Rommel's Forces Flee Into Libya With Allies On Heels

British In Close Pursuit Of Tattered Axis Columns While Allied Planes Blast Away At Enemy Over The Entire Front; Rommel's Forces Reduced To 20,000

By FRANK L. MARTIN Cairo, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Remnants of Marshal Rommel's fleeing Africa corps shook loose from the advancing British Eighth Army today and plunged across the Egyptian border into Libya in the vicinity of Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass, despite a heavy American and British air bombardment which made that route nearly impassable.

British advance forces which had been making a desperate effort to catch the back-peddaling enemy plunged into Libya only a few hours behind the rear Axis troops.

The situation in Halfaya pass at the moment was described as "confusing."

The British were in close pursuit of the tattered Germans and Italians, and British and American pilots were keeping up their relentless pounding of the enemy.

While fighter formations ranged ahead, knocking Axis vehicles into flaming destruction, other fighters hovered over the advance elements, dropping bombs to provide protection against Axis air attack.

The Germans and Italians, however, still made no attempt to attack the Allies from the air.

Far behind, a small Axis troops which halted to make a stand near Matruh was pummeled into surrender by an Allied armored force which dropped out of the chase long enough to do this task.

Moving past the westward bound traffic yesterday were truckloads of prisoners going to the rear. Others were being legged it because the number of captives far exceeded the capacity of available trucks.

Major General Russel L. Maxwell, commander of the U. S. Middle East force, today congratulated his men from the Air Chief Marshal Sir W. Tedder, RAF commander in this theater.

"Please convey to the heavy bombardment group my hearty congratulations on their good shooting and valuable kills at Bengasi and Tobruk," Tedder's message said. "On my behalf, on behalf of the RAF, I offer my sincere congratulations on the part of the United States Air Force played in the current successful operation. They have indeed proved themselves to be comrades in arms and..."

ALL SET FOR CHEST DRIVE

Solicitations To Get Under Way Tomorrow

By CHESTER WALSH

A Community Chest identifies any community as a progressive people. Greenville has been recognized in the United States as a progressive town because it centralizes its gifts to worthwhile community projects with a permanent Community Chest organization. Tomorrow is the day when the men and women of Greenville get out and do some work and demonstrate that the people here are going to keep the "home fires burning." James T. Little and Charles E. Bissette, president and vice-president, respectively, of the local Community Chest, told a reporter for the Reflector today. The goal this year is $8,000.

Tomorrow morning at the Woman's Club men and women of Greenville are going to breakfast and do for the Community Chest what the British are doing to the Germans and Italians in Libya, and the Americans and British are doing in Africa for a second war front. Three score men and women who are interested in Greenville and the people here are going to talk over plans at this breakfast session of the Community Chest, and then they are going out and give everybody an opportunity to "chip in" something for the Community Chest and let it go on record that the people of Greenville "came across" and donated sufficient funds to carry on the community projects which represent the religious, educational and moral standards of the people.

British Skipper Is Held By Nazis

The navy disclosed today the sinking of a medium-sized British merchantman by enemy submarine action off the northern coast of South America in late August and the imprisonment aboard the raider of the English skipper—the 14th known ship captain taken prisoner by Axis U-boats since June.

Six of the engine room crew were killed, but 20 others, including 16 seamen from another torpedoed ship, were rescued and brought safely to port.

The latest victim of enemy undersea craft boosted to 519 the Associated Press compilation of announced western Atlantic marine losses since America's entry into the war.

Holdings On Guadalcanal Extended; Jap Cruiser And Destroyer Sunk; 12 Planes Downed

Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The American troops on Guadalcanal appeared today to be pushing their lines slowly but steadily eastward without encountering major Japanese opposition, while aerial and torpedo-boat attacks took fresh toll of the enemy fleet in the Solomons.

The latest navy communique disclosed that motor torpedo boats probably sank one of two destroyers they attacked just north of the American positions on Guadalcanal Saturday morning, and an aerial attack that afternoon on an enemy formation consisting of a light cruiser and ten destroyers resulted in the possible sinking of the cruiser and heavy damage to one destroyer.

The Japanese lost 12 of the planes which attempted to intercept the attack, the American flyers shooting down five Zero float-planes and several float-type biplanes, but losing four of their own.

The only action reported ashore was an advance by the army and marine corps troops to the Metapona river, four miles east of Koli Point, the vicinity in which the Japanese landed reinforcements several days ago.

This advance may have isolated a body of enemy troops on Koli Point, but naval officers were uncertain of this and the communique said only that the advance the Americans had made "no contact with the enemy main body in this area."

Army dive bombers blew up an ammunition dump and fired gasoline stores in attacks on Japanese positions on the island, the navy reported, and a small U. S. auxiliary bringing supplies to Guadalcanal was damaged by an enemy torpedo.

In New Guinea, where Allied troops under the command of General Douglas MacArthur have been pushing the Japanese back toward Buna, a brief announcement reported no important change in the situation Sunday.

Warren And Ferrell Sell Hillside Lots

The demand for good investments for real estate in and around Greenville was demonstrated again Saturday when Norman O. Warren and the J. W. Ferrell Company sold about 60 lots in Hillside, on the Kingston highway, near Greenville, for approximately $15,000. Billy Clark of Morton's warehouse was the auctioneer. The lots were sold for C. W. Harvey of this city. The Hillside development is ideally situated near the city, on high ground, well drained, and there are many modern homes on the property, Warren said.

SIDELIGHTS ON WAR

To Defend Morocco Tangier, Morocco, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Morocco radio said today that the sultan of Morocco had broadcast a message to the Muslim population asking for loyalty to the Vichy Government and help in defense of the territory.

Gets Passports Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Vichy French ambassador's passports were handed to him this afternoon, thus making formal and complete the break in relations with the United States.

Prisoners? Berlin (from German broadcasts), Nov. 9.—(AP)—German dispatches from Vichy today said "it is assumed here with greater probability Monday morning that both Admiral Darlan and General Juin have been taken prisoners" in North Africa.

Asks Passage Thru Tunisia Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has notified the Bey of Tunis that the American Armed Forces in North Africa hope to pass through French Tunisia; apparently to strike eastward toward the Axis forces now retreating from Egypt.

The White House disclosed today that the message had been delivered Saturday night to the Bey, Sidi Mohamed Fakhri, and that it asserted as one point: "The indomitable and massive American armed forces which I am dispatching to North Africa in collaboration with the forces of France, will cooperate with you in the defense of your country."

Outbreaks in Paris London, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Reuters recorded a Paris radio announcement today that clashes had broken out between demonstrators and police in the German-occupied French capital.

The demonstrations, described as "a few small incidents," followed a meeting of the French people's party at which collaborationist Jacques Doriot demanded "an immediate declaration of war on Britain and America and immediate conclusion of an alliance with the Axis powers."

Armistice Day Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In a world war once more, President Roosevelt proclaimed today that November 11 should be observed as usual as Armistice day.

"Faith can be kept with those who died in the first World War," he said in a proclamation, "only by resolutely pressing to final victory the great war in which we are now engaged, and by crowning that victory with a peace which shall safeguard and extend these essential freedoms."

He had just referred to the championing by the united nations of freedom of speech, freedom of worship and freedom from want and fear. (Continued on Page Four)

U. S. Second Front Forces Land In Vichy North Africa

Ship-borne troops of the U. S. army have landed in Vichy North Africa and have established headquarters (solid black arrows), along the coast according to reports from Vichy, France. The operations were aimed at both sides of Casablanca in Morocco, Oran and Algiers in Algeria on the Mediterranean. If successful, the invasion would provide a jumping off spot for an Allied invasion of southern Europe (dotted arrows). It could also provide bases for planes movement against Axis forces in Libya (dotted arrows), where they are retreating between Matruh and the Egyptian-Libya border pursued by the British (solid black arrow). Saturday night the Italian port of Genoa (1) was bombed by the British in the heaviest raid of the war. The French fleet was reported awaiting orders at Toulon (2).

Russians Repulse Nazi Assaults In Caucasus

Moscow, Nov. 9.—(AP)—German forces, stalled in their drive toward the Georgian military highway over the Caucasian mountains, attempted to resume their march near Nalchik yesterday, but Russian tank crews smashed up every attack, the Soviet mid-day communique said today.

A battalion of German infantry was wiped out in three days of fighting in one sector of the Nalchik region, the communique said, and earlier it had been reported that 1,700 Nazi soldiers had paid with their lives in this Caucasian region, now gripped by cold, wintry weather.

The fighting in the Stalingrad area was on a small scale and northwest of the city the action was confined largely to artillery duels, it was reported. The Germans made small-scale attacks in the city itself, but the communique reported these were beaten off and about 200 German infantrymen killed.

In the region of Bryansk, the Russians said, a Soviet air unit made a surprise raid on an enemy plane, and destroyed 20 German 670 Germans were killed by snipers, the communique reported.

An earlier communique reported the Red army was perfecting its fortified positions in and around the city of Stalingrad and inflicting heavy losses whenever the Germans attacked. The Germans also lost heavily in the region northeast of Tampa, Soviet Black Sea naval station, yesterday, it was asserted.

The Axis apparently was exerting the greatest pressure in the Nalchik area in an effort to resume its advance toward the Georgian military highway over the Caucasian mountains. The fighting was taking place southeast of the city.

There has been no major change in the situation around Nalchik since November 3, when the large-scale German assault, was brought to a halt, it was reported.

Bandage Room Needs Workers

The surgical dressing work room of the local Red Cross reopened this morning after being closed for a short period. The cessation of work was due to delayed shipment of materials.

The shipment of materials just received is for the October quota, and there remains 16,500 bandages to be made to complete the quota. With the additional $3,500 bandages to be made for the November quota, work will have to be pushed during the remainder of the month.

"Let women from every section of town respond to the call for additional workers," said Mrs. John Mitchell, chairman of the project. "For there is double work this month. The work cannot be done by the faithful few, so if you have one free hour, give the time to the surgical dressing room of the Red Cross."

FRENCH SHIPS SEIZED TODAY

Ships In U. S. Ports Taken Into Protective Custody

Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull disclosed today that all Vichy French ships in American ports had been taken into protective custody.

Hull also said that passports for Vichy's ambassador, Gaston Henry-Haye, were ready and would be handed to him in due time.

The secretary told his press conference that Henry-Haye had not yet requested an appointment to see him, but that such a visit in any case would not be necessary.

"Asked whether the French ambassador and his staff would be interned pending their return to France on an exchange ship, as was the Japanese, German and Italian diplomats, Hull said the situation in this case was different.

Hull's disclosure concerning the seizure of Vichy French ships was in answer to a question about the reported seizure of three Vichy French freighters by the coast guard at New Orleans.

Hull explained that these ships had been taken into protective custody until the full significance of (Continued on Page Five)

Important Coastal Points and Railways Already In American Hands; Troops Continue To Stream Ashore From British Protected Convoys; Naval Fight Off Casablanca

By E. C. DANIEL

London, Nov. 9.—(AP)—

The French reported tonight that Axis dive-bombers had entered the battle of North Africa and that their own colonials were being strengthened on the Atlantic coast, but the United States expedition, with seemingly irresistible might, was putting thousands of men on the beaches and pressing in on the key strongholds of Vichy's African empire.

Algiers already had been occupied and Oran caught between two arms of American shock troops moving quickly to encircle it as this powerful challenge to Hitler, still only at its start, rapidly gained a solid footing.

Serious damage to the French fleet off Casablanca was conceded by the French and that vital Moroccan port appeared also to be falling within the grasp of the A. E. F.

At Port Lyautey (Gibraltar) north of Rabat, a Vichy broadcast said the colonial garrison had counter-attacked and was recovering the shorefront. Landing forces in retreat had relinquished their French prisoners, it said.

The broadcast asserted that a French battalion moved up from inland Morocco had bolstered the defenses at Port Lyautey and that other reinforcements were joining the French in an attack on the American flank at Fedala, where a beachhead had been established.

Still, however, it acknowledged that 1,000 Americans had gained the shore in that area in addition to other landings far to the south at Agadir and Mogador.

The Vichy radio said Nazi Stukas had attacked six American troopships in the harbor of Algiers early this afternoon but United States and British forces were putting up a hot screen of anti-aircraft fire from ship and shore batteries.

In a free-for-all battle off the coast about 12 miles west of Algiers, it said, United States, British, German and Italian planes mixed in a dogfight from which several were shot down. (Continued on Page Six)

Frank Armistice Day Speaker Here

Dr. A. D. Frank, professor of history at East Carolina Teachers' college, will be the speaker at the Armistice Day exercise at the Greenville High School next Wednesday morning at 10:45.

A pause at 11 o'clock in memory of the signing of the Armistice in France on November 11, 1918, will be singularly coincidental with the invasion of North and West Africa by American and British troops to establish a second front in Europe against Hitler and the Germans.

Dr. Frank is chairman of the "Americanization Committee" of Pitt County Post of the American Legion. The theme of the Legion's Armistice Day meeting this year is "Americanization." Willard T. Kyzer, post commander, stated.

The Armistice Day meeting at the High School is open to the public. Everybody is invited. Dr. Frank, one of the best informed men in this part of the state on history, past and present, will deliver a message of particular interest to "the people on the home front who are trying to help to win this war," a legionaire said.

The legion's annual dinner will be a Dutch affair held at the armory in the evening at 7 o'clock. Invitations have been limited to members of the legion.

The program will be as follows: Assembly; Greenville High School Band Song, "America," by the audience; Prayer, by Rev. Robert E. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The Legionnaires will repeat the preamble of the Constitution. Commander Kyzer will speak briefly.

Following Dr. Frank's address the High School Glee Club will sing "The Land of Our Birth," the pledge of allegiance to the flag, singing of the Battle of Antietam and a military march by the High School Band will conclude the program.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

November 5, 1942

Mrs. Ellen Warren of Hill, is visiting her parents.

Miss Lucy Forbes, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Barr, in Weldon, returned home Saturday evening.

The Teachers' Association, it is believed, will have the interest and cooperation of all the teachers in the county. Its first meeting was certainly full of promise in the matter of attendance and in the work done. The subjects discussed were such as every teacher in the county must consider. The mental stimulus one will carry away from these meetings will be felt in the school room, and better work, with less friction, will evidence the influence of the association.

Giles-Clark. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Clark, Sr. request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter "Ma Frances" to Captain Ralph Mason Giles United States Army Air Forces on Sunday, the twenty-second of November, at five o'clock in the afternoon First Presbyterian Church Greenville, North Carolina. Miss Margaret Johnston of Greenville, was elected vice-president; Miss Dorothy Creech of Seama, secretary; Robert Morgan of Lillington, treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Darden of Hertford, reporter; Miss Charlotte Elliott of Edenton, year-book representative; Miss Jerry Albritton of Snow Hill, student government representative.

College Vesper Services. Emmett Sawyer, who was the organizer and first president of the YMCA at East Carolina Teachers College, spoke last night at the YM-YWCA vesper hour. His topic was "Soldiering for Christ."

As a basis for his talk, Sawyer read the passage from Timothy in which is found "Endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus." He then drew a comparison between the good soldier in the military sense and in the spiritual one, pointing out that such qualities as discipline, self-sacrifice and courage are typical of the good soldier, and showing that they are typical also of one who fights for Christ.

"Instead of hating our enemies, though," he said, "we must love them still even as Jesus set the example."

He suggested as one thing to help carry out the "fight on the home front," a period of meditation each day.

Sawyer graduated at East Carolina Teachers College in 1940 and is in defense work in Newport News, where he is active in church work.

He was introduced by the present president of the YMCA on the campus, Sam Crandall of Stokes.

For the prelude and the hymns, Miss Dorothine Massey, YW music chairman, was at the piano. Miss Lorraine Pritchard sang a solo, with Miss Maribelle Robertson accompanying her.

Arrangements of chrysanthemums and ivy presented a lovely picture throughout the home.

Miss Spivey's bridal party and out-of-town guests enjoyed this lovely affair.

Saturday at 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. Charles Gasking and Miss Elizabeth Wilson were hostesses at a luncheon, at the home of Mrs. Gasking, honoring the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums, attractively arranged, were used in the living rooms and hall.

The central table in the dining room, where covers were laid for the bride and groom and their parents, was covered with a handsome cloth and centered with a bowl of yellow chrysanthemums and burning yellow tapers. Small vases of yellow chrysanthemums were used on the small tables grouped about the living rooms for the other guests.

Little Misses Bettie Ann Young, Lois Waldrop and Carolyn Rowlett welcomed the guests on the porch and also assisted in serving a delicious luncheon.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Winslow and family of Scotland Neck; Mr. and Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vaughn of Richmond, Va.

Christian Science Service. "Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 8.

The golden text was from Romans 5:8: "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in thru the gates into the city." Rev. 22:14.

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Psalmist said: 'Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of Thy hands; Thou hast put all things under his feet.' The great truth in the Science of being; that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible, for if man is the image, reflection of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and Godlike."

Tin Cans Needed For War Effort

While tin cans are not at present being collected in this community, the cans are needed for the war effort and the local salvage committee urges housewives, cafes, hotels and others of the community to begin saving the cans now to be held until called for. Complete instructions for preparation of the cans for salvage are contained in a display article on page four of this issue. You are urged to cut it out and save it as a guide in preparing your cans for salvage.

Winslow-Spivey. Miss Marjorie Claire Spivey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kerby Spivey of Greenville, and Nancy Winslow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ernest Winslow of Scotland Neck, were united in marriage at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville on Saturday afternoon, November 7th.

Rev. George W. Perry, pastor of the church, officiated and a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. E. M. Spivey of Winston-Salem, aunt of the bride, as organist, and Miss Elizabeth Bridgers as soloist. Miss Bridgers' selections were "Because" by De Hardestel; "I Love You Truly," by Bond, and "O Perfect Love" as a benediction.

The church with its background of fern, bride's greenery and white chrysanthemums, illuminated by the soft glow from myriads of white tapers formed a lovely setting for the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown of seed pearls and frosty white satin was made with fitted basque, buttoned up the back, tightly fitting minketeer sleeves and round high neckline with yoke of marquisette and pearls.

Her skirt was made of endless yards of satin shirred onto a heart-shaped girde and ending in spread of train. Her veil of illusion draped to a coronet of seed pearls was most becoming. Her wedding bouquet was a shower of orchids.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson in "clarinet wine" velvet, and Mrs. Charles Gasking in "hyacinth blue" velvet, attended the bride as maid and matron of honor, respectively. Their dresses were identical, having a long fitted bodice of transparent velvet and full intricate shirred skirts of marquisette over taffeta. Their hats were latticed covers of velvet with shoulder length veil of illusion. They carried arm bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Hugh Winslow of Greenville, attended the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Abner Thomas Winslow of Scotland Neck, Edward C. Winslow, Jr., of Tarboro, Taylor Carr of Greenville, and Corporal Jeffrey Barton of Baton Rouge, La.

The bride's mother was becomingly dressed in wine velvet with pink accessories. She wore a tiny pink feathered hat with veil and a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Winslow, mother of the groom, was gowned in black fortune, crepe with black accessories, and shoulder corsage of red roses.

The bride, a brunette of beauty and charm, has always made her home in Greenville and has a host of friends here and wherever she is known. She was educated in city schools and at East Carolina Teachers College. She is now teaching in Elizabethtown.

Mr. Winslow was educated in Scotland Neck and at State College, Raleigh. He is a young man of sterling worth and good business ability. He is now attending Officers' Training School at Camp Davis.

For traveling, Mrs. Winslow chose a three-piece black and red Frostman woolen suit, with black accessories, and an orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Winslow and Mr. Hugh Winslow entertained at a buffet supper at their home on West Fifth street, Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

The Winslow home was in suite and individual tables were placed amid a setting of colorful fall flowers. Guests were invited into the dining room, where Misses Myra Blount and Virginia Bradshaw served a delicious two-course supper from a table lovely with its beautiful arrangements of chrysanthemums graced by ivory tapers in silver holders centering the supper table.

Guests included the bride and groom, members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

On Friday evening, immediately following the rehearsal for the Winslow-Spivey wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rumley and Miss Dean Boone Haskett entertained informally at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rumley on Eastern street.

On arrival the guests were greeted by the host, hostesses and honor guests.

Arrangements of chrysanthemums and ivy presented a lovely picture throughout the home.

Miss Spivey's bridal party and out-of-town guests enjoyed this lovely affair.

Saturday at 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. Charles Gasking and Miss Elizabeth Wilson were hostesses at a luncheon, at the home of Mrs. Gasking, honoring the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums, attractively arranged, were

Christian Science Service. "Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 8.

The golden text was from Romans 5:8: "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they that do his commandments

Marines Learn To Fight At Southern Training Ground

These four action-filled pictures show how U. S. Marine forces are learning the tricks of water-land attack, such as on Guadalcanal Island. The scenes are at the 200-square mile training area near New River, N. C. After completing their recruit training at Parris Island, S. C., they are sent to this spot and 20,000 men train at a time, in the U. S. Marine Advanced School of Combat Techniques, using the most modern weapons. Upper left 155mm mobile coast artillery guns fire a top a sand dune; right, infantrymen sprint for shore after landing from Higgins boats. In foreground an amphibious tractor, dropped overboard from a transport, waddles ashore. Lower right, a small tank dunks itself into the surf from a landing boat in support of attacking Marine infantrymen; left, coveup of fully equipped Marines splashing ashore from landing boats after front platform has been left down. The one big aim of this training is to create a striking force with a terrific wallop. The Marines now in the Solomons left New River last spring.

LOCAL and SOCIAL

Van Nortwick-Taylor. Morehead City, Nov. 4.—On Saturday evening, November 7, the wedding of Miss Grace Taylor and Lt. A. Van Nortwick was celebrated in the First Methodist Church of Morehead City.

Palms and ferns interspersed with floor baskets of white chrysanthemums and seven-branched candelabras holding lighted cathedral candles formed the setting for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. J. Herbert Miller, pastor of the church. The double ring ceremony was used.

Theodore R. Webb of Morehead City and Plainfield, N. J., organist of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, New Rochelle, N. Y., a great-uncle of the bride, was organist. Miss Henrietta Hines of Mt. Airy, and Mrs. W. Bailey, Jr., of Morehead City and Chapel Hill, a recent bride and cousin of the bride, sang. The traditional marches of Wagner and Mendelssohn were used for the processional and the recessional.

The bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown of ivory satin was fashioned with bouffant skirt which swept in a circular circle. Her full-length veil of bridal tulle fell from a Mary Stuart type of Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of bride's roses and stephanotis, centered with an orchid.

Attending the bride as dame of honor was an aunt, Mrs. George R. Wallace, who wore a gown of American Beauty velvet. Miss Whitman Gurley of Windsor, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Henrietta Hines of Mount Airy and Miss Cora Joslyn. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore gowns identical to that of the dame of honor, and all carried arm bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Attending the bride were three other bridesmaids, Miss Catherine Van Nortwick of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carolyn Taylor and Miss Nancy Derickson, cousins of the bride. They wore American Beauty velvet dresses of similar design to that of the bride. Their bouquets were miniature white chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, N. O. Van Nortwick, Jr., of Greenville, as best man. The brides were George Wilkinson and Billy Brown of Greenville, George Wallace and Robert W. Taylor, sisters of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a dress of jade green crepe and a shoulder corsage of orchids. The mother of the bridegroom chose a gown of brilliant colored crepe and also wore orchids.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clarence Taylor, who was presented to society at the Debutante Ball in 1937 and was graduated from Greensboro College. In her senior year she was chosen May Queen, when she also served as president of the Irving Literary Society. For the past two years she has been a member of the faculty of the schools of Bethel and has been teaching at Morehead City this fall.

Lieutenant Van Nortwick, Medical Corps, USNR, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Oliver Van Nortwick of Greenville, is now stationed at the Naval Air Station, Seattle, Washington. He attended the East Carolina Teachers College, the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and received his degree from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., where he interned in City Hospital. Recently he completed his Flight Surgeon's course at Pensacola, Fla., where while there he saw service as a physician on the destroyer U. S. S. "Leary."

Following a reception at the home of the bride's grandparents, the couple left for Seattle. For traveling, the bride changed to a beaver trimmed suit of natural colored Brittany fabric with brown accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following the wedding ceremony, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wallace was thrown open to several hundred guests.

Mrs. Nancy Derrickson opened the door for the guests, who were greeted by Mrs. W. M. Webb and presented to the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wallace. In addition to the host and hostess, the receiving line was composed of the parents of the bride, the parents of the bridegroom, the bride couple, Judge and Mrs. Paul Webb, Mrs. M. T. Mills directed the guests to the library where punch was served by Mesdames Charles V. Webb and Ray D. Jones, assisted by Misses Ann Vickers and Marguerite Wallace Jones of Raleigh, and Misses Foy Harrell, Dorothy Harrell and Carolyn Taylor. Mrs. W. L. Derrickson invited the guests into the dining room which was presided over by Mrs. G. Henry Jackson and Mrs. Theodore Webb of Plainfield, N. J., Mrs. James E. Gantt of Harris, Misses Whitman Gurley, Henrietta Hines, Cora Joslyn and Catherine Van Nortwick assisted in service. The bride's register was presided over by Mrs. N. O. Van Nortwick, Jr., of Greenville, and Mrs. Robert W. Taylor.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Cecil B. Arthur of New York, and Mrs. Herbert W. Thornton.

Library News

Books On Personality. The improving of one's personality has become quite a popular study judging by the large number of books that the Sheppard Memorial Library is featuring this week on that subject.

These books range all the way from one on "Charm," that magic quality that is a criterion of a new aristocracy, to a more general subject, "The Way of All Women" which attempts to make women better understood by men and women. In between these will be found books that touch on every phase of one's private life which after all is what projects itself into one's personality, making one amiable, alive, attractive, or crude, brusque, obstreperous, or neutral, colorless, without influence. These books teach that given warmth, nourishment and fostering one can fulfill the eternal promise of development to proper satisfaction and happiness.

Brief resumes of some of the books featured are as follows: "Coming of Age," by Ester Lloyd-Jones and Ruth Tedder—Intended for the use of young people themselves, this book discusses in their own language and through verbatim reports of others' experiences problems which young people face in achieving emotional maturity, becoming independent from their families, building relationships with their own and the opposite sex, striving for vocational adjustment, and evolving a scheme of values.

"Peace in the Heart," by Archibald Rutledge. Here is the mystical image of nature, viewed with the deeply reverent spirit of Wordsworth or Emerson, a profound and lovable book of rich consciousness and enriching inspiration, that is not without the hazardous, and sometimes barbarous, excitement of the world of animals and men. "Your Best Foot Forward," by Dorothy Stratton and Helen Schlemmer—This book tries to answer those questions of social usage which many members of the younger generation meet frequently during their daily life. It is addressed to those young people who have a major interest in "dating," care about improving their table manners, entertain and visit friends, meet a great many new people and would like to do all these things easily.

"Living upstairs," by Frances Meehan—This is a rich and delightful book on literature for everyone. The author brings to his readers the mental and moral peace, satisfaction and strengthening, to be obtained through reading.

"The Woman You Want To Be" by Margery Wilson—A handbook for the bedside table designed to answer every question that arises in a young girl's mind.

"Your Personality and God," by Margery Wilson—Showing the relationship of personality and God. An excellent interpretation of the spiritual values of life, and of the divinity of whatever it is that inspires people to follow the leadership of certain personalities. —H. L. R.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Girl Scout Week has come and gone. All troops should be complimented for the grand participation. Troop three under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. Mosier, special bouquets to you, That was a swell cook-out on Cotanche street. You managed well, and all the Scouts appreciated and enjoyed it.

The Victory Fund is growing strong. From national headquarters comes the news that it will run until Thanksgiving. Come on Scouts let's fill those stamps books "for children in distress!" We want to do our part in the Girl Scout Vic-torry Fund. Troop nine and the Brownies are certainly busy these days. They are now fixing up a peach of a place for their meetings—Mrs. Paul Batchelor's basement. Last week they had their first meetings—Troop nine on Tuesday and Troop five on Thursday.

Troop five will miss Mrs. Skinner while she is away. It is glad to have Mrs. Stark and Mrs. Knott Proctor as new leaders. Watch the Brownies grow.

Troop four is certainly active these days. Saturday five of the girls had a rummage sale for the Service League—next Saturday they will sell again. They have their hearts set on a cook-out—which is not far off.

Troop twelve is still remembering the successful scrap drive. Now they are making clay ash trays for soldiers.

The senior girls have found their interests to lie in line of duty. Now they visit the Red Cross room to roll bandages.

West Greenville still has no leadership. Come on girls. The leaders are having their get-togethers too. Their training course seems to keep them busy. Tuesday they are having a cook-out on Cotanache street playground under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Meadows and Mrs. S. B. Underwood, Jr., of the Training committee.

Sunday Sermon At Methodist Church

By WYATT BROWN "Do not be over-anxious, therefore, about tomorrow, for tomorrow will bring its own cares. Enough for each day are its own troubles," was the text chosen by Rev. George W. Perry in the first sermon of the new conference year at Java Memorial Methodist church yesterday morning. He has just returned from the annual North Carolina Conference, where he was appointed for another year.

"It is wrong to fret and worry. You never find the Lord fretting, worrying or all upset about living around Him. With four biographers writing the four Gospels not once did they report Him worried or apologizing for something he said the day before," declared Mr. Perry.

Then Mr. Perry referred to the group who are always saying they would be glad to help if they knew ahead what people were going to do with their lives. In reply to this he said:

"What I need to do is to be concerned about following Jesus Christ instead of being interested in what the members of the church are doing. The devil gets in some of his meanest work with the people who say they would act if they only knew what others were going to do. I am fixed in the person who is sufficient for every need in this life.

"Many are worried about the future. Some have let these things run out of bounds. People imagine somebody has done something to them. Out of this can grow tragedy which was not intended by anyone." "The something the preacher is tremendously concerned about is doing his duty today and appreciating the blessings of today. So many of us have the habit of not enjoying the blessings God gives us. God is great. God is good. God is sufficient; if we are willing to make an effort to do today what God wants us to do, tomorrow will be a better day.

"There is one who is over all—He is God. The people who lean upon Him and allow Him to direct in the investing of the largest investment—through all the suffering and hardships—those who do these things come out free and with a smile.

Worry, worry, worry then HEADACHE! It's not enough to worry, without suffering from headaches, too. Take Capudine to relieve the pain and soothe the nerves upset by the pain. Capudine is liquid — no waiting for it to dissolve, before or after taking. Use only as directed. 10c, 50c, $1.00.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

IN THE DARK HOUR

A traveler who visited India purchased in the bazaars a box which the merchant assured him had magic potencies. When he opened the lid, he read on the inside these words: "If you will put me in the light all day, I will shine for you all night." The box contained a material which readily absorbed light and then gave it off again in hours of darkness.

The point to this story is that radiation had to be preceded by absorption. Anyone who believed that he could open the box at midday in a dark room and have it glow would be mistaken. It only glowed at night if for long hours it had been absorbing sunshine.

Some people feel that they can neglect their spiritual lives through the years and then in an hour of darkness have it glow with assurance and light. This war is bringing forth all sorts of stories about how men have prayed when alone on a raft or lying in an open field during a raid of dive bombers. It is true that the most amazing answers to prayer have occurred under these circumstances. Sometimes God lets us get into dire circumstances that the effort to pray may suddenly be aroused within us.

But we certainly take a long chance if we wait until danger is upon us, if we never open the lid of the magic box until the darkness becomes impenetrable.

If we put our souls constantly in the light through prayer and worship, we can be sure they will glow with hope and confidence in the darkest hours of our lives.

NO STRINGS, PLEASE

The matter of the 'teen age draft bill is before Congress today and may be decided before nightfall, but it is to be hoped that when the measure goes to the President for his signature it will be without restrictions that would hamstring the army in its efforts to put an efficient fighting force into the field as quickly as possible. We have never desired the drafting of the 'teen age boys for the service unless it was a matter of absolute necessity, but if they are to be drafted there should not be any specified training period clause in the law. Such a plan would not only hinder the army's program but it would be worse for the boys themselves than if they had the opportunities to serve in ranks alongside seasoned troops. If the law is to be adopted at all it should be without strings that will make it worthless.

THE TURNING POINT

Saturday night's news of the American and British landings in French North Africa brought a thrill to the people of the world who have been waiting eagerly for the first signs of an Allied offensive against Hitler and his cohorts.

Even Hitler must see the handwriting on the wall for he and his fellow-aggressors in this latest step by the United Nations, and even though Petain, Laval and their pro-Nazi associates were forced to make a semblance of a show by ordering resistance on the part of the French colonials, it is believed that such resistance will be short-lived.

We believe that this newest venture by the United Nations will spur every American along with the people of every other freedom-loving nation to increase their efforts to carry on the home front in the interest of speedy and complete victory for the Allies. Of course, there is still hard fighting ahead, but the more effort we put into the war now the quicker will come the victory.

So far as the war in Europe is concerned, we have indeed reached the top of the hill and the definite turning point of the war against the Axis. Victory will not come easily, but it is now within sight if we will let nothing deter us from our determination to put everything we have into the fight now and keep on fighting until victory is achieved. This means using all our energies here on the home front as well as on the actual fighting fronts.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

(Second of two articles on housing in Washington.)

Washington—The capital's 280,000-civilian government workers and the million other souls who live in the District of Columbia of its suburbs, have three legitimate complaints, all directly or indirectly traceable to the District's strange, voteless government. The first is lack of housing; second, lack of hospital beds; third, insufficient transportation. Since defense hiring started here, there have been 13,816 new dwelling units completed; about 22,000 more are in various stages of building; and about 20,000 more planned. It's obvious that housing is far short of needs for the capital's new 360,000 population and the 30,000 or more expected to come in the next six or eight months.

More than two years ago, civil service and budget bureau warnings about the influx of new workers were broadcast, but the haggling and delays have continued through ten months of actual war, with WPB, or its predecessors, occasionally tossing a monkey wrench into the machinery with priority rulings (DPB recently vetoed construction of 5,000 dwelling units, but when a howl went up, hurried out with the statement that the order was only "temporary.") The latest scheme tossed into the middle of the housing muddle is for the government to purchase at wholesale private dwellings to house war workers. If the owners would move out of town, it would help.

The transportation problem is likely never to be solved. The Capital Transit Co., operating buses and trolleys, seems to have done about as well as it could. But with about 75 per cent of the government workers concentrated in the less than two-mile square "government quadrangle" abutting Constitution avenue from Capitol Hill to the War Department, and the most compact shopping district of any city of its size in the country, there's not much that can be done.

A third of Washington's "normal" taxicab fleet is laid up for lack of tires, gas or new cars. Private transportation has also suffered from those things.

The lack of hospital beds is dangerous. There have been reports recently of mothers being taken home within a day after their babies are born; that it requires an emergency to get a bed in a ward; that nurses are being worked to near exhaustion.

The District commissioners recently let a half-million dollar contract for expansion of Gallinger hospital. It's another case of, too little, too late. These are some primary reasons why the turnover in newly employed government personnel is of such staggering proportions (80 per cent a year in some departments, and even 60 per cent excluding calls to the colors).

When they are given serious consideration, it's amazing Washington is doing its wartime job as well as it is.

WHAT KIND OF COUNTY FAIR SHALL WE HAVE?

To The Editor: Education and entertainment is the purpose of county fairs. If we are to have a county fair it should be a credit and an asset to the county. In county fairs we have a wonderful opportunity to place emphasis on the worthwhile. In a carnival on a county-wide basis we are enabled to bring some wholesome entertainment to our people that would otherwise be impossible.

As I see it, the problem which we as a county or any organization that sponsors the fair has is in promoting a fair that the people will support and at the same time be wholesome.

I have no right to dictate to any adult the type of show he or she may patronize. However, I do say you and I as citizens of the county, are responsible for what is placed before our children who are not yet capable of choosing.

What kind of citizenship will we have if that which is indecent and unclean becomes commonplace? We should have no children's day at the fair unless we parents attend the fair with our children and help them select their entertainment.

The tragedy of the situation is we make a special appeal to innocent optimistic youth whose minds may become so contaminated that dissolution may take place.

MURDER on the CAMPUS

By JERRY BRONFIELD

Chapter 17
Killer Malone
Amy Bassett got back from the Daily State office late that night and tossed a book on her desk. Susan, in green jersey lounging pajamas, was stretched on her bed reading.

"Hi, news hawk," Susan greeted. "What's on the front burner, as Mr. Crosby would say?"

"Well, for one thing," Amy said slowly, "they got an interesting story on tomorrow's sports page. Amy started to undress. Mr. Todd Malone really is 'Killer Malone' now whether he likes it or not," she continued. "He hit a freshman end so hard this afternoon he broke the poor kid's leg and sent him to the hospital."

Susan sat upright. "He what?" she echoed.

"He committed mayhem," Amy said. "A Scott of the sports staff was telling me about it. He says no one has ever seen Malone in such a business-like mood as he was today. He seemed to forget it was practice and thought every play was the one that would win the game."

"Well, what's wrong with that?" "Nothing—I suppose. But Al said Todd was more than business-like. He said he was cold as ice. As much as Al hated to say it, he said Todd was almost vicious."

"I don't get it," Susan said thoughtfully. "Sorry Pal. Todd's attitude appeared the same on Wednesday and again on Thursday. The sports writers went to Pete Bailey after practice."

The WAR TODAY

Munich and Rome and from the manifold reports of Allied success the conviction that victory is just around the corner. The continent in which the Americans are landing is Africa, not Europe, and the successes being recorded for General Eisenhower's command are not against the real foe. The United States can well take pride and the United Nations draw high encouragement from this evidence of the ability of the American command to plan, prepare and carry through an undertaking so vast and so indicative of foresight, imagination and initiative. But this campaign, after all, is merely one of prevention and preparation and in so far as it involves the killing of Frenchmen a "melancholy action," to borrow the phrase Winston Churchill applied to its prelude at Mers-El-Kebir more than two years ago, we will do well to ponder the reminder of that grim reality. Joseph Stalin, that only 15 Axis divisions are involved in Africa, a twentieth of the forces that face the Russians and are deployed to keep the rest of Europe in subjection.

Sidelights On War ...

Gets Nazi Flag
Cairo, Nov. 8.—(Delayed)—(AP)—With a grin on his face and his uniform cap at a jaunty angle, Associated Press War Correspondent Frank L. Martin pounded into the AP's Cairo office today with the Nazi swastika battleflag under his arm as visible proof of the Allied victory in the western desert. Tanned from a month under the desert sun, Martin was bubbling over with enthusiasm after witnessing the British Eighth Army's offensive from its outset.

Axis Dive Bombers

London, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Reuters quoted a Vichy radio report that German dive-bombers attacked six United States troop transports which entered the roadstead at Algiers early this afternoon. American and British troops and ships arriving in the capitulated port were said to be strengthening the anti-aircraft defenses and both shore and naval guns were reported frequently in action against the Axis planes.

141 To One

Boston, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War announced today an October box score of 141 planes to 10 for United States Army airmen in battling Axis forces. "Throughout October," he told the opening session of the CIO convention, "on all fronts, the army air forces destroyed 141 enemy planes at a cost of only 10 of our own. That is good shooting. That is good building by American labor."

Argentine Approves

Buenos Aires, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The newspaper La Nacion today described the Allied bond at northern and western Africa as the opening of the second front demanded by Russia and said it meant that the final hour of the war was drawing near. The step taken by the United States will be hailed by all countries hostile to the Axis, the paper said, and listed France among these. "For oppressed French people have never ceased to hate the invaders."

Frenchman Resigns

Boston, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Declaring that the American offensive in North Africa cannot be interpreted as aggression but is, on the contrary a first step for the liberation of France, Francois Briere, French consul at Boston since 1937, today resigned his post. M. Briere, who was press attache to the French delegations to the London Naval conference in 1930 and the disarmament conference at Geneva, sent his resignation to the French Ambassador, Gaston Henry-Haye, and also advised under-secretary of State Sumner Welles of his decision.

recovered. When he carries the ball he fought for that last inch, blasting where there was no hole, making his own, running up linemen's backs if they got in his way. He gave his team little rest, driving them mercilessly. On one sequence of plays he sent Ducheke pounding over guard on three straight plays from two different formations. When Andy got up the third time, a thin trickle of blood ran from his lip. "Hey, ain't there any other ball-carriers on this club," Andy grumbled, and Todd stonily said, "they're weak at that spot, Andy, and they can't tell what's coming. That's what you've got to do. When a guy is down you got to keep hitting him where he's weak." Eddie wiped a smear of sweat from his face and looked at Todd. So that was it. It rained up, 20-7. Up in the press box, high on the top fringe of the stadium, the sports writers were pounding out their copy, feeding it to the telegraphers at their side. Carvey of the Chronicle looked at Eddie. "That kid did everything but use brass knuckles down there, today." "All strictly on the level, though. Hard, that's all. Just hard." "He almost suggested me last week," Carvey said. "I called him 'Killer.' I'd like to call him that in my story." "Better not," Ebbeling warned. "Under any other circumstances you could get away with it. As it is, he said significantly, 'you might get yourself in a barrel of trouble, spelled I-I-b-e-l.'" "A great thing for the ball but not good for Todd," Eddie lashed moodily. Susan had stopped, incredulous. "That's what he said? He said here—and said—?" She just a at Eddie, horrified. To Be Continued

How to "PREPARE" Tin Cans for War Duty

UNCLE SAM NEEDS YOUR TIN! Follow these Official Instructions by the War Production Board!

Nearly ninety percent of America's tin formerly came from Malaya. And tin is vital to the war effort—for airplane parts, machine gun mounts, gas masks, countless other military uses! That's why Uncle Sam needs your old tin cans. Read the simple instructions below and cooperate with your Salvage Committee, Defense Council, and Municipal Authorities to help make the salvage of tin cans a big success in your community.

Important Facts to Help You.

All paint, oil, varnish, floor polish, or cone-shaped cans are not wanted for salvage. Evaporated or condensed-milk cans are not worth saving. Put these with your trash.

Coffee cans and others with painted-on-can labels are wanted.

It is not necessary to wash off the small amount of glue which holds labels.

Be Patriotic.—Keep this leaflet in your kitchen for handy reference.

Why "Prepared Cans" Are Needed

1. Washing prevents deterioration of tin coating—assures sanitary condition—and prevents contamination of detinning fluid.
2. Removing top and bottom permits the free flow of detinning fluid over all surfaces of the can.
3. Flattened cans occupy less space in collection, shipment, and detinning operations—thereby decreasing handling costs and increasing plant capacity for detinning.

Start Saving Cans Now.—Properly "prepared cans" are clean and fit solidly into a basket or other container.

Collection Day.—The designated collection day for your neighborhood will be announced and publicized intensively through your local salvage committee. Watch for newspaper and radio announcements.

DUKE-CAROLINA GAME FEATURE FOR THIS WEEK

Four Of Big Five Teams Victorious Saturday

Raleigh, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Big five football teams, four of them finished with week-end triumphs, started another series of workouts today in preparation for next Saturday's schedule of games which includes such tough ones as the annual North Carolina-Duke clash at Chapel Hill.

Besides this tussle, the slate includes one other home game—Davidson's meeting with Washington and Lee at Charlotte.

Wake Forest will get the jump on the other teams. The Deacons play on Friday night at Washington, D. C., against George Washington's rebounding Colonials, who upset Clemson 7-0 last week as a gentle reminder to Coach Peashead Walker that it would be wise not to slack any on the training schedule.

As usual, the principal interest in this area will center around the Blue Devil-Far Heel game, although neither of the participants boasts much of a record for the current season. Both ran up big scores last Saturday, however, North Carolina taking the measure of Davidson 42-0 and Duke thumping Maryland 42-0.

War-time rationing probably will slim off the crowd to some extent, but upwards of 30,000 and perhaps more are expected to turn out for the tilt, which perennially draws the state's biggest throng.

Wake Forest and Doc Newton's Wolfpack came through with victories last week also. The Deacons trounced V. M. I.'s Keydets 28-0 at Winston-Salem, coasting in with the use of reserves over most of the route. State, outplayed in most statistics, put on a great exhibition of kicking for the benefit of Florida fans and upset Miami's Hurricanes 2-0 by blocking one of the home team's punts. Eddie Teague, State sophomore back, kicked one quick-kick 74 yards and that broke Miami's back.

Doc Newton reported that four of his players suffered injuries in that game and probably will have to take early workouts this week lightly.

Apparently the other big fivers didn't suffer much from the injury bugaboo, except of course for the usual crop of bruises.

Fort Benning, Ga., which could have a whole of a football team if it wanted one, has six instead. Playing a round-robin intra-mural schedule, the post has as many as three games a week and entertainment is provided for 30,000 spectators. ... Via Fusia, the "loquacious Latin from Manhattan," is one good reason for the successful grid season at the Jacksonville (Fla.) naval air station. Up through the Tampa game, Vic had thrown 22 passes and completed 12 for 244 yards and had three touchdown tosses called back because of penalties. ... When George Edmond former St. Paul sports editor, landed at Camp Walters, Tex., he encountered Win Pederson, Minnesota's 1940 grid captain, and sent back word not to mention the all-army team to win. ... Pederson has been in the army since last May but football-set him back so far that he's just starting basic training instead of being nearly through an officers' school.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Think you're a pretty husky, healthy specimen, do you? ... How about testing yourself against the records set by cadets at the Iowa Navy flight school? ... Here are some: Pushups from floor, 70; pushups on fingers, 35; situps, feet not anchored, 535 (no, not situps. They'll anchor your feet); hand balance on floor, 1 minute 30 seconds; straight up chin, 30; one-finger chin, 12; 20-foot rope climb with 27.5 pound pack, 11.8 seconds. ... These are not all the records, of course, but we think you'll be ready to stop before you get any farther.

Lew Riggs Joins The Army

RECRUITS REPORT

Lew Riggs of Melrose, N. C., third baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, waits for a uniform at Camp Jackson, S. C., after coming there as a volunteer and joining the Army Air Forces as a private. Lew formerly played baseball at the University of North Carolina. He played five years with the Cincinnati Reds before joining the Dodgers. (U. S. Army photo.)

French Ships ...

(Continued from page one) the new developments could be evaluated, and added that any other Vichy ships in any American port would likewise be under such custody.

Official word came to the State Department today that France, as represented by the Vichy government, had broken off relations with the United States.

The department, stonily indifferent to how Pierre Laval and his fellows feel about the liberation move of American forces into French North Africa, supplied no details of the formal rupture and made no comment.

It merely said S. Pinkney Tuck, American charge d'affaires at Vichy, had transmitted Laval's note of yesterday.

And thus ended the riddle of the administration's long - drawn - out maintenance of diplomatic relations with a government which it periodically and bitterly denounced.

Rommel's Forces ...

Allied air squadrons continued, meanwhile, to blast the line of the enemy retreat, shooting up fleeing columns of trucks which were left without aerial protection, a communiqué said.

Fighter-bombers were said to

have shot up 50 enemy trucks in one raid alone.

Among the prisoners taken at Matruh was the commander of the Italian Pavia division.

The communiqué did not give the number of captives taken yesterday merely reporting that many more prisoners had been collected, but earlier British reports said that six entire Italian divisions—perhaps 60,000 men—had been captured, along with complete equipment.

This would indicate it was said that Rommel's strength had been cut down to some 20,000 men.

Despite the scope of Allied aerial operations only four aircraft were reported lost Saturday and Sunday night. By contrast Axis air losses Saturday were put at "at least" 13 planes.

The six Italian divisions reported captured in the southern reaches of the El Alamein line after being abandoned by their German comrades-in-arms were identified as the Pavia, Trento, Bologna, Brescia, Folgore and Trieste divisions.

Also in British hands, these sources said, were 500 of Rommel's anti-tank guns, 300 field guns and 100 anti-aircraft guns.

Four main factors contributed to the defeat of the Axis army—better weapons and more of them, a larger army, a determined commander with an efficient staff and complete air superiority.

It was obvious to all on the scene that the British would be able to smash through the enemy defenses after the second day of fighting.

Trends near the close were definitely irregular. Transfers of around 1,200,000 shares were the largest since last December 31.

(Continued from page one) seen to fall into the sea. An Allied headquarters spokesman here said most of the resistance so far had been by naval forces but that the combined strength of United States and British fleets could cope swiftly with any Vichy sea forces which might try to interfere. He said there was no truth, however, to reports that the French fleet had steamed from Toulon to enter the battle.

Aussies Charge Nazis In Egypt

Australian soldiers charge through a smoke screen toward a German strong point somewhere on the Egyptian front. The Axis forces are in full retreat and are fighting on the Egyptian front. The Axis forces, say Allied communiques, this is an official British photo radiated from Cairo.

Fish Yarn

If you don't believe it, here's the corpus delicti as evidence, says Paul Wilbanks, sportsman of Chattanooga, Tenn., in telling a whale of a fish story. Sportsman Wilbanks vows he and several companions saw two big-mouth bass making passes at each other in the shallow waters of Dallas lake. Suddenly, they backed off about 10 feet and headed at each other like a couple of M-4 tanks. The big one, size 15 inches, tried to swallow the smaller, size 14 1/2 inches—but couldn't quite make it. And there the matter hung, with Mr. Wilbanks the victor, as shown (so he says).

A German communique said that German and Italian planes had scored bomb hits on six Allied warships and four merchantmen in attacks since Friday night against British and American vessels off Algiers.

The Vichy radio reported that Italian planes had attacked Gibraltar today but gave no account of the results.

Besides Algiers, which capitulated under land, sea and air attack last night at the close of the first day of the campaign, the Americans also had occupied Safi, on the Atlantic coast 140 miles south of Casablanca, and a Vichy communique acknowledged that the Algerian port of Oran, on the Mediterranean, was virtually encircled.

French broadcasts said that the Americans closing around Oran had reached the railway line eastward from that port to Algiers, but there was no evidence as yet of any extension of operations eastward beyond the Algiers area.

A Vichy communique said no attack had occurred in the region of Constantine, inland from the eastern Algerian port of Philippeville, but military and civilian preparations were being made against a possible eventual Allied thrust at Tunisia.

Moving southwestward from Oran from Arzew, the French said, the Americans have reached St. Cloud, about 30 miles from their landing place, and also have gained Valmy, inland about seven miles south of Oran.

Both at Arzew on the Mediterranean and at Safi where United States forces were fanning out on the Atlantic coast, the broadcast said, reinforcements were demonstrating in considerable strength. The defenses of Morocco have not been undermined, however, and the coastal batteries at Oran are intact, it declared. Casablanca, heavily bombarded, apparently was being enveloped in

HOUSE ACTS ON 'TEEN AGE LAW' Will Leave Conferees Free To Work Out Compromise

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP)—The House refused to go on record today in favor of a Senate proposal that teen-age drafted soldiers be given one year of training before being sent into combat.

It voted down a motion by representative Rankin (D-Miss.) to instruct house conferees to accept a compulsory training amendment written by the Senate into House Legislation lowering the draft age from 20 to 18.

The standing vote was announced by speaker Rayburn as 177 to 40 Rankin failed to get enough support to force a roll-call vote.

The action left the House conferees free to work out any compromise they could effect with the Senate and bring it back to the House for ratification, and indications were the conferees would recommend elimination of the Senate provision, which the president and the War and Navy departments have opposed.

While the vote was not specifically an acceptance or rejection of the Senate amendment, it was tantamount to that another record vote in respect later in the week if the conferees recommend that the House stand pat on its original decision not to consider such a proposal.

The House passed the measure early last month free from limitations, but the Senate voted in the 12 month training requirement over the vigorous objection of top-ranking military men.

Sources close to the administration reported the bill probably would be vetoed by President Roosevelt if it reaches his desk with training amendment.

With the heavy cloak of secrecy partly lifted now that the convoys have reached their goal and the shock troops have gained firm footholds, several dramatic sidelights of the expedition became known.

One was the fact that some of the American forces ashore in North Africa sailed directly from the United States to join others from Britain in what was probably the greatest sea-borne troop movement in history.

Measured by its armor and weapons, its carrier-based planes, the guns of its protecting warships, and the striking power of the Rangers, parachute troops and armored forces, it certainly was the most formidable of all time.

Another was the dramatic reappearance in the Mediterranean of Sir Andrew B. Cunningham, back at the scene of his triumph over the Italian fleet as the commander of the British naval forces cooperating with the Americans. As commander of Britain's Mediterranean fleet before he went to Washington to sit in Allied councils, Cunningham crippled Italy's seapower at Taranto and Matapan.

On the Mediterranean coast, where progress apparently was fastest with Algiers already in American hands and Oran in a vise between what Vichy called large landings both east and west of the town, three destroyers had been seized and put to use by the U. S. forces.

On the west coast, Vichy reported that the landing field at Rabat had been evacuated.

Here, however, the situation was not entirely clear.

Although the new 35,000-ton battleship Jean Bart said at least four submarines were known from Vichy reports to have been hit, the French did not disclose how grave were the naval blows they suffered at Casablanca.

The Vichy radio mentioned the landing of several infantry regiments in the neighborhood of Casablanca and said the town was being threatened, but gave no details of the strength of the beachhead or its distance from the Moroccan port.

Up the coast at Port Lyautey (Kenitra) 20 miles above Rabat, it said an American attack had been repulsed.

The southernmost landings, at Mogador, Agadir and Safi, gave the United States forces three possible lines of approach toward Marrakech, the inland southern capital of Morocco, if that is their plan.

With the fall of Algiers, where the anti-British commander of all Vichy's armed forces, Admiral Jean Darlan, himself gave the cease-fire order, a French broadcast said the defenses of North Africa had been spent.

General Barreau, the announcer said, is in command of eastern Algeria and Tunisia and General Juin in Morocco and western Algeria as far as Oran.

"Nothing is known authoritatively about the position of Admiral Darlan," he said.

Action against Tunisia apparently was expected. That part of colonial France, which might be vulnerable to land or sea attack, was ordered blacked out and Vichy said Vichy said General Barreau had conferred at length with the governor, Admiral Jean Esteva, at Tunis.

Despite this Vichy indication that North Africa was rallying behind Marshal Petain's decision to fight, General Henri, Garaud, the Nazi's escaped captive, remained a potential factor along with the subdued DeGaulle uprising in Morocco.

General Giraud has broadcast that he was taking command in North Africa. Despite Vichy's insistence that it was not Giraud who spoke, Allied sources here declared it was and that he spoke certainly with Allied knowledge and probably with the consent of the Allied commanders.

United States and British naval forces sailed peacefully into Algiers harbor this morning. Axis sources said that the occupation, arranged by a local armistice, was carried out while the fires of gasoline reservoirs set aflame last night still burned.

While planes circled overhead and a big crowd gathered at the waterfront to watch the American troops go ashore, a transport put into the port, and several destroyers screened heavier warships which appeared on the horizon.

The Berlin radio said the United Jack was hoisted on the pier while the French flag still flew from the admiralty building and the governor-general's residence.

A Vichy communique declared that fierce fighting was progressing in French Morocco and that naval forces were engaged in the Atlantic off Casablanca, Morocco's second city.

"Our forces are endeavoring to reduce enemy landings at Safi and Fedhala and fighting is in progress at Arzew and Oran," the Vichy bulletin reported.

Safi lies 140 miles south of Casablanca and Fedhala 12 miles north of that city. Arzew is on the Mediterranean 38 miles northwest of Oran, the French naval base which is itself 250 miles west of Algiers.

Helsinki Bombed Nov. 8—(AP)—A Helsinki dispatch said today that 45 persons were killed and 12 injured yesterday in a noon raid on the Finnish capital by the Russian Air Force.
