Red Troops Dig In Before Stalingrad

Five German Counter-Attacks Beaten Off; German Officer Says Talk of Taking Stalingrad Is Like Talking Of The Moon

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

The German armies, diverted from the immediate siege of Stalingrad, were reported counter-attacking furiously on their imperilled northwest flank along a 40-mile front between the Don and Volga rivers today, but the Russians said they had beaten off five assaults and entrenched to hold their gains.

Official Soviet quarters declared the Germans had lost 60,000 troops against Russian losses of 21,294 in a battle of the Leningrad front, south of Lake Ladoga.

German claims of having wiped out seven Red army divisions and captured 12,750 troops in fighting around the long-besieged northern metropolis were branded by the Russians as "a new fake of the Hitlerite counterfactuals.... a lie from beginning to end."

Instead, the Germans suffered nearly 5- to 1 in manpower losses, as well as 200 tanks, 260 planes, 244 guns and 400 trench mortars, a Soviet communiqué said.

Inside Stalingrad the battle flowed with apparently unabated intensity.

Dispatches to Leningrad said Red army defenders had withstood what was believed to be Adolf Hitler's supreme bid for a decisive, crushing tank-led attack in the northwest.

Inside the front-line correspondent said the Nazi command threw at least two new divisions into the offensive, aimed at cutting off the city's main artery to the Volga, but that the greater part of the attacks failed utterly while others gained only a few dozen yards.

After more than 36 hours, there was still no indication that Nazi assault troops were being withdrawn, leaving the field to Soviet dive-bombers and big siege guns to blast the metropolis into surrender. The German radio intimated Thursday that this would be done.

With the bloody siege raging into its 47th day, Berlin reporters quoted a German officer as saying: "As Columbus first saw land, so we look toward Stalingrad, of which we are talking as one talks of the moon."

"In three days, we advanced 1,300 yards. Yesterday and today we were only able to turn in our holes in the earth. First we take five houses, then must give up two.... already it is growing cold."

The officer was further quoted as saying that the continued Soviet defense was "a riddle to military experts."

Soviet headquarters said Russian troops had crushed two more attempts by tank-led German rifle-men to break through to the Volga—apparently in a northeast factory district, site of the great Stalin tank (Continued on Page Six)

AIRMAN BLAST RABAU BASE

Sixty Tons Bombs Dropped On Jap Supplies

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur's airmen lashed out last night at the Japanese supply base at Rabaul, New Britain, dropping 60 tons of explosive and incendiary bombs among enemy supply dumps, barracks and jetties in the largest single air raid yet attempted in the southwest Pacific by Allied heavy bombers.

The raid started fires that were visible for 80 miles and underlined the statement of Navy Secretary Knox yesterday that the United States was on the offensive in the Pacific.

Australian ground forces meanwhile were pushing into "the gap" in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea in pursuit of retreating Japanese troops.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported that "our forward elements have established contact with the enemy's patrols in the Myola-Templeton's crossing area." This area includes the gap, 6,000 feet up in the mountains, from which the trail drops sharply toward the enemy's advance base at Kokoda, a spokesman said.

It was the first time in two weeks that Allied Forces had been reported in direct contact with the retreating Japanese. A spokesman said the large concentration of Japanese had been sighted, however.

The spokesman declared the raid on Rabaul was the most destructive ever carried out in this area. The planes, including Flying Fortresses, flew through an intense barrage of anti-aircraft fire at a low altitude to reach the targets.

"Sixty tons of explosives and incendiaries were dropped, scoring direct hits on the Japanese supply dumps, barracks, anti-aircraft and searchlight positions," the communiqué said. All the planes returned.

Seeking to pin down ships, airplanes and supplies which the Japanese might send against the U. S. Marines in the Solomons, bombers under the command of Maj. Gen. George C. Kenney also raided Buika at the extreme northern tip of the Solomons, starting many fires. Again, all the planes returned safely.

The sale is subject to confirmation by the court.

The WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

London, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Hitler's announcement that he has achieved his main objective at Stalingrad and therefore will depend on bombardment rather than infantry to complete the operation of reducing the city would seem to me to cover a much more important issue than appears on the surface.

There is a sound reason in my view to believe he is preparing to weaken his position there by a heavy withdrawal of airpower for other and even more pressing purposes.

His peculiar statement broadcast by a spokesman, obviously was calculated to prepare the German public for a slowing-down of the attack on Stalingrad and perhaps disappointment at the failure to capture this amazing colossus. Probably it also was intended to soften the disclosure of the extent of the huge German losses.

However, it is doubtful that Hitler would so tactically admit the hitting he has been taking were it not for the necessity of making a quick shift in his plans. The only logical move of real magnitude would appear to involve his airforce, the major part of which he has been employing in the bloodiest and biggest siege of history.

My reasons for believing this represents his purpose are: One—The devastating, Anglo-American bombing raids against Nazi war industries and transport systems in western Europe are hitting the Reich in a vital spot and

As U. S. Forces Moved Nearer Jap-Held Kiiska

In a joint operation, the Army and Navy moved U. S. troops, fully equipped to withstand air, land or naval attack, to an island of the Andros Group in the Aleutian chain—125 miles from Japanese-held Kiska. In a convoy, protected by a variety of escort vessels, including aircraft, the troops completed the landing without loss of a man or an attack by the enemy. These pictures tell the story of the landing. Upper left: In the gray fog that usually hovers over that area, landing boats put out for the island from a troop transport. Upper right: Heavily armed troops stand in the bow of a landing boat, ready to step ashore. Lower left: A Jeep rools ashore from a landing lighter. Twenty Axis Planes Shot Down On Egyptian Front

Others Destroyed On Ground And Ship-ping Blasted

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 10 (AP)—American and British airmen shot down or damaged 20 Axis planes in air battles, destroyed many more on the ground, scored near bomb hits on shipping at Bangasi and shot up enemy positions in the forward area of the Egyptian front yesterday in sharply intensified Allied assaults.

The Americans alone made more than a dozen sorties, during which 2nd Lt. William J. Mount of Oswatomie, Kansas, scored the first confirmed victory of an American fighter pilot operating with a unit of the United States Air Force. Mount downed a Messerschmitt-109.

Other American pilots reported two other Messerschmitts downed and another damaged out of the day's bag. They also were credited with destruction of three gun

We criticize the rationing and draft boards, the army, navy and air corps for not conducting this war to suit us, but if we were on the boards we could not do any better than they are doing; and if we had authority in any department of the armed forces we could not improve on what is being done. Graham County Leads Contest

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Graham county, with a population of 5,418, led the state today in the per capita collection of scrap—62.3 pounds. Graham's total collection was 400,000 pounds. Four of the counties have passed the 3,000,000 pound mark, but their per capita collection is much less.

Fifty-four counties have reported. Together they have collected a total of 16,364,621 pounds of scrap metal in the newspaper-sponsored contest.

HEDGES AGAINST INFLATION

Babson Likes The Grocery Chains

New York City, Oct. 10.—With all this talk about inflation there are yet too many investors who do not know what to do. A recent trip to Wall Street convinces me that investors are not fearful of losing the peace, but are afraid of losing the money.

In short, they are worrying about what will happen to their money after the war but are doing nothing about it. This explains why stockbrokers are starving and banks are bulging with money.

Investors Have Responsibilities
People who today are free from debt and yet hide their money in the bank are like the proverbial ostrich which hides his head in the sand. Both are trying to meet impending changes by inaction and refusing even to think. Readers should consider their children and grandchildren. The possession of money is a trust and this trust cannot be avoided by letting the purchasing power of one's money melt away by lying idle in the banks.

This does not mean that your bank will be unable to pay you after the war. Banks are stronger today than ever before. Every dollar you have in the bank will be paid back to you when you need it. But the purchasing power of these dollars is "melting" away every month. The dollars which you have in the bank now will not buy, after the war, what they will buy today.

What To Invest
Then what shall I do with my money? you ask. The answer to this question is to invest first in a good home with enough land for a vegetable garden; second,

FORTRESSES PROVE WORTH

Experts Amazed At Success Of Mass Raid

London, Oct. 10.—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers—home from the greatest Allied daylight attack yet launched against Hitler's war foundry—again have amazed British air experts, who know from grim experience the hazards of daylight operations.

The return of a full four of the 100 United States bombers which stormed over occupied France with an escort of 500 Allied fighter planes yesterday and unloaded tons of bombs on factories and railroad yards apparently erased any lingering doubts concerning the Fortresses. All of the fighters returned safely, it was reported.

British air correspondents said the weight of the American attack far exceeded the best daylight efforts of the Germans during the "blitz" of September, 1940. Fifty German bombers and 200 fighters over England in daylight then constituted a "big raid."

On the last day of the battle of Britain, September 15, 1940, the Germans sent over 500 planes in two groups of 250 each and four of at least 185 of them. The Allied fighters reported shooting down at least five German fighters yesterday and the score of the bombers has not been tallied officially.

None of the German planes used against Britain could carry the loads which the four-motored United States bombers transported to (Continued on Page Two)

Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary of the Greenville Merchants' Association will attend the meeting of State Merchants' Association secretaries at Winston-Salem October 11-13.

Boy Scout Troops Gain New Members

The Greenville District, Boy Scouts of America, shows big membership gain for first nine months of 1942, council released figures show today. During the first nine months the Greenville district troops have recruited a total of 113 new Tenderfoot Scouts, sending the membership to 290 Scouts. The troops recruited at the rate of better than 12 new Scouts per month, which sets a new recruiting record for the year. If the troops continue to set this pace the district will set an all time high for a 12 month period.

The Greenville district is a participating agent with the Greenville Community Chest and 290 present Scouts and a great potential number of eager boys are watching Greenville citizens to see how they will answer their challenge, a Boy Scout official stated.

New Price Ceiling For Farm Products

Temporary ceiling prices have been established by the State Office of Price Administration for 12 "essential food products" and will affect hundreds of agreements between farmers and buyers in North Carolina.

The 12 commodities affected under the ceiling order are milk products, eggs, poultry, mutton, whole chickens, canned and fresh corn, fruit, flour, cake mixes, onions, dry edible beans, corn meal, hominy and grits.

C. W. Sheffield, marketing specialist of the State Department of Agriculture, stated that farmers who sell more than $75 worth of produce a month, to the ultimate consumer, are affected by this order. He urged that farmers and other sellers preserve their records of sales from September 28 through October 2, inclusive, "for the purpose of establishment of a ceiling price for the commodities involved. He reported that complete copies of the temporary order can be secured from A. B. Ockerick, Poultry and Egg Section, Food Price Division, OPA, Washington, D. C.

The OPA ceiling order reads as follows: "From October 5, 1942, to December 31, 1942, inclusive, regardless of any contract, agreement, or other obligation, no person shall sell or deliver a listed food product, and no person in the course of trade or business shall buy or receive a listed food product at a price higher than the maximum price permitted by this temporary regulation No. 22; and no person shall agree, offer, solicit or attempt to do any of the foregoing. Lower prices may be charged, demanded, paid or offered."

My reasons for believing this represents his purpose are: One—The devastating, Anglo-American bombing raids against Nazi war industries and transport systems in western Europe are hitting the Reich in a vital spot and

Enrollment At College 1,021

Final figures for enrollment at the college, which stand at 1,021 at the close of registration, according to Registrar H. J. McGinnis, show a not unanticipated decrease from the 1,240 of last fall. Of this fall's number, 908 are girls and 113 are boys. Around 261 are freshmen, and 49 are transfers from other colleges. The smaller enrollment is the result of a combination of causes—the drafting of men for the armed forces, the decreased allotment of funds for NYA work, and the movement of women into defense work.

However, the first factor has had less effect than authorities had expected. Surprisingly enough, at first glance, the men are only thirty-four fewer in number than the 147 of last fall. The decrease here is nothing like what was anticipated, says Dr. Herbert ReBarker, dean of men. "It is no longer because most of our upperclassmen are members of some unit of the reserves, and are really in service and getting part of their training here."

The nation-wide slash in appropriations for NYA this year has not only decreased the number of students that could be furnished work to help take care of expenses, but has also made smaller the number of hours allowed the individual. Last year saw a decrease of 20 per cent from the 1940-41 amount, and the sum for this year is only 47 per cent as large as that for last year. College authorities say that they consider the enrollment satisfactory in the light of existing circumstances.

MARINE WRITES FROM SOUTH-PACIFIC AREA (By Lucy Cherry Crisp)

Last spring a tall, blonde, quiet-spoken Marine came to come over to the Service Center at the Woman's Club on week-end leaves from New River. One week-end, when he was expected, he did not come. Later, it was known that he had lost a brother who was in the air service.

This week, from Guadalcanal Island, a letter came from Jim Brown, this tall, blonde Marine—addressed to the Woman's Club, but of interest to the many friends Jim made here in Greenville, and of interest, too, to all who in any way are helping to make our local Service Center a "second home" for men in our country's military service. The letter read as follows: Sept. 3, 1942.

To The Second Mothers of the Marine Corps

Dear Folks:

I imagine that you will be surprised to hear from me since I am such a long way off. But since I have the opportunity to write a few letters, here goes.

I am one of the many boys you folks treated so grand when we came to your town on liberty. I want you to know that every one of us deeply appreciated everything you did for us.

We are now located on Guadalcanal Island which is one of the Solomon Islands in the Tulagi area. We did not have a bit of trouble taking it away from the Japs but as you have probably already read, they landed some of their best men and tried to retake it from us. As was to be expected (bragging of course) they did not stand a chance against a bunch of tough and good Marines. So the situation is well in hand.

I know a lot of you folks had some of us boys staying in your homes. (I stayed at Mrs. Skinner's, Mrs. Ty Wagner's, and Mrs. J. H. Blount's). These boys would all appreciate hearing from you.

I cannot remember all of your names, but I do want all of you to know that I sure do miss coming up to spend the week-end with you. I certainly do remember Mrs. Kilgo, Mrs. Louise, and Mr. Kilgo were very well to me.

If you write to any of the boys we are all here, just in different companies.

Yours till we sink the Rising Sun. —Jimmy Brown.

Medical Society Discusses Cases

The Pitt County Medical and Dental Society held its monthly meeting in the Episcopal Parish House Thursday evening. A delicious chicken dinner was provided by the hosts, Dr. T. M. Watson and Dr. M. E. Massey.

Dr. Paul Fitzgerald presided. The formal program consisted of a paper by Dr. Fitzgerald on the subject, "The Present Legal Status of the Learned Professions and What To Do About It." Discussion of the paper was led by Dr. K. B. Pace who at the same time reported the action of the Medical Legislation Committee, of which he was chairman.

Several case reports on "Sterility in the Male" were presented by Dr. Brooks.

The society had as its guests Dr. Harold Johnson and Dr. Curtis Johnson of Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. H. M. Bonner of Morehead City and Greenville, and Mr. C. D. Ward.

Dr. Connell Garrenton of Bethel, who has just returned home from Army service to resume his practice, was welcomed back by the society.

The meeting was exceptionally well attended with the following members present: Drs. M. T. Prizelle, W. I. Wooten, J. L. Winstead, Grady Dixon, M. B. Massey, Paul Fitzgerald, M. McK. Johnson, Joseph Smith, K. B. Pace, Alfred Schultz, J. D. Hemmingsway, S. M. Crisp, D. L. Moore, Paul Fitzgerald, J. M. Mewborn, P. E. Jones, T. M. Watson, Connell Garrenton, T. G. Basnight, F. P. Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—A Jap Zero plane, forced down in the Aleutians, has been repaired at the Naval Air Station at San Diego and soon will be flown to the capital for performance tests.

Preliminary tests on the west coast have shown, the Navy said yesterday, that the ship developed a speed of nearly 300 miles an hour, less than that of the best United States fighters.

Nazi Death Rate High

London, Oct. 10 (AP)—Germany's death rate from infectious diseases, particularly in heavily bombed cities is rising rapidly, the Lancet said today.

The British Medical Journal reported that the German infant mortality rate in large cities was its highest since 1922.

Eakes Back...

on the Falkland Highway near the city, Eakes was connected with the Imperial Tobacco Company here in the early 1920's.

The British-American Tobacco Company sent him to China. He learned the Chinese language and speaks it fluently. For a number of years he has been connected with a Chinese tobacco company and was stationed at Tientsin, in an interior province. Eakes has visited this country once or twice since he first went to China. When he came back the other day Eakes was impressed with the growth and development of Greenville and the improvement in the quality of the tobacco grown in Pitt county.

Eakes suffered some hardships while the Japanese were making war on the Chinese. He has visited many provinces in the country. After the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and captured Shanghai, Eakes was restricted like other Allied Nations' subjects. He went from Shanghai to Shanghai, where he embarked on the Gripsholm, Swedish neutral refugee ship, for home. He was on the same steamer with Ambassador Grew and the American diplomatic party. Their steamer landed at Portuguese West Africa to take on more exchange refugees and they landed in New York.

Eakes went to Richmond, Va., today, to confer with officials of the tobacco company he represents in China.

The tobaccoists—nearly all of them are now out of China, but Eakes expects to be sent back by the government as an interpreter. He speaks the Chinese language fluently and is familiar with a score or more of the provincial dialects.

Fortresses...

Little yesterday. The Fortresses can carry three tons of bombs, the Liberator four.

The Liberator is faster than the Fortresses, but are not as formidable fighting craft as the fortresses, which have proved themselves kings of the air in daylight operations. The Liberator crews claimed the destruction of seven Nazi fighters for the loss of one of their own planes.

Fighter pilots call the American bombers "fat bait" eyes put up for the German air force because the Germans send up all available planes to stop them. The RAF and American fighters then get a chance at the German fighters.

In recent months the RAF has tried everything in sweeps to entice the German fighters into combat, but the only serious challenge was during the Dieppe raid.

The German radio broadcast a threat of "reprisals" for the American raid last night, but there was no elaboration. The German high command earlier had issued a communique claiming the destruction of 16 Allied aircraft, "some" of them Fortresses.

The Air Ministry of Home Security said in a joint communique today that "nothing is to be reported" last night. It was assumed that bad weather over the continent prevented the RAF from resuming its bombing of German targets during the night.

Claim Sinking Merchant Ships

Berlin (From German Broadcast), Oct. 10 (AP)—The German high command announced in a special communique today that 12 merchant ships had been sunk off Capetown, South Africa, by German submarines.

Other U-boats, the communique said, sank ten ships off Capetown and Pretoria, West Africa, off the South American coast and in the St. Lawrence Gulf of the North Atlantic.

There was no confirmation of claims from any other source. The communique did not give the period this report was intended to cover.

Death Sentences

Berlin (From German Broadcast), Oct. 10 (AP)—A Tokyo dispatch said today 14 persons had been sentenced to death by a Japanese court martial in the Philippines on charges of participating in "anti-Japanese activity and spreading enemy propaganda."

Leaf Prices...

Heavy sales are anticipated again for Monday's sales after which it is expected that sales will be much lighter.

Sixty-Eight Degrees.

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—Federal Works Administrator Philip B. Fleming today fixed 68 degrees as the basic temperature for the winter for the nation's federal buildings.

Fuel oil rationing to householders in the 30-state rationing area is based on a daytime temperature of 65 degrees.

Freighter Sunk.

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Navy announced today that a medium-sized Norwegian merchant ship had been sunk by combined torpedo and shell fire attack by an enemy submarine in the mid-Atlantic during August but that the entire 30-man crew escaped safely.

Chapter 20

After The Destruction

Pete and Julie were destined to wait long hours before they could even begin to untangle the twist of events. Although the fire was under control now, it would be daylight before they could venture back into the valley.

And when dawn finally did pink the sky, the cruel waste of the night's ravaging fire lay everywhere around them.

"They'll have to pay for this," Pete growled savagely as they picked their way carefully down the hill toward the site of the Kelland cabin. "Another item on the account the dirty snobs started at Pearl Harbor. If you're right about the tail villain, Julie," his fists clenched, the muscle along his jaw tightened, "we'll make him pay part of it!"

A steep climb brought them to the brow of a hill, showed them the next stream-valley. Straight down a blackened slope dropping away from them to the tiny stream below, they could see what was left of the Kelland cabin. The stone foundation, the charred skeleton of the house, all else was in ashes.

For a long moment, they stared, trying to believe that the empty, blackened shell below had only yesterday been a lovely summer home, eaves-deep in green shrubbery, half-hidden by tall pines. Denuded now, the whole scene told a grim story.

"Ghastly," Julie murmured and shook tears out of her eyes. Then, remembering suddenly, "Where are the others?"

"Safe—I hope!" Pete started down toward the road, a white streak far below. "At least all the cars are gone. They must have found a way out."

"Look!" Julie pointed to tire tracks in the white dust. "They must have gone on up this way."

Pete grinned, followed the tire tracks. "It was used last night, all right. Lucky for—"

"There they are!"

Dawn Lost

Coming toward them slowly, trailing a cloud of dust, moved four automobiles. Julie called, waved. A moment later the first car drew up beside her. Bart at the wheel.

"Thank Heaven you're safe," he said instantly, his white face grimy, his eyes deep-circled, blood-shot. "Where's Dawn?"

Julie stared at him. "Isn't she with you?"

Bart sprang from the car, grasped her shoulders. "Don't tell me you haven't seen her, Julie. Where is she?"

"Don't lose your head, Bart," Pete said quietly. "That's no help."

"But she must be with you!" Bart insisted frantically.

"Tell us when you saw her last, Bart," Julie suggested calmly, extricating herself from his cruel grasp on her shoulders.

"She was with us when we decided we'd have to abandon the house," Bart moistened dry lips nervously. "She told me to drive on ahead, that she'd follow in the last car."

"I was driving the last car out," one of the men spoke up, shook his head. "Didn't even see her."

"Well, perhaps she didn't want to alarm you unduly and had decided to risk getting to the lookout station to phone for help, or something," Pete concluded a little weakly.

But his calm took effect on the weary little group. They clung to his matter-of-factness like shipwrecked sailors to a raft, instantly obeyed his suggestion that all return to town as quickly as possible, telephone word back if Dawn were not at home yet.

Julie roused when Pete carried her from the car to the house. She was grateful to Hulda for a warm bath, for being bundled into bed. And, at last, immediately in-to deep, child-like sleep.

When she awakened it was six o'clock. Morning or evening? She sat up, rubbed her eyes, unbelieving. She'd slept nearly fifteen hours!

Thrusting bare toes into soft white mules, she ran down stairs, pulling on her robe as she went. Hulda was just setting the table for breakfast.

"Hulda! Why did you let me sleep so long! What has happened? Who called? Are there any messages?"

The stolid Norwegian woman smiled calmly. "Just call yourself how, Miss Joolie. Nothing has happened. And nobody left any messages for you. So just come eat your breakfast like a nice girl."

But Julie dashed on into the library, matched up the phone, Mr. Kelland himself answered. No Dawn had not returned from her week-end trip as yet. He was expecting her this morning.

Obviously he didn't know about the fire. Obviously he wasn't worrying about Dawn. It was better so.

No Trace of Dawn

Then she called the Fowler home. A maid answered.

"Mr. Fowler is not in."

"Is he at the plant, do you know?" Julie asked.

"Mr. Fowler is not in," the girl repeated stupidly, and hung up.

Exasperated, Julie called the shipyard office. No luck. Mr. Fowler, Jr., was out of town.

Didn't anybody know there'd been a fire! That Dawn Kelland had disappeared! This time she called Bart, got a sleep.

"Oh, hello, Julie. Heard anything about Dawn yet?"

"Haven't you?"

"Only that Pete called the ranger station and nobody'd seen her. They've got searching parties out now, combing the mountains."

"When did they start?"

"Last night. Soon after we got back."

"Pete too?" she asked anxiously.

"Yes. I'm going up this morning to relieve him."

And she had slept peacefully through it all. "I'll go with you, Bart."

"Oh no you won't. Pete left strict orders that you were not to come." Bart's voice sharpened strangely. "He wants you to break the news to Kelland in case we don't find Dawn today."

"They'll find her, all right," she said, with more confidence than she really felt.

"Oh, Julie, they've got to find her. Poor little kid."

Bart's anxiety betrayed him. He'd always been in love with her, whether he knew it or not.

Dr. Tom was just coming down stairs as she returned to the hallway.

"Hello, miss. Understand you've been fighting forest fires," he said carelessly enough but his eyes were grave with worry. "You all right now?"

She nodded. "But we can't find Dawn," and rapidly sketched details of the events of the past 24 hours. Of the tall, mysterious stranger, however, she prudently said nothing.

"Good. Kelland will be a crazy man. He adores that girl."

"Oh, Pete will find her all right," and automatically ate the food Hulda set before her.

Pete called just as she was ready to leave for the office.

"We can't find her, Julie,"—his voice came wearily across the wire. "Personally, I don't think they'll find her, now."

"You mean—alive?"

Pete didn't answer for a moment. "I'll tell you later. Picked up a few new angles. Will you tell Kelland as much as you think wise?"

Julie drew a long breath. "Yes, of course."

"Good. See you later."

"Bye." Slowly, Julie replaced the receiver. To tell a man, already stricken, that his only child had disappeared, dead, perhaps, or even worse!

WITH SAILS UNFURLED
Hudson Taylor, a great religious figure who lived some years ago, was a firm believer in prayer. It seems that on his way out to found the China Inland Mission, the ship on which he had taken passage was becalmed. The captain came to Taylor and informed him that the ship was not only becalmed but drifting with the current, which would soon cause it to be wrecked on the shores of an island inhabited by a savage tribe. "I am told that God answers your prayers," said the captain to Mr. Taylor, "and I wish you would pray for wind."

Taylor agreed to do so provided only that the captain would get his sails unfurled. To this the captain objected, saying that there would be plenty of time to attend to the sails when the wind started to blow, and to unfurl them beforehand would make him look foolish in the eyes of his men. But Taylor was obstinate. He would not pray until the sails were unfurled, and the captain, still protesting that Taylor's request was unnecessary and ridiculous, at last agreed. Within three-quarters of an hour a breeze sprang up and the huge ship commenced her course.

Taylor always believed that when one prayed for anything he should manifest his faith by having everything prepared to receive the gift when God saw fit to give it. He felt that too often people prayed for wind with their sails furled.

WHY ALL THE TAXIS?

One of the headaches of the local rationing board is the large number of taxicabs in Greenville, each clamoring for extra gasoline. There are at this time 35 taxis licensed in the county, 27 of them being in Greenville. We realize that there is a great deal less private driving since the rationing became effective, but for the life of us we can't see the need of 27 taxis in Greenville, when under the regulations they are not supposed to operate a distance of more than 25 miles from the city. The fact that there is no apparent need for so many taxis leads one to the belief that a thorough investigation might prove worthwhile. There is a pretty general belief that many taxis are being operated in this community for immoral purposes and if such is the case some action should be taken to put a stop to it.

IT'S YOUR WAR, TOO

Today was another payday for a lot of residents of this community. If you are one of those who received a pay envelope today, did you or are you going to put a part of it in War Bonds or Stamps? This war is being fought for your benefit just as much as for the other fellow's and our men who are sacrificing their lives at the front are dying for you. One of your jobs here on the home front is to buy bonds to help the government finance the war. You expect to be protected. How about your part?

The Steppes Of Russia

LET'S MAKE IT A BIG WEEK

Sure, we are right after you again about getting in that old scrap metal, for you don't need it and if our government ever needed anything it needs scrap metal now. This is essential to keep our steel mills running and they must continue to run if our men on the fighting fronts are to have the weapons with which to fight, and if we are to have the ships on which to transport the men and supplies. Our county has made a good showing in the state-wide scrap drive this week, but we haven't done near as well as we could have done had everyone given it a little more time and effort. Let's get set for a big week next week and bring our county up to the top in the standings of the 100 counties in the state. Remember the metal is not officially counted until it is sold to a junk dealer or the county scrap yard, so let's get those piles now collected at different spots in the county turned in where it can be counted.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington.—If there is any doubt what influence the "will of the people" exercises on legislation, just recall the Senate action on the anti-inflation bill.

In spite of the President's ultimatum that some satisfactory anti-inflation legislation would have to be passed immediately, the Senate farm bloc was in the saddle.

In the early days of the battle, it appeared that the farm bloc, with its Thomas amendment ordering a redefinition of parity prices, couldn't be defeated. Then on a single week-end the farm bloc balloon collapsed. The so-called "compromise" amendment was passed with only four dissenting votes and the original anti-inflation bill, sponsored by Administration legislators, was voted unanimously—82 to 0.

Back of this is another one of those heartening stories of the triumph of our democratic system. It is as cumbersome as an ox-cart on a superhighway. Often it appears just about that ridiculous. But whenever it tangles with any subject that arouses the real interests or ire of the public, it whips into line with the speed and drive of a modern tank.

As a matter of fact, the farm bloc fight collapsed even before the favorable vote on the Thomas parity amendment. That vote was "for the record"—proof in print that the senators who have to face their farm constituents had done their best.

Proponents of the amendment knew already that they were beaten.

en. Why? Because the mail bags day after day gave proof of two things: (1) That the public in general was almost four-square back of the President in demanding legislation that would halt the spiraling cost of living; (2) That the farmers themselves weren't "het up" about a redefinition of parity. One of the big four farm organizations was, in fact, fighting with the Administration.

Sitting here in Washington watching the often tedious, day-to-day, hour-after-hour maneuvering, the cloakroom and "for-the-record" politicking, it's easy to lose sight of the effectiveness of that intangible something called "public demand." But old timers here, hashing over the Senate anti-inflation battle are saying again what they have said many times since this national emergency arose: Never before has public opinion been so quickly effective in ramming legislation through.

Actually, the anti-inflation scrap in the Senate, in spite of all the thunderheads, was a pretty tame affair on the surface. Except for the masterful speech in which Senator Prentiss M. Brown (D-Mich.) introduced the Administration bill of which he was co-author, and the calm plea of Majority Leader Alben Barkley, there were no real verbal fireworks. A few of the senators, like George, Hatch, Ellender, Danaher and "Cotton Ed" Smith, did toss around a few sparklers, but there was nothing that could be called a display.

The old mail bags had carried the word. Fireworks aren't popular this war.

Five—Indications are that the Nazi chief hopes to be able to drive eastward along the foothills of the Caucasus mountain range to the Caspian Sea in an effort to cut the Russian transport line from the Persian Gulf. This would call for more air power since the Reds have been holding well in that area.

Six—Apart from all these considerations, there is one which basically is of even more pressing importance. Hitler must at once begin to prepare for the great war of the air which most certainly will be waged next spring over western Europe. That battle is likely to determine the course of the war and the length of time it will last.

Hitler's air losses in Russia have been terrific. In addition, he has had his first line warplanes in such constant action that his entire fleet is badly in need of rest and overhauling.

It will take him from now until spring to repair the damage and replace the losses. Indeed it's quite likely the intervening six months won't give him the time he needs especially since he may be called upon to conduct large-scale operations, both defensive and offensive, during the next few months.

The cold fact is that Hitler made a grand contribution to the Allied cause when he tied such a great portion of his airforce to infantry operations in the Caucasus.

Of course, he is gambling greatly at a decisive moment in the war. If he made a quick kill and swept down through the Caucasus to the Middle East, thereby securing the oil and other supplies and threatening the whole structure of the British hold on the Mediterranean, he would have gone far toward winning the war.

On that basis history may say his Russian gamble was justified but the fact remains that in the exertions of his now-or-never spring the Fuehrer has spiked himself badly.

Warehouse Men, Business Men, And Agricultural Leaders Of Pitt County Endorse Farm Bureau Membership Drive

The Pitt County Farm Bureau with only one township making a final report has exceeded the 1941 membership and today has the largest organization that we have had in the past five years. We are the world's largest tobacco county and the entire economy of Pitt County is built around tobacco. We cannot protect tobacco working as an individual. We must have an organization. We are rejoicing at the prices that we are receiving today, but remember these prices have been brought about by a planned program supported by national legislation. We have developed crop control which keeps the supply in line with demand; in addition to this, in 1941, through the 85 per cent parity loan we have established a minimum price or floor on flue cured tobacco. These two fundamental gains must be preserved to protect us in the period of readjustment that will take place at the conclusion of this war.

You can do your part today by giving your membership to the Pitt County Farm Bureau. County and community leaders can assist in the membership work by

EDWARD A. O'NEAL
President, American Farm Bureau

Edward A. O'Neal for 20 years has fought for parity income for the farmers of our nation.

Today, a hostile Metropolitan Press and organized consumer groups are calling farmers unpatriotic because we are asking for a fair share of the income for the fruits of our labor.

Are we farmers here in North Carolina who have profited to the tune of millions of dollars out of the labors of this man going to sit down and do nothing about this unfair attack?

Edward A. O'Neal led the fight that put the floor under the prices of your cotton, tobacco, potatoes, peanuts, pork, soybeans, and other agricultural commodities.

Compare your prices today with those of a few years ago. Remember too, in those years you had a World Market. Today you are getting these prices when most of the world markets are closed to your products.

ARE WE UNPATRIOTIC?

Ed O'Neal says of all the groups of the nation the farmers are the only ones that cannot be accused of having "too little too late." We work long hours, compete with War Industry for our labor; our sons are in the armed forces; we buy War Stamps and Bonds; with rationed farm machinery and fertilizer, we have produced and are going to produce the food and fiber necessary to win this war.

The farmers of the nation will never strike for shorter hours or higher wages so long as a single American boy remains in the trenches.

Why are we unpatriotic when we ask for a fair price for our crops when Labor is getting the highest prices in history and industry is operating on a cost plus basis? Inflation will ruin the farmer and the nation, but how can we control inflation so long as Labor and industry are left out of price-fixing? It costs the laboring man in comparison with his income to live the lowest percentage of his income in the past 30 years.

How Will North Carolina Answer This Unfair Attack On Agriculture?

Since this attack started, the farmers of the West and Midwest have rallied behind Mr. O'Neal with a wartime membership that is now soaring to an all time record. North Carolina can answer by giving Mr. O'Neal 20,000 Farm Bureau Members from September 5th to November 30th. WE MUST ACT NOW!

WHAT IS THE EDWARD A. O'NEAL PARITY CLUB?

One thousand North Carolina Farm Leaders who dedicate themselves to fight for the parity principles for Agriculture; who will not quit work on their farms so long as our nation is imperiled; and who pledge themselves to make whatever sacrifices that are necessary to win the fight for Freedom.

HOW MAY I QUALIFY FOR MEMBERSHIP?

1. Join the Farm Bureau myself and secure the membership of at least nine other farmers or business men before November 30, 1942.
2. Write a personal letter to my Congressman (mailing duplicate to Box 1857, Greensboro, N. C.), asking him to include Labor and Industry in all price-fixing laws that include Agriculture.
3. Write a personal letter to Edward A. O'Neal, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., pledging my support in his valiant fight for the American Farmer.
4. All memberships solicited by me will be turned in to the County Farm Bureau Treasurer in time to be transmitted to the State Farm Bureau Office before midnight November 30th.

We, the following Warehousemen, Farmers, and Businessmen in Pitt County, do hereby endorse the Edward A. O'Neal Parity Club and pledge our support to him and the American Farm Bureau Federation in their fight for parity income to the American Farmer. We urge you to give your Farm Bureau membership today to some worker in the county.

New York, Oct. 10.—Football may or may not be the best preparation for war, but it's a cinch nothing else short of war gets the boys steamed up quite as much as the gridiron game. . . . Right now there is an argument in the pro league over whether Referee Bobbie Oahn blew a slow or fast whistle in last week's Packers-Cardinals game; the eastern coaches are hot up about Harvard's shift and North Carolinians are protesting mildly because Rice waited until about ten days before their game was scheduled to call it off because of "transportation difficulties." . . . Incidentally, a Clemson-Carolina game may be substituted for Rice-Carolina if a quick conversation between Jim Tatum and Frank Howard in a local railroad station goes any farther.

If we are in for a long war, their advice is temporarily good. Those who buy "ralls" today, however, are gambling on the length-of-the-war and I do not believe in gambling. I had rather buy even the stocks of certain utilities which are now being so unmercifully persecuted. Some day they will receive justice; they are in a growing business; and they are not "tied, bound and shackled" by labor unions as utilities require comparatively little labor.

Remember To Diversify

Of course, the safest policy of all is to diversify your investments among many companies and many industries. Don't get "hipped" on anything or anybody. The United Nations will win this war. The United Nations will win this war. The present economic system, with private property as a base, will continue. The rationing, price-fixing, labor eating, etc., which may be necessary today, are ultimately to result in the New Deal's downfall. The surest bet of all is that some day the Republicans will return to power with a landslide!

My father used to have a printed card on his desk reading: "The time to buy is when no one else wants to buy." This—in my judgment—especially now applies to timid American investors. This is no time to rush to the banks and leave them your money just because others are doing it. This is a cowardly thing to do. I believe it is more patriotic, more profitable and more safe to put this money to work; but diversify and keep out of debt.

Two More Facts
1. The $8,500,000,000 which the Senate tax bill provides is in addition to the $17,000,000,000 which we are already paying in federal taxes. Even this makes a total of only $25,500,000,000 or about one third the 1943 annual cost of World War II to the United States. Surely inflation is inevitable.

2. The industrial average for leading stocks listed on the London Stock Exchange now stands at about 85 which is the highest figure since

Mighty and Eternal is their story... An unforgettable living experience

Richard Llewellyn's HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY with WALTER PIDGEON MAUREEN O'HARA

SAILOR SAYS 'NOT SO BAD' Gentry Porter Tells Of Life On Board Ship

The high morale of the men serving in Uncle Sam's fleet is set forth in a letter recently received by Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Porter, of Simpson, from their son, Gentry S. Porter who is on sea duty somewhere in the Pacific.

"I hear the boatswain's mate passing a rumor that mail will leave in the near future, so I will include a brief report on myself. I am filled with good intentions to write you more often but I am fuller of good excuses. During the rare occasions when the weather is bad, I don't write on account of the bad weather. When it is fair, the hot sun enhances my natural inclination to be lazy and sleepy. My eight or more hours a day on watch add the finishing touches. I watch mostly for the little men who aren't there but the captain insists that they may be there any time. Anyway when the WALKER spots them, they won't be there long.

"Notwithstanding all this I frequently get out my paper and pen and drape my elbows over a mess table in a threatening manner. I think of you and wonder what you're doing. I listen to half a dozen shipmates arguing about the whiteness of what. I reflect that this is a big wet ocean, that we've been at sea so long the salt is cake in my hair, that this business about merrymaking is a lot of hokum, that seeing the world would be nice if it wasn't all water, that mail and Christmas comes with about the same frequency, and that the war will be over in six months to ten years. I day dream about shore liberty in a good old U. S. A. port where there are a hundred pretty girls to one sailor, nothing costs over a dime, and we with three months pay on the books. O'K! Boy!

About that time my literary efforts are interrupted by that leather-lunged whistle blower, the Boatswain's Mate, yelling that it's time for drill, battle stations, chow, target practice, movies, inspection, field day, air bedding, sweep down, peep spuds, scrub decks, fuel ship, carry stores, dump garbage, darken ship, pump bilges, blow tubes, pipe down, relieve the watch or what have you. Whereupon I sheath my pen and go to work, eat, or sleep as the case may be without having written a word of the thoughts, hopes, fears, facts, fun, fiction, ambitions, dreams and inanities that were in my mind. It may be just as well as the censor would probably have crossed them out anyway.

"The navy is a great life all right. I'm getting so used to living with two hundred men in enough space for two that when get out I can find a telephone booth for a house and lot. However, it could be worse. We have good weather, good chow, good health, good guns, good digestion, good appetite, and may God forget that leather lunged whistle blower, the Boatswain's Mate.

"While I can't exactly say that I'm having a swell time and wish you were here, I hope you are well, and wish I was there. In the meantime don't worry about me as I can take care of myself and two other guys and I'm doing all right. At least I am well and O. K.

Red Troops ...

The Russians also declared that a Red army force encircled for several days had escaped the German ring after a hard battle and had taken up defense posts in a nearby workers' settlement. This may have been the same force which the German high command asserted had been trapped, cut in two and "annihilated."

Airmen Blast ...

(Continued On Page Three) Guinea and one formation dropped 16 tons of bombs on Japanese supply dumps, airdromes and other installations at Lae. Smoke and debris from the explosions rose hundreds of feet, the communique said. Japanese planes made no attempt to intercept the Allied aircraft, but the anti-aircraft fire was heavy.

In the Tanibar islands north of Australia, Allied fliers attacked a merchant vessel, which had been damaged earlier off Saumlaki, "completing its destruction," the communique said.

Clubs Hold ...

The speaker suggested that people should do more praising and less criticizing of war activities. "The more we do on the home front to back up the men in the armed forces, the sooner we will win the war and have our men back home to carry out their life's work," he said.

Prof. Deal's philosophic and practical outlook on the war situation was interesting. He related some of his experiences with rationing boards and with one of his farm tenants who walked, or rather rode, out on him with all of the profits. His message to the Kiwanians and Ruritan was timely and serious. His suggestion of better support for war agencies was well received and tended to eliminate some of the grouches held against them for things that cannot be helped.

Prof. Deal interspersed his after-dinner speech with numerous humorous anecdotes and owed up to the yarn Marvin Bloom told in introducing him, about the meaning of the word "auditorium," and drew applause when he told of Dr. Robert Boyd using a barometer instead of a thermometer to find out if he had a fever. Deal's talk was so humorous, so informative and entertaining that a phonograph recording would be necessary to pass it along to those who did not hear him.

Fred Stokes, chairman of the Interclub Relations Committee, and Claude Ward had charge of the program.

Ray Oglesby, president of the Ruritan Club, presented I. H. Mobley, vice-president, and Secretary Wardell Worthington and the members of his club. Club singing, led by Berry Bostic, featured the meeting. Mrs. Ray Tyson was accompanist.

Misses Lorraine Pritchard and Estelle Davis, E. C. T. C. students, announced the concerts to be held at the college during the winter.

Sergeant H. J. Jolly of Winterville, who was at Hickman Field in Hawaii, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, was a special guest.

The Kiwanians will observe "Charter Night" next Friday. It will also be ladies' night. Ell Bloom, Charles Blair, Charley Flye and Claude Ward will have charge of the program. In announcing the special meeting Bloom suggested that the Kiwanians bring some article of junk, metal or rubber, and their wives. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock.

J. Hicks Corey announced that the Kiwanis Club and the American Legion are sponsoring a booth at the Pitt County Fair to sell War Stamps and Bonds.

Claude Ward, J. W. H. Roberts and Dick Bundy are delegates to the Carolinas Kiwanis District convention at Pinehurst on October 26-28. Don Conley, Fred Stokes and Herman Duncan are alternates.

Twenty Axis ...

In a noon attack United States bombers blasted Bangkok harbor, unloading their bombs without a single enemy plane rising to the challenge. All these raiders returned safely.

Then American medium bombers swept far behind the frontlines to attack enemy ground positions and airdromes. They fought over a dozen Messerschmitts and all the raiders came back.

A British communique said that all told 10 Axis fighters were downed.

In addition to 10 enemy fighters

Explosives and cannon shells loosed by light bombers and long-range fighters destroyed the locomotive of a German-Italian train and ammunition cars were blown
