

British Driving Deeper Into Rommel's Defenses In The Egyptian Desert

Infantry Extends Its Ground Gains... Tank Battle Has Developed; Says Two British Attempts To Break At Matruh Repulsed

By DON WHITEHEAD Cairo, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Britain's Eighth Army has driven deeper into the Axis' El Alamein line defenses in conjunction with a ceaseless Allied air offensive taking steadily heavier toll in the enemy's rear, official reports from the front announced today.

At the end of the first week of the offensive to decide the fate of the Mediterranean, however, neither side apparently was ready to throw its main armored forces into the struggle—neither the British to exploit their gains nor the Germans to plug the menacing gaps in their lines.

Infantry was emphasized in a British communique which dealt mostly with the damaging blows on the Axis from the air and reported the land action in these four sentences:

"During the night of Oct. 28-29 our infantry extended gains in ground formerly held by the enemy. A further number of German prisoners was taken.

"There were minor engagements with enemy armored troops yesterday on whom casualties were inflicted.

"Fighting continues." The announcement indicated that the British were following the tactics to which they have adhered for the most part in the present campaign, attacking at night and consolidating their gains during the daylight hours.

The communique did not specify the extent of the advances or the sectors in which they occurred, merely reporting that "during the night of Oct. 28-29 our infantry extended gains in ground formerly held by the enemy."

The wording of the communique made it plain that infantry still was playing a major role in the slowly developing battle and that the main tank forces were not yet engaged. The bulletin told of ceaseless aerial attacks by day and night on (Continued on Page Six)

Saved Patients And Ambulances

Cairo, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The bravery of John Dun, 50, of Tucson, Ariz., a former editor of the Toledo (O.) Times was the talk of the western desert today.

Dun, an American field service ambulance driver, saved ten wounded men under intense enemy fire alone by driving three ambulances to safety on the night of October 23-24—the night the Allied offensive began.

The commanding officer praised Dun for "bravery, unselfish service and devotion to duty."

The three ambulances were mired in the soft sands of the Gattara depression within sight of the enemy lines. Armored vehicles had tried to haul them out but could get no traction.

The enemy, meanwhile, had laid down an intense fire. Explosive bullets tore a gaping hole in the door beside Dun and machine gun fire riddled the vehicles.

Dun jumped out to carry three patients to safety. As he lifted the first one, an explosive enemy fire hit the injured man in the stomach and killed him instantly.

Dun got the others to a sandbag shelter and lay there three hours with an Italian prisoner who crawled to the shelter and acted as Dun's orderly.

Finally, tanks arrived and towed the ambulances out one by one with Dun steering each one and getting his patients to the hospital.

Propose Plan To Create Unified High Command

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY Washington, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Against a background of momentous reports from the Solomon, Capitol Hill attention focused today on propositions to revamp the fighting services, Washington wartime agencies and, moreover, congressional procedure—all aimed at greater military striking power.

Overhauling all other proposals was that to combine the army, navy and marine corps into a single, coordinated fighting force, wearing one type of uniform and directed by one commander.

Other propositions enraging the attention of senators and representatives included: 1. Creation of a congressional "high command" committee to co-

RUSSIANS HOLD AT STALINGRAD

Tanks Repulse Thrust By Nazi Armored Forces

By ROGEE GREENE Associated Press War Editor On the Soviet front today Red army headquarters announced that Russian tanks had won a critical battle of armored forces in Stalingrad's northside factory district and reported that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's relief offensive had smashed into German defenses in the Volga-Don corridor.

It was the 67th day in the siege of Stalingrad.

Led by tanks, the vanguard of a German infantry division drove up 50 to 100 yards to the edge of a factory in the northern industrial suburbs, but fell back as Soviet tanks rumbled out to meet the assault. The Russians said 1,500 Nazis were killed and 16 tanks destroyed in the battle.

"All attacks were repulsed and Soviet troops are firmly holding their positions," the Russian command said, summarizing the struggle inside the wrecked Volga metropolis.

There was still no indication how far the city Marshall Timoshenko's relief forces had advanced in their drive against the 40-mile German "barricade" which guards the main Nazi siege armies on the north. Red army troops have been hacking into the Nazi flank for several weeks.

In the Caucasus, the Russians conceded a new setback on the Nalchik plateau—the second in 24 hours—as the Germans threw large numbers of tanks into an assault apparently aimed at reaching the Georgian military highway to Tiflis.

On the Black-Sea coast, in the western Caucasus, Red army troops were credited with dislodging the Germans from a fortified position and killing 1,200 Axis invaders northeast of Tuapse.

The German high command admitted that the Russians were counter-attacking in the mountains north and south of Tuapse, but declared they had been repulsed.

Jap Bases In Burma Bombed

New Delhi, India, Oct. 30.—(AP)—RAF Blenheim bombers blasted runways of two Japanese airdromes in Burma yesterday and returned without a loss despite enemy fighter operations, a British communique said today.

While one formation loosed bombs upon the Phakokku airdrome, a larger force raided Schwebo's field and buildings and left fires burning, the communique announced.

The bombers were reported to have destroyed one Japanese fighter and damaged others which attempted to interfere at Schwebo.

Junior Roll Call Starts On Sunday

Sunday, November 1, Junior Red Cross Sunday, marks the beginning of the American Junior Red Cross Enrollment, which will continue thru November 18th, and all ministers in the community have been requested to call this to the attention of the public on Sunday morning.

On Monday, October 26, at 5:30, there was meeting of fifty-two teachers from the colored schools in Pitt County at the Fifth Street colored school, where Miss Wall spoke to them of the purpose of the enrollment, outlining the work necessary to be done by both teachers and pupils, and distributed the materials to be used. The colored schools are showing a fine cooperative spirit, the Fifth Street school having already completed its enrollment.

Parents To Meet At High School

A special meeting of parents—mothers and fathers—of the Greenville high school students has been called for next Monday night to make plans for a recreational program for the children of Greenville.

The purpose of the meeting is to plan a definite program to take the place of the regular athletic program which cannot be carried on because of the war emergency, Wallace Bourne, of the high school faculty, stated.

The war efforts of the school are to be outlined and discussed with a view to expanding them to a greater scope of usefulness. A number of parents, active in school work, will be asked to lead this discussion and to present the physical education program.

Tornado Takes Lives Of Twenty-Seven Persons

More Than 200 Injured When Twister Wrecks Town

Berryville, Ark., Oct. 30.—(AP)—At least 27 persons were killed and more than 200 injured, many critically when a tornado leveled more than half of this Ozark mountain town late last night.

Several of the injured were so badly hurt that physicians advised against transporting to hospitals. Fires broke out immediately after the tornado, forcing the survivors to drop their rescue operations for a time to prevent spread of the flames through the splintered wreckage.

Approximately 25 persons were trapped and injured in the collapse of the Missouri and Arkansas railroad station. Most of them were waiting to board a northbound train.

Without hospital facilities, the stricken town of 1,485 population had only three physicians to care for the scores of injured.

Although nearly every business house was damaged, either unroofed or windows blown out, most of them, including three drug stores, were able to open for business. Stocks in most of them were damaged to some extent.

Doctors and nurses were sent from Harrison and Eureka Spring and several loads of injured were taken to hospitals in other communities. A passenger bus came through the stricken town 30 minutes after the disaster. Its passengers alighted or stood up to make room for some of the injured being taken to the Harrison hospital.

The tornado left the town helpless. The power plant was destroyed forcing rescue workers to work by torch light, flashlight, lanterns, candles, or even matches. (Continued on Page Four)

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

London, Oct. 30.—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, chief draftsman of the covenant of the new League of Nations, believes that the erection of a new international authority—a real barrier against war—must be the immediate concern of the Allies as soon as this conflict is ended.

"My friends of the left want great economic and social reforms," he told me during a conversation in his London home. "They hold that there will be no more war if there is enough reform under way.

"However, this seems to me to be putting the cart before the horse. They cannot convince large numbers of nations to launch out on great reforms forthwith, for reforms must depend on peace.

"We must mace the people feel that further war will be prevented. Then the prestige acquired will help get social reforms carried through.

"This is the great thing nations must consider. We must have supremacy over war in order to get reforms. Unless you can create a secure base for your reforms they will be swept aside in the next convulsion."

Or—elaborate that what is left of the League of Nations provides a fine nucleus for a new international organization. At the same time

GOOD SEASON ON LEAF MART

Money Paid Out Sets All-Time Record

While the present season on the Greenville tobacco market still has several days to go, the money paid out to date surpasses by a million dollars the highest total amount ever paid out on the market for a single selling season. The season's sales to date have brought $17,212,345.65, nearly three million dollars more than last season. Offerings are expected to get much lighter after Monday's sales and about the middle of the week the official sales committee is expected to meet and decide on the closing date for this year's market.

Mr. Rankin said today's sales were fairly heavy for this near the season's end and that the demand for good tobacco carried some prices to $51 per hundred.

Official figures for the week and season compared with the figures for the total season last year, released by Supervisor R. C. Rankin this morning follow:

Sales for week ending yesterday 2,569,820 pounds for $606,499.53 an average of $31.28 per hundred; for the season to date 46,325,092 pounds for $17,212,345.65 an average of $35.62.

Final figures for last season were 43,807,402 pounds sold for $13,520,374.65 an average of $30.65.

Red Cross Leader Warns, "Be Ready"

By CHESTER WALSH Miss Helen Wainsley, executive of the American Red Cross and field worker in disasters, spent a profitable day in Greenville yesterday with Mrs. Walter C. Taylor, executive secretary of the local chapter of the Red Cross. Her mission here was to coordinate the activities of the local Civilian Defense Council with those of the Red Cross. She spoke to representative group at the City Hall in the afternoon and again at night. Dr. J. L. Winstead represented the Civilian Defense Council.

In her public talks and in conferences with local leaders Miss Wainsley stressed the importance of completely organized groups in local communities in order to "be ready" when disaster strikes, whether it is natural like a tornado, flood or conflagration or the result of an attack by the enemy. The national Red Cross leader commended J. Nat Harrison, Pitt County chairman of the Red Cross, and Mrs. Taylor, the executive secretary, for intensive work being done to coordinate various agencies.

SCRAP HOLIDAY ON WEDNESDAY

Bethel And Grimesland To Make Drives

Citizens of Bethel are making preparations for the all-out scrap drive which ends on November 4. Representative people in each neighborhood are beginning a house to house canvass to get all scrap collected on the roadsides where it will be picked up by trucks next Wednesday morning.

Five trucks have been secured and their routes laid out. These trucks are being furnished by F. L. Blount, J. C. Smith, J. L. Gurganus, R. J. Whitehurst, and L. N. James.

All stores will be closed Wednesday morning. Business men and high school boys will man the trucks and haul in the scrap. School children are collecting scrap from regions near the school.

The Grimesland school district, in cooperation with the county-wide rural scrap drive, will put business aside on Wednesday, November 4, and devote its entire time to collecting scrap. Businesses will close and high school boys will man trucks to collect scrap. A committee of citizens is being organized to make a thorough house to house canvass of all farms for every available piece of scrap.

For the past month, the school has carried on an active campaign in which around 100,000 pounds has been collected. All scrap given to the school is being sold and the money turned over to the P. T. A. for the purpose of developing the playground.

Outstanding work has been done so far by Mayor A. E. Fleming, who is chairman for the Grimesland district, and Otis Ange, W. A. Hudson, J. B. Stokes, G. S. Porter, R. S. Elks, L. E. Hodges, and Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker.

Two motion pictures have been shown for which 25 pounds of scrap was charged as the price of admission. These netted around 25,000 pounds of scrap.

The FFA club, headed by the Agriculture teacher, Mr. J. S. Sanders, has been active in the drive. One of the FFA boys, J. Brooks Tucker III, discovered an old cotton gin and with the help of his classmates, salvaged the scrap and hauled it to the school.

Two little fellows, Bobby Glavin in the third grade and John Madison Taylor in the first grade, have done noteworthy work in the campaign. Each collected over 300 pounds on their fathers' farms and had it hauled out to school.

Campaign officials urge that all Grimesland people do their part and make a concerted effort to get out all scrap by Wednesday, November 4.

Citizens assigned to the various sections to collect scrap are as follows: (Continued on Page Five)

Warned To Turn In Ration Books

J. K. Simmons, state OPA sugar rationing officer, announced yesterday that men and women entering the military service must turn in their war ration book to their local rationing boards.

Simmons said that all boards in the state had been advised to check with their selective service boards and follow up to see that all books were returned. He pointed out that failure to turn in the books might cause improper distribution of rationed commodities.

Regulations also require that ration books be returned to the boards not only in the case of persons entering the armed forces, but also by civilians, such as Red Cross workers or representatives of government agencies, or others who leave the United States for more than 30 days. Ration books for persons who have died must be returned to the local boards, Simmons said.

Carrier Losses Bring Battleships To Front

By ALEX H. SINGLETON Washington, Oct. 30.—(AP)—War's high mortality rate of aircraft carriers—prime targets of modern fleet engagements—raised today the possibility that the heavily-armed battleship would regain temporarily its place as monarch of the sea.

Land based planes, toting heavy loads of destruction and ranging thousands of miles in search of the enemy, appear destined to supercede both the battleship and the carrier as the No. 1 weapon of attack.

But, until mass production of such craft reaches a steady stream and until a network of bases for their operation can be developed, the constructive drain upon the carriers of both this nation and Japan has fo-cusced new attention on the battleship assets of each. The Navy has reported sinking and crippling a substantial part of Japan's carrier complement. At the same time it has acknowledged officially reporting the loss of the Lexington, the Yorktown and the Wasp, and severe damage to another, as yet unidentified.

Possibility that the carriers eventually might be "stricken from the sea" and that the big battleships might then engage in an old-fashioned slugfest with Japan is being considered by Chairman Vinson of the House Naval committee during the consideration of a measure to expand the Navy's floating arsenal (Continued on Page Five)

Twelve Jap Light Tanks Reported Destroyed In Latest Action; Torpedo Boats Score Hit on Jap Destroyer; Jap Naval Attack Expected

By JOHN H. WIGGINS Washington, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that American troops on Guadalcanal had destroyed 12 Japanese light tanks in the last week and that in the last two days torpedo boats had scored a torpedo hit on a Japanese destroyer which was engaged in reinforcing enemy troops on the island.

This was the second report by the navy of torpedo boat action in the Solomon battle, a torpedo boat attack during the night of October 14-15 being credited with a probable hit on a Japanese cruiser.

A communique from the Solomon Islands activity said that land fighting on Guadalcanal island on the last two days had been confined to small skirmishes, but American aircraft were continuing to bomb and strafe enemy positions west of the airfield. In the late afternoon of October 28 American fighter planes destroyed two enemy seaplanes at Esata Bay. This morning, of October 29, enemy bombers attacked the American positions on Guadalcanal, but all their bombs exploded in the water, the navy said, and no damage resulted.

The 12 tanks mentioned brought to 17 the number of such enemy armored weapons destroyed in recent severe fighting on Guadalcanal. Five were destroyed by army and marine troops and artillery the night of October 25, when the Japanese made four unsuccessful attempts to penetrate the west line of the American forces.

Today's communique did not report details of the action in which the 12 tanks were destroyed, but naval quarters in Washington thought it likely the tanks were used in the recent assaults in which the Japanese have succeeded in piercing the American lines. In both cases, counterattacks succeeded almost immediately in throwing back the enemy and restoring the original American positions.

A terrific Japanese naval onslaught in the Solomon area was expected to break shortly against the United States fleet in the United States waters but, meanwhile, Allied airpower lashed out at enemy vessels, planes, troops and (Continued on Page Six)

Missed Fatal Trip, Local Boy Writes

A Greenville boy in the armed forces and stationed at Los Angeles, Calif., missed probably death in the crash of an Army bomber and a transcontinental air liner some days ago because of failure of orders to come for his departure. Corporal Norman E. James of this city, stationed with U. S. Army motion picture unit at the Hal Roach studios in Los Angeles, and another enlisted man were to leave for an army school in Dayton, O., with Lieutenant Joseph Rosser. Orders failed to arrive and the lieutenant made the trip, leaving Norman James and his buddy behind. Shortly afterwards the passenger plane and an army bomber crashed near Palm Springs, Calif., killing 12 persons on the airliner, including Lieutenant Rosser. The pilot of the Army bomber has been arrested and will be tried for manslaughter.

Norman James was disappointed when he was unable to make the trip. When reports of the crash of the plane came to Los Angeles the Greenville boy realized that he had missed death by a slight delay in an army order.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James of Greenville, the soldier said, "I might have been along, but what is to be will be."

Mrs. Webb Honored.
Mrs. Paul Webb of Morehead City, was honored on Wednesday when Mrs. L. R. Meadows entertained at luncheon and bridge at her home on East Fifth street.

The beautifully appointed banquet table had for its centerpiece an attractive arrangement of fruit and autumn leaves. The rooms in which three tables were placed for bridge were lovely with autumn flowers and leaves.

The high score prize, a corsage of Thrift Stamps, was won by Mrs. K. B. Pace. The low score prize went to Mrs. J. B. Kittrell. Mrs. Meadows presented her honor guest crystal fruit juice glasses.

Miss Sallie Joyner Davis was a luncheon guest.

Commends Club for Rest Room.
A few months ago, under the sponsorship of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club and the War Defense Project, a public recreation and rest room for women was opened on Fourth street, where Dr. Aycock's office, formerly was. To the out-of-town shoppers and visitors of Pitt and surrounding counties, as well as local people, this apartment, for it consists of three rooms, is a great asset.

The rooms are comfortably furnished, kept immaculately clean, and made attractive with colorful vases of flowers. In one small room there is a cot upon which the tired shopper may recline to rest when she so desires; there are games for the youngsters to enjoy while waiting; toys and story books for smaller children; and even a rocking chair with which to get the baby to sleep when it's necessary for him to come to town.

An efficient maid, who is very courteous to visitors, is on duty at practically all hours, assuring callers of their welcome and safety of packages which they may desire to leave.

The register of guests shows the large number from various addresses, even out-of-state, who are benefited by this inviting place of recreation. This word of appreciation and thanks to the Business and Professional Women's Club and the War Defense Project, which have made possible such a courtesy.

Especially notable was his handling of his own arrangement of the ethereal Correll-sonata with which he began his program, his warmth of tone and feeling.

Mr. Spalding is not on tour at present, as he is engaged in getting ready for the appearance in book form of his autobiography, which came out in four installments in spring issues of Harper's magazine. He made the trip from New York for this one concert, spent last night and today in Greenville, and is returning to New York tonight.

With him as accompanist was Andre Benoit, who is able after 30 years of playing with this artist to fuse his art with that of Mr. Spalding so that it is never obtrusive, but is felt as richness and depth of background.

This was the opening program of the year's entertainment series at East Carolina Teachers College. The others will include the Ball-Java-dance, Rhea Stevens, Metropolitan Opera mezzo soprano, and Dennis Morgan of the movies, tenor.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Greenville Bit at the Same Bait
A few weeks ago some men were in Kinston selling sweet scented balls of weed. The men claimed that they would unfold at the touch of water and in a few weeks would bear the sweetest and most beautiful flowers ever seen. Nearly every family in Kinston bought the weed—some bought four or five of them and purchased nice dishes to put them in. Well, the weeds unfurled when placed in water and the odor was delightful. But we have been watching in vain for the blooms and they haven't appeared, and there is no odor about them now, save an unpleasant damp one. It rather looks like somebody has been faked.—Kinston News.

and precise old lady who gave nearly every Savannah child his or her introduction to learning. She taught Daisy to read and write—but not, alas to spell. No one ever succeeded in doing that.

When Daisy was fourteen she was considered too old for Miss Lucile's school, so she was sent with her older sister, Nellie, to boarding school. This was a great concession on the part of Mrs. Gordon, as Daisy never had been strong after an illness she had in Chicago, where the family took refuge after Sherman's occupancy of Savannah. She was not only fragile, but very small for her age.

After two years at Stuart Hall, Daisy went to another Virginia school, Edge Hill, near Charlottesville. There the girls had a great deal more fun than they had had at Stuart Hall.

Daisy was a good student but was full of fun and life and would at times be in "disgrace" as she would say. Not for doing anything really bad, for as she writes to her mother, "you can trust me not to do anything wrong, against God, I mean."

Like other school girls, Daisy took a tremendous interest in clothes and was exceedingly particular as to how they were to be made.

Daisy and her sister were at Edge Hill for two or three years. Finally, it was time to say goodbye for the last time.

When Daisy was eighteen, she was sent to Mile. Charbonner's school in New York City. Her mother had attended a French school in New York to be "finished," so it was a matter of course that her daughters should follow that example. Daisy was enchanted with New York. Theaters, operas, exhibits of all kinds attracted and held her interest, for although the Mademoiselles were strict, they saw to it that their pupils enjoyed the advantages the metropolis had to offer. After spending two happy years in New York, Daisy came home to make her formal bow to society. The formal entertainments in Savannah were given by the Cotillion Club to which all the men in society belonged. The first time a girl attended a Cotillion Club ball she was considered to be making her debut. It was a momentous occasion. The evening finally arrived when Daisy was formally to be presented to Savannah society. Her heart beat fast with excitement and some trepidation. Suppose no one "favored" her in the german? When everyone had been greeted, the music struck up a waltz and the party officially began. No more qualms for Daisy now! She was so pretty, charming and witty that everyone liked her and she was showered with favors again and again.

It was an auspicious beginning. After that Daisy found herself much in demand with both boys and girls—she was exceedingly popular, and had many serious beaux, too, among them a handsome young man called Willie Low. Although an Englishman, Willie had come over to America to look after his father's business interests. He soon became one of Daisy's greatest admirers.

The following spring, 1886, Daisy's engagement to Willie Low was announced and on her mother's wedding anniversary, December 21, 1886, Juliette Magill Gordon became the bride of William MacKay Low. Daisy left home with her husband to take up life in England and soon she was caught up into the gay whirl of fashionable English life.

Before she could be actually a part of London society, Daisy had to be officially received at Court. So very soon after her arrival she was presented to Queen Victoria.

So, with her formal introduction to London society, we leave Daisy. Hers was to be a life crammed full of thrilling experiences, for to her existence was never boring. Wherever she went and she traveled the world over, she rubbed shoulders not only with royalty, but with people who from their own accomplishments had attained world-wide fame. She loved people generally, famous or otherwise, and girls she loved best of all. And how they adored her! She was never too busy to enter into any game or sport. Above everything else she loved her Girl Scouts. For the work she did in starting that great organization in this country, the name of Juliette Low will live as long as there are Girl Scouts in America.

TO JULIETTE LOW
"Hers was a golden vision—for looking down the years. She understood the questionings and needs that would arise. In the lives of little girls and big, growing to womanhood. And, clothed her understanding in adventurous disguise. Taking as her recompense the laughter in their eyes."

Denton Rossell, tenor and teacher of singing at the college, who will be presented in a vocal concert in Austin Auditorium next Tuesday, November 3. Before coming to East Carolina Teachers College to teach singing, Mr. Rossell had sung leading role with the Opera Intime and Pacific Northwest Opera Guild. He had also been heard in concerts and had sung in the motion picture production of Rex Beach's popular novel "The Barrier."

In speaking of the program which he will present Tuesday, Mr. Rossell says, "I am glad to have this opportunity of presenting songs by the great song writers of the past and present. I am also pleased that through these songs I present poetry by Goethe, Tolstoy, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Carl Sandburg. I think the public often fails to appreciate that a fine song frequently presents a great piece of literature. I am aware of the public's desire to hear familiar songs and am glad to include songs of that type among those that I sing."

Miss Camille Jernigan, talented sophomore pianist, will accompany Mr. Rossell and will also play a group of piano solos. The program, which will begin at 8:15, is given without charge.

Girl Scout Activities In Greenville

GIVES FACTS ABOUT LIFE OF JULIETTE LOW

This week Greenville Girl Scouts have joined with other Girl Scouts throughout the world in observance of Girl Scout Week. Saturday, October 31, the birthday of Juliette Low, the founder in America of Girl Scouts, will climax their week of celebration.

Realizing what Juliette Low has done for American girls, naturally her Girl Scouts would like to know what her girlhood was like, what she thought, what she did and what she was like at Girl Scout age herself.

Juliette Low, born Daisy Gordon of a fine old southern family, was one of six children, she being next to the oldest. The Gordons lived in Savannah, Ga., in a beautiful, old-fashioned square house, roomy and comfortable. The yard itself was large enough for any game the children chose to play. The first school Daisy attended was kept by Miss Lucile Bois, a trim

GET QUICK ON WAGE CONTROL

Begin Administration Of Order Within 15 Days

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—The Treasury and War Labor Board announced today that they will begin the task of stabilizing wages and salaries, and a Treasury official said the point that raises for the war are not necessarily cut for the duration.

John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of the treasury, told a press conference today that the program offered many opportunities for increases by promotion, merit increases, etc., but that most of these would have to be decided individually by the Internal Revenue Commission.

Decentralized administrative machinery will be operating within 10 to 15 days, the War Labor Board said, to handle its part of the work of control of wages and salaries up to $5,000 in the case of employees represented by a labor organization.

Formula for limiting salaries to a maximum of $25,000 a year, after deduction of federal income taxes, customary charitable contributions, life insurance premiums and fixed obligations, must also be worked out by the Treasury.

Sullivan noted that state income taxes may not be deducted in arriving at the $25,000 net.

Dividends to employees will not be included in their salaries, he added, and some form of small company bonuses may also be exempt.

Bonuses based on accomplishments of employees, however, will be considered part of the salary, unless otherwise decided in individual cases by the Commission.

Sullivan said there was now no regulation which would prevent an employer from leaving one job for a better-paid job of the same type, but added that this might be covered by future regulations.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

IN HARBOR
A prominent writer and explorer tells in one of his books about a pair of mittens which had been knitted for him by someone for whom he bore a very deep affection. There had been knitted into the palm of each mitten a small red heart. In a lashing arctic storm one of these mittens slipped off his hand, and he retrieved it almost at the cost of his life. In his book he admits that the risk he took on that occasion was foolhardy. "But," he says, "as soon as I had the glove in my possession again, my soul was in harbor."

All around him was storm, but his soul was in harbor.
Our soul is always in harbor when it is held in the storm hands of love. Hate produces storm. It causes the billows of angry passion and violence to roll dangerously. But love brings peace to the soul. When a person is dominated by the quiet passion of a great commitment, his heart is peaceful indeed. Whether it is love for country, the love of man for woman or woman for man, parental love or ill-fated devotion, it is always the same. And when the love is a quiet resignation and understanding of Him who hath made all things and hath sustained them by the power of His word, then the peace which is in the heart is indeed past all understanding. The soul is in harbor.

GET THAT SCRAP TOGETHER

During the week-end is a good time for our people to spend a little time getting together their scrap metal for the county-wide drive to be made next Wednesday. Every piece of available scrap is needed in our war effort and unless we do our part in this matter there may not be enough materials of war to enable us to win. On next Wednesday trucks will call at every farm in the county for scrap metal. The people on our farms can assure the success of this drive by having their scrap placed by the side of the road where it will be easy for the trucks to get it.

NO TIME FOR BUCK-PASSING

The statements back and forth between the high authorities as to who did or did not order the Solomons campaign, as well as those as to the responsibility for our military successes or failures, appears to us to be that same old army game of "passing the buck." As we see the situation, the time is at hand when instead of trying to claim glories or shift responsibilities, those in charge of the various departments better be putting their heads together in an effort to see to it that we make a success of winning the war. Victory in this war for America and its Allies will mean freedom of the world, while defeat will mean regimented slavery. With such a stake in the matter, this is no time for buck-passing. If mistakes have been made in the past, let us spend our time and efforts placing the blame, let's do something about seeing to it that such mistakes are not repeated and that by our united efforts we overcome any losses that in the past might have occurred while the higher-ups in the various branches of the government and armed forces were playing the old game of petty jealousies and buck-passing.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—There are so many obstacles in the way of that so-called "labor peace" that many concerned will pass snap judgment that it can't happen here. But off-the-record observers within the labor movement and without are almost unanimous: A consolidation of the CIO and AFL, with practically all independent unions except the United Mine Workers (John L. Lewis) stringing along, may happen any day now.
For the moment, let's not consider the obstacles. They have been recited before in this report and others. The reasons for consolidation are:
(1) The war, with its attendant manpower and wage-control legislation, has taken away from warring labor factions the weapons with which they fought each other.
(2) Labor's most potent weapons for maintaining the gains they have made and righting wrongs that still exist are: (a) Labor leaders who hold key jobs in Washington, such as those on the War Labor Board in the Manpower commission, and in the Department of Labor; and (b) The Washington Labor lobby.

(3) Most of the AFL and several groups in the CIO have been waiting for a long time to catch John L. Lewis far enough off base to put him out.
Under the heading of (1) comes the fact that both William Green (AFL) and Philip Murray (CIO) have pledged no strikes for the duration. While this has not yet become an accomplished fact, those pledges eliminate sanctioned jurisdictional strikes, as well as those involving wages, hours and working conditions.
Public opinion is also a vital factor in this matter of strikes and operates importantly against demands for excessive wages and shorter hours.
These things force labor to look for (2) representatives in the war government and an influential lobby that can make itself felt whenever labor legislation is in the offing. In both cases, a split labor movement defeats its main objective and the old saw, "In union there is strength" becomes too apparent to need further elucidation.
From the very first defense move, the administration has given labor its representatives within and has shown an inclination to listen to the voices of labor without. It is only when those "voices without" have been in discord that labor has lost ground.
There is no need here to go further into (3). Lewis and his battles with the AFL and more recently with his own original CIO are pretty well known. It is sufficient to point out that Lewis gained most of his original strength from his "stand-

Tornado Takes...

The telephone system remained in operation through use of an emergency battery system.
An eight-man medical detachment from Camp Robinson was ordered to Berryville, with medical supplies. An appeal for assistance was sent to the Red Cross at Little Rock.
The city hall and court house, two of the few buildings remaining intact in the business district, were converted into emergency hospitals, but in the early hours there was little the workers could do for the sufferers—no medical supplies, no nurses, and only three doctors to care for the scores of injured. Fallen trees and other debris delayed out of town relief crews.
Rea Nelson, undertaker, said 22 bodies had been brought to the funeral parlor in the early morning hours, and he expected there were many more dead buried in the ruins.
"They just can't get in there until daylight. We don't have any idea how many may be missing," he said.
Some of the escapes were amazing.
Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fanning were uninjured when the tornado wrecked their bedroom, but the featherbed on which they were sleeping and the comfort which they had over them vanished.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY BRONFIELD

Chapter Nine
The Brush-Off
Susan thought Todd would phone. He should, she thought, but she could forgive him for not having done so. Then, Wednesday night one of the girls poked her head in her room and told her she was wanted on the telephone.
It wasn't Todd; it was Phil. "Let's go for a drive," he said.
Her voice was cool. "No, thanks."
"How about coming over for a while, then," he added.
She made up her mind then, suddenly but decisively. "Phil—I don't want to see you. Not tonight, nor any more. Shall we let it go at that?"
His voice rose on a note of vexation. "It sounds as if I've committed an irreparable sin against that bonehead football player. Is that what's bothering you?"
"I wouldn't like to hang up on you, Phil. So I'll say goodbye."
"Have it your way, but before you hang up I'm going to tell you something you don't know. You know who it was that landed Duke Malone in prison? It was a detective by the name of Leo Drake. I wonder if the great quarterback knows that."
Susan put down the phone slowly, her heart in his mind. She sat for a full minute until Phil's last words sank in.
Her father had—no it sounded incredible. How could Phil know a thing like that? Yet why should he tell her something that could so easily be disproved if it weren't true? There was a funny feeling in the pit of her stomach. It would be there at least until she was able to get her father on the phone.
Talk With Dad
Todd hated the gray stone penitentiary but never had he hated it as much as he did now as he waited for his father to come out and sit across from him behind a low railing in the visitors' room.
They brought Duke Malone out, finally. He was a tall, slender man, and his hair was gray at the temples. Slight lines in his face broke into a smile when he saw Todd.
"Hello, Toddy," he said cheerfully, sitting down. It was the nickname he had given him as a small boy and he always used it. "It's good to see you again. It's been almost a month."
Todd looked at his father and tried to smile, but couldn't.
"Duke Malone hunched forward, his hands clasped close to his chest. "So they found out, eh, and it made quite a splash. I'm sorry, Toddy. I had hoped..."
"I'm sorry, Dad. For your sake," Todd said. "I knew it would hurt you more than I. I did my best, but that—that well, there's a guy who would get a lot of pleasure out of the thing."
"Yeah, Toddy, I think I know. We learn a lot of things here in a funny manner. You just have to keep your job up and your colors flying. I'll be out of here in a few months, with a break."
"I feel like dropping out of school," Todd said sullenly.
"You try anything like that and I'll whack the tar out of you," Duke said grimly. "I won't have a quitter for a son, understand?"

back close to his shoulder blades and stretches his long legs straight out in front of him. When you know that he is something like six feet, five inches tall you get the idea of the picture which is familiar to England.
That is the way he was as he talked to me. The voice from the depths of the great archaic continued:
"Some central international control must be created. I would use such parts of the League of Nations as exist now—the economic and labor sections—as the nucleus of a new organization."
"There must be a two-fold organization. First, you must have in the League all the nations, big and little, which you can trust. Then there must be a standing committee probably comprising the four great powers—America, Britain, Russia and China—who maintain peace. It is better to have a small committee than a big one. It is less cumbersome."
"When you get real peace you some day will have Germany, Italy and Japan back in the league. But they can't be entrusted with arms for a long time to come."
"The older Germans are averse to war but the younger are Hitlerites. We must maintain control in Germany until the new generations can be educated. So far as Italy is concerned, there seems to be a general rejection of Fascism."
"We should get the League functioning with peace there are a lot of things we can't do without it. For instance, we must feed the hungry peoples and we say we are going to move back into their own countries all those who have been transported by Hitler."
"The peace conference could lay down principles—as regards boundaries for instance—and then the League would take over. You can't get just decisions out of the atmosphere of a Versailles conference."

President Urges Everyone To Vote

Washington, Oct. 30—(AP)—Declaring the United States was now engaged "in an all out war to keep Democracy alive," President Roosevelt today urged all citizens to vote next Tuesday.
The President asked employers to so arrange work schedules that they and their employees may cast their ballots without loss of pay to workers for reasonable time off.
The President read his formal statement on the elections at a press conference after which reporters asked how he was going to vote.
He replied he would either by absentee ballot or in person in his home district of Hyde Park, N. Y.
The President would not say in detail how he was going to mark his ballot, but when asked whether it was a fair inference that he would vote against Representative Fish, Republican candidate for reelection in the Chief Executive's home district, replied in the affirmative and added he had already said so before.

From Lieut. Commander To Private

Here's a man who's going to give up his commission as a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy and enlist in the Marine Corps as a private. He is Paul C. Smith who sits at his desk in the Office of War Information at Washington where he has been chief of the news bureau. He also has been editor and general manager of the San Francisco Chronicle since 1936. "I hate the Japs and the Nazis and all the Fascists," he said. "The thing to do seems to be to get into it."

New Sulfa Spray Also Effective On Burns

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
St. Louis, Oct. 30—(AP)—A new form of sulfadiazine spray, to be used for common colds and burns, was shown to the American Public Health Association today.
The spray has been under trial at several scientific institutions for colds and sore throats. No reports have been published. But the verbal reports have been favorable. The spray is not used for sinus troubles.
The base of the spray is sulfadiazine, a new compound which is the least harmful to human beings of any of the sulfanilamide preparations.
Sulfadiazine is on a par with sulfathiazole in the variety of disease it helps. The spray is made by a very small percentage of diazine dissolved in water with thioethanolamine.
Girls may not know it, but they are familiar with triethanolamine. It's a mild chemical used in cosmetics. It is added as a solvent because the sulfadiazine will dissolve in water.
This same spray, used on burns, relieves pain quickly.
The U. S. Army is busy building up a backlog of orders for sulfadiazine, sulfathiazole and other sulpha drugs, both for use on wounds and for infectious diseases. For sprinkling on wounds, plain sulfanilamide usually is preferred to other forms.
Snakes have a protective "storm-window" over their eyes, a transparent membrane which saves the organ from scratches and injuries.

BARKER PICKS THE WINNERS

Picks Tech Over Duke Wake Forest Over Clemson, Carolina Over State

By HERB BARKER
New York, Oct. 30—(AP)—Taking the weekly whack at the football program an expecting nothing but the worst.

Ohio State-Wisconsin: national and sectional title hopes at stake here. Fekete and Sarringhaus vs. Harder and Hirsch. This should be tough. Gruelling action all the way. The nod goes to Ohio State.

Alabama-Georgia: Ditto for this one which may settle the southeastern title, subject to later argument from Georgia Tech and L.S.U. The better line seems to belong to Alabama; The better offensive to Georgia. Stringing along with the offense, Georgia.

Penn-Army: Top battle of the east in which Army's unbeaten record will be subject to its sternest test. On the theory the cadets have been playing well within themselves, Army.

Princeton-Harvard: Jumping on the Tiger hand-wagon probably at the exact moment that Harvard will decide it's time to win one. Princeton, hesitantly.

Stanford-U.C.L.A.: The question here seems to be just how long U.C.L.A. can keep up its torrid pace. Stanford's improving and making surprise but this vote goes to U.C.L.A.

Baylor-Texas Christian: Baylor's defense is tough t crack but the nod belongs to unbeaten T.C.U.

Navy-Notre Dame: Nothing in Navy's record to show the sailors can cope with Angelo Bertelli et al. Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech-Duke: This looked safe for Tech three weeks ago but not now in view of Duke's spectacular improvement. Tech better make no mistakes for Duke will make capital of them. A timid vote for Tech.

Georgetown-Boston College: May be close but Boston college must rate the edge.

Northwestern-Minnesota: The go-pipers seem to be back in winning stride and should be exceedingly tough from here on in. Northwestern scores consistently, thanks to Otto Graham, but not enough. Minnesota.

Illinois-Michigan: Injuries may hurt the Illini. Despite two setbacks, Michigan is plenty tough. Michigan.

Iowa Naval-Indiana: Bierman's Naval Cadets have been well rested since the Notre Dame debacle and should be able to handle Billy Hillenbrand and Bob Cowan. Iowa Naval.

Great Lakes-Missouri: No telling what Great Lakes is going to do next. Missouri, with Bob Steuber, is the more consistent and rater the

Beazley Applies For Navy Post

Yesterday Johnny Beazley (left), the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals' World Series pitching star, came to the Navy recruiting station in Nashville, Tenn., his home town, and applied for placement in the Navy's physical fitness program. Lieut. Commander Fred R. Haselton (right), examining physician, pronounced Johnny in top physical condition, and recruiting authorities wired Commander Gene Tunney, recommending acceptance.

Florida: Arkansas-Texas Aggies: Maybe A. and M. can find the scoring combination. Texas A. and M.

Nebraska-Kansas: Should be safe for Nebraska.

Oklahoma-Iowa State: Ditto Oklahoma.

Clemson-Wake Forest: Probably close. Wake Forest.

North Carolina-North Carolina State: Tough enough. Out of the hat, North Carolina.

Oregon State-Washington: Perhaps the Rose Bowlers can win one. Doubtfully, Oregon State.

Oregon-California: California seems to be coming along now and gets this vote.

Purdue-Iowa: Taking Tom my Farmer and Iowa.

Skipping over the Chalklines otherwise: Duquesne over St. Vincent; Kentucky over George Washington; South Carolina over Citadel; Georgia Naval over Jacksonville Naval; Tulsa over Drake; Pitt over Carnegie; Virginia Military over Davidson; Miami over Surman; Idaho over Montana; Kansas State over Wichita (watch out for that one); Lafayette over Bucknell; Mississippi over Memphis; Virginia Tech over Virginia; Richmond over Washington & Lee; Villanova over Manhattan; Detroit over Marquette; Santa Clara over San Francisco; Utah over Colorado State; Colorado over Wyoming; Brigham Young over

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Oct. 30—(AP)—The heights of something: Every Thursday noon Columbia's football coaches hold open house for sports writers at the training table on Morningside heights. ... At one end of a long table, Head Coach Lou Little is being badgered to pick a winner between Penn and Army, both of which drubbed his Lions. ... "I'd be a fool to do it," argues Lou. "They're both good teams. But I will say we should have done better against Penn. Remember when we were trying for our third back-down? Time and again I've told Governor and Luckman too-never to pass down the middle, but he threw it right at that back." ... And Lou starts drawing diagrams on a paper napkin. ... At the other end of the festive board is Bob Kane, former track star who has come from Ithaca to speak for Cornell, and track is the subject. ... "Les Macditch was fed up on running," someone is saying. "He began to fade right after beating Dodda twice." ... "Did you hear about our new Columbia star, Leh Koppelovich?" asks another voice. "He started running in a compulsory physical education class last year. Now he has come out for track and says the only reason is that he wants to beat Gunder Hagege. That's why they call him a promising miler. No, you don't learn much at these gatherings, but the ham and eggs are good.

Celan Collected
The coast guard seems to be getting a guy with plenty of courage in Heavyweight Johnny Colan, who was sworn in today. ... Instead of dodging the Friday the 13th (and Johnny is trying to set a record by fighting on three of those days. ... He faced Jimmy Webb at Madison Square Garden Friday, February 13, again on March 13 and on Friday, November 13, he's scheduled to take on Nate Bolden at the Chicago stadium.

Portland, Ore. will toss a civic dinner in honor of Johnny Pesky Monday night. ... When the Washington Redskins left the field after a rugged encounter with the Pittsburgh Steelers last Sunday, Bill Dudley was waiting at the door of their dressing room. Bill wanted merely to say hello to his kid, Sammy Dugh, but Sammy gumped up the here worship by telling Bill, "You were the best man on the field today." ... Looks as if racing were going to the dogs. Capt. John Hay Whitney's contribution to Belmont Park is 20 of his Jones (or Norwich Terriers, which will be sold at the track.

said he would offer legislation to put it into effect unless the administration beat him to it.

His proposal gathered support quickly, and in the Senate Senator

Rep. (D-Okla.) declared the United States should have a "united supreme command" with "one minister of warfare."

Declaring that the greatest weapon of warfare now is airpower, Lee said the supreme command "should be invested in an air general."

"While I do not believe all the reports I hear," he told the Senate, "yet when these reports continue as they are today concerning the jealousy which is going on between different branches of our armed forces; for example, in the battle of the Solomon Islands and Wake Island, as to who is entitled to the glory, then I say it is time for responsible officials of the government to give consideration to the question of a united command."

Some capitol hill observers speculated privately that the transfer of the Army-Navy football game to Annapolis, and restrictions on attendance, indicated an effort to remove the spirit of rivalry between the land and sea forces in wartime, and that this year's Army-Navy tilt may be the last for the duration.

The proposition for revamping of federal governmental agencies, aimed at complete wartime mobilization of the nation's resources in both materials and manpower, was presented in a bill offered by Rep. Tolan (D-Calif).

Joe Wolf-Release To AFS Friday

Joe Wolf, Tackle, North Carolina

Joe Wolf is one of the standouts in the big, fast, hard-hitting line. Carolina will throw across State's path at Raleigh at 2:30 Saturday. The Wolfpack also has a great line—good enough in fact to shut out Wake Forest, which ran up 20 points on Duke—and a great battle is expected up front. Wolf weighs 190 and is a senior. He started the pre-season drills as a reserve, but stepped into the breach when Bob Heymann was hurt, and wound up a star. He has played 22 1/2 minutes out of 300 this fall, and has been the standout in several games.

"The carrier has replaced the battleship as the backbone of the fleet," Vinson told the House in outlining the contents of the measure. But, simultaneously, he advised the House: "Let no member think for one moment that battleships, under certain conditions, would not play a dominant role. It may so happen that the enemy's aircraft carriers may be stricken from the sea."

"It may so happen that ours will be stricken from the sea. If that happens, and neither side has aircraft carriers to any great extent, then the battleships will come back into the role they were designed to play before aviation reached its high point of development."

Two Executed In Gas Chamber Today

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 30 - (AP) - Two men, one a confessed rapist, the other convicted of murder, died this morning in the gas chamber at Central Prison.

Herman Allen, 35, of Johnston County, who was sentenced in a triple slaying case, was the first to enter the death chamber.

The second person to be gassed to death was Ollis Harris, 17-year-old Negro from Bertie County, who was found guilty of the rape of a young white woman.

May Require All Women Register

Washington, Oct. 30 - (AP) - President Roosevelt informed a press conference today that no decision had been reached yet on the issue of national service legislation but he added that the possibility of compulsory registration of women was under consideration.

The chief executive said such a registration would not mean that women would be ordered, by compulsion, to go here, there, or the other place to work. It would be aimed, he said, at trying to find out where the available supply of women workers exists and something of their fitness for war industry jobs.

Legislation would be required to authorize this canvass of women power.

He emphasized that there had been no decision whatever on such legislation until this point, remarking that it still was in the study stage.

Rome (From Italian Broadcasts), Oct. 30 - (AP) - Axis forces again repulsed a British attempt to land sea-borne troops behind their lines in Egypt yesterday and beat off repeated frontal attacks by strong Allied armored units, the Italian high command said today.

The landing attempt, the daily communique said, was made in the vicinity of Matruh, more than 100 miles west of the actual fighting front.

Twice the British tried to set troops ashore but were repulsed with heavy losses, the bulletin declared.

(The British communique issued in Cairo this morning made no reference to the landing attempt reported by the Italians.)

The Italians acknowledged that Allied forces attacking on the Alamein front had made some "initial penetrations," but said these were promptly halted and described the assaults as "without any result."

The dispatch said that Lieut. Col. Harry A. McBride of the United States army who discussed the legislation with President Barclay of the African republic has returned after reporting to President Roosevelt.

Monrovia is the capital of Liberia.

Washington, Oct. 30 - (AP) - President Roosevelt today said he preferred to withhold any comment on the possibility that American troops had been stationed in Liberia.

He said it came under the classification of troop movements and operational movements and that he would not dare comment without consulting his military authorities. It is an operational movement of troops, if it exists, he asserted, so any statement should come from these authorities.

He had been asked at a press conference whether he could confirm stories from British sources that both white and Negro troops from the United States had taken up stations in the Negro republic on the African coast.

The chief executive said the press also put him in an awful hole by asking whether it was correct that Lieutenant General Dwight Eisen-

Uncle Sam Needs Your FINANCIAL Help, Too Your government asks you to buy all the War Bonds you can. Money, like food, is urgently needed. America's farmers have responded magnificently to the call for FOOD. We know they will respond the same way to the call for MONEY. You help your country plenty when you buy War Bonds - AND YOU HELP YOURSELF. Where is there a better investment? Every $3 you invest now comes back to you as $4 in ten years. America guarantees it. We sell U. S. War Bonds as a patriotic service, without compensation or profit. Teamed Up - Farmer-Banker - for Victory! Guaranty Bank & Trust Company Estb. 1901 Greenville, N. C.
