SHOWDOWN BATTLE FOR SOLOMONS

Russians Repulse Series Nazi Jabs At Stalingrad

Five German Counter-Attacks Along Forty Mile Front Beaten Back; Fighting Settles Down To Small Forays; Little Change Reported From Caucasus Sector

By HENRY C. CASSIDY Moscow, Oct. 15.—(AP) The battle of Stalingrad was deadlocked today in comparatively small scale actions with every probing thrust by German tanks and infantry reported repulsed.

Red army lines remained stable. The Germans buried additional men on the approaches to a workers' settlement in Stalingrad's northwestern suburbs, the fallen of assaults which failed to reach the factories forming the backbone of the defense.

Although the invaders are using far smaller forces than they employed in the earlier Stalingrad offensive, the army newspaper Red Star said they had concentrated a considerable group of infantry and tanks in an effort to occupy the northern quarter.

The noon communique said attacks by Nazi armored and infantry forces were turned back and Russian artillery fire wiped out parts of two German battalions.

Thus, as the freezing cold which already has set in from the Arctic to Moscow creeps southward toward the Volga basin and the Caucasus, the Russians reported the Stalingrad situation unchanged for the third successive day.

Military observers expressed the belief that the lull in German activity may be to re-equip the Nazi forces for a winter campaign and avoid the disastrous reverses of last year when winter and Soviet counter-offensives caught them unprepared.

The Germans probably have found it necessary also to reorganize units worn out by the Red army's resistance, they said.

Five German counter-attacks were repulsed northwest of Stalingrad and about 300 Germans were killed, the communique said.

A minor tank penetration of Russian lines in the Mosdok area of the central Caucasus was acknowledged, but the communique said Red army men subsequently beat off attacks of German infantrymen upon a height and killed about 400 of the enemy. Russian fliers aided the defenders.

"Soviet airmen destroyed seven German tanks and 40 trucks and, in air combats, four enemy planes were brought down," it was announced.

The Soviet Information Bureau announced that the fighting yesterday caused no significant changes at the front.

German thrusts were repelled both at Stalingrad and northwest of the city, the midnight communique reported. It said "battles of local importance continued," but the details indicated that these—in contrast to the clash of whole army corps as late as last week-end—were little more than skirmishes.

(A Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Express said Col. Gen. Franz Halder, chief of the German general staff, was reported dismissed four weeks ago because of Nazi party displeasure over his recommendation that the invasion army drop its Russian offensive and consolidate positions for the coming winter.)

Appointment of two deputy commissioners of defense to assist Premier Stalin was announced in Moscow, a sequel to the decree last week abolishing the political commissar system within the Red army and vesting its authority in the military command.

The appointees are Alexander Sichevskiy, who had been chief of the Soviet Information Bureau, and Col. Gen. A. R. Vassilovsky.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAP

376,865 Pounds Pitt county's scrap collections in the North Carolina Newspaper scrap contest were officially reported today as 376,865 pounds, a per capita average of 4.15 pounds, but Publicity Chairman S. Mr. Underwood has been away from the city on business for several days and has been unable to make a complete check of the official receiving stations.

Still Hauling For three days trucks have been busy hauling scrap from Choccoland High School to the official counting station and indications were today that it would take through tomorrow to complete the task. Up to last night 58,620 had already been hauled from the school's huge scrap pile.

MALTA FIGHT COSTS NAZIS British Bag 81 Planes; U. S. Bombers Blast Tobruk

Cairo, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The aerial battle of Malta, stumbling block on the Axis convoy route to Africa, has cost Germany and Italy at least 81 planes since Sunday, it was disclosed today. At the same time the U. S. army headquarters announced a new blow against Tobruk harbor, a daylight assault by heavy bombers yesterday in which two direct hits were scored on a large merchantman.

A lighter alongside the merchant vessel was said to have been demolished by another merchantman. The raid was carried out yesterday, a communique said. British fighters shot down 23 Axis planes over Malta yesterday, engaging most of the raiders before they were able to do any damage. A joint communique of the RAF and British Middle East headquarters said today.

Air activity over the Egyptian battle front was reported on a reduced scale, but Allied fighter-bombers attacked Axis targets in the Salum area and at El Daba, it was announced, and two direct hits were reported on a large merchant vessel in a daylight raid on shipping at Tobruk harbor. The 23 Axis planes downed over Malta were among a total of at least 81 reported bagged at that island stronghold since Sunday. The communique said the day's victims were 12 bombers and 11 fighters.

All the raiders were engaged before they reached the island and the damage inflicted by those which managed to get through the fighter screen was slight, it was announced. "Our aircraft losses were five Spitfires, but three of the pilots are safe," the communique said. (The Italian high command declared Axis fliers shot down 25 British planes over Malta yesterday and did not mention the loss of any Axis aircraft.)

Killed In Action Rome (From Italian Broadcasts) Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Italian high command announced today that General Alessandro Prodi, commander of the Italian "Brescia" division, had been killed in action on the Egyptian front on October 13. The announcement gave no details, but paid tribute to the courage demonstrated by both Prodi and his troops.

RAF BOMBERS RENEW RAIDS

Light Naval Engagement in Channel Reported

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The RAF kept up its daylight offensive against northern France today when, the second successive afternoon, strong bomber and fighter forces swept across the channel. American-built Mustang fighters of the RAF attacked railway facilities in Holland and damaged three small Axis vessels off the coast yesterday afternoon, the Air Ministry announced today.

None of the Mustangs was lost in the forays, which coincided with a series of offensive sweeps over northern France by Spitfires and Beaufighters. The Spitfires were credited with damaging two enemy minesweepers off the French coast and shooting up a railway workshop near Lannion, while the Beaufighters were reported to have strafed two Axis E-boats.

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A heavily-escorted German supply ship described as important, was sunk in the English Channel early Wednesday by British light naval forces, the Admiralty announced today. Two of the escorting vessels were damaged severely by gunfire, the Admiralty said. It reported that in a separate naval clash near the channel island of Guernsey one German E-boat was blown up and a torpedo boat was damaged.

(The German high command said "one of our own vessels was lost" in the channel fight, but claimed that a British "artillery" torpedo-boat was sunk and five motor torpedo-boats were damaged.)

HEAVY RAID OVER RABAUL

Somewhere in New Guinea, Oct. 14.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Flying fortresses left the whole airframe area alight with fire early today in the fourth heavy pounding they have dealt about Japan's key base on New Britain, in eight days, returning fliers said. It took scarcely more time to do it than it takes to tell.

The lead plane dropped flares which lit up Lakanal and Vunukunau airfields, flanking Rabaul's crescent-shaped harbor. The other fortresses winged over, dropped their cargoes of destruction square on the illuminated targets and then they all came home.

The returning fliers, shaking the links out of their cramped-up legs after the 1,000-mile round trip, said that no enemy fighters molested them and that both searchlight and anti-aircraft fire were weaker than they had encountered on the three previous raids since Oct. 5.

The whole force returned without a scratch on a ship or a man. Lieut. Al Progar of Springdale, Pa., who piloted the flare plane said, "We made our run over the targets unloading bombs and then started dropping flares."

Rabaul was well blacked out, he said, but he saw several fires around the base "mostly likely lit by the Japanese to confuse our bombers, but they were too obvious even from (Continued on Page Six)

Both Sides Marshal Land, Sea And Air Forces For Desperate Struggle For Import Island Bases; Planes Blast Japanese Battleship And Transports

By ROGEE D GREENE (Associated Press War Editor) The United States and Japan were marshaling probably their greatest land, sea and air forces of the war for a decisive battle in the Solomon islands today as a vast enemy fleet bore down on American-held Guadalcanal island and newly-arrived U. S. Army troops and planes were disclosed to have joined in the struggle.

A Navy bulletin indicated that Japan was sending many of her heaviest units into a huge offensive against the island and that other warships were steaming up despite heavy losses already inflicted on the invaders.

The Navy said American warplanes blasting at the Japanese sea-borne reinforcements had already damaged one enemy battleship, scored three direct hits on an enemy transport and left two others in flames.

Four other ships were damaged and 33 enemy planes shot down in a four-day period covering the preliminary phases of the latest offensive, the Navy said, and still the Japanese kept coming.

"Other enemy forces including heavy units have been sighted in the vicinity of Guadalcanal," the Navy reported tersely.

There was no indication of the size of American naval or land forces waiting to meet the onslaught, but high U. S. naval quarters expressed confidence Tuesday that the islands could be held.

In Washington, Secretary Stimson disclosed that regular American Army troops and planes have arrived on Guadalcanal, bolstering the U. S. Marine defenders, and are now "tenaciously holding against voracious Japanese counter-attacks."

These were the first U. S. Army soldiers reported in combat since the battle of the Philippines. Stimson said the regular army forces were "substantial" in number.

The war secretary also reported that U. S. Army forces spread-eagled the South Seas battle zone had arrived in the New Hebrides and Fiji islands on the vital supply route between the United States and Australia.

Stimson's good news came amid growing anxiety over the situation in the Solomons as a showdown battle was apparently developing on Guadalcanal and U. S. Marines set their guns against Japanese sea-borne reinforcements newly landed on the north shore of the island.

Heretofore, the Marines had played a lone hand in combating Japanese troops who have been slipping ashore in increasing numbers under cover of darkness.

"The Army and Navy forces in this area are fighting in the closest possible cooperation under the unified command of the Navy," Stimson said, adding that the reinforcements arrived "recently."

Competent observers said the latest Japanese landings on Guadalcanal indicated that the enemy was determined to launch an all-out attack to regain the key air base and the nearby Tulagi naval station at any cost.

It was the third and presumably the biggest Japanese attempt to recapture the prize Guadalcanal air base, at the lowest end of the 800-mile-long South Seas archipelago, which American "Devil Dogs" seized in a lightning counter-offensive last (Continued on Page Four)

The Training School P. T. A. held its first meeting of the current school year Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. H. H. Ross, the new president, presiding. The attendance was good, but there were many members not present.

After a short business session, the program was turned over to Miss Mary Ann Cobb, who introduced Miss Eleanor Ethridge, the new member of the Training School faculty. Miss Ethridge, a native of Sparks, Ga., and a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, replaces Miss Hazel Elsom as director of music in the

What then are the results of the P. T. A.'s in our country?

1. Through the summer round-up of the pre-school children parents become more conscious of their responsibility to send into the school children who are free from all remediable defects, who are well nourished, have a well-developed control of the muscles, have a reasonably large and varied vocabulary and have an awakened moral and spiritual nature already functioning. Children who are ready to enter school for the first time.

2. Through study groups parents are realizing their opportunity and responsibility to make their children assets to the school by training them to be mentally alert and socially developed.

3. Through the P. T. A. parents may know what the school is attempting to do and how they may help.

4. Through the influence of P. T. A.'s school terms have been lengthened, better trained teachers have been secured with better salaries, improved conditions in buildings and equipment secured, and a better community spirit developed as a result of people working harmoniously together toward a common goal.

5. P. T. A.'s have endorsed and worked for the enactment of law, for the national child-labor amendment to protect children from exploitation, and for the outlawry of war.

All of this can be summed up in the five objects of the P. T. A. as outlined in the October issue of the

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

Pass The Salt, Please
"Will you have salt for your can-taloque, my dear?" I asked a little guest in our home. And her reply was, "No, thank you; but if you don't mind, I'll take a little sugar."

"I was amused, although sobered a bit, as I thought how perfectly this answer reflected what was becoming the established background of this child's every decision in life.
She has been weakened by two in-diligent parents. She has fallen into the habit of expecting everybody to wait on her. It would be unthinkable both to her and her parents that she would ever have to face anything hard in life. She has been denied the thrill of achievement because she has been waited upon hand and foot. The free flow of her energy has been impeded because she always stands in her own way. Habit and parental care has deepened in her the somewhat natural disposition to think only of herself and her needs.

In other words, while almost everyone else prefers life with a dash of salt sprinkled over it to add to its relish, she wants a heaping teaspoonful of sugar. What she fails to realize is that while salt doesn't taste very good, it has a wonderful way of bringing out the latent flavors. Discipline doesn't taste very good, nor pain, nor denial, but these things give a lot more tang to life than too much sugar.
The person for whom life consists

ARE YOU DOING YOUR PART?

It would be an awful thing to have to face a charge that in time of emergency you failed your government and the men at the fighting front. Yet that is just what some of our people are doing by their failure to give their support to the present scrap drive for the metal that is so badly needed right now.

You have been told and should know that unless we round up millions of tons of scrap metal, steel mills will have to shut down and we may lose the war. Have you pitched in and done your part? Or have you gone your own sweet way, letting the pleas of our fighting men bounce off you like bare fists off a German tank?

Don't be a scrap slacker. Wars aren't won by good intentions, or by sitting around back home, spouting about how things should be done. They're won by action and steel. To ask you to help collect scrap is a very little thing to ask, compared with what our fighting men are having to face and compared to what the civilians of the fighting areas are enduring.

We know a lot of scrap has already been turned in, but nothing like enough has yet been gathered. Every possible pound is needed and needed badly, and we must have it to win the war.

Right here in this community there is still a lot of scrap in the homes, on the farms and in the factories and other places of business. This scrap is doing us no good where it is, but turned into implements of war it will enable our men in the armed forces to defend themselves and our own lives and liberties. You expect our fighting men to do their part. Are you doing yours?

Don't put this matter off any longer. Don't wait for "George to do it." Get in the scrap now and don't let up in your efforts until we have made a complete job of it. Don't wait until next week. Do it now!

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—If there is anything this country (and I don't believe there really is) it could be given a terrific boost by sending every one of our 100,000,000 or so "teen-age-and-up" persons to see "This Is The Army."

"This Is The Army" is, of course, the World War II edition of Irving Berlin's "Yip, Yip Yaphank." Except for one nostalgic number in which Berlin himself and a dozen oldtimers appear, there is nothing of the World War I revue in it. The cast and production staff of more than 300 men are all soldiers, and all privates and non-commissioned officers at that. They are not amateurs and there is nothing amateurish about the show which now is on a coast-to-coast tour.

Berlin did the music and lyrics but the civilian participation in the revue ends. The direction, and it's a beautiful piece of pacing, timing and handling of large choruses is in the hands of Staff Sgt. Ezra Stone—the same Sergeant Stone who until a few weeks ago was the Henry Aldrich of radio fame.

Sgt. Milton Rosenstock, who was on his way to fame as a symphonic orchestra director when the draft caught up with him, leads the big orchestra. The costuming, dances and scenery were all done by the soldiers and the cast is full of names that were beginning to be heard on Broadway and in Hollywood, names like Philip Trux, Joe Cook, Jr., Earl Oxford, Julie Oshins and many others.

Not since this war started has anything come to Washington in the way of entertainment like "This Is The Army." Playing to standing room only, nights and three matinees a week, it has made the old National Theater rafter ring with the kind of applause it has never heard before. From Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson, Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall down to the clerks and secretaries, Washington audiences have poured out of the National with a new lift because "This Is The Army," as well as being grand entertainment, is a heart-thumping spectacle, with plenty of patriotic undertones.

From observations here, however, it seems to me that the boys who are making "This Is The Army" possible and dumping about $30,000 a week into the coffers of the Army Emergency Relief aren't getting the respect they deserve from either civilians or the Army. These boys are not on leave. They are on duty just as much as their buddies back in camp.

They not only play ten shows a week—most work that would break the backs of some veteran troupers—but they drill three hours a day, are assigned to details to clean up the theater, help move in and out, and do many other menial chores that are no more fun than KP duty.

All they get out of it is their regular army pay and $3.07 a day for board and room—a sum that shrinks pretty rapidly in the face of hotel rents and a soldier's appetite.

The WAR TODAY

The general tenor is conviction that a blow is coming, and that the initiative will not be Germany's.

Marshal Rommel, having received marked honors at the hands of the Fuehrer himself in Berlin, has returned to the command of his African armies. Himmler of the Gestapo, that grim specialist in the morale of the home front, of occupied territories and allied states, has been sent to the Balkans. Admiral Raeder's submarine flotillas are making their greatest effort of the moment in the waters off West Africa and the Cape of Good Hope. Berlin and London are agreed on this last. Hitler is desperate to cut those lifelines to West Africa and around the Cape to North Africa.

The belief is voiced that American troops will play a very important part in the coming developments. One day a military commentator reports new concentrations of General Montgomery's British eighth army deep in Egypt, below the Gattara depression and speculates in a vein reassuring to the home folks, as to its significance.

Again the Nazi radio reports Allied movements menacing to French West Africa with the carefully veiled threat that the French had better stand firm there, or else.

Yesterday it was a story of a British-American convoy her African empire and adding it to Britain's Shrub's visit, the Germans seem convinced means ominous happenings in Africa. So they beam both to the Vichy French and to Smuts' own country a blast of warnings about American designs in Africa, which said one Berlin broadcast, Mr. Roosevelt is planning "to make a glacis (outer defense space) for his own western hemisphere."

The Allied governments and commands meet all this with silence unless silence could be considered broken by today's comment of the Times of London on the Smuts visit, "the moment is full of promise but it is also full of danger." Or Winston Churchill's declaration at Edinburgh, "We have reached a stern and somber moment in the war. x x x We must strive to combine the virtues of wisdom and daring."

Showdown Battle

August 7.

A communique, following up last night's announcement that the enemy troops on the strategic island had been heavily reinforced, said that United States reinforcements had been landed on October 13, Guadalcanal time, and that though the ships which took them in were attacked by enemy bombers they suffered no damage and unloading operations were accomplished successfully.

The Navy's terse announcement said the Japanese landing was preceded by a bombardment of the air field and shore installations from the sea. It did not reveal whether the enemy fleet was engaged by American warships which only last Sunday routed a similar landing attempt after smashing eight Japanese ships.

Naval observers said the fact that the enemy transports were protected by warships undoubtedly meant that the Japanese also had landed artillery. Lack of big guns had been reported one of their main weaknesses in attempting to retake the strategic base.

The newest Japanese thrust followed swiftly on the heels of a Navy announcement that American Marines in a two-day offensive had enlarged their gains and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

No details were revealed on the size of the enemy reinforcements, but the Japanese previously had been reported to have about 12,000 troops on Guadalcanal.

So far, according to official figures, Japanese losses in the two-month-old Solomons campaign have totaled eight ships sunk, three probably sunk and 37 damaged, compared with announced American losses of seven ships sunk.

The text of Navy communique No. 153 follows:
South Pacific: (All dates below are east longitude).
1. Dispatches from our forces in the south Pacific reveal the following chronological developments leading up to the current battle in the Guadalcanal area:
2. On October 12: (a) During the morning, army flying fortresses bombed the air field and shore establishments on the island of Buika. Fires were started and ten wrecked or damaged bombers and fighters were observed on the ground.

(b) Army bombers hit and set fire to one cargo ship at Buin and damaged another. Six enemy fighters were shot down.
(c) Navy and Marine Corps aircraft attacked enemy ships south of New Georgia Island (reported in Navy Department communique No. 149).

3. On October 13:
(a) During the afternoon the airfield at Guadalcanal was twice bombed by enemy aircraft. Three enemy planes were shot down and one U. S. fighter lost.
(b) By nightfall U. S. auxiliaries had landed reinforcements for our troops at Guadalcanal. Although these ships were attacked by enemy bombers, no damage was suffered and our ships unloaded and withdrew.

(c) During the night of October 13-14, the airfield and shore installations at Guadalcanal were heavily bombed by an enemy surface force believed to have contained battleships, cruisers and destroyers (reported in Navy Department communique No. 152). Shore batteries scored three hits on enemy destroyers during the bombardment.

4. On October 14:
(a) During the afternoon Guadalcanal airfield was attacked by two separate groups of enemy bombers each with fighter escort. Our fighters were unable to intercept the first flight, which contained about 25 bombers. During the second attack they shot down nine of the 15 bombers in the group and destroyed four fighters. One U. S. fighter was lost.

5. On October 15:
(a) During the early morning

(reported in Navy Department communique No. 152) enemy transports, covered by destroyers, cruisers and a battleship were sighted off Savo Island. This force proceeded to land troops on the north coast of Guadalcanal to the westward of our airfield. An aircraft striking group attacked the enemy ships and reports indicate that three direct hits were made on one transport and that two other transports were left burning. The Japanese battleship was damaged and one enemy fighter was shot down.

6. Other enemy forces including heavy units have been sighted in the vicinity of Guadalcanal.

Seven Are Killed In Plane Crash

Chester, S. C., Oct. 15—(AP)—An army plane from the Greenville, S. C. army air base crashed and burned about two and one-half miles from Fort Lawn, near here, last night. Seven men lost their lives in the crash.

The plane was demolished. Witnesses said parts of bodies were strewn near the wreckage.

Fred M. Hicklin of near Rieburg, 12 miles east of here, said a "terrific" explosion followed the crash and that flames from the burning plane could be seen for miles.

Residents of several communities reported seeing a plane, apparently in trouble, circling about 9 p. m. shortly before the accident.

DUQUESNE IS NO EASY ONE FOR CAROLINA

Other Teams Prepare For Saturday's Games

Raleigh, Oct. 15.—(AP)—In hurriedly lining up an opponent for its homecoming day program at Chapel Hill Saturday, University of North Carolina officials made no effort to book a setup, and they finally landed a real toughie in the Dukes of Duquesne.

The Dukes, who come from Pittsburgh, have a 16-game winning streak behind them and last year were rated among the top teams in the nation. Since early in the 1940 season they have not tasted defeat—Mississippi pulled the trick then by a 14-6 count. The Dukes finished the 1940 season by defeating Manhattan, Marquette, St. Mary's Villanova, and Carnegie Tech in turn.

Their eight victims last year included Manhattan, Marquette, Villanova, St. Mary's and Mississippi State. So far this season, Coach

Aldo T. Donelli's boys have not been scored on and they have licked Wayneburg, Holy Cross and Kansas state.

In their practice session yesterday, the Tar Heels went to work with vigor after practicing for two days without knowing whether they would play Saturday or what team they would meet if they did play. Coach Jim Tatum did not play defensive work, for the North Carolina defenses were fairly steady in the scoreless tie with Fordham last Saturday, but he did concentrate on the Tar Heel attack.

At Duke, preparations were continued for the game with Colgate Saturday, but bad weather hindered and there were four men on the injured list, and Ralph Morgan, Morris Storer, and Jim Smith, Smith is definitely out of the Colgate game.

Three men were on the injured list at Wake Forest where Coach Peahead Walker made ready for the game with N. C. State here Saturday night. Johnny Perry, wingback was on the injured list again after practicing yesterday for the first time in several days. Other injured men were Capt. Pat Preston, tackle and blocking back Elmer Harbour.

The wolfpack was in good shape for the Deacon game, but Coach Doc Newton said that Buck Center probably would start at fullback in place of Ray Benek who was held out of Saturday's game with the Carolina pre-flight team because of a bad knee. The Davidson Wildcats emphasized offensive tactics yesterday indicating they were going to strive desperately to score when they go against Georgia Tech at Atlanta Saturday.

teered to do the timing and measuring were overwhelmed.

Quick Kicks
So we won't be accused of picking sure things, this department no longer will list the Navy pre-flight schools among the likely football winners. Consider that done automatically and don't count 'em in our average (now 434). Here are this week's picks: Colgate over Duke and Duquesne over North Carolina, figuring those two eastern clubs are hot; Harvard over Dartmouth, Penn over Princeton, Indiana over Pitt, Michigan over Northwestern, Alabama over Tennessee, Georgia over Tulane, VMI over Maryland, Oklahoma over Kansas, Texas over Arkansas, TCU over Texas Aggies, UCLA over California.

Today's Guest Star
Tommy Tucker, Cleveland News: "I hear some of the Notre Dame subway alumni are patriotically suggesting the T formation be tossed into the scrap pile. Already discarded is the brass of Mr. and Mrs. Durocher and his Dodgers, also the steel nerves of Mr. McCarthy and his Yanks."

Shorts and Shells
Louisiana golfers have been playing for three titles at once in New Orleans. First day's rounds counted for the state pro-amateur tournament and the first halves of the city pro championship and the state open. Entries in the second two events played a second time with the scores counting one or two ways. ... Light Col. Bill Jones claims the season's broad-jumping title belongs to Dale Hill, a plebe back at West Point. "He made it in one jump from Parsons, Kas. high school to Army's second backfield," says the biffer. ... Pointing out that Bill Dudley, the Steelers' star, has a kid brother, Tom, playing at the U. of Virginia, and a distant relation, Johnny, trying for the Richmond U. team, George Wright suggests that all the Dudleys in Virginia probably are claiming some relationship.

Service Dept.
Add Davey Day to the list of "name" boxers in the Navy. He has enlisted in the physical training department and will train at Norfolk. ... And Don Lockhard is another of the great Bartlesville, Okla., basketball team to leave for war duty. He also picked the Navy. ... James E. Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer passes on this yarn from a Marine officer at Guadalcanal. ... The Marines were in the process of wiping out a Jap landing party when one of the enemy shouted, "For heaven's sake, take it easy. I am an Ohio State man." ... "Well," replied a Marine sergeant as he wielded his bayonet, "I'm an old Michigan boy myself." ... Knowing those colleges, we'd say it could be true.

the association in its work of harmoniously cooperating to make Greenville "the shopping center of Eastern Carolina." Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary, stated. Tickets for the banquet next Tuesday night went on sale today. They are a dollar each.

One merchant, it is understood is planning to buy tickets for all of his employees in order that they may better understand the objectives of the Merchants' Association.

This trade body of business men and women has built up a substantial organization here for the development and advancement of the community. Through its activities wholesalers, jobbers and retailers are cooperating to expand Greenville as a shopping, trading and wholesale center for this part of the state. The association renders manifold services to its members and the community. Its retail credit bureau is regarded by the State Merchants' Association as one of the most systematic and effective in the state. The association has led in providing sales, patriotic and other events to bring people to Greenville and "get the town on the map in a bigger spot," a banker said today.

The civic clubs and other organizations appreciate the constructive and progressive work the Greenville Merchants' Association is doing for the city, the chairman of the public relations committee of one of the Greenville civic clubs, stated today. Representatives of the Merchants' Association will circulate in the business section today and tomorrow selling the banquet tickets. It is expected that more than a hundred businessmen and clerks and others will attend.

Don't just say "Wine" — say Widmer's

In wine, the name of the producer is of first importance... since the flavor of wine owes everything to his skill and to the vineyard from which he selects his grapes. Widmer's is not the only fine American wine... but there are very few producers whose grapes enjoy the rare combination of soil and climate which blesses the Naples Valley-Lake Canadagus District vineyards... and fewer still whose skill matches that of the Widmers.

New York, Oct. 15.—Wants to be an athlete?... Probably not, but Dapper Dan Ferris, the A.A.U. secretary-treasurer, has an idea that may get you out there yet trying to show that you're a healthier specimen than Joe Jones over in the next block. The plan is simply to arrange a series of tests in various sports, such as track and field, basketball, etc., in each community, with standards set low enough that almost anybody can get by after a little practice. They'll be arranged according to age groups so the fat-footed, wind-broken guys of 40 will have as much chance as 20-year-olds. After you pass the test in your community and receive a suitable award, you can go on to county, state and national tests. You won't be a Hercules even after passing them all, but the main idea, Dan explains, is to catch you when you're not looking and make you healthier. The A.A.U. once tried a similar stunt on a much smaller scale and the poor guys who volun-
