

Dive Bomber Assaults On City Of Stalingrad Resumed By The Nazis

Russian Lines Reported Holding Despite Heavy Attacks On Way To Help Reds In Caucasus; Mutiny And Uprisings Hampering Italy's War Effort.

(By The Associated Press) Swarms of German dive-bombers and fighters resumed a full-scale assault on Stalingrad today after cold rains had driven them from the skies in a short foretaste of winter, but Red army headquarters declared the Russians still held their lines unbroken for the past 36 hours.

As the storm subsided, the German Transcaucasus agency asserted that only "a few square kilometers" of Stalingrad was left in Soviet hands.

German military quarters, however, emphasized that "the tenacity of Soviet resistance was evidenced rather by the number of (street) barricades and other positions obstinately defended by the enemy than by the area of the city not yet in German hands."

Soviet reports said that supplies and troop reinforcements continued to reach defenders of the ruined Volga metropolises and that German long-range guns were heavily shelling the river in an attempt to interrupt the crossings.

Despite the temporary relief afforded by autumn storms, which forced the gigantic battle back to the World War tactics of artillery barrage and infantry assault, the Red armies were under savage attack by tank-led German shock troops in a northern factory district.

It was the 57th day of siege. Meanwhile, roundabout Axis reports from Ankara, Turkey, declared that "United States troops which arrived in Syria were being sent to Persia (Iran) and Russia."

"These reports, unconfirmed elsewhere, said the Americans were chiefly troops trained in special Arizona training camps for mountain warfare, whereby implying that they were being used to bolster Soviet forces in the Caucasus."

On the Stalingrad front, the Russian command announced:

"Fierce fighting continued. German infantry and tanks attacked a defense point in the vicinity of a factory. The Germans were repulsed, seven tanks were destroyed and 400 of the enemy were killed. Our troops in the course of the day beat off all enemy attacks here. A part of 'X' unit in a night engagement destroyed 10 German planes and four mortars, smashed 13 pillboxes and dugouts, and wiped out more than a company of German infantry."

The Soviet command made no mention of fighting along the Black Sea coast, below Novorossiok, but reported that a series of Nazi attacks were repulsed farther down in the Caucasus in the Mosdok sector. (Continued on Page Four)

William Lang Gets Governor's Respite

Governor Broughton yesterday granted a 30-day respite to William Lang, colored tenant farmer of the Falkland community, who was condemned to die in the gas chamber Friday for the murder of his wife, Nancy Lang, and his aunt, Minnie Powell. The date of execution was postponed until November 13.

Get In The Scrap

Tomorrow will be all-out scrap drive day in Greenville and business houses will remain closed until one o'clock in order to give employees the opportunity to help in the job of getting in the scrap.

Salvage Chairman W. W. Lee and Transportation Chairman John G. Clark today expressed the hope that every citizen in Greenville would lend a hand in tomorrow's clean-up campaign. Persons who can furnish trucks are urged to have them at the court house at seven o'clock to be assigned to the zones in which they are to operate.

"I know there is a lot of scrap still scattered about Greenville and if our people will cooperate we can get it in tomorrow," Chairman Bill Lee declared today.

Waste-likewise will join in the all-out drive tomorrow and its business houses will remain closed until one o'clock.

Adding emphasis to the drive, a special radio program over station WGTC will be carried out tonight from 8:30 to 8:55 and from 9:15 to 9:45. Included on the program will be Sgt. Leo Lopacinski, Marine hero just returned from the Solomon Islands. Mrs. E. W. Spedeker, whose husband, Col. Spedeker, is a member of General Vandergrieff's staff in the Solomons, and Mrs. Thomas, whose husband, Col. Thomas, is chief of staff under General Vandergrieff.

Music for the program will be furnished by the high school band.

LEAF MARKET NEARS RECORD

Pounds Over Last Year; Money Near All-Time High

Today's sales on the Greenville tobacco market brought the season's total poundage above the 44 million pound mark, passing last year's total sales. Prior to today's sales the money paid out on the market this season was $15,818,000 just $340,000 below the record total of $16,158,000. It was estimated that money paid out on the market today and tomorrow would bring this season's payments above the all time record.

Supervisor R. C. Rankin stated this morning that despite the appearance of a quantity of common tobacco in the offerings, prices remained firm and leaf grades were averaging more than the $40 per hundred mark. All leaves would be cleared this afternoon, he said.

Fossil remains about 25,000,000 years old have been unearthed in Germany.

Overalls For School Boys Tomorrow

The boys at the Greenville High School—all good sports, every one of them—may not be getting much exercise practicing for football, but they are patriotic. The youngsters are going to don overalls tomorrow morning and go to work to gather scrap metal and rubber for the salient campaign for war purposes, Supt. June H. Rose announced today.

The high school students are going to show what they can do and will be right out there on the "gathering" line of scrap metal and rubber when the towns and cities of the state, like Greenville, are going to stop work and business the first half of the day, and get enough scrap to let the soldiers, sailors, marines and air corps men know that they are backing them up.

Nation's Biggest Tax Bill Finally Adopted

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Congress completed ten months work on a gigantic new wartime tax bill today and sent it to President Roosevelt for his expected prompt approval.

Major battles flamed (explosions) at Stalingrad, where the Russians still fought firmly, and at Guadalcanal, where the U. S. sea, air, and land forces met the Japs as fighting went on fiercely 'round the world. Air fighting (planes) cost the Axis 116 planes in one week at Malta and at Kiska air fighting raised Jap losses to 42 ships sunk or damaged. German efforts to enslave labor in France (marching men) and at Kiska air fighting raised Jap losses to 42 ships sunk or damaged. German efforts to enslave labor in France (marching men) touched off bloody riots. U. S. troops (American flag) have arrived in Liberia. Meeting of Allied militia leaders in India argued an attack against Japs in Burma (soldiers).

SUB SUNK BY FLYING BOAT

U-Boats Crew Later Taken Aboard Destroyer

London Oct. 20.—(AP)—The United States Navy's Air Force operating from Iceland has made its first definite claim of a U-boat kill, reporting the accurate bombing of a submarine by a Catalina flying boat, the British Air Ministry said today.

A few hours after the bombing, the report said, the U-boat's crew of 52 abandoned their sinking submarine and went aboard an Icelandic fishing boat. It said an Allied destroyer later captured them.

The report by the air ministry's news service said the Catalina caught the U-boat on the surface and its flyers saw the Germans in the conning tower gesticulating wildly.

Accurately placed bombs threw up columns of water on both sides of the submarines which was lifted almost entirely out of the water, it said.

"We made two runs," said the Catalina's captain. "Firing our guns as we went. The sub replied with cannon and machine guns but didn't do us any damage."

The air ministry news service said the Catalina was captained by Lieut. R. B. Hoggson and that his crew included Ensign B. M. McCracken, Navigator, and enlisted men D. M. Martin, R. A. Clark, C. Simmons, L. L. Preswell, G. Patton and K. L. Terwilliger. Hometown addresses were not given.

Mrs. Martin Chips In Old Shoe Last

Mrs. W. W. Martin of Greenville has contributed an old shoe last of the vintage of Civil War days to the community scrap pile for war purposes. The shoe last was used on the old homeplace for generations in making and repairing shoes for the family and tenants.

The relic of bygone days will be displayed in Heber Forbes' window on Evans street, with other unusual articles contributed for war purposes.

Researches of the Department of Agriculture show the peel of an apple has more vitamin C than the flesh, and that the "rosy" side has more vitamin C than the "shady" side.

Committee Asks For New Super War Board

Move For Reshuffling Of Present War Agencies

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A complete reshuffling of top war agencies under a new super control board was recommended today in a congressional report which said: "Those officials who have charge of the war production program including the mobilization of manpower have not yet grasped the meaning of modern war."

The report, bristling with criticism of the present set-up, was issued by the special House committee on national defense migration, headed by Rep. Tolan (D-Calif.).

It urged subordination of the War Production Board, the Selective Service Administration, the War Manpower Commission and the Office of Price Administration to a new super agency to be known as the Office of War Mobilization.

Asserting that "our materials distribution system is breaking down" and that "hoarding of raw materials has become a nationwide phenomenon," the committee declared:

"This war can be lost in Washington... despite numerous realignments, ten months after Pearl Harbor, business-as-usual considerations still permeate the Washington (Continued on Page Six)

With The Marines In The Solomons

Garbage Trucks To Help Scrap Drive

The city garbage trucks will not collect any garbage on Wednesday. The trucks will be busy all day gathering scrap metal and rubber for war purposes to help Greenville and Pitt county make a good showing in the salvage campaign being conducted in this and other states. Supt. Henry L. Rivers announced today.

Householders and others are requested to cooperate with the city street department.

WAR ON SUBS TO CONTINUE

Admiralty Says Sea Lanes Most Important

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Britain has "an actual record of attacks which have resulted in the sinking or damaging of over 530 Axis submarines" since the war began, A. S. Alexander, first Lord of the Admiralty, asserted today.

Alexander, giving a war commentary at Caxton Hall, said this total included some attacks by the United States Forces but did not include those either by the Russians or by France before June, 1940.

"We have had much discussion in recent months about a second front," Alexander said, "but we must always remember that our ability to secure this depends directly upon the degree of control we exercise at sea as well as in the air."

He said the war against the U-boat still was "our greatest problem."

He said, however, that the United States and British shipbuilding programs "afforded me more grounds for confidence in our final victory at sea over Germany and Japan."

"We must fight on as we have fought" until the programs are completed.

Saying that the Allies needed control of the sea to "carry the war to the enemy as we mean to do," Alexander declared also that "we must expect the enemy's effort at sea... to increase, but I assure you, so will our counter-measures increase."

Registration Books Close October 24th

Registration books for Pitt County voters who have changed their addresses and those who have recently moved into a precinct and are entitled to vote, will be open for the last time next Saturday, from 9 a. m. until sunset, J. Knox Says Japs Haven't Exercised Full Strength Against Solomon Islands

Air Activity

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The RAF attacked targets in Bremen, Wilhelmshaven and Hannover in daylight today, it was announced tonight.

The Air Ministry communique said: "This afternoon Mosquitos of the Bomber Command, flying singly, attacked objectives near Hannover and Wilhelmshaven and also at Bremen where bombs dropped from low level were seen to burst in the center of the city."

"One of our aircraft is missing. Mosquito bombers are the RAF's new swiftest attack planes which already have been used effectively in daylight sweeps against occupied France and Norway."

Reykjavik, Iceland, Oct. 20.—(AP)—For the second time in nine days, Reykjavik anti-aircraft guns blazed today at a hostile plane.

The Army said the raider was driven off. No bombs fell but this Icelandic capital was under air alarm for 45 minutes.

Show-Down Battle Apparently Not Yet On; Both Sides Using Hit And Run Tactics; Japs Shell American Installations In Retaliation For U. S. Naval Action

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Japan conceded that victory was still far out of sight in the battle of the Pacific today as American warships were officially reported to have thundered into action against enemy forces on Guadalcanal island in the lower Solomons.

Secretary of the Navy Knox told newsmen he believed "the Japanese have by no means as yet exercised their maximum force" in the Solomons campaign.

"It is still a good, stiff, hard fight," he said, adding that he had no late information to divulge.

The Navy in Washington disclosed that heavy United States naval units, boldly challenging a powerful Japanese sea armada, suddenly reappeared in the Guadalcanal battle theater October 17 and effectively bombed Japanese positions on the northwest section of the island.

Big fires were left raging and ammunition dumps were exploded, the Navy said, and throughout the same day American warplanes blasted at the enemy's island foothold.

With their mission achieved, the U. S. naval force evidently withdrew without making contact with enemy warships, for the Navy reported that Japanese ships retreating from the bombardment shelled U. S. installations on the northern coast of Guadalcanal some hours later.

The Navy said, however, that no Japanese attempt to reinforce their troops had been observed since October 15.

American domination of the skies was indicated by the fact that American warships shelled the enemy positions in broad daylight, while the Japanese naval forces struck under cover of darkness, apparently fearing to venture out by day against U. S. planes based on the island.

In Tokyo, Japan's Foreign Office spokesman, Tomokami Hori, told the nation in a broadcast that the Pacific conflict was gradually assuming the phase of a long-term war and warned of a possible general counter-attack by the United States against Japan.

Ormond Wholesale Store Burglarized

Robbers some time last night broke into the Ormond Wholesale Company's place on Dickinson avenue and carried off a quantity of merchandise. A check-up by company officials today revealed that a number of cases of cigarettes are missing.

Police investigating the robbery found a heavy piece of metal with which the burglars prized open a window to gain entrance. They opened a side door to remove their loot.

Hero Of The Solomons Visiting In Greenville

By CHESTER WALSH

Leo Lopacinski, 26, of Chicago returned in the United States Marine, who killed 36 Japanese in hand-to-hand fighting at Tulagi, in the southwest Pacific, and who was honored with a decoration by the President after his return to this country, is in Greenville. He is a guest of Miss Athlene Speight and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Spence at the Spence home on Cotanche street.

Lopacinski, when stationed at the Marine base at New River, frequently spent week-ends in Greenville. He was the first service man to register at the Servicemen's Center at the Woman's club. He, like all men in the service, had a buddy, and they were inseparable, except when duty called. Lopacinski's buddy was a soldier, (something unusual) and he was stationed at Camp Davis. His name was Harold S. Gold of New York City. Both were well known in Greenville. The marine was sent to the Pacific coast and then to the war zone. Gold went to an officers' training school and recently graduated as a lieutenant at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

The soldier and the marine are back in Greenville—one of them a hero in battle and honored by his country; the other a commissioned officer through talent and ability. They are back here among friends, mingling in a spirit of good cheer—swapping reminiscences, talking of the uncertain future of war, and happily accepting felicitations from men and women—and boys and girls—who met them on week-end trips. The WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide-World News Analyst

London, Oct. 20.—What would you give if you could be assured that this time next year Herr Hitler would be swinging sweetly from the end of a hangman's rope?

Plenty, of course. And I believe you can have this assurance if the Anglo-American allies aren't compelled by circumstances to deviate from the fundamental strategy which they laid down long ago. This is that the Nazi antichrist is the main enemy and that we must concentrate on crushing him.

The trend of the Hitlerian war, to my mind, depends heavily on the striking power of the United States and British air forces over western Europe and Germany.

That conviction is no sudden conversion as a result of a great white light. This column previously emphasized the vital role of air power at this stage and one of the main reasons for my visit abroad was to study this question further. My belief in the air possibilities increased and crystallized as a result of access to invaluable information here in this vast allied airbase, for that's exactly what Britain is.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR October 20, 1902

Hon. John H. Small, the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, will be with county candidates and address the people of Pitt county.

The wind today was dusty and blustery.

Greenville is doing an immense business. A look into any quarter of the town will show this.

Idlers around Greenville are few. There is work for everybody and just about everybody is doing it.

The market is not overcrowded like it was a few weeks ago, but there is plenty of tobacco coming in every day.

ious colors blend into one another. Fifteen to twenty-five of a single variety make an effective splash in the small garden. They may be used with a generous supply of Iris of many types and varieties. At the back of our border will be the shrubs and tall growing perennials but be sure to include lilies and Hemerocallis, also in many varieties. Some will be early blooming.

There are numerous plants for the central part of the border where the tulips are planted. These include Columbine, Phlox, Bleeding Heart, Coral Bell, Gums, Wallflowers, Sweet William, Canterbury Bell, Shasta Daisies and Poppies. At the front of the border use Pansies in quantity, Violas, English Daisies, Blue Phlox, Forget-me-nots and Phlox subulata. In the shade use Cowslips or English Primrose, and in either sun or shade, Alyssum both white and yellow, Oxalis, Edums, Arabis and Candytuft.

Make new acquaintances among the perennials taking a few new ones each season. It will keep your borders new and interesting. Among those worth trying are Gerbers, which needs some protection from cold but is worth the trouble. It comes in shades ranging from red through orange and yellow to lovely pastels. Try the Doronicum for early yellow blooms. It too is worth knowing.

For very early blossoms we are dependent on bulbs planted in early fall. These include Snowflake, Crocus, Grape Hyacinths, Iris, dwarf Reticulata, early double and single Tulips and the Narcissus. Narcissus rates a big share of attention; for beside the many old and lovely familiar ones, there have been developed some very beautiful specimens including the pink cupped Mrs. R. O. Backhouse, some lovely all white and the doubles. Some of these have done well for me.

How to group and plant all these different bulbs and perennials is probably the secret of general success of your garden. Plant several of a variety in groups, the number depending upon the habit of the plant and size of the garden. Place them close enough to allow the foliage to shade the ground space about them. This helps to retain moisture and discourages weeds. Let them intermingle and drift together, the tallest ones at the back with an occasional high spot for variation. Remember that simplicity is best, that pastel shades are more easily handled and that the strongest colors should be placed furthest from the eye.

I find it best to buy most of these plants from some good nursery in the fall and early spring, but there are a few annuals whose seeds may be planted where we want them to bloom next spring. Planted now, they do not object to cold and come up early. These include annual Phlox Drummond, Pinks or Dianthus, Larkspur, Poppies, Cornflowers, etc. Also annual Baby's breath, both white and pink. Nemophila or Baby Blue Eye, planted now will give a lovely ribbon of blue in the front of your border next spring.

A Package of Seeds. I paid a dime for a package of seeds and the clerk tossed them out with a flip. "We've got 'em assorted for every man's needs." He said with a smile on his lip.

I've been to buy them in seasons before, but have thought of them merely as seeds. But it flashed through my mind as I took them this time. "You have purchased a miracle here for a dime!"

You've got a dime's worth of power which no man can create. You've got a dime's worth of life in your hand! You've got a dime's worth of mystery, destiny, fate. Which the wisest cannot understand. In this bright little package, now isn't it odd? You've a dime's worth of something known only to God.

Few Vacancies In Nutrition Classes

Food and nutrition classes sponsored by the Red Cross will be held in Room 8 of the new class room building at the College, each Tuesday and Thursday morning from 10 till 11 o'clock. Night classes at West Greenville school on Monday and Thursday nights at 7:30 for a two-hour period. There are a few more vacancies, if interested report for one of these classes on Thursday. They will prepare you for the coming months when your country needs efficiency and physical fitness on the part of all. Because of a shortage of doctors and nurses, women have a greater responsibility in the nutrition program. Not only must they study and apply the principles that lie behind feeding their own families properly but they must accept the task of carrying to the entire community their knowledge of nutrition.

Declares We Will Win War And Peace

In the course of his sermon Monday night at the mission in Saint Peter Catholic church, the Reverend Father Ambrose Smith, Order of Preachers Missionary, spoke on the war. His words brought encouragement and consolation to the congregation that had gathered to pray for the blessing of a complete early victory for the United States with a subsequently lasting just peace for the world.

"Thank God," said Father Smith, "we are not losing the war even though we have fared badly in some of the battles during the past ten months. Within less than 11 months, the United States forces have matched and now have surpassed the power of the militaristic enemies and their war machine which the totalitarian Axis nations had stored up with secret plans to destroy us and the United Nations by surprising, insidiously, and viciously attacks such as that of Pearl Harbor. United with our commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt, and with our armed forces at their feet, the United States and the United Nations will win this global war sooner or later. But soon at the latest all of our sacrifices, sweat, blood and tears and our fervent prayers will be rewarded with a lasting and just peace. The victory and peace will establish respect for religion, the right of life and independence for all nations, the protection of minorities, a new economic order based on free access to raw materials for all civilized nations, disarmament, respect for treaties and the creation of international bodies to make these treaties respected."

Tonight at 8 o'clock in Saint Peter church, this out-spoken, militantly religious missionary priest will preach the fourth sermon of his mission. The subject will be "Meek and Humble." All Catholics and those who are not Catholics living in Pitt county are invited by Father C. J. Gable, pastor of Saint Peter church and its missions, to join in the prayers offered each morning and evening for victory and peace and to hear the visiting missionary preach.

Henry Bellamann, although author of one of the best sellers "King's Row and Floods of Spring" considers music his major interest. His first library work was a volume of poems entitled "A Music Teacher's Note Book."

James Hilton, one of the best story tellers of the generation, is another author-musician. When he is not writing, Hilton often plays the piano and plays it well enough so that at one time he was seriously thinking of giving up writing for a career as a concert pianist. He has been in Hollywood since 1940.

Debonair, 68-year-old Somerset Maugham says he has four more books to write and then he will retire. They will be about England—he doesn't believe an Englishman can write intelligently about America. His publisher built him a cottage on his South Carolina plantation in the midst of 1,000 acres of marsh and woods. He plays gin rummy, rides horseback and reads. Maugham pays a good deal of attention to his correspondence. He devoted a month to answering letters on his article in "The Saturday Evening Post"—"Why Do You Dislike Us?" a query, addressed to Americans by an Englishman.

Margaret Rawlings is married to Norton Sanford Baskin, a Florida real man, whom she married in 1931. Since 1928 she has been managing her orange grove of 4,000 trees—and at a profit. "Writing," she says, "is agony. I stay at my typewriter for eight hours a day when I'm working, and keep as free as possible from all distractions for the rest of the day." Mrs. Rawlings says she likes simple people and queer ones. Nothing in between. "I think I am what is called a hermit. If I had to choose between cats and people, I think I should choose the trees." She says that poetry is her chief vanity.

especially remember this text. In defense of his text Mr. Perry said people might say Ezra wrote for another day and had nothing for today and should be looked on with suspicion and pity when such ancient things were mentioned in such modern times.

"But I leave it with you does not this scripture lift him out of the past and put him a number of pages ahead of the most modern today." Then in a few telling words Mr. Perry set forth the greatest teacher of all time Jesus Christ.

"Youth wants to go places and have everything out of the way. What we need is to do some stumpy grubbing and build our own highways. We need to put in a little of the hard labor ourselves and the returns will be a little more satisfactory because we will have put something in."

"Those who have really experienced Christianity want to share it with others. But when we have such a feeble faith, we are ashamed of it."

"Have we not been considering the teaching of Christianity secondary. We put it in second place in the home and the community."

"People think the Lord is not pressing us for attention. Yes He is. He is pleading with us to make teaching a primary interest," declared Mr. Perry.

"We have given a lot of consideration to the paraphernalia of life that we need to give more attention to the living of life. I never believed and do not this morning, Thank God, that youth is lost."

"If I want to save my sons and daughters, I must live in their presence the life I should. In our homes we must begin to teach the fundamentals of Christianity. There is not a finer thing than to have the family come together and sing the hymns of the church instead of doing some of the things we do. If we cannot sing, then take the hymnal and read the stanzas. The hymn can teach the messages of God and stand the young people in good stead when other things are swept away," declared Mr. Perry.

Cotton Truck Burns On Road Near Here

A trailer truck with 41 bales of cotton aboard turned over on the Washington highway near the Greenville Port Terminal shortly after last midnight and was considerably damaged by fire. The driver James Cannon, and a helper, both colored, were injured. Good work by the Greenville fire department with an emergency supply of water and chemicals subdued the blaze and helped to save 32 bales of cotton.

The truck was detached from the trailer after the firemen got the fire under control, and the engine can be salvaged. The tires on the truck were blazing and melting when the firemen arrived. Highway patrolmen helped save the cotton. H. L. Cavanaugh of New Bern, owns the cotton.

Famous Actress Died Early Today

Beverly Hills, Calif., Oct. 20—(AP)—May Robson, 78, veteran Australian-born stage and screen character actress, died at her home today.

Despite failing health and eyesight, she had been active in moving pictures until less than a year ago. Her last feature picture was "Joan of Paris," made last year by RKO and released early in 1942. Last winter, she was before the cameras for the last time in a community chest short subject with Lionel Barrymore and Lew Ayres.

Merchants Banquet Expects 200 Guests

Two hundred guests are expected to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Greenville Merchants' Association at the Woman's Club tonight at 7 o'clock. Prof. Leroy Lewis of Duke University, and others will speak. President Lyman T. Ormond will preside. An entertaining program, including a review of what the association has done and what its plans are for the future development of Greenville as a trading and shopping center will be presented. Musical numbers will also feature the program. Tickets to the banquet are a dollar. They may be obtained from Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary, at the City Hall.

Police Court Aids In Salvage Drive

Jasper Oakley, white, a frequent offender in police court on charges of being drunk, has "made good" on Judge J. W. H. Roberts' order to go out and gather scrap metal for war purposes. Oakley, when found guilty of being drunk, was given 30 days in jail, sentence suspended provided he gather 500 pounds of scrap metal. He made good and turned into police a N. C. Newspaper Scrap Metal contest receipt from a junk dealer showing that he turned in 900 pounds of metal.

Last Saturday Johnny Jackson, colored farm worker, under similar sentence, reported gathering over a thousand pounds of scrap metal.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

CAN YOU TAKE DEMOTION?

After General Lee had surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox the Union soldiers without Grant's orders began to fire salutes to their victorious leader. But Grant stopped them immediately because he said that a display of this kind would sadden the hearts of General Lee and the Confederate soldiers,
"who," as Grant reminded them,
"are fellow countrymen of ours."
Also Grant tells in his Memoirs that General Meade, after being subordinated to Grant, assured the younger man who supplanted him that he wished to be given any detail of duty no matter how humble it might be, and expressed the hope that his having formerly been Grant's superior would in no way embarrass Grant in the issuing of any orders whatsoever. "The issues at stake," said Meade, "are so important that I hope no thought of personal feelings will ever be allowed to interfere."
Few men can rise above the bitterness involved in demotion. Meade had won the battle of Gettysburg, but he had allowed the Confederate army to escape, and as a result had been taken out of first place and made subordinate in rank to Grant. He might have remembered the humiliation of the incident; instead he remembered only the importance of the issues involved. He knew Grant was a good soldier and a real man, and he knew that he and his hurt feelings were insignificant compared with the national issues at stake.

DON'T FAIL THEM

Our boys at the front are calling for weapons with which to defend themselves and win victory in the war against our enemies. The government in turn is calling upon all the citizens of the nation, including you, to collect and turn in scrap metal in order that the steel mills might be able to manufacture the steel from which the weapons are made. Tomorrow every citizen in Greenville is asked to lay aside his other duties and lend a hand in gathering scrap metal. We are sure you can be counted upon to do your part in this matter. We are sure tomorrow's drive will be a big success because you and others like you are going to do everything you can to make it one. We are sure you are not going to fail our boys who are on the fighting fronts.

BUY BONDS SATURDAY

If you have a few dollars to spare we urge you to attend the Victory Bond Sale at Five Points Saturday afternoon and buy just as many War Bonds as you possibly can. The government needs the money to finance the war and if we should lose the war your money would be worthless, so lend it to your government now, help win the war and then get your money back with interest. No price is too great to pay to preserve our freedom but the government is not asking you to pay but is merely asking that you lend your money for a short while, which it will be returned to you. Buy Bonds Saturday and keep right on buying them every time you get a pay day. Pitt County at present is behind in its bond purchases. Let's go over the top now.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

(Why enlist—and where. In a series of three articles, Jack Stinnett, Washington correspondent for The Daily Reflector, considers these two important questions which every male citizen between 18 and 45 must be turning over in his mind today.)
Washington—So you want to enlist.
Well, Mister, don't put it off too long. Voluntary enlistments may be closed any day. As the manpower problem becomes more acute, need for absolute control of channeling manpower into the armed forces and production will force the powers that be to disregard a man's likes and dislikes and put him where they think he is most needed.
Even if that time should never come, Johnny—come—earlier are skimming the cream off some branches of the services. Today a lawyer, for example, has as much or more chance of being an Army chief as he has of practicing law.
The judge advocate general's department is crammed to the doors and the waiting lists look like about half the Who's Who of the nation's legal profession.

The WAR TODAY

Why enlist in the armed forces rather than wait to be drafted? There are three good reasons:
(1) By enlisting you can pick your service (all selectees go to the Army); you can, to some extent, speed your way into the job for which you are best fitted and hence to quicker advancement in pay and rating; and you may even land a commission forthwith.
(2) You can get the jump of many months on those who are sitting back, waiting for the call.
(3) You can always have the personal satisfaction of having answered the country's call before that call became a command. This is something few enlisted men would willingly part with.
From the time they started to build this Army, the War Department has organized the vital importance of getting the right men for the right jobs.
There's the story about the lawyer who couldn't get into the adjutant general's department but is walking up the military ladder today because his hobby was building electric trains. He's a technical sergeant in charge of instrument repairs at one of the major air bases.
A grocery clerk is now a second lieutenant in the coast artillery because he once did a hitch in the Navy where he was a gunner. A bank teller who was a cook in a CCC camp is now mess sergeant on the Alaskan highway. A Ph.D. in the Signal Corps' ace phones have not obtained the increase in strength which they would normally expect or which they need now to smother the Nazi air highest. The necessity of diverting this air strength must provide, it seems to me, one of the reasons why the American allies have not felt able to open a second land front in western Europe thus far. Instead, establishment of such a front must depend on intensive air preparation. You can't land a great army from the sea otherwise without terrific losses.
The Russians are calling for quick help. The sooner we get busy plowing up the fuhrer's front yard and seeing our dragon's teeth there the sooner will our armed warriors spring from the soil to attack him and so relieve pressure on the Allies on the eastern front.
Thus we are up against the cold fact that the only way we can get at Hitler from the west at the moment is by way of the air.
In that way and that way only can he be reduced to a point where we can open the army against him successfully. And don't forget this—when we challenge Hitler's army we are going after his strongest weapon, a weapon he wants to use against us, a weapon which comprises the most perfect land fighting machine ever constructed.

visits here and recognized them as good Americans.
Sergeant Lopacinski, the marine, is a parachutist. He has been in the service two years and he likes it. When put to the test in battle, he measured up to the tradition of the Marines. Thirty-six Japs knew the "Marines Were Coming" when Lopacinski charged in the tropical jungle. He "Remembered Pearl Harbor." He remembered that he was working between life and death for the American people and he made good.
Lopacinski probably didn't know that his buddy of the "old days" at New River and Camp Davis and Greenville, now Lieutenant Harold S. Gold of the Army, would step from the same train at Rocky Mount today and be welcomed by Greenville people. Miss Athlene Speight, the girl of his choice, and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Spence of Greenville, in whose home he was a frequent and welcome guest, were at the train with their own welcome and that of the people of Greenville. The trip through the country from Rocky Mount to Greenville was exhilarating to the marine, who had faced death in battle and came out of it a hero; and the soldier, who through sacrifice and hard work, had won his stripes. Biding through fields from which the harvest had been gathered, in the tranquil and peaceful atmosphere of a North Carolina autumn day, was a tonic for the soldier and the marine. They were "back home" among Greenville friends. The marine who single-handed killed 36 Japs and the soldier who became an officer, asked the soldierly "Dear God, the Servicemen's Center in Greenville and the good women and men who are carrying it on. They were glad to be back in Greenville.

Lopacinski during his first visit to Greenville, dropped in at Spence's floral shop to buy a flower. He won the friendship and good will of Miss Athlene Speight, who waited on him, and Mrs. Spence. The acquaintance ripened into friendship and mutual interest. He was a frequent week-end guest of the Spences and Miss Speight. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, pinned a bar of honor on Sergeant Lopacinski's uniform while recuperating in a California hospital. The marine who was a hero in battle in the southwest Pacific came back to Greenville today with his buddy. The people of Greenville are honored.

Behind the battlefield, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from the frontier reported that an Italian Alpine regiment had mutinied at Gorizia, in northern Italy, when it was ordered to the Russian war zone.
Reuters said that the ringleaders were shot by Fascist military police and that the troops were embarked forcibly without arms.
At the same time, advices reaching London said Albanian mountaineers had proclaimed an independence for Albania and now were fighting the Italians on three mountain fronts.
"A continuing revolt at Skappari menaces Italian control of Albania," said a dispatch to the London News Chronicle. "And Il Duce has had to send additional planes, heavy artillery and infantry forces."
"In central Albania, the patriots are reported to have engaged the Italians in particularly heavy fighting. There, too, the Italians sent reinforcements."
Patriots were also reported creating trouble for the Axis in Serbia and Yugoslavia.

cent, the maximum starting at $200,000. Exemptions would be cut from $750 to $500 for single persons, $1,500 to $1,200 for married couples and the credit for dependents reduced from $400 to $350.
Corporations would feel the weight of a 9 per cent increase, from 31 to 40 per cent, in their taxes on normal and surtax income, with the levy on corporate profits boosted from a graduated scale of 35 to 60 per cent to a flat rate of 90 per cent. A 10 per cent post-war rebate provision was attached to the latter rate.
Miscellaneous actions would freeze social security payroll taxes at their present levels for 1943, place a 3 per cent levy on express and freight shipments and boost excise taxes on liquor, beer, wines, cigarettes, cigars, lubricating oil, slot machines, photographic apparatus and train, bus and plane fares.
The two House members who stood in opposition were Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif.) and Robison (R-Ky.). Hinshaw said later that he was opposed to the five per cent "victory tax" embodied in the measure while Robison expressed belief that there were "several matters" in the bill which should be changed.
While the treasury experts have estimated the wartime revenue measure would bring in $2,811,830,000 in new funds, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the Ways and Means committee reported to the House that it would yield a gross of ten billions and a net of eight billion dollars.
A ten billion increase would make the total to be collected in federal taxes in 1943 roughly $7,000,000,000.
The President must sign legislation relating to excess 10 days before the first of the month on which they begin, in this case by Wednesday midnight in order to make the taxes effective November 1.

A Promise for Tomorrow

Chapter 28
The Man Is Mad
Julie caught back a scream.
"Because of course I couldn't permit that. Not at this hour of the night," the voice went on smoothly. "A young lady alone in these wild mountains!"
Didn't he know that Pete stood just inside the black shadow beside the car? How much of their whispered conversation had he overheard—if any?
"Why no," she dared, coolly. "No, I wasn't going anywhere. I just couldn't get to sleep, so I remembered I had aspirin here in my doctor's bag. I came to get it."
She spoke loudly and it seemed her voice rang out across the silent farmyard. Pete couldn't fail to hear—to take warning.
"Then let me help you." He took the bag in one hand and with the other, grasped her arm firmly, helped her out of the car, across the yard, into the house.
Walking beside him, trying desperately to steady the trembling that shook her, Julie didn't dare look back, couldn't have seen any way, probably, whether Pete got into the car unnoticed.
Inside the narrow hallway, Mount's flashlight stabbed a shaft of light up the steps. As she preceded him up the narrow flight, Julie knew real terror.
"Thank you so much," and tried to smile as she reached the door of her room.
"Not at all," a flicker of smile, a short bow.
She closed the door quickly behind her, leaped against it, her breath short as she'd run miles. Then, even as she listened, horrified, she heard the key turn in the lock.
Automatically, she tried the knob. Then raced to the open window. She eyed in her sudden panic, started to climb over the sill. Then common sense caught up with her again. Stupid. She couldn't slide down that roof without rousing the whole household—to say nothing of breaking her neck in the process. There was no escape this way.
She went back to the door again. Frightened, all right. Flattened against the door jamb, she heard voices from across the hall. Muffled sobbing, then quick steps. A door opened, shut with a bang. Then silence. Long, eerie, unbroken silence hovering like a pall over the darkened house.
Grave Danger
As the moments crept by and still nothing happened, Julie went back to the window, strained to see through the dark. Was Tom's car still there? Or had he gotten away? Was he even now on his way for help? On the alert, her senses waited for sound, movement from the drive. When she fancied she heard a motor starting on the road below the river bridge, she could only hope it wasn't just her own wishful thinking.
She had the answer to part of her questions in a few moments. Just when the very silence itself seemed to shriek warning, footsteps sounded in the hall again. The key turned in a lock, and her door swung open, admitting the uncertain yellow light from the kerosene lamp Arnaldo held in his hand. A yellow light that touched his face, gave it grisly pallor.
"So sorry to disturb you, Doctor Hamilton," he said smoothly, closing the door behind him before he set the lamp in a wall-bracket. "I assume, however, that you are still—not 'sleepy'?"
Julie stood quietly erect, gathering courage, commanding well-disciplined nerves.
Arnaldo's lips curved into a grimace, a real challenge to her stout-hearted poise. "I understand that my wife has told you the whole story."
Still Julie only watched him, silently.
"It was very unfortunate that she chose to become confidential after all these years, though—that that horrible smile again—that I had trained her better than that."
Some of Julie's fear gave place to loathing. Quietly, in perfect control of herself now, she waited for this man to prove himself everything Dawn had said he was.
"Why don't you say what you came to say," she suggested calmly.
"You are very cool, young lady. Perhaps you do not realize how grave your danger is at this moment."
"Perhaps not," Julie's eyes met his unflinching. "Suppose you tell me."
"That would be uncallant of me," he laughed shortly. "I am 'distrained' that this should be my unpleasant duty—and to such a charming young woman as yourself. But," he shrugged, "it's war."
She had the answer to that now that the man was stalling for time. That he knew Pete had gone for help, or guessed as much, and was cornered and desperate. And (she thought hit her ominously) a cornered rat is dangerous!
"I'm afraid I don't understand you," Julie said, stalling now herself.
"In certain you do, it is very unfortunate that my wife's mental collapse should have come at this moment. She has given me information which it is extremely dangerous for you to possess."
"Dawn's mental collapse," as you call it, merely helps me to understand why she is so frightened. You didn't really think that you could actually force her to join your bunch of gangsters, did you?"
"The Open Threat"
The smile slid into a sneer. "She has joined forces with my government, Doctor Hamilton. She did that when she became my wife. I swore to it. She will keep that promise."
Julie shrugged with what she hoped passed for nonchalance. "Don't be absurd. This is America. Because Dawn made the mistake of marrying you is no reason that she will make the mistake of betraying her country."
"My wife will not make the mistake of defying me," he said smoothly.
"You sound very sure of yourself, sir," Julie defied him.
"I am sure—now. You see, I am sure, stupid, as my wife's friends would believe me." He laughed quietly.
And to Julie's trained mind, came the instant realization that the man was himself unbalanced. An egotist so intent on the drama of his own role that he lost touch with all real values, became vicious, depraved, sadistic. There were no lengths to which a man like this would not go to prove himself a man-god.
"I am not unaware of the purpose of your visit, Doctor Hamilton. I am not unaware that your suspicions have been mounting since the morning I passed you entering the driveway to the Kelland town house. I watched—from a vantage point in the attic—your inspection of the Kelland summer home where I was—temporarily lodging."
Julie felt a chill race along her spine. Those black eyes peering at her every moment that she and Bart prowled through the empty summer house that day! No wonder Bart had felt "eerie."
"I was informed by expert assistants of your every move during the unfortunate fire. And of your decision to follow your friends up the mountain to these lonely mountains. From that moment, I have regretted the inevitable sorrow of this meeting."
"Have you?" Julie spoke merely to prove to herself that she still could.
Arnaldo, so highly entertained by the success of his own plotting, seemed not to hear her. "So it is my unpleasant duty, Doctor Hamilton, to make sure that you will never be able to identify me in some court-room."

STATE TEAMS TO MEET FOES FROM OUTSIDE

No Games Between Big Five Members This Week-end

Raleigh, Oct. 20—(AP)—Wake Forest's Demon Deacons were bolstered where they needed bolstering yesterday when Don Hipps, 165-pound soph blocking back from Canton, returned to school and to football practice after being away for more than a week.

Few would deny that the Deacons would need all the power they can muster and then some when they tackle Boston college at Boston next Saturday.

The Wake Forest blocking back situation became critical last week after Elmer Barbour, Durham soph and the Number One blocker was injured and Hipps left school. In an effort to solve the problem, Coach Peabody Walker, ran Jim Camp, soph who started the season as an end, at blocking back and converted one of his first string guards, Buck Jones, to blocking back.

Hipps' return helped things a whole lot, for Barbour was still taking things easy yesterday. He was joined by Bill Starford, varsity center who was injured in the bruising scoreless tie with N. C. State.

The Deacons began preparing for the Boston College game by taking a look at Boston plays. Eagle passes as tossed by reserve tailback, J. V. Pruitt, fooled varsity ends and backs.

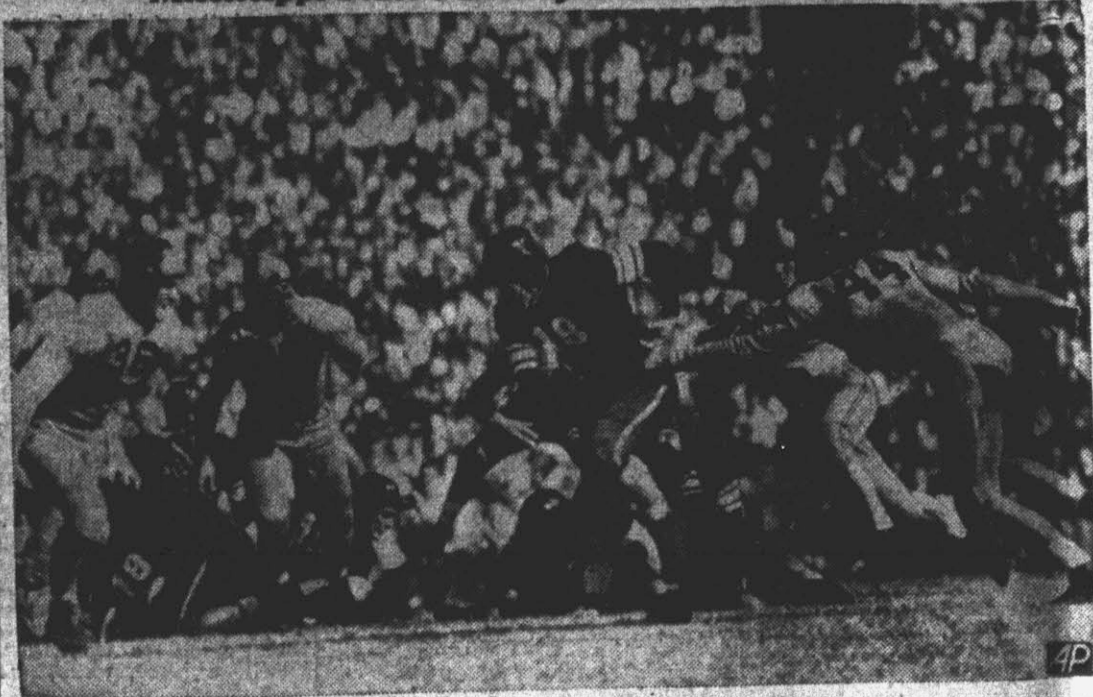

Over at Chapel Hill, the varsity took things easy yesterday, but the reserves scrimmaged with the frosh as Coach Jim Tatum sought reserves power for the game Saturday with Tulane. The results were not encouraging. Johnny Pecora and Sammy Arbes led one 40-yard scoring drive, but the frosh fought the reserves to a standstill from then on and made one drive that carried to the reserves' 15. End John Tandy, who cut a leg against Duquesne Saturday, took things easy.

Coach Eddie Cameron, of Duke laid emphasis on the running game in preparation for the game with Pittsburgh next Saturday. The first team took a light signal drill and called it a day, but the reserves were given a stiff workout.

The N. C. State Wolfpack plunged into heavy work for the Holy Cross game with a scrimmage session yesterday as coach Doc Newton sought more scoring punch. Newton rushed his boys into heavy work because the Wolfpack schedule calls for departure for Worcester, Mass., Thursday morning. Captain Bolo Stillwell was nursing a charley horse and took things easy.

The Davidson Wildcats have no game scheduled for this Saturday and Coach Gene McEyer gave his boys a two-day holiday.

Mississippi State's Blondy Black Hits Vandy Line

Blondy Black, Mississippi State's star back, here hits the Vanderbilt line for nine yards in the surprising 23 to 0 victory of the Mississippians over hitherto unbeaten Vandy. Olsen (44) made the tackle on this play. Black was outstanding in the game, scoring the Maroons' first score, but the whole Mississippi team played inspired ball to make a strong comeback after dropping two straight to Alabama and Louisiana State by substantial margins.

ing football as seriously as they used to, but when somebody asked Lou Little the other day how his players were reacting to the war, his answer was, "They aren't." They know the war is going on, he pointed out, but like most people who keep their noses on the grindstone, they're not letting it disturb their daily work too much.

Today's Guest Star
Burns Bernier, Little Rock Ark. Democrat: "After 12—going on 13—consecutive conference losses, the University of Kansas Razorbacks finally found somebody they can lick. They recently drove to a stunning moral victory over the sports editor of the university paper. . . . Which led to the remark by one of their formerly staunch supporters: 'They probably couldn't have licked him if they had tried it on Saturday afternoon.'"

America's bowlers, who started investigating their change in war slumps before Pearl Harbor, are going right down the alleys for the USO in this winter's first organized war effort. . . . The bowlers' victory legion has designated the week of November 9 as USO benefit week when every bowler in an organized league will contribute by adding 50 cents to his regular entry fee. . . . Walker Primrose, the concert violinist who has transcribed back, Beethoven and Brahms for the viola, is a regular at Madison Square Garden on light nights and holds just like any ordinary mugg. . . . If the new addition to Paul Brown's family, expected some time this winter, turns out to be a girl, the Ohio state coach says he'll name her "Scarlet Gray Brown"—which will sound swell if Paul winds up like most of his predecessors, coaching at some school whose colors are green and orange.

cently, it completed a clean sweep of the butte basketball team that played in the National A. A. U. tournament in 1939. Five other members of the squad already were wearing uniforms. . . . Pvt. Mickey McConnell, who used to try to keep the affairs of the Dodgers' Farm Clubs straight, has been assigned the comparatively simple task of getting up a strong schedule for the Fort Knox, Ky., basketball team.

Judge Dink James Hears Many Cases

In Pitt County Court today Judge Dink James disposed of the following cases:
Assault: Jesse Cox, 90 days in jail.
Assault with deadly weapon: Elijah Jackson, colored, four months suspended on payment of costs and $30 to prosecuting witness and Kingston surgeon.
Non-support: Clyde White, six months in jail, to be hired out for wages, and money to be given to Welfare Department for his wife and children.
Failure to take treatment for venereal disease: Samuel A. Cherry colored, continued on request of F. E. Brooks of the Health Department.
Gambling: Louis Everette, Tom Tripp, Irwin Nichols, Babe Barber and C. C. Worthington, each $5 and costs.
Driving drunk: Milton Ward, colored, $50 fine and forfeit license a year.

Speeding: Jesse Bryant Hardee costs and forfeit license 10 days; Sydney H. White, Jr., $25 and costs were wearing uniforms. . . . Pvt. Mickey McConnell, who used to try to keep the affairs of the Dodgers' Farm Clubs straight, has been assigned the comparatively simple task of getting up a strong schedule for the Fort Knox, Ky., basketball team.
Reckless driving: Thomas Jackson Cannon, $25 and forfeit license 10 days.
Attempted breaking and entering: Clifton Gardner, eight months on roads, suspended and defendant placed on probation provided he not enter the premises of Mrs. Matt Gardner.
Operating gambling house: Bruce Tripp, four months, suspended on payment of $50 fine and to remain away from service stations where there is gambling. Tripp is also to remain out of the service station business a year.

Important Ruling Commercial Trucks

Under General Order ODT 21, the operators of each commercial vehicle must have a certificate of war necessity in order to operate the vehicle after November 15. Under this order, all trucks including farm trucks, are to be classified as commercial vehicles. These certificates, which will be issued by the Office of Defense Transportation, will govern the maximum mileage to be driven, and the average mini-num loads to be carried. Without a certificate, no gasoline, tires, or repair parts can be obtained for commercial vehicles. Applications for these certificates were mailed to all truck owners early in October.

There has been a County Farm Transportation Committee appointed for Pitt County. This committee will assist all farmers and truck owners whose use is 51 per cent or more, in hauling farm products from farms and farm supplies to farms. The County Transportation Committee will be in the auditorium of the Agricultural building in Greenville, October 22, 23 and 24 to assist farmers, truck owners and truck operators hauling farm supplies with the filling out of their applications. All truck owners desiring this service are requested to bring their ODT application blank, truck registration card, and present speedometer reading of their truck.

Mickey And Ava Will Try Again

Hollywood, Oct. 20—(AP)—Mickey Rooney, 21, and his wife, Ava Gardner, 19, are going to start life all over again.

That's what Miss Gardner said last night in announcing that what at first inspection seemed a major domestic tragedy was in reality nothing but a family spat, and that she and her film star husband will take up where they left off last month, when she slapped a divorce suit on him.

"I'm dropping the suit," said Miss Gardner, a beautiful former model who has won some success in the films. "We're going to start all over again."

Miss Gardner, daughter of Mrs. J. B. Gardner, Wilson, N. C., declared she had no plans to abandon her film work.

First Lady To Visit England

London, Oct. 20—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth, recovered from a Bronchitis attack, left Balmoral Castle, Scotland, last night with King George VI and their two daughters for southern England where, newspapers reported, they will make preparations to welcome Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

While there was no official announcement on the reported forthcoming visit of the president's wife, authoritative sources were quoted as saying she was expected shortly. The first announcement of the trip will be made when Mrs. Roosevelt lands in England, it was said.

Washington, Oct. 20—(AP)—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said today Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt expected to go to London at some future time. Mrs. Roosevelt told a press conference recently she hoped to make the trip if she found she could serve some useful purpose, but she, too, left the date indefinite.

Sophomore Makes Star Run For Crimson Tide

Bobby Tom Jenkins (16), Alabama sophomore back, here is seen starting his 34-yard touchdown run against Tennessee in their game played in Birmingham Saturday afternoon. Fierce line play and capitalizing on opportunity, the Tide rolled to an 8 to 0 victory over the Vols and established itself as one of the nation's top eleven.

Youths, 18-19, Volunteer To Beat Draft Call

Joining a nationwide rush of 18 and 19 year old youths to "join up" before Congress acts on the new draft bill, these New York City youngsters are shown being sworn into the Army at the induction center in Grand Central Palace. Conducting the service is Capt. Emil Fichler.

Sports Roundup

New York, ct. 20—(AP)—How can you figure out anything about this football season? . . . You just decide those Navy Pre-flight teams are unbeatable when two of them get bumped off on one day—and the Iowa bunch by Notre Dame, which had been tied by Wisconsin and beaten by Georgia Tech. . . . Then a team like Duke, with no great record, comes up and pastes Colgate (just incidentally, this corner picked Colgate to win) by scoring one touchdown on an offensive play and four on things like pass interceptions and blocked kicks. . . . It may be that the boys aren't tak-

Maybe it's merely a coincidence, but the new obstacle course at the Enid (Oklahoma) Army Flying school is situated directly behind the post hospital. And the Cadets aren't kidding when they call it "Hell's half acre." . . . When Pat McCarthy, Butte (Montana) C.Y.O. director, enlisted in the navy re-

Must Register Fuel Oil And Kerosene
Rationing of fuel oil, including kerosene, has been postponed until next week due to the fact that necessary forms have not been received at the local War Price and Rationing Board office.
Dealer registration, previously announced for this week, will not be held until October 27 and 28. Consumer registration will be held on October 31.
Until such time as registration can be completed dealers and retailers have been asked to continue sales of fuel oil and kerosene to consumers upon their promise to give to the dealer and retailer coupons covering the amounts of purchases since October 1. Unless dealers comply with this request much hardship and inconvenience to the consumer will be the result.
The fuel oil program registrations will be held at the schools as on previous registrations for gasoline and sugar.

AUSSIES IN CHINA
Sydney, Australia, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Australian soldiers are fighting the Japanese in China. It was disclosed today by H. V. Ewart, minister of external affairs.
Speaking at the annual conference of the country press association, he said: "We even have diggers fighting in China, although this is not generally known."

Knox Says Japs . . .
The Japanese have broken since the start of the latest offensive, Knox declared that both the Pacific area and Africa as well as Europe were under consideration by United Nations strategists for the creation of a second front.
"Hori warned the nation . . . that the war had now entered a new stage, gradually assuming the phase of a long-term war," Domei news agency reported.

There was still no indication of a showdown battle between United States and Japanese warships in the Solomons. And for the moment at least both sides were apparently restricting their activities to hit-and-run assault without risking a major engagement on which the fate of the entire southwest Pacific campaign might hinge.

Official dispatches said U. S. Army Flying Fortresses and other Allied warplanes were inflicting heavy blows on Japan's sea-borne invasion forces throughout the 900-mile-long South Seas archipelago.
For three days, beginning Oct. 16, Allied bombers under Gen. MacArthur's command repeatedly attacked the strong Japanese fleet of warships, transports and cargo vessels off Shortland island, 200 miles north of Guadalcanal. Flying Fortress bombers and Navy-Marine Grumman Wildcat fighters strafed and burned 12 Japanese seaplanes caught on the water at Reketa Bay, 115 miles north of Guadalcanal, and shot down a large Japanese flying boat and a twin-engine enemy bomber.

In two days of aerial combat, Japanese losses in the Solomons were raised to 340 destroyed planes.
At the far north end of the Pacific area, American fliers again blasted the enemy's last base in the Aleutian Islands, dropping 15 tons of bombs on the Japanese at Kiska. Overcast skies obscured the results of the attack.

On the New Guinea front, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported that Japanese troops, driven back through the gap in the Owen Stanley mountains, made three counterattacks yesterday but all were unsuccessful.

Committee Asks . . .
wartime agencies.
The proposed new agency, which the committee said should be created by legislative action, would be headed by a chairman and primarily would be a policy-determining group.
Under it would be an office of war supply, exercising functions now vested in the WPB and procurement divisions of the Army, the Navy and the Maritime Commission; an Office of War Manpower, taking over most of the duties of the existing War Manpower Commission and the Selective Service Administration; and an Office of Economic Stabilization, an operating agency in which the present OPA would be the chief branch.
The divisions and agencies involved would be transferred, the committee noted, without "immediate changes in personnel."
The committee declared in its sixth formal report that "the current demand for the immediate passage of a national service act is a symptom of prevailing administrative shortcomings," which, if not "quickly faced and corrected," would jeopardize the war effort.
"The bare outlines for national war production program have not yet begun to appear," it commented.

The committee said it believed the public was prepared to follow "clear and simple" directions but was confused because of "conflicting orders and demands emanating from Washington agencies."
"We believe the American people are ready for any test," it said, "provided that they feel assured that their leadership has prepared the ground for the proposed advance."

After suggesting that the President enunciate at once the principle that all the nation's manpower shall be used where it will be most useful in winning the war, the committee said it then would be "clear that occupational deferment must become the chief instrument for organizing our manpower supply."

Under the committee's proposed set up, which would precede enactment of service legislation, there would be a fixed policy of decentralization, the committee asserting that "many of the shortcomings of the war effort to date are traceable to the attempt to run the war from Washington."

The committee accused the War Manpower Commission of seeking service legislation to "underwrite the authority it has failed to exercise," asserted the Selective Service Administration "is obviously unfit" to effect a balanced apportionment of manpower resources between military service and war production, and said the War Production Board
