Allies Beginning All-Out Attack On Axis In Africa

Big Attack Launched On Defenses of Tunis and Bizerte; Rommel Reported To Be In Charge Of Axis Campaign To Hold North Africa Bases; U. S. Airmen Blast Tunis Airfield

By E. C. DANIEL London, Nov. 23.—(AP) The British First Army, with American and French support, was reported today to have launched a big attack against the German-Italian positions in the defense perimeter of Bizerte and Tunis where Marshal Erwin Rommel, one-time German master of African desert warfare, was said to be in command with perhaps a part of his Africa corps.

The radio in Allied-held Morocco said prisoners already had been brought in as a result of the British attack which the Allies have been preparing for a week, and Berlin broadcasts hinted that Rommel had transferred his headquarters and perhaps some of his Libyan forces to Tunisia.

Previously the British and American forces which had steamed across North Africa for hundreds of miles in a race to get control of Tunisia's middle Mediterranean bases were reported to have tested the defense in the northern tip of the French protectorate, and radio Morocco quoted an Allied spokesman as saying their attacks were growing in violence.

The broadcast said that one clash occurred 22 miles south of the coast and that the engagement "remained inconclusive."

Allied spokesmen were quoted as admitting that the Germans and Italians were well established with a strong air force at Bizerte and Tunis and it was apparent that the Axis was going to make a fight to retain its dominance of the Siellean straits.

French reports told of attempted Axis infiltrations in south Tunisia and other reports from Allied headquarters in North Africa said similar tactics were being attempted from the north.

If Rommel has split his forces, it was presumed here that he had dispatched some armored units from Tripoli, either overland or by sea, to Gabes or Sfax on the east Tunisian coast.

Pro-Allied French forces have been reported in control along most (Continued on Page Six)

Southern Senators Win In Poll Tax Squabble

Washington, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Senate shelved today legislation to ban the collection of Poll Taxes as a requirement for voting in federal elections. The action followed defeat of a motion to end a filibuster through limit on debate.

The debate limitation proposal on the measure to abolish Poll Taxes as a prerequisite to voting in federal elections was beaten on a vote of 37 "ayes" to 41 "noes." Approval of two-thirds of those voting was necessary.

MAY ACT SOON ON HEARDING

Panic-Buying May Force Action By Government

Washington, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Over-buying of food products by house-holders fearful of future rationing programs may force the government into adopting anti-hearding regulations.

An official disclosed today that "panic-buying" of foods and other commodities has become widespread enough to give the office of pre-administration concern.

"The hysteria seems to be getting near the point where we are forced to consider the rationing of things that otherwise wouldn't have to be rationed," explained the federal official, who declined the use of his name.

The proposed anti-hearding regulation now under study by the OPA, he said, would compel purchasers to declare their present supply of any rationed article they bought. Any such regulation, he added, would be difficult to enforce since the OPA has no idea of invading private homes to inspect food stocks.

The official asserted that by making excess or unnecessary purchases of food and other scarce commodities illegal, house-holders might be made to realize the seriousness of over-stocking.

Allies Blast Japs In Burma, China

Jap Transport Or Carrier Sunk In Indo-China Waters; Jap Destroyer Sunk Off New Guinea; MacArthur's Men Closing On Japs

By The Associated Press A large Japanese ship, reported to be either an aircraft carrier or a 12,000 to 15,000 ton transport, was sunk yesterday by American sky-dragons of the China command in a terrific attack upon Haiphong, French Indo-China, climaxing a week-end in which Allied air power proved its rising might in attacks from Burma to the Yangtze valley.

Off the northeast coast of New Guinea, American and Australian airmen sank another Japanese destroyer, apparently trying to land reinforcements for the Japanese troops who have been backed to the beaches of Buna and Gona by Allied jungle fighters steadily closing a death trap upon the invaders.

The Haiphong raid was announced today in a communique from the headquarters of Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the China air task force. It said immense fires enveloped the waterfront of the port through which the Japanese are believed to be sending supplies inland for an attack upon Yunnan province, China, from Indo-China and Burma.

Yesterday and again last night British bombers blasted the Japanese-held port of Akyab across the Bay of Bengal from Calcutta, and attacked airfields and river steamers elsewhere in Burma.

The attacks followed up other week-end assaults in which the largest squadron of United States bombers ever sent into the air from Indian bases joined the RAF in heavy bombings of Rangoon, Mandalay and Hougou without the loss of a plane.

Chinese bombing crews attacked the Yangtze river port of Shasi in Hupeh province, and Shayang on the Han river 35 miles to the north-east without encountering any Japanese aerial opposition.

In New Guinea the Japanese were kept under incessant aerial attack as they made their desperate last stand on the beaches.

American and Australian troops seized a landing strip and carried the attack on to the Buna mission a mile from the coastal town of Buna, and the main landing field at the outskirts of Buna.

Other Australian forces were closing in on Gona, 12 miles up the coast.

The sinking of the Japanese destroyer off the coast balanced the news from the Navy Department that an additional U. S. destroyer had been lost in the Nov. 13-15 battle of the Solomons. The name of the destroyer was not disclosed.

REPORT ON CASUALTIES

Initial U. S. Casualties In Africa 1,910

Washington, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The army announced today that American casualties during the initial landings in North Africa were estimated at 1,910 killed, wounded and missing.

A communique said Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower reported that he was not yet able to obtain a careful confirmation of the casualties, most of which occurred in the capture of Oran and Casablanca.

Very few men were lost in the operations around Algiers.

The total, the army said, was made up of 350 killed, 900 wounded and 350 missing in the army; and ten killed, 150 wounded and 150 missing from the navy.

Most of those reported missing the army said, probably were drowned.

Army officers said the casualty total covered only the period before the first landing operations November 7 and the cessation of hostilities between the Americans and the French in Morocco and Algiers November 12. No estimate has been received, they said, of the American casualties in the campaign to extend the occupation of Tunisia.

French West Africa Is Now With The Allies

Dakar Comes Under Control Of Admiral Darlan

Vichy (From French Broadcasts). Nov. 23.—(AP)—French West Africa has placed itself under the orders of Admiral Jean Darlan, the admiral declared in a broadcast over radio Algiers tonight.

French West Africa includes the strategic port of Dakar, near the westernmost bulge of Africa's Atlantic coast.

(In area French West Africa is the largest unit of the French empire, covering 1,815,768 square miles, besides Dakar includes Senegal, French Guinea, the French Sudan, Dahomey, Ivory Coast, Mauritania and Niger. The population totals about 15,000,000.

(Already this great territory was sandwiched between two French areas which have thrown in their lot with the United Nations, the Morocco-Algeria strip to the north and Equatorial Africa to the south.)

Darlan's announcement, as recorded in Vichy, was: "Inhabitants of French Africa, I have this evening good news to announce: "French West Africa has placed itself freely under my orders. Therefore French West Africa remains faithful to the person of the marshal, (Darlan insists that he is acting under Marshal Petain's authority.)

"The high commissioner of France in French Equatorial Africa, Governor-General (Pierre) Bolescon, and General Barreau, commander in chief of the land, sea and air forces, have joined those eminent leaders, Generals (Henri) Giraud and (Auguste) Noues and Governor General (Yves) Chatelet (of Algeria).

"Inhabitants of French West Africa: We are on the right road. Follow me with discipline! "Vive la France!"

More Than 15,000 Germans Dead And 13,000 Captured In Two Days Of Fighting; Reds Advance Nearly 50 Miles At One Point; Several Important Points Recaptured

By HENRY C. CASSIDY Moscow, Nov. 23.—(AP)

A mighty Red army counter-offensive sprung from the northwest and south of Stalingrad has put thousands of Germans to rout, the Russians reported today, and the Nazi forces which have besieged the Volga city vainly for three bloody months were pictured as facing disastrous encirclement.

Broken German divisions were seen fleeing across the frosty steppes before the surge of Russian infantrymen, guns and tanks in the greatest Soviet offensive of the year, adding new casualties to the 28,000 Nazis reported killed and captured in the past few days.

Here is the story of the drive, as given in official Soviet announcements and in war front dispatches: Already some 15,000 Germans have been killed and more than 13,000 captured since the Russians sprang their drive. The German besiegers of Stalingrad have been placed in a perilous position, and the German forces in the Caucasus are being held to a standstill as the bitter Russian winter sets in.

The Stalingrad offensive stretched two arms around the Germans still holding positions in the Caucasus and placed the Russians within two important railway lines used by the Germans to supply their forces. An offensive began, dispatches said, with a one-hour barrage so intense that when the firing ceased only isolated enemy guns replied. Red army infantry and tanks then piled through the German front line, driving the enemy from trenches into the open steppes.

The German front line was overwhelmed by the ferocity of the Russian offensive, dispatches said. Prisoners started to pour in and guns and mortars piled up as the Red army carried the advance as far as 45 miles at some points.

"During the night of Nov. 22-23 our troops in the Stalingrad area captured the city of the two-pronged operations and continued to move forward," the mid-day Russian communique said.

In a special communique issued last night the Russians announced that a Red army force sweeping forward from northwest of Stalingrad, while another column striking westward south of the city had occupied the railroad town of Argunovo.

In aggressive motion on a wide stretch of the long front Russian troops were credited today with killing some 3,600 enemy soldiers within Stalingrad and on the Nalchik, Leningrad and northwestern fronts in addition to those slaughtered in the Stalingrad offensive.

Along the rest of their positions northwest of Stalingrad the Russians broke through the German lines on a front 18 miles wide and occupied Kalach, an important navigation point.

Russian artillery, it was reported, destroyed seven enemy strong points in the Nalchik area of the Caucasus and dispersed two companies of infantry.

On the northwestern front, Red army troops took a fortified point from the Germans and killed about 400 soldiers while at Leningrad snipers killed 400 more in two days of fighting, the communique said.

But the main Russian attack was being delivered where the Russians have suffered most this year, on the plains outside Stalingrad.

RAF BOMBERS RAID GERMANY

Industrial Center Of Stuttgart Blasted Last Night

London, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The German industrial and communications center of Stuttgart was attacked last night by a strong force of British bombers, and the Air Ministry said that low-level observation showed that the results were good.

"Ten of our bombers are missing," the Ministry said.

Fighter command aircraft were reported to have attacked freight trains in northern France and fired an Axis supply ship in the English Channel, further blows against Adolf Hitler's crippled transport systems.

Canadian participated in the Stuttgart raid.

The bombers were reported by Sgt. Robert Donald of Calgary to have "started gorgeous fires." "The town was just criss-crossed with incendiaries," said the young non-commissioned officer, who flies with a Lancaster squadron of the RAF.

The Berlin radio quoted a DNB dispatch which said incendiary bombs had caused slight damage in one town of southern Germany, but did not identify the target.

Figures Show Practically All Butter Supply Frozen

By WILLIAM FERRIS Chicago, Nov. 23.—(AP)—For all practical purposes nearly all cold storage butter supplies held in 35 market centers temporarily are frozen, dairy traders said today, although the government freeze order applied to only 50 per cent of such stocks.

The War Production Board froze stocks last week-end on the basis of the largest amount held in warehouses on any date between Nov. 6 and Nov. 20.

The 35 principal market centers, to which the order applies, handle, on the basis of the five-year average of 1937 to 1941, approximately 78 per cent of the total United States cold storage butter supplies.

Dealers pointed out that warehouses holding in 10 representative cities, were at a peak Nov. 6 when stocks were close to 45,000,000 pounds. Since that time, they said, however, constant withdrawals to fill the gap between insufficient current production and record demand brought supplies down to slightly more than 28,000,000 pounds last Saturday.

On the basis of the government's order, they said, these cities must earmark half of their Nov. 6 holdings, or 23,500,000 pounds, for the government. While this amount is only 50 per cent of Nov. 6 supplies, it is very close to the 23,000,000 pounds now on hand.

Traders pointed out, however, that warehouses will be unable to release any holdings until it has been determined which supplies are to be earmarked for government use and questions about quality and price are decided.

End of the Century Book Club. Mrs. R. W. King was the hostess at another of her delightful entertainments in honor of the End of the Century Book Club on Tuesday evening of last week. There were several visitors present in addition to the members of the club. Mrs. L. C. Arthur furnished the literary program in a nicely defined analysis of Aaron Burr's character as an historical personage, and as a hero of romance. The remainder of the evening was devoted to the program for an annual banquet to be given in December, at the residence of Mrs. Arthur.

The club will hold its next regular meeting with Mrs. Bowen.

wore a wedding gown of ivory satin with a yoke of Chantilly lace, embroidered with simulated seed pearls, long fitted bodice, and full gathered skirt with sweeping train. Her long leg-o-mutton sleeves pointed over the hand and her veil of ivory illusion fell the full length of the court train from a pearl-trimmed Juliet cap of matching lace. She chose for her bridal bouquet white roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Eleanor Clark of Greenville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. W. C. Clark, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. They wore identical dresses of hyacinth blue taffeta and net. Their halo hats were of matching taffeta and they carried arm bouquets of soft yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom was attended by Lieutenant Todd P. Gainey of Goldsboro, as best man. Ushers were W. C. Clark, Jr., brother of the bride, and Carl P. Pierce of Greenville. Captain Albert P. Mareyatt and Captain J. Bruce Mearry of Goldsboro.

Mrs. W. C. Clark, Sr., mother of the bride, wore a dress of brown crepe with a blue yoke outlined with small blue pearls. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

For traveling, the bride changed to a gold crepe dress with brown accessories. She wore an orchid taken from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clark, Sr., of Greenville, attended East Carolina Teachers College and is a graduate of Smith-Rideal-Massey Business College, Richmond, Va. For the past several months she has been employed by the War Department, Seymour Johnson Field, Goldsboro.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butcher Giles of Bedford, Indiana. He is a graduate of the University of Indiana and is now stationed at Seymour Johnson Field, Goldsboro.

After December 1st, Captain and Mrs. Giles will be at home at 1302 East Elm street, Goldsboro.

Among the out-of-town guests were Colonel Walter J. Reed, Colonel and Mrs. Harold R. Maddux, Captain Thornton W. Campbell, Major John C. Hagan, Jr., Lieut. Harold J. Sullivan, Captain Wendell L. Covolt, Captain John S. Wise, Captain and Mrs. E. C. Prohaska, Miss Clara Hicks, Miss Carroll Stoker and Mrs. A. P. Mareyatt, all of Goldsboro; Corporal Baxter Clark of Fort Bragg; Mrs. Tom Harris and Mrs. George Andrews of Tarboro; Misses Mary Roy Baker and Dora Moseby of Richmond; Miss Nancy Roberts and Captain Ted Deglin of Newport News, Va.

Garden Club Meets. The Greenville Garden Club held its regular meeting Friday, November 20, at the Woman's Club. Mrs. Crisp, the president, presided and opened the meeting by reading a poem entitled "Autumn."

The attention of the club was called to the condition of the grounds around the Woman's Club. It was voted that a committee from the Garden Club act with a committee from the Woman's Club to beautify the grounds.

The club also voted to sponsor the replanting and rearrangement of the shrubbery around the city library. Mrs. Key Brown was instructed to confer with the library board, and to express the pleasure of the Garden Club in having a part in this project.

This year the club will not hold its usual Christmas show, but, from December 18 through New Year's day the club rooms will be decorated in true Christmas fashion for the service men. A request was made for the loan of outside Christmas lights, to be used in the decoration of the club rooms.

The chairman of the State Garden Club takes the Greenville club for a contribution to a $500 Bond as a memorial to Mrs. Clyde Hoey. It was decided to make a contribution at a later date.

Mrs. Will Hooker, guest speaker for the afternoon, discussed city planting and beautification. Mrs. Hooker who has done so much to beautify Greenville, having served on the City Planting and Planning Committee for years, is well qualified to speak on this subject. She asked "shall we women give up digging and planting our gardens? Shall we lay aside the cultivation of our love for the beautiful and give our time to more practical things?" This question, she added, "has been asked by many in these times of stress and strain. We who have gardens and tend them with our own hands, know we find great mental and spiritual peace as we dig and plant; we draw near to God as we contemplate the beauties of His great outdoors.

"So I would say, let's plant and create all the beauty we can, all of us; plant a dogwood or a crepe myrtle or a forsythia—but everyone plant something to make Greenville a more beautiful place in which to live."

At the conclusion of her talk the club voted to ask the Mayor of Greenville to declare the week of December 1st "Planting Week." The meeting adjourned to spend a social hour around the tea table. Hostesses were Mrs. J. N. Hart, Mrs. Van Fleming, Mrs. E. C. Hollar and Mrs. P. P. Brooks.

Christian Science Service. "Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 22.

The golden text was from I Cor. 3:16: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you." (II Cor. 6:16-17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "The material body and mind are temporal but the real man is spiritual and eternal. The identity of the real man is not lost, but found through this explanation; for the conscious infinitude of existence and all identity is thereby discovered and remains unchanged. It is impossible that man should lose sight that is real, when God is all and eternally his."

College Vesper Services. "Christian Guidance for Building a Better Democracy" was the topic discussed by Scott Executive J. T. Ozle at the YMCA and YWCA vesper services at the college last night.

Mr. Ozle, former principal of Jamesville High School, and now field scout executive in Greenville, began by saying that one factor most outstanding in Christian guidance is Christian education. In our world, he said, the three great institutions of the home, the school, and the church, exert a powerful influence on the child.

"Will there be the same let-down in moral standards after this war that there was after the last one?" he asked. "What are the homes, schools, and churches doing to prevent this?"

The speaker then talked of the failure of the modern home to give serious consideration to the religious education of its children. "Parents of other interests and duties," he said, "keep parents from having enough time in the home with children and they do not realize that they are neglecting one of their greatest responsibilities."

Turning then to the church, he inquired how much time out of a person's week this institution has a chance to teach, and pointed out that the church gets only a few hours of the time of its members even when they attend all its services.

Such being the case, the responsibilities for religious training must rest in good measure on the schools, he said, and went on to show that children meet the same kind of teaching to understand religion that they do to learn and understand other kinds of knowledge. He suggested the need for definite institutions in religious education in colleges in order to have teachers capable of training boys and girls in religion.

The speaker closed by commenting on the vital need for the right kind of leaders, those with a religious background, to head up the government if this country is to have the kind of democracy it wants.

Evidences of Change. War brings change. And one place it is very evident today is in the magazine articles.

It takes an upheaval to bring about change in thought, to cause people to change from the old to the new even though oftentimes the new is much better than the old. Once a groove has been made in one's way of thinking, it is very hard for the average mind to get out of it. Witness it today in the political world, even in our own country.

Witness the solid South and the old line North. And what about the rearing of children? Wasn't it just a generation ago that parents' top-most thought was always of their children's moral upbringing, while today it is their physical bodies that get most of the attention. It hasn't been thirty years since elders chided young girls about wearing hats and high heels while today they chide about smoking and staying out late. Nowadays grandparents think it cruel to make children go to bed so early, while the modern parent thinks the use of corporal punishment was cruel. One generation cannot understand the other because of the change that takes place.

And since growth cannot come except by change, change we must have. One old philosopher once said that having some fundamental truths the only permanent thing in life is change.

These articles in the current magazines at the Sheppard Memorial Library tell of some of the changes taking place.

A triple drive against Axis forces in north Africa is developing. One prong of the British push in Libya (striped arrows) by-passed Bengasi, which the Axis have abandoned, and reached Antelat to cut German and Italian stragglers between Bengasi and Agedabia. The main body of Gen. Rommel's Axis army headed for El Aghella (1) where he may try to make a stand. From Algeria, the American and British forces (shaded arrows) were advancing along the coast, and vanguards had smashed forward to within 30 miles of Bizerte and Tunis, last Axis strongholds in northern Tunisia. Meanwhile, Allied units also approached Tunis from Tebessa. A third prong of the American-British drive from the west headed across Tunisia toward Tripoli. The third drive in the general pincer campaign was being made by a strong force of Fighting French (black and white arrow), reported moving toward Tripoli from the Lake Chad area in French Equatorial Africa. Allied planes from Malta raided Tunis and shot down a plane over Sicily.

U. S. Destroyer Blasted By Japs But Fights On

A flaming Jap torpedo plane crashed on the forecabin of the United States destroyer Smith in the Battle of Santa Cruz off the Solomon Islands, and set fire to the ship—but the stalwart little vessel maintained her place in the screening line protecting an aircraft carrier and continued to fight. Here is a close-up of some of the damage inflicted on the Smith by the bursting Jap torpedo. The after part of the torpedoes lies just abreast of the No. 1 gun platform. Ensign Neal Anderson Scott of Goldsboro, N. C., a member of the Smith's crew, was fatally burned—but his dying cry, "keep those guns firing, mates," inspired fellow-crewmen to keep on fighting.

Allied Triumphs Raise Fear Of Axis Thrusts

Successes of the American, British and sympathetic French forces in the two African war areas have led to fears that Adolf Hitler might try drastic counter-attacks to out-flank the Allies. One such move might be through Spain (1). That nation's sudden move to bolster its armies led to belief it was preparing to resist any such aggression. Nazi movements in the Balkans revived the menace of an Axis drive (2) through the Near East. The British Eighth Army pushed to within 70 miles of Bengasi (3). American forces and the British First Army drove into Tunisia (4) where Axis units are bracing to hold Tunis and Bizerte and control the narrow strait off Sicily. Allied paratroopers were dropped in southern Tunisia with Tripoli as their objective. Gen. Rommel's shattered Axis army in Libya would be penned in completely if the Allies can close the pincers, throw a line of ships across the gulf between Bengasi and Tripoli, and receive help from a Fighting French army expected to drive northward from southern Libya.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EAZEL L. DOUGLAS

Just before his death in 1924, Woodrow Wilson said to Lord Lothian: "The great tragedy of the last six years is the fact that the American failure to meet world responsibilities means that the job will have to be done over again in twenty years, and at ten times the cost."

What must have been his feelings to have seen his dreams crushed to the earth as they were. He went to Europe shortly after the signing of the armistice and was received as few men have been in history. His fourteen points were discussed on the steppes of Russia, in the South Sea Islands, in the jungles of Africa as eagerly as they were discussed on the boulevards of Paris and streets of London and Washington. It seemed as if Gods great servant destined to lead mankind into age-long peace had put in his appearance.

Then came the petty back-biting, the unwise diplomacy and the emergence at the council table of men with souls of monsters who thirsted for revenge, and above all wanted to see the old status re-established which would put power into their hands and into the hands of men of their class. Poor, broken Woodrow Wilson in the early twenties, saying a few halting words over the radio a short time before his death and sounding more like a ghost than a man—this was what was left of the great peacemaker after he had been shoved about by the unprincipled diplomats of Europe and manhandled by partisan politicians at home.

BUY AND USE CHRISTMAS SEALS

While the general sale of Christmas Seals by the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association will not get under way until December 1, the advance sale of bonds to business houses and others desiring them will get under way tomorrow. This advance sale is made in order to place seals in the hands of the business houses in time for use on first of the month statements and other mailings.

It is realized that many calls are being made on our people at this time, but under wartime conditions we cannot afford to overlook the necessity of full support for the work of tuberculosis control in this county, state and nation. The major part of every dollar that is spent for Christmas seals is kept right here at home for work in this county and the protection of our own people from the disease.

"Let every Christmas card, letter or package, mailed or delivered by hand in this community this Christmas bear Tuberculosis Christmas Seals" is the plea of the committee in inaugurating its annual drive.

KILL THE RATS

When we say kill the rats, this time, we are not referring to the Japs or Nazis who must be killed before victory in the war is achieved, but literally we mean the rats that are prowling about our city destroying property and spreading disease. For some plans have been underway to stage a campaign to exterminate the rats in this city and the drive got underway this morning when the workers began to put out poison in the business section. Every citizen can aid in this campaign to reduce the rat population of our community to a minimum by using closed garbage cans and clearing their premises of all possible sources of food for the rats. If the rats can find other food they will not touch the poisoned bait, but if other sources of food are removed, hunger will force them to try the bait, with the result that there will be fewer rats in our city.

lives, not to mention lives saved among the French colonials, and the vast amount of materials and shipping that would have had to be sacrificed if we had pitched into the North African front without an "understanding" with those in power.

President Roosevelt, as Commander-in-chief of the armed forces, already has recognized the vast importance of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's pre-invasion trip into Algeria. In military circles there hasn't been a word of criticism against our taking gold coins into the North African theater. We have probably done a bit of palm greasing in several other European nations, but just why a few persons should step up and declare this a treason to democracy is a bit of a mystery.

Hitler had his Quislings scattered all over the conquered nations. How much of his success was due to fifth column activity is impossible to say, but most military experts agree that his armed forces would have been impotent in many theaters without the fifth column.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—The boys here who really know what's going on are getting a snicker out of those criticisms against Admiral Darian's line on our side now.

War experts who are on their toes think that our pre-invasion dealings with the powers that be in North Africa probably saved more than 50,000 American and British erative with the Axis authorities as Admiral Darian has been. Perhaps there are other millions who are only waiting until they can see their way clear to throw off the Nazi yoke.

Not to make use of these, and even those others outside the conquered countries who are seeking only future security for themselves and their people, would be one of the greatest strategic errors the United Nations could make.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY MONFIELD

Chapter 29
The Unbelievable Happens
Susan went out to dinner Sunday night with Grace and Howard Martin. Grace had been one of her closest friends before she graduated last June, and had gotten married shortly afterwards.

"Well, how do you like him?" Grace said, nodding toward her husband.
Susan laughed out loud. "What do you expect me to do—tell you that you picked a lemon or that you found him in a rummage sale? Howard looks sweet enough and if he doesn't beat you'll pass muster."

Martin grinned. "Thanks. From what Grace said, I wasn't to get an official okay until she'd heard from you."
"You're an engineer, aren't you?" Susan said.

Martin nodded. "We specialize in excavating work. You know—boom, boom, boom and the big shovels."
"It's such a pleasant thought," Grace put in, "to know that some day you might expect to have your husband come home in scattered pieces, with someone telling you 'the dynamite went off too soon, ma'am.' Wonderful thought, isn't it?"

"Depends on the insurance he leaves," Susan said dryly.
"Dynamite isn't so bad," Martin says. "It's the TNT we have to be careful with."
"Howard once brought home a little bit of the stuff and kept it in the garage overnight for a quick getaway in the morning. I didn't sleep a wink," Grace said.

Susan laughed. She remembered what the housekeeper at Phil Humphries' apartment had told her about Phil scaring her with a small glass phial of some sort of powerful explosive. Susan wondered what it might have been.
Suddenly an idea hit her. It was just the germ of an idea, really, but it grew on her uneasily. Before dinner was over she could hardly wait until tomorrow came. Somehow Susan thought she might have a clue to Phil Humphries' Murder.

Strange Confession

Susan knocked on Dr. Stephen Coulter's office door. Dr. Coulter opened it. "Come in, my dear," he smiled. "I got your message. It's so urgent, now?"

"Dr. Coulter," Susan began earnestly. "Some time ago the police found out that Mr. Humphries might have been working on some sort of chemical invention before he was killed. If he was it might possibly be a clue. Dr. Coulter, do you know whether Phil had been working on some sort of powerful explosive?"

Dr. Coulter's head cocked with interest. "Invention? Explosive?" He shook his head. "No. No, of course not. Not to my knowledge at any rate. You must be on the wrong track, my dear. I certainly would have known."
"Well," sighed Susan. "It was just an idea I had."

Susan got a phone call from the university hospital that night. She was to go there immediately and report to a Dr. Louis. Susan, a little apprehensive, was still wondering why she was being summoned to the hospital of all places, when she was shown into Dr. Louis' office.

"Miss Drake," Dr. Louis said. "You were sent for by Dr. Stephen Coulter, the head of the university chemistry department. He is suffering from a heart attack and although he is in no imminent danger he expressed an urgent desire to see you. Dr. Louis looked at his watch. "He also sent for a detective named Lake."

Susan jumped.
She met Lake outside Dr. Coulter's room. "What's up?" she asked, and got a shrug for an answer. Dr. Louis opened the door for them.

"Good evening, Dr. Coulter. I'm sorry you're not well," Susan said, sitting down. Lake sat down next to her. Dr. Coulter looked at one, then the other.

"Thank you, my dear, but my health is of no great importance. I brought you people here to tell you that it was I who killed Philip Humphries."

The Mallet

Susan froze to her chair, petrified by the suddenness of his statement. She could only stare in disbelief at the man slightly smiling face.

Detective Sergeant Lake sucked in his breath. "You killed—you say you killed Philip Humphries?" he blurted out finally.

Dr. Coulter nodded. "Yes, it was I, and I also realize that anything I say may be used against me. But that is quite all right. This is a confession, officer. Let me tell you the entire story."

"My doctors tell me I cannot live more than six months. It's my heart. I have known this for some time. No one else knew it, though. "Philip Humphries was my pride. I had taught him, trained him, given him his first position on my staff. He was brilliant and I had fine ideas for him. I thought he would continue along the path I had set for him."

"I wanted him to do big things in chemistry, not for personal glory or wealth but for the good he could do the human race."
"I found out too late that Humphries' mind had taken off on a tangent that revolted me. Secretly he had been working on a powerful explosive, a force more powerful than most of the explosives known to man today."
"I abhor war and the violence that man imposes upon himself. I had wanted Humphries to pursue his talents to peaceful ends."
"When I discovered his secret, it was with almost fiendish glee he told me of the sickening destructiveness of his explosive. That was Philip Humphries' goal in chemistry—destruction, not creation. It was too much for me."
"I came upon him quite by accident the night he had completed his formula. Up until then I had known nothing. He couldn't help gloating over it. He was sick of working for coffee and cakes as he put it. He

DAVIS LEADS IN SCORING

Duke Back Scores Nine Touchdowns In Nine Games

Richmond, Va., Nov. 23—(AP)—Tom Davis, Duke's 186-pound fullback, rocketed into the lead of the Southern Conference scoring race by scoring four touchdowns in the Blue Devils' 47-0 rout of North Carolina State Saturday.

This gave the Duke veteran nine touchdowns in as many games for a total of 54 points this season. He scored twice against the powerful Georgia Naval Pre-flight eleven twice against Maryland and once in the North Carolina game.

Davis, a stocky standing five-foot-ten, is a junior member of Coach Eddie Cameron's club and hails from Wilson, N. C.

William and Mary's previously undefeated team was blanked 14-0 by the North Carolina Naval Pre-flighters and Harry Johnson, W. and M. fullback, who had led the point-getters for several weeks, fell behind Davis with 51 points.

Andy Victor, Citadel, kicked three points after touchdowns in a 21-9 decision over Davidson and he moved into a tie with W. and M.'s Johnny Kozrowski for third place with 50 points each.

The conference championship was last year by Duke, will be hanging in the balance when the loop clubs play three family games Thursday, W. and M. is setting the pace with three victories in as many conference starts and if the Indians come through as expected with a triumph over Richmond in their annual Turkey Day meeting here, they will clinch the 1942 crown.

Should W. and M. be defeated, Virginia Tech's strong runnerup squad could claim the title by topping VMI in their annual military contest at Roanoke. If both W. and M. and Tech lose, Wake Forest would fall heir to the throne by winding up its season with a victory over South Carolina at Charlotte Thursday. Tech has won four conference games, losing only to W. and M., while Wake Forest has annexed five loop scalps, tied N. C. State and lost to North Carolina.

Clemson plays at Auburn and Duke at the Jacksonville Naval Air school on Saturday, leaving W. and M. to wind up the 1942 campaigning at Oklahoma on December 5.

Last Saturday's big surprise was Duke's rout of a State team which hadn't lost a conference game in five previous starts and which was slated to give the Blue Devils a real battle.

W. and M. gave the Carolina Cloudbusters an even scrap for 50 minutes before yielding to the superior experience and manpower of the Chapel Hill Cadets.

Maryland won its first loop victory of the season by taking a free-scoring affair from W. and L., 32-28. Strong Miami bested South Carolina 13-6. Clemson topped Furman 12-7 to win the state championship. North Carolina overpowered Virginia 28-13. George Washington bowed to Georgetown 21-0.

Here's Georgia's "Dream Backfield"

Grain Market

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Reversing Saturday's advance, rye today led a general grain price retreat with losses amounting to more than a cent a bushel at times.

Brokers blamed the market's reaction on selling inspired partly by weakness of cotton and securities, liquidation of December contracts and lagging flour and cash grain demand. Some dealers thought peace talk from Rome may have unsettled the markets.

Wheat closed 1/4 cent lower than Saturday, December $1.25, May $1.28 1/4; corn 1/4 cent down, December 83-83 1/4, May 88 1/4-1/4; oats 1/4 cent down; rye 1/4 cent lower, December 63-63 1/4, soybeans unchanged to 1/4 higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Good news, especially the Russian offensive, served to lower stocks with an armament rating today but many market leaders in the peace division did little more than display mild resistance.

The direction was downward. The full proceedings were around 600-600 shares.

White, above, local chairman of the annual Christmas seal sale for tuberculosis control, will give her co-workers last minute instructions at a meeting tomorrow morning at nine o'clock at the health offices. This meeting is being held to start the advance sale of bonds to the business firms so they may put the seals on December 1 statements. The general campaign will start December 1. Mrs. White urges us all to buy Christmas seals this year, and to let every greeting card and gift package that goes forth from Greenville bear these seals, a sign that our community is alive to its responsibilities and, as in previous years, is doing its part in a great national drive.

Victory Service At Christian Church

Victory Thanksgiving Sunday was observed at the Eighth St. Christian Church Sunday by a large and enthusiastic audience that filled the auditorium. The special occasion was the burning of notes amounting to $2,000, representing an accumulated deficit in the current expense budget, and a mortgage of $1,500 of long standing, on the parsonage of Eighth street.

The officers of the congregation formed in a semi-circle before the pulpit while W. E. Hooker, E. B. Sugg, J. Knott, Proctor and Roy Martin proceeded to consign these evidences of indebtedness to the flames. A beautiful urn for the purpose was provided by Mrs. Travis Hooker.

During the ceremony, the ad-interim pastor, Dr. R. H. Crossfield, said that it was the firm purpose of the official board not to allow any current indebtedness to accumulate in the future.

The every-member canvas to undergird the budget for 1943 will occur on Sunday, December 6, when the membership will be asked to subscribe a larger amount for home support, and missions, benevolences and education than in former years.

Preliminary to this canvas, a dinner will be given by the ladies of the church on the evening of December 2, consisting of turkey, oysters, pumpkin pie, and other toothsome foods.

A committee to recommend a permanent pastor has been appointed, consisting of L. B. Fleming, Mrs. D. H. Conley, John Proctor, W. E. Hooker and J. Knott Proctor, and it is expected that a report will be made to the official board and to the congregation within a short time.

Dr. R. H. Crossfield, ad-interim pastor since September 1, expects to return to his home in Birmingham, Ala., by the first of the year.

B. & P. Club Women Host To Servicemen

Sailors, coast guardsmen, marines, soldiers—every branch of the United States armed forces had a week-end at the Servicemen's Center at the Woman's Club Sunday afternoon and night that was something in the nature of a Thanksgiving celebration. Sunday was a great day on the "home front" in Greenville. Several hundred servicemen, many of whom had never been here before, registered during the week-end. They were at the Woman's Club in numbers Sunday night, cheerfully expressive of their appreciation of the courtesies extended by Greenville people.

Every serviceman at the center Sunday afternoon and night was given a substantial supper—man's size slabs of boiled ham, potato salad, cheese, pickles, cakes, etc., plenty of coffee and tea, and appetizing punch from an immense bowl in front of the colonial fireplace, over which hangs a fine portrait of Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president and an active worker in the Woman's Club.

Miss Martha Lee Cowell, president, and scores of members of the Woman's Club, were typical Southern hostesses. There was an atmosphere of good cheer and friendliness about the gathering. Everybody knew everybody.

The Sunday evening "welcome to the servicemen" period was climaxed at 8 o'clock when a scheduled musical and typically war base or camp program was broadcast over the Greenville radio station with Harold Dale announcing. The program included a number of servicemen in instrumental and vocal solos, argued by a number of Greenville musicians and singers.

Boy Scout Feast Wednesday Night

Boy Scouts of Greenville will be guests of the district committee at a "werner roast" and out-door fellowship meeting at Cotanche Park, adjoining the college grounds, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. James T. Uzzle, Boy Scout executive secretary, will be master of ceremonies. This is going to be a typical Boy Scout outdoor meeting for those interested in the work to "rub elbows," discuss scouting activities and "hitch up" for better work during the coming year. Members of the Boy Scout Council, scoutmasters and assistants, and a number of friends of Boy Scouting will be guests.

L. M. (Buck) Buchanan, chairman of the Greenville Area Council, today expressed appreciation for the renewed interest in Boy Scouting. "To carry on the work successfully, we need the personal support of parents and troop leaders, and we promise to benefit every boy who takes part in scouting."

Forty-Two Lose Lives In Sinking

A Gulf Coast Port, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Forty-two members of a crew of 48 died when a medium sized British merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk within 10 seconds in November this year and had put into various Allied ports. It was bombed by the enemy but escaped damage.

Survivors have been landed at a Gulf coast port in the United States. The ship had been at sea for about 11 months and was planning on being home for Christmas.

The vessel left its home port early this year and had put into various Allied ports. It was bombed by the enemy but escaped damage.

One of the survivors had been through the evacuation of Dunkirk and had been in London during the German blitz.

The six survivors were picked up after being in the water seven hours. The captain went down with the ship.

Navy Recruiters Here Three Days

U. S. Navy recruiting officers will be in the local postoffice for the next three days to accept enlistments in the navy, especially those young men in the 18-19 year old bracket who have now become subject to the selective service draft. It was pointed out that a recent ruling makes it possible for young men 18 years of age or older to enlist in the navy without the signed consent of parents. This change in ruling was made after this age group became subject to the draft.

The recruiters here are L. B. Scrups, chief specialists in Recruiting Service, and D. R. Taylor, specialist First Class, in the Recruiting Service. They stated this afternoon that within the very near future a recruiting office would be opened here for convenience of young men in this community who desire to obtain information as to enlisting in the Navy.

Organizing Junior Boy Scouts Here

By CHESTER WALSH Plans for organizing "cub packs" in Greenville (and this means grouping of boys from nine to 12 years old into packs for junior training in Boy Scouting) are working out satisfactorily. Boy Scout Executive James T. Uzzle stated today that youngsters are taking the preliminaries of Boy Scouting and given training which makes them better boys—more useful at home and in school.

Boy Scout officials want parents to help in this work. They will appreciate the good influence "cubbing" has on their boys. Already 15 boys from nine to 12 have been registered as "cubs." They need 17 more to form a "pack," and their names will be selected. The group may be known as the Wolf Cubs or the Lion Cubs, etc. They are to meet regularly for training and instruction.

When the boys are 12 they are ready for Boy Scouting and the training that will make them better citizens, Mayor Bruce Sugg said today.

Dr. Felix E. Snider of the college is head of the "cubs." Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell is assistant. Three women have registered as "den mothers." They are Mrs. J. A. Watson, Mrs. Guy Evans and Mrs. Felix E. Snider. Mrs. Jack Foley is arranging to organize a "cub pack" of the younger boys here.

Allies Beginning... (Continued from page one) of the coast, and, according to French North African broadcasts some British and American forces had joined these French Allies.

A North African broadcast, purporting to quote a pro-Allied French communique, said German infiltration units had been thrown out of the oasis of Gafsa west of Gabes, but other infiltrations were being attempted as far north as Kairouan, 75 miles south of Tunis.

The German broadcast concerning Rommel came from the Zeesen station near Berlin and was not repeated on most German stations. Many informed observers were inclined to doubt that Rommel personally was in Tunisia.

Some informed quarters believed he is responsible for the entire North African and possibly the whole Mediterranean area, however, and pointed out that he could be in command in Tunisia without actually being on the ground.

A communique from Cairo said his forces in Libya were pushed back farther yesterday toward the El Aghelia bottleneck, the last good place for a stand short of Tripoli.

While Axis announcements indicated that Algiers and Allied forces there were under frequent air attack, Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters and Cairo headquarters showed that the Axis bases at Tripoli, Tunis and Bizerte were being heavily pounded by American four-motored bombers, Allied medium bombers and twin-engine fighters attacking from east and west.

U. S. Flying Fortresses and twin-motored Lockheed P-38 fighters of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's command blasted hangars and ware houses of the German-occupied airfield at Tunis Saturday and destroyed nine planes, four of them Messerschmitt 109s, which offered combat, it was announced at Allied headquarters in North Africa.

The bombers accounted for three of the Messerschmitts. In action for the first time against the Germans the Lockheeds shot down one and drove off the remainder. Field observers took this performance as an indication that they are equal to the best in the Nazi air force.

Heavy damage was declared inflicted on a Nazi armored column by one of the British advance detachments pushing along the north coast of Tunisia toward Bizerte and the Germans were hurried back. A headquarters spokesman said clashes in that area are "growing heavier."

The communique disclosed no details and there was similar reticence concerning a successful stand by Allied Frenchmen, "in spite of relatively severe losses," against two vigorous German attacks. Apparently referring to the same action, an unconfirmed report broadcast by the Morocco radio said that the French had repulsed a local enemy drive on the western front, destroyed four tanks and captured prisoners.

A communique from French General headquarters in North Africa said enemy infiltrations had developed along the whole front in Eastern Tunisia between Gafsa and Kairouan, the latter only 75 miles south of Tunis.

The Germans, without confirmation in Allied quarters, said a German submarine scored three torpedo hits on a warship formation and also torpedoed two freighters and a destroyer in a convoy. The Italians reported their submarines had sunk a "ship of large tonnage" off Philippeville, Algeria.

In Libya, the British Eighth Army's mobile formations wheeled around the short of the Gulf of Sirte between Agadabia and El Aghelia in the effort to complete their job of annihilation of Rommel's men.
