Japs Admit Loss Of Big Battleship In Solomons

Make Great Claims As To American Losses; MacArthur's Forces Closing in on Japs In New Guinea Meet Aerial Opposition; Burma Frontier Becomes Active

By The Associated Press
Imperial Tokyo headquarters today admitted heavy losses in Japan's most vital offensive and defensive weapon, her fleet, as an aftermath of the great American naval victory in the Solomon Islands on November 13-15.

For the first time in the war, the enemy acknowledged the sinking of a Japanese battleship and gave this summary of other blows suffered by Emperor Hirohito's navy:

Sunk: One cruiser, three destroyers.
Damaged: Another battleship seven transports.
Destroyed or missing: 41 planes.
These admissions—the heaviest losses ever conceded by Tokyo—contrasted with the U. S. navy's announcement that American battle forces in three days and nights of flaming action had sunk one Japanese battleship, five cruisers, five destroyers, eight troop-jammed transports and five cargo ships; and damaged another battleship and six destroyers.

American losses were listed by the U. S. navy as two light cruisers and six destroyers, while today's Tokyo communique asserted the Japanese sank eight cruisers, four or five destroyers and a transport.

The Japanese also declared they had heavily damaged two battleships, three cruisers, three or four destroyers and five transports. Germany, the Tokyo radio claimed that "terrible damage" had been inflicted on the U. S. battleship Iwo, thereby betraying crossed wires in Axis propaganda. On October 6, without any confirmation then or since, the Italians reported the sinking of the Idaho 330 miles off West Africa.

As a pretense to the Japanese communique, the Tokyo radio declared imperial headquarters would tell the world that "the Japanese naval victory was so overwhelming that U. S. attempts at a counter-offensive in the South Pacific are a thing of the past."

By contrast, informed quarters at Pearl Harbor, headquarters of the U. S. Pacific fleet, pointed to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' significant comment that future action in the South Seas theater "may be of our own choosing, not their choosing."

Observers also cited President Roosevelt's statement last night that a fortnight's "good news" from the battle zones indicated that the turning-point of the war had been reached—in favor of the United Nations.

Upwards of 60,000 Japanese have already been killed since the attack on Pearl Harbor, a survey disclosed, including 5,000 in the battle of the Coral Sea, more than 10,000 at Midway, between 20, and 40,000 in the latest sea battle of Guadalcanal, and more than 5,000 on Guadalcanal.

Plans have been completed for a War Bond auction to be held in Ayden on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at which time there will be gifts for those purchasing bonds.

Men In Service Are Grateful For Rooms

By LUCY CHERRY CRISP
The immediate response to the call for help sent out by the room Registration Committee at the Service Center Saturday night was gratifying. Before 9 o'clock every available room on the list was taken, and 50 or more service men were at the club still roomless for the night. Between 9 o'clock and midnight, 64 places were offered by telephone, and all the boys who had requested rooms had them.

But there would have been a different story to tell had the crowd of Greenville-bound men in uniform waiting in Kinston been able to secure transportation. Along about midnight there came a call from one of them to the Woman's Club, saying, "We won't be able to make it after all. We have been waiting here in Kinston for another bus, but now find that the last one for tonight has gone."

Of those who did succeed in reaching Greenville, 242 were placed in local homes through the registration bureau at the club and the cooperation of concerned Greenville families.

Italy To Become Target Of Mass Raids By Allies

GUARDSMEN ON WAR FOOTING
Officers Meeting Was Held At Washington Last Night
By CHESTER WALSH
Commissioned officers of six companies of the Second Battalion First Regiment, N. C. State Guard, attended an officers' training school at the army in Washington last night. An informal supper session was held at the Knotty Pine Inn at which the officers discussed the work of the State Guard and its objectives.

The State Guard, organized nearly two years ago, is now on a thorough military footing. The various companies are armed, provided with ammunition, and have been drilled and disciplined to a point where they could take over in any emergency on the "home front," said Major Zeno D. Hollowell of Goldsboro battalion commander, Major Hugh Dorich of Goldsboro, battalion executive officer, pointed out that the personnel of the various State Guard units is above the average; that many of the members are former National Guardsmen, marines or soldiers.

Capt. Jasper L. Jones, commanding officer of the Greenville Company, and First Lieutenant Howard Surrall; Capt. Walter W. Smith of New Bern, Capt. William A. Blount of Washington, Capt. Jerome B. Flora of Elizabeth City, (this company is in the process of organization) and Capt. Lloyd E. Griffin of Edenton (company now being organized) were present.

There is no time now," Mr. Roosevelt said, "for anything but fighting and working to win."
He described the encounter between Japanese and American warships November 13 to 15 as "one of the great battles of our history."

Roosevelt Says Turning Point In War Indicated

Washington, Nov. 18. — (AP) — President Roosevelt sized up a fortnight's "good news" from the battle zones last night as indicating that the turning point of the war had been reached.

But he tempered his analysis, presented in a radio speech to the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum, with cautious phrases. He said it would continue to be an uphill fight—"all the way"—that there could be "no coasting to victory," and that it was no time for exultation.

"There is no time now," Mr. Roosevelt said, "for anything but fighting and working to win."
He described the encounter between Japanese and American warships November 13 to 15 as "one of the great battles of our history."

Legion Post Asks Invocation of May Act In The County

Charge Proper Efforts Not Being Made By Health Authorities To Control Venereal Disease

The Federal government will be asked immediately to invoke the May Act in Pitt County as a result of action taken by Pitt County Post of the American Legion last night. The action was taken after full discussion of the post's Venereal Disease committee's report that proper efforts apparently were not being made by the local health office to control the disease and the belief that local taxicabs were being used for immoral purposes, especially during the week-ends when hundreds of service men visit this community.

The Legion became active in the matter of efforts to control venereal disease in this county several months ago when it was revealed that several hundred draftees had been deferred because of the disease but that only a very few of them were taking treatment, that would make them well and fit them for military service. Promising full support to the local health office in a campaign to wipe out the disease in the county the post urged the indictment and arrest of all persons known to be infected with the diseases but who refused or neglected to take proper treatment. Under such pressure, the report of the committee pointed out, some progress has been made in getting more people to take treatment but the report added that the effort on the part of the local health office apparently was a half-hearted one and that there was more "pussy-footing" than actual effort to get something done. It pointed out that while there are still a great many infectees who are not taking regular treatments, only a few such persons have been arrested and that in cases of such arrests the local health office usually requests that the courts continue the cases on promise that the defendants take the treatment. The report in general criticized the slack handling of this whole matter by the health officer and his assistants and expressed regret that more progress had not been made in the campaign.

Fewer Lights For Christmas

Greenville's street decorations for the Christmas season in the business district will be void of outside lighting except at Five Points. Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary of the association, announced this morning. With the exception of the lighting, there will be the usual decorations with mountain laurel to be used for the decoration of white way posts and many of the store fronts.

Pointing out that this plan of decoration was in keeping with the requests of the War Production Board Mrs. Powell said:

"The War Production Board asked merchants associations, city officials, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, and citizens generally to dispense with outdoor decorative lighting this Christmas."

WPB pointed out that Christmas lighting requires the use of critical materials electricity, and manpower and is not in line with general conservation programs already underway.

The attitude of WPB toward Christmas lighting was announced because of numerous inquiries that have already been received from city officials, chambers of commerce and civic clubs asking what they should do this Christmas in regard to outdoor decorative lighting.

WPB is not asking that indoor Christmas lighting, whether in the home or in stores, be eliminated, but it believes that outdoor lighting such as festooned store fronts and decorated streets, must be dispensed with in war time.

"Although the electricity saving and the resultant fuel saving may appear small, as compared with the total annual usage, nevertheless the elimination of outdoor Christmas lighting is estimated to save 50,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity, enough to meet the lighting and power requirements of a city of 50,000 for a year."

London, Nov. 18.—(AP)—United States heavy bombers, both Flying Fortresses and Liberators, raided the German bases of Lorient and La Pallice on the French coast this afternoon. American headquarters announced tonight.

A Denver, Col., bank vault, weighing one ton, went to the city's scrap drive.

There in the hinterland we find men from many Allied nations responding with fervent energy in an effort to back up their colleagues on the battlefield.

There are British and French soldiers and others of our allies, all working in fine union. With them, laboring on the edge

President Sets Dates For New Registration

Youths Who Become 18 Before End Of Year Must Register

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt fixed three separate registration periods today for youths who have reached or will reach their 18th birthdays in the last half of this year.

By proclamation, he set the week beginning December 11 and ending December 17 for draft registration of those who became 18 in July and August.

Young men who reached that age in September and October will register in the following week and those who became 18 in November and December will register in the week starting December 26 and closing December 31.

Mr. Roosevelt also provided for continuous registration on their birthdays of youths who become 18 or after next January 1. If the birthday falls on a Sunday or holiday, they must register the next day.

This will be the sixth draft registration. The last, on June 30th, covered young men who already were 18 or 19 and those who had become 20 since the preceding registration.

Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation said the new registration and the others which had been held were "advisable to insure victory, final and complete, over the enemies of the United States."

The new registration will take place simultaneously in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, with daily registration hours fixed for 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Late registrations will be permitted for those unable to present themselves during the stated period because of circumstances beyond (Continued on Page Six)

Spanish Mobilization Is Seen As Defense Move

By The Associated Press
Spain's move to mobilize more of her potential 3,000,000 soldiers is generally accepted in informed European quarters as a bona fide effort to avoid fighting, rather than any step toward military cooperation with her Axis friends, it was indicated in reliable private advices reaching New York today.

With German military might sitting firmly on his northern doorstep and powerful Allied forces arrayed across the narrow Gibraltar strait to the south, Generalissimo Francisco Franco has authorized reinforcement of his land, air and sea forces. It was disclosed yesterday in Madrid.

Instead of using the more forthright—and possibly alarming—term "mobilization", the announcement said merely that heads of the three armed services were being allowed to call up the necessary men to reinforce their commands.

This cautious terminology was accepted as evidence of the care with which the Spanish Generalissimo is treading to avoid making his hungry, revolution-scarred country a battleground again.

Allied Parachutists Take Over Two Airports In Tunisia; Rommel Expected To Try To Make Stand Near El Aghela; Allies Closing In

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor
Adolf Hitler was reported massing a fleet of more than 1,000 planes in southern Italy, Crete, Sardinia and Sicily in an attempt to defend the last Axis bases in North Africa today as the Nazi-controlled Paris radio announced that German troops had "captured" Bizerte in Tunisia.

Use of the word "captured" appeared to refute previous Berlin assertions that the Germans moved in "to defend their French compatriots in Tunisia" and met only cooperation from French soldiers in the vital North African buffer state.

Tunisia lies between American-held Algeria on the west and Italian Tripolitania on the east.

Simultaneously, British parachute troops borne by huge American transport planes were reported swarming down on key points in the Mediterranean coastal colony, spearheading an advance by perhaps 150,000 Allied soldiers from Algeria.

American sky troops had already occupied an airport on the Tunisian frontier.

Reports of intensified British submarine activities indicated that Hitler was desperately seeking to rush sea-borne reinforcements across the Mediterranean to the Dar-el-Beida, as well as concentrating great numbers of planes for a showdown battle.

But the Axis claw that only a few months ago threatened to squeeze the entire Middle East was now steadily withdrawing its burnt fingers.

While Anglo-American troop columns drove eastward into Tunisia, British headquarters announced that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army advanced 90 miles across the Libyan desert yesterday to reach a point only 70 miles from the Axis base at Bengasi on the Gulf of Sirte.

The new British sweep in pursuit of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered armies narrowed the Axis "escape gap" between Tunisia and Libya to about 200 miles.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British Middle East commander-in-chief, told newsmen that only 15 of 500 Axis tanks in Egypt escaped destruction or capture, but predicted that Rommel would attempt a stand near El Aghela, at the bottom of the Gulf of Sirte.

Alexander said Rommel had erected "strong defense positions" in the Dar-el-Beida, and he added: "The enemy is groggy, but not knocked out."

Rommel himself was reported in Tunisia for a last-ditch attempt to stem the Allied offensive.

Conflicting reports variously pictured the French in Tunisia as aiding both the Allies and the Axis, some responding to Hitler's appeal for help while others accepted Admiral Jean Barban's invitation to fight on the side of the United Nations.

A broadcast from the radio in American-occupied Algiers said French patrols clashed repeatedly with German reconnaissance forces operating out of Bizerte, big Tunisian naval base, and drove the Nazis back in one skirmish.

By contrast, the German-controlled Paris radio asserted that French colonialists fought against Al-

Speaks At A. A. U. W. Meeting. Miss Jennie Witkowski, German-Jewish student at East Carolina Teachers College, who has been an exile from Germany since 1933, spoke to the local branch of the A. A. U. W., at the November meeting of the group held Monday night at the Regal Hotel, tracing the growth of the Nazi party and commenting on the situation that produced it.

Though her own family had been forced to leave Germany, this student urged the women listening to keep an objective attitude toward Germany, and not let their thinking be colored by their feelings; for only so, she said, can one understand what is going on there.

Though the speaker told some bitter experiences of her own before coming to the United States, she still insisted that "the German people are not a bad people." Her concluding words brought out the importance of holding to democratic principles in this country.

Miss Witkowski was introduced by Miss Laura Rose, chairman of the program committee.

In the business session, the group decided to omit the December meeting, and voted to make a contribution of five dollars to the Red Cross drive for furnishings for day rooms in near-by camps.

Forty-one Book Club. The Forty-one Book Club met on Tuesday, November 17, at the home of Mrs. Herbert Warwick. Mrs. Plato Evans, the president, presided over the meeting.

The club's attention was called to the Women War Workers' Week. Each was urged to do her part.

After the regular routine business the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Harry Forbes, who in her attractive manner, discussed "Defense Work in North Carolina."

She brought out the fact that North Carolina is very adapted to defense work because of its rivers, minerals, soil, sea, and schools.

Some of the defense centers that were discussed were: Inland Army Base at Charlotte; Blimp Base at Elizabeth City; Coast Guard Base located at Elizabeth City, this being one of the most modern in the United States; Marine Air School at Camp Mitchell in New Bern; Cunningham Field, the largest air base in the world, located near New Bern; New River, the largest Marine Base in the world; Marine Aircraft School at Camp Davis; Naval Bases at Morehead and Southport; Wilmington was remembered for her shipbuilding.

The largest of all defense places is Fort Bragg. It is the largest Army training camp in the world.

More money was appropriated to North Carolina for defense work than any other state in the Union, with the exception of Texas.

After hearing Mrs. Forbes' talk, we were proud of North Carolina and part she is playing in defense work.

The hostess, Mrs. Warwick, served delicious refreshments, after which the meeting adjourned.

The co-chairman of shipping for the Pitt county chapter of the American Red Cross announced today that two large shipments of clothes for use in the armed forces and for refugees had been made in the last two months. In October, 377 garments were completed and shipped. Of this number 169 were Army and Navy sweaters, the remainder being women's dresses, blouses and gowns, boys' overalls and woolen trousers and hospital shirts, bedjackets and pajamas.

On November 14th another large shipment of 318 articles was made. This, too, was made up of 120 sweaters for the Army and Navy, hospital bath robes, bed jackets, pajamas, dresses, blouses, overalls and boys' trousers.

In spite of the gasoline situation the Pitt county branches of the Red Cross have continued to do fine work for the past few months and made many garments. Ayden has made 454 hours; Farmville 257; Falkland 116; Winterville 96; Bethel 156; Ballard's Vrossroads 42; Stokes 44; Greenville 1,035.

"Today we are in the midst of a crisis in the defense program caused by the timidity and counsel of scared minds that held back the building of dams," said Mrs. Jesse Moye in her talk on "Main Sources of Waterpower in U.S." to the members of the Chlo Book Club, at the home of Mrs. Ed Wilkerson Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Moye stated that our country wants to go full speed ahead. Billions of dollars have been appropriated, yet our defense production is not in high gear because we have not been permitted to use to the utmost, and without stint the glorious strength that Almighty gave to the United States of America. Nine years ago the Tennessee Valley Authority started building dams on the Tennessee river, but a big cry went up that dams were a waste, too much electricity and there was a surplus. Since that time the T. V. A. has put in operation the construction of a great network of dams—28 in all. Among those Mrs. Moye referred to the following: The Norris Dam, Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals, Grand Joe Wheeler Dam, Douglas Dam, the most urgent of the new storage dams on the French Broad river and Fort Loudon at the head of the Tennessee river.

Mrs. Moye described the world's highest—Boulder Dam, 727 feet in height, which was built to control the wild Colorado river, to furnish water to irrigate desert areas and furnish electricity for California, Arizona and Nevada.

The Grand Coulee Dam, Mrs. Moye stated, the greatest of all, just completed two years ahead of schedule, is on the Columbia river. As high as a skyscraper and nearly a mile long, it dwarfs in massiveness all other structures ever erected by man. Already energy from its immense turbines is making possible 30 per cent of the aluminum production for our armada of the skies. Its builder, Frank Arthur Banks, who worked in silence, carries the President's citation: "A fine job—well done."

Mrs. W. S. Bost, president, presided over the business meeting. After a brief talk from one of the Boy Scouts, who brought to the club the plan for us to help furnish a lounge in the barracks at the Marine Base, contributions were taken to aid this project.

The hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. John Adams and Mrs. Bill Whedbee.

Girl Scout Activities In Greenville

The Greenville Girl Scout Council held its November meeting Tuesday night in the Girl Scout office. There was a nice representation and a lively meeting. Mrs. J. B. Kittrell presided. Standing committees gave interesting reports. Mrs. H. L. Ormond read a very interesting letter written by a girl who chose Scouting to immediate work in some war project—as WAC, WAVE or factory. The letter helped convince those present that Girl Scouting is extremely necessary and important. It is the best war work one can do now—it issues our nation of future success, and prepares for future stability.

The Nominating committee reported that, according to the constitution, a new commissioner would be elected at the January meeting. Names were submitted and a report will be made at the December meeting.

Troop three has a good idea. They are forming a Service Bureau. Service to function—some of the girls have aided at the Rationing Board. The girls, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Arthur and Mrs. Dave Mosier, hope to expand their program to service in homes—such as keeping children while parents are away. More will be announced as soon as details are worked out. Go to it, troop three.

The senior girls, troops one and two combined, are rolling bandages. They seem to be getting a big kick out of it.

Troop four is planning to entertain the West Greenville (troop 10) bunch on a cook-out Thursday. They are going to experiment with Bunny Burners, home-made stoves which can be used when gas, electricity and other powers are not available.

Troop ten welcomes their new leader, Mrs. Ward. Now watch the number tens shine.

Mrs. Batchelor and troop nine had a swell cook-out on Cotanche street playground on Tuesday. The girls learned how to cook hamburgers on a stick.

The Brownies are tickled pink with their new meeting place. They are busy fixing it up.

Troop twelve is working on their radio broadcast which is to be next Wednesday. So more about them later.

All troops are expanding, having fun and keeping busy. The Scouts would like to have more adult volunteers.

In addition to its boundaries on the Great Lakes, Canada has nine large lakes more than 100 miles long.

Choir Leader To Aid War Effort

LEWIS S. BULLOCK

By CHESTER WALSH
Lewis Sidney Bullock, of Greenville, founder and director of the Eastern Carolina Civic Choral Association, which has received national recognition during the past six years, is one of 13 choral leaders invited by the U. S. Treasury Department to attend a chorus leaders' training conference at the Yale Club in New York November 21-23.

These choral leaders from many parts of the country have been chosen to meet and discuss their choice of songs, the making of programs, organization of singing groups, and to talk over plans for bringing about the training of song leaders in all parts of the country.

"A singing community is a working community," a U. S. Treasury official stated. This conference of choral leaders is to work out a plan to stimulate and encourage morale during the war.

The conference at the Yale Club in New York will include such well known leaders as Robert Laurence and Marshall Bartholomew, director of the Yale Glee Club. The Treasury Department and other government agencies, including President Roosevelt, are urging that community singing be encouraged.

and in choral work. The North Carolina Symphonic Choir, under his direction, has sung at the White House in Washington, on Boston Common, before Kay Kyser in Hollywood and elsewhere. Mr. Bullock's work in developing young singers from all walks of life has attracted favorable comment from the nation's leading music critics.

The invitation to Mr. Bullock to participate in this government-sponsored conference, plans for which will be formulated in New York next Saturday and Sunday, is a tribute to his talent and to the people of Greenville and North Carolina.

Hitler Massing ...

The Allied southern column was reported advancing from Algeria into Tunisia in an enveloping arc which would cut the road to Libya and thus divide the Axis forces.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from advanced Allied headquarters said Rommel was "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" in Tunisia, where approximately 10,000 airborne Nazi troops have set up defenses at Bizerte and Tunis, the capital, and seized key airports.

Reuters said Allied paratroopers had landed "close to an important town in Tunisia and were moving swiftly eastward."

Other dispatches said American parachute troops swept down on an airfield on the Tunisian frontier landing in force in the space of 40 seconds. This was the same group which had helped in the capture of Oran.

Huge American transport planes, escorted by fighters, carried the paratroopers to their objectives deep into Tunisia without opposition, it was reported.

For the first time in weeks, Japanese planes appeared over the New Guinea battle sector, attacking Allied vanguards, but United Nations fliers destroyed 15 enemy planes in a double sweep over the Japanese airfield at Lae, northwest of Buna.

Burma—Quickening action on the Burma frontier, adjoining India, was reported as British patrols twice clashed with Japanese troops in Burma within 48 hours.

Guardsmen On ...

The State Guard was organized, and others attended the meeting.

New uniforms and overcoats are now being provided for the State Guard. The militiamen are adequately equipped with rifles, machine guns and shotguns and an ample supply of ammunition to take care of any riot or other emergency in cooperation with police. In every county seat town where there is a State Guard company a signal from the fire department can call the men to emergency duty on a few minutes' notice.

The State Guard was organized to handle any situation at home during the war. Many of the enlisted men and nearly all of the commissioned and non-commissioned officers have had military training. In an emergency the State Guard handles a situation until the regular army arrives, Captain Jones of the Greenville company, stated.

Younger men who have been in the State Guard, when called to the army, have passed right along for promotion as a result of the training they received at home.

The Greenville post of the American Legion was influential in organizing the Greenville company.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

REGARDING SELF-CONTROL
The Greeks had a proverb which declared that he who can control himself is better than he that takes a city.

What consternation would be aroused if a man driving down main street should lose control of his car. Yet every day we lose control of ourselves and see others lose their self-control and think very little about it. Some people are literally dragged along by their passions like a dog on a leash. There are some who are unhappy unless they can have a number of drinks every day. Others, no matter at what task they are employed long for a respite when they can catch a smoke. Some people have tempers which go off like guns controlled by sensitive springs. Still others cannot manage their appetites and learn to their sorrow with the passing of time that passions are good servants but bad masters.

"Govern your passions," wrote the poet Horace, "otherwise they will govern you." The world is full of those who contemplate the dreary ruins of their happiness because in a moment when passion made them blind to consequences, they did something or said something which cast subsequent years under a cloud.

Self-control is a matter of such overwhelming importance that no one can be said to have learned anything who has not learned how to exercise it. We can never plan and calculate so long as unbridled passion stands at the roadside ready to intercept our journey.

FULL INVESTIGATION NEEDED NOW

The fact that the local post of the American Legion deems it necessary to ask the government to invoke the May Act in this county to protect visiting service men from venereal disease and the statement that the local Health Office is apparently not doing a good job in its campaign to control or stamp out the diseases in this county are a disgrace and should receive official action immediately.

This is a matter that not only reflects on Pitt County but at the same time menaces the health and safety of the entire community. If the Health Office is falling down on its job, as would be indicated by the Legion reports and action, it is high time somebody did something about it. On the other hand, if it is a matter, the scope of which is beyond the control of the Health Office, then the facts should be known.

Using the expressions of Legionnaires in discussing the matter at last night's meeting, "pussyfooting" rather than action is the attitude of the local Health Office, and if this be the case it's time for those responsible for the employment of our health officials to build a fire under somebody and see that they do their job or look for persons to fill the offices who will do the job.

Not having all the facts at hand we cannot, at this time, confirm or deny the charges brought by the Legion, but the fact that the Legion felt the situation was

MURDER on the CAMPUS

Chapter 25
The Delicate Threat
Todd walked into the lobby of the Earlton at noon the next day and started for the house phone. A short, smiling man wearing a dark brown suit intercepted him before he reached it.

"You're Malone, of course. I figured I could recognize you so I waited down here in the lobby. I'm Ben Talbott," he said, extending his hand.
Todd noticed the hand was soft, the nails highly polished. It was a hand that wasn't used to much hard work.

Talbott took Todd by the arm and guided him into the dining room. "An associate of mine will join us in a couple of minutes," Talbott said. "We'll take a table, meanwhile."
The headwaiter led them to a table in the extreme corner of the room.

"Both my friend and I will feel honored to have had lunch with you," Talbott beamed.
"Don't make me feel foolish," Todd said simply. "I'm just another football player. If that's what you mean, he studied Talbott closely, saw nothing but a ghost of a smile on an inscrutable face.

Talbott glanced up. "Here comes Crane now," he said. "Hello, Joe. You're just in time. Joe, meet Mr. Malone—Mr. Crane."
Todd rose briefly and shook hands with the other man. Crane was slender and had black hair and sleepy looking eyes. Todd had a feeling he had either seen the man or his picture some place.

"Well, gentlemen, in what way can I be of service?" Todd asked.
Talbott waved a slender hand. "Time enough for that after we enjoy lunch."
So they ate lunch first and made small talk about politics, the weather and a bare mention of football now and then. Todd was impatient.

Talbott took out a cigar when they were through eating and lit it deliberately.
"Okay, Malone. Here it is, but I want to get something across first. You may not like the proposition we have to offer. In fact—" he blew a cloud of smoke and watched it closely—"in fact you may be a bit offended. But I'd like you to remember that I am merely broaching a business proposition. Please treat it as such."

Crane folded his hands on the table and smiled.
"Mr. Crane and I," Talbott went on, "are betting commissioners. We are the financial backers of one of the large football spot sheet pools which you see around the country."
Todd interrupted him. "I don't think there is any business transaction you and I can get together on, Mr. Talbott," Todd said quickly. "So, if you'll excuse me—"

Talbott waved him back to his seat. "Take it easy and hear me out. The vatican, passed through Madrid recently.
Although the press is dominated by the falange (Fascist) party and some high army officers are pro-Axis, popular opinion seems definitely to favor the side of the United Nations and Allied success in North Africa has bolstered this feeling.

From the moment that Marshal Rommel's African Army started retreating before the latest British drive, Spain began to reinforce the Balearic islands off her coast with men and materials.
The mobilization therefore comes as a logical step in the development of a firm neutrality policy and is evidence of Franco's determination not to allow the Germans unopposed passage through his country to strike at the Allies at Gibraltar.

should plug us. But remember this—there's $2,000 you can pick up—that'll be the easiest money you ever made in your life and ever will make. It's foolproof.
"And why don't you forget that loyalty business? This world stopped paying off on loyalty long ago. I don't like to remind you but you've taken quite a kicking around in this town the last six weeks."
Talbott's eyes narrowed as he leaned closer to Todd. "And it's two thousand bucks that Duke Malone might need desperately. You never can tell what the Duke might do if he doesn't get that dough. Why, he might even start gambling again," Talbott said with a smug smile.

Talbott stood up. His face was dauntless. He took a dollar from his wallet and placed it on the table.
"This is for my lunch. I don't even want you to pay for that. I'd indignation later on. And don't come near me again or I'll take you apart. Both of you."
"You're a fool. A blind fool of an old man that never did any good. I hope you change your mind."
Todd strode away without further reply.

What's worse: 35 miles an hour or 00 miles an hour?

Don't flunk an easy one!... This is worth thought... The prize at stake is your car!
... Today's sensible top speed of 35 for patriots is a cinch for your engine, compared to unlubricated cold starting—way down at 00 miles an hour!

People in dead earnest to battle wear from the very start, are having their engines OIL-PLATED. Without using up extra moments or money, they simply change to Conoco Nth motor oil—patented. And this oil's added modern synthetic—with apparent "magnetic attraction"—closely bonds lubricant to inner engine parts. That's called OIL-PLATING because it resembles any good protective plating in not all "going elsewhere" while the car stands cold.

The WAR TODAY

contribution to the Allied war effort and an equally great contribution to the progress of civilization.
During the 11 days it took me to reach Cairo from England by devious routes, I covered some 8,000 miles, mainly by air. Since I had already flown the Atlantic to reach Britain, it needs small imagination to see that if this war does nothing else, it is opening up the world to air transport.

I was in Lisbon the day Uncle Sam made his sensational landing on northern Africa. The medley of peoples who go to make up the Portuguese capital's population these days—a weird mixture of Allied and Axis nationals who mingle in this neutral port—seethed with excitement.
There was little news beyond word that a big operation was under way, but the fact that the Allies had assumed the offensive in a new quarter was in itself a momentous development. It was tough to fly away from Lisbon without knowing the outcome of the first day's events, but we had the satisfaction of knowing the signs were propitious.

Our great air liner circled wide to avoid operations as we headed southward for West Africa and we gave Dakar a wide berth because more than one passenger plane has been fired on from this strategic region.
When we drove the nose of our ship into the heat of Equatorial Africa the next day, word of the offensive already had arrived. American soldiers and civilians in this particular port were exuberant.

Most astonishing, however, was the fact that the denizens of the surrounding jungles not only knew of the attack but that they got the news from their own sources. It seems fanciful as I write it, but the story of the operation on the far-away northern shore had been flashed southward by drums just as messages have been transmitted for hundreds of years.

In connection with these messages, there is an interesting demonstration of the penetration and effectiveness of propaganda. Axis agents to the north had spread word the Germans were victorious and were advancing southward in Africa. At one place where I was stopping, hundreds of native laborers deserted their jobs and fled to the far jungles in terror. This undoubtedly was the result the enemy hoped to produce with the idea of hampering Allied transport and other operations.

Spanish...
The experience gained by Spaniards in their own fierce Civil War adds much to their likely fighting effectiveness, but also adds an element of doubt as to how enthusiastically they would fight against one or the other of the present warring camps. It is generally agreed that a majority would be ready to fight against an invasion.
Even under the foreign ministry of Ramon Serrano Suner, his Axis-loving brother-in-law, Franco never could be brought fully into the Rome-Berlin fold and he declined to become a full partner after the fall of France so it is unlikely he would go now with Allied fortunes mounting.
Ever since Suner was shelled last summer, count Francisco Gomez Jordana as the new Foreign Minister has been steering toward true neutrality rather than the pro-Nazi non-belligerency which Suner maintained. Count and Countess Jordana dined at the American embassy as the guests of Ambassador Carlton Hayes when Myron Taylor, President Roosevelt's emissary to London, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Czech government sources said today that 40 executions within five days had been reported from Prague in a new wave of Nazi terrorism which they believed was intended to curb the enthusiasm of Czechs over Allied successes in Africa.

TAR HEELS GET READY FOR VA.

Duke State Game To Decide Big Five Championship

Richmond, Va., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina, determined to get even with the University of Virginia for the sound trouncing it received last Thanksgiving afternoon at Chapel Hill, may turn to the air janes Saturday when the Tar Heels meet the Cavaliers at Charlottesville.

Coach Jim Tatam had the Tar Heels throwing passes all over their practice field yesterday and today, with Johnny Pecora, Joe Austin, Billy Myers and Toby Webb playing prominent parts in the serial scrimmage.

The Tar Heels, however, didn't neglect their running attack which has proven successful this season. Clay Croom, veteran Kingston, N. C., fullback, paced the ground attack in practice, and Bill Stigler, senior from Milwaukee, Wis., started in a heavy scrimmage of the second eleven against the reserves.

North Carolina, beaten only twice by Tulane and N. C. State, wants to win this Saturday. The Tar Heels still haven't forgotten that sunny afternoon of last November, when Bill Dudley ran circles around them and sparked the Cavaliers to a 28-7 triumph.

For fear of further injuries to an already crippled squad, Coach Frank Murray omitted the usual mid-week scrimmage for the Cavaliers today. Coach Murray said that most of the Virginia regulars would be ready for the North Carolina engagement, but that Murray and Frank Crenshaw would miss the encounter.

With the second team running Duke plays, the North Carolina State Wolfpack's regular team had considerable difficulty in a tough scrimmage in which Captain Marlon (Bo) Stilwell, an end, was the standout. Cecil Fry and George Allen, backs, took no part in the rough work because of injuries.

Duke's big tackle, Jake Poole, may be lost to the Blue Devils due to an injury received last week when they played to a 13-13 tie with North Carolina. Duke concentrated particularly in its drill on deception plays as outlined by coaches who had scouted the Wolfpack.

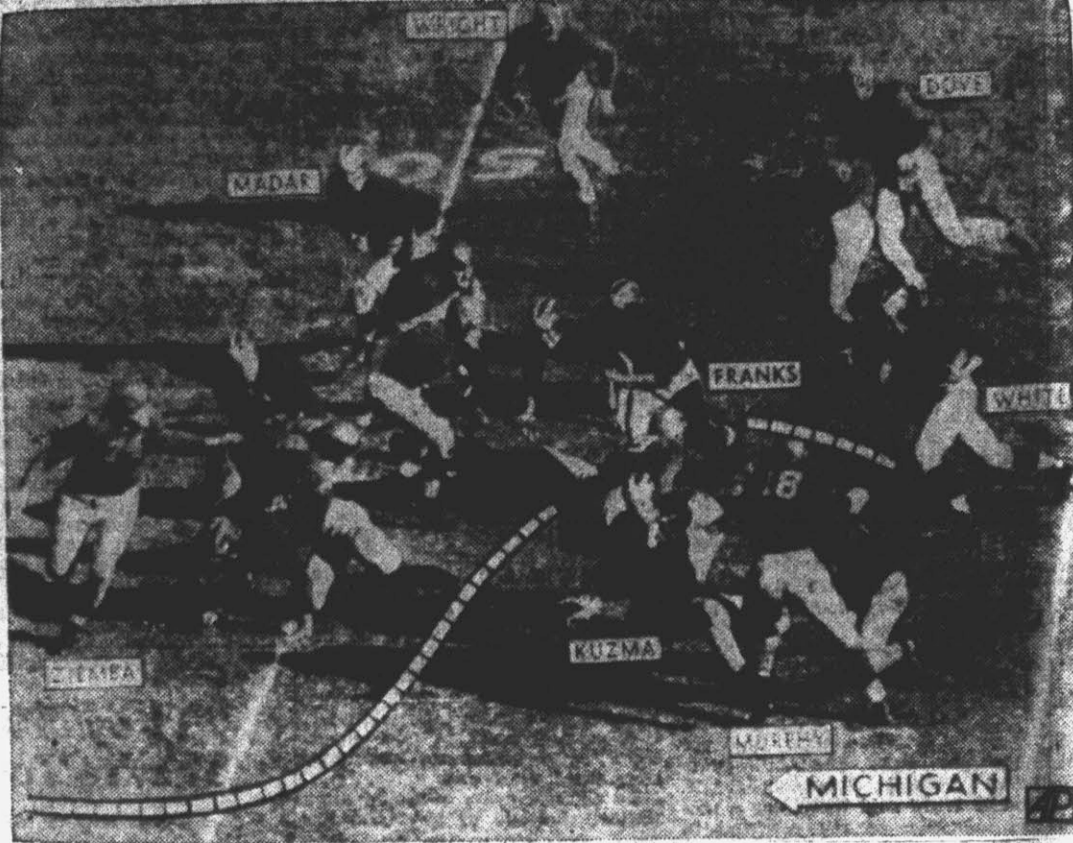

Jackie Freeman, William and Mary's kicking star from Windsor, Pa., was scheduled to find out today whether he would be available to the Indians Saturday against the once-defeated North Carolina pre-flight eleven.

The case was removed from Freeman's foot yesterday, but Coach Carl Voyles said there was still some doubt that he would be ready.

Clemson's line was dotted with five sophomores because of the addition of new shifts introduced by Coach Frank Howard. The sophomores in the Tiger forward wall included Chip Clark and Jack Stacey, ends; Bill Smith, tackle, and Bill Hunter and George Briggs, guards. The Tigers meet Furman on the Bengal field Saturday.

South Carolina continued light work with emphasis on passing, both offensive and defensive. The entire Gamecock squad was in uniform.

White Finds Hole In Notre Dame Line

Paul White, Michigan halfback, speeds through a hole in the Wolverine forwards pushed in the Irish line during a Michigan touchdown drive in the first quarter of the game in South Bend Saturday. Strong blocking by the Michigan eleven cuts down the Irish forwards. Michigan won, 22 to 20.

Today's Guest Star

Gordon Cobledick, Cleveland Plain Dealer: "What the war has done and will do to baseball is well known and loudly lamented, but it may prove a boon to all players—at least to those of the current generation. For some hundreds of them are learning what most of us had to learn long ago—namely that working for a living isn't such a tough dodge after all."

Coach Johnny Baker said, he might pull some surprises when his luckless George Washington Colonials meet a favored Georgetown University eleven. "We're capable of giving Georgetown a good game," he said. "I believe they have too much for us, but we can make it interesting if we play our best football."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLETON, JR. Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Football isn't all fun department: A few weeks ago you may have read that when the Woodward, Iowa, high school football coach answered Uncle Sam's call, the town parson took over his coaching duties. ... Now comes a letter from Rev. "Dad" Krenmyre reporting that after Woodward had a fair season, some one dug up an old rule requiring a coach to teach two other subjects. ... Since the parson merely was working for nothing, paying some one to take care of some of his other duties and nursing more sore muscles than most people have good ones, he couldn't fill that requirement. ... As a result, all of Woodward's games were ordered forfeited and even the three teams beat "Dad's" school lost credit for it when the official scores were changed to 1-0. ... Maybe rules is rules, but it seems from here that such technicalities had better be disregarded in the interest of keeping football in its place as nothing more than a swell game. ... In fact, we'd be inclined to use stronger language than Rev. Krenmyre's one-word comment: "Piffle."

One-Minute Sports Page

Reporting to New York football writers, Adrian Berwick of the O. W. I. said that out of 5,000 words of daily news sent to London for army consumption, about half concerns sports and 1,300 of the daily 1,800 words sent to India for "The Roundup," an army newspaper, also is sports news. ... And the requests from soldiers are for more instead of less sport now, he added. ... Branch Ruckey is inaugurating weekly "open house" press conferences at the Dodgers' headquarters. ... Eddie Walker, Chalky Wright's manager, is warning Hartford, Conn., fight fans that the Chalk stopped Lulu Contantino's winning streak at 56 and licked Ray Lunney after Ray had won 39 straight. Hartford's Willie Pop will carry a 53-fight undefeated streak into the Garden against Wright Friday.

Without Reservations
The transportation shortage which really has begun to hit the sports business, caused Illinois and the U. of Washington to call off their Christmas week basketball series at Seattle. ... And did you notice a hockey game at Indianapolis the other night started an hour and a half late because the home team couldn't get home? ... And that Dartmouth's varsity had to play touch football Monday because its equipment hadn't come back from Buffalo?

Service Dept.
Major George Glen of Fort Warren, Wyo., former student manager at Utah U., claims he never missed a Utah game from the time he entered school until he joined the army—and never paid for one, either. ... Tommy Loughran is slated to become a boxing instructor for the marines when he finishes his training at Parris Island, S. C. ... Joe Gould, Jimmy Braddock's manager, has lost 20 pounds since he joined the army, Jimmy, when last seen, was holding his own. ... The ice follies will stage a special performance for service men only the night before its regular opening at Madison Square Garden. ... Corp. Food For Thought
Contributing one of her favorite recipes to a Syracuse paper, Mrs. Ossie Solem, wife of the Syracuse U. coach, disclosed her "beating method" for frozen dessert. ... That sounds like the recipe Ossie needed for the Colgate game last Saturday.

Roosevelt Says ...

lines stretching from Kiska to Murmansk and from Tunisia to Guadalcanal would lengthen as our forces advance.

Assailing "loose talk" and what he considered politically-inspired criticism of the war effort, the President said that persons without access to all the facts almost inevitably speak from guesswork.

"They do not know the facts," he asserted, "and therefore, the value of their statements becomes greatly reduced. Nor, must we in the actual progress of the war, lend ears to the clamor of politics or to criticism from those who, as we know in our hearts, are actuated by political motives."

He said he himself had tried to keep politics out of the war but he confessed to making one mistake. That was in permitting announcement of the loss of an unidentified aircraft carrier in the Pacific last month when the Japanese did not know her fate.

A great issue had been raised in Congress and elsewhere, the chief executive said, over suppression of news from fighting fronts, and he yielded to the clamor.

He said he did so partly because, if the sinking had been disclosed two or three weeks later, it would have been charged publicly that he had suppressed the news until after the election.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Approximately 88 persons were injured today in two elevated train collisions which tied up "L" traffic between the north and south sides and the Loop at the height of the morning rush hour.

First reports said approximately 78 passengers were injured at Buena avenue and Broadway, on the north-side. A Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee suburban electric train was reported to have collided there with an elevated train.

Flames broke out after this accident and fire department squad, as well as stretcher cars and ambulances, were sent there.

Some 10 persons were reported injured in the south side mishap, at Forty-first street and Calumet avenue, where a Jackson Park train was reported to have struck the rear of an Englewood train, also traveling north.

Traffic Deaths Greatly Reduced

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—State Motor Vehicle Commissioner T. Boddie Ward said there was a record reduction of 57.8 per cent in traffic fatalities in North Carolina during October.

Will Investigate Union Fee Racket

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—After receiving several reports that union dues were being charged workers at a new army camp at Hoffman, Gov. Broughton asserted today that he was "opposed to anybody having to pay a fee for working on any public construction in North Carolina."

The governor said that he also had received reports that carpenters at Hoffman were being charged union dues of $27.50 and then were not allowed to work after the dues were paid.

Gas Ration Cut To Three Gallons

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Uncle Sam is going to hold back more gasoline on the basic ration allowances in the east to help make certain that American war machines in Africa keep rolling. Acknowledging that "this cut is going to hurt," but that "it is absolutely essential," the Office of Price Administration announced last night that beginning November 22 an "A" coupon will be worth three gallons of gas instead of four as at present.

The gasoline reduction will apply to 16 of the 17 states now rationed. The exception is West Virginia.

The order will not affect the rest of the nation where gasoline rationing begins Dec. 1, nor will it alter the value of the "B" and "C" coupons.

President Sets ...

The chief executive asked that all employers give their workers sufficient time off to complete their registrations.

Selective service headquarters revealed today that local boards had been instructed to reclassify all registrants heretofore deferred because of conviction of crimes.

No more deferments are to be made on this ground unless the registrants "are completely disqualified morally and are not eligible for a waiver under the new army standards," the boards were told.

In another draft development, a critical shortage of physicists has been recognized by the War Manpower Commission and Selective Service, and the latter agency disclosed today new procedure for obtaining draft deferment for persons in that field.

A national committee has been set up with authority to investigate physicists whose deferment has been requested by a college or other employer on the ground that he has special training and skill and is a necessary man in his work.

If the committee agrees the man is necessary, it will endorse the application for his deferment and return it to the man's local board. The committee may appeal if the local board nevertheless classifies the man as available for military service or for "assignment to work of national importance."

Selective Service said similar procedure would be followed in other scientific and specialized fields where critical shortages develop.

and national committees will be set up in those fields. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced that men deferred as essential farm workers must get approval of their draft boards if they wish to leave their jobs or else be classified as available for immediate military service.

This applies to married men with children as well as to all others. Hershey's aides said, and is effective immediately.

The regulation was revealed in an announcement of instructions sent by Hershey to local boards covering provisions of the new draft act which lowers the minimum age to 18.

In addition to ordering local boards to reclassify men who quit essential farm work without advance notice, the instructions forbade the boards to release any farm-deferred men "for voluntary enlistment in either land or naval forces."

President Roosevelt yesterday asked all federal government agencies and departments to cancel any military deferments that had been given government employes by reason of such employment.

WHAT CIGARETTE GIVES SMOKERS WHAT THEY WANT

They stick to their guns with a Milder Better-Tasting smoke

Ask any Chesterfield smoker why he smokes them and he'll probably say: "I just like them better... that's all." Of course, the reason he likes them better is their Milder, Better Taste.

For Chesterfields we buy only tobaccos that are Milder and Better-Tasting to begin with and blend them in the right combination to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco.

That's why Chesterfields give smokers what they want. That's why They Satisfy.
