Four Russian Armies Reported Closing In On Germans At Rostov

Twenty More Towns Reported Captured By Reds In Caucasus Area; Russians Say Germans Resorting To Same Old 'Lies' About Shortening Their Lines

By HENR C. CASSIDY Moscow, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Despite cold rains and light, melting snows that converted roads into bogs and turned the Caucasus campaign temporarily into an "engineers' offensive," four Russian armies plunged steadily ahead today in their giant enveloping movement against the Germans in the whole lower area of the eastern front.

Red army technicians followed the retreating enemy closely and removed thousands of land mines. Thirty-four thousand mines were estimated to have been neutralized in a single sector in the past two weeks. Fog reduced visibility in some sectors to 100 yards, the army newspaper Red Star reported. Nevertheless, the Russians were reported advancing rapidly toward the north and west in the Caucasus. Red Star said that the provinces of North Osetia and Kabardin-Balkari already had been liberated, with the battle approaching the Stavropol district.

The Germans were described as "fighting like beasts in a cage" as the Russians proceeded methodically to clean out the northern factory district in Stalingrad. The Nazis refused to yield any point without a struggle, Red Star said, and the Russians took house after house in hand-to-hand combat. Red army artillery silenced enemy guns while Soviet shock troops surrounded and stormed individual German positions.

The drive toward Rostov was reported farthest advanced where the troops of Lieut. Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky pushed through Strakhov, about 65 miles east of the Don river port. South of his pathway west, the legions of Col. Gen. Yeremenko had taken Zimovniki, 125 miles southwest of Stalingrad on the railway that leads down from that city through recaptured Kozminskoye toward Salsk and Tikhoretsk.

North of the Rokossovsky column was that of General Nikolai F. Vatutin, which was mopping up German garrisons in their region between the Stalingrad-Likhaya railroad and the north bank of the Don. The Soviet army's newspaper Red Star said that several days of battle preceded the capture of Zimovniki. The Germans had fortified the town and the railroad station strongly in an effort to check the Russian drive down the railroad, the army journal reported, and as the Soviet troops were about to enter the besieged center the Germans launched a counter-attack at its gates with infantry and tanks.

The Red army repulsed the assaults, outflanked the German positions and drove out the enemy troops in vicious street fighting, the dispatches said. German elite troops attempted to hold out in one quarter of the city, laying down a heavy barrage with artillery and mortars but their position was flanked and they were finally driven out by attacks from several directions, Red Star said. The early Soviet communiqué today said that Vatutin's men had captured Medvezhka, lower Vozayov and upper Vozayov in yesterday's operations. These were points south of recaptured Valkovo, the rail junction 60 miles east of Likhovitskiy.

SEEK DELAY IN POST WAR PLAN

The Senators Believe "Wait And See" Policy Best

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A tendency to avoid blueprint formulas for the post-war structure indicated today among the Senators who were told by President Roosevelt they might have a hand in building it.

Some who spoke for the record and some speaking privately informed an interviewer they preferred to wait and see whether Americans themselves wanted nationalism, internationalism or some middle of the road policy. The President's statement to Congress Thursday that it was "within the realm of possibility" the present Congress may help greatly to save the world from future fear was amplified at a press conference yesterday, when he expressed hope that the war might be won in 1944.

Similarly, Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of American naval forces in European waters, told reporters today he held to his previously voiced opinion the war would be "long and tough" but that next year "we will be coming along with such power that we can afford to smash in anywhere."

Home for consultations, Stark asserted that the whole problem of the war's conduct now "comes down to shipping and in that respect the greatest menace is the submarine. Present shipping losses, he observed, "are something to be mighty uncomfortable about."

The "wait and see" attitude toward post-war plans, said those Senators speaking "off the record," is based on a belief that Americans are still essentially nationalistic. They expressed doubt that other nations would be so forthcoming in "agreements" which would want to take a stand until they knew the temper of the returning soldiers.

Senator Austin (R-Vt) The unofficial Republican whip, who has been considered anti-isolationist, said for instance that the proposal of Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota for a United Nations of the world with a single Parliament is "a very thought-provoking" idea.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), on the other hand, called the Stassen plan "cockeyed." Wheeler was identified with the so-called non-interventionists before Pearl Harbor. Stassen suggested that the nations be represented in the world parliament on the basis of their literate populations.

"How are you going to determine literacy?" asked Wheeler, "who is going to judge the standard; secondly, the United States of America is not going to give up her sovereignty or any part of her sovereignty to some world power."

Nazi Battleship Tirpitz In Norwegian Hide-Out

British sources say this is the first authentic picture of the great German battleship Tirpitz in her Norwegian hide-out—up in one of the many fjords which indent the country's coastline. The photo was merely captioned "German battleship in Norway" when it reached England via an undisclosed route, but the British Admiralty confirmed it is the Tirpitz.

SOLONS FAVOR NEW TAX PLAN

"Pay-As-You-Earn" Proposal Gaining Support

By JACK BELL Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Wider collection of taxes at the source of income was advocated by congressional leaders today to implement a pay-as-you-go plan given the qualified endorsement of President Roosevelt.

Three ranking members of the Senate Finance Committee—Chairman George (D-Ga.), Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis), the senior minority member and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), the senior Republican member—proposed in separate interviews that the withholding method employed to collect the 5 per cent victory tax be extended to the regular income levy.

All three have favored modified versions of the plan advanced by Beardsley Ruml, New York merchant and banker, to put income tax collections on a current basis by excusing or postponing the payment of one year's levies. All three said, however, that any such system must be carried out by requiring periodic payments by requiring year through deductions from pay checks and other similar methods.

George said he thought it would be absolutely necessary, not only from the standpoint of the taxpayer but from that of the government. "We will have to take a realistic view and get on a pay-as-you-earn payment," he said. While this might cause some eventual loss to the Treasury when taxpayers died, he added, current collections would remain the same.

LaFollette foresaw "a great disappointment" in the yield of the tax laws if some version of the Ruml plan were not adopted. Vandenberg said it is obvious the country is now in a period of inflation economy, despite all of the controls being exercised, and predicted it will be followed by a deflated era after the war when taxpayers by the millions will be forced into delinquency.

Immanuel Church Retires All Debts

For a number of years the members of the Immanuel Baptist Church have been paying on a parsonage debt of long standing. Following the lead of several interested laymen, the pastor of the church launched a quiet effort to meet all existing obligations in full. Many people supported the campaign with the result that Sunday morning will be a time of thanksgiving and jubilation at the conclusion of the worship.

A bit more than $2,000.00 was paid on existing debts during the last six months with the result that the church is free from all debt, an unusual experience for many modern churches. During the time which this concerted drive was taking place, the Eighth Street Christian Church, the closest neighbor church likewise raised a considerable amount of money and retired its financial deficit. This proved an encouraging factor to the neighbor church in a similar effort.

Air Attacks On Japs In Solomons And Aleutians

Three Jap Transports Sunk And 38 Planes Downed By Allied Fliers Off New Guinea

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—American bombers in a raid on a Japanese base in Rekita bay in the Solomons started fire in shore installations, the Navy reported today in a communiqué which told also of new air attacks on enemy bases at Bougainville and Kiska.

The text of the communiqué, No. 245: "1.—On January 7th, a force of Liberators heavy bombers (Consolidated B-4) dropped bombs on enemy positions in Kiska. Results were not observed. "South Pacific: (all dates are East Longitude) "2.—On January 7: "A) During the morning a force of Flying Fortress heavy bombers (Boeing B-17) bombed enemy areas on the island of Bougainville. Twelve Japanese Zero fighters attacked the fortresses. Two Zeros were shot down. No. S. planes were lost.

"B) A force of Marauder medium bombers (Martin B-26) with Albatross (Bell P-39) escort attacked enemy installations at Rekita bay on Santa Isabel island. Fires were started and two enemy float-type planes were damaged. Two U. S. planes were shot down by enemy anti-aircraft fire. "Rekita bay is about 135 miles northwest of Guadalcanal airfield. The Japanese have been established there for some months, but the attack reported today was the first our forces have made there in some time.

It was taken to indicate that the enemy has been strengthening his forces there recently. Kiska is the frequently bombed Jap base in the Aleutians. Allied headquarters in Australia, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A badly battered Japanese convoy—three of its transports at the bottom of the Pacific and a fourth damaged—was pursued into the harbor of Lae, New Guinea, and there, along with the landing area and other enemy beach installations, was given a merciless pounding yesterday, an Allied communiqué reported today.

While the aerial hammering at Lae continued in America, and Australian troops closed in on the only remaining pocket of Japanese resistance in the Buna region at Sanananda, General Douglas MacArthur returned to Australia from the New Guinea battle front with high praise for the Australian and American forces under his command. He awarded distinguished service crosses to 12 American and Australian officers "for extraordinary courage, marked efficiency and precise execution of operation during the Papuan campaign" and said in an order of the day that the "Victory which has been achieved would have been impossible of accomplishment without the vincible leadership which they have provided."

Says Dutch Navy Back In Action In South Pacific

Editor's Note: Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich, who commanded Allied naval forces in the battle of the Java sea, was ordered to Colombo last March to reorganize the shattered Netherlands sea units after the Japanese conquest of the East Indies. He is now in the United States, after consultations with the government in London, and here, writing for the Associated Press and the Aneta News Agency, he reports the Dutch navy back in action and summarizes today's situation there (see page 1).

By VICE ADM. C. E. L. HELFRICH Commander-in-Chief, Netherlands Forces In The Far East Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A year ago tomorrow, the news reached me at Batavia that the Japanese had made landings on Tarakan, off the east coast of Borneo, and on the northern peninsula of the island of Celebes. This was the blow we had been awaiting, the beginning of the invasion we had expected for months. In two short months, the Japanese were to conquer the bulk of our beloved islands. We had not waited for the blow to fall. As early as June 1941, I was convinced that the Japanese were preparing to open hostilities with

RAF BOMBERS RAID GERMANY

Ruhr Valley Industries Hit Fourth Time This Week

London, Jan. 9.—(AP)—RAF bombers attacked industrial targets in Germany's Ruhr valley last night for the fourth time this week, it was announced officially today. Five British aircraft were reported missing from the night's operations, indicating an attack by perhaps 100 planes. No official details were given immediately of the raid's scope or specific targets however.

It was the second night in succession that the big British bombers had carried their destruction to the maze of steel mills and heavy industrial plants in the Ruhr and the fourth attack this year. British aircraft also laid mines in enemy waters during the night, it was announced. The Berlin radio gave the first information concerning the presence of the bombers over Germany, announcing they had flown over northern and western Germany.

The radio declared six British planes had been shot down, but admitted civilian casualties and damage in several localities. Medtime, four Focke-Pulff fighters-bombers made a hit-and-run attack on a rural district and on a southeast coast town. One bomb struck a bungalow and killed an occupant.

Bernard Spilman On Missing List

A report published here December 10 that Bernard W. Spilman, 22, son of Mrs. J. B. Spilman and the late Mr. Spilman, of this city, was missing in action, was confirmed in today's Navy Department casualty list for members of the Maritime Commission. He has been officially listed as missing since the sinking of a merchant vessel upon which he was serving as cadet-engineer, was torpedoed off the coast of Brazil November 2. About a month prior to that time he had been aboard another vessel that was torpedoed by enemy submarines. He entered the service on March 24 and was to have received a commission as an officer upon his arrival in this country from the trip on which he was lost.

Young Spilman was born in Greenville December 20, 1922. He attended Greenville High School and Mars Hill College, graduated from Darlington Preparatory School, Rome, Georgia, with high honors and studied two years at Wake Forest College. J. B. Spilman, Jr., brother of the missing young man, is now serving with the U. S. Army Air Forces in Africa. Mrs. J. B. Spilman, whose present address is 3124 S. Glebe Road, Arlington, Va., in a long distance telephone conversation with a Reflector representative last night, expressed deep appreciation for the thoughtfulness of her Greenville friends since first reports of the loss of her son were published here.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that a medium sized United States merchant vessel was sunk by an enemy submarine late in November in the Indian ocean. Survivors were landed at Norfolk, Va. Eight "paint farms" throughout the country test the reactions of paint on different materials in varying climates. (Continued on Page Five)

TO GIVE STUDY TO DRAFT LAWS

Military Affairs Committee May Urge Revisions

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The whole subject of selective service may be reopened shortly by the House Military Affairs Committee in a move to give draft supervision to the War Department and prevent drafting of married when eligible single men are available.

Chairman May D-Ky said today he had received no proposals either from the War Department or from Selective Service headquarters for draft law revisions but added the committee might promote some changes of its own volition. "I may be believed administration of the draft law should be placed directly in the War Department instead of under the War Manpower Commission headed by Paul V. McNutt. While he does not plan to draft legislation to this effect, he added, he would support such a measure if it came before the committee.

"The job of fighting the war and winning it is in the hands of the War Department," the Kentuckian commented. "It seems to me the department should have control over who is going to be drafted or to the fighting." The Military Committee went on record last year as favoring a change in draft regulations to assure deferment of married men, regardless of their dependency status, as long as single men were available. To accomplish this the committee wrote into the "teen-age draft bill" an amendment, approved by the House, to put selective service on a state-wide basis instead of on a local board footing. The Senate, however, balked and the amendment came out in conference.

Under its provisions, in effect, no married men in a state would be drafted until all eligible single men in the same state had been called. Likewise, no married men with children would be inducted until all eligible married men without children were in uniform. In some states, such procedure is followed now but in many it is not and there is no law requiring it. Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) sponsor of the proposal said he would introduce it again next Monday, and May promised to support it.

Light Snow Follows Drizzling Rain Here

Reports from Bethel and points northward indicated that the snow was sticking there. There was very slight drop in temperature here today.

Fourteen Killed In Plane Crash

Lisbon, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen of fifteen persons were killed today when a British passenger airliner caught fire in the air and then exploded as it fell into the Tagus river at Caboverde. The dead included the British crew, three Portuguese women, a customs guard and Portuguese employees of the Pan-American airport near where the accident occurred. The plane which arrived Wednesday from England, took off to test a new set of engines, and 20 minutes later fell flaming into the Tagus.

After The War Employment Babson Forecasts New Technical Colleges

Washington, D. C. Jan. 8.—Next to the spiritual condition of the nation the full employment of its people is of primary importance. Under normal conditions about 45,000,000 men are gainfully employed. Today this has gone up to about 55,000,000, while during the depths of the depression of the 1930's there were only 35,000,000 so employed with 10,000,000 unemployed walking the streets. Of these, probably 2,500,000 were unemployables. Don't Get Panicky Without doubt the United States and Canada will be faced with a big unemployment problem after World War II. Not only will 10,000,000 men be returning from the army, navy and air forces to their homes but another 10,000,000 or more now working in war plants, shipyards, etc., temporarily at least, will be thrown out of work. To the average statistician the situation looks dark and unsolvable. Yet there is no reason for getting panicky. To begin with there will be a tremendous "consumer demand" after the war. People will spend for new automobiles, new refrigerators, new radios and new appliances of all kinds from kitchen utensils to farm implements. Moreover the people will have the money and bonds to pay for these things. Merchants will again stock up with goods which means that manufacturers must quickly "convert" and re-employ millions of people. Capitalism To Be Tested During the years directly following peace, employers should forget themselves in order to save themselves. Many millions will be tired and sick of rationing, price-fixing and government inefficiency. The business men will then have a real chance to throw off the "ball and chains" which the New Deal has (Continued on Page Five)

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Wide-World News Analyst

China's whole economic structure is being badly shaken by the ravages of war and this is reflected not only in the war effort but in the lives of the people. The cost of living has zoomed until in some categories it is fantastic. Along with this there is inflation which has sent Chinese money tumbling. The government has pegged the Chinese dollar at about one-seventh of its normal value making its worth approximately five cents in American money. Industries throughout the country are handicapped or hamstrung. The lack of raw materials and replacements for machinery are among the biggest obstacles. All this naturally is inextricably linked with China's lack of physical communications with the outside world. Her economic status is dependent in a major degree on the supplies she receives from abroad and as I have pointed out in previous articles her lifeline is that slender thread of air transport which is being kept open between India and Chungking by Uncle Sam's airmen. Should that tenuous line be depleted it would represent tragedy for China. It would strike both at the war effort and the life of the people. Conversely any increase in the supplies now being received over the skyline would be a godsend. China's well being increases or decreases in direct ratio to this help. This background is by way of preface to the statement given me by China's great statesman, T. V. Soong, who has served his country in many capacities and is now foreign minister. Soong not only is a statesman but a banker, and you know him also as China's lease-lend expert who, until recently, was in (Continued on Page Four)

Registration At College Is Normal

With several days still open for registration for the winter term East Carolina Teachers College has enrolled around 925 students.

Registrations in the next ten days are expected to push the figure above the 950 mark.

The size of the student body for the fall term, President Meadows points out, though it showed the effects of the war, was still cut much less than the 25 per cent decrease which was the average for the country as a whole.

There are a good many new students now on the campus, mostly upperclassmen interested in making preparation for definite war work and looking for courses in such fields as science, mathematics, and commerce.

Kiwanians Enjoy Unusual Program

Secretary Dave Moore's report of the achievements of the Kiwanis Club during 1942, under the administration of President Claude Ward, read at the weekly supper session at the Woman's Club last night was one of the best since the club was organized in 1922.

The work of the Underprivileged Child Committee was outstanding. Attendance showed improvement and the club showed a gain in membership.

Berry Bostle provided an inspiring and entertaining program. Peppy Officers W. Thatcher and Harold Jeffrey Bennett, of the British navy, were guests and spoke briefly on the war.

June H. Rose, assistant state director of civilian defense, spoke briefly, paying tribute to the British sailors for having their "chins up" after engaging in war on the high seas from Murmansk in Russia to Malta in the Mediterranean.

Packing House Employees Flee Flames

Workers in the three-story plant of the Omaha Packing Company at Lowell, Mass., flee from flames that swept the building and injured at least 12 persons. The man in overalls hanging from the window (black arrow) lost his grip and missed a fire net below. On the other side of the aerial ladder is a girl (white arrow) hanging by her finger tips. A few moments later, she dropped safely into the firemen's net. Others are fleeing down the ladder.

A grand jury returned the indictment yesterday, charging her first with subversive activities in undermining loyalty, discipline and morale of the armed forces.

It must be remembered, however, that there are millions now on the public payrolls who will use all the pull, effort and influence they can muster, to see to it that they stay there.

We believe, however, the American people as a whole are ready for such action to be taken and will applaud the efforts of the economy bloc in Congress and give it all the support possible.

GAS SHORTAGE MAY PUT END TO BASKETBALL

The Big Question Is Whether It's Business or Pleasure

Charlotte, Jan. 9 (AP)—Is transporting a basketball team to fill its engagement an athletic manager's business or not? Or is it a pleasure jaunt?

Upon that question, apparently hangs the fate of the collegiate basketball season in North Carolina during the gasoline emergency.

Right now the attitude of the sports officials seems to be "let's wait and see."

Taxicabs are banned from transporting teams to gymnasiums and most coaches have hired or borrowed private cars to take their athletes to game sites out of town.

Norman Shepard, director of athletics at Davidson College, puts it this way:

"My business is to take a basketball team to Charlotte tonight to play State College. Therefore, I feel I am at liberty to use private cars to get the players to the gymnasium there."

Dayton Dean, graduate manager of athletics at Duke University, said Duke had asked for a ruling on whether transporting a team to a game would be defined as a pleasure jaunt.

Unless further restrictions are imposed, all scheduled college games will be played. A number of high schools, however, have already cancelled their out-of-town games.

Generally, college athletic officials seem to feel that the diminished attendance resulting from the pleasure driving ban will not affect them other than to reduce receipts of a sports season that ends in the red anyway.

Two Charlotte high schools have cancelled eight out-of-town games and, pending a ruling from Washington, basketball games for ten Forsyth county high schools and three Winston-Salem high schools last night were cancelled.

Oren Roberts, athletic director at Mars Hill Junior College, said the college was cancelling all athletic events that involved traveling.

It was generally conceded that golf courses, especially those some distance from bus lines, would be hard hit during the emergency.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—When something unusual turns up like last week's 180-point game between Fordham and Rhode Island or a player like Harry Boykoff of St. John's, who is both extra-tall and extra-good, the basketball experts ask, "but is it basketball?"

This columnist, admittedly no part of an expert, is led to cross-question, "Well, just what is basketball?"

Listening in on coaches' arguments, we hear these in eastern basketball, mid-western basketball, Pacific coast basketball and maybe other sectional variations: Phog Allen says the east and west are farther apart than ever; Ed Lelleher says it ain't so, they're getting closer all the time. And Corp. Julius Kasner, who used to be a college star in Brooklyn and who now coaches the Camp Kohler, Calif., team and plays for Mather Field, explains it this way: "On the coast, everything is a planned play like in football. Back east we adapt our style to suit the occasion. We don't try to arrange our plans in advance. Maybe that helps explain the popularity of one old cat."

F. S.

Our own taste is more for "ivy league" basketball. The teams usually have a couple of football players who forget themselves in times of stress and are likely to bounce opponents around the floor as well as the ball when they dribble. ... It isn't always good but there's lots of action.

Simple Solution

Easiest way that we can see to avoid the necessity of converting Florida's stake horses into steak horses would be to open up a couple of those well-equipped betting parlors in downtown Miami under track and state supervision.

Races could be run at Tropical and Taleah and the customers could remain within walking distance of home. If anyone insisted on seeing the horses run, the tracks could provide movies of the previous day's races, or even television equipment.

Only difficulty we can see is that after the war there'll be quite a job persuading the horse players to make the long trip to the tracks and risk fresh air poisoning.

MANY ATTEND SPORT EVENTS

They Will Get There Despite Gas Shortage

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Attendance at sports events last night, first big athletic evening since the Office of Defense Transportation banned pleasure driving in 17 eastern states, indicated that patrons will reach the arenas somehow if the show goes on.

A crowd of 10,416 jammed the subway to watch Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia knock out Chester Rico of New York, in Madison Square Garden. That was 416 more than Promoter Mike Jacobs expected even before the ban was announced.

Approximately 1,400 were on the sidelines at New Haven, Conn., as Cornell defeated Yale in an Eastern league basketball game. Buses and trolleys brought the crowd, Yale's largest of the season, to the contest.

However, the ban did work a revision in the schedules of the colleges not benefitted by being located in populous areas and having the advantages of public transportation facilities.

Grove City's game with St. Vincent, both Pennsylvania schools, was postponed because of the ban and Siena, one of the basketball powerhouses of upper New York state, moved its contest with Paterson, N. J., teachers to Schenectady.

Frank Summers of Hampden-Sydney decided that basketball was "business," and so sent his cagers to Washington and Lee university by automobile.

High school basketball circuits seemed hardest hit with two New York circuits announcing suspension of the winter schedule and numerous individual contests being cancelled.

In other sports, bowling alley owners reported a drop of 10 to 20 per cent in business, an exclusive Columbia, S. C., golf course located on a bus line cut it fees for the coming year in half and said that non-members would be welcome; ski resort owners advertised trains would be met by horse-drawn vehicles and the University of Virginia cancelled the schedule of its swimming team.

Price Brookfield, former west Texas State basketball ace, has signed up with a Rochester, N. Y., pro club. Bruce Norris, son of the Detroit Red Wings boss, is a candidate for the freshman hockey team at Yale. Howie Schultz, 6 foot 6 1/2 inch basketball center at Hamline U. is too tall for the army but the White Sox are interested in him as a basketball prospect — doubly interested, we'd say.

put upon them. To do this, however, we employers must assume more responsibility and must make a greater effort to give employment than we ever have in the past.

Unless business men do then wake up and assume leadership the free enterprise system may get a severe beating. These returning soldiers will be in no mood to see factories needlessly shut down. Then the Communists and other radicals will come forward with crazy plans which will make the New Dealers look like hard-shelled Republicans. Yes, the unemployment problem must then fearlessly be met and solved, or else!

Preventing Unemployment

No new committees need be formed nor new reports need be issued. The files of the Department of Labor contain voluminous studies on how unemployment can be reduced during a depression. These plans range from raising the school age and getting women back into the homes, to the quota systems in which I was so much interested ten years ago. We will not need new plans for work, but rather we will need merely to work the plans we have.

Here at Washington I have heard of plans to turn some of the great government buildings now full of clerks, into a mammoth National University for returning soldiers. These plans also include having branches of this great University in different sections of the country using empty munition plants for school rooms and laboratories; while the students can live in the new taking out the British battleship Prince of Wales and cruiser Repulse without air protection. All I can say is that I would have done the same thing. As a matter of fact, our fleet was compelled to sail without air cover during the entire campaign.

Then, on Jan. 10, the war came to our shores. Our Navy, in company with the army, acquitted itself nobly. Outnumbered and outclassed, our forces nevertheless managed to inflict serious damage on the Japanese. Our guiding policy was—"Attack! We never waited for the Japs to set the stage for an engagement but, wherever possible, went out and met them."

Some of the naval battles fought in East Indies waters will go down into history—Macassar Straits, Lomok Straits, and finally the great Javal sea battle. Much has been said and written about that last engagement in which American, Australian, British and Dutch units under my command went out to meet the Japanese invasion fleet steaming towards Java. The final judgment on this battle will have to be made by history.

One erroneous report I can correct now. Some American newspapers said the Dutch cruisers De Ruyter and Java were lost by striking Dutch mines. It was absolutely impossible for this to have happened. The battle was fought 50 miles from the coast, while our mines were laid only up to the three-mile limit. These cruisers undoubtedly were torpedoed by a Japanese Cruiser squadron, which had been sighted shortly before only eight kilometers away.

Since last March the Dutch naval forces have returned to action. The most important part of the Netherlands navy is still in the Far East—operating under Admiral Somerville of the British navy in the Indian Ocean, others in the southwest Pacific under General MacArthur. Our base in Colombo is very strongly held and manned by first-class men. Dutch submarines have been in action against the Japanese in recent months. And Dutch cruisers and destroyers participated in the British expedition against Madagascar.

The situation in the far east today is vastly different from that which existed a year ago. We have a long way to go over a hard road, but we are on the road that leads to victory. We are not yet on the offensive. I regard such actions as the invasion of the Solomons as being mainly defensive in nature, aimed at protecting Allied communications. But the big offensive will come.

It takes hundreds of auxiliary ships to keep our Navy going. Tenders, tankers for fuel, provision ships and other craft are necessary to the successful operation of our battle fleets. Included in this category is a seaplane wrecking derrick.

These wreckers operate much like the derricks about our airports. They are fast and are equipped to "spot" wrecked planes and aid in their rescue. Your purchase of War Bonds helps pay for them. Favorable Report State Fund Bill

Raleigh, Jan. 9—(AP)—Both houses of the 1943 General Assembly made their first week-end session a brief one today, with a favorable report by the Senate Appropriations Committee on the administration-sponsored bill to set up a post-war reserve fund highlighting the meeting.

The bill, introduced by Senator Taylor of Anson, was amended by the committee to provide for a reserve fund of $22,000,000 instead of the $20,000,000 called for by the original measure. The money would be taken from the huge surplus accumulated by the state during this biennium.

Senator Weathers of Cleveland brought in the report favoring the measure.

The Senate, which had only five members present, adjourned after five minutes. Senator Ballewine of Wake presided over the short-lived meeting.

No local bills were offered in the House, which had previously stipulated that only local matters would be considered today, and the body adjourned two minutes after being called to order. Twenty-two members were present.

Serious President Faces New Congress

With stern visage, and flanked by equally serious aides, President Roosevelt faced the new 78th Congress in joint session in the House chamber at Washington to report on the progress of the nation in a year of war. Standing at his side: Gen. Edwin Watson, a presidential secretary. Behind him are Vice President Henry A. Wallace (left) and House Speaker Sam Rayburn. An unidentified Secret Service man stands behind Gen. Watson. In front of the President sit congressional officials.
