Cards Ever World Series With Yanks

Win Second Game of Series By Score 4 to 3 After Yanks Had Tied The Score At Three All In The Eighth

By GAYLE TALBOT
Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Stan Musial, Cardinal rookie left fielder, clipped a line single to center field in the eighth inning to score Enos Slaughter from third and give the National Leaguers a 4 to 3 victory over the Yankees in the second game of the World Series today. Charley Keller had squared it for the Yankees with a two-run homer in the Yankees' half of the same inning.

The big crowd just had been plunged into despondency by Keller's wallop onto the right field fence when Slaughter and Musial combined to pull the game out of the fire. With two away, Slaughter bugged a double into the right field corner and raced on to third as Phil Rizzuto, Yank shortstop, let the throw-in trickle through him. Musial, who had failed to hit in the ninth inning yesterday with the bases loaded, came through this time to send the throng home happy.

The victory for Johnny Beasley, 23-year-old freshman pitcher of the Cards, tied the classic at one win apiece and sent the two clubs on their way to New York tonight in a dead heat. The third game will be played at Yankee Stadium on Saturday.

The batting order:
Yankees: Rife, 2b; Clegg, 1b; Dillinger, 3b; Haselet, 1b; Bonham, p.
Cardinals: Brown, 1b; Musial, 2b; Slaughter, 3b; Rizzuto, 1b; Cooper, 1b; Kuroski, 3b; Marion, ss; Beasley, p.

Umpires—Summer (AL) plate; Barr (NL) first base; Hubbard (AL) second base; Magerkurth (NL) third base.

The score: R H E
Yankees 000 000 030—3 10 2
Cardinals 200 000 111—4 6 0
Time of game: 1:57.

First Inning

Yankees—Rizzuto walked on five pitches. While Beasley still was pitching to Rizzuto Howard Kest began warming up in the Cardinal bullpen. Rife died out to T. Moore in center. Rizzuto stole second. Cullenback struck out on four pitches. Dillinger was thrown out by Kuroski, no runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Second Inning

Yankees—Keller worked a full count and then flied to T. Moore in short with the count two and two. Gordon drove a liner into left field and it was good for a double when Musial slipped and fell after fielding the ball to error. Dickey grounded out to Hopp, unassisted. Gordon going to third. Haselet rolled to Brown and was thrown out. (Continued on Page Six)

Tobacco Prices Higher Today

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market reached new highs for the season today with indications at the noon hour that the day's average would be above $40 per hundred pounds. The previous high for the season was on Monday when the official average was $39.98 per hundred.

Sales were fairly heavy today but indications were that the sales would be completed shortly after the noon hour and all houses cleared off tomorrow's sales. Supervisor of Sales F. C. Rankin stated this morning that prices were considerably higher today and he predicted the average would pass the $40 mark. Official figures on yesterday's sales showed $28,892 pounds sold for $21,417.31, an average of $39.76 per hundred.

House To Act Tomorrow On Anti-Inflation Bill

FARMERS TOLD HOLD COTTON

Bankhead Says Price Should Be 21 Cents

Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Cotton farmers were advised by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) today to withhold at least half of this year's crop from the market and assure themselves a price of approximately 21 cents a pound.

Under House and Senate anti-inflation bills, he said in a statement, "no hurtful change has been made in the price ceiling on cotton goods or raw cotton."

Bankhead said the Price Administration was satisfied that under the cotton goods ceiling, cotton mills could afford to pay as high as 21.47 cents a pound for raw cotton. He added they had been advised no new ceiling would be placed on raw cotton for this year's crop as long as the price remained within the present cotton goods ceiling.

"Cotton is now below parity," Bankhead declared. "The farmers can drive the price down by dumping their cotton on the market or they can put it up and get approximately 21 cents a pound for it if they will withhold from the market at least half of this year's crop."

"Under the new bill the government loan will be increased by 5 per cent of parity."

"The new bill prohibits fixing the ceiling of any commodity lower than the highest price that such commodity reached from January 1 to September 15 of this year. During that time, the price of cotton reached around 20 cents a pound."

"That situation makes it impossible for a ceiling to be placed on raw cotton below approximately 20 cents a pound under any circumstances, but the OPA has recently reaffirmed its position about making no change in the overall price ceiling on cotton goods and therefore on raw cotton."

Bankhead said the Price Administration was satisfied that under the cotton goods ceiling, cotton mills could afford to pay as high as 21.47 cents a pound for raw cotton. He added they had been advised no new ceiling would be placed on raw cotton for this year's crop as long as the price remained within the present cotton goods ceiling.

Members Given Day To Study Provisions Of Bill

By JACK BELL
Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) of the House Agriculture committee said today farm leaders in the House would accept the Senate version of farm price control, thereby apparently clearing the way for completion tomorrow of congressional action on anti-inflation legislation.

"We will do this in the interest of speedy action," Fulmer said. "We want to stop inflation, and at the same time help the farmer produce the necessary food for wartime." He added:

"In making this statement, we assume that the bill will be properly administered. The Senate bill is practically in line with the House, but not nearly as strong." At the same time he said House farm leaders would insist that the final draft of the legislation include a provision, now in the House bill, for continuation of a floor under farm prices for three years after the war.

Speaker Rayburn said today House action on the Senate version of anti-inflation legislation would be delayed until tomorrow, to give members time to consider its provisions, and then the legislation would be sent to a joint House-Senate committee to compose differences.

The Senate bill embraces less rigid stipulations than the House bill on the inclusion of farm labor costs in the establishment of agricultural price ceilings.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said he saw no reason why the bill should not be laid before the President by tomorrow at the latest. That would be one day beyond the deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt in his September 27 you do it or I will message on cost of living controls.

Backed by an 82 to 0 vote in the Senate, administration lieutenants sought to obtain an agreement by House members to the major features of a compromise Senate version directing the President to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at September 15 levels, so far as practical.

This would entail a reversal of the House vote to alter the basis of computing farm parity standards and acceptance of an administration-sponsored amendment inserted by the Senate directing the President to raise price ceilings where they did not reflect to growers the increase in labor and other costs since January 1, 1941.

Senate approval of this latter provision by an 86 to 4 vote yesterday ended an eight-day controversy between the administration and farm bloc members over the conditions under which price ceilings would be placed on farm products.

Ministerial Ass'n Meets On Monday

Monday morning, October 5, at 10:30 in the Presbyterian church, the Greenville Ministerial Association will hold its regular monthly meeting. All ministers in the city are invited to be present and to be members of this association.

This is the occasion of the annual election of officers of the association. Other important matters of business will also come before the association. Rev. J. D. Simber will make a report on the progress of the Bible courses now being taught in the public schools and the financial arrangements for same.

New Rubber And Fuel Oil Rationing Now In Effect

By CHESTER WALSH
As a wartime measure the government has been rationing the man-power of the country since Pearl Harbor. Few have complained about rationing man-power to the armed forces, but millions have objected to the rationing of tires and tubes and gasoline. A rationing official who is in intimate touch with what's going on in Washington and Raleigh and here, casually commented today that "all of us are going to learn more about rationing as the war and the winter progress. There's plenty of gas and oil in this country, but we have the transportation problem," he said. There is very little rubber in America since the Japanese took over the South Sea Islands, the principal source of crude rubber. The rubber shortage is going to regulate nearly everything—gasoline, transportation, and many other articles as the government tightens its grip on rubber products," the rationing man said.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAP

Proclamation

Raleigh, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Governor Braggton issued a proclamation yesterday designating October 1-21 as statewide newspaper salvage campaign week and urging cooperation of the public in the salvage campaign.

Nice Gift

Mrs. Leon F. Evans, who lives on the Falkland highway a few miles from Greenville, advised J. G. Clark, who is in charge of transportation for Pitt county's scrap metal drive, that she had a few hundred pounds of scrap on her farm that she would like to donate (not sell) to the Pitt county scrap drive. The trucks called for the metal and when it was weighed it was found that the total was 2,319 pounds. This was a nice gift to the county fund and a big help to the scrap drive.

Whoopie

Reports from Chico School are to the effect that the children are going about this scrap business in a big way. Since last Wednesday thirty four boys have added to the school's scrap pile. Each school-bus and truck that arrives at the school on its daily rounds is reported to be bringing almost as many pounds of scrap as it does school children. Come on, you other Pitt county schools, let's hear from you.

Six Tons

Joe Forbes, Pitt county farmer, has been scrapping about his farm for metal with the result that this week he sold 12,255 pounds to one of the junk dealers. Such efforts as this will help Pitt county meet its quota.

Another Ton

County Commissioner G. H. Pittman, of Falkland, this week sold one of the junk yards 2,325 pounds of scrap metal gathered about his farm. Another help for Uncle Sam.

Civil War Shell

Mrs. Elizabeth Kearney, colored, 616 Clark street, found a three-inch shell about four years ago under four feet of earth while having a fish pond dug in her yard. Her home is near the old brickworks used during the War. Between the States, located between the old Turntail place and what is now Chestnut street. She is going to contribute the shell and a quantity of other scrap metal and rubber to the community salvage pile.

President Praises Job Newspapers Are Doing

Air Raid Toll

London, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Air raids during the first three years of the war killed 7,365 British civilians and injured 55,658 and resulted in the loss of 1,000,000 tons of property. Home Secretary Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons today, he said, 28,119 were killed and 26,971 injured.

Newspaper Week Being Observed With All-Out War Effort

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The men who make a business of converting the world's events into ink so that all may read and know paused today and figuratively took stock of their record.

The occasion was the opening of National Newspaper Week. America's press has plenty to pat itself on the back for. But it has been busy helping to win a war—not once any more than in any single night of worker or industry, nor even any single nation.

The commander in chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt, put it this way: "Our free press has not only survived—it is an essential part of the steady ballast which enables our ship to ride the storm."

"War imposes grave new responsibilities on all of us, but upon no public servant does the responsibility for truth and integrity rest more heavily than upon the press. Theirs is the duty of keeping the people fully and faithfully informed."

"The American people are vigilant of their precious heritage of a free press. They will permit neither its corruption nor its perversion for selfish ends. They will continue to regard it as their strong right hand in war as in peace. I believe that their confidence will be justified."

"That confidence plus news ability has produced these actual results from the press thus far in the war, though the press isn't willing to call it the best yet."

A Treasury Department estimate of $65,000,000 in war savings bonds as the result of free space in 10,000 daily, weekly and sectarian newspapers.

Board Of Review Meets On Monday

The Greenville Boy Scout Board of Review will meet Monday night, October 5, in the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church on East Fourth street. All Boy Scouts planning advancement should come up for reviewing at that time.

Scoutmasters having scouts ready for reviewing are asked to call L. M. Buchanan at his office, phone 2612, or Wallace Bourne at 4238. Any scout expecting to come up for merit badge work should inform one of the above so that qualified reviewers can be on hand. Please note the change of address.

Defenders Of Stalingrad Facing Decisive Moment

President Back From Inspection

Chief Executive Made 2-Weeks Secret Tour of Whole Country

Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The White House lifted a two-week censorship on the movements of President Roosevelt today as disclosed his return from an inspection tour of war factories throughout the country.

A formal statement said: "The White House announces the return of the President to Washington after a most successful two weeks inspection tour of the country."

The President left Washington Thursday evening, Sept. 17, and returned shortly after noon today, completing a trip of 8,734 miles, during which he inspected Army and Navy bases, ship yards, tank, airplane and shell producing plants, Army, Navy and Marine training centers, supply depot and embarkation ports.

The President traveled from Washington through Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, on west through North Dakota, Montana, Idaho to Washington, down the length of the Pacific coast and returned through the southwest, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas to Louisiana, and thence to Washington stopping at army cantonments in Mississippi and South Carolina.

Upon his return to the White House, the President announced he would hold a press conference late today for the purpose of giving the Washington correspondents a story of his trip. He was accompanied in the inspection tour by representatives of the AP, UP and the INS.

British Attack Axis In Egypt

Cairo, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The British announced today that the Eighth army attacked and occupied Axis positions in the central sector of the Egyptian battlefield yesterday and repulsed enemy counter-attacks.

The announcement did not disclose the breadth of the attack or the extent of the gain. It was the first aggressive action of any importance by either side for several weeks. The attack started early in the morning after artillery preparation.

Medium bombers of the RAF attacked Tobruk again last night in another of almost nightly raids on that Axis held port. A direct hit was scored on a ship just outside the harbor.

Two long-range British fighters plunged into a formation of Axis bombers over Matruh yesterday, shot down three and returned safely to their base. A British communiqué reported today.

The dogfight took place, the bulletin said, during an increase in enemy aerial activity, which included attacks by dive-bombers and fighter-bombers. British bombers also were active. Two planes failed to return from the day's operations.

Allied planes also attacked the Axis airdrome at Sidi Haneish and the enemy bases of Tobruk, Salum and Bardia Tuesday night. Operations on the land front yesterday were said to have been confined to artillery exchanges.

Lumberton, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Ellen Andrews, one of North Carolina's oldest citizens, died at her home in Ashe, near here, early Wednesday. She was 111 years of age.

Spotty

Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board reported today that munitions output in September still was "spotty," indicating that the month's output of planes, tanks, ships and ordnance would not be closer to the goal than the August production record, which has been described as not a record, "we can brag about."

"It was spotty again last month," Nelson said in response to a press conference question whether September had brought improvement in the manufacture of war implements.

JAPS RETREAT IN NEW GUINEA

Equipment Abandoned In Face Of Allied Attack

By DEAN SCHEDLER
Somewhere in New Guinea, Sept. 30.—(Delayed)—(AP)—American pilots led by Capt. J. R. Smith of Fort Wayne, Ind., cruised up and down the Japanese supply track through the Owen Stanley mountains today, blasting and machine-gunning everything that looked useful to the enemy.

The regularity of these operations has given rise to a slogan among the men: "Bomb every hour on the hour."

Flying with Smith in the first wave of medium bombers were Lieutenants Francis Pruitt of Boston Rouge, La., and Findlay McGillivray of Santa Fe, N. M.

Although belittling their slashing exploits, these pilots conceded that flying over the two-miles-high mountains and then dipping down through cloud-filled valleys, over the Japanese supply trail, was "not really so easy."

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Australian troops were reported driving steadily up the southern slopes of New Guinea's Owen Stanley mountains today in pursuit of retreating Japanese forces after recapturing Nauro yesterday in a swift 10-mile advance from Ioribaiva ridge.

An Allied communiqué announcing the advance said the Japanese were abandoning additional supplies and equipment as they fell back and an Allied spokesman declared there was no doubt their withdrawal was hurried.

Nazis Continue Drives Into City Despite Heavy Costs In Lives, And Equipment; Reds Reported To Have Broken Thru German Defenses Along Don River

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)
Defenders of siege-torn Stalingrad are facing the "most decisive moment" in 38 days of assault, it was announced officially today, as fresh German tanks lunged deeper into the Volga metropolis at a terrible cost in men and machines.

North and south of the city, Soviet troops were credited with gains in attacks to relieve the main Nazi pressure.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Stockholm said Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies had broken through German defenses at some point along the Don river, northwest of the Volga steel center. Such a breakthrough might jeopardize the flank and rear of the main German siege armies.

But the situation inside Stalingrad was admittedly acute. Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said it was the hour of supreme peril and declared there was no place to retreat.

Premier Stalin personally telephoned an order to the Soviet garrison commander to stand firm and put down panic, dispatches said. Thousands of civilians were reported aiding the Red army troops in street battles, and latest accounts said the defenders were counter-attacking bitterly in response to Stalin's orders.

High command declared German shock troops had driven several more wedges into the northern section of Stalingrad—scene of the grave new threat—and asserted that Nazi gunners had destroyed 96 out of 100 tanks, mostly of British and American make, which led a Soviet counter-attack farther north.

A Moscow radio broadcast said at least 15,000 German troops had been killed in storming the city during the last week, and added:

"The situation remains serious, but the city's defenders are determined to fight to the last drop of blood for every house and for every yard of the streets."

Volga river sailors and dock workers continued at their jobs, moving troops and supplies despite incessant attacks on the city by 1,000 Nazi bombers.

The new German thrust, engineered by the ruthless Field Marshal Sigmund List, successor to Marshal Fedor von Bock, was reported striking into Stalingrad's industrial northwest suburbs, where (Continued on Page Two)

From Greenville To Battlefront

By LUCY CHERRY CRISP
The first service man to register at the local Service Men's Center on opening day, last January, was Pfc. Leo Lopacinski, a Marine from Argo, Ill., who was then in training at New River. This week, letters from him to Greenville friends brought the news that he was in battle for a day and a half in the Solomons, then was blown from a torpedoed transport (probably the "Elliot") into the sea, rescued, and taken to a hospital at Pearl Harbor.

Now he is recovering in a hospital on Mare Island in California. He is looking forward eagerly, he assures his friends, to the day when he will be well enough to get a turlough and "head straight for Greenville again."

He will receive warm welcome here, for he made many friends during his visits to Greenville last winter. Usually, on his week-end leaves here, he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Spence or Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hester.

Lopacinski came from a Polish-American family distinguished for its patriotic service. His father fought with American troops in Belleau Wood during World War I. One of his brothers was killed at Pearl Harbor. And now Leo adds his own bought-with-blood contribution to his family's record of patriotic devotion.

City To Observe Annual Fire Prevention Week

Citizens of Greenville were called upon today by Mayor B. B. Sugg to take an active part in the observance of nation-wide fire prevention week, starting on October 4, which has been designated in a proclamation by President Roosevelt. The mayor in his appeal stated, "The fire hazards and premises so promptly detected and eliminated. Furthermore, I call upon our people to acquaint themselves with all circumstances and situations that are likely to cause the outbreak of fire and with steps that should be taken when fire occurs. I especially hope that every citizen of Greenville will use fire prevention week, October 4 to 10, to begin a determined effort, to be carried on at all times, to prevent the occurrence of fires in their homes and businesses."

B. B. SUGG, Mayor City of Greenville.
At the same time J. B. Kittrell, president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce announced that the Chamber's Civic and Public Affairs committee, in collaboration with the President's appeal and to Soviet headquarters acknowledged that the Russians, after grimly resisting for three days, had at least been pressed back by the weight of German armor.

Dispatches to Red Star said Russian troops had recaptured three settlements south of Stalingrad, throwing back Rumanian forces in panic at one point.

In the north, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's relief offensive was reported to have driven the Germans from another height along the 40-mile corridor between the Don and Volga rivers.

Describing this action, the Soviet command said: "Fierce fighting went on all day for a certain height and toward the end of the day our troops, breaking down the enemy's stubborn resistance, gained possession of it."

In the central Caucasus, Soviet troops guarding the approaches to the Grozny oil fields were declared officially to be "repelling all enemy attacks and inflicting heavy losses."

In two days, the Russian command said, about 1,500 Germans were killed and 26 Nazi tanks crippled or burned out.

MEAT AND WAR

Ham as a family favorite becomes even more important now as housewives discover how they can save a substantial part of the wartime food budget by purchasing a whole ham and serving all parts of it in many delicious ways. Timely information on the best way to do this is supplied by George Rector, the famous food consultant of Wilson & Co.

He has demonstrated that with a whole ham cut this way, the housewife can serve ham at proper intervals in seven different delicious ways without a bit of waste, yet none of the dishes have that leftover flavor.

With the half of the butt that contains the bone (E) you prepare a tasty New England boiled dinner; from the center of the ham (D) comes a handsome baked-ham dinner; from the boneless half of the butt (F) you cut slices to any desired thickness and you have a tempting meal of broiled ham and eggs.

The triangular piece of the shank (C) provides the meat for a savory ham and cabbage dinner. Another cut (A) can be made into ham loaf, and the last shank piece (B) cubed, provides the main ingredient of a tempting casserole supper. And then, of course, there's always that delectable split pea soup made with the ham bone for a meatless day.

It is mainly by such economical and attractive use of meat that the ingenuity of the housewife is making such huge contribution to the winning of the war. Many housewives will thank Mr. Rector for showing them how to make use of a whole ham to provide so many different, attractive meals that bring praise from a ham-hungry family that is finally getting enough ham.

Home Economics

Members of the junior and senior classes may enroll in a special home economics class for girls to be taught by Miss Strawn. This class is a part of the nation-wide Victory Corps. Any one wishing to change her schedule for this course should do so as soon as possible.

Elementary Aeronautics

A course in elementary aeronautics is being taught for the first time in the history of Greenville High. The course is offered to 11th and 12th grades, and by special permission, to tenth grade boys. The class is under the direction of Rev. Clyde Carter, assistant pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

'Dear Mr. Rose'

"Though you have certainly done your share so far, please, when the opportunity comes around again—advise and compel, if necessary, those high school boys to take math, physics, radio and any of those other technical subjects. Although I'm going to learn it or die—and am doing it—my life would be a lot happier just now if I had not taken so many courses in English literature."

Snapshots At Home News Put In Few Words For Busy Readers

October. Tenth month. This was a pretty enough day to suit anybody.

The mercury was not quite so gay this morning. The Sycamore Hill Baptists are holding their annual convention.

Everything is moving lively around Greenville. It is a busy town.

Novorossik and one platoon of the division was said to have "come over to the side of the Red army."

Meanwhile, the approach of still another grim Russian winter to confront Adolf Hitler's armies as Soviet workers stacked huge piles of fuel logs in the streets of Moscow.

Hitler's admission yesterday that the German armies would have to spend a third winter huddling in dugouts on the Soviet front, coupled with his statement that "we believe" Nazi arms would continue to pile up conquests until final victory was won, evoked little reaction in United Nations capitals.

Japs Retreat... (Continued from page one) were reported harrying the enemy supply lines in the vicinity of Menari, about four miles north of Nauro, where it was believed the Japanese might attempt to make a stand along a ridge offering defensive possibilities.

The latest Allied advance apparently was negotiated with comparatively little opposition, for the communique said there had been no contact with the retreating main body of the enemy forces.

An Allied spokesman said the Japanese had made no attempt to fortify their positions at Nauro as they did not Ioribaiva ridge, high-water mark of the enemy advance. The ridge was recaptured Tuesday.

Nauro is about 42 miles airline northeast of Port Moresby, but is about 60 miles from that vital Allied base by trail.

Allied heavy bombers continued to pound Buna, main Japanese coastal base 78 miles northeast of Nauro, and the intermediate depot of Kokoda.

Heavy demolition bombs also were dropped on both ends of Wairopi bridge, spanning the deep gorge of the Kumasi river on the enemy's vital supply line. The bridge, a repeated target of aerial attack, was left sagging and badly damaged, the communique said.

THE INNER STANDARD

Why be courteous?

Because others are courteous to us? If that were the only reason, there would be scant courtesy in the world. The only reason for being courteous to those who little appreciate our good treatment is to satisfy a standard of fair and kindly dealing which we carry about with us in our hearts no matter what the attitude of others toward us may be.

A father once said to his son, "Be courteous to others even if they are rude to you; because the only reason why you should show courtesy to a person is not because he is a gentleman, but because you are."

PRESS KEEPS LIGHT OF FREEDOM BURNING

Editor's Note—Today begins the observance of National Newspaper Week but instead of talking about newspapers today we are taking the liberty to present herewith a comment by the man chosen by President Roosevelt for the important post of Director of Censorship.

Written For Wide World Features
By BYRON PRICE
(Director of Censorship)

To ask whether newspapers are important in this war is like asking whether light is important in a dark world.

Even in the totalitarian countries, which are our enemies, newspapers continue publication; and you may put it down in the book that such publication would not be permitted unless it contributed definitely to total warfare.

To be sure, the totalitarian newspapers are not true newspapers according to our American standards. But they do contain a certain amount of news. There are things in this modern world which even the most brutal of our enemies do not dare to keep from their own people.

In free America, the light must and does burn far more brightly. It is difficult to imagine what utter chaos would result if the newspapers of this country unannouncedly suspended publication for a period of a single week.

News broadcasting would be reduced to a negligible minimum, along with news publication; for the sources of information upon which broadcasting so largely dependents would have disappeared. The country en masse would be at the mercy of rumor mongers. The loss of morale and of national purpose on the home front would more than cancel out the bravest ventures of our armies and our ships of war.

The peculiar importance of American newspapers to the war effort springs from the high degree of public confidence which they enjoy. From long experience the American people expect our newspapers to do the best they can to record events factually and objectively, to praise what is praiseworthy, and to criticize where criticism is needed.

The public knows that certain information will be withheld in wartime, but it expects that process to effect only such curtailment as may be imperative for the protection of the lives and interests of Americans.

With few exceptions our newspapers are fulfilling these expectations. Thus they are performing a war service the importance of which can be measured only in terms of the national destiny itself.

Washington Daybook

By Leo Elliott

(Last of a Series)
Washington—The United States has had its share of wars but this is the first one it ever went into with the overall machinery already running for taking care of the veterans who emerge from it.

At last report, nearly two months ago, the Veterans Administration had received for hospitalization, (presumably men who would not be fit to resume service after short periods in Army or Navy hospitals) 862 veterans of World II. It is a safe guess that now the number is well over 1,000.

The Veterans Administration was established in 1930, a consolidation of the old U. S. Veterans bureau, the Bureau of Pensions, the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, and other agencies. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, recognized as the ablest authority on veterans affairs this country has produced, is its administrator. It has more than 100 field offices, hospitals and clinics scattered all over the country.

The size of the Veterans Administration task ahead may be guessed from this statement in the Congressional "Handbook for Service Personnel of World War II": "If the number of veterans of the present war should be approximately the same as for World War I and the benefits provided for them about the same as those granted other veterans under present legislation the total cost for all veterans and their dependents would be about

The machinery for administering veterans' benefits already is running. For most of those benefits, the veterans of World War II automatically or by laws already passed become eligible. This includes payments for service-connected disabilities, ranging from $10 to $100 a month. It includes many kinds of medical treatment, hospitalization and domiciliary care.

Congress, in addition, went out of its way to pass a law that would make it obligatory for employers to give men drawn into the services their jobs and seniority back when the war is over. They also provided that veterans so designated their jobs may file complaints, without charge, with the U. S. district attorney in their district, to force employers to rehire them.

Liberal concessions are made to veterans to take civil service examinations for government employment. It's quite evident the veteran of World War II will have the jump on his dad in seeing that he isn't brushed aside when peace comes again.

STAR ROUTE MAILS

The outcast is the star route mail carrier. Carriers receive their jobs by contract bid. The limit of the bid is set by the Post Office Department. Services on the Greenville-Kinston route were temporarily discontinued Saturday because the carrier had not received his pay for the month of August. This route is being carried for one-fifth of what the train carried it for. The carriers also have to stop at times for failure to obtain tires. The mails on these routes are being delayed two and three days, because of differences in Washington. I think we need some changes in Washington, the drag is becoming too strong. I think the Postmaster General should look into this matter at once, and that our congressmen should investigate also. The transportation of mail is very important. The delayed arrival causes great losses sometimes, by failure of patrons to receive their daily newspapers and other important mail. The department knows that the carriers cannot operate without pay, therefore they should wake up and make payment promptly to the carriers as they do to themselves and other employees of the Post Office Department.

ONE WHO KNOWS

Freeze Passenger Train Schedules

Washington, Oct. 1—(AP)—Director Joseph B. Eastman of the Office of Defense Transportation today ordered the "freezing" of all railway passenger schedules and ruled out the operation of special trains to football games, races and other sporting events.

The order, effective October 4, restricts railroads to the passenger train schedules existing on September 26, forbids the running of any special passenger trains or the addition of new trains to existing schedules.

Exports of cotton leaped from 189,000 pounds in 1931 to 21,000,000 pounds in 1941.

A Promise for Tomorrow

Chapter 12 Telling Dawn

"Let's drop by Keland's and see if there is anyone at home," Bart suggested as they drove back into the shaded outskirts of Santa Fe. "Tip them off about their strange visitor."

"All right," Julie agreed, not at all sure that things were right. Or that she could command the tact to set them straight again. She could only hope it was all a big mistake, the same simple explanation would solve everything.

The answer was simple enough, but it didn't solve anything. Dawn herself answered the door.

"Hello darlings! But how marvelous of you to come." She greeted them as warmly as if it had been weeks instead of hours since she'd seen them last. "I've had a ghastly day. And that's the worst I could have. He was terribly restless. I dashed out finally and got some bromides for him. He'd run out of them. And it was so nerve-racking, those siren and all. Didn't you think so, Julie?"

She'd talked their way into the library, motioned them into chairs, run for Jarvis, all without stopping for breath.

"Yes, it was bad," Julie said quietly. "I called to see you."

"Jarvis said you did, darling," Dawn interrupted instantly, her lovely lips curved into a sweet little smile. "I was so sorry not to have been here. I went for a long walk—just to clear my head after my hectic night's waiting on father. And then I came home so exhausted, I've been in bed all day."

Jarvis appeared in the door then. "Yes, Miss Dawn?"

"Scott and Zoda, please, Jarvis. Scott is your drink, isn't it, Bart?" She smiled again, that lovely, gently pleading little gesture that went straight to a man's heart.

Julie smiled too, but inwardly. If Dawn blushed, too, the presence of that stranger in the mountain cabin, then the answer was perfectly plain. A little romantic affair, that was to be kept completely off the record.

"Sure, but I'm not the drinking man your mysterious guest at the cabin is!" Bart said, with mocking gravity.

"How terrible!" Dawn's amazement looked absolutely genuine. "My—what?"

"Somebody who wears size 12 boots and drinks his whiskey neat is draping his wet raincoat on your chaise lounge. And probably taking shots on your father's game preserve. An idea who it might be?"

Julie's eyes never left Dawn's face. But her expression didn't falter. Even her color remained just delicately pink.

"Why—how terrible. Some poacher of course. We haven't been near the cabin since last Fall. Quickly, she turned to Julie. "Isn't that ghastly, darling. Could you tell who it is?"

"No. Some one passed us on the turn-out, but he was driving so fast we couldn't see who it was."

"For a fraction of an instant, Julie fancied she saw relief in Dawn's eyes. But even as she thought it, the expression vanished and Dawn was her wide-eyed charming self again.

"I'll have to tell Dad," Dawn chattered on. "Still, that makes him so furious—things like that. Maybe I'd better not. I'll have one of his attorneys take care of it. Dad would be too upset. And in his condition. You won't say anything to him—or to anyone, will you?" She smiled sweetly at Bart and then at Julie.

"If it got back to Dad, he'd be undone. And he's really doing so much better now. It's late to have a setback. You won't say anything, will you?"

"Of course not. Be glad to take a posse and run the guy out for you," Bart offered heartily.

"Oh, no thanks. Please, don't think of it," Dawn insisted, and her hand trembled, just a little as she reached for a hammered copper cigarette box, selected a cigarette monogrammed with the letters D. K.

Julie felt a little sick. Dawn, sneaking about behind Pete's back, hiding some tawdry little secret, telling her string of little lies as glibly as if she spoke the truth. If Pete really loved her, there certainly was heartbreak in store for him.

"You won't say anything either, will you, Julie?" Dawn persisted.

"Certainly not," Julie promised, and wondered even then how soon she would regret having given her word to keep silent.

"How in the world did you happen to be up near camp?" Dawn went on, apparently with all innocence.

"Just giving the doctor a bit of

In quiet days it was the custom to put a piece of toast in the wine-cup to give the liquor better flavor; hence the English phrase "drinking a toast."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

"Are you at the hospital?" "I will be in about ten minutes, there." "Shall I meet you there?" "Yes—yes, of course. I'll be there." To Be Continued

WILSON'S WEEKLY World Famous RECIPES By George Rector

Food Consultant to Wilson & Co. THE FAMILY MARCHES IN 'Tis about the time of the year we start to move indoors and settle into our favorite easy chair for another winter—a different winter this time with Dad on the night shift and Mother busy with war work. But it's the same old winter when it comes to getting three meals for a hungry family every single day. Here's one geared to the times, nutritious, speedy, economical.

WAR WORKER'S "QUICKIE" SUPPER
CRISP WILSON'S CERTIFIED BACON SLICES
TOMATO HALVES (Pan-fried)
FRIED CORN EGG SALAD
CELERY CURLS
ENRICHED BREAD
FRUIT TARTS
WILSON'S CERTIFIED AMERICAN CHEESE WEDGES

Idea One: Chopped crisp bacon, mixed with chopped raw vegetables—is a dandy salad suggestion. Wilson's Certified Salad Dressing is right here.

Idea Two: Brown rice in bacon dripping until well flecked with brown, and serve with braised Gela Seald Veal Steaks for a happy home dinner. Don't count on any left-overs.

If it's time you're worrying about, stop worrying and start cooking. Bacon, you know, cooks in a split second! A can of corn can be heated in a little time. The third act is tomato slices finale comes with serving the crisp bacon strips garnished with the tomato slices and accompanied by a dish of steaming corn.

SAVING SENSE (or Cents)
The kind helps keep bacon flavor in. Fry Wilson's Certified Sliced-to-the-Rind Bacon or the two-pound package Family Style Bacon (where the bacon has been sliced off the rind, but packed upright on the rind). Both these sliced bacons are "rind-protected." Both are sliced slightly thicker, making them Mainstay Dishes for quick Wartime meals.

TRY MAKIN' WITH BACON
You'll find that a slab of Wilson's Certified Bacon in the Bright Orange Wrapper will pay full dividends in good eating.

GOLD TO SPEAK TO KIWANIANS

Club Will Observe National Newspaper Week

By CHESTER WALSH
John D. Gold, publisher and editor of the Wilson Times, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper session Friday evening at 6:30. The Wilson newspaperman reflects a lifetime in journalism by outstanding service to his town, county, state and country. He will be one of thousands of leading newspaper editors to speak at Kiwanis clubs in this country and Canada celebrating "National Newspaper Week." The Public Relations Committee will have charge of the program. There will be special music. President Claude Ward will preside.

Kiwanis International emphasizes observance of National Newspaper Week. Its international, district and local committees have "carried on" their good work in cooperation with newspapers since that day in Detroit, Mich., in 1917, when a few businessmen organized Kiwanis. From the beginning, newspapers and Kiwanis have worked hand-in-hand for public service and the "good neighbor policy."

A Kiwanian of 20 years' fellowship in the association today drew out of his files Joseph H. Finn's "Tribute to the Newspaper." Its message is appropriate during "National Newspaper Week."

"I am the newspaper. I am the deep, daily voice of a nation—I am the voice of the Times-Monarch of things that are.

"My 'old type' runs with the fire-blood of human action. I am fed by arteries of wit that quill the earth. I drink from the cup of every joy and sorrow. I know no death, yet am born again with every morn—with every noon—with every twilight. I leap into fresh being with every new world's event.

"Those who created me cease to exist—their brains and hearts' blood that nourish me go the way of human dissolution. Yet I live on—and on!

"I am majestic in my strength—Sublime in my power—terrible in my potentialities—yet as Democratic as the ragged boy who sells me for a few pennies.

"I am the consort of Kings—the partner of capital—the brother of toll. The inspiration of the hopeless—the right arm of the needy—the champion of the oppressed—the conscience of the criminal. I am the epitome of the world's Comedy and Tragedy.

"My responsibility is infinite. I speak, and the world stops to listen. I say the word, and battle flames the horizon. I counsel peace, and the war-lords obey. I am greater than any individual—more powerful than any group. I am the dynamic force of Public Opinion. Rightly directed, I am a Creator of Confidence. A Builder of Happiness in Living. I am the Backbone of Commerce. The Trail-Blazer of Prosperity. I am the Teacher of Patriotism.

"I am the hands of the clock of Time—the clarion voice of Civilization.

"I am the newspaper."

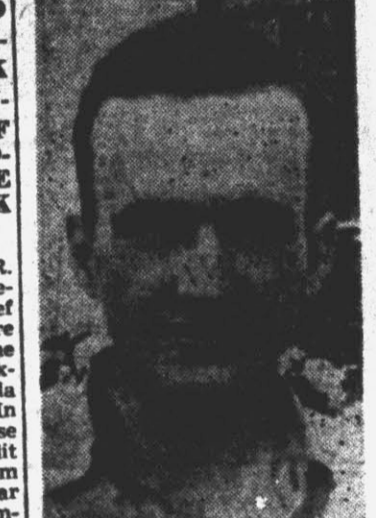

It was the famous British statesman who pointed toward the press gallery in the English House of Parliament many years ago while making a speech on the three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive—and said, "Yonder sits a Fourth Estate."

HE GOT L-K IN "NICK OF TIME," SAYS WELL KNOWN HIGH POINT RESIDENT

"CAREER THREATENED AT THE AGE OF TWENTY-FOUR," FELT SO WEAK FROM INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, AND LOSS OF SLEEP HE COULD HARDLY KEEP GOING. HE STATES—CAN WORK HARD ALL DAY NOW.

MR. HARRISON ROYALS

Throughout North Carolina DR. FOSTER'S L-K continues its remarkable record of bringing relief to hundreds of sufferers as more well known men and women come forward to report their happy experiences with this famous formula of Dr. G. A. Foster, M. D. In grateful public statements these good neighbors give L-K full credit for relieving their distress from nervous indigestion, muscular pains, and similar harassing symptoms, often after years of suffering. Mr. Harrison Royals well known service station operator of High Point, N. C., is among hundreds all over the state praising DR. FOSTER'S L-K.

"L-K saved the day for me when I was feeling so weak and run down I often felt like my legs would fold up under me," declares Mr. Royals. "I suffered so badly with sour indigestion I would belch up hot, sour liquids after meals, and gas bloated me until I sometimes felt like I would smother. I had to take harsh purgatives regularly for constipation, and toxic poisons caused such dizzy spells I was often afraid I would fall over. I lost a lot of sleep, and became so weak I could hardly keep going."

British land raiders, (broken arrows), which a French broadcast suggested came from Kufra oasis, were reported to have inflicted heavy casualties and destroyed Axis supplies in attacks on Barca and Bengasi September 13, and on Gialo oasis September 15. These points are about 500 miles behind the Axis lines in Egypt. While the raiders were striking Barca and Bengasi, sea-borne Commandos attacked Tobruk. Kufra is occupied by the fighting French.

Nazi Flying Ace Reported Killed

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Capt. Hans Joachim Marseille, Nazi fighter pilot for whom the German high command has made extravagant claims, has been killed on the North African front, a communication announced today.

It indicated that his death was accidental, observing that he did "unconquered by the enemy."

The announcement credited Marseille with having shot down 158 "British adversaries in aerial combat."

On September 4, identifying him as the captain of a fighter squadron in Egypt, a communication said he had scored his 158th air triumph two days before "after conquering 16 British opponents in battles on the previous day."

The unit is composed of two squadrons—one includes selected Army Air Force personnel who are qualified for positions essential in the motion picture industry; and the other consists of men who were inducted from Hollywood and already possess actual experience with the movie industry. The duties of Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—A wartime speed limit of 35 miles an hour for privately owned automobiles went into effect throughout the nation today but with enforcement methods varying from imposition of strict penalties in some states to appeals to patriotism in others.

The Office of Defense Transportation which ordered the speed restriction to help conserve the nation's rubber stockpile, declared all 48 states were taking some steps for enforcement.

Price administration which froze the sale of used tires and tubes pending completion of a new rationing program governing these articles, just as present regulations control use of new and recapped tires.

The ODT said the order for the national speed limit sets no penalty and that enforcement would rest largely on voluntary cooperation by the motorists and on action of state and local authorities. All governors empowered to set state speed limits already have fixed the 35-mile an hour figure, it added.

In some states where statutory speed limits exceed 35 miles an hour authorities took various steps to encourage compliance.

The 35 mile an hour restriction exempts vehicles operated by the armed forces and those used in emergency for protection or preservation of life, health or public safety. The regulation is effective Oct. 15 for vehicles operated for hire as carriers in scheduled regular route service.

The used tire freeze order will be lifted, OPA said, when a rationing system is completed to permit sale to "essential" holders. Recapping has been hampered under the present rationing program, it added, because of a shortage of recappable carcasses.

James was transferred to the Hollywood post on September 11 and had already begun his new unit there.

The "First Motion Picture Unit" is a new organization of the Army Air Force. Upon completion, warps will be in the near future, the unit will be composed of approximately 300 enlisted men and officers, all selected as "specialists" in their trade in connection with their pre-service record.

The commanding officer of the unit is Lt. Col. Jack Warner of Warner Brothers Studios. Other officers on the post include Lt. Ronald Reagan, popular screen star.

Will Investigate Blackout Failure

Raleigh, Oct. 1—(AP)—Civilian defense officials are planning to investigate the mixup of signals which caused delays or failure of several cities in the Raleigh district to blackout Tuesday night in the first statewide blackout practice.

The district is the largest in the state. It includes 17 counties and extends to the Tennessee line.

State Civilian Defense Director Ben Douglas said the test was fairly successful as a test but not as a blackout practice which failed to receive the blackout signal would have served as "splendid beacons" to enemy pilots, Douglas said.

"We are taking immediate steps to remedy the situation," he explained.

Cities where confusion in signals as reported included Durham, Burlington, Chapel Hill, Roxboro, Reidsville, and the Winston-Salem suburb, a part of the Raleigh district.

Phantoms To Meet Scotland Neck Here Friday Night

GOOD GAME IS EXPECTED

Present Scotland Neck Team Played In Last Years 'B' Finals

The Phantoms will undergo their final test this Friday night at Guy Smith stadium before encountering the conference schedule. The opposition will be furnished by a strong Scotland Neck eleven that reached the finals in last year's state "B" class championship. Advance dope would seem to indicate the young and inexperienced Phantoms will be in for a very full evening.

Coch Boley Farley is fortunate in that his boys are all in fairly good physical condition with the exception of a few bruises and chafed noses. It is questionable as to whether Cecil Crawford will be able to get into the game. If he doesn't the locals will be weakened considerably. Cahoon a reserve end who is improving rapidly will be his replacement.

During the past week glaring weaknesses that were apparent in the play of the Phantoms have been worked on. If this year's Greenville team expects to go any place, there is going to have to be a great deal better line play than was exhibited last week.

The game tomorrow night will get under way at 8 o'clock at Guy Smith stadium.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Oct. 1.—Going out to St. Louis, some of the boys were discussing the Cardinals' speed. Joe McCarthy asked: "What are they, a bunch of Ty Cobbs on motorcycles?"

After the ninth inning yesterday, he probably figured the answer was "yes." We can't think of a much easier job than trying to second-guess Joe on the World Series.

He doesn't leave anything for you to do. He picked Red Ruffing to start yesterday instead of Bonham or some other young pitcher with a good record and for eight innings nobody could have done any better. If it hadn't been for the ninth, Ruffing might have done better than Herb Pennock and Waite Hoyt in the 1926 and 1928 series openers against the Cards. They both tossed three-hitters.

BIG WEEK END IN CONFERENCE

Duke-Wake Forest, UNC-USC And State-Clemson Lead Card

Richmond, Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Jack Mahon, end for the George Washington football team, who didn't play last week when the Colonials beat Western Maryland 20-0, will be at one flank Saturday night when Coach Johnny Baker's charges entertain Richmond in the National capital.

Baker said Mahon would bolster the Colonials' hopes considerably. Coach Johnny Penlon at Richmond was beaming over Bay Jacobs, 150-pound back who put on a show against the frosh.

Drilling for Wake Forest, Coach Eddie Cameron of Duke commented: "our line was weak against Davidson, but with Jake Poole and Bob Gantt recuperated from their injuries, we should be ready Saturday. We have done a lot of work on line play this week. It should be our ace in the hole against Wake Forest."

Wake Forest's Tony Rubino was cut yesterday with a side injury but is expected to be ready for the Dukes.

Joe Black and T. G. Winston remained on the injury list as V. M.

The Stars and Stripes, which aims to give soldiers overseas what they want, announces it will carry scores of all the major football games. The "keep 'em swinging" drive for the golf range at Camp Craft, S. C., has turned up more than 1,000 golf balls. Largest single donation was 584 from Harry Moffitt, Toledo, Ohio. Bob Neyland figures the all-army football teams were a great thing for morale because of the way privates, sergeants, lieutenants, etc., worked together without thinking of their rank.

Recovered Fumbles
Still working on the theory that a bad guess is better than no guess, here are this department's ideas about tomorrow's major games—Georgia pre-flight cadets (and officers) to bust the North Carolina navy cloudbusters; Ole Miss to beat Georgetown and Temple over V. M.

Billy Signed-Up

St. Louis, Oct. 1.—President Sam Bronckon of the St. Louis Cardinals announced last night that Billy Southworth, who piloted the club to its first National League pennant in 8 years, has signed a contract to manage the Cards in 1943.

The announcement was made within a few hours after the Cards lost the first game of the 1942 World Series to the New York Yankees, 7-4.

I left this morning for Philadelphia, where, tomorrow night it meets Temple.

Bill Simmons, reserve Davidson tackle, suffered recurrence of an old injury yesterday as the Wildcats worked to build a defense for Rollins' tricky attack. He will be out the remainder of the season.

"Give me another guard, and I'll have a better team in the training room than they've got on the field."

Trainer Bill Altman of Virginia Tech wise-cracked after a rough scrimmage as the Techmen got ready for William and Mary.

A half-dozen Tech players are injured, none seriously. Coach Carl Woyles at William and Mary said Newell Irwin, may start instead of Glenn Knox, regular end. Irwin has been running on the first team.

Claude Rothell, Harry Franklin, Hank Sullivan and Felix Marbury, Clemson backs, should be ready for full-time service Saturday when the Tigers play N. C. State at Charlotte, N. C.

North Carolina will have plenty of ends available for South Carolina. Hugh Eighan, sophomore, was declared eligible yesterday and swelled the list of flankmen to five.

Coach Rex Enright of South Carolina was confident that most of his players would be in tip-top condition to meet the Tar Heels, although Sophomores Kelly Mote, end, and "Mouse" Halsall, left halfback, were nursing injuries that will probably keep them out of the game.

"We've worked hard on offense," he said. "Our blocking was not too sharp against Tennessee. North Carolina has a versatile passing game we hope to stop."

double off the wall in right field. Cullenbine got the count to three and two and then fled high to Musial. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Cardinals—DIMaggio ran over into left center to take Brown's fly. T. Moore lifted a high foul which Dickey took just outside the batter's box. Slaughter grounded to Rizzuto and was thrown out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning
Yankees—With the count two and two, DIMaggio fouled to Hopp. Keller lined a single past Beasley's head. With the count two and two Gordon lined to Kuroski who threw to first trying to double Keller off the bag but was too late. Dickey slammed ground single into right field, Slaughter holding Keller at second with a fine throw. Hasset filed deep to Slaughter. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Cardinals—Musial hit a bouncer which Rizzuto took behind Bonham and threw him out on a close play at first as the crowd boomed. W. Cooper bounced to Rolfe and was thrown out. With the count three and two, Hopp shot a single into right field and when he rounded first Cullenbine threw to Hasset who fumbled the ball for an error as Hopp streaked safely to second. Kuroski lifted a long fly to right center and DIMaggio made a fine running catch. No runs, one hit, one error, one left.

Fifth Inning
Bonham walked. With the count two strikes and one ball, Rizzuto lined a sharp single to left. Bonham stopping at second. Rolfe grounded into a fast double play. Brown to Marion to Hopp and Bonham went to third. Cullenbine fled to Musial. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Cardinals—DIMaggio ran far over in front of Keller in left center to take a long fly by Marion. Beasley was called out on strikes. After getting a full count, Brown grounded to Gordon and was thrown out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning
Yankees—Marion ran over almost to pitcher's mound to make a spectacular pickup of DIMaggio's bouncer and throw him out while the crowd cheered. With the count three and two, Keller lifted a high fly which Musial took with a wobbling catch. Gordon was called out on strikes on a three and two pitch which he protested. No runs no hits no errors, none left.

Cardinals—T. Moore sent a long fly to DIMaggio. Slaughter lifted a high fly to Cullenbine in right field. Gordon threw out Musial. No runs, not hits, no errors, none left.

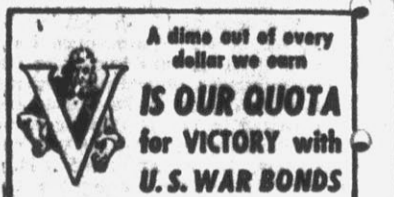

Seventh Inning
Yankees—Dickey popped to Hopp halfway between home plate and first base. Hasset fled to Musial. Bonham rolled to Marion and was thrown out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—W. Cooper fled to DIMaggio on the first pitch. Hopp singled sharply to right and again rounded first as the crowd taunted Cullenbine to throw to first but this time he threw ahead of the runner. After hitting two long fouls, Kuroski hit a liner through Keller, just inside the left field foul line for a triple, scoring Hopp. Rolfe took Marion's grounded and after waving Kuroski back to third, threw to Hasset for the out. Beasley fanned for the third straight time. One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Eighth Inning
Yankees—Rizzuto struck out. Rolfe was thrown out by Brown on an easy roller. Cullenbine hit a grounded which Brown knocked down but could not throw and it was a single. Cullenbine stole second. DIMaggio singled sharply to right, scoring Cullenbine. Keller hit the first pitch over the top of the pavilion roof in right field for a home run and trotted home behind his left to knock down a grounder by Dickey but could not make the throw and it was ruled a single. Stainback ran for Dickey. Hasset singled to right and Slaughter made a great throw to Kuroski to catch Stainback sliding into third. Ruffing batted for Bonham. Ruffing fled to Slaughter. Marion threw out Rizzuto. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Streets of Moscow Being Piled With Wood for Fuel

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Barricades of a new kind are rising in the streets of Moscow.

They are not the steel rails and earthworks which were put up a year ago against a German advance pressing close to the capital.

Instead they are piles of logs, to be used as fuel against the cold of the coming winter.

Huge woodpiles are being stacked in the streets and squares by workers—mostly women—who are busy on the capital's "labor front."

They are none too early, already there is frost in the night air and winter soon will be on the city.

The labor front was recruited under a decree last February 13 authorizing the government to mobilize able-bodied men and women with no children less than eight years old for war industry services.

These include supplying fuel. Another Kremlin edict last April 17 called up men between the ages of 14 and 55 and women from 14 to 50 for farm work.

Thousands more were mobilized to cut and haul wood.

As a result there was a tremendous exodus to the country of city residents carrying knapsacks, saws and axes.

In forests for 200 miles about Moscow these recruits were assigned to cut two cubic meters of wood a day during the periods of mobilization, running up to four months.

A cord of wood is 3.6 cubic meters. Altogether perhaps 100,000 housewives, students and others not engaged in war work joined the labor front.

A like number left jobs where they could be spared in factories, offices, schools and hospitals to work on the woodpiles, collecting fuel to be used in their own buildings when the cold comes.

As many as 20,000 others gave up their Sunday free days to work along the Moscow river unloading barges bringing wood in from the forests.

Street cars buses and trucks carried logs through the city to the growing piles. One of the largest of these, more than 50 feet long, is stacked in front of the Palace of the Soviets which is being dismantled to provide steel for the fighting front.

Supplies of gas and electricity have been reduced.

Peasants coming in to the city already are wearing their Valinki, the heavy felt boots which are as sure a sign of winter as robins are of spring.

Closed On Saturdays

The Rationing Board in the City Hall will hereafter be closed on Saturday afternoons. This policy is in line with that of rationing boards in other cities.

The WAR TODAY

is ready to meet such an offensive is at least partly true, for his defensive preparations in western Europe have been obvious.

At the moment, of course, he is fully preoccupied with his thus far unsuccessful effort to annihilate the Russian army of the south.

For months now the German efforts against Britain have been confined largely to nuisance raids. These have included such inglorious forays as that of Tuesday when a Hun pilot swept down within a few feet of the roofs of a Sweet village in southern England and bombed a large number of boys to death in their school.

At present, virtually all Hitler's air power, apart from essential home defense, is engaged in his now-or-never assault on Stalingrad and the Caucasus.

However, once the Caucasus show slows down, the Nazi chief will be able to withdraw a large part of his air fleet.

Well, it strikes me that he will be faced with numerous difficult problems which are developing.

In the first place, his air fleet is no longer the great weapon with which he started the war. As reported previously in this column, he is short of warplanes, pilots, oil and gasoline.

His first-line planes have been and still are undergoing terrific wear and tear in the non-stop carnage at Stalingrad. Before he can undertake any wholesale bombing of Britain, or any other extended engagement, he must go in for a thorough overhauling, and that will take time.

A corollary to this problem is the Anglo-American air strength already in the British Isles and steadily growing. The Allies have superiority in the air over western Europe and are reaching for absolute supremacy.

Then, too, since Hitler slacked off on his bombing of Britain when he started his offensive against Russia this summer, defenses of these Isles—both air and ground—have been vastly strengthened.

As this is being written, I can hear the steady drone of Royal Air Force patrol planes as they swing over London—sweet music to the population—and we presume that similar scouts are covering every strategic area. There have been great improvements in anti-aircraft defenses.

Maybe Hitler will have other projects on hand at that time. For instance, he might decide to throw his strength into his now stationary offensive against Egypt. He might try to reach the Middle East by using his air force against Syria, by passing Turkey.

Finally we come down to the question of that second front. In connection with this it is interesting to discover that the British public is experiencing a lively hunch that the Allied high command is cooking up something in the way of a new offensive.

As a matter of fact, I've encountered this feeling among military observers on both sides of the Atlantic recently. There's nothing you can put your finger on to show where the idea had its birth, though its very persistence encourages belief that it isn't without substance. Now along comes Der Fuehrer to say he's seen the ghost.

It seems that "second front" and western Europe have become synonymous in the minds of many of the public, both in Britain and America. Signs are that it will be safer not to try to pin expectations to that area or to any other specific zone at this time.

There are several useful places where the Allies could strike.

The powerful Manchester Guardian is advocating an Allied effort to drive the Axis from North Africa and re-establish control of the Mediterranean. Success there would rush us a long way toward victory.

Whether that's where the Allies may strike remains to be seen, but it's one of the opportunities.

Anyway, it's clear that if and when the Allied command decides to open a new front it will have the eager support of the people of Britain and the United States.

Robert Galloway Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Little, of Grimesland, is with the army somewhere in the Canal Zone. He was inducted into the service in January of this year and is attached to the signal corps.

Negro Fails Find His Missing $420

Sheriff's officers were unable to find any outside clue concerning the disappearance of twenty-one $20 bills from a cedar chest in the home of X. L. Person, colored, at Winterville. Person, employed at Cherry Point on a war project, had saved the $420 to pay his taxes and some other bills and provide winter rations, he told officers.

There was no evidence of an outside job. Person had the key to the cedar chest (he called it a safe) tied to his overalls. While he was away the money disappeared, he stated.

Five Killed In Crash of Bomber

Elgin Field, Fla., Oct. 1—(AP)—The death of five crewmen in the crash of an army medium bomber on a low altitude training flight Tuesday was announced today by Capt. William W. Lanier, Elgin Field public relations officer.

A sixth member of the crew, Pvt. George E. Watkins of Voorlich, Pa., who was riding in the rear turret, escaped with minor injuries.

The plane came here on a training flight from its home base at Anderson Field, Walterboro, S. C., it crashed about 12 miles west of Elgin Field on Santa Rosa Island. An army investigation is being made.

Soldier Emerges From The Jungle

Somewhere in New Guinea, Friday, Oct. 2—(AP)—Another amazing story of an American who was dropped unprepared from the skies into the wilderness of this island's jungles and survived came to light today when 20-year-old Sergeant Thomas Riley of Old Landing, Ky., walked into a United States base.

The rain-drenched youth said he parachuted on Aug. 7 from the same plane in which Vern Haugland, AP correspondent, was a passenger. Haugland now is in a hospital at Port Moresby recovering from the effects of 47 days in the jungle after he had bailed out of a plane which ran out of fuel while lost in a storm.

Riley said he had spent 10 days walking with no food except a few native berries and then had found a native village where he was fed and guided to the nearest Allied post.

Mrs. Grew Cheers Bombers

Mrs. Joseph C. Grew, wife of the Ambassador to Japan, is seen here (right) on her arrival at Miami, Fla., September 28. With her is her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Lyon, who accompanied Mrs. Grew from Chile, where the Ambassador's wife has been visiting since the diplomatic exchange in which her husband and other Americans were returned from Japan. Mrs. Grew said that she cheered General Doolittle's U. S. bombers on their historic bombing of Tokyo.

Seven Ships Lost In Solomons Area

Washington, Oct. 1—(AP)—The total of U. S. war vessels lost in the Solomon Islands operations stood at seven today with announcement by the Navy Department of destruction of two naval transports with small loss of life.

The Navy said the 8,378-ton USS George F. Elliott, formerly the liner City of Los Angeles, was destroyed Aug. 8, the second day of the American invasion of the Solomons, when a Japanese torpedo plane crashed into the transport and set it afire.

The 1,000-ton USS Gregory, a converted destroyer, was sunk more recently by Japanese gunfire while operating off Guadalcanal island, the Navy announced. No date was given.

The Elliott's skipper, Capt. Watson Osgood Bailey of Lynn, Mass., was reported safe and as the transport's load of Marines had been landed, casualties were few, the Navy said.

Most of those aboard the Gregory also were saved, the Navy added, but the skipper, Lieut. Com. Harry Frederick Bauer of Chatanooga, Tenn., was reported missing in action. The vessel's normal complement was eight officers and 133 enlisted men.

Willkie Delayed On Trip To China

Chungking, Oct. 1—(AP)—Wendell Willkie's progress on his trip from Kulsbyse to Chungking is being kept secret in order to spare towns along the route from Japanese bombardment, authorities here have disclosed.

They said last night that the trip was taking somewhat longer than had been expected, but that the Jailed For Draft Evasion. Shelby, Oct. 1—(AP)—Judge E. Yates Webb yesterday sentenced Constantine Meena of Charlotte to a year and a day on a prison farm after the youth was found guilty in district court here of violating the selective service act.

Meena had refused to take a physical examination preparatory to induction in the army.

Negro Soldier Killed. Belfast, Northern Ireland, Oct. 1—(AP)—United States army headquarters announced today that an American soldier was killed in a disturbance in the streets of Antrim last night involving U. S. military police and U. S. soldiers.

A spokesman at the United States army headquarters said the man who was killed was a Negro.

Several shots were fired before the disorder ended but the soldier who was killed was a victim of knife wounds. Another was seriously wounded.

Asks Action . . .

(Continued from Page One) about $1,000,000 a month. The finance chairman estimated roundly that the new tax bill would bring in an additional $8,000,000,000 over a full year's operation, raising the total of federal revenue to some $25,000,000,000.

He foresaw a certain amount of inflation as inevitable, even though compulsory savings are coupled with the heaviest tax load in the nation's history.

Those and other factors make it difficult to estimate the exact yield of the new taxes, George said.

It's the Name that Counts

Nowhere in all America, but very few wines approach the standing which Widmers' enjoys with those who serve only the finest.

One reason is that in all America there are but very few wine producers whose grapes enjoy the rare combination of soil and climate which blesses the Naples Valley-Lake Canandaigua District vineyards. . . . and still fewer whose skill matches that of the Widmers.
