More Japanese Troops Landed On Guadalcanal Island

American Planes Smash Jap Ships And Bases In China And South Pacific

Two Raids On Hongkong; Jap Airdrome Near Canton Bombed Today; Japs Retaliate With Raids On Allied Bases In India

By CLYDE A. FARNWORTH (Associated Press War Editor) Reports from China and the southwest Pacific today were a testimonial to United States aviation, but despite the drubbing given the Japanese in their South Seas bases and along their supply lines, they have poured fresh troops into the battle for Guadalcanal.

The U. S. Navy reported that Japanese troops, aided by tanks and heavy artillery, assailed the American lines on that Solomon island five times Friday night and Saturday morning, but were hurled back each time by the Marine and Army force.

The latest report was that on Sunday additional enemy troops were landed on the northwestern part of the disputed island.

The unrelenting aerial offensive under both the U. S. Navy command and General MacArthur's Australian command was credited over the week-end with likely hits on six Japanese fighting ships and three supply vessels.

American bombers and fighters, sweeping out from the Guadalcanal airfield and other Allied bases, continued to slam away at Japanese ships, damaging or possibly damaging five warships and three merchant vessels and sinking a gunboat.

A light cruiser and a destroyer were hit in a raid over the Shortland island area during the night of Oct. 22-23 and a heavy cruiser, or battleship, was possibly damaged by a torpedo hit.

On Oct. 25 Douglas "Dauntless" dive-bombers swooped down on an enemy force of cruisers and destroyers immediately north of Florida Island, which is about 13 miles north of Guadalcanal, and damaged a cruiser. The preceding night another enemy cruiser was reported probably damaged about 300 miles northeast of Guadalcanal.

In addition, General MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported that American Flying Fortresses had sunk a Japanese gunboat and damaged three merchant vessels at Rabaul, New Britain, bringing to about 100,000 tons the toll of shipping destroyed or damaged at that port in three nights. The bombers, all of which returned safely, also hit fuel barges near the wharves, causing a (Continued on Page Five)

Broadcast Was A Big Success

By CHESTER WALSH The Greenville Broadcasting Company, through the facilities of WGTC, placed this college town in the "best tobacco market in the state" in a position of prominence Saturday when a program originating at the United States Marine Base on New River was broadcast to more than 224 Mutual Broadcasting System stations from coast to coast and by short wave to the men and women in the armed forces all over the world.

It was "New River Calling," with Jimmy Simpson of WGTC as master of ceremonies. Listeners here said the program ranked with those of the "Army Hour" and the "Navy Hour" regularly broadcast over other networks. Millions of people heard the broadcast and the call numbers, "WGTC, in Greenville, North Carolina," Brigadier-General Hal Turnage of Farmville was instrumental in arranging the world-wide broadcast through WGTC in Greenville. The Pitt County Marine officer paved the way for the success of the broadcast. The personnel of the directing staff of "New River Calling" from the Marine base through WGTC in Greenville was singularly outstanding. Lieut. Stephen Stavers, Associated Press and short story writer and formerly with the New York Times, was production manager; Lieutenant Milton Thompson former Far Eastern correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, was (Continued on Page Four)

DENTISTS HOLD MEETING HERE

New Officers Elected This Afternoon

The annual meeting of the Fifth District of the North Carolina Dental Society was opened here last night with an oyster roast at the municipal street department building. The affair was entirely informal and the time was spent in fellowship and renewing acquaintances.

The business meeting got under way at the City Hall this morning at 9:30, with Dr. B. McK. Johnson of Greenville, president, presiding. Rev. Clyde Carter said the invocation. Mayor Bruce Sugg welcomed the visitors. Dr. C. G. Lancaster of Windsor responded.

President Johnson, in his address, reviewed the work of the association during the past year, commented on new and unusual conditions confronting the profession as a result of the war, and made some timely suggestions concerning meeting new war conditions. A number of members always present at the annual meetings were absent today. They are now in the armed forces.

A pleasant feature of today's session was the presentation of visitors and recognizing some of the deans of the profession who have stood squarely behind the school in its program of sound ethics. Greetings of welcome to the membership and visitors were interesting.

At 10:30 this morning Dr. J. Keavany of Washington, D. C., professor of Oral Surgery in the Dental Department of Georgetown University was the speaker.

Table clinics were held at 11:30. The subject was "Compound-Hydrocol Impressions for Indirect Castings," by Dr. Dewey Boseman of Wilson. Following this Major Arnold H. Feldman of the Dental Corps, U. S. Army, Camp Davis, discussed "Laboratory Procedures for the General Practitioner." Lieut. Col. R. E. Friedrich of the Dental Corps, U. S. Army, Camp Davis, discussed "Clinical Reports of Exodontia Cases at Camp Davis."

The annual banquet was held at the Proctor Hotel at 1:00 with Dr. Alfred Schultz toastmaster. The Proctor Hotel at 1:00 with Dr. Alfred Schultz toastmaster.

Then followed the treasurer's report, committee on president's address and other committee reports; the new business; election of house of delegates; selection of place of next meeting and election of officers.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

London, Oct. 26—The British offensive in Egypt may develop into one of the decisive engagements of the war, but at this early stage we must content ourselves with the fact that the Allies finally have seized the offensive there and that they have made considerable progress in a fierce fighting. The great stake involved is control of the Mediterranean and the Middle East. He who dominates this vital area will win the war.

Christian Science Service.
"Probation After Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 25.

The golden text was from Revelation 3:5. "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and they rose up at the same hour, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon."—Luke 24: 31, 33, 34.

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus unchanged physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by his exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed mistaking a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave. Jesus was 'the way,' that is, he marked the way for all man."

College Vesper Services.
"I am the light of the world, does not mean that Jesus is the light only in peacetime," declared Dr. R. L. Hilldrup of the college history department at the YW-YMCA hour last night, "but that He exemplified in His teachings, life and personality principles that would enable one to live in peace or war more abundantly, though not necessarily more securely."

In the discussion of the topic, the students had asked him to take "Can Christian principles be applied to the affairs of a nation at war," the speaker went on to describe these principles as found in the Sermon on the Mount, and said that they are at variance with the ideas of the day just as they were in the days of the great Roman conquests. Later, too, the way of Jesus was rejected by the German leader, Nietzsche, on the grounds that it was impractical and out of tune with that social morality is not the result of love, but of military power.

The challenge today, said Dr. Hilldrup, is whether we shall follow mammon, and in the treaty that comes after the war sow the seeds of another conflict, or whether we shall follow Jesus' law of love and include those principles that will make for world brotherhood. How the home front shoulders the responsibility of the peace terms will

In Concert At College.
Denton Rossell, tenor, will be presented in concert Tuesday evening, November 3, in Austin Auditorium on the college campus. Mr. Rossell had had radio, concert and operatic experience before becoming a member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College. He has been heard in two previous concerts here and those who have heard him welcome this opportunity to enjoy again his evening of songs.

In building a program for the public here, Mr. Rossell tries to introduce new and unfamiliar songs which he believes the public will like and with which he believes they should be acquainted. He also tries to sing certain familiar songs which he knows, from past experience, they enjoy hearing again.

His November 3rd program will be made up of songs by Handel, Schubert, Brahms, Hugo Wolf, Saint-Saens, Rachmaninoff, Tchaikovsky and Moussorgsky. He will also sing the famous tenor aria from the opera "Martha," which will be presented by the college students in February. His familiar numbers will include such favorites as "Water Boy" and "Come to the Fair."

Miss Camille Jernigan of Aulander, who is a sophomore at the college, will accompany Mr. Rossell. She will also offer a group of piano solos by Chopin.

The concert will begin at 8:15. There will be no charge. The public is invited.

Victory Day At Christian Church

Victory Day at Eighth Street Christian Church Sunday was significant in that the large audience present raised in cash and short-time pledges the entire indebtedness on current expenses, and a substantial amount toward making necessary repairs on the parsonage.

After the sermon by the pastor, Dr. E. H. Crossfield, on the subject "Values of the Church," an appeal was made for $2,000, to liquidate all current indebtedness which had accumulated over a period of years. This was quickly subscribed, and more than $500 was given for improvements on the parsonage.

An additional amount will be received from those who were not present which will be added to the parsonage-improvement fund.

Dr. Crossfield said the giving was the most spontaneous he had ever witnessed, and that the people responded with great joy to the appeal.

A committee will soon be appointed to select a permanent pastor, as Dr. Crossfield is serving only in an ad-interim capacity.

Lopacinski Visits Falkland Schools

The Falkland school was honored to have as its speaker Thursday morning Pfc. Leopold Lopacinski of Chicago, hero of the Solomon Islands battle. He spoke briefly urging the boys and girls to buy War Bonds and Stamps and to bring in the scrap metal. Then an open discussion was held during which the children asked Pfc. Lopacinski questions about his experiences in the war. He described briefly the climate of the islands, the hand-to-hand warfare; and how he killed with a machinegun and a knife, 36 Japs. Pfc. Lopacinski shows the true American spirit and determination, with no feeling of safety for himself.

Christian Living Theme Of Sermon

By WYATT BROWN
Dynamic Christian Living" was the subject of Reverend E. Roy Whitlow in his sermon yesterday morning at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church where he filled the pulpit in the absence of Reverend George W. Perry, Mr. Whitlow was introduced to the congregation by K. W. Cobb, chairman of the Board of Stewards. Mr. Cobb spoke of the great success Mr. Whitlow had had teaching the Methodist Ellington Memorial Sunday School Class and the high regard held for Mr. Whitlow all over Eastern North Carolina where he had been heard over the radio in the Sunday School lessons.

Mr. Whitlow recently joined the North Carolina Methodist Conference and will be assigned to a regular appointment when the Conference meets in Wilson next week for its 1942 session.

"As Christians this morning we need to give more encouragement to those who try to follow Christ," Mr. Whitlow declared.

Reviewing the life of Paul, his contribution on the Road to Damascus, Mr. Whitlow said, "What changed Paul's life? The Christian life demands more of you and me than any religious way of life in the world today and more than any other has ever known. Christianity does not lose its power. Just the substitute we have put in its place has lost its power. If we are going to lead a Christian life, and we have started off on the wrong track, we will have to change our way as did Paul. Paul was ready to give all."

"The big life today may not be the big life of yesterday and tomorrow. His values are different. My Christ has a way of measuring things different from those of us in this world. The Christian life is not as beautiful a theory—it is a way to live. It is a consistent way to live. Were it not for his wonderful goodness what would life be today? No life or organization can bring you the strength and comfort of the Christian religion. Where we live by faith, we can do the impossible: love our enemies."

"Christianity makes dynamic men and women out of people like you and me. Is Christ a character in history to you? Or is he with you this morning?" queried Mr. Whitlow and in closing quoted from a poem.

"I am not prepared to recommend additional legislation. I do not think we have exhausted the means available."

Hershey told the committee the U. S. armed forces now total 6,000,000 and with the army asking another 3,000,000 these steps should be taken:

1. Agriculture "must decide what it must grow next year and what we can do without."

2. Voluntary recruiting for the armed forces—particularly in the farm belt—should stop.

3. Industry should halt "stealing of workers" and "prejudice against the hiring of women."

4. Absenteeism—employees off duty in war industries for unreasonable periods—must be cut 50%.

"We are not getting the maximum from our manpower," Hershey said, predicting that industry must become "more efficient" and adopt "longer hours" to keep the production lines at the required pace.

Refusal of Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) to permit the appointment of uninvited conferees to work out differences between the Senate and the House on the draft bill set up a barrier which Rep. Thomason (D-Tex.) said probably could not be overcome without a roll-call vote.

The House program calls for no votes on controversial matters until after election next week.

Rankin objected to sending the bill to conference when Thomason, ranking Democratic member of the House Military Affairs Committee, said he could give no assurance that the House would have a chance to vote on a Senate amendment requiring at least 12 months of training before teen-age soldiers could be assigned to combat duty.

Rankin then offered a motion that would have instructed the House conferees to insist that the Senate amendment be retained, but withdrew it when Thomason withdrew his motion for the appointment of conferees.

The Texas said he would renew the motion tomorrow, and Rankin said he likewise would renew his motion for instructions to the conferees.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

Happiness largely consists in doing a job well. Dr. Grenfell, in one of his books, expresses wonder that any man can ever feel that life is not one glorious privilege after another. But where did Grenfell pass his life? In the midst of culture, wealth and luxury? On the contrary he chose to go to one of the bleakest sections of the globe, namely, Labrador, and there he worked as a physician among people who, from the material point of view, could regard him not at all. He gave himself wholly to the needs of others. He ministered both to the body and to the soul of men whose lives, had it not been for Grenfell, would have been miserable indeed.

Wherever a job is well done, it gives the doer a genuine thrill. And the more unselfish the work is, the deeper is the satisfaction. The perfect combination is a work which takes all of one's time in a field where he moves with ease and among people who greatly need the service rendered.

Where is this satisfaction to be found? In every village in this broad land. On every city street. Along every lonely countryside. The secret is not in stirring adventure right where we live, and destiny is beckoning us. We do not need to go to the end of the earth to be heroes. Heroism is lurking in our very vicinity with an olive wreath in his hand, and he is looking for just such folks as you and me.

Greenville was host last night and today to the District meeting of the North Carolina Dental Society. It is always a pleasure to have such gatherings in our city and we hope that all those in attendance enjoyed the hospitality of Greenville and will want to come again.

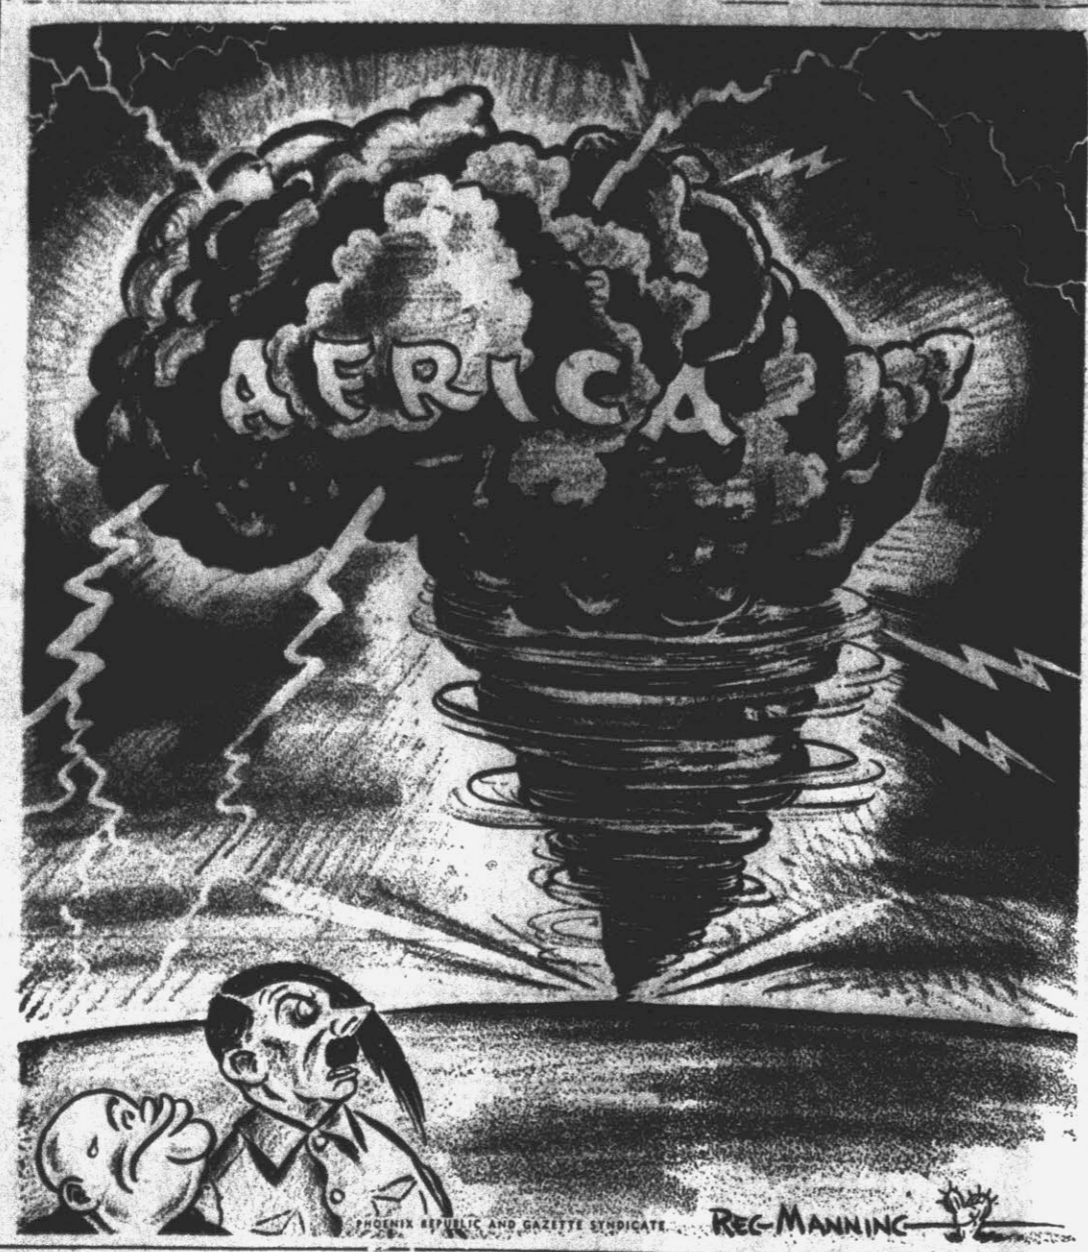

NOT ENOUGH YET

The Victory Bond Sale at Five Points Saturday disposed of a large number of War Bonds, but still the people of our county are not purchasing bonds in the quantities they should and not enough of our people are purchasing them. There are hundreds and hundreds of our people who could put money in small amounts in these government securities who are not yet buying bonds. This is everybody's war and it is up to each and every one of our citizens to do his or her part in every way, including buying War Bonds and Stamps. Every cent put into these securities will help our government at this time and will help insure the financial stability of this community after the war. If you are not already buying War Bonds and Stamps, we urge you to begin now and continue to buy them every pay day.

A PATRIOTIC SERVICE

In connection with the sale of War Bonds throughout the country the banks of the nation are rendering a real patriotic service. Contrary to public belief that banks do nothing except what they get pay for, the banks of the nation are handling the sales of these bonds without any compensation whatever and are even spending their own money to stress the need of the purchase of bonds by the public. Government figures show that approximately 85 per cent of all the war bonds sold to date have been handled by the banks requiring the full time of at least 25,000 banking employees. This is a real service on the part of the banks to our national effort at this time and they are to be commended for the fine work they are doing.

MURDER on the Campus

YESTERDAY, Susan Drake is caught between two fires. She is fond of Todd Malone, who seems to like her as well as any other eligible on State campus—but no better. Todd is the best football player State has. And she is also fond of Phil Humphries, who is a brilliant chemist, who delights in telling Todd he detests football. Todd is steady; Phil is wild. But the mystery of Todd's reserve piques Susan.

Chapter Five

Drake Drops A Hint
Except for the fact that the game was played in a drizzling downpour and a sea of mud, the Pittsburgh game the following Saturday was much like the opener. It was Malone, Malone and more Malone. His ball-handling in that goosy morass was superb and twice he sloshed his way through the muck on long touchdown runs.

"Look, it's 20-0 already," Anne Trevin mumbled, trying to blow away water that dripped down onto her face from her oilskin hood. "Let's go home."
Jane laughed. "Eddie would never forgive me if I didn't sit through it."
"How about you, Susie?" Anne wailed. "You don't have any commitments down there."
"You won't drown, silly. Only five more minutes," Susan said. No, she didn't have any "commitments," as Anne expressed it, but she was enjoying this and that's all that mattered. And she had little cause to complain. Down below, she noticed Todd's jersey was so covered with mud it was impossible to tell its color or see the Number 33 on his back. But she had discovered, strangely, that she didn't have to see the number to follow him.

Later, at the house, the girls took showers and got into fresh clothes. "Amy," said Susan idly, brushing her hair, "in 10 words what do you know about Todd Malone?"
"Well, well," Amy murmured. "Don't tell me you're interested."
"Just curious."
"You mean there's a difference—really?" Amy said with an amused, lifted eyebrow.

"In this case there's quite a difference. Sorry to disappoint you. Now give forth."
Amy shrugged. "In 10 words my answer won't vary much from what you'd get from his fraternity brothers. He's from out west, somewhere, and I understand he was raised by an aunt. At least that's the story we hear over at the Daily Star office."
"If you want more than 10 words," Amy continued, "I can tell you he has the makings of a first-class social butterfly but somehow it looks as if he prefers hot to go beyond the cocoon stage. Funny thing, too. He doesn't seem to be a poor boy and he dresses well."
"Probably subsidized by the Pi Gamma," Susan ventured.

"Even so," said Amy. "You sure you're not figuring on dropping chemistry and taking up football? Would you like to turn the Professor over to me?"
A well-aimed pillow was Susan's answer.

Surprise Visitor

Phil dropped by the following Tuesday afternoon about four-thirty. Susan was upstairs and had a pledge tell him she'd be down in a few minutes.
Just as Phil strolled into the living room he heard the bell ring. Seconds later the door slammed and then a tall, heavily-built man, his source of imports, and at least normal supplies are in this country. However, even in normal times only a two-or-three-months supply is held in this country. Added to the shipping uncertainty is the steeply mounting military demand and bigger civilian purchasing power.

However, WPA officials believed the country could have got along fairly well under informal rationing by grocers—"one pound to a customer"—had not the buying surge by householders developed.

Despite official warnings that coffee packed in the normal way quickly loses flavor and aroma, the buying rush by housewives spread from city to city with Boston, Columbus, Chicago and other places reporting customers forming in line for coffee in the morning. Raleigh N. C. last week reported an alleged "black market" situation in which coffee was being sold at up to 75 cents a pound.

Coffee Rationing . . .

"Naturally, stories and rumors will be creeping around about what we propose to do. Most of them will be entirely garbled and thus create more confusion and hysteria than even now exists on the subject of coffee. We are therefore stating what we plan to do so that the public can get the story straight and from an official source."
Eligibility will be determined by the age shown when the book was issued in May was 15 or older, the holder is entitled to coffee rations; if 14 or younger, the book is not valid for coffee purchases. Use of the book for sugar will continue as in the past.

In the light of "normal" United States per capita consumption, the new yearly ration rate of 10.4 pounds for each of the country's 93,000,000 adults "certainly is not a drastic reduction," Henderson asserted. It compares, however, with 16 pounds per capita in 1941, the all-time high consumption year.

Full details of beverage rationing, including the method of distribution to hotels, restaurants and other commercial users, will be given out in the next few days, OPA said. Behind the whole problem is the shortage of shipping; there is ample coffee in Brazil, biggest U. S.

The communists said that Soviet scouts filtered through to the enemy trenches and killed 70 Italians. The lull in the Moxdok area of the Caucasus where the Germans are trying to drive to the Grozny oil fields continued, but the Russians said their artillery fire destroyed 20 trucks and a company of infantry. Red army reserves, especially trained for street fighting, were sent into Stalingrad as the German assault grew more intense with the return of favorable weather.

It was not clear from dispatches whether the Russian gains within Stalingrad had nullified the German occupation of two new streets in the city as reported by Soviet high command earlier. The Nazi advance had been made at the cost of enormous losses. The Germans threw two divisions of fresh infantry into the battle and backed them up with fleets of tanks and planes, but the Russians, after nine weeks of bloody and tiring siege, continued to slug back at every corner, dispatches said. Within the city alone, 3,000 of the enemy were reported killed yesterday as the Germans made their advance.

The critical situation inside Stalingrad was somewhat relieved by reports of local successes northwest of the city and the complete cessation of German activity in the Mox-Roanne, Chateau-roux and Anney. They constituted a deliberate aggression affected in broad daylight and in the unoccupied zone of a disarmed country," the announcement declared.

An earlier announcement issued in Paris said hedge-hopping British and American planes had machine-gunned French farm workers near Focamp and Amiens in the occupied zone, causing casualties.

A Reuters dispatch from Bern said the Swiss government also was protesting to London over alleged violations of Swiss territory in connection with the raids on northern Italy Saturday night.

Air raid alarms sounded again in Bern last night. But there was no indication here that the RAF had been busy over northern Italy.

The Italian radio, which acknowledged that the raids on Genoa had badly disrupted the city's transport system, Rome put the number of casualties in the first raid on the city at 35 dead and 100 injured, and said 35 were killed and 67 injured at Savona.

Moscow, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A Tass dispatch from Genoa said today that King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena of Italy rushed to Genoa last Friday "on the instant demand of the Fascist government" after reports reached Rome of panic caused among the population and local authorities by the first destructive British air raid there Thursday night.

"The King and Queen encountered utter disorganization in the prefecture and in hospitals," the Russian news agency said it learned from dispatches coming out of Italy.

"Many officials were absent from their posts," Tass asserted. "The King was reported dissatisfied with the behavior of the local authorities who proved unable to restore order at factories or to arrest the rush of workers abandoning their work, and other Genoa residents fleeing to the northern suburbs."

"Intervention of (Carlo) Rastavice secretary of the Fascist party proved necessary to restore order in the city and to allay the panic. After the departure of the royal couple he proceeded with reprisals against the local officials."

The world-wide radio broadcast, "New River Calling," originating at the largest marine base in the world, was distributed to more than 800 stations from coast to coast and still waves all over the world. It was an important event in Greenville's history. The program carried entertainment and good cheer to tens of millions of civilians and to millions of Americans in the armed forces.

County and city officials, representatives of civic clubs, schools, college and church approvingly salute the owners and the staff of WGTC for "helping to put Greenville on the map in bigger letters."

DUKE-GA. TECH BIG FEATURE ON SATURDAY

Southern Conference Games To Predominate Week-end

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The meeting of Duke and undefeated Georgia Tech at Durham, N. C., will hold the spotlight on the Southern Conference home front this week.

Outside the loop area, the feature attraction for conference followers will be unbeaten William and Mary's attempt to duplicate last year's victory over Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.

Duke opened with a verdict over Davidson and then dropped two in a row to Wake Forest and the Georgia Pre-flight Cadets. The rebound began two weeks ago when the Blue Devils trounced Colgate 34-0, and continued last Saturday when Duke blanked Pitt, 28-0. Tech has won five in a row, including decisions over Notre Dame and Navy.

W. & M.'s Braves rolled up 119 points against 14 for their opposition in winning four, including a victory over the Navy, and tying Harvard. The Indians beat Dartmouth last year by a field goal.

North Carolina, tied with W. & M. for the conference lead with two wins in as many family appearances, returns to the circuit scrap after dropping its first game of the season at Tulane 29-14. Saturday by meeting N. C. State in Raleigh.

Other conference games set for this week are South Carolina-Clemson at Orangeburg on Friday and Davidson-V. M. I. at Lexington, Clemson-Wake Forest at Wake Forest and Richmond-Washington and Lee at Richmond on Saturday. The Citadel's squad is undefeated and united so far and won its only family engagement over George Washington.

W. & M. malloped George Washington 61-0, V. M. I. beat Richmond 20-6, with the Cadets' Captain Joe Muha engineering all three touchdowns, and Virginia Tech topped W. & L. 19-6 in loop tilts Saturday. Clemson handed South Carolina her second conference setback 18-6 Thursday.

Andy Victor, the Citadel's star halfback, was idle last week but held to the conference scoring lead with a total of 47 points in four games.

V. M. I.'s Joe Muha advanced into the runnerup spot with 38. Marion Butler, Clemson, ranked next with 32 points.

In Cincinnati Saturday, Frankie Sinkwich (No. 21) was the big show as Georgia downed the hitherto undefeated Cincinnati Bearcats 35 to 12. Here he sweeps around right end for 7 yards in the first period. Four plays later he scored his second (and Georgia's third) touchdowns of the initial period. Frankie scored three himself and passed to Lamar Davis for the other two.

knew look so broad of beam and thin of thatch now.

The stadium looks the same, except that you sit in a reasonably comfortable, covered box now instead of out on the hard concrete.

And you don't have the ethereal you had for Bully Dickinson's team back in '22. Remember, that was when Bill Roper told 'em, "A team that won't be beat can't be beat."

When they went out to play Chicago you stood in front of a loud speaker and suffered as John Thomas kept chasing through the line.

You started to walk away when they were two touchdowns behind, but just then they picked up a fumble and ran for a touchdown. And pretty soon Maud Crum made another and we were ahead 21-18.

And finally after Pink Baker made that tackle that stopped Thomas on the one yard line what a snake dance you had down the street.

You saw your first Yale game that year, too. Princeton wasn't supposed to win that either, but Yale couldn't get past the one yard line and pretty soon Bob Beattie got away for a good run and Ken Smith kicked a field goal and you won 3-0.

Some of the other seasons weren't so successful, but they bring back their pictures. When Notre Dame's four horsemen came in and handed your tigers a couple of lickings. The distance Whoops Snively could pass and the way Laury Legendre could punt to the coffin corner.

And the time you couldn't go to the Cambridge for that 34-0 victory over Harvard but stayed around to see Rutgers and Homer Hazel wreck what was supposed to be a great Lafayette team.

And when you went to Philly to see Red Grange run against Penn. And don't forget Jake Slagle's great run that beat Yale your senior year, nor the way Ed McMillan and Turk Gates ruined opposing lines.

Now you can understand why the old timers used to talk so much about Johnny and Arthur Poe and Sam White and the rest. Some day the kids below you may be talking about Bob Perina and George Franke the same way.

Washington Negro Has Biggest Feet

Fort Bragg, Oct. 24.—Quartermaster officers at the Reception Center here tackled a new problem this week—providing shoes for two privates who probably have the largest and smallest feet of any men in the army.

A size 16-4E shoe has been considered large enough for any army man by Quartermaster officers and for this reason this was the largest size available. But Pvt. Frank Lloyd, Washington, N. C., Negro when being supplied with clothing just couldn't squeeze his foot into a 16-4E.

A tape line was brought into service by supply men and Lloyd's foot measurements were recorded as 14 inches in length and 1 1/4 inches around the instep. Correct size shoe for the private will be an 18-7E, officers concluded. A special pair is being made for Lloyd.

Private Lloyd is six feet four inches tall and weighs 202. His hands measured 11 1/4 inches. Before entering the army he said he bought size 17-7E shoes and made them fit by cutting out the toes and sides.

With Pvt. Odell Fowler quartermaster officers tackled another problem. Fowler's foot measurements are eight inches in length and seven and one-half inches around the instep. He requires a size one and one-half shoe, which again required a special order for army shoes.

Arrest Negro After Collision On Road

Highway patrolmen arrested Lawyer Newton, colored, of Fountain, Saturday night on charges of operating a car without a license and reckless driving after his car was in collision with a car driven by Jonas Edwards of Fountain. Both drivers were shaken up. Several occupants of the cars were slightly injured.

The wreck occurred a mile and a half east of Fountain on the Palkland highway.

Used Belt To Hang Self In City Jail

Charles Anderson, 31-year-old farmer of the Winterville section hanged himself with his belt in a cell at the city jail here Saturday night, officers said.

Anderson had been arrested only a short time before on a charge of drunkenness.

When officers found him he had been dead more than an hour. The belt used in the suicide was attached to a bar less than five feet from the floor.

Surviving Anderson are his wife, Mrs. Bessie Pierce Anderson; one son, Larry Anderson; three daughters, Barbara and Ruby Anderson of the home, and Patricia Ann Anderson of Norfolk, Va.; four brothers, Theodore of near Greenville, Lyman Lester of Greenville, G. Wiley of Palkland, and James Anderson of

MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL OUT

Collapse Of C And D Leagues Fore- seen

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Collapse of Class C and D minor baseball leagues was foreseen today by Bill Webb, supervisor of the Chicago White Sox farm system, by drafting 18 and 19-year-olds.

Webb believed 70 clubs would fold and only 20 per cent of their 400 players would survive.

After talking with other farm bosses, Webb opined that the top minors—class B, A, AA and AAA leagues, which lean heavily on the majors for material as well as money—would be strengthened greatly by seasoned players, if the majors boosted their reserve lists and reduced their active lists.

The 16 major league clubs must not have title to more than 40 players, including those under option, contract or reservation, and this number must be reduced to 25 by the 31st day of the season.

If each club trimmed its active list to 23, a total of 32 men could be released to the minors. Many more could be handed down in the process if the authorized roster of 40 were enlarged.

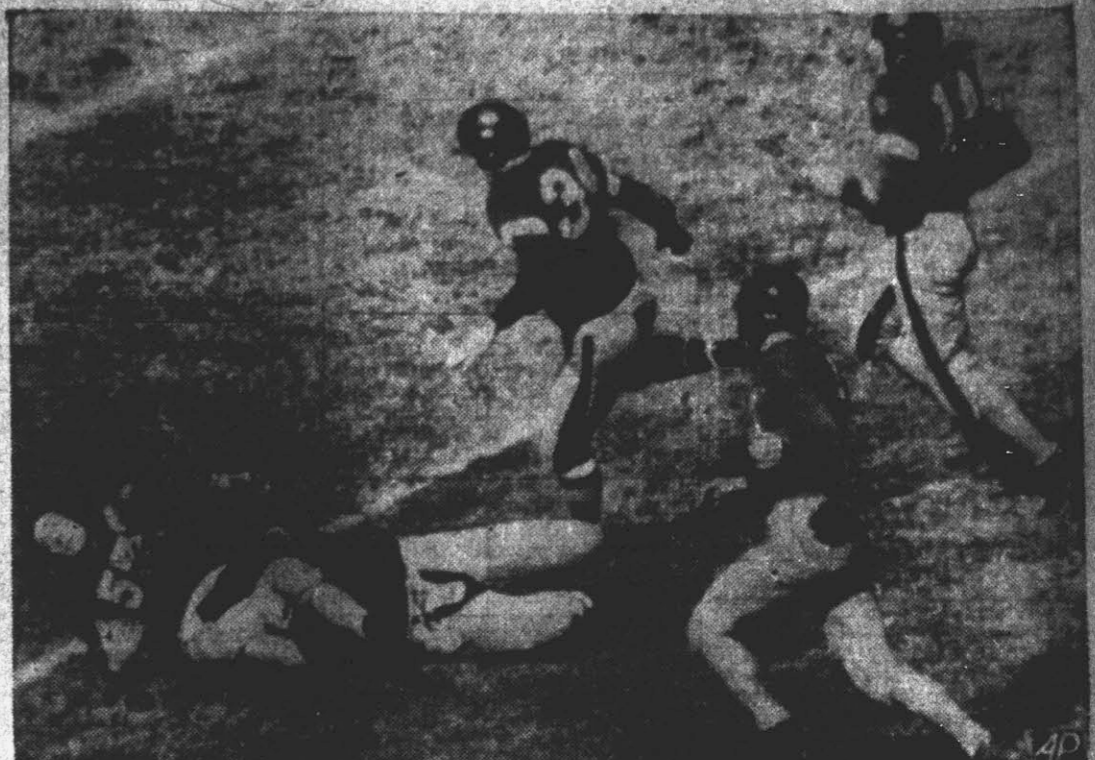

Webb thinks C and D leagues are doomed, despite many 17-year-old boys competing in them.

"These youths will enlist," Webb observed, "in order to pick their own branches of service, or will turn to defense industries for more money, or will regard it a waste of time to put in a year of baseball towards a career which may never be realized."

Only married players with children will remain, he said, and they can't gamble on a career for $85 a month in a D league.

Not being classified. For further information apply at the United States Employment Service office, located at 221 E. 5th street, Greenville, N. C.

McHugh Of Georgia Tech Downed After 19-Yard Pass

Pat McHugh (55), Tech halfback, is hauled down by Navy tackler after taking a pass from Clint Castberry for a 19-yard gain in the first period of the Tech-Navy game at Annapolis, Md. Saturday. Dark-shirted Navy men running toward tplay are Capt. Alan Cameron (34) and David Barksdale (14). Using every formation in the alphabet and with a sweet, 92-yard pass interception run by Castberry for a touchdown, Tech won, 21 to 0.

station was a major stroke against the Japanese at Hongkong, for it supplied power to the whole of the island. It is situated along the waterfront, about two miles from the district.

During the Japanese siege of the colony last December the enemy was careful not to shell the plant, because they wanted it for their own purposes and they captured it intact with their first landing.

Later in the morning the bombers raided the White Cloud air-drome northeast of Canton, starting many fires and touching off one heavy explosion. All planes returned to bases from today's missions.

Yesterday they plastered a Hongkong waterfront area despite Japanese attempt at interception and won a considerable combat victory over the enemy fighters.

Ten Japanese fighting planes were definitely downed and five more probably destroyed by the bombers which lost one of their number. An American fighter pilot also was forced down, slightly wounded, in Chinese territory.

The Japanese moved by fear, struck at American-British air bases at Chittagong and Tinukis in eastern India in what Domei agency frankly called a "preventive measure against materialization of a contemplated major-scale onslaught by joint forces of the United

Asks Return Of Wright Plane

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Representative Bonner (D-NC) expressed the hope today the Wright brothers plane, now in England, would be returned to this country and placed in a shrine at Kitty Hawk, N. C., now that the Smithsonian Institution has decided this was the first heavier-than-air craft to make a successful flight.

The institution announced Saturday its decision after a long controversy.

Bonner said a shrine already had been prepared at Kitty Hawk to receive the ship.

New Ruling For Liquor Stores

Raleigh, Oct. 26.—(AP)—North Carolina ABC stores began today limiting liquor purchases to one bottle per customer per day.

Chairman Carl Williamson of the State ABC Board, said the measure was adopted because of a "run on the store" in the 25 wet counties by persons attempting to stock up in anticipation of a new federal tax on whiskey effective November 1.

Allies' Egypt . . .
The plane was lost in the sharp dogfights fought all the way from 16,000 feet down to 1,500.
(Fighting French forces with the Eighth Army were described in London as the largest French force yet to participate in the North African operations. They are commanded by Gen. De Larminat and include Syrian reinforcements under Brig. Gen. Pierce Koenig, who commanded the Fighting French stand at Bir Hacheim oasis during the German offensive which drove the Allies out of Libya earlier this year.)
The fight was developing steadily, by day and night.
Battlefront dispatches said British infantry was holding open the gaps driven into the German-Italian defenses while the Eighth Army's armored forces rolled on through, behind the Axis forward line of troops, to positions from which to meet Rommel's armor.
The Eighth Army's tanks stood their first test of the new battle when they destroyed enemy tanks in skirmishes yesterday. Some British tanks were destroyed crossing the Axis minefields, where German and Italian artillery were laying down a heavy fire.
Allied air strength was said to have outnumbered Axis planes over the battlezone by five to one at the outset of the offensive. During a cold rain Saturday night the Germans sent over heavy bombers flown from Crete in an attempt to counter the Allied bombings.
A communique from British headquarters this morning placed heavy emphasis on the aerial blows being delivered against the enemy and declared that Rommel's attempts to close the gaps in his lines had failed.
"The enemy was unable to dislodge our troops from the areas already gained," the bulletin said laconically.
Axis air activity increased somewhat yesterday as Rommel's fliers sought to ward off the terrific bom-ardment to which his ground troops were being subjected, but Allied pilots had a successful day, shooting down seven enemy planes and damaging many more, headquarters declared. An Axis supply ship also was reported bombed and sunk in Tobruk harbor.

The communique mentioned only minor clashes between armored units, bearing out dispatches from the front indicating that the main armored strength of the opposing armies was not yet engaged.
Rommel's armored formations, however, were said to be moving up to meet the advancing British forces, and it was these units upon which the full fury of the Allied aerial assaults were concentrated.
American and British bombers, flying in relays, dumped tons upon tons of explosives on the massing Axis armored division from dawn to dusk yesterday, attempting to scatter and destroy them before they could join the battle.
The attacks were pressed home from low levels with strong fighter protection and were almost unopposed, British headquarters said.
Official quarters gave few details yesterday on the progress of the land fighting, limiting themselves to the announcement that the enemy's main positions had been penetrated at some points, but there was evidence of quiet confidence in the outcome.
Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery, commander of the Eighth Army, said that plans for the offensive had been well-laid and that its objective was to "destroy Rommel and his army."

"British and Allied troops fighting in front are first class soldiers and I am determined they will have success," he said.
While the full strength of the forces massed by the Allies remained a military secret, it was generally believed that they held superiority in men, tanks, guns and planes.
According to best estimates, Rommel has about 125,000 men at his disposal. These include two German armored divisions, two Italian armored divisions-the Trento and Folgosa; a German motorized division; a partially motorized German infantry division; and at least six Italian infantry divisions.
The Allied ground forces involved in the opening phase of the battle were known to include Australians and New Zealanders, the First South African division, the Fourth Indian division, the 44th Home Counties division, the 50th Northumbrian division, the 51st Highland division and units composed of fighting French and Greeks.

No American ground forces were engaged in the initial operations, but the United States Army Air forces have been playing a major role.
A communique issued by U. S. Army headquarters yesterday said that fighters, fighter-bombers and medium bombers of the desert air task force had made continuous and repeated attacks on enemy positions, gun emplacements and motor vehicles.
"Any direct hits were observed on gun emplacements and motor vehicles and many fires were started," the communique added.
Despite the extent of the Allied aerial operations yesterday only 12 planes were reported lost, and the crews of some of these were saved. One Axis plane was downed-a disparity in losses apparently accounted for by the fact that few enemy aircraft dared take the air.
While the battle raged on in the Egyptian desert and in the skies above, British submarines continued their attacks on the enemy's Mediterranean supply lines in an effort
