All-Out Drive On North African Frontions Reported to Have Begun

Allied Forces Sheltered By American Planes Advancing Into Tunis-Bizerte Fortified Zone; Allied Planes Blast Axis Supply Bases On Sicily And Dodecanese Islands

(By The Associated Press) London, Nov. 28.—(AP) The enemy acknowledged today that the reinforced Allies had launched violent attacks before the Axis Tunis-Bizerte fortified zone, the probable decisive battleground of Tunisia.

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—British submarines have sunk nine more Axis supply ships and damaged three others which were attempting to cross the Mediterranean from Italy to reinforce and provision Germans and Italians in Tripolitania and Tunisia, the Admiralty announced today.

The Paris broadcast admitted an infiltration into Axis lines in violent fighting in the Mejez El Bab region, a tactically important communications hub outside the Tunis-Bizerte fortifications arc which Allied dispatches already had reported taken.

Both Axis communiques, however, mentioned only limited, local fighting on the two North African fronts, Tunisia and Libya. The Italian war bulletin reported a raid on the Allied airfield at Bone, Algeria, where it said runways and grounded planes were hit, and the Germans claimed 20 Allied planes were shot down.

Without detail, the Algiers radio announced that the British first army—the backbone of Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British, American and French striking forces—had left its defense positions for the big offensive.

The period of patrol activity was declared completed, this within two weeks after the armored vanguards crossed the Tunisian frontier by mountain path and desert trail from AEP-occupied Algeria.

FLOUT JAP RAID ON SOLOMONS

U. S. Reinforcements And Supplies Landed Without Loss

(By J. NORMAN LODGE) Guadalcanal, Nov. 12.—(Delayed) (AP)—Tojo's Dragonflies took a terrific beating today attempting to raid the harbor waters between Guadalcanal and little Florida island where reinforcements of American soldiers and marines were being landed along with huge supplies of food, ammunition and other necessities.

Unlike the Armistice Day hit-run raid in which our losses were about half the invaders', today saw a force of torpedo planes protected by Zeros come across the mountains, over Henderson field and toward the channel to attack the landing operations.

Anti-aircraft fire opened up from land and sea, the fighter planes circled for altitude, land-based heavy cannon ripped holes in the cloud-filled sky, and when it was all over here was the box score every American can be proud of:

Japanese losses—Sixteen two-engined torpedo planes and five Zeros shot down by fighters and 11 additional planes by anti-aircraft and ship-based fire. Total 32 planes.

American losses—Four planes, and one pilot is known to be safe. That is par for any course.

Nary a one of the unloading ships was struck, not one of the unloading barges was hit and nobody among the huge landing party was injured.

The action was delightful to witness. The alert was given shortly after 2 p. m., suddenly shore gunners shouted "There they go" and put up a terrific barrage.

Torpedo planes, barely skimming the top of the water, swooped in from the east. The sky was black with these and small clouds of anti-aircraft smoke interspersed with red tracers.

From a low-flying formation a two-engined job nosed right down into the sea and the sergeant gunner reached across the cannon and marked one white chalk stripe.

In quick succession five others followed the original nip into the ocean, flared up and then disappeared beneath the calm waters.

Water-based naval craft were throwing up everything they had. By now individual anti-aircraft puffs had merged, forming a huge thunderhead of bursting steel raining into the sky.

One torpedo plane fell into the sea close by a transport ship. The pilot, his left leg hanging in shreds, floated past the starboard beam in his kapok jacket. He was fished out with boat hooks and taken ashore and buried. That's more than the Japs do with our boys under like conditions, which fortunately are not often.

The Zeros, supposedly a protection umbrella for the torpedo planes remained at a high altitude. Our planes which had been circling for altitude suddenly darted into a formation, and quick as the eye could spot them five Zeros became just that.

The raid was over in 20 minutes, but as the rumbly anti-aircraft fire died, huge clouds of green-black smoke were seen on the horizon, denoting the last raid two other Dragonflies will ever make.

The land situation on Guadalcanal remained unchanged.

U. S. Highway To Alaska Opened—Trucks Rolling

In ceremonies at Whitehorse, Yukon territory, an unidentified Canadian official (facing camera) cuts the ribbon in formally opening the new highway from the United States to Alaska. After the dedication ceremony, held in 15-below-zero weather, trucks began rolling (right) over the highway, carrying vital war supplies.

SAYS ESCAPE ONLY ROUTINE

Lone Survivor Of Wake Island Now At Home

(San Diego, Calif., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The only man to escape death or capture at Wake Island, Lieut. Col. Walter L. J. Baylor, today modestly described his departure from Wake as "simple routine."

Back in his Coronado home for the first time since the war started, Baylor said in an interview that his air journey from Wake resulted from compliance with orders—"something every marine does every day."

Baylor came here from the Solomons where he had extended duty in the aerial warfare over Guadalcanal.

Baylor had heard reports that he flew his own battered plane or that a navy patrol plane which landed at Wake was sent there for the specific purpose of bringing him out.

Other reports, Baylor said, had him on a raft, with a canoe paddle in the open ocean.

"It was the simple routine thing of following out orders that every marine does every day," Baylor related. "This plane flew in with a small amount of official mail for the units stationed on Wake. My work was finished on Wake and I was needed at Midway. My orders read to proceed by first available air transportation to Midway—and this was the first plane and the pilot had room for one."

Maj. Paul Putnam, aviation commander at Wake, asked the pilot if he would take Baylor to Midway and he consented.

Baylor brought with him a penciled letter from Major Putnam to his commanding officer, Major James Devereaux, commanding officer of marines, sent out considerable official mail, and many of the other officers and men sent out messages for their families.

Baylor left Wake last December 21, Wake fell December 23. Baylor had arrived at Wake on December 19, 1941, to establish communication facilities and was there during the first heavy Japanese attacks.

Allied Welcome Awaits Surviving French Ships

Conflicting Reports As To Whether Any Of French Fleet Escaped; London Sees Rebirth Of French Spirit

(Bern, Switzerland, Nov. 28.—A French submarine which succeeded in escaping from Toulon harbor has arrived at Barcelona, Spain, it was reliably reported today.

London, Nov. 28.—Allied ports held out the hand of welcome today for any surviving units of the martyred French fleet which defiantly chose mass suicide at Toulon rather than the clutch of Adolf Hitler.

Even as great explosions still were tearing out the vitals of the stricken men-of-war, Admiral Jean Darlan went on the air during the night to appeal to what surviving units there might be to make for the haven of United Nations bases.

Whether any of the ships got away was problematical, conflicting reports reaching London said some smaller units, possibly including submarines and destroyers, put to sea before Hitler sent his armored columns racing into the Mediterranean naval base.

Regardless of whether all the Toulon fleet was lost to the Allies, the scuttling in itself was regarded in United Nations capitals as the most hopeful symbol yet of French resurgence.

France's old glory sank into the grave," a Nazi broadcaster said. "But Allied observers here saw in the picture the first stage in the 'resurrection of France.' The reported destruction of some 60 warships was regarded as a severe setback for Germany and a lift for the Allied navies.

(The BBC quoted a British correspondent as saying that "some French destroyers" had escaped.) (Continued on Page Five)

Anti-Ration Drive Starts Against Henderson

(Washington, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Abandoning efforts to block nationwide gasoline rationing, a growing group of congressmen launched a new fight today against Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

Their announced aim is to force his removal from the federal service through appropriations.

The futility of carrying on the fight against rationing order for December 1 was conceded by Rep. Boren (D-Okla.) who said any legislation to stop it would draw a certain veto.

But Boren and others who had joined him in the fight rallied around a new battle cry sounded yesterday in the House by the beligerent Oklahoman:

"Trillions for defense, but 15 cents for Leon Henderson is 15 cents too much."

They referred to appropriation bills to be considered early in the new Congress, through which the Office of Price Administration obtains its operating funds.

WOMAN SLAYER TO DIE TODAY

"Toni Jo" Henry To Die In Louisiana Electric Chair

(Lake Charles, La., Nov. 28.—(AP)—All legal channels exhausted, Mrs. Annie Beatrice (Toni Jo) Henry calmly sat in her prison cell today awaiting a trip shortly after noon to the electric chair to pay with her life for a St. Valentine Day 1940 murder.

The black-haired 26 year old wife of Convict Claude (Cowboy) Henry appeared to have been braced by the granting of her last request—a telephone conversation with her husband yesterday. Henry spoke sobbingly to her from the Huntsville, Texas, penitentiary where he is serving a 50 year term for murder.

Ironically, the desire of the couple, to aid each other brought on the death sentence for Toni Jo, and put two escapes against the prison record of her husband.

Following her arrest for the shooting of Joseph P. Galloway, Houston, Texas, salesman, she explained she had intended to use Galloway's car to rob a bank in order to obtain money with which

Movement of mechanized equipment into Tunisia by both the Allies and the Axis is on a scale to suggest that battles of maneuver will persist throughout much of Lieut. K. A. N. Anderson's budding offensive.

New tank destroyers of the U. S. armored force—tread-tracked speedsters mounting 106 millimeter guns—were among the cargoes of the North African AEP and should help provide the edge needed finally to open up the Germans and Italians or drive them into the sea.

SLOW ADVANCE IN NEW GUINEA

Allies Closing In On Japs At Buna Step By Step

By G. YATES McDANIEL

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Fighting for every foot, American and Australian soldiers edged forward step by step toward Buna today after beating back two sharp counter-attacks by desperately resisting Japanese pocketed around that eastern New Guinea base.

Apparently using reinforcements landed at a cost of five warships, the Japanese struck out in efforts to break the ring pinning them to a coastal area of some 40 square miles, but were thrown back with heavy losses, today's noon communique said.

After this diversion the Allies resumed their advance, moving in the same way that they have been since the enemy took a stand ten days ago within strongly prepared positions along the 12 miles of coast between Buna and Gona.

The carefully hidden machine-gun nests and mortar emplacements of the defenders are scouted out, softened by artillery of bombs, if possible, then overwhelmed by the swift thrust of jungle fighters skilled in use of grenades, rifles, pistols and light machineguns. Usually it is necessary to kill all the Japanese in the position.

Then the operation starts all over again on the next stronghold.

The communique said Allied airplanes continued to aid the ground troops all they could by repeated heavy strafing and bombing of the Japanese lines.

Phenomena of the fighting was apparent in a Sydney war correspondent's dispatches describing an engagement early this week. Two Australian Imperial companies killed 150 Japanese but lost 66 of their own number in taking an enemy gun which had been holding up the Allied advance near Soputa a few miles from Buna, he said.

Elsewhere in the southwestern Pacific theater, Allied medium bombers attacked and destroyed enemy occupied buildings at Nova Lisa and Becho on the island of Timor and an enemy submarine was bombed at night with unobserved results in the Gulf of Huon off the New Guinea coast.

Kirtrell and others helped with the sale of the bonds. The War Bond sales totaled $18,000. Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club sold $10,000 worth.

Santa Claus will be on the streets and in the stores regularly from December 11 until Christmas. The stores will be open evenings beginning December 17.

U. S. Freighter Sunk

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that a medium-sized U. S. merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the north Atlantic early in November. Survivors have landed at a United States east coast port.

Last Of Germans Are Cleared Out Of Don Elbow Area; Reds Recapture Important City Kletskaya; Surrounded Nazis Are Being Attacked From Front And Rear

(Moscow, Nov. 28.—(AP) The Red army has cleared the last German soldier out of the Don elbow west of Stalingrad and the remaining enemy forces, corralled in a rapidly closing ring of Russian guns and bayonets, are being hurled back east upon the bayonets of the Stalingrad garrison, front-line reports said.

Closing an important gap in its curving line, army dispatches reported the recapture of Kletskaya, Cossack city on the west bank of the Don 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad and a stronghold which had been in enemy hands since last August.

The Russians had by passed Kletskaya early in the new offensive. While one force was taking this town, Pravda said, another swung east after an arching thrust from above Stalingrad and closed the Russian trap about the Nazi force on the west bank of the Don.

(The military correspondent of Reuters, British news agency, reported in London that the Russian pincers had closed on the Don below Kalach, rail town 40 miles west of Stalingrad, thus completing encirclement of the large Nazi force in the pocket southwest of Stalingrad.)

The Germans were reported counter-attacking frequently and futilely after being hurled to the east bank of the Don. Anticipating the Nazi moves, the Red Army said its forces were methodically trapping and exterminating the enemy groups one by one.

Here is the picture of the vast Russian operation as drawn from front-line dispatches:

One force which started from northwest of Stalingrad was looping back toward the city, from a southeasterly direction, driving the enemy eastward across the Don into the giant plain between the Don and Volga where other Soviet forces were pressing the Nazis from all directions.

A second force was driving west along the Stalingrad-Rostov railroad while still a third column was moving southwest along the line running from Stalingrad to Kransnodar, in the Caucasus.

Inside Stalingrad the Germans were being driven from street positions after a maneuver in which units of the crack Soviet guard in the northern and southern sections effected a union and launched a frontal assault. This ejected the (Continued on Page Six)

College Vesper Services.
At last night's vesper service at the college, Miss Emma Hooper of the English faculty, read to a most attentive group Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Chastening" a beautifully told account in play form of the understanding of the future that came to the parents of the child Jesus on the return from Jerusalem in the occasion when he had remained behind to talk with the learned men in the temple.
The theme of the play is the planning of the parents for the occupation each would like the Child to enter. Joseph wishing to make him a carpenter and Mary desiring to see him a priest, and the realization that comes to them of what his real occupation is to be. As Joseph gives up his pride he finds that it is his privilege to teach the Child the meekness of the strong, and when Mary discards her ambition and accepts the sacrifice she is to make, she learns that her Son needs to learn from her the courage of the gentle and unassuming.
The program was given in the "Y" Hut with Miss Ruth McHan of Almond, presiding and leading the devotional.
Miss Mabel Watson of Fremont, is in charge of the Friday night programs.
The service tomorrow night will be led by a group of freshmen, members of the "Freshman Y."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Clothing for the average enlisted man in Uncle Sam's Army when he begins duty costs $30.35. Regular issue for the soldier includes one woolen coat at a cost of $8.75. There are millions of soldiers already in uniform and more millions to come.

It will be necessary for at least 30,000,000 men and women on industrial payrolls to invest at least ten percent of wages in War Bonds in a Payroll Savings Plan to help pay for these and other war expenditures. "Top that ten percent by New Year's" is the national slogan to back up our boys in that uniform. U. S. Treasury Department to facilitate Henry's prison release Galloway was flagged down at Orange, Texas, by Mrs. Henry and an accomplice. Posing as hitch-hikers they overpowered him, crammed him into the luggage compartment of his own car. Later Mrs. Henry shot Galloway after first ordering him into an ice-cold rice field where, stripped of clothes, he knelt in prayer for his life.

Mrs. Henry twice was granted new trials by the State Supreme Court. Following her final conviction and announcement of the death sentence for early August of this year, Henry escaped his Texas prison, presumably to attempt her rescue. He was captured and shortly afterward his wife's attorneys secured a stay of execution by attacking the constitutionality of Louisiana's new electrocution law.

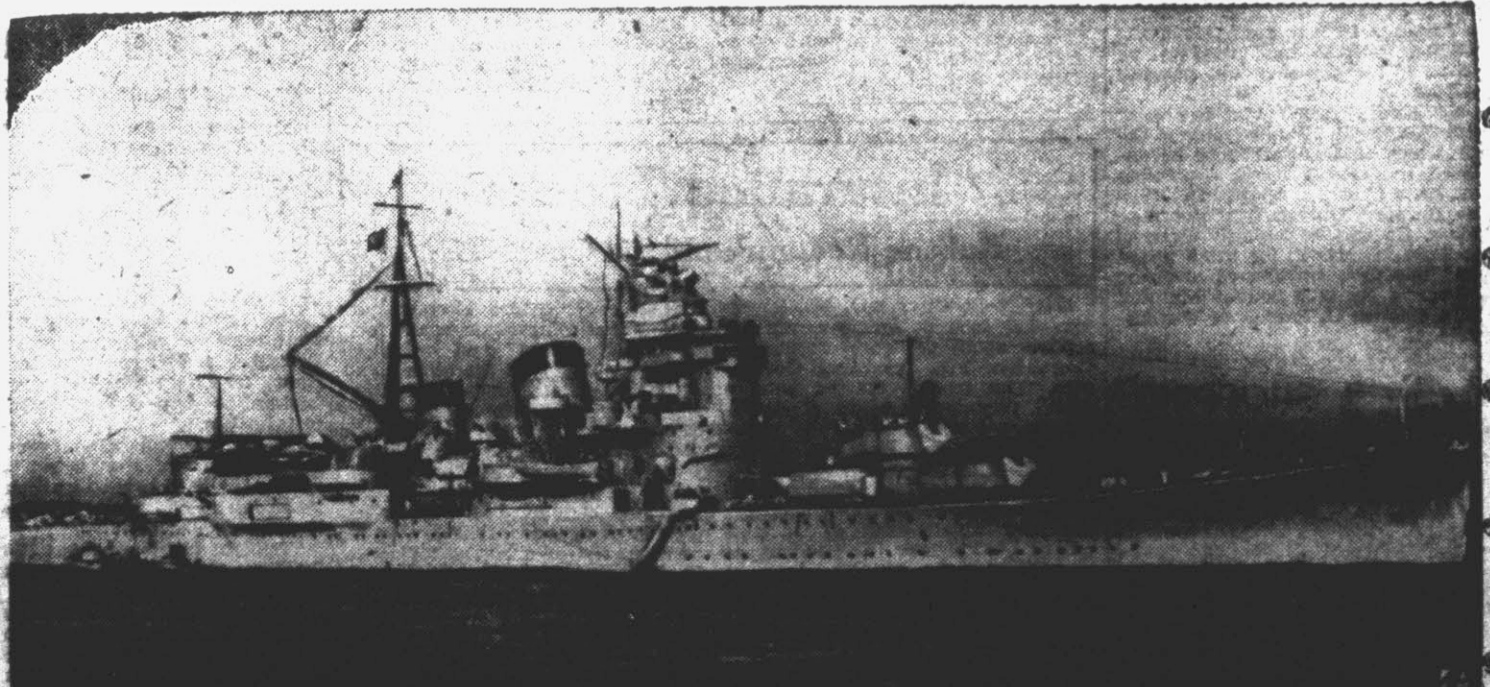

Several months later the United States Supreme Court upheld the law, again the date for her death was set, this time for November 28. Henry broke free a second time in a futile effort to reach Lake Charles. Mrs. Henry was openly joyful over his capture alive, saying she feared for her mate's life.

Recaptured

Five days before his wife, Mrs. Annie Beatrice (Tom) Jo Henry, was scheduled to be electrocuted at Lake Charles, La., for the slaying of a salesman from Houston, Tex., Claude E. (Cowboy) Henry (above) escaped from a Texas prison, and was reported headed toward Louisiana. He was recaptured before reaching his destination.

Arrested!

Richard Julius Herman Krebs (above), who wrote a sensational book, "Out of the Night," on his experiences as a Gestapo and OGPU agent under the name of Jan Valtin, has been arrested near Bethel, Conn., on a warrant ordering his deportation to Germany. U. S. Attorney General Egidio said the order was based on alleged violation of immigration acts.

INVITE TULSA TO SUGAR BOWL

Oponent For Oklahoma Team To Be Selected After Today's Games

New Orleans, Nov. 23—(AP)—Sugar Bowl officials announced today that Tulsa university, unbeaten and untied this season, would play in the ninth annual Sugar Bowl football game January 1 against an opponent to be selected after today's final contests.

Mentioned as probable for the other selection were Boston College, favorite among those close to Sugar Bowl circles, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama all of which have games scheduled for today.

Boston College, which defeated Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl in 1941, plays its traditional rival Holy Cross today and Sugar Bowl officials pointed out that it was their policy not to announce a selection before the completion of schedule.

Joe David, president of the Sugar Bowl, announced that Tulsa which completed its perfect ten-game schedule with a 40-7 defeat of Arkansas Thanksgiving day, had accepted an invitation to play here and that "several teams" were under consideration for its opponent.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Nov. 23—(AP)—Even though the armed forces move into the colleges to an even greater extent than they already have it doesn't necessarily mean the end of football for the duration. . . . Big-time football will have tough sledding, anyway, but after soaking up some of the enthusiasm for the game shown by officers at the Navy pre-flight schools, we're convinced that football will be played somewhat as long as the Navy is training fliers. . . . Incidentally, there's a drive on to sign up physical instructors for an expanded pre-flight program that soon will be put into effect. . . . And when you read about Col. "Blondy" Saunders, former player and coach at West Point, landing a flaming bomber after the pilot had been killed, it seems pretty good proof that they know what they're talking about when they say footballers make good fliers.

Today's Guest Star
Pvt. Mel Wissman, Fort Sheridan (Ill.) Tower: "Gold readies civilians for army training, says John E. Kelly, physical fitness director. We agree. We even wish the Army would issue niblicks instead of entrenching tools. Then we could drop a golf ball and dig a fox hole in record time."

Too, Too
George (old man Yale) Trevor of the New York Sun tells this one on an official who worked in last week's Harvard-Yale game last week. Seems the whistle-blower's two sons were in the stands and when the horn blew to nullify Don Richards' 64-yard touchdown run, the nine-year-old asked: "Which of those darned officials robbed Harvard of that touchdown?" . . . "I think it was daddy," their mother whispered. . . . "They were plenty peeved," the official explained, "they shrieked in unison, 'we hate daddy!'" from Toulon and might be en route to North Africa. The broadcast was heard by the POC. Earlier it was reported two submarines made their way out of the harbor which had held three battleships, four heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, 25 destroyers, a seaplane tender and 27 submarines.

Although all information concerning Toulon came from German-controlled sources there was little disposition in London to question the accounts of the scuttling. Observers said that Allied reconnaissance planes probably had already brought back pictures of the harbor scene and that the Germans would know there would be swift detection of a hoax there.

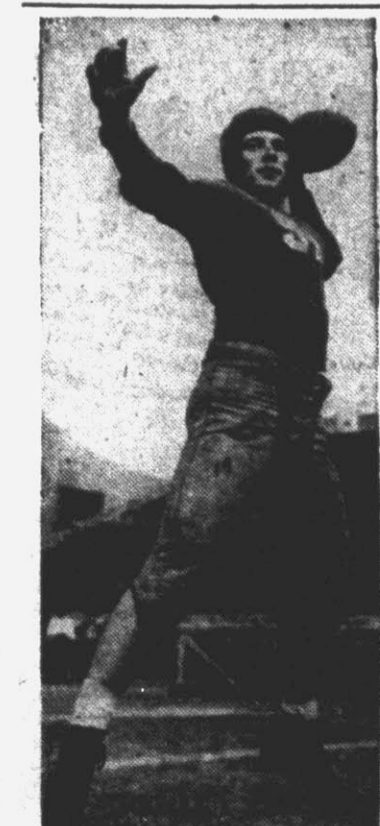

This morning members of the Fighting French navy and the Admiralty staff here in London marched to the French Admiralty courtyard and observed a minute's silence in tribute to the French sailors who died at Toulon. Flags at Fighting French headquarters and the Admiralty were at half mast.

General Charles De Gaulle and Admiral Philippe-Marie Auboyneau commander-in-chief of the fighting French navy, ordered all flags on Fighting French ships half masted today and observance of a one-minute silence at 10 a. m. in memory of the French sailors who died with their ships.

The Daily Express naval commentator W. A. Crumley expressed the belief that the Germans probably would not even attempt to salvage the estimated 230,000 tons of warships. It would take the best part of two years to float and refit them, he said.

It was generally agreed that the elimination of the Toulon fleet as a possible hostile force ended a major Allied anxiety that the warships might be united with the Italian fleet in the Mediterranean.

Try Our Want Ads

On the eve of the Georgia Tech-Georgia football game at Athens today, there's a feud a-goin' on between gridiron disciples as to whether Clint Cassberry (left), Tech's sensational freshman backfield ace, is as good as Frankie Slavovich (right), the Georgia football Cashberry followers are demanding a place for him on the All-American team. They cite his record of 467 yards gained on the ground in 35 tries, an average of 8.5 yards per try, compared with Slavovich's 354 runs for 283 yards, or 5.3 yards per run.

Start Drive On Venereal Disease

Chicago, Nov. 23—(AP)—An unexampled attempt to stop the spread of venereal disease begins tomorrow in Chicago.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace will dedicate the nation's first intensive treatment center for gonorrhea and syphilis, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, predicted it would blaze a new trial in the war against social diseases.

The Federal Works Agency has approved a grant of $425,000 to operate the center during the first year. Dr. Bundesen declined to make public the types of treatment to be used, but he guaranteed that patients would be made "non-infective safely, quickly."

Men rejected by the army because of venereal disease may also be treated here, as well as war workers whose efficiency has been lowered by social infections.

adjust losses. I further think highly of the stocks of well-established independent fire insurance companies have an advantage in being able to raise their rates to meet any emergency—a privilege not enjoyed by life companies.

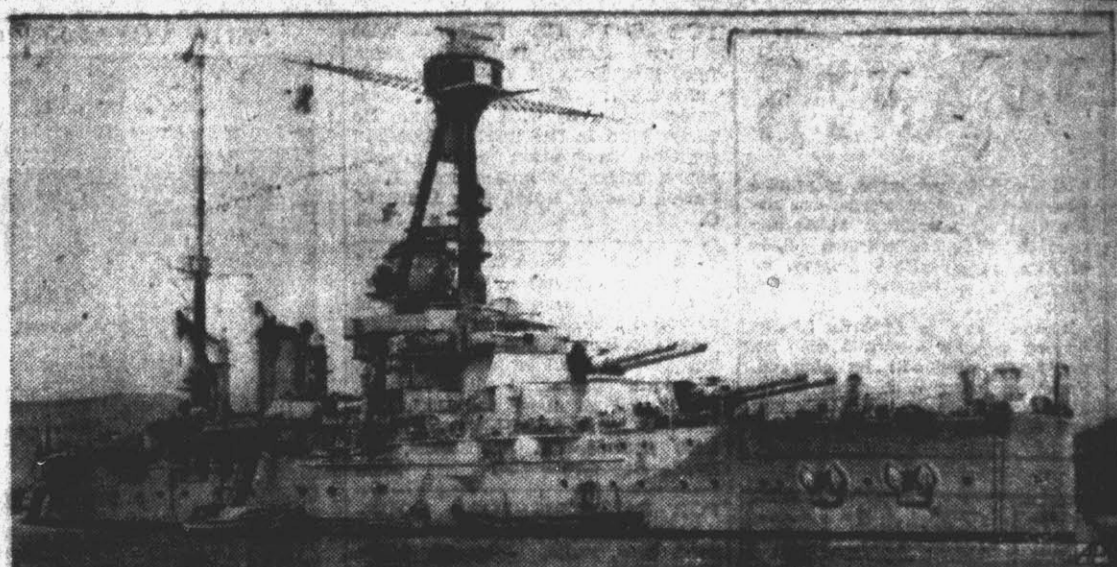

The future of health and accident companies is not so clear. Most of their policies are now for small amounts with working people. If Social Security is enlarged to include health and accident, these companies may suffer. The wise ones are already hedging by taking on other lines. The Casualty group are the newest in the field. Thus far they have been very successful; but how they will survive the war, only the future can tell.

The government already owns one of the largest in the field.

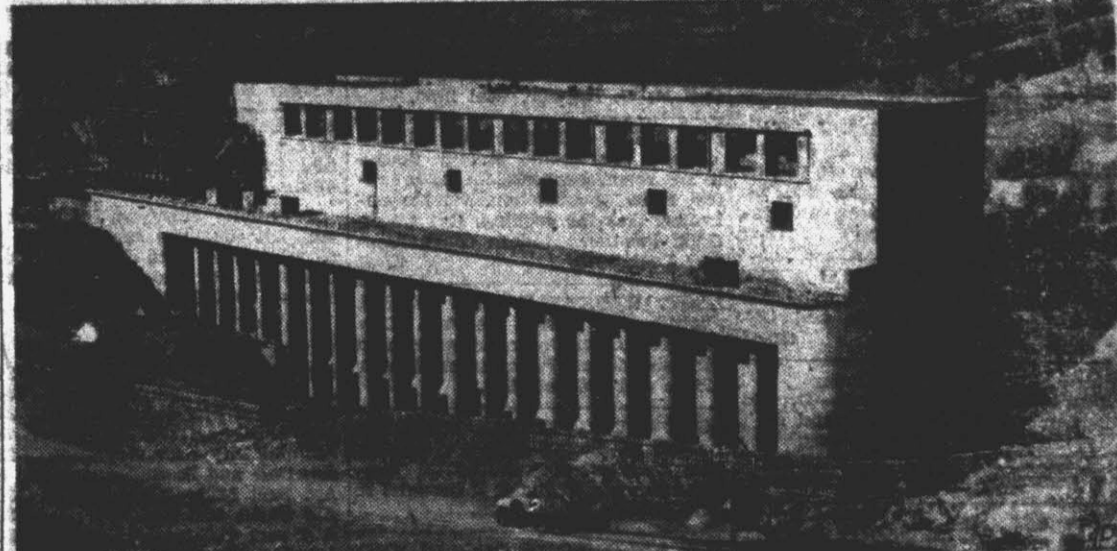

An Honorable Business
The insurance business has always appealed to me as a most honorable business. It comes the nearest to Christian teaching of any big business. Through insurance, when a family loses its father by death, or its home by fire, or its employment by illness, or gets involved in an unfortunate lawsuit, all the "neighbors" chip in and help pay the loss. The loss, which would otherwise fall on one family, is spread over thousands of families. Money invested in an insurance company can do a lot of good, be fairly safe and return a good income. In fact, due to their experience and set up, insurance companies have an opportunity of becoming leaders in the new co-operative commonwealth ahead.

But why this government investigation? The answer is that too many insurance companies have gotten into the hands of Wall Street and other financiers are being operated as helpless members of "fleets." Of course, the difficulty is that the reputations of good, independent companies, which are not mixed up with "fleets" or Wall

Selectivity ruled at the start in sluggish dealings and, near the close, trends were notably cloudy. Transfers for the two hours were around 300,000 shares.

China's First Lady In America Again

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, famed first lady of China's fighting millions, is back today in America—the land of her school days.

This time it was the after-effects of an accident on one of her daring trips to the Sino-Japanese battlefield that brought the wife of China's generalissimo to the United States. When or how she arrived was not disclosed.

But there was immediate speculation that her trip might also spell new anti-Japanese strategy as well as cement more firmly the fighting efforts of the two allied nations.

After treatments are concluded, she will visit President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the announcement said.

Churchill Will Broadcast Sunday

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will make a world-wide broadcast tomorrow on the even of his 68th birthday.

The prime minister, who so often has come to the microphone with bad news, will be able to paint a brighter turn in world events.

The broadcast is scheduled for 9 p. m. (4 p. m. eastern war time).

From the German-dominated Paris radio came another claim of effective action against Allied supply lines.

Without confirmation from other quarters, it broadcast a Madrid dispatch which said that a big convoy which left Gibraltar Thursday was reported back at the British base after suffering "important losses" under attacks by U-boats and planes.

The approach of decisive combat within Tunisia had been indicated by the Berlin radio yesterday with the announcement of a clash at Mateur, on the coastal railway 25 miles south of Bizerte and 40 miles northwest of the capital.

A DNB dispatch broadcast from Berlin today said Allied forces in the Tunisia highlands had been strengthened "by several more units," recently, but declared they apparently were waiting for more weapons and greater air support before attacking.

It said German planes repeatedly raided Allied tank and supply columns and shot down 12 British aircraft.

Hard fighting has been forecast by Allied commentators in the final phase of the efforts to squeeze shut the vise upon Hitler's last North African strongholds.

Chas. Michelson Quits Politics

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Charles Michelson, 73-year-old publicist chief of the Democratic National Committee, has fired his last verbal barrage, he said, at the Republican party.

The veteran reporter, author and a ghost writer par excellence of Democratic campaign speeches for 13 years finally has done what he—and many Republicans—wanted for a long time: put the cover on his battered typewriter at party headquarters and quit politics for good.

"I'm straightening out a few things at the office," Michelson said today, "but officially, I'm no longer with the committee."

Three Injured In Hotel Fire

Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 28.—(AP)—One hundred guests were routed in their nightclothes from the 250-year-old Hotel Packer early today when fire swept through the two upper floors of the four-story brick frame structure.

A score of persons fled down ladders or jumped into nets from the third and fourth floors. Others descended fire escapes, while others left by inside stairways.

Three British sailors, the only casualties, were injured.

Mussolini Is Reported Ill

Montevideo, Uruguay, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Reports from a reliable South American diplomatic source said today that Premier Mussolini was gravely ill and, if he became fully incapacitated, might be succeeded by a government likely to discuss a separate peace for Italy.

Nazi Forces ...

(Continued from page one) Nazi detachments, estimated as high as 20,000 men, hastily moved in to take over major fortifications of the French protectorate. However, Anderson's legion is likewise strong in planes and armored units and the heavy guns necessary for action against fixed obstacles.

Some slackening in the pace of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British eighth army in the pursuit of Marshal Rommel's battered forces across the vast reaches of Libya has been indicated by Cairo communiqué this week.

U. S. Secretary of War Stimson said yesterday that the Germans were expected to make a determined stand before El Aghella corridor.

Stalingrad Railway Station Battered—But Trains Run

This is the battered remains of the main railway station in Stalingrad, splintered and twisted after weeks of siege—but the Russian defenders were able to keep tracks in repair and continued to move equipment and supplies in to the beleaguered forces. As a consequence, they held sections of the city—and now have placed German invaders in a precarious position.

(These reports were similar to those of a few days ago from London to the effect that disaffected military leaders in Germany were forming a Junkers Junta with a view to isolating Hitler and taking control of the government. There is a possibility that all were inspired by Axis leaders in an effort to promote over-confidence among the United Nations.)

The South American source whose name could not be disclosed, said Mussolini was suffering from stomach ulcers complicated by heart trouble.

Kotelnikovsk, but these thrusts were reported through back. Six hundred Germans were listed as killed in a successful Soviet advance in another sector of the Stalingrad area. A large enemy column was reported routed, 11 tanks destroyed and several hundred prisoners taken in another area.

Heavy fighting apparently persisted in the Don river bend some 50 miles west of Moscow, where the Russians seek to wipe out spots of German resistance and build up a thick barrier of Russian-held positions between the Stalingrad attackers and possible escape of the west.

Guerrilla and artillery activity was reported in the Black sea zone around Tuapse, near Nalchik in the mid-Caucasus and on the Karelian and Minsk fronts to the north.

Before Stalingrad the Russians were reported to have taken four more towns—Verkhny-Gnolovsky, Marinovka, Novo-Aksaiski and Zarya—yesterday while the reinforced garrison continued to edge the invaders out of the city bit by bit.

In the northern part of the city a Soviet unit was credited with a 450 yard advance. The Germans were reported run out of several buildings in the factory district.

Estimated Axis casualties in dead and captured rose past 118,000 through last night. The figures of the communiqué, however, indicated that the volume and pace of the fighting had slackened and the Soviet information bureau, for the first time in five days, issued no special report on the Volga-Don offensive.

(The German radio declared that the Soviet drive in the Stalingrad area could be considered stopped, but reported heavy Russian attacks still going on in the northwestern sector, between Moscow and Leningrad. The midnight communiqué made no mention of this area.)

The Germans were said to be counterattacking strongly southwest of Stalingrad, where the Red forces have been showing a strong Stalingrad-Novosibirsk railroad toward Northwest of Tuapse on the Black Sea the Russians claimed the capture of an important height in renewed offensive fighting.

Large Nazi food stores and hundreds of additional prisoners were officially declared to have been captured.

The Red army maintained the initiative in the drive begun November 19 from northwest and south of Stalingrad, the midnight communiqué showed, but it was apparent that the Germans were counterattacking in force and throwing in fresh troops in an effort to prevent full entrapment of the Axis soldiers in and hard by Stalingrad, estimated at 300,000.

The Army newspaper Red Star said that not a single German was left on the west bank of the Don in the battle sector west of Stalingrad and further advances were claimed northwest and southwest of the city despite German reinforcements and a heavy snow that hampered fighting.

Some 300,000 Axis troops still at Stalingrad also appeared to be in growing danger from Red army forces reported overcoming strong counterattacks and pushing westward toward the Don bend across a German-held corridor stretching southwest from the beleaguered city.

Yawning cracks appeared in streets and lawns, the largest five feet long, 150 feet long and so deep that the bottom was not visible.

Two hundred homes were twisted cracked or sprung from their foundations. Sidewalks were torn up and gas and water mains snapped in several places. Water cascaded through the streets and flooded cellars.

The cave-in began at about 5:15 p. m. and before the last earth trembles were felt early today the earth had sunk two to two and a half feet.
