

London Sources Predict That French Fleet Will Fall Into German Hands

Fighting French Say Full Military Alliance Between Germany And France Will Result From Laval's Rise To Dictatorial Power

(By The Associated Press) London, Nov. 19.—Fighting French sources forecast today a full military alliance between Germany and Vichy France granting the Axis the use of the 64 ships in the fleet at Toulon as one possible outcome of Pierre Laval's new dictatorial powers.

Such an alliance, if it develops, probably would follow a peace treaty between Germany and France releasing more than 1,000,000 French prisoners who likely would be recalled into French armed services, these sources suggested.

Backed by German bayonets, Pierre Laval held powers of life and death over the people of unhappy France today through the Vichy government's latest gesture toward the Nazi conquerors.

It was disclosed last night that Marshall Petain at a Tuesday Cabinet meeting designated the swartzy little Germanophile his heir as Chief of State and gave him full powers to write his own laws and decrees.

The Paris radio said Laval would transfer the government to Paris. The announcer quoted a statement by Marcel Deat, collaborationist publisher saying: "Vichy has become a symbol of all that is rotten. The government must be stripped of the barely camouflaged Gaullism which reigned in Vichy two years."

British observers were quick to deplore that statement. Laval—whose fortunes and very life are pinned to his belief in an ultimate Axis triumph—were a "logical development." They said it showed definitely Petain "is completely in the hands of the Germans and they put Laval in."

In the announcement, the Marshal praised Laval for "patriotism and foresight." Explained that the Chief of Government was being given extended power so that he may "specify deal at any hour and in all places" with France's problems.

Petain informed France: We, Marshal of France and Chief of State by virtue of the Constitutional law of July 10, 1940, decree that the head of government (Laval) outside of Constitutional laws, has the power on his simple signature to make laws and issue decrees.

Canceling a previous decree which had designated Admiral Jean Darlan, now co-operating with the Allies in Africa, as his successor, Petain named Laval to take over as Chief of State in the event of the Marshal's permanent incapacity.

Of most immediate concern to the Allies was the course Laval plans to steer in the matter of possible military aid to the Axis.

There have been unconfirmed reports that Laval already has been negotiating with the Germans for a peace treaty to replace the Nazi-occupied armistice of 1940, preliminary to bringing France into the war again as an Axis ally.

If he sought to do this, it is obscure just how it would be managed. (Continued on Page Two)

No Coupons, No Oil After November 23

Consumers of kerosene oil must have ration coupons after November 23, the State OPA office in Raleigh, has ruled. There will be no exceptions and no extensions.

If users have failed to make application for fuel oil or kerosene rationing they should pick up an application from their local ration board or fuel oil dealer at once, Carl Lunsford, State OPA officer, stated.

Extension President's Power Will Be Limited

By WILLIAM R. ARBOGAST Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means committee moved ahead today to prepare compromise legislation giving the President limited authority to suspend tariff and immigration laws through high government officials had testified in favor of a broad grant of power as requested by Mr. Roosevelt.

JAPS PREDICT U. S. OFFENSIVE

MacArthur's Men Continue Drive In New Guinea

By The Associated Press An American offensive to recapture the Dutch East Indies was predicted today by Japan's former navy commander-in-chief, Admiral Sankichi Takahashi, even as Washington naval quarters declared it would take Japan at least three weeks to rally after the great United States sea victory in the Solomon Islands November 13-15.

"The Americans obviously are planning to use the Solomons as a springboard for an offensive with a view to regaining the Dutch East Indies," Admiral Takahashi said, according to a German broadcast. "We must reckon with further heavy fighting in the Solomons," he added.

Only 24 hours earlier, the Tokyo radio claimed that the U. S. Pacific fleet had been "annihilated"—for at least the third time—and asserted that any hope of an American offensive in the South Seas was "a thing of the past."

Meanwhile American bombers hunted through bad weather for a force of eight Japanese destroyers off the New Guinea coast near Buna, while U. S. army and British troops closed within 25 miles of the enemy's main invasion base there.

Dispatches said the destroyers apparently planned to help Japanese ground forces now being driven to the coast. There was also the possibility they were standing by for an attempted evacuation.

While Allied jungle fighters pushed forward against little or no opposition outside Buna, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's hard-hitting armor pounded the enemy through the jungle.

American medium bombers continued their daily, destructive sweeps over the enemy's steadily shrinking coastal foothold around Buna, bombing troop positions and installations.

The U. S. B-25's teamed with Australian Beaufighters to renew the attacks on Lae and Salamaua, Japanese bases farther to the northwest on the New Guinea coast from which the beleaguered Rabaul garrison might be reinforced.

Australian-flown American Hudsons struck at Baucau on Timor, far to the northwest, and attack planes made a strafing sweep over Maobiese on the same island. Heavy and medium bombers paid destructive calls on enemy airbases on New Britain, the big fellows smacking at much-bombed Rabaul and the mediums taking Gasima.

Cut Serial Numbers From Tires On Car

"Go get the serial numbers from your tires," an insurance man said to a colored man from the country when he sought help in filling out his registration slip for the Rationing Board. The man was gone some time. He finally returned with the serial numbers. He had laboriously used his pocketknife to cut them from the tires on his car and handed them to the man filling in his registration blank.

"Life is what you make it," he said when he realized that he is liable to arrest at any time for using tires with the serial numbers mutilated or removed.

Boise Comes Home. Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Battered and torn by many Japanese shells and once given up for lost, the American light cruiser Boise came home from the Solomon Islands battle zone today with the extraordinary record of having been chiefly instrumental in sinking six Japanese warships in a single engagement.

Pupils of blue eyes contract more in bright light than do pupils of dark eyes.

Department representative, appearing along with Attorney General Biddle and other high officials favoring the broad legislation, told the committee "all-out war cannot be successfully prosecuted under narrow and specific legislation."

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told reporters there was no chance of getting the original measure through congress because it was "broader in its scope than is necessary."

Indications were that the final draft would specify the extent to which the President could disregard existing laws in dealing with international traffic.

MacArthur Leading Attack On Jap Base At Buna

RAF BOMBERS VISIT ITALY

Industrial Center Of Turin Blasted Last Night

London, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Britain's heavy four-motored bombers streaked across the Alps last night and delivered another heavy blow at Italy, choosing the big Fiat works at Turin for their chief target, the Air Ministry announced.

With clear skies to aid them, the RAF bombers accomplished "good results" on this, the fifth big raid on Italy this month, without loss of a plane, the official announcement stated.

"Last night aircraft of the bombers command attacked the Fiat works and other targets at Turin. The sky over northern Italy was clear and the crews report good results. None of our aircraft is missing," the communique said.

The Italian High Command reported "considerable damage to civilian houses," some fires in Turin. 24 dead and 52 wounded. The communique made no claim of downing any of the raiders. It said the fires were quickly controlled.

Turin is an airplane, motor car and machine producing city on the river Po, the chief seat of industry in Italy. It was last raided by the RAF twice in succession, Oct. 22 and 23.

The Royal Arsenal, the Fiat engine works and a branch of the Caproni works are among military targets.

Fuel Ration Blanks Are Now Available

Ennett Reports On Veneral Clinics

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer today issued the following statement regarding the department's veneral disease work in the county.

"The local health department makes a monthly report to the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society. In the report for the October work of the department, prepared for the meeting of November 12th the report states that among the principal activities of the Health Department for the month of October was veneral disease work."

The Health Department report then followed with a paragraph on Veneral Disease Control, meaning syphilis and gonorrhoea, giving the following figures:

"The total visits to the veneral disease clinics in July were one thousand, two hundred sixty-nine; August, one thousand four hundred fifty-five; September, one thousand seven hundred thirty; and in October, one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven."

"The report also states that 'much of this growth must be credited to the fine support given the Health Department by the American Legion, the courts, and the good work of the clinic doctors.'"

Japs Will Need Time To Prepare Another Attack

Guadalcanal Expected To Get Brief Breathing Spell

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—It will take the Japanese at least three weeks and possibly much longer to pull themselves together for another try at Guadalcanal.

That was the considered opinion of naval experts today after a detailed analysis of the losses in ships, men and equipment suffered by the enemy in last week's rout.

These authorities, who asked to remain anonymous, were interested in, but not unduly excited by, the appearance of eight Japanese destroyers off the north coast of New Guinea yesterday. They said it was to be expected that enemy task forces would be encountered from time to time. But, they declared, it requires considerable time and organization to assemble a major armada, such as was beaten back last week.

The delay will give United States forces an opportunity to replace their relatively small losses and build up their strength for what Secretary Knox already has labeled round three (coming up) of the battle for the Solomons.

In fact, it would not be surprising to many informed persons here if the marines and army troops on Guadalcanal took aggressive advantage of the enemy's predicament to improve their own positions which still encompass only a small area of land about the airport on the north coast of the island.

The last report on land fighting on Guadalcanal, covering activities of Nov. 10, said U. S. troops were conducting offensive operations on eastern and western flanks. The (Continued on Page Five)

Poison Eggs Fatal To 44

Salem, Ore., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Forty four insane inmates of the Oregon State hospital have died from an unidentified poison—possibly contained in frozen eggs—and a corpse of physicians struggled today to save the lives of more than 400 other men and women.

The poison struck swiftly. Within 15 minutes after dinner last night, at which the eggs were served, convulsions and vomiting began, complaining of violent cramps. The first death occurred within an hour. Five hours after the meal ten had died. By midnight, the toll had reached 32. By four a. m. the total was reported to have reached 40.

All the deaths, 38 men and six women, occurred in four wards. Inmates of a fifth ward, Dr. Evans said, but an attendant there tasted the eggs before they were served, and allowed only small amount to be eaten.

The superintendent said that a third of the two-ton shipment of eggs had been served previously without ill effects.

Part of five tins were served at luncheon yesterday in rice pudding, and the remainder scrambled for dinner.

The daily cost to France of German occupation would build 2,500 modern workman's homes.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Wide-World News Analyst

Cairo, Nov. 19.—Allied drives are getting strength from a development which has been achieved in quietness that many of its features still remain secret.

French Equatorial Africa is the Fighting French territory, which has Chad on the north and reaches southward to include Ubangi-Shari, the French Cameroons, the Middle Congo and Gabon. Brazzaville, on the Lower Congo, is the capital of this area which is close to the equator.

French general Mangin remarked that he who holds Chad, holds Africa. You've got to see the recent works of man in this vastness to understand in full the remark's significance. If French Equatorial Africa had been controlled by Vichy, it was French West Africa, there would have been a huge barrier dividing Allied territory right through the whole area almost from the equator to the Mediterranean. That in itself would have created a grave handicap and prevented the strategic development I shall describe.

FARMLABOR TO BE DISCUSSED

Governor Calls Meeting For Next Monday

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Anticipating a farm labor shortage next year "even more acute" than this year, Governor Brroughton today announced that farm and other leaders would meet with him next Monday afternoon to make plans to cope with the situation.

The governor said that the farm labor shortage this year was so severe that "many crops have not yet been harvested."

With the armed forces and war industries continuing to make inroads on the manpower supply, the governor added, "indications are that the shortage will be even worse next year."

"And the danger is that farmers who labored against odds to produce increased crops this year will reduce their crops next year," said the governor.

Broughton said that he had received about 50 letters from farmers recently asking that sons who helped on the farm or that hired hands be deferred from the draft.

He said that recently he had noticed several advertisements of dairy herds for sale, for beef in some cases, and that such sales would be "disastrous" if they continue on a large scale, for the state "has been working for a long time" to increase dairy activity.

Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction, was among those invited to attend the conference, for indications were that use of school children to aid in farm work would be increased as a means of meeting the labor shortage.

Also invited to attend was Brig. Gen. J. Van B. Metts, head of selective service in the state. The question of deferring farm labor from the draft probably will be discussed also.

Present War Play At School Tonight

The War Drama which will be presented at the high school tonight at 7:30 under the direction of Miss Naomi Newell is a short, three act play that vividly portrays the battlefield, the Red Cross, and every true American.

It is intensely interesting and religious, and the band and Glee Club complete a beautiful and impressive program that will inspire the people of this city to make sacrifices and exert every effort toward the winning of the war.

While the general public is cordially invited to witness tonight's performance, it is especially for Civilian Defense workers and Chairman Charles A. White urged that all such workers attend.

Ayden All Ready For Bond Auction

Arrangements have been completed for the bond auction to be held in Ayden next Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The auction sale will be held between the First National Bank and Welcome service station.

W. H. Woolard, chairman of the Pitt County Bond Sale, will make a short talk. Group singing will be led by Roy Turnage and Wilbur Ormond will play his accordion.

The Aydenites will be auctioned by Ray Oglesby of Winterville, a famous tobacco auctioneer.

When a prize is put up the person buying the most bonds gets this particular prize and the bidders raise the number or amount of bonds just like a buyer raises the bid on a pile of tobacco.

Business men and citizens of Ayden have donated more than 50 prizes to be auctioned off with the War Bonds. The prizes range from three fat hens to a barrel of flour. Other prizes are a ham, several pigs 16 gallons of gasoline, a Christmas fruit cake, pair of shoes, $10 in War Stamps and so on.

Ayden has a way of doing things thoroughly, as was demonstrated in the salvaging of more than 150,000 pounds of scrap metal recently.

The Ayden people are going to show us how to sell War Bonds Saturday, W. H. Woolard of Greenville, Pitt County War Bond chairman, said today.

Austrians To Fight

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A new infantry battalion in the United States Army composed entirely of citizens of Austria now living in this country will be organized as soon as possible, Secretary of War Stimson announced today.

This resulted, he told his press conference, from the appeals of many Austrian nations for an opportunity to serve together in freeing their homeland and other nations conquered by the Axis.

Chinese caravan towns have been modernized and become thriving centers of Allied efficiency. This belt is a mill which is grinding grist for the Allies and laying up stores for the future.

Columns Moving Toward Axis Bases From Four Directions; British By-pass Benghazi In Effort To Cut Off Rommel's Fleeing Forces

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Across 1,000 miles of desert, fighting French columns from Lake Chad were reported driving toward the "back door" of Italian Tripolitania today as part of a four-way squeeze on Axis forces in North Africa while American and British troops struck deeper into Tunisia.

Lake Chad is in the heart of French Equatorial Africa, about 1,200 miles south of the Mediterranean.

German military quarters late today said the first land clash between German and Allied troops in Tunisia had taken place along the Tunisian coast just inside the border from Algeria.

While Allied dispatches said United Nations troops swept back outlying Axis patrols, Nazi quarters merely commented that advance forces met and that no major fighting developed.

Other Allied forces were converging against the last Axis strongholds on the dark continent as follows:

1. A powerful British-American expeditionary force estimated at 150,000 troops was thrusting into northern Tunisia along the Mediterranean coast from Algeria.

2. A second column was reported to have entered southern Tunisia from Algeria in a move to cut across the Axis-held French protectorate and cut the road to Tripolitania.

3. Coupled with these drives were the British 8th army from Egypt; was rapidly pushing Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's broken Africa corps across Libya toward Tripolitania.

British Imperial headquarters reported that the night "our troops launched active operations and captured several enemy fortifications" in southern Stalingrad.

A Red army unit was also credited with a fighting reconnaissance northwest of the city in which enemy trenches were broken into, 60 Germans killed and others captured.

The midday communique reported no major changes anywhere but said that during the night "our troops launched active operations and captured several enemy fortifications" in southern Stalingrad.

In a factory area of the Volga stronghold, the Germans returned to the attack during the night but were driven back with 200 killed, latest reports said.

Soviet troops also were reported in active operations which scored an advance northeast of Taupse along the Black Sea coast in the western Caucasus while 300 Germans were said to have been killed in an artillery-supported infantry attack southeast of Nalchik in the mid-Caucasus.

The defenders also struck out in the factory area at Stalingrad yesterday, occupied several invader strongpoints and killed 600, the communique said.

The Germans were reported attacking again and again on a narrow front in this area, trying to break through to the Volga and secure winter quarters but although they had paid with thousands of lives they had gained only a few yards.

(A Berlin broadcast last night reported that Italian soldiers on the Russian front already were established in winter positions along the Don river. It said that this winter would find the Germans and their Allies much better prepared in Russia than they were last winter.)

The Russians reported the Germans beaten back in an attack in the northern Stalingrad area while northwest of the city Soviet troops consolidated their positions.

On the western flank of the giant Allied "pincer," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters reported that the first phase of the battle for strategic Tunisia, buffer state between Algeria and Tripolitania, had begun.

"Advance elements of the British first army, together with British and American parachute troops and French forces operating with us, have entered Tunisia at several points," Gen. Eisenhower announced.

Russians Take Initiative In Several Areas

Moscow, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Extending their job of bleeding and blocking the German armies the Russians have taken the initiative in Stalingrad and in the Caucasus, today's battle reports showed.

Government To Act To Avert Milk Shortage

By OVID A. MARTIN Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Special inducements to stimulate milk production may be offered dairymen if no other means is found of averting a threatened shortage.

Government food agencies debated proposals to offer federal subsidies or higher prices.

The latter method would involve raising the price ceilings established by the Office of Price Administration at President Roosevelt's direction in October.

Subsidies on the other hand would require between $300,000,000 and $300,000,000 a year in federal funds.

Regardless of whether special inducements are offered, the production of milk and dairy products in 1943 is expected by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to fall short of requirements of the armed forces, the lend-lease program and civilians.

Wickard had told the War Production Board's Food Requirements committee that restrictions on civilian consumption appear necessary. Restrictions suggested included rationing of fluid milk in cities threatened with shortages, cheese and butter, and a 25 per cent rationing in the manufacture of ice cream.

Agriculture Department dairy officials said restrictions on civilian consumption probably would be less severe if dairymen were offered (Continued on Page Five)

"At the club you may be pleased to know that on Saturday afternoon I've heard several sigh and say 'Oh, boy, to be heading for Greenville right now—and I will admit to being one of the sighers.'" So writes Pfc. Howard Muncie from somewhere in the Pacific war zone to local friends in a letter just received.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 19, 1902

One week to Thanksgiving.
The hook and ladder company's building is being moved to the city lot near Five Points.

Greenville will follow the usual custom of recent years by a suspension of business on Thanksgiving day. The stores will be closed and the tobacco markets will have no sales that day.

The seven wise virgins must have gone through the town last night. Nobody else would have known that in spite of the white flag and the assurances of local weather prophets, it was going to keep right on drizzling. Heretofore the lamp-lighter had been guided altogether by the almanac in regard to the moon. If it was scheduled for this side of the earth, not a lamp was lighted.

Chatham Book Club.
The Chatham Book Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harvey Clayton, on Student street.

Upon arrival of the guests the hostess, assisted by Mrs. N. S. Beard, served a delicious dessert course with coffee.

Ralph Fleming, high school student, came before the club in behalf of the Junior Red Cross and asked for donations of old furniture, etc., for the recreation rooms at army camps in our state.

After routine business, the club members enjoyed a most interesting paper on "Helen Keller," given by Mrs. Frank Bendall.

A plea was read from Mrs. J. S. Ficklen urging the women to buy War Bonds and Stamps.

After a delightful social hour, the club adjourned.—Reported.

Inter Se Club.
Mrs. Wallace Bourne was hostess to the members of the Inter Se Club on Tuesday, November 17, at 3:30 o'clock, at her new home on Harding street.

The president, Mrs. Denver Baughan, presided over a short business meeting. Mrs. Bourne made an announcement in regard to War Bond and Stamp Week and urged each member to do her part in this effort.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown most interestingly discussed Scotland, where she lived with her family during her early childhood. She came to this country from Mutchill, Scotland, in 1912 and has made several return visits. Mrs. Brown gave a vivid description of the climate, industries, religion, living conditions, customs and important cities of the country.

She showed many pictures and trinkets to illustrate her discussion of the people and places of interest.

In closing, Mrs. Brown briefly reviewed the lives and works of Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott and Robert Louis Stevenson and read excerpts from some of their well-known and loved poems.

Mrs. Ralph Fleming, speaking on behalf of the Junior Red Cross, asked the members of the club to cooperate in securing furniture for the Day Rooms at the Marine bases.

Mrs. Bourne served a delicious sweet course with coffee and salted nuts. Mrs. A. L. Dittmer was a guest for the afternoon.

End of the Century Club.
The regular meeting of the End of the Century Book Club was held on Tuesday afternoon, November 17, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Harvey. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Edward Batch-and read as follows:

"Dear Sir: You and your townspeople will probably feel gratified to hear that your welcome, to service men is greatly appreciated by them. My brother, a marine at New River, is proud to be doing his part. Often, however, he has discredited so-called 'southern hospitality.' He had, that is, until he visited your town a couple of weeks ago. It took a four-page letter, a rarity for him, to tell us about his enjoyable week-end there."
"So many towns, you know, have USO club houses, but not a friendly spot in their community activities for the boys. We do thank you very much."

Card of Thanks.
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during our recent bereavement.
Mrs. R. W. Hearne.
Edw. W. Hearne.

The Round Table Meets.

Mrs. W. C. Vincent was hostess to the Ladies of the Round Table on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. P. T. Anthony, Sr., on Evans street.

Mrs. Winslow, the president, presided. Mrs. R. R. Taylor read the list of twenty-five club books available for the members to read this year.

The paper on "Coffee" was very interesting. It was given by Mrs. Milton White. She told of its history, its growth—describing the plant, flower and seed, the time of gathering the seed, the countries producing it, the methods of testing and preparation for grading. United States use 300,000,000 pounds of coffee annually.

The club members gave five dollars through the Junior Red Cross for the Day Rooms at Camp Davis.

Mrs. Vincent, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Browne and Mrs. Snider, served sweets with tea.

HERE AND THERE
O hell that blooms upon the earth in undying multitudes
It echoes its laughter in roaring guns, it smiles among the millions of dead.
Its heartbeat is the marching men who go forth to kill and sin.
Where the hills were fair and green men's white bones are rotting now.
Is there no land where men are free to live a life of liberty?
Oh yes, there is such a land, mighty America is such a land. The emblem of the brave and free, the hope of all humanity.
Pvt. Chesley Venable Morton.

PRAYER
Prayer is called the golden key And it should never idle be For we must use it every day To unlock God's storehouses along life's way.
When our cross seems heavy And more than we can bear, Our load will soon be lifted, If we go to God in prayer.
If our path seems dark and dreary And things don't go our way, God will always hear us If we will only pray.
Then let us earnest be, And never faint in prayer, God loves our importunity He makes our cause His care.

After the business session, William Keck made a plea for the Junior Red Cross for contributions toward the furnishing of the day room in the barracks at Camp Davis.

Mrs. Guy Smith told of the piano being given by the Junior Red Cross to the hospital at Camp Davis. Contributions were donated by the club to both these projects.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, in charge of the program, presented Mrs. Robert Humber, who in her gracious and charming manner spoke on "The Political Background of France."

Mrs. Humber sketched the history of France from the days of the feudal system up to the present time, giving her hearers a vivid picture of France from 1492 to 1789 and the French revolution, in which period her people became more educated and awakened to human rights.

The reigns of Louis XIV, called the Great Century, Louis XVI and the unfortunate Louis XVI were described. In 1803 the Charter of Liberties was signed, and gave birth to the tradition of liberty in France, which spread to many other countries and which will never die. Giving a brief story of the revolutions of 1830 and 1848 and the First and Second Republics of France, Mrs. Humber brought us up to June 18, 1940, when Petain declared the end of the Third Republic and the existence of the State of France. The talk was concluded by the reading of several letters from men and women living now in France, under the Vichy regime, describing how they are still fighting the enemy from within and illustrating the undying spirit of France.

ed, since the 1940 constitution provides that the Chief of State himself does not have power to declare war without "the previous assent of the Legislative assemblies," these assemblies never have been created.

In another decree, reported by the Berlin radio, Pierre Cathala was appointed Secretary of State for national economics while retaining his previous position as finance minister.

In "Southern Sidelights" the author, the Rev. William E. Cox, presents a very accurate picture of old plantation life, as it really was in the days of the author, as experienced by the author himself.

The author was born in Greenville, N. C., and moved with his family when he was three years old to the farm on which he grew up, and the many experiences and happenings of which he tells were similar to the childhood of many of the readers. The descriptions in the book are very real and interesting, not only to those who experienced them but also to the younger generation who should know of the customs and ways of living in the past.

Dr. Leon R. Meadows and Miss Nell Battle Lewis have given a valued appraisal of the book. May I add to this my appreciation of Chapters XII and XIII in which the author gives a very fine description of his father's political views, and his mother's Christian training, and the author's exalted affection for his father and mother.—F. C. HARDING.

NEWS OF GREENVILLE HIGH

By CORA REDDITT

No Holidays
There has been a very unpopular rumor going the rounds of GHS to the effect that "we will have no Thanksgiving holidays." At a faculty meeting yesterday it was decided Thanksgiving "specials" would begin next Wednesday after school at 4 o'clock and end Monday morning at 9 o'clock. But there will be no Easter holidays—but we get an extra day at Christmas. School closes for the Christmas holidays on December 17 and holidays end January 4. Traveling and fuel were considered in the holiday planning. Please stop these false rumors, they are bad on the students. We do have holidays.

Junior Red Cross
The cast of the Junior Red Cross program will meet at the high school at 6:45 tonight. The program will start at 7:30, not 8 o'clock, as announced. Everyone is invited to attend this play.

Emblem Girls
Friday morning during home room there will be a very important meeting of all girls who have won emblems. Report to home rooms first, so that home room teachers may accurately check attendance, then go to the auditorium.

Beta Club
The annual Beta Club penny fair "A Night in the Nineties," will be presented in the high school auditorium tomorrow night. Admission will be six cents, while booths charging one cent will add to the amusement. Be sure to attend this fun frolic.

Green Lights
Green Lights will be given out tomorrow at third period.

Radio Program
The Green Lights staff is sponsoring a 15-minute radio program in which several members of the journalism class will tell about the high school. The program will be tonight at 7:45 over the local station.

Macbeth Program
The senior English department is discussing plans for a radio production of Macbeth excerpts. A committee formed of students from both English 12 classes is furthering the plans.

Extension . . .

War Shipping Administration and the Tariff Commission backed up the President's stand at a committee meeting yesterday, contending that peace-time red tape surrounding movements into and out of this country must be cast aside for the duration.

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson told the committee the legislation was drafted to fit the war.

"A world-wide, all-out war cannot be successfully prosecuted under narrow and specific legislation," he said. "Too little and too late has been the curse of armies. Too many and too restrictive laws may well be as great a stumbling block."

Attorney General Biddle, in a statement released after he had testified to the committee, said the President had no intention of exercising the powers granted by the original legislation "for any purpose not directly connected with our war effort."

Among examples which he cited to show the need for the legislation were:

The $8 head tax on each alien entering the country would become "ridiculous" when applied to prisoners of war.

Important missions of foreign officials and distinguished citizens of Allied nations, even when brought to this country by the air transport command, have been delayed because of minor omissions in their papers or to await required inspection by officers of the immigration service.

Regulations governing the movement of information in and out of the country should be suspended, when the President deems it necessary, Biddle said, on the ground that "technical information must be easily and quickly transferred between the United States and the Allies."

Civil Service Man Be Here Saturday

A representative of the U. S. Civil Service Commission will be in Greenville Saturday to hold an examination for stenographers and typists, and to receive applications for numerous other jobs with the government.

There are openings for workers in more than a dozen jobs. The pay ranges from $3,300 for safety engineers to packer, an crater at $7.04 a day.

W. C. James is acting secretary of the Civil Service Commission at the local postoffice.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

EVERY PLACE A SHRINE
A vicar of the Anglican Church tells how one Sunday he and a young curate were taken out to an island in a rowboat to hold a service. The oars were manned by a husky fisherman. On the way back a storm arose and the waves threatened to capsize the boat. The vicar was a strong, athletic figure and his curate was a young man of very diminutive stature. As the waves mounted higher, both the vicar and his curate began to pray. This went on for a few minutes and then the fisherman sang out, "Vicar, you take a set of these oars and let the little fellow do the praying!"

There was of course no reason why the vicar couldn't handle the oars and pray at the same time. As a matter of fact, triumph in the Christian life is achieved through effort and faith. Effort without faith is folly and leads us to every variety of misadventure. On the other hand, faith without effort is not faith at all. It is mere sentimentality. Our most effective praying is done while we work. We should have time set aside for praying. But in addition to such we should carry the spirit of prayer into our work day by day.

We should pray as we pull the oars, as we drive the car, as we wash the dishes. There are mountain peaks of intercession, but the best place to pray is where we happen to be.

GOOD SUGGESTION

We agree with Eddie Cantor. He suggests that we share the Pacific with the Japs by giving them the bottom half.

DOES THIS MAKE SENSE?

One day last week a local housewife visited one of the grocery stores and bought a bill of goods many times larger than usual. While the clerk was figuring her bill she remarked that she was trying to buy up some supplies before the "hoarders" got it all. We wonder what she meant by "hoarders?"

SAME OLD STORY

The placing of Laval as dictator over France is the same old story of the extension of Hitler's life and death powers over conquered nations through his Quislings. From the start Laval has been a Hitler stooge and has shown a willingness to sell his people "down the river" in order to gain a high place for himself within the Hitler regime. Despite the iron rule that Hitler will now place over France through Laval the day will come when, by the victory of the Allied nations, the French people will gain freedom and Laval will find himself in the same boat with Hitler and the other criminals who have brought so much disaster on the world. Freedom is inborn in the French people and we do not believe that even this increased pressure will break their spirit and their desire to be free. Events are moving speedily toward that day when Hitler and all his cohorts will reap the punishment they so justly deserve.

We'd Hate To Be In His Shoe

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—The horn of plenty isn't running over any more. This nation, which a year or so ago was worrying about surpluses of food products, and dishing out bonuses to keep the farmers from producing too much, is faced with shortages right now and those who are really in the know don't like the prospects for 1943-44 too much.

This is no scare article. But the picture in farm production is changing so rapidly that government officials who only a few weeks ago were taking the banana shortage, sugar, meat and coffee rationing in their stride are beginning to become truly alarmed.

Recently, certain agricultural experts were pooh-poohing the possibility of a shortage in milk and dairy products in 1943. Today those same men will tell you that at existing prices, with increasing demands that are sure to come continued raids on experienced farm labor and the deterioration of unreplaceable machinery, shortages of dairy products in 1943 is inevitable.

It is difficult to get any farm experts who have seriously studied the figures with one eye on the military force of nearly 10,000,000 men to declare there won't be shortages of almost everything next year. The one food crop most often excepted is cereal grains. That exception does not include corn, and corn is just as good an example as any to illustrate how deficiencies can occur in one season. The Department of Agriculture asked the corn farmers this year to plant 92,000,000 acres. Our needs were set at 2,800,000,000 bushels. The farmers were able to plant only 89,000,000 acres. But because of an unusually good growing season the farmers harvested 300,000,000 bushels more than requirements. If this had been just an average growing season, we would have harvested only 2,300,000,000, or a half a billion bushels short of requirements.

Next year the farmers are being asked to plant 95,000,000 acres of corn. If they could get in only 89,000,000 acres with this year's labor, machinery and ideal weather conditions, how are they going to beat it next year and what assurance is there that next year's per acre harvest will be anything like this one?

The demands on farm production are spiraling to dizzy heights. Think what it will be for the armed forces alone next fall and winter when 8,000,000 or so hungry men are waiting about twice as much food daily as they ever ate before in their lives.

RAF Bombers . . .

targets of the city, which had been attacked 20 times during the war. The raid by home-based British bombers entailed another 1,500-mile round trip and two crossings of the Alps.

In the four previous raids of November, the target was Genoa, northern Italian naval base and industrial port which has a key part in supplying the Axis forces in the North African campaign.

Even before the British announcement of the latest raid, air raid alarms in Geneva and Lausanne, Switzerland, had indicated that the RAF was abroad. Swiss anti-aircraft guns were in action.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY MONDFIELD

Chapter 26 Telephone Booth
Todd didn't get much out of his 2 o'clock economics class. In fact he got nothing. He sat there staring out the window, still trying to figure out why he hadn't hung one on Talbot's chin. Maybe it was the direct approach Talbot had made. Or he didn't want to create a scene.

Hold it, Malone, he told himself. You're not going to bite at that other stuff. That phoney loyalty stuff Talbot was talking about. So what if Talbot was right. A little. What if it would be fairly easy to swing. Was that any reason to even give it a second thought?

Easy to swing. Yeah, the right guy might have worked it out. When two teams were as evenly matched as State and Michigan it might be worked out. But you're not the right guy, Malone. You had a good cause to be the right guy but you're not. Even for $2,000 that the Duke could use, Talbot was right about it being an easy two thousand.

Todd forced his attention back to the professor lecturing in front. He riveted his eyes on the prof's face making himself listen to every word even though the lecture wasn't making sense. A good many things failed to make sense in the next day or two.

Then, on Thursday night, Ben Talbot walked into a drugstore and went to one of the phone booths in the rear. He hesitated for a moment, his finger on the dial, then dropped his nickel and closed the door behind him.

Almost at the same instant Anne Trevor walked into the booth next to his. "Let me speak to Todd Malone, please," Talbot said.

There was a knock on Susan's door. "Come in," she said. Anne Trevor entered and looked at Amy Basset, then at Susan. "Can I see you for a few minutes in my room, Susie?" Anne said.

"Sure thing," Susan put down her notebook and wondered at the queer expression on Anne's face. She followed Anne to her room. "What's doing?"

Anne lit a cigarette nervously. "I stopped in at a drug store at the other end of the campus, just a while ago and went into a phone booth to get an address from information. I had just dropped my nickel when I heard someone in the booth next to me ask for Todd Malone. Well—I was only human; I listened."

"So now you're repenting your sin as an eavesdropper," Susan joked. "No, it isn't that, Susan—I overheard a good part of the conversation that took place at my end. The man in the booth next to me asked Todd if he'd changed his mind. He said something about two thousand dollars and then raised it to twenty-five hundred. He said 'all you got to do is call one wrong at the right time—that's the one that might do it.' Then he said, 'there won't be a soul in the stadium who'll be able to spot it, including Michigan.'"

"He told Todd he'd be a sap if he passed up a good thing," Anne stopped and looked at Susan helplessly. Susan's lips were dry. She hardly dared think about what was in her mind. "Did you hear anything else?" she asked.

Anne nodded. "Just one other thing. The man next to me finally said, 'so think it over—for the Duke.' Then I saw him go out with a smile. I don't know who he was. I never saw him before." They were both silent again for a while. "I don't know what's going on but I thought I ought to mention it to someone—so well, I told you."

"I understand, Anne. Thanks very much. But I want you to promise me you won't breathe a word of this to anyone. Absolutely nobody. I want to think about it for a while. Tomorrow we'll talk about it again." When Susan went to bed that night she turned her face to the wall so Amy couldn't see that her eyes were wet.

Two Troubled Girls

The alumni started coming Friday afternoon, not as many as in recent years but in sufficient numbers and in the proper frame of mind to insure a real home-coming week-end. A couple of the more recent graduates showed off new husbands.

But it all didn't quite jell with Susan. She didn't even feel like going to the gigantic rally that night, the grand-daddy of all State rallies according to the billing, with a bonfire scheduled to assume the proportions of the burning of Rome.

Anne took her aside after dinner. "Susan," she began uneasily. "About that—what about that?" She wasn't quite able to really frame her question but Susan knew what she meant.

There was a note of resignation in Susan's voice. "Maybe we should do something about it. We seem to be sure what that conversation meant. Maybe I should put it up squarely to Malone."

"Oh, Anne, I don't know what to do," she added fiercely. "If anything happens I'll never forgive myself for having kept this quiet, but I just can't bring myself to confront Todd; or tell Ed Luttrell, or anybody."

Susan leaned on a chair and stared out the window. "Shall I tell you what this really means, Anne? What we really have to do? If there is something to it—if he does have an opportunity to—sell out the team—then let's get to work on that temptation himself. I'm not a professional soul-saver or anything like that but the only way he can really do himself any good is to liek it himself. Maybe you have an idea what I mean."

Anne was not quite convinced, although she understood Susan's reasoning. "But perhaps, if we let him know that a conversation was overheard—"

"What would you think? At the best, it would just mean that we didn't trust him enough to let him decide." Susan frowned and her voice trembled. "And you did say that—that man went out smiling?" "Yes," Anne thought a moment. "But you're right, and heaven help us if—"

"He can't do it," Susan interrupted tersely. "He just can't." To Be Continued

BIG WEEK-END ON GRIDIRON

Pre-Flight School Vs W. And M. Among Tops In Interest

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19—(AP)—The North Carolina Pre-flight school, which has lost only one game this season and that a 7-6 defeat by unbeaten and unified Boston College, can expect plenty of spectators on the part of the William and Mary Indians at Williamsburg Saturday, coach Carl (Dutch) Voyles said today.

"We're expecting to throw a lot of passes," Voyles said. The tributes mentioned added, however, that Glenn Knox, regular end, possibly wouldn't be available to do any receiving and that the burden would be left on Newell (Red) Irwin, of Seymour, Tenn., as far as the right flank is concerned.

Voyles still didn't know whether Jackie Freeman, the team's best kicker, would be ready. If he isn't, Bob Longacre, junior from Johnson, Pa., will do most of the booting.

Both teams have played Harvard, and a comparison of scores—which incidentally, doesn't mean much in this war-time grid season—makes the Cloudbusters the favorite. It was Harvard that played to a 7-7 deadlock with William and Mary, while the pre-flighters disposed of the Crimson, 19-0.

End Bill Neely was the only player missing from a heavy workout of the South Carolina gamecocks, getting set for their game with tough Miami. The first-team backfield consisted of Ken Roskie, Earl Dunham, Bill McMillan and Phil Cantore.

Coach Jim Tatum told the North Carolina Tar Heels that their tackling would need to be tops to cope with the speed and wide open style of the Virginia cavaliers, and the Tar Heel mentor devoted much time to blocking and tackling. The North Carolina squad appeared slow at catching on to the trick "T" formation used by coach Frank Murray.

The Duke Blue Devils devoted their time to polishing their own attacks but didn't overlook methods of breaking up North Carolina State's deception. Jake Poole, injured tackle, probably will miss the Wolfpack game. His place in the Duke forward wall was taken by Fred Slink, a sophomore.

North Carolina State's coach, Doc Newton, said he was displeased at the showing of his squad in practice and pointed out that the freshmen, running Duke plays, made too many lengthy runs and that State's pass defense was "too flat-footed."

The George Washington Colonials concentrated chiefly on their forward wall, which coach Johnny Baker said could make or break George Washington. The Colonials play Georgetown's Hoyas.

"We only hope is that Johnny Kominowski (tackle) can have a good day," Baker said. "I never can tell when he'll murder the opposition and when he'll loaf. If you recall, two years ago against George Peters, Ren Washburn and Johnny Frederick, all backs, Buck Williams, another back, definitely will miss Saturday's game with the Citadel, and Art Roach may not play."

Clemens expects to be in good shape for its homecoming classic with Furman. Several injured veterans returned for practice, which was featured by passing, pass defense and offensive blocking.

With their eyes set on beating Davidson, the Citadel players worked on pass defense, a department in which the Cadets have been weak all season. Coach J. H. Rowland said he would let the Braves' taper off the remainder of the week.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—National Hockey League officials are talking (one of the best things they do) about reducing the player limit to 13 men. This is important mainly because hockey is the first sport to feel the real wallop of the war. What happens to it now may happen to the others. You can imagine the effects if other sports start cutting—football squads too deep, 16-man baseball squads, etc. But it's one way of spreading out the available manpower.

Missing 'Em Quick
Winding up the football selection season with no more idea of what's what than we had at the start: Boston College, Georgia and Georgia Tech (automatically); Army over Princeton, Columbia over Dartmouth, Harvard over Yale, Missouri over Fordham, Wisconsin (home team) over Minnesota, Ohio State over Michigan, Notre Dame over Northwestern, Alabama over Vanderbilt, North Carolina over Virginia. When it comes to the southwest and Pacific coast we give up.

Although bowl talk is taboo at Boston College, word is that the B. C. seniors would prefer the Orange Bowl to the Sugar ditto because they've visited New Orleans three times but never have seen Miami.

... Esther Wrons, Michigan, women's speed skating champion, recently was awarded a $1,000 war bond by the Saginaw, Mich., defense plant where she works, for figuring out how to save 476 man-hours a month in manufacturing machine guns. ... Still cutting the corners close, eh? ... Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' outfielder, is undergoing treatment in St. Louis for the after-effects of that bump on the head he got last summer. ... Jim Hendy and Clem White, hockey drumbeaters at Madison Square Garden, have donated the "Hendy White trophy"—a large black comb—to be awarded the player who finishes the season with his hair least disarranged.

Today's Guest Star
Les Gontes, Salt Lake City Deseret News' Dealer reports that a winning football team would seem to involve a matter of ethics. But nevertheless you can't cheer an ethic.

Tip For Ted
Gordon Cobbledick of the Cleveland Plain Dealer reports that a few long hits of Indian pitchers late last season was that Ted, himself, gave Lou Boudreau a hint on how he could be stopped. ... "Once a pitcher shows me his fast ball I can hit anything he throws," Ted remarked during the all-star game. "I time everything by the hand on my side. I'm liable to have trouble with his other stuff."

Boudreau promptly ordered his pitchers to throw nothing but curves and slow strikes to Ted until they had two strikes on him.

Service Dept.
The army has ordered 16,200 pairs of boxing gloves from the Benlee outfit here, an dthe navy has ordered 3,000 pairs—which should give our side quite a punch. ... Lieut. Commander George Halas spent $40 on phone calls from Norman, Okla., to Chicago to get the details on the Bears-Packers game last Sunday. ... Eight more of the Iowa Navy Seahawks football squad, including Matt Boiger, Judd Ringer, George Frye and Fred Baston, are moving on to flight training and won't play against Nebraska Saturday. ... Seventeen years after ending his football career at Stanford, Capt. Ernie Nevers of the Marines weighs 210 pounds—only six over his college playing weight.

higher returns. They said milk production costs had advanced to a point where some farmers were unable to break even at prices they now receive under OPA ceilings. Dairy officials said present OPA ceiling prices gave dairymen an average return of about $2.40 per hundred pounds for milk delivered to factories for manufacturing into butter and skim milk products. They contend that farmers must receive at least $2.60 to make ends meet. These officials, declining to be quoted by name, said that certain regulatory measures were necessary to conserve the available supplies and to aid in directing the proper utilization of milk. One measure, they said, would be a directive from the War Production Board authorizing the Agriculture Department to control the movement and disposition of milk from farm to processor.

Japs Will ...

failure of the Japanese, already outnumbered, to land any considerable reinforcements in their big push last Thursday, Friday and Saturday would seem to leave their forces open to attack. It will be difficult if not impossible for them to obtain substantial supplies for some time. The effect on future operations of the blow dealt the Japanese at sea, as naval men here estimate, must be measured not only in ships sunk but also in men and materials lost. Eleven warships and eight transports were sunk and four cargo vessels which the Japs had beached were destroyed after the battle. Seven warships were damaged. But the sinking of the eight transports involved the loss not only of the ships but also of thousands of men who were to have been thrown into a drive to annihilate the Americans on Guadalcanal. Estimates by the navy at both Washington and Honolulu put the total number of Japs killed in the battle at 20,000 to 40,000. Yet even this does not tell the whole story. For such an army must have huge stores of supplies and ammunition for even a brief and limited campaign. It must be equipped with machine guns and light artillery and probably heavy artillery and tanks. These stores and equipment also were lost except for that small quantity which may have been unloaded after cargo ships were beached and before they were destroyed.

Those familiar with the problems of collecting and equipping such a force as the Japs lost say that it requires weeks of the most carefully coordinated effort in the homeland arsenal as well as the bases from which the attack is launched. The Japs might be able to get to-

LET US GIVE THANKS

This year God has given us great harvest. In the spirit of the First Thanksgiving, let us share our hearts and homes with someone apart from those they love. Invite a guest or two from the service. Our menu is built around the food we have in abundance, and does not include that reserved for our Armed Forces. It is ample for large gatherings but can be simplified for smaller groups.

(market weight), or 3/4 pound per person drawn weight. Weight of bird after stuffing is about the same as weight before drawing.

ROAST THE TURKEY
Put breast side down at low temperature (275°F.) When half done, turn on back and finish roasting. Figure 22-25 minutes per pound for a 6 to 12 pound turkey. For a 12 to 18 pound turkey allow 17 to 22 minutes per pound. If using thermometer, thrust into thick meat of thigh without touching bone. Bird will be well done when temperature is 180° or when thermometer says "well done." In any case, brown bird with a final high temperature (450° F.) for no longer than 20 minutes.

It's Almost Here!
With Thanksgiving next Thursday, do you have your grocery and meat list made up? Since the whole meal depends upon how delicious the food is, protect your reputation as a fine cook by ordering your Wilson's Certified Poultry today.
Poultry is plentiful, and is unrestricted. To eat poultry, at this holiday season, is patriotic. But, say I, to eat Wilson's Certified Poultry is a thing of flavorful delight and a joy to one who has always relished good food.
And now—"O Lord, accept our humble thanks. Make us worthy of thy goodness."
Your friend, George Rector

MEMU IN THE MAKING
To make cocktail, bring to boil cider and spice (such as cloves, allspice, nutmeg, or cinnamon). Cool and serve.
Use honey or sugar substitute in the cranberry sauce. For the brussels sprouts: to a simple vinaigrette sauce add a clove of garlic and cook with the sauce for two minutes.
We can talk Turkey—for that bird knows no restrictions
Season inside. (Outside may blister if salted). Stuff bird lightly, spooning in, leaving enough room for dressing to swell. Nine cups of bread (1 1/4 pounds) will stuff a 10 pound turkey. When bird is stuffed and trussed, rub with one half cup fat, mixed with one tablespoon paprika. Wrap legs and wings with cheesecloth dipped in melted fat, to prevent drying. Allow 1 pound per person

FEWER GOODS IN PROSPECT

Jobs To Be Basis For Draft Deferral

Boston, Nov. 19 - (AP) - Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today that civilians could expect next year an increase in victory models, or standardized and simplified civilian goods, as well as an extension of rationing.

Henderson spoke to the first New England War Conference which received a message from President Roosevelt expressing approval of the "free exchange of ideas through regional discussions" throughout the nation as an aid to conduct of the war and formation of a better post-war world.

Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, told the meeting that in the future deferment from military service will depend more and more upon the kind of work a man is doing and less on whether he had dependents or not.

Henderson said that increased simplification and standardization will go hand in hand with price and rationing controls in 1943.

In a tribute to the President, Ralph E. Flanders, Vermont industrialist and retiring president of the council, said the responsibility for the top strategy in this war rested "solely in the hands of the President and the advisor whom he selected."

"The events of the past few days reveal," he added, "the excellence of that top strategy as it has been worked out in the dark and uncertain months which are behind us. We stand today solidly behind the command-in-chief of our army and navy."

FBI And Officers Meet In Kinston

Lieutenant Lester Jones and some of the state highway patrolmen and Police Chief George Clark of Greenville attended a regular quarterly meeting of law enforcement officers and the FBI at the City Hall in Kinston today. These meetings are held every three months in different sections of the state.

They are routine and consist of discussions of new conditions arising since the war started. The main objective is to develop mutual cooperation and coordination of law enforcement methods.

When Woolard Kills Hogs Winter Comes

Farmers in this part of the state, from years of observation, know that when W. H. Woolard has a hog killing on his farm the weather is going to turn cold - very cold.

Mack Whitehurst, who operates the Woolard farm near Beibel, killed hogs Wednesday. After nine of the porkers were dispatched an observer could not miss them from the large herd. He sold some on the foot and they brought top market prices.

They slaughtered a baby pig there Wednesday that weighed 585 pounds dressed!

The banker was poetic today, meditating on spare-ribs and collards, hoghead and turnip salad, backbone and cabbage, tenderloin or sausage and buttercakes and sorghum syrup for breakfast, with Thanksgiving a week off, and Christmas only a month from next Wednesday.

School Bus Driver Appear In Court

Willie Gray Allen, Jr., driver of a Fountain school bus, was arrested yesterday for reckless driving when his bus turned over near the school, and seriously injuring one passenger and slightly injuring others.

Allen has been suspended as a driver by school officials. There were eight school children in the bus when the accident occurred between 8 and 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. It turned over and then righted itself.

J. Z. Garrison, teen age school boy in the bus, suffered cuts and bruises and a dislocated shoulder and is in the hospital, highway patrolmen stated. The driver was not hurt.

Willie Gray Allen, Jr., the driver, missed an orange from the pocket in the bus. While he turned to see who had it the bus left the road and turned over, officers stated.

A Chico school bus driven by Jesse Edwin McGowan, temporarily out of control of the driver, left the road and crashed yesterday afternoon. Highway patrolmen learned that the driver noticed leaking oil, used a rag to mop it up on the floor board and threw the rag through a window. It blew back in his face, temporarily blinding him. His accident was unavoidable, patrolmen stated. When the bus left the road it struck and slightly injured Verna Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cannon.

Quail Season Opens Thursday, Nov. 26

The open season for hunting quail begins next Thursday Thanksgiving Day, and ends on February 10. The bag limit for a day is 10 birds for the season, 150 birds. There are some exceptions to the quail law in some counties, including Pitt, in which there are "lay days," which permits the taking of quail only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays during the season.

The open season for wild turkey also begins Thanksgiving Day and ends on February 10. The day's bag limit is one bird; three turkeys for the season.

The open hunting season for bear and deer closes January 1.

Any person convicted of buying or selling quail in violation of the state game laws shall be fined not less than $50 or imprisoned for not more than 60 days, or both, in the discretion of the court.
