in a protest of a decision in the fourth inning.

Ralph R. Daughton, League president, one of the 4,000 spectators, fined Chapman $100, suspended him for 30 days and sent the case to W. G. Bramham of Durham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

GELA SEALD MEATS... YOUR BEST BUYING BET

The transparent covering of gelatine guards the public's health, for it makes Gela Seald Meats "Cooler-fresh," wholesome and clean. Shrinkage and waste are eliminated, passing those all-important meat savings on to you. Order any cut you want of Wilson's Gela Seald beef, lamb and veal--look for the glistening coat of gelatine on the meat. This makes it possible for you to select quality meat at a glance AND--when you buy Wilson's Gela Seald Meats--you never take a chance.

MASTER RECIPE FOR BRAISING GELA SEALD MEATS

Wipe meat lightly with damp cloth. Season, allowing 1/4 teaspoon of salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper, for each pound of meat. Dredge with flour. Brown meat in hot fat in heavy, heated skillet. If gelatine adheres to pan, it will dissolve when hot water is added, and give a rich, dark color to the gravy. Add liquid (unless otherwise specified), about 1/2 cup for each 4 pounds. Keep the bottom of kettle covered with liquid to prevent burning. Cover tightly. Cook at simmering temperature. (Never allow to boil.)

Note--Always braise Gela Seald Veal. Never fry or broil.

PUT PUNCH IN HIS LUNCH
Wilson's B. V. (Beef-Vegetable Extract)--It's the answer to the quest of every lunchbox packer for something different--yet good. To make the perfect "thermos-bottle beverage" merely pour 1 cup hot tomato juice over 1 level teaspoon of Wilson's B. V., stir until dissolved... add a sprinkling of celery salt. It's tasty--it's satisfying--it's nourishing.

COLD HOMES
THIS WINTERFuel Shortage Is In Prospect For Oil
Users

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Residents of 30 eastern and middle-western states who depend on oil for heat face the prospect of "uncomfortably cold homes" this winter.

This warning came last night from Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who urged householders to "take out the oil burner and put in coal."

"The oil situation is so critical that there simply won't be enough to keep people warm in oil-heated homes," he said.

Henderson disclosed the fuel oil rationing program in the 30-state area will be geared to a day-time temperature of 65 degrees under average weather conditions, compared with temperatures of 72 to 75 degrees maintained in most homes.

"If poor insulation and poor oil burner efficiency make it impossible to maintain the 65-degree temperature with this amount of oil, the householder is expected to cut down the heat loss rather than burn more oil," Henderson declared.

OPA and the War Production Board, which had authorized OPA to ration oil, issued this joint statement:

"Until and including Sept. 30, the average householder using fuel oil may purchase up to 275 gallons without the use of coupons."

"Beginning October 1, a householder may buy oil if he agrees to surrender to his supplier the necessary number of coupons when they become available."

"Each applicant will receive a ration book with a number of coupons 'tailored' to his individual needs. In deciding the total allotment for the heating season, the OPA will take into consideration the quantity of oil held by the home owner at the time of his application."

For example: If a home owner, when he applies for his ration, has 200 gallons in his tank, and it is decided that he needs 1,000 gallons for the entire heating season, he will get coupons permitting him to buy 800 gallons more than he already has."

Actual rationing will get under way as soon as necessary forms can be printed and distributed, probably about October 15, OPA said.

Bund Officials
Placed On Trial

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Twenty-five officials of the German-American Bund, including Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former national leader who is a confessed spy, went on trial today before Federal Judge Alvin D. Barkadale.

The defendants are accused of advising bund members to avoid military service under the selective service act. If convicted, each would be liable to a maximum sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000.

Long Time To Come
39 Miles On Bus

Charles B. Bisette, well known local druggist, and R. H. Lewis, state agent for an insurance company at Greensboro, had a hard time getting to Greenville today, they said. They were on a bus at Wilson, scheduled to leave for Greenville about 9:40 a. m. It was delayed some hours awaiting arrival of a driver from Raleigh to bring the bus to Greenville. Shortly after leaving Wilson the bus broke down and there was further delay.

They arrived here during the early afternoon. "Thirty-nine miles in four hours—some traveling!" Lewis said.

Jo-Carroll Dennison (above) of Tyler, Tex., is pretty—and talented as well. Entered as "Miss Texas" in the annual "Miss America" pageant now in progress at Atlantic City, N. J., Miss Dennison brought down the house with a song that won her the nightly talent contest. The song? "Deep In The Heart of Texas," of course.

SERVICE LAWSeek Balance Manpower Between Industry, Army

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A government attempt to determine the future manpower needs of both the armed forces and industry was disclosed to Congress today amid indications the administration soon would seek a national service to combat labor shortages.

Wendell Lund, director of the War Production Board's labor division, reported government agencies were preparing a decision "on the largest and most efficient possible army which can be fully serviced by those who are left outside the armed forces."

"Until that decision is made, twin dangers face the nation's war effort," he said in a statement to the House committee on Defense Migration. War Production Chief Donald Nelson also was scheduled to appear before the committee.

"On the one hand," Lund said, "workers may be taken out of jobs into the Army in such a way as to cripple production the armed forces need for their maximum efficiency. On the other hand, there is danger that the armed forces may be denied the men they need to operate the war machine."

"Until this decision is made," he said, "the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commission are gravely hampered in their parallel responsibilities of manning the armed forces and industry."

Paul McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, told the commission yesterday that a national service act, giving the government broad control over the nation's labor resources, was "inevitable" and essential to maximum production.

"I feel sorry for anybody who has to go through a dive-bombing," he said, "give me torpedoes any day."

Rehlander didn't agree with Navywmen's communistic announcements. "I think maybe one got away," he remarked.

"I heard that one of the planes was coming in low," Rehlander continued. "I flew past a Marine up forward and the pilot shook his fist at the Marine, so the Marine drew a bead on him with a rifle and shot him down."

"It might be just a yarn, but I don't know," the Marines are pretty handy with those rifles."

A black and white photograph of a woman standing outdoors. She is wearing a two-piece outfit with a bold, geometric pattern. The top is a halter-style crop top, and the bottom is a high-waisted skirt or long shorts. She is holding a large, open fan with a dark frame and light-colored, possibly feathered, blades behind her. She is barefoot and has her hair styled in a voluminous, dark, wavy fashion. The background is slightly out of focus, showing what appears to be a paved area and some architectural elements. The overall style is reminiscent of mid-20th-century fashion photography.
