

Rome Claims U.S. Battleship Sunk

Says Sinking Scored Three Torpedoes Hits On Craft Off West African Coast Last Night; Report Unconfirmed From Other Sources

London, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Rome radio broadcast a special communique today reporting that an Italian submarine put four torpedoes into the bow of a United States battleship of the 33,000-ton Mississippi class in the Atlantic, 330 miles off Freetown, West Africa, and that the battleship "was seen sinking."

There was no confirmation from any other source for this claim nor any indication that United States warships were operating in that area. (In Washington, the Navy Department said it had no comment to make on the claim.)

The communique, broadcast by the Rome radio, credited the sinking to the Italian submarine Barbarigo, an ocean-going type which previously had been reported by the Italians to have sunk a United States battleship of the Maryland class near Brazil last May 22.

This claim, more than four months later, still has no confirmation.

Strangely, the Italians claimed to have hit both battleships in the bows. Such blows, while possibly damaging, would be unlikely to sink modern warships with special protection against torpedoes and a honeycomb of watertight compartments to confine the effect of a torpedo hit. In the Maryland claim, the Italians said the battleship was hit twice in the bow "and sank in about 15 minutes."

The Mississippi is the oldest of three battleships grouped by the United States as the New Mexico class. They are the Idaho and New Mexico, each 33,000 tons, and the 33,000-ton Mississippi, which was completed December 18, 1917.

Each of these battleships mounts 12 14-inch and 12 five-inch guns as her chief weapons and each carries three planes and two catapults from which to launch them.

The communique said: "Early this morning, at 2:34 Italian (Rome time), at Latitude 2 degrees, 15 minutes North and Longitude 14 degrees, 25 minutes west, namely in the Atlantic about 330 miles southeast of Freetown, West Africa, the submarine Barbarigo, with Commander Enzo Grossi in command, attacked a United States battleship of the Mississippi type which sailed at course 150 and a speed of 13 knots.

"The battleship was hit at the bow by four torpedoes and was seen sinking."

Service League Resumes Activity

The Service League held its first meeting of the fall on Monday, October 5, at the Sheppard Memorial Library, with Mrs. K. B. Pace, the new president presiding. Mrs. Pace welcomed the members, asking for their full cooperation and expressed the hope for a busy and successful year.

Mrs. Will Whedbee, who succeeds Mrs. R. S. Neal as secretary, read a letter of appreciation from Miss McConnell for the League's support of the activities of the Girl Scouts. Following its custom, the League again gave a two weeks' campship to a Girl Scout during the past summer. An appeal was made for Scout leaders and for a recreation center.

Although activities in two projects, the Maternal and Infant clinic, and work with the blind will have to be dropped, others equally worth-while will take their places. Workers in the Service League office will aid the Civilian Defense organization with its phoning and in any other way possible. They will also make a survey of what is being done by the various organizations in the city for underprivileged children between the ages of eight and thirteen. This work is being done under the guidance of a committee of townpeople, which is already functioning and which plans to aid both white and colored children. Suggestions made to help in this work include: establishing of play centers, establishment of "lending chests" of toys, and the organization of Cub Scouts. The assistance of many adult, especially parents, will be needed.

The hospital bed is always our foremost project and Mrs. Stokes reported that it had been occupied by seven patients during the summer and is at present occupied by another. The finance chairman, Mrs. Lane, reported that Miss Elise

Can't Find Japs

Sydney, Australia, Wednesday, Oct. 7 (AP)—Australian troops have scoured the last steep grades leading to the gap through the rugged Owen Stanley in southern New Guinea, and there still is no sign of Japanese forces retreating toward their base at Buna, on the islands northeast coast, dispatches from the battlefield said today.

The flight of the Japanese, plus the appearance yesterday of a Japanese convoy heading northward from Buna deepened the mystery over the enemy activity. It still was not clear here whether the convoy, which was attacked by American bombers, had attempted to land reinforcements or was withdrawing enemy forces from southern New Guinea.

It was recalled, however, that the Japanese withdrew from Milne Bay, farther down the southeast New Guinea coast, when they were confronted by overwhelming Allied odds.

SABOTAGE IN NORWAY

State Of Emergency Proclaimed At Trondheim

Berlin (from German broadcasts) Oct. 6 (AP)—A state of civil emergency has been proclaimed in Trondheim, Norway, because of reports of sabotage attempts "which if they had succeeded would have endangered Norway's supply system," says a report today in an Oslo dispatch.

The German news agency quoted Oslo newspapers as saying the proclamation, issued by Josef Terboven, German commissar for Norway, "was nothing but justified German reaction to criminal acts committed by Norwegian radicals."

(A German broadcast heard in London, said the emergency decree was accompanied by a declaration that anti-German outbreaks "will be broken by force of arms." It said that all local traffic in Trondheim would be halted between 7 P.M. and 5 A.M., and that during those hours no one would be permitted on the streets without special permission.)

Officer Justified In Killing Negro

A jury at a coroner's inquest last night into the fatal shooting of Charles Edward Duncan, colored, while resisting arrest, returned a verdict that Duncan came to his death from a bullet wound inflicted by Police Officer Jesse L. Whichard in line of duty and that the shooting was in self-defense and justified.

The officer attempted to arrest Duncan Saturday night on Dickenson avenue while he was threatening various persons with a rifle. Duncan struck the officer and knocked him down, but Whichard succeeded in disarming him and shot in self-defense. Duncan had a police record. Numerous complaints were made to police headquarters Saturday night that he had been fighting and threatening people with a rifle.

Coroner A. A. Ellwanger presided at the inquest. Police Officer Whichard was exonerated.

Declines Statement On Recent Stalin Letter

London, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill refused today to discuss Britain's war relations with Russia, urging the House of Commons "not to press these matters unduly," after several members had brought up Joseph Stalin's letter to Henry C. Cassidy, chief of the Associated Press Moscow Bureau, calling on the Allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

The questioners, prodding the Prime Minister for a discussion of both political and military aspects, warned that any misunderstanding between Britain and Russia might have evil consequences on British war production.

Churchill, however, declined to speak extemporaneously, insisting he had nothing to add "to the carefully weighed statement I have made on this matter."

This referred specifically to an inquiry on how closely British-Russian staff matters were integrated, and the Prime Minister added that he "would strongly advise the House

MISS EXUM TO BE CANDIDATE

Name Placed On Ticket For County Treasurer

By CHESTER WALSH The Pitt County Democratic Executive committee in a meeting here last night ordered that the name of Miss Rosa M. Exum be placed on the ballots as a candidate for county treasurer. The committee followed a traditional custom in approving the name of a candidate recommended for a vacant public office by the County Commissioners.

The commissioners at a recent meeting elected Miss Exum, a bookkeeper in the county auditor's office since 1923, to succeed J. Vance Perkins, who resigned as treasurer (Continued on Page Four)

Registration Books Open Next Saturday

Registration books will be open for the qualified voters of this county next Saturday and the two succeeding days on challenge day, Saturday, October 31, the books will be open from 9 A.M. until 3 P.M.

Commissioners In Routine Meeting

The County Commissioners in regular session at the Court House yesterday transacted routine business, discussed several matters concerning civilian defense activities, and informally discussed their action at a previous meeting appointing Miss Rosa Exum without extra compensation to serve the unexpired term of County Treasurer J. Vance Perkins, who resigned to go to work for the government in Virginia; approved current bills, called attention to a meeting of the County Democratic Executive Committee scheduled to be held last night, and then adjourned.

David H. House, chairman, presided.

not to press these matters unduly at a period which is certainly significant.

Authoritative British sources meanwhile, said no official news had been received in London that the British and American ambassadors to Moscow had met to consider Stalin's letter but that such a discussion was quite possible.

Churchill's statement was greeted by cries of "Hear hear."

His suggestion "not to press these matters unduly" was in line with his warning last week against speculation on the possible time and place of Allied offensive actions.

The first question was asked by Laborite Arthur Greenwood and this was Churchill's complete answer: "I have, of course, read and considered the statement referred to and we are quite clear that no statement is called for at the present time further than those that have been already given on this subject." Allied Bombers Taking Heavy Toll Against Japs

Fliers Bring Bombers Pacific Islands Becoming Death Traps For Japs

By JOHN H. WIGGINS Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Fresh evidence that Japanese footholds in New Guinea, the Solomon Islands and the Aleutians were becoming traps of destruction for the invaders' troops, planes and ships emerged today out of new Allied successes in the battle of the Pacific.

On the three fronts, Allied and American air forces shot down 22 Japanese planes within the last week, damaged two more, blew up a supply ship, bombed a destroyer out of commission, hit two cargo ships, strafed barges and blasted enemy camps, ground forces and installations.

The price of Japanese activity in the Solomons was demonstrated in a Navy Department report yesterday. The communique, covering four days of action up to October 3, reported destruction of 10 enemy planes, boosting the total shot down in this theater to 229.

U. S. Marines prevented any major changes in their hard-won positions on Guadalcanal, but the Japanese succeeded in landing small reinforcements at night. Four destroyers, seeking to cover a small landing at Viru Harbor, became a target for U. S. dive bombers and torpedo planes and one of the warships was left "dead in the water," the Navy said. No American losses were reported.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian headquarters told of further advances by Australian jungle troops in New Guinea. Still without contacting the Nipponese, the forces pushed past Kagi, last community south of the mile-high gap in the Owen Stanley mountains and pressed on.

Gains of about three miles in the Kagi area and of about six to the Myola lakes in another advance were accompanied by Allied air activities which brought down three Japanese planes over the Buna invasion base on New Guinea; and (See PACIFIC—Page 6)

Potato Handling Demonstrations

There will be sweet potato handling and grading demonstrations held at the farm of Blaney Sumrell, Ayden, R-1, and J. R. Mills, Greenville, R-3 on Thursday, October 8, at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m., respectively. These demonstrations will include digging, field grading and storage of sweet potatoes. These demonstrations should be valuable in view of the fact that quality pays off and sweet potatoes should bring a fair price this year. If you are interested in sweet potatoes, you are invited to attend one of these demonstrations.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Wide-World News Analyst

London, Oct. 6.—Stalin's statement that Allied aid to Russia "has so far been little effective," as compared with the Soviet contribution to the cause of the United Nations, is being received in Britain in the spirit in which it apparently was offered—without rancor and without desire to get ahead with the job of hanging Hitler.

Observers point out that there can be no dispute with the Soviet leader's estimate insofar as it concerns aid in the nature of action by combat forces. It is assumed this is what he referred to, not to equipment and supplies which, Britain and America have been delivering with such danger, especially via that hell-fire corner the Nazis established in northern Norway.

Stalin's statement attracted attention throughout Britain. His direct language is evoking a response in Britain and America, determined (Continued on Page Four)

Germans Hit Stalingrad Hard But Russians Hold

WILLKIE SEES GEN. KAI-SHEK

Spends Six Hours With Generalissimo

Chungking, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie spent six hours in conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek last night and went to bed after 1 a. m., but he was up early today for another crowded day.

His talk with the Generalissimo was the fourth in a series and was the longest ever granted to a foreign personage by the Chinese leader.

The press continued to feature Willkie's visit. Ta Kung Pao reporting a plan was underway to rename one of Chungking's main streets "Willkie Street."

"Willkie brought sunshine to foggy Chungking," the paper said. Willkie visited a number of war plants and then returned to his quarters for a rest before lunch.

To Kung Pao "expressed hope Willkie would inform President Roosevelt and the American public of China's plea for the abrogation of extra-territoriality and foreign concessions."

"Willkie is a sincere man who has won the friendship of everyone," the editorial said, "but when we shake his hand there is pain hidden deep in our hearts. Here we are a member of the anti-aggression front and we have been taking a beating longer than anybody else. Yet while fighting for a common cause our hands are still shackled by chains imposed by our friends in the last 100 years."

"It is very difficult to understand why the Allies still give us unequal treatment. While Mr. Willkie is here we would like to have known this feeling on the part of the entire nation, its people, the army and the government."

President Roosevelt's representative paused in his fact-finding, schedule long enough to express the hope that Premier Joseph Stalin's letter to Henry Cassidy of the Associated Press in Moscow would "bring Russia's imperative needs forcefully to the attention of the peoples of the United Nations."

He made the terse comment in response to a request for his views on Stalin's statement that a second front was of "first rate importance" and that the Allies could best help (Continued on Page Four)

Fountain School Helping Farmers

The teachers and students of the Fountain High School are busy at work on the "home front" and doing their part to help win this war. E. F. Johnson, principal of the school told a Daily Reflector reporter today.

"We dismiss the school daily at 2 o'clock, early enough for the children who live on farms to get in half a day at harvesting cotton or other crops.

"For the children who live in town we have organized a cotton pickers' club. There are 50 members and all are anxious to work. They go to different farms each day until all applicants for workers have been helped and then they go over the list again as far as necessary. At the end of the season farmers who have been helped will provide some entertainment for the youngsters."

The cotton pickers' club voted to use half of their earnings to buy War Stamps. Farmers pay the cotton pickers when they finish work each day. The school boys and girls are showing a mighty fine spirit," Johnson said.

Senators Renew Demand For Federal Sales Tax

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Demands for a sales tax arose from members today as the Senate received from its Finance committee a significant new revenue bill which said would be at least $6,000,000,000 short of wartime needs.

Without estimating the additional yield of the measure, the committee report criticized as too high the 45 per cent normal and surtax rate voted by the House on corporation profits and noted it had cut the rate to 40 per cent.

While the report did not allude to Morgenthau's demand for higher taxes, committee members declared something new in taxation would have to be added if Morgenthau's goal of $30,000,000,000 a year, "and possibly much more" was to be reached.

The Treasury head said the committee-approved bill, combined with present taxes, would raise about

Hero Known Here

Leo Lopacinski (above), 26, a Marine private from Chicago who killed 36 Japs in hand-to-hand fighting at Tulagi, said October 3 in Vallejo, California that he hoped to go back to get some more. Wounded in the fighting he is recuperating in the Naval hospital at Vallejo. Private Lopacinski is known in Greenville having made many friends here on week-end visits to his old home town while in training at a nearby Marine base.

German losses in the last 24 hours have been huge and the enemy failed to advance on any front, it was declared.

The army newspaper Red Star said: "Neither tanks, aviation nor tommy-guns can shake the decision of our fighters and commanders to protect the Volga river stronghold and repulse the German robbers from the walls of the glorious city."

German captives were quoted as saying that, as troops begin to shiver in the cooler temperatures, they become less satisfied with their progress.

"The Germans hurry," declared the government newspaper Izvestia. "They see time passing. They fear delay. They are fiercely rushing forward."

Premier Stalin's warning that the city's defenders were not to take one step backward was credited with helping to stiffen their resistance against a siege now in its 43rd day.

Marshal Simeon Timoshenko's troops were reported at midnight to have improved their positions again north of the Stalingrad river and this was followed at noon by a bulletin which said that in the same region "Unit N" made a slight advance.

"Enemy counterattacks in some sectors were repulsed by mortar, rifle and machine-gun fire," the communique said.

Volga river gunboats were credited with silencing two enemy artillery batteries and destroying three mortar batteries in support of the Stalingrad defense. A garrison detachment was said to have repulsed seven consecutive attacks by a German infantry regiment, wiping out about a company of troops and disabling three of 15 supporting tanks.

Operations in the Moscow area, north of the Caucasus, were said to have led to the slaying of some 600 Germans and destruction of seven (Continued on Page Six)

Junior Red Cross Roll Call Nov. 1

Plans are going forward for the Junior Red Cross Roll Call which will begin throughout the county November 1 and continue through the 18th. As in the past the fee is fifty cents for each emergency grammar school and $1 per hundred students in the high school. It is hoped that the parents will encourage their children to earn the pennies they take to school for the roll call.

All money over and above the regular fee for each room goes into a service fund and is to be used in each school for any emergency that may arise. The Red Cross, two publications sent out from headquarters and containing a wealth of valuable information are sent free to every room that has been enrolled.

The schools are already at work on a number of interesting things for the hospitals. Two large boxes have recently been sent to the New River-Camp Davis hospital and camp service. These boxes contained bedside bags, hot water bottle covers, Chinese checkers, waste baskets, flower containers, ash trays, tray covers and fitted service bags. Each service bag and razor blade, a deck of cards, stationery, pencil, pocket knife, soap and a housewife. Most of the contents of these boxes were made by the children of the Greensland and Greenville schools.

The schools and their sponsors are to be congratulated on the splendid work they have done and are doing. With such interest the roll call bids fair to be a great success.

Concurring in House action fixing a 90 per cent rate on excess profits, the committee said it believed it wise to cushion the impact of this levy by providing a non-over-all tax net income.

It voted to allow a post-war rebate of 10 per cent of excess profits taxes collected. The committee defended its suggestion. (Continued on page five)

Reds Beat Off Sledge-Hammer Assaults by Nazis, Crushing 22 Separate Attacks; Germans Fail to Advance Within Past 24 Hours

By EDDY GILMORE Moscow, Oct. 6.—(AP)

Defenders of Stalingrad were reported holding firm today against three Nazi divisions in a flame-laced battle for a workers' settlement and Red army, troops fighting for relief of the garrison stabbed anew into the German left flank.

German artillery and mortar barges heralded the opening of a series of attacks by the three divisions totaling from 30,000 to 45,000 men. Swarms of dive-bombers and 100 tanks roared into the fight for the salient. A pravia dispatch said the flames were visible to Russian fighters in sectors many miles away.

Prisoners told Red army command that their officers feared to delay any further in their overdue plans to take the city. Colder nights have arrived on the Stalingrad front.

At one place, the Germans hurled 22 attacks, but all were repulsed, the Communist party newspaper said.

German losses in the last 24 hours have been huge and the enemy failed to advance on any front, it was declared.

Entertains At Service Center.
(By Lucy Cherry Crisp)

Richard Penn and his violin received a warm welcome from the service men at the local Service Center at the Women's Club Sunday night. For half an hour, accompanied by Mrs. Ray Tyson, Mr. Penn played for the boys music they love to hear—familiar things like "Indian Love Call," "Just a Little Loo," "A Little Kiss," "Just a Little Loo," "A Little Kiss," from "Trambauer," "The Rosary," and others of similar nature.

The boys liked it and so did the junior and senior hostesses who were there—as their ready applause testified.

During the intermission between Mr. Penn's groups of songs Jimmy Simpson sang several songs ending with the stirring "Marie Hymn" in which the Marines presented lustily.

For the past month or so Dick Penn has played in a number of USO clubs in North and South Carolina. A tobaccoist from Danville, Va., Mr. Penn has never studied music but does a good job of playing "by ear"—playing with a warmth and appeal that make his programs of familiar music half-hours of genuine pleasure for the service men. And nothing he has ever done, he says has meant to him what playing for these boys now means.

Food and Nutrition Classes To Be Given
These times call for physical fitness and we know that insufficient nourishment and ill-health do not produce citizens with courage, initiative and energy.
Women will welcome an opportunity to know more about the nutritive value of the foods for which they spend their food dollars. They want it to yield the greatest returns in health and well being for the family. No woman can do a greater service today in the war effort than to devote herself to seeing that her home meets to the limit the food requirements of her own family. The proper nourishment of those who will bear the brunt of the after the war period, is essential war work. On the health of our people depends the future of our country and all of us are asked to do our share to make America strong. Women have a very important place and responsibility in the National Nutrition program. Health begins with the foods we eat and one-third of our nation is ill-fed. Believing that the women of Greenville will welcome an opportunity to know more about this important subject, "Food and Nutrition" classes sponsored by the local chapter of the American Red Cross, will be offered soon. Its patriotic duty to be well and strong Time and place for these classes will be given through your local paper.

Senior High mixed chorus met before school this morning in room 19 to practice, under the leadership of Miss Ona Shindler. The boys and girls sang "Ode to America," "A Green Cathedral" and other songs.

A meeting of the Junior Red Cross Council was held yesterday afternoon in room 25. A list of desirable scrap was made up as follows: Keys, electric irons, light bulbs, aluminum kitchenware, rubber or aluminum curlers, needles, hair pins, bobby pins and horseshoes. A committee was chosen to plan for a chapel program. This committee met this afternoon.

Ellington was providing a shelf in her book store on which League members can display articles for sale for the benefit of the hospital fund.

The Service League office and Thrift Shop opened Tuesday with their regular hours of 10-12 a. m., and 2-4 p. m.

Mrs. Ormond, Layette chairman, urged members to take garments home to sew on.

The League voted to send Christmas cards to men from Greenville in the armed services. A committee was appointed to work out a plan by which these men could be sent news columns clipped from the local papers.

Mrs. D. E. Jones reported on the work of the Greenville Service Organization and asked that more homes be opened for service men here for the week-ends.

Mrs. Ficklen said that the work on the surgical dressings was progressing satisfactorily. She stressed the importance of this work and urged that anyone who had a few spare hours use them in this way.

Miss Hennie Logg asked that each member cooperate in every way possible with "America's Number One Civilian Defense Effort," the salvage drive.

Following a moment of silent prayer for the service men, the meeting adjourned.

A Promise for Tomorrow

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 16
The Man In The Green Car
 Julie was awake shortly after the sunlight broke over the tops of the tall pines. And along before there was any sound of stirring in the household. Restless, disturbed by the strange new twist of developments, she got up, dressed quickly. Smartly tailored tan slacks, a soft yellow sweater, comfortable flat-heeled shoes. She'd take a long walk before breakfast. Maybe the fresh air would clear up her thinking.

But at the patio doorway she met Pete. Each started guiltily. "Gosh, you startled me," Pete whispered. "Didn't know anyone else was up."

He finished filling the bowl of his well-caked pipe, picked up his canvas-wrapped fishing rod and a bait box. "Thought I'd catch us some trout for breakfast."

"Can I go with you?" Julie said on impulse and before she had time to reconsider. "Sure"—carelessly. "It's a free country."

Rebuffed, Julie drew back. "Oh, never mind, I haven't a trout rod, anyhow. Some other time I'll—"

He shrugged. "Plenty of rods. I'll find you one," and disappeared into a huge closet under the stairway, returned a moment later with a pole and reel. "All set."

Then, like a pair of conspirators, they tip-toed out of the house, across the patio, started single-file up the trail.

For a while Julie forgot the strange tangle of events in the glory of the summer morning. Cool, fragrant air brought a glow to her cheeks and sunlight slanting through the spire-like trees touched all the forest greens into light and shadow. And although Pete ignored her completely as he tramped ahead, puffing on his pipe, stopping only occasionally to rest, she was content—for the first time in years.

The trail was unusually well-marked for this early in the season, she thought once as she followed Pete along the narrow path that skirted the canyon where a stream rushed noisily. Almost like an echo, Pete said.

channel. Funny she hadn't noticed it before. Wearily, and faster now, she scrambled along the boulder-strewn banks. Still no familiar, broad-shouldered figure in sight. Finally she whistled. Two fingers between her teeth she shrilled the two short and one long blasts, the old Hamilton signal for help. In earlier days that whistle would have brought either Tommy Junior or Joe on the run to help her into or out of any flight.

This time it brought no answer. She forced herself to sit down then, rest quietly until her pulsons stopped pounding, her panic was under control. Then, with surface calm at least, she started up the stream again.

As if to reward her cool courage, her next whistle brought an answer. Around a curve, yards up stream, a tall man appeared at the stream's edge, stood watching her. Overjoyed, and a little teary-eyed with relief, Julie waved, shouted, "Wait for me."

He disappeared again. A moment later she saw the top of his hat through the trees. Coming down the trail toward her. Hoisting her reel and always careful of the slim trout pole, she crossed the stream again, trudged along, her knees quivering with fatigue, her whole body still aware of the fright she'd had. People had been known to wander in these mountains for days before they were found.

She whistled again when she heard him crashing along through the brush. But he didn't answer. It wasn't until later that she remembered thinking that peculiar. Pete had been in on the Hamilton whistle code always. Three short blasts meant "Take cover." One long and one short meant "All clear." Lots of times that system had stood them in good—

She reached for a dangling rope of vines, pulled herself up over a smooth-faced rock onto the trail above. As she scrambled to her feet, someone came around a curve in the pathway. A tall someone in muddy riding boots, breeches, a tweed coat. Dark, swarthy face—heavy black brows—thin lips parted in a smile. As if hypnotized, Julie stared at that smile, felt fear fold around her like a cloak. This was the man in the green car.

 Then Aneurin Bevan, another labor member, inquired: "Is it not a fact that factory workers and groups of workers in institutions all over the country are discussing the implications of Mr. Stalin's statement? Is it not to have the opportunity of considering it? Does the Prime Minister realize the very serious effect on war production that may happen if a feeling grows that there is any misunderstanding between the Soviet Union and ourselves? Will there not be an early opportunity of clearing the public mind in this matter?"

Churchill responded: "I have nothing to add to the statement I have just made." Saying that Stalin's letter seemed to indicate that "there is not the closest relations in coordinating staff work for political purposes, a third Laborite questioner, Frederick Bellenger, asked for assurance that "there is the closest integration in staff matters between Russia and this country."

It was to this that the Prime Minister gave the answer which brought the House's shouts of "Hear! Hear!"—warning the House to avoid pressing "these matters unduly at a period which is certainly significant."

The discussion soon was cut off, however, after Clement Davies, an opposition liberal, had repeated that there was "a tremendous amount of discussion" over the Stalin statement and asked the Prime Minister "to consider an early opportunity of discussing it" in the House.

The National Labor Relations Board considered 11,000 cases in 1941.

COME ON, NORTH CAROLINA Give Us the Scrap We've GOT to Have

NOW... Before It's Too Late... Collect Your Scrap Metal... Collect it for VICTORY!

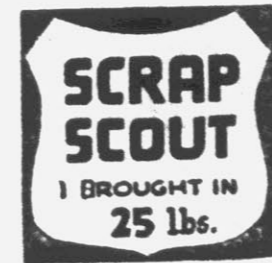

Right now, to supply our far-flung fighting forces, America MUST have scrap metal of all kinds. It's up to you and every member of your family to get this scrap to collection centers. Simply as an added incentive, the participating newspapers of North Carolina are offering $3,300 in Prizes to the County, Business firm, Individual, School and Youth Organization that brings in the MOST SCRAP.

If you can't take your collection to a scrap dealer or salvage center yourself, call your County Salvage Committee.

The important thing is to start collecting scrap metal . . . RIGHT NOW! Gather up every piece of scrap metal, no matter how small. Just one old pail contains enough metal to make 3 bayonets, and three old pails will make one 60 mm. mortar. Every little bit counts so much.

Believe it or not . . . you'll find guns in your garret, bombs in your barn . . . dig 'em out NOW! Round up your souvenirs for Schicklegruber, your bullets for Benito, let's jolt the Japs with the scrap from North Carolina!

Every North Carolina Boy and Girl Should Wear One of These Badges Before Contest Ends — October 21.

Here is a picture of today's BADGE OF HONOR . . . One will be given for each 25 pounds of scrap turned in. It is hoped that at least 790,000 of these badges can be given away for then there will be at least one Badge of Honor in every North Carolina family. Get yours from your salvage collector.

 The Participating Newspapers of North Carolina.

$1,000 PRIZE

. . . to be given to the North Carolina county collecting, by gift or sale, the most scrap per capita (1940 census). The War Bond to be given to any charity designated by the County Salvage Committee in accordance with contest rules.

$500 PRIZE!

A $500 War Bond will be given to the North Carolina county collecting, by gift or sale, the second largest amount of scrap per capita. Charity to receive the prize to be designated by County Salvage Committee.

$150 PRIZE!

To the individual—man, woman, boy or girl, who gives or sells the most scrap—goes $150 in War Bonds.

$75 PRIZE!

A $75 War Bond goes to the school or to the boys' or girls' organization which gives or sells the most scrap. Other prizes of $50 and $25 in War Bonds in this classification!

$300 PRIZE!

The $300 War Bond goes to the Business Firm which turns in the most scrap. (Gift or sale.)

CONTEST RULES
$3,300 PRIZES

PURPOSE
 To encourage the collection in North Carolina of every possible pound of scrap metal to help meet the nation's war needs; to make North Carolina one of the first states in the nation to complete an exhaustive clean-up of this material; to supplement and encourage all activities of other agencies gathering this vitally-needed war material.

PLAN
 Prizes will be given by the participating newspapers of North Carolina to the North Carolina county, business firm, individual and units of the North Carolina Boy or Girl organizations or school turning in free or selling to the scrap dealer the most scrap metal in the three weeks, according to the rules. It does not matter whether the scrap metal is given free to the government or sold to dealers. It all counts in the prize competition. The main purpose is to get all the scrap for the government. Get a receipt to show your County Committee.

 Prizes given by participating newspapers of North Carolina will be as follows:
 $1,000 War Bond to be awarded to the county reporting the greatest total poundage of scrap metal collection per capita.
 $500 War Bond to the county reporting the second largest collection per capita.
 $100 War Bond to the county in each Congressional District reporting the largest collection per capita. (Counties winning 2 prizes above not eligible).
 $300 War Bond to the business firm turning in the largest poundage of scrap metal.
 $150 War Bond to the individual delivering the largest number of pounds.
 $75 War Bond to the local junior organization or school delivering the largest poundage in the State.
 $50 War Bond to the local junior organization or school delivering the second largest poundage in the State.
 $25 War Bond to the local junior organization or school delivering the third largest poundage in the State.

The prizes going to counties are to be used for some charity or public purpose of general value to the county. The local salvage committee in conjunction with the local chairman of Civilian Defense shall designate the organization to receive the prize War Bond. If they so elect a contest among eligible organizations may be carried on in the various counties.

ELIGIBILITY
 Every person residing within a county is eligible to contribute to that county's total collection. Persons and their families engaged in the business of buying and selling scrap iron, or collecting it on a commission, are not eligible to compete as individuals or firms. They may, however, help to increase the county's total by initiating scrap collection, the contest credit to go to the original owner.
 All firms, partnerships and corporations and their employees (living in the State) not engaged in the business of scrap buying or collection are eligible to collect scrap metal to be entered in the name of the firm. The same material, however, may not be credited to both a firm and an individual. Every school or junior organization (in units) such as 4-H Clubs, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts or Camp Fire Girls, etc., is eligible to compete for the junior prizes.

PROCEDURE
 The county salvage committee will within each county be in charge of the program. All scrap metal must be receipted at point of delivery. (Call your local salvage committee or representative for location of delivery point.) Credit in the contest will be ONLY upon the basis of such receipts. Be sure to get a receipt in pounds. Each day during the contest, these receipts to be published regularly as a basis of such receipts. Be sure to get a receipt in pounds. Each day during the contest, these receipts to be published regularly as a basis of such receipts. Be sure to get a receipt in pounds. Each day during the contest, these receipts to be published regularly as a basis of such receipts. Be sure to get a receipt in pounds.

JUDGES
 The judges of this contest will be a committee of three named by Mr. James H. Votler, Executive Secretary for the North Carolina Salvage Committee. The decisions of this committee of judges as to the winners will be final.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

FOLLOWING TASTE IN EMPLOYMENT

There is a very wise woman who sets up as the motto for her life these words, "Do what you enjoy and enjoy what you do." She insists that we only do well the things we like to do, and that our liking for any particular type of activity is a clear indication that here is the type of work in which we should be engaged.

It goes without saying that such a principle must — like the Constitution of the United States — be made workable by a number of amendments. First of all we have to recognize that we cannot do everything we enjoy all at one particular time. We have to discard lesser enjoyments or space them over periods of time. Then those disconcerting realities of life known as circumstances sometimes prevent our doing what we want to do. A one-sided man may want to be a pianist, but he will not be. A man may want to be a portrait painter, but if he has one or more persons to support and no opportunity to learn portraiture, he must keep busy at balancing the budget. Then there are some activities of an antisocial, vicious, and vicious nature which never bring any real profit in the doing.

But taken by and large we can well set up as an ideal the choosing of our work on the basis of personal taste and aptitude, and we can assure ourselves that few things in life will give us more lasting joy than doing well the thing we like to do best.

LET'S HAVE SOME ACTION

There are probably hundreds of catch slogans such as "Slap the Jap With Your Scrap" and the like, but we can't win the war on slogans unless we take them to heart and turn them from idle words into action. Our government needs every pound of available scrap now and unless Pitt County turns in its part the program will be short and somebody's son, brother, husband or sweetheart might die unnecessarily on the battlefield because of the lack of the implements with which to fight. Frankly, folks, this is a serious matter that deserves our full thought and effort. Let's get busy now and get together that scrap and make it available to the government for the war effort.

OUR FARM LABOR SITUATION

When there is a great cry for labor to help harvest the crops and the situation is so bad that the schools have to close at noon in order to give the children from the rural areas the opportunity to aid in the work, frankly it grieves us to note from a recent report from Washington that unemployment compensation payments in North Carolina in August increased 2.4 per cent over July, when for the nation as a whole such payments decreased 18 per cent. If our government will stop paying folks to loaf and if some of the farmers who have for years depended upon hired labor to pick some of it themselves, maybe the situation would not be so bad hereabouts.

We make the statement about some of the farmers doing the work themselves as the result of a remark made to us a few days ago by a farmer who said that he didn't expect to pick cotton if it stayed in the field, and that he knew a lot more farmers who felt the same way about it. We are sure that the farmers who feel this way about it are in the minority, and that the majority of our farmers are doing all they can to get their cotton picked and their crops housed, but if one will look about our streets at most any time, any day, and especially all day Saturdays, you will see enough folks loafing about on the streets to pick a lot of cotton.

It is vital that the crops now in the fields be housed and saved if our nation is to escape real want in the future, but we can't house the crops by paying folks for loafing and putting the job of housing the crops on the shoulders of the children.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — There has been a story going around that politics is dead for the duration. It isn't true. Politics is no more dead than the World Series, women's fashions, or democracy.

That brings us right down to cases, because one of the best "political stories" circulating in Washington today centers around New York. I put "political stories" in quotes because this story is based on a lot of ifs and ands and buts. However, it's also based on a lot of solid political logic. And that's the way I'm going to pass it on.

To shoot all three barrels at once, it's simply this: Thomas E. Dewey will be elected the first Republican governor of New York in 22 years; he will be nominated, without much opposition, as the Republican candidate for the presidency in 1944; and the Democratic nominee, opposing him then will be Wendell L. Willkie.

As for that solid political logic, here's the way the Washington observers are figuring it: (1) The split in the Democratic ranks in New York over the governorship has been irreparable. President Roosevelt, for party's sake, will make some outward show of backing the Democratic nominee, John J. Bennett, but it won't be enough. In the first place the President is really too preoccupied with war to take time out to enter a political fracas. In the second place, his one-time political sidekick, James A. Farley, is said by insiders to have carried the feud so far in the bitter-end battle for Bennett against the President's ed to deliver aid at the earliest possible moment. The striking thing to me is that this triple alliance, should have reached a point where rebukes can be exchanged without friction. This is of vast importance. Upon the solidarity of the triple alliance depends the future of Europe. The three governments recognize this. Lessening of suspicions which existed between the Communists and the Anglo-American combine presumably have been due to mutual efforts to reach an understanding.

There is no doubt Stalin will get his second front at the first feasible moment. Irrespective of his desire, there would be a second front because of Anglo-American determination to establish one. To any observer it is clear this country is a beehive of preparation by British and American forces for offensive operations.

The British public lives for the day when a major offensive can be undertaken. However, the man in the street who not so long ago was loud in demands that a second front be opened immediately has reached the conclusion it must be for the high command to say when and where offensives shall be undertaken.

This change is due to a belief authorities mean business when they promise action at the earliest feasible moment. The public no longer feels there is unnecessary delay or lack of willingness to take chances. To the average person the term, "second front" means one thing — invasion of the continent through France.

Apparently that is what Moscow has in mind, too. However, I believe the Anglo-American command places a wider interpretation on the phrase and a good many military experts hold there are several theaters which would provide useful "second fronts."

What Stalin wants is action that will draw German troops away from the eastern front in the quickest possible time and relieve the pressure on his armies. Probably the only operation which would achieve this would be invasion through France.

There is no other zone which would force Hitler to withdraw many divisions or great air strength from Stalingrad. Not even the threat to his army of invasion in Egypt — a vital part of his drive against the Caucasus and the Middle East — could do this.

We can be certain the Anglo-American command never will undertake that most difficult operation in all history of war, invasion of France, until it feels certain of success. That doesn't mean it isn't prepared to take chances, but the stakes are too great to gamble madly.

The recent Dieppe raid ought to show the dangers of invasion.

If an invasion of France should counter disaster, it would lay the British Isles wide open.

Likely that is why such an operation isn't started until the men and equipment are ready.

ARE WE STILL HELPING HITLER?

If some one were to ask us, "Are you still helping Hitler?" we would very likely be highly insulted. We may ask ourselves this same question without being offended, and I am afraid that a very great number of us would find that we are unintentionally helping our enemies. How are we helping Hitler?

Every time we see how fast we can drive an automobile we are helping the murderous Germans and treacherous Japs by wastefully using our rubber and gasoline. Every time we try to get more than our fair share of the rationed goods we are helping our enemies. Every day we delay gathering up that old scrap metal and rubber and starting it on its way to the steel mills and rubber reclamation plants we are certainly giving aid and comfort to the beast of Berlin, the rattlesnake of Tokio and the skunk of Rome.

Occasionally you will hear a person say I don't have time to get out and get my old junk together. That is absolutely no excuse at all. The boys in uniform don't have time to do all the things they would like and then take the week end off if they can. They don't have time to come home every time they want to for even though they may get a week-end off they are so far away it is impossible. Thousands and perhaps hundreds of thousands of our young Americans are ten thousand miles away from home and some may never come back. We must either take the time to furnish them with the best equipment or their sacrifice will have been in vain.

Occasionally you will hear a person say I don't have enough scrap metal to do any good. That is no excuse for just one old broken plow bullet we put a lot of Germans and Japs where we would like several million to be.

We can lose this war by our laziness, indifference or selfishness. The boys in uniform are going to do their part and if the war is lost it will be the fault of us back home. Certainly none of us want to help Hitler so let's get busy and help Uncle Sam.

RAF Planes In Raid on Germany

London, Oct. 6—(AP)—A "strong force" of RAF bombers attacked objectives in Western Germany last night, an authoritative source said today.

It was the third night raid on Germany this month, Flensburg and the Rhineland having been the targets in raids last Thursday and Friday nights.

The British lost 10 planes, an indication on the basis of previous averages that 200 planes made the raid.

Other RAF formations swept across the southeast coast in a steady procession during the night and attacked the occupied channel coast. Explosions and flashes were heard and seen on the British coast.

Strict Rules Now Affect Fuel Oil

Complete denial of rations of fuel oil for heating in apartment houses and commercial, industrial and institutional establishments which possess the facilities to convert their furnaces to coal, has been announced by Paul M. O'Leary, deputy OPA administrator in charge of rationing.

O'Leary stated that many furnaces can be easily converted into coal burning furnaces and the "desperateness of the fuel oil situation demands that they do so." Upon registering for fuel oil rations, each such establishment will be required to report on the convertibility of their oil furnaces.

Fuel oil of all kinds, including kerosene, was frozen by WFB, effective October 1, and all transactions thereafter must be accounted for. Written promises to turn over to the dealers and suppliers coupons covering the purchase, when coupons are issued, will be acceptable as emergency coupons. The fuel rationing program will not be put into effect until about October 15, but consumers had been warned to buy necessary oil before the 1st to take care of their immediate needs.

Each consumer should check amount of fuel oil on hand, determine from dealer or paid bills the amount of oil used last year, and determine the square foot area of houses by measuring each room to be heated. This information will be needed when application is made for fuel oil rationing for this year.

Consumers should not make application for fuel oil coupons at the Rationing Board office until notified through the press on or after October 15 that the forms have arrived and are effective. Fuel may be secured from dealers, as stated above, by written promise to furnish coupons upon their receipt.

Denmark Refuses To Join The Axis

London, Oct. 6—(AP)—A demand by Adolf Hitler that Denmark agree to her "voluntary incorporation" into a bloc of model states as a showpiece of the Nazi new order has been rejected by the little monarchy, the Free Danish Council here reported today.

The demand was said to have been accompanied by a threat that the Gestapo would run Denmark if it were refused.

Jap Prisoners Reach Mainland

A Pacific Northwest Port, Oct. 6 (AP)—Taken in naval action in the Aleutians, five Japanese were landed recently at a Pacific northwest port and whisked away to a previously prepared detention spot.

They were the first Japanese prisoners of war to arrive in the Pacific northwest and were believed to be the first in the continental United States.

Behind their capture and arrival in the States there lies a dramatic story of an engagement not yet officially released, said the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, which added that one of the five was an officer, believed at one time to have been a Seattle resident.

"As they left the big gray ship and stepped down the gangplank where a provost marshal's detail awaited them, the prisoners carefully averted their faces from a sharp light streaming out of a nearby shed," the paper said. "They walked with bowed heads the length of the dock under the scrutiny of Army and Navy men, most of whom were seeing their enemy for the first time."

Hitler Trying For Squeeze Play

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—German broadcasts suggested today that Hitler may be adopting squeeze tactics in an attempt to force France to yield military concessions in West Africa to the Reich, with thinly hints that Britain and the U. S. might seize Dakar and that French Morocco might go to Spain as forfeit.

Quoting articles in the German-dominated Paris press, the Berlin radio dwelt at length on what it purported to be an increasing demand among the French for a fighting defense to prevent French West Africa from going the way of Equatorial Africa, Syria and Madagascar.

The implication was that if the French could not hold their own territory from Free France and the Allies, they should grant Germany the facilities to hold it for them.

Negro Held For Rape Killing

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 6—(AP)—A powerful Negro theater porter was arraigned today on a murder charge in the brutal killing of pretty Marian Oliver during a movie show at the Old Opera House.

The nude, battered body of the 20-year-old factory worker was found yesterday behind the theater and Middlesex county prosecutor said today John Swan, 26, six-foot-four-inch porter and bridegroom of a month, had confessed he killed the girl in the women's lounge after she bitterly fought his attempt to rape her.

British Attack In North Africa

Rome (From Italian Broadcasts), Oct. 6—(AP)—The Italian high command said today that British forces attacked in the central sector of the El Alamein front in the Egyptian desert yesterday.

The communique described the attackers as "enemy reconnaissance forces" and said they were repulsed with heavy losses, including many prisoners left in Axis hands.

Free Eye Clinic Here October 1

Mr. E. T. Fittell, Pitt County superintendent of public welfare, announced today that examinations for eye glasses will be made in a two-day clinic to be held for indigent adults and children of Pitt County on October 30 and 31. All those who wish to avail themselves of this service must make application in writing to the Welfare Department before October 12 in order to be approved and have an appointment.

The clinic is being sponsored by the State Commission for The Blind through the service of the Welfare Department and in cooperation with the Lions Club, the schools, and the Health Department. Mr. J. H. Ross, Supt. of City Schools, and a committee from the Lion's Club are in charge of arrangements. The Lions Club committee is composed of Paul Scott, Clarence Coburn, Withers Harvey with Mr. Scott serving as chairman.

The State Commission is arranging the clinic because of the shortage of specialists in Greenville now. Up until this time the local optometrists have been holding the clinics for indigent citizens. Being aware of the great need of this type of clinic, the Welfare Department made local arrangements. Dr. Thomas Schooner of Duke Hospital will be sent here for the two days.

Boy Scouts Doing Fine Defense Work

The Boy Scouts of America received high praise today from Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis for the job they are doing in distributing price control information to 25,000,000 homes throughout the nation.

"What You Should Know About Price Control" is the title of a leaflet which a million and a half Boy Scouts are delivering from door to door in every community of the United States. By mobilizing their resources, the Scouts have already managed to complete 80 per cent of the job. Preliminary reports indicate that the leaflet has been distributed to approximately 20,000,000 urban and rural homes in the past few weeks.

The nation's civilian defense effort already owes an immeasurable debt to the Boy Scouts of America for the help they have given in the past," Mr. Landis said. "The service the Scouts are now performing places them in the front ranks of those who are fighting the battle against the rising cost of living."

Ten thousand Boy Scout leaders in 10,000 different communities are charged with the responsibility of directing the distribution campaign undertaken by the nation's Scouts. The leaflet was prepared by OPA and is being distributed through the cooperation of the Office of Civilian Defense and the Boy Scouts.

East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts delivered more than 10,000 of the above pamphlets under the direction of 40 leaders. Three hundred Scouts helped deliver the pamphlets, James M. Uzzle, local Boy Scout executive, said today.

Iraq Cabinet Resigns

London, Oct. 6—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Baghdad said the cabinet of Iraq resigned today.

The resignation was said to have resulted from a difference of opinion within the cabinet on internal economic questions of the kingdom, which provide bases for some allied military forces.

Claim Five Ships Sunk

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) Oct. 6—(AP)—Five merchant ships totalling 26,000 tons have been sunk by German submarines off the African and South American coasts, it was officially announced today.

Submarine operations in the Atlantic have been held up for days because of severe autumn storms, the announcement said.

Czechs Executed

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—Four more Czechs have been executed by the Germans, a Czechoslovak government source in London said today.

He identified the victims as Viktor Polacek, accused of activities hostile to the Reich; Lieut. Col. Jan Hubacek, 51, of the former Czechoslovak army, and Joseph Kocman, 51, both charged with high treason; and Joseph Juro, 41, accused of attempting to revive the communist party.

To Probe Union Fees

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee said today a nationwide investigation of fees exacted by unions from job applicants on army projects may be undertaken if evidence of exorbitant charges is found.

Berthold Schwartz, a German monk, is generally considered to be the inventor of firearms.

nel were the Secretary of State, the State Auditor and the Retirement Commission. Theirs was for a flat 10 per cent boost, while the State Treasurer asked for $1,440 increase for the first year of the biennium and $1,500 for the second.

Secretary of State Thad Eure asked $34,487 for 1943-44 and $37,842 for 1944-45; compared with $35,856 for the first year of the present biennium and $30,616 for the second. Included in his request was a fund for two more employees, a securities examiner at a salary of $2,400 plus $600 for travel, and a custodian clerk at $900 a year. The request, he said, actually represented a decrease insofar as the office proper was concerned.

The governor's office asked for $22,405 for each fiscal year, about $2,000 less than the average for the present biennium.

Auditor George Ross Fox asked $61,823 and $61,723 for the next biennium, compared with $52,067 and $55,790 for the present biennium. He asked $500 less for traveling.

The treasurer's office asked $55,385 and $56,515, and an additional employee.

The Retirement Commission requested $51,320 and $54,020, compared with $54,048 and $43,130, for administrative purposes. Not included was the state's contribution to the retirement fund, which amounted to $1,509,076 for each of the last two years. Those funds will be tabulated in the near future.

From the Local Government Commission came a request for $27,720 for each year, compared with $31,414 and $30,594. Refunding activities of that department have decreased and two employees who had not been replaced.

Under confederate pensions was a request for $211,000 and $211,000, compared with $225,000 and $223,000.

On the Budget Commission are Senator Willie Lee Lumpkin, chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee; Senator Bryan McBryde, chairman of the Senate Finance committee; Rep. John Kerr, Jr., chairman of the House Appropriations committee; Rep. Victor Bryant, chairman of the House Finance committee; and James H. Clark, former senator from Bladen; and A. S. Russia by fulfilling "their obligations fully and on time."

Last night was the third night in succession that Willkie had conferred with Chiang Kai-Shek and their fourth meeting.

It was considered likely the Chinese leader repeated to Willkie his view that the Pacific front should be regarded as important as the European.

The question of India's status probably came in for discussion, observers said.

Never before has a foreign visitor been accorded such access to the Chinese leader as that enjoyed by Willkie.

Willkie arranged to visit government plants today. He was invited to luncheon by Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, war minister, and was to be the dinner guest of Dr. H. H. Kung, finance minister, and Madame Kung.

No Question That Cardinals Are the Real Champions

Kurowski Scores Homer That Won Series For Cards

TEAM SHOWED MORE STAMINA THAN OTHERS

Johnny Beazley Term-ed Star Of The World Series

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—If it were not for the probability that the Yankees will break it up, the St. Louis Cardinals club that completed the job of wrecking the New York Yankees yesterday might within the next few years go tearing on to win ranking with the greatest teams in baseball history.

It is a son-of-a-gun of a baseball club—much better than anyone suspected even when it was running wild in the closing stages of the National league race. There is no team in either league at this time with anything approaching the all-around punch, pitching and polish of the new world champions.

On the off chance that somebody might think we are going overboard on the bold young men of Manager Billy Southworth, a few figures might be in order:

Through yesterday's deciding game at the stadium, which was won 4-2 on a two-run homer by George Kurowski, rookie third baseman, in the ninth inning, the Cardinals won 47 of their last 57 contests in the 1942 season. That comes to an altitudinous winning average of .824 down the stretch.

They slugged and slashed their way to victory in their last six straight games in the league race, paused only to drop the World Series in St. Louis, and then battered the Yankees into submission in four straight. Some time, some team might have set a record that looks comparable in print, but forgive us if we doubt that the competition was as tough as that bowled over by the Cardinals in their amazing drive to the top.

With all due respect, the Brooklyn Dodgers, it would have been a shame if the Cards' sensational charge had fallen short of the National league pennant. Two capacity crowds in St. Louis and three vast gatherings of nearly 70,000 here would have been deprived of a baseball treat to be treasured.

It is doubtful the Dodgers could have beaten the Yankees. They lacked pitching. As the series unfolded it became obvious that the Cardinals not only had all the dash and color which had become their hallmark, but that they also possessed great pitching in quantity. Mort Cooper, their biggest winner, was slugged from the box twice by the Yanks, yet they had the men who could take up the slack in Johnny Beazley, Ernie White and Max Lanier.

Beazley, the solemn 23-year-old rookie from Nashville, who defeated the Yankees in the second game to square the series and then came back to clinch the championship yesterday, probably deserved to be called the series star. He pitched two great games and showed an astonishing store of poise for a youngster.

But the Cardinals line-up was studded with stars. It strictly was a team victory. Take Kurowski, the rookie third sacker from Reading, Pa. His game-winning blow yesterday was little more important than the triple he smacked in the second game to drive in a run and throw the Yankees into a tantrum of umpire-baiting from which they never recovered.

Or Terry Moore, the team's great captain and center-fielder. In the course of the series he was one of the most spectacular catches ever seen on any field to stifle Yankee rallies and generally lent support to the claim that he is the equal of Joe DiMaggio. He singled and later scored the sixth-inning run that tied the count at 2-2 yesterday and set the stage for Kurowski's winning wallop.

Ernos Slaughter, who saved two games with marvelous plays, one a dead-eye dip peg to third base from right field and the other a leaping catch of what should have been a homerun by Charley Keller.

To top off his fine performance, he slugged a fourth-inning home run into the deep right field stands off Red Ruffing yesterday to equalize a four-bagger with which little Phil Rizzuto had greeted Beazley in the opening round.

And then there was White, the southpaw, who blanked the Yankees 2 to 0 in the third game; and Walker Cooper, who out-starred Bill Dickey behind the plate, climaxing his efforts with a snap peg that caught Joe Gordon off second base in the ninth inning yesterday.

And Marty Marion, the towering Cardinal shortstop who was brilliant in every game, and Jimmy Brown and Johnny Hopp and Stan Musial. Each contributed exactly the right amount to the triumph. For the most part, they did not display the distance-hitting qualities of the Yankees, but each of them seemed to hit or come up with a great play when it was needed most.

As for the Yankees, they simply ran into a bunch of game, hard-playing, hungry youngsters. After they won the second game at St. Louis, the Cardinals actually believed they would take three straight at the stadium here, and said so. Those of us who heard them thought it merely was youthful exuberance. We didn't quite know the Cardinals then.

Little Rizzuto played the best all-around game for the Yanks, hammering eight hits in the five games and fielding cleverly.

A World Series always has to Whitey Kurowski (between umpire and group), St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, crosses the plate after his two-run homer in the ninth inning that won the fifth game and the World Series for the Cards in New York. The home run broke a 2-2 tie and the New York Yankees failed to score in the last half of the ninth. Slats Marion (4), Walker Cooper (15) and the Cards' bathy are on hand to greet Kurowski. The umpire is George Magerkurth.

provide one good opportunity for the second-guessers to ply their trade, and this was no exception. Last night and today the men who have had years of experience in managing from the grand stand were demanding to know why Joe McCarthy, the Yankees' pilot, permitted Ruffing to pitch to Kurowski in yesterday's ninth inning. They would have walked him without a second thought.

The situation was this: Walker Cooper had opened the inning with a single and had been sacrificed to second by Hopp. Coming up was Kurowski, who earlier in the game had slugged a long one into the left field stands that sailed foul by only a few feet.

Following Kurowski was Marty Marion, a very inconspicuous hitler, and the pitcher, Beazley. By walking Kurowski, the Yanks would have set up the making of a double play, insisted the men who have made a study of such situations. But what, they moaned, did McCarthy do but pitch to Kurowski, with the results aforementioned.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Oct. 6—You'd be surprised at how many folks hereabouts think they won't have another chance to see a World Series for a long time... Maybe that explains those tremendous crowds at the stadium—and the polite handclapping that greeted each Yank as he made his first appearance at the plate yesterday. The fans seemed to be saying: "Well, we won't be seeing you again, but you were good guys when you had it." Probably half of each squad will be in the armed forces before another season, but Whitey Kurowski's trick arm likely will keep him out... It won't make the Yankees any happier if they have to meet him another time... Come to think of it, those 23-year-old Cardinals kids ought to make ball players when they grow up.

County Court Busy On Whiskey Cases

By CHESTER WALSH
Everything is being rationed during the war time emergency except liquor, it appeared today in Pitt County Court when the majority of the cases heard by Judge Dink James involved booze in some form. Eleven persons were up for trial for driving motor vehicles while drunk and one had liquor for sale. Three defendants were tried for careless or reckless driving and two were up charged by the Health Department with failure to take proper treatment for venereal diseases.

Government Census Trucks And Taxis

Every North Carolina owner of a commercial vehicle that was registered on December 31, 1942, will be mailed an application blank for certificates of war necessity by the ODT, William Earl Butler, head of the Raleigh field office, said today.

Butler said that every owner should have his application within the next three weeks. This will allow ample time for all those required to have certificates to obtain them before November 15, when the ODT order becomes effective, provided the applications have been properly filled out and returned.

North Carolina is among the first group of states to receive applications. As mailings are completed the counties covered will be announced. Those who have not received their application blanks at the time of the announcement must apply to the nearest ODT field office. Responsibility for obtaining applications rests with those affected by the order, Butler said.

The order applies to all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt primarily for the purposes of transporting property, except motorcycles, and all motor vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are available for public rental, including ambulances and hearses, but not including private passenger cars.

of the reinforced Axis divisions, but one dispatch did say the Ger-mans were superior in number. Russians indicated that about 2,000 Germans had been slain in re-nowned fighting for the workers' set-tlement, still in Soviet hands de-spite a heavy pounding. The Nazi army northwest of Stal-ingrad resorted successfully to an Indian fighting trick to block one of a series of sharp Soviet attacks, dispatches reported. As the Russian troops bore down upon Nazi positions a sea of fire suddenly appeared before them, Red Star said. The Germans had poured fuel over the dry steppe grass. The dis-patch said the fire gave them time to regroup and they then repulsed the Russians. German use of Red army uni-forms as disguises was reported again also, this time from the Moz-dok front. Red Star said a party of Nazi soldiers in Soviet garb, dis-covered attempting to outflank a Russian hill position, was mowed down to the last man by machine guns. Greshia said German parachu-tists landed in the high Caucasus passes and the local mountaineers were helping the Red army men to deal with them. At one place the Russians were said to have come upon a staff headquarters and captured both of-ficers and soldiers. From the Voronezh front on the upper Don came a Red Star dis-patch which declared the Russians had attacked a German-held settle-ment and fortified hill from three sides, driving into the village, tak-ing the hill and moving more than a mile into the fortified depth. Tass said Soviet airmen attacked a convoy carrying troops across the Black Sea from Kerch toward No-rvich, sank two ships and se-riously damaged several others. Several damaged barges equipped for landing operations were destroyed in a raid upon a Nazi-held port, the Russians said. Numerous attacks of the three-division force were repulsed within the workers' settlement, it was an-nounced on the 43rd day of the siege, and the enemy lost about 1,500 officers and men and 14 tanks in these engagements. "Northwest of Stalingrad," the communique said, "Soviet troops fought active operations and im-proved their positions." Fierce fighting was reported for a community in the Mozdok area of the central Caucasus, where the Germans are moving reinforcements in an effort to seize control of the Grozny oil fields. "One Soviet unit repelled four at-tacks by enemy infantry and tanks," the communique said. "In one day they wiped out about 600 Germans and destroyed 12 tanks." Red navy warships were credited with sinking a 10,000-ton Axis transport in the Baltic sea, where they claimed three last week.

Allied ... (Pacific) (Continued from Page One) four more over enemy airfields at Rabaul, New Britain. In the Aleutians, the Nipponese also were paying heavily for foot-holds. American forces which Sat-ana announced occupation of the Andreev group of islands between Dutch Harbor and Kiska, have smashed daily with explosives and incendiaries on the enemy's Kiska camps and hangars. Five Japanese seaplanes were reported shot down. While Japanese broadcasts a week ago told of snow and winds harass-ing their camps in the westernmost Aleutians, American Army bombers reported that an unusual period of good weather aided their raids from bases less than 400 miles from Kiska. Bomber crews also noted two cargo ships had been damaged in attacks in which the results were not observed immediately because of the high altitude from which the bombs were dropped. The ships, which were beached, pushed the total of enemy vessels sunk or dam-aged by air and submarine attack to 38 in the Aleutians. Chief Japanese offensive efforts were confined to the Solomons but met no success except for the noc-turnal landings of small detach-ments. A small force of Japanese bom-bers attempted a raid Tuesday on the Marine Guadalcanal positions but interceptors knocked out four escorting fighter planes and the bombers jettisoned their explosives before reaching the target. Japanese positions at Reketa Bay, about 120 miles north of Guada-lcanal, were bombed and strafed on the same day by American planes. Two enemy seaplanes were destroy-ed and installations set ablaze. A

Germans Hit ... (Continued from Page One) Russian bombers stationed at Baltic bases were declared to have destroyed seven Junkers dive-bombers and damaged 12 others in a raid on a German airfield. The communique said three other Nazi planes were shot down in aerial fights. There was nothing in Soviet dis-patches from Stalingrad to indicate that Russian forces there were not ready to meet any and all assaults force of Navy and Marine dive-bombers accompanied by Army pur-suit planes, raked the enemy on Guadalcanal and raided supply ships.

Two more enemy aircraft were damaged at Reketa Bay the follow-ing day and a munitions dump left in flames by Navy dive-bombers. Attacks were continued throughout the week with damage to one of four destroyers found off Viru Harbor and a small boat set afire near the Greenwicks Islands about 45 miles from Guadalcanal. Another Japanese air attack on Guadalcanal brought destruction of four enemy fighter planes and the bombers were turned back without dropping a bomb.

Continued On Page Three ly. Anderson, he said, kept firing his machine-guns despite his wound and saw tracers going through the Zero. Sergt. F. G. Sickinger of Colum-bus, Ohio, had the closest call. A bullet went through the window and smashed the radio he was operating. Major John House of Rochester, N. Y., brought in a slightly wam-eged fortress after a 30-minute run-ning fight with six Japanese Zeros. Corporal Joseph Bayles of Eta-bena, Miss., a side-gunner, said he got one and possibly another Zero during the fight. "They attacked us at about 24,000 feet and I was busy as a bird dog, firing and reloading my guns, car-rying my portable oxygen bottle in one hand and bullet belts in the other," Bayles said. "I fired all the ammunition I had, but put one good burst into one Zero and saw him spin over crazily out of control." Sergt. Joseph Y. Wateski of Wy-oming, Pa., a tail gunner, told how he hit one Zero. "I saw it come up from under the ship and pass by about 50 yards distant," he said. "I pumped it into him. The Zero seemed to stop dead, then all of a sudden a piece of the plane flew off smoking. I couldn't see more, but anyway I didn't have time with more Zeros buzzing around my head." Medium bombers engaged in the convoy attack were led by Capt. Bud Thompson of Washington, D. C. His flight had a hot time with the Zeros at medium altitude. A little Mexican top gunner, Pedro Chaffino of Vado, New Mex-ico, was on the first mission and got mad when a bullet passed through the turret just back of his head, and he shot down two Zeros. The pilot of his plane, Lieut. Bar-ney Johnson of Fort Worth, Texas, said he could hear Pedro get mad-der and madder as he muttered over the interphone. With many gestures, Pedro told his story: "There were five Zeros after my tail. They were silver-like little planes. They were really coming at me. Got my sights on one and shot him dead as he broke into flames. Before I could say 'my bueno' he hit the water. 'I sure feel good and even Nick is happy.' Nick is a philistine black cocker spaniel who rides between the pilots most of the time, but when the going gets hot he scurries into the bombardier compartment.
