Russian Drive Toward Rostov Pushing Nazis Back on Broad Front

New 50,000 Retreat Of Hitler's Forces Reported; Twelve More Towns Taken By Reds; High Nazi Officers Reported Being Evacuated From Stalingrad Area By Planes

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Red army's come-back drive through the Caucasus was reported today fanning out wider on both sides of the Rostov-Baku trunk line as separate spearheads of the assault stabbed through towns more than 20 miles west and 50 miles north of recaptured Mineralnye Vody.

Despite German attempts at a stand, the Russians are broadening their offensive front in fighting unchecked by steady rains and wet snow which bogged the fertile valley fields with mud and water.

A dozen towns were won back under the Red banner in the continuing drive, officials announced.

German reports that the Russians had launched new offensives against the Leningrad siege line or on the Voronezh front to the north of the Don bend were not confirmed here.

Neither communiques nor battlefield dispatches mentioned these sectors.

Dispatches announcing the recapture of Novo Blagodarneye placed the Russian advance more than 20 miles west of the town of Mineralnye Vody, recaptured early this week.

Another arm of the offensive sweeps through Kurmagorsky and on past Zhuravskoye, 50 miles north of Mineralnye Vody.

In between, on the straightened front, the Russians reported seizing the little towns of Kalaborka, Orbelianovka and Potaplovskoye in the heart of some of the most intensely farmed land in the Caucasus.

Battlefront accounts said tanks led the Russian advance, breaking up Nazi counterattacks along highways and rail lines of the Kuma river valley near Kumagorsky.

Red Star, mouthpiece on the Russian army, said a large German force had been surrounded in one Caucasian settlement and was under the combined attacks of tanks and Cossack cavalry.

In their regular early war bulletin, the Soviet leaders recounted a sharp advance along the railway to Rostov, a slowing-down of the (Continued on Page Six)

Dr. H. G. Haney Is Expected Friday
Dr. H. G. Haney of Indianapolis, Ind., recently chosen pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, is expected here Friday afternoon to assume his new duties. Dr. Haney was pastor of Battery Park Christian Church in Richmond, Va., for 19 years, the only pastor that church had after its establishment until a year ago. He gave up the work in the Virginia city to become field executive of the Committee on War Services under the United Society of the church. He is a man of exceptional ability and culture with a record of excellent service. He is married and has children.

Dr. Haney is a Kentuckian. He was educated at Transylvania College and the College of Bible, Lexington, Ky., and at Union Theological Seminary.

ASK LEGAL BAN ON FIREWORKS

Reserve Funds, Licenses and Drunkards On Legislative Slate

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Bills to prohibit the sales of fireworks in the state and to allow cities and counties to establish reserve funds were introduced in the Legislature today.

The measure to prohibit general use of any explosive was submitted by Reps. Cook and Stringfield of Cumberland, related to blank cartridges, toy pistols and cannon using explosives, firecrackers, sparklers and the like.

The state fire marshal, the local fire chief or local fire authority would be permitted to adopt reasonable rules for public displays, for which written application must be made 15 days in advance and a $500 bond posted. Sports events in which explosives are used for signals or utilities using them for signals would be exempt. Fireworks could be manufactured in the state for shipment outside the state however. Violation of the act would be a misdemeanor. Punishable by 90 days imprisonment or a $100 fine, or both.

The local government reserve fund bill, introduced by Senator O'Berry of Wayne, chairman of the finance committee, provided that counties and cities would have authority to establish the fund and designate the bank or trust company to serve as depository. Operation would be under supervision of the local government commission.

The fund could be used for improvements or to supplement the proceeds of the sale of bonds or anticipation notes or federal grants, or monies that might be temporarily borrowed to meet the appropriation made for the current fiscal year in anticipation of tax collection.

It would have a limit of 25 per cent of the total appropriation for financing the fiscal year and must be repaid within 30 days of the close of the fiscal year. The funds also may be used for purchasing and retiring outstanding bonds of the local government maturing more than 10 years from the date of the withdrawal and also for investment in bonds or notes of the federal, state or local government.

The present statute provides that local surpluses must be used to meet obligations or to reduce taxes the following fiscal year.

Another measure, introduced by Senator Johnson of Halifax, would provide that all persons teaching between July 1, 1938, and February 1, 1941, who had attained the age of 50 and had at least 10 years prior service as teachers in North Carolina, should be made members of the retirement system and entitled to credit for prior services and all other benefits of the act.

Senator Gregory of Rowan proposed to increase the appropriation to state libraries from $100,000 to $210,000.

The Senate passed an administration-sponsored bill to invest part of the general fund surplus in state or federal bonds. The measure, introduced by Senator Taylor of Anson, first provided that the sum should total $20,000,000, but the committee boosted it to $22,000,000. The state sought means today to (Continued on Page Five)

Steel Strikes In Canada.
Toronto, Jan. 14.—(AP)—A strike by the United Steel Workers of America (CIO) has spread to four other Canadian plants today as 7,500 more employees quit work in support of demands for an increase in their basic wages.

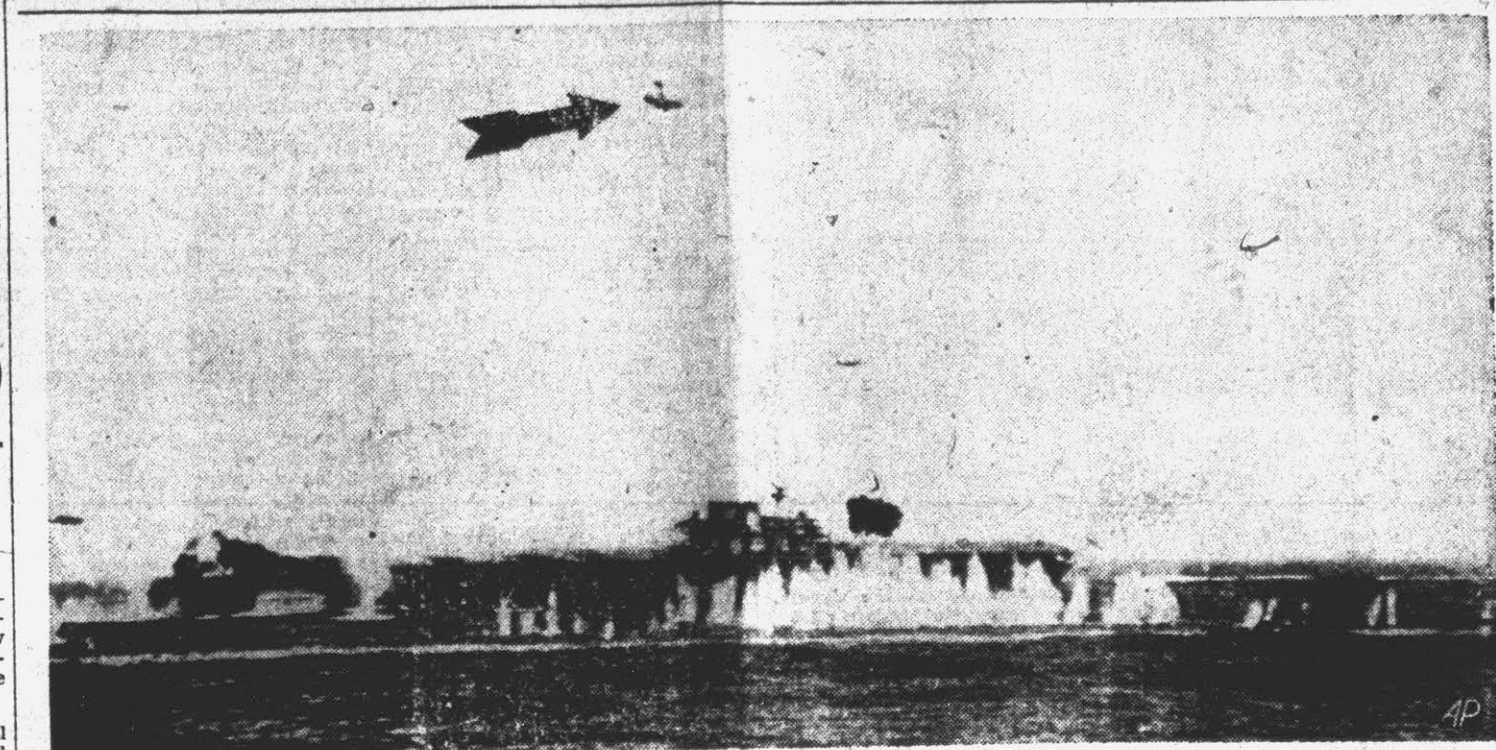

The action brought to approximately 12,500 the total number of men on strike and steel control authorities at Ottawa estimated that the walk-out would cut Canada's steel production by more than two-thirds.

Another 2,000 men for the army. Observers pointed out, however, that the induction of these men into the armed forces would confront Labor Dictator Fritz Sauckel already hard-pressed to find trained workers for important war industries—with a gigantic task of finding replacements in occupied lands.

According to official German announcements, 700,000 men already have been transported from the Ukraine to work in Germany's factories and on her farms.

Meanwhile reports in German newspapers and dispatches from Swedish correspondents in Berlin indicate that conditions are becoming harder from day to day for the people on the German home front. More and more plants are being converted from the production of (Continued on Page Four)

OPEN HEARING ON COAL STRIKE U.S. Torpedo Boats Blast Jap Ships Off Solomons

Lewis Called To Appear Before Board Tomorrow

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The War Labor Board today called a public hearing for tomorrow on the anthracite strike and asked union leaders and operators to attend.

Chairman William H. Davis, in a telegram to President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, officers of the principal coal companies involved, and officers of local unions, said:

"You are requested to appear before the War Labor Board at 2 p. m. Friday, January 15, at the departmental auditorium, Department of Labor building, 14th and Constitution avenue, Washington, for the purpose of stating fully the reasons why the anthracite miners, citizens of the United States, whose sons and brothers are at the fighting front, are on strike against the national no-strike policy and against the welfare of the nation in time of war."

"The case has been certified to the War Labor Board and Chairman Truman (D-Mo) of the Senate Defense Investigating Committee by letter that he is doing 'everything possible' to end the work stoppage.

Solid Fuel Coordinator Ickes told a press conference that the anthracite strike had "cost us" 500,000 tons of coal in two weeks, and declared the miners' stoppage "shows a reckless disregard of country and patriotic duties, and is highly reprehensible."

"I don't think it looks well for the miners to take it out on the people when we're fighting for our lives, especially when it is a violation of an agreement to which they are parties," said Ickes. "They're under a solemn agreement not to strike. I don't think the public is going to like it and I don't think they should."

The split in the strikers' ranks developed at a general meeting last night in which a vote was taken on the WLB's request that the men go back to their jobs and submit to negotiations their demands for a wage increase and their protest (Continued on Page Six)

Officers Praise Local Guard Unit

The local unit of the State Guard was inspected Wednesday by the executive officer of the First Brigade, Major Hugh Dorch and Battalion Commander of the Second Bn., Major Zeno G. Hollowell. The company was highly praised by the inspecting officers for their excellent training, equipment and plans for any emergency that might arise in this locality. They stated that Greenville and surrounding communities should feel proud of this patriotic organization that is made up of personnel who are willing to serve without pay. They were well pleased with the progress which the company has made under the leadership of Capt. Jasper L. Jones, assisted by First Lt. Howard E. Sumrell and Second Lt. William H. Woolard, Jr.

The inspecting officers further commended the company on the high percentage attained in attendance during the recent months.

The company now has three commissioned officers and 47 enlisted men. Captain Jones is accepting only men with deferred classification in order that the local unit may maintain the authorized strength in trained men ready for any situation that might arise.

New Hours

Beginning next week Greenville stores will observe shorter hours as a result of action taken at a meeting of the merchants this afternoon. The action was taken as a result of wartime conditions and in conformity with schedules being adopted by other towns and cities in this section.

Under the new schedule that becomes effective next week, stores will open at 9:30 a. m., and close at 6 p. m., Mondays through Fridays. On Saturdays the stores will open at 9 a. m., and close at 7:30 p. m. Grocery stores will remain open a half-hour later than other types of stores.

SOME MINERS BACK AT WORK

Approximately 17,000 Anthracite Workers Still Idle

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Two thousand striking Pennsylvania hard coal miners complied today with a War Labor Board demand that they return to work, but approximately 17,000 others defied the WLB ultimatum and remained idle for the 16th day.

Despite growing tension throughout the strike area, there was no disorder and no picketing as 600 men took up their tasks again at the Hudson Coal Company's Baltimore No. 5 colliery and 1,600 workers resumed operations at the Glen Alden Coal Company's Waukegan colliery. The company is the world's largest producer of anthracite.

The split in the strikers' ranks developed at a general meeting last night in which a vote was taken on the WLB's request that the men go back to their jobs and submit to negotiations their demands for a wage increase and their protest (Continued on Page Six)

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide-World News Analyst

By GLENN BABB
Hitler is carrying on a gigantic ruthless campaign to mobilize the economic resources of the entire continent—including labor as part of his preparations for holding in fortress of Europe against the anticipated Allied blows of 1943. Day by day the global war goes on. The Germans will eat no matter who goes hungry—applies not to food alone but to all wealth and the means of producing wealth. Hitler will stop at nothing in this campaign; he will paralyze all Europe if need be to get what he requires for his war machine.

The Fuehrer's meeting with his stooge in charge of Rumania, Marshal Antonescu, announced by Berlin yesterday, was part of this campaign. One reason Antonescu was summoned to headquarters no doubt was to receive orders to put down the rising clamor against the killing of so much Rumanian blood on the eastern front. Kietel and Zeitler sat at the conference table. But probably the most important there were Doctors Funk and Ciodius, whose function is to supply the wealth that keeps the armies going.

Just what Hitler requires of Rumania was not disclosed. Perhaps more oil or more grain. That Rumania is the oil of 1942 of gath-baku poses a grave new fuel problem. The anticipated yield from the grain fields of the Ukraine has become a bigger question mark. The Germans may not even be in possession of those fields when next harvest time comes. Hitler may have demanded that Rumania already sorely tried for the Russian war, contribute workers for the Reich's labor-hungry industries. Whatever he asked it was connected with his colossal economic mobilization.

Hitler's search for labor is made more desperate by the claims of his army on German manpower. A Stockholm dispatch reports today that a military commission is touring the Reich to comb out perhaps one or two million men hit by heavy losses in Russia must be (Continued on Page Four)

Destroyers Damaged; Jap Bases In New Guinea And Burma Bombed

(By The Associated Press)
American motor torpedo boats darting into battle against Japanese warships were officially reported today to have damaged two and possibly three enemy destroyers in the waters off Guadalcanal island, in the Solomons.

A Navy Department bulletin said the enemy warships, presumably attempting to carry reinforcements to embattled Japanese troops on the island, were forced to withdraw to the northwest as a result of the furious torpedo-boat assault.

Two torpedo hits were scored on one of the destroyers, one hit on a second destroyer, and two possible hits on a third, the Navy said. The Navy's communiqué said U. S. Army troops on the island "continue their advance" under aerial support.

At the same time, Allied warplanes, blasting at Japan's far-flung invasion armies from Burma to the South Seas, were officially credited today with setting big fires at the important enemy base of Lae, New Guinea, and raining destruction on half a dozen other targets.

Farmers Take Time Plant Tobacco Beds

Fairly good progress has been made in preparing tobacco plant beds for the 1943 leaf crop, farmers here today stated. Apparently there has been no hurry to sow the seed beds, they say. The past several days' sunshine has facilitated the work considerably.

A farmer who frequently goes to Canada to cure tobacco in the summer said farmers here have a comparatively easy time getting their plants. Tobacco seed are sown in hot-houses in the far north and require much care and attention. Tobacco allotments for the bright and other belts are the same as last year, it is understood.

AGAINST FLYNN CONFIRMATION

Willkie Describes Appointment As "Vicious Politics"

Durham, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie said here today he opposed the Flynn appointment at a brief press conference.

Here to deliver an address at Duke University tonight, Willkie discussed the Flynn appointment at a brief press conference.

"I hope the American people will raise such a protest against the Flynn appointment," he said, "that the U. S. senate rejects it. For there is not alone involved in it a debauching of our diplomatic service but equally important is its affirmation of the most vicious type of political organization and practice."

"If a political boss of the type of Ed Flynn can require the President of the United States to thus yield then the most unwholesome of America's political practices will be further strengthened."

Even a fourth term nomination for the office of president of the United States is not worth such a price.

"I hope Senators McNary, Taft and Bridges are encouraged by the people to continue their fight against the appointment."

Speaking later at a luncheon club meeting, the 1940 presidential candidate, urged the administration to spend the funds raised under the $100,000,000 war budget as wisely as possible.

No American will begrudge the necessary spending for the war effort or other essential objectives, he said, but he added:

"We turn to the administration and say, please, please, do not waste. Please remember that American (Continued on Page Three)

French Troops Capture Two Important Positions In Struggle For Tunisia

ESSEN TARGET BRITISH RAID

Americans Take Part In Daylight Raid Over France

London, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Essen, hard-hit home of the giant Krupp armament works, was battered by 100 tons of explosives and incendiaries last night in the RAF's third industrial Ruhr valley, it was announced officially today.

The air ministry said four of the bombers which carried out the central 12-minute downpour of destruction on the repeatedly-raided industrial center were lost.

Other parts of the Ruhr also were hit, but Essen was the main target a communiqué declared.

It was the RAF's eighth attack on Germany in 11 nights.

The communiqué announced the loss of one fighter aircraft on operations over France and Holland and said "Hudsons of the coastal command, without loss, attacked an enemy convoy off the Dutch coast. Two enemy supply ships were hit."

So concentrated was the Essen attack that the planes unloaded their deadly cargoes over the target in the space of 12 minutes, the announcement disclosed.

The raid provided a follow-up to a thunderous daylight assault on occupied France and the Netherlands yesterday in which American flying fortresses played a major role.

The previous seven night raids had been directed at industrial cities in the Ruhr valley, including the city of Essen, site of the great Krupp arms factories, meanwhile attacked several places on the northwest coast of England, but the activity was said to be light and no casualties were reported.

The raid in which the Flying Fortresses participated yesterday was described as one of the heaviest ever carried out in daylight over occupied Europe.

The principal target of the Fortresses was the industrial city of Lille, which was subjected to its third heavy bombing of the war.

"Visibility was good and numerous bursts were observed on the target and in railway yards," a communiqué said.

Three of the four-motored American planes failed to return from the raid and two RAF fighters were missing after sweeps over Holland where transportation and gun positions were blasted. Three German planes were reported shot down.

Other targets of the Allied raiders yesterday included the airfields at St. Omer, Venturas and Abbeville and railway centers and repair shops in northern France.

Contact Established Between Giraud's Headquarters And Fighting French To The South; Allied Air Squadrons Rain Bombs On Marshal Rommel's Forward Positions

By WES GALLAGHER
Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 14.—(AP)—French troops in Tunisia attacking northwest of Kairouan captured strategic heights yesterday, it was announced today.

A French spokesman described the gains as important. He said the captured heights were Jebel Haouh and Jebel Bou Davous, which jut from the desert northeastward from Pichon.

Allied air squadrons operating with Gen. Sir Harold Montgomery's British eighth army rained bombs upon air fields and other objectives near Misurata, machine-gunned motor convoys in both Tripolitania and Tunisia, blasted the first of Sousse again and damaged a merchant vessel off the Tunisian coast, a Cairo communiqué said.

Four Messerschmitt 109's were shot down and others damaged, while eight Allied planes failed to return.

Algeria, an Allied base for the Tunisian operations, had two air raid alerts last night.

(A Reuters dispatch from North Africa said direct contact had been established between General Henri Honoré Giraud's headquarters and the Fighting French of Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc—the first such liaison in the new phase of the African war.)

(A message to General Giraud from General Leclerc, who has been in the French desert since the capture of the French desert army of central Libya, in a drive northward from Lake Chad, was delivered by a liaison officer yesterday, the dispatch said.)

(How the officer made the trip was not disclosed, but he might have flown or used an armored car escort.)

Bad weather temporarily halted Allied aerial operations from the west against Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in Libya.

An indication of the strength the Allies are building up for the coming battles came in a report that the British navy had successfully escorted 971 transports, supply ships and other vessels totaling 7,600,000 tons between Gibraltar and North African ports from last November 8, when the AFP made its first landings, to January 8.

The French operations northwest of Kairouan, a German-held communications center southwest of the port of Sousse, were the only offensive (Continued on Page Five)

Tax Matters Hold First Place Before Congress

By The Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 14.—Need for congressional action on immediate problems such as new taxes appeared likely today to sidetrack for several months consideration of President Roosevelt's proposal for an expansion of the social security system to combat postwar economic hazards.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee told reporters the calendars of committees in the House and Finance in the Senate—probably will be crowded for some time with prime legislation.

In this category, he placed pay-as-you-earn tax legislation, new revenue producing measures, an increase in the $125,000,000 public debt limitation and expiring executive authority to make reciprocal trade agreements.

The rising tempo of the new congress also produced these developments:

1. Determination by the House Naval Committee to study the entire American naval program since the war began to ascertain progress made in combating the submarine menace, growth of the navy's air arm, the need for new ships and the status of the battleship-versus-carrier controversy.

2. Mounting hopes for early lifting of the American Federation of Musicians' ban on recorded music after James C. Petrillo, union president, assured a senate investigating committee a compromise would be drafted next month.

Gidley-Gaskins.
Mrs. Jacob Claude Gaskins announces the marriage of her daughter
Martha Ann
to
Captain Dale Russell Gidley
United States Marine Corps
on Wednesday, January thirteenth
Nineteen hundred and forty-three
St. Timothy's Episcopal Church
Wilson, North Carolina

The wedding of Miss Martha Ann Gaskins and Captain Dale Russell Gidley, United States Marine Corps, took place Wednesday evening January 13, at 8:30, in St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Wilson, with the Reverend J. Q. Beckwith, Jr., officiating.

Mr. J. W. Fountain, organist and Professor of Music at Atlantic Christian College, rendered nuptial music. The traditional wedding marches were used and during the ceremony "O Perfect Love" was softly played.

The altar was banked with pines and fern and the scene was lighted by Ecclesiastical candles and seven-branched candelabra.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Jacob Claude Gaskins, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a Mainbocker model of Cuban pink crepe styled on draped lines. Her accessories were black and she wore a shoulderette of white roses.

The groom, in uniform, was attended by Mr. Charles Roy Plana-gan.

Immediately after the wedding, the bride party was entertained at an informal dinner, following which they left for a wedding trip.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jacob Claude Gaskins and the late Mr. Gaskins of this city. She received her education in the Greenville city schools and East Carolina Teachers College.

Captain Gidley is the son of Mr. Lewis Oliver Gidley and the late Mrs. Gidley of Newton, Iowa. He received his education in the Newton city schools and Iowa State Teachers College. He is a member of the Alpha Delta Alpha fraternity. After graduating he enlisted in the Marine Corps and has been stationed for the past twelve months in the Panama Canal Zone.

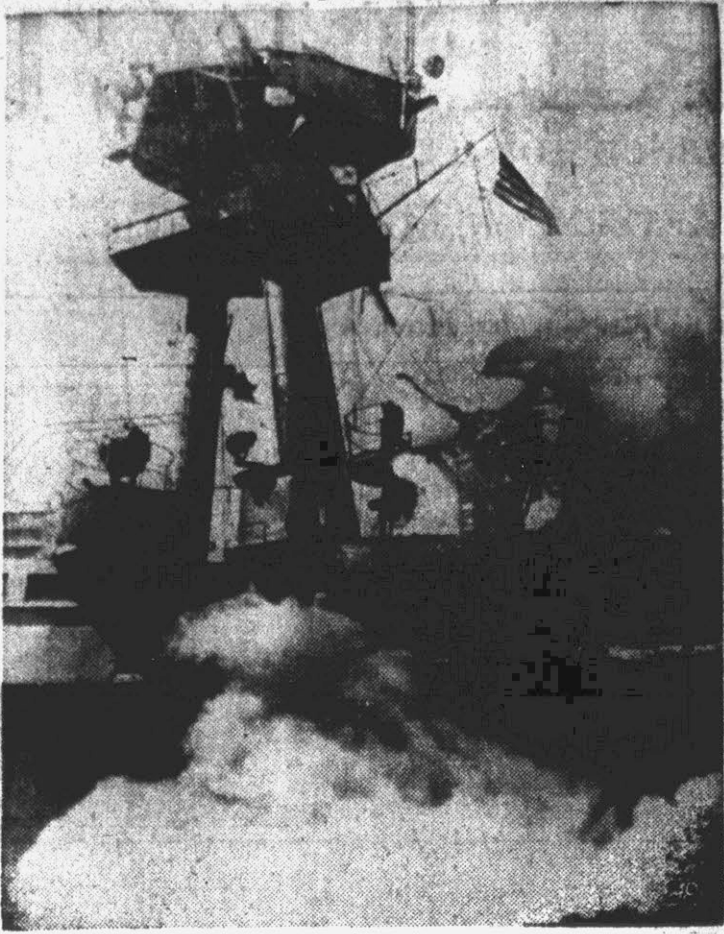

Following their wedding trip, the young couple will be at home at New River, N. C.

Brilliant Reception

The beautiful new residence of Mrs. E. B. Ficklen was the scene of a lovely reception to the End of the Century Club on Tuesday afternoon. This handsomely furnished residence was thrown open at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Ficklen with Mrs. L. C. Arthur, receiving guests who had been welcomed in the reception hall by a quartette of beautiful girls.

Elegant refreshments were served in beautiful china and silverware, and the club adjourned at a late hour.

Literature Department Meets.
The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met with Mrs. James Worsley Tuesday afternoon, January 12. Mrs. Louis Harrison was assisting hostess.

Miss Eunice McGee, chairman, presided and Mrs. Putrell acted as secretary. Miss McGee thanked the club for their kindness to her during her recent sadness and Mrs. Putrell read a note of appreciation from Miss McGee's family.

Mrs. Moore talked about the programs for the general club meetings. She called for more workers for the Red Cross sewing rooms and asked members to plant Victory gardens.

Miss Frances Wahl gave the program. Her subject was "Australia," and "New Zealand." Australia, the white man's continent, is almost as large as the United States. The population lives mostly in the south-east. The central part is desert. About 42 per cent of the continent is arid. There are no high mountains or large rivers. The climate is warm and dry. Australia is one of the seven chief exporting countries of wheat and cattle. Nineteenth of the people are of British descent. The government is very much like our own. This was the last continent to be discovered and in 1688 the first Englishman landed there.

New Zealand is about 1,380 miles from Australia. The country has sufficient rainfall and therefore has good crops. It is mostly rolling. It has mountains 12,349 feet high. The chief occupation is sheep-raising. New Zealand was discovered in 1642 and was first settled by missionaries in 1814. This is said to be a very beautiful country.

The hostesses served home-made cake, hot tea and salted nuts. There were twenty members present.

The King's Daughters Meet.

The Patient Circle held their first meeting of the new year with Mrs. W. B. Young at her lovely, spacious home on Fifth street, Tuesday, January 12, with every member present except two who were unable to attend because of illness—one, our efficient secretary, Mrs. Shackie, and one of our faithful members, Mrs. Studie Corey. The circle enjoyed having two visitors, Mrs. J. L. Little and Mrs. W. T. Kyzer.

The president opened the meeting with the prayer of the order. Mrs. C. A. Boyen gave a very fitting devotional on the subject "Are Your Hands Full?" If so, what do they hold? We are living in a busy material age. We are glad to record that many people are doing real service to set the heart singing. For this we thank God and take courage. We are responsible to God for what we hold in our hands. Remember "Moses and the rod." Could God take what our hands hold and make a living out of it?

The real King's Daughter comes with empty hands and asks God to fill them.

In the absence of Mrs. Shackie, Mrs. Moye read the minutes. Mrs. Williams gave the treasurer's report for 1942. The circle was very proud of the year's work. The president reported the Christmas work. This is work they enjoy. She also reported the turkey dinner given by the circle January 3 at the service men's center. One hundred and twenty-five were served, and this was a real enjoyable affair. The circle also gave 21 ash trays to the Salvation Army home for service men. This concluded the business and reports.

A program for Founder's Day, which is observed each year on January 13, it was decided to have this memorial service at this regular meeting, being so near the date.

First on the program, Mrs. Richard Williams read a very lovely tribute to Margaret Bottom. One hundred years ago she first saw the light of day and 56 years ago the order came into being through her influence.

Mrs. Virginia Perkins read an article from the Silver Cross, "My Idea of a Junior King's Daughter."

The memorial service was conducted by the president, with Miss Betty Ann Young a Junior King's Daughter, lighting the candles. A candle was lighted for the "founders, the first ten members who perfected the order. A candle was lighted in living memory of Margaret Bottom, the first president.

A candle was lighted for the first international officers. A candle was lighted for the officers and members of the various branches. Last but not least, a candle was lighted for the members of the Patient Circle who have passed on and with whom we have loved long since and lost awhile.

The circle then joined in singing one verse of "Just As I Am," and all joined hands and closed with the Mizpah Benediction.—Reported.

NEWS OF GREENVILLE HIGH

By CORA REDDITT

Senior Exams

Thirty-eight seniors went to the new Classroom building at ECTC this morning to take a college entrance exam. These tests were given to students in the upper-third of the senior class who wished to take it and students who were not in the upper third but who wished to see if they could pass enough to go on to college before completing high school. These tests, if you make a certain high mark, together with high grades in your studies this year means you can go to college in February or March without completing high school first. The student would receive his diploma with the rest of his class if he does passing work in college.

The examination was divided into three tests, two of which were given in the morning with a 10-minute recess between them, and the other was given after lunch. Then the students were dismissed for the day.

Congratulations Sergeant!
It was brought to the attention of the journalism class that their former instructor, V. M. Mulholland, who is now in the Army, has been promoted to sergeant. Sgt. Mulholland went into the Army just before school opened this year and is stationed at Durham, his home town.

Knitters Gossip

Mrs. Julia Garris of West Fourth street, Greenville, today turned in nine army sweaters. This makes 76 army sweaters Mrs. Garris has knitted since January 1, 1942. Mrs. Garris regularly gets five pounds of wool at a time and so far all of her sweaters have been for the army.

Due to the fact that we are in need of turtle neck sweaters for the navy, Mrs. Garris will change and begin to knit navy sweaters. Mrs. Garris is 72 years of age and she and her daughters, Mrs. W. J. Whitman and Mrs. W. E. Stokes, knit regularly for the Pitt county chapter of the Red Cross.

The records of other knitters are being compiled and we will print all the names of those who have knit 75 or more.

Forest Fire Damage

Asheville, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Forest fires caused $133,420 damage in 11 western North Carolina counties last year, more than twice the loss in 1941, and burned over 43,366 acres, more than twice the acreage destroyed the previous year, District Forester W. J. Clark reported.

In 1900, persons 45 years of age or older comprised one-sixteenth of the U. S. population; today they number one-fourth.

GIRL LEADS IN SILK SALVAGE

Polish Girl Has Collected 15,715 Stockings

By JAMES MARLOW And GEORGE ZIELKE

New York, Jan. 14—You probably never heard of Marie Spodolaska.

Her family hasn't been in this country long enough for Spodolaska to be an old American name. Her parents were born in Poland but she has made herself right at home here and so has her family. Her brother is an army sergeant in the Pacific. She has a sister working in a war plant and another child, who is in air raid messenger service.

Marie, herself, 25, is an inspector in the day time in the Nomenclature plant in Philadelphia where at night she studies first aid and home nursing and helps at a servicemen's canteen.

But she has distinguished herself in this way:

Her company credits her with collecting 15,715 silk and nylon stockings, mostly in the Polish section of Philadelphia.

When the national drive to gather women's old silk and nylon stockings started last November, the 600 workers in Marie's plant joined in.

So far they have collected 250,000 stockings—6,000 pounds—calculated to make 2,500 powder bags for 10-inch guns. But Marie, who had worked out a system, led all the others.

She had several thousand slips printed, telling of the salvage drive and had air raid messengers deliver them at homes in the Polish neighborhood.

At a USO center, where she served as a dance aid, hostesses helped her give out the slips, requesting soldiers and sailors to ask their families to send her their old silk and nylon stockings.

She made posters and placed them in drug stores, tailor and shoe-maker shops in the Polish neighborhood.

Her sister in the war plant got her friends, and through them their friends, to send Marie their old stockings. All the while school children helped her.

Meanwhile, everywhere in this country the drive continues.

There are barrels in department and retail stores where women shoppers can drop their old stockings after first making sure they have been washed.

Various women's groups and schools are helping in the collection which so far has netted at least 400,000 pounds of stockings, approximately 2,800,000 pairs.

The silk is used mainly for powder bags because it burns without leaving ash in the guns. Nylon is used for other military purposes such as parachute cords and tow-lines. If you drop your old silk stockings in the barrel set aside for them the storekeeper makes no profit but pays for the cost of handling. The shipping cost is paid by the Defense Supplies Corporation. The old stockings are sent to John T. Ryan and Son, Green Island, New York, agent for the corporation. The Office of War Information says that if you wish to send old silk and nylon stockings direct to Ryan's Green Island plant you can but—

Sharing attention with this activity was the Air Ministry's disclosure of a three-year-old war secret—the story of how Wellington bombers helped clear deadly German magnetic mines from the waters around Britain.

In a new booklet on the air force "coastal command," the Ministry said that the Wellingtons had been equipped with a secret device which set off the mines when the bombers flew over them at low altitude.

Willkie will address a mass meeting tonight. Governor Broughton will introduce Willkie. His address is expected to deal with wartime and post-war issues.

Willkie, due on a morning train had a number of appointments prior to the mass meeting, including one to address Durham civic club at a luncheon. He also will visit places of interest on the Duke campus during the day.

After the night speech, Willkie plans to board a train at Raleigh to return to New York.

Apartment Fire Fatal For Five

Houston, Tex., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Five children, ranging in age from eight months to five years, and a woman were burned to death in a blaze which gutted a four-apartment two-story frame building today.

Two of the children, eight months and two years old, were those of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Goforth. Goforth, a shipyard worker, was at work when the fire broke out. The other dead had not been identified early today.

Mrs. Goforth was in a hospital suffering from third degree burns.

Commanders Safe

Rear Admiral Charles P. Mason (top), Pensacola, Fla., was commander of the U. S. S. Hornet, aircraft carrier, when she was sunk by enemy action off Santa Cruz Islands last October 26. Capt. Samuel Power Jenkins, San Diego, Calif. (bottom) was commander of the light cruiser, U. S. S. Atlanta, lost in the battle of Guadalcanal Island. In announcing the sinking of the two vessels, the Navy Department said both commanders were safe.

Ted Felds, head of the Harris County Emergency Corps, said Mrs. Goforth jumped from the second floor with her clothing afire, crying, "My babies, my babies!"

Justice of the Peace Tom Maes said he believed other persons occupying the second floor of the building might have died in the fire.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said United Nations airmen bombed Lae, Salamaua, Madang and Finschhafen in northeast New Guinea, striking the earliest blows at Lae where Japanese reinforcements landed from a badly battered convoy last week.

"In a series of coordinated attacks, our heavy, medium and attack units with strong fighter cover bombed the (Lae) airdrome, harbor installations, stores and barges," Gen. MacArthur reported.

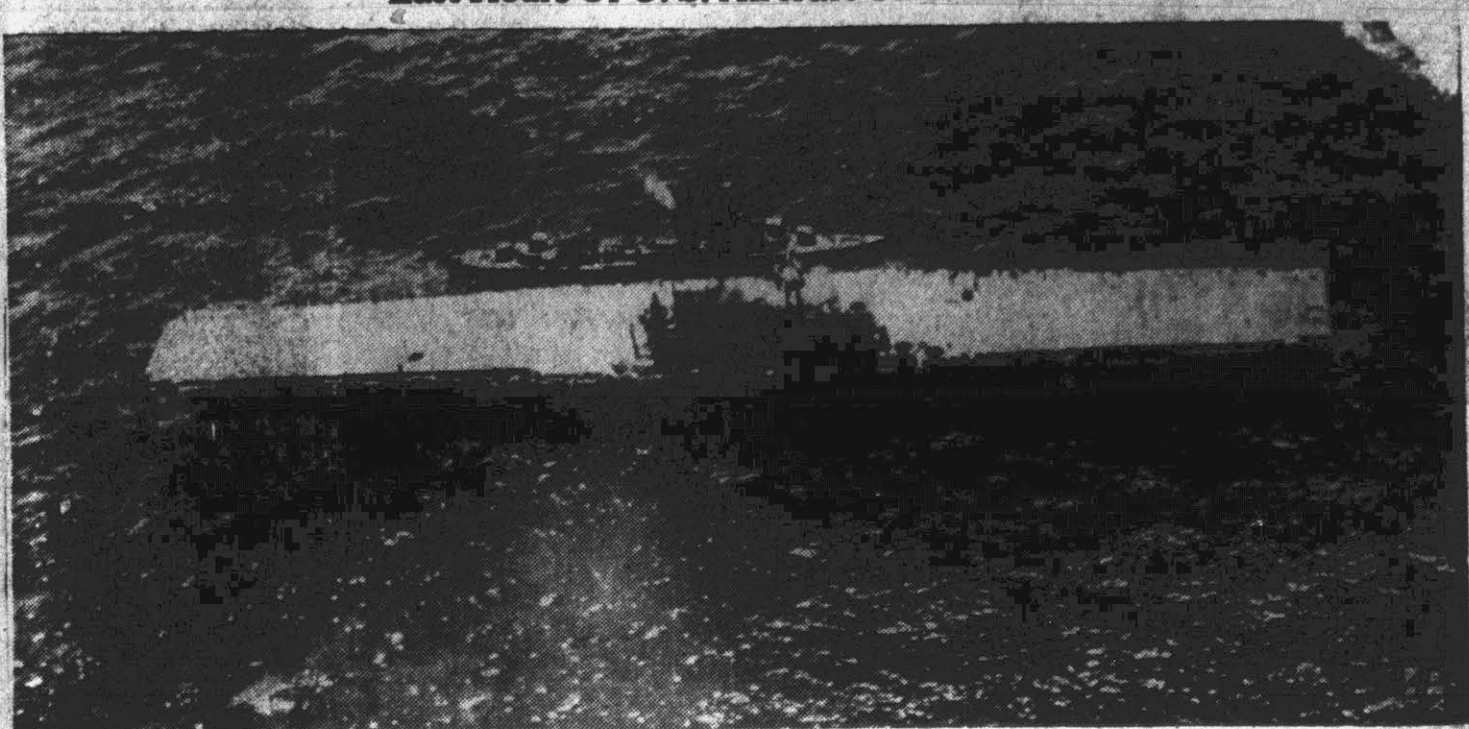

"Damage was heavy and large fires were started." Nine Japanese bombers raided the wharf area at Merauke in Dutch New Guinea, the communique said, but caused negligible damage.

In Burma, RAF planes flying from bases in India renewed the attack on the big Japanese base at Akyab, on the Bay of Bengal, and pounded targets at Kyauktaw, 40 miles north of Akyab.

British headquarters said RAF raiders machine-gunned Akyab airport and also strafed enemy shipping on the Mayu river.

No further information was forthcoming on the progress of Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's British column driving back into Burma from India, last reported about 25 miles from Akyab.

Last Hours Of U. S. Aircraft Carrier Hornet

The stricken United States aircraft carrier Hornet lies dead in the water, an American destroyer along her side, after Jap warplanes severely damaged her in a morning attack during the Battle of Santa Cruz islands last October 26. Another attack later in the day damaged her so badly that U. S. surface craft sent her to the bottom.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WITH JOINED HANDS

Recently I heard a bishop of the Episcopal Church relate a striking personal experience which occurred during the first world war. The bishop was a young minister at that time, serving as chaplain, and after the signing of the Armistice he went with the army of occupation into the Rhineland. On Christmas Eve in a great German city, the band played in the square as the Christmas tree was lighted, and then the little German boys and girls and the American soldiers joined hands around the Christmas tree and sang "Silent Night," each in his native tongue.

These little boys are now the soldiers of this war, and this past Christmas there was precious little singing around Christmas trees for Germans anywhere, and none of course for the soldiers at the front. Worst of all, the simple and beautiful faith of twenty-five years ago has been destroyed by careful indoctrination in a god-hating philosophy. The picture is a tragic one—little boys twenty-five years ago joyfully singing a Christmas hymn, and today, by careful tuition of their government, having everything Christianity stands for.

May the day speedily come when nations all over the world can again join hands and praise the God of peace and righteousness. And may this war stamp out forever a philosophy which exalts force and teaches men to hate their fellows.

WAY TO WIN

Government expenditures have become so fabulous that an inclination has grown on the part of many people to avoid the subject on the ground that the war comes first. Ostrich-like, they ignore a couple of important facts. Before battles can be won, the machines to win them must be built. That takes money. Secondly, the all-important matter of how the money is raised to build these machines may finally determine who wins the peace.

During the coming year the government will have to borrow upward of 60 billions of dollars, over and above the amount it collects in taxes. It must borrow the bulk of the money directly from the people in one manner or another. Borrowing directly from the people is the hard, sure way of winning the war—and the peace. And that is the way we must do it.

RIDING FOR A FALL

A military man just returned from the Solomons says that news of strikes and other delays in the war effort back home is most distasteful to the men on the battlefronts. Those men can't understand why it is, that while they are fighting day and night without regard to hours or discomforts, labor back home is endeavoring to take advantage of every opportunity to grasp additional benefits for itself and is willing to sacrifice the war effort in order to do it. Nor can they understand why the government that is supposed to be operating on an all-out war basis will permit such things to hinder the war effort and endanger the lives of the men at the front and the future freedom of the country.

Unless something is done quickly to correct these matters it is going to be a sad day for both the administration and organized labor when the war finally ends and the men at the front return to civil life. They will bring back with them a resentment that will result in an effort to get rid of every war-time office-holder and take away from labor all the advantages it has gained over a long period of years.

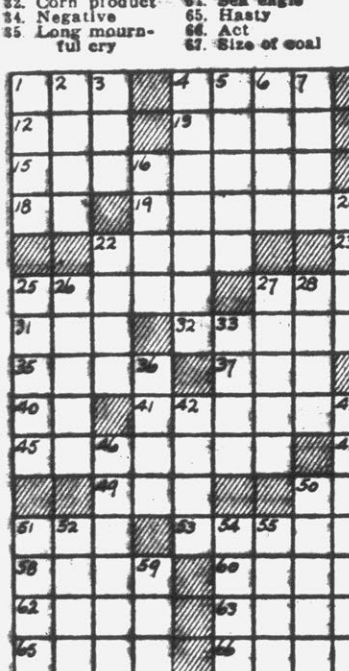

The present grasping attitudes of labor and the tendency of the administration to let labor have its way, is not only a dangerous thing for the country's war effort at this time, but is dangerous for the politicians and labor when the boys get back home.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

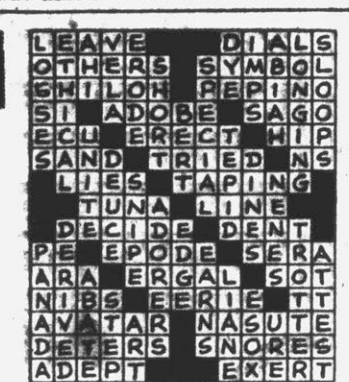

Washington — When the story started simmering here recently that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had recalled his military mission to the United States because we were transferring war materials in India destined for China to the British, the debunkers went to work again.

This is a story that might well have started on Axis short-wave stations.

Let's examine the facts. It's true: (1) That the Chinese military commission has started for home (but it's going to take a leisurely junket through training centers and war plants and probably will not actually be on its way for six weeks yet); (2) That the Generalissimo isn't happy about the short-of-all-out aid being given China (but neither is Stalin happy about aid to Russia; Prime Minister Curtin happy about what is being done to clean up the Australian area; nor the Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, Greeks, etc., happy that we haven't opened a big second front on their frontiers).

(3) There is no longer any open road to China. The only possible way we can get any supplies to them immediately is by plane. The only way we can get heavy supplies to them soon is by reopening the Burma Road. The only way we can reopen the Burma Road is by giving General Wavell's (United Nations—not "British") forces in India all the heavy supplies that we possibly can ship there.

Four—When Gen. Hsiung Shihfei, head of the Chinese military mission here, came out of his farewell conference with the President and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, he answered, "We shall never be satisfied until our enemy is completely defeated." The answer is strictly Oriental, but the conclusion that he and his aides walked out of the White House in anger or disgust is just somebody's pipedream.

(5) That Madame Chiang Kai-shek came to the United States for other reasons than her health and that it may well be that timetable for the United Nations' drive into Burma has been ordered stepped up because of Madame Chiang's pleas here.

(6) That as the "arsenal for Democracy" the United States is on the spot as never before. It's up to us to supply the sinews of war in the Pacific. With England to help, we've got to keep aid to Russia flowing; provide most of the knock-out drops for the Axis in western Africa; clear the Mediterranean; and threaten the Axis with a second front from Norway to Brittany.

Seven—It's the nature of nations to fight for all they can get. Some men who have complained against our apparent strategy have been aware that their statements would be used by the Axis as divide-and-conquer propaganda, but they have been willing to risk that for the sake of increasing the protection of their own people.

These seven points have come from the best military and diplomatic sources. I could find here, to match the production of the United States, the British Empire and Russia.

So Fritz Saukel, the fuhrer's commissioner for the drafting of labor, throws his dragnet over all Europe. Pierre Laval's latest shameful bargain with Hitler is said to provide for the sending of 400,000 more skilled French workers to Germany. Saukel is understood to have drawn some 700,000 men from the occupied Ukraine for German farms and industry. All the satellite and conquered lands are feeling increasing pressure to supply men, either as soldiers or workers—Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania, Croatia, Slovakia, even Spain, in addition to the helpless conquered lands like France the low countries Denmark, Norway, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Saukel, it has been said, is working toward the goal of 6,000,000 alien workers in Germany and he is steadily approaching the goal.

This system is liable to strains and faults not found in the economy of free lands, but the Reich has developed methods for dealing with these of an undeniable effectiveness. It would be folly for the United Nations not to anticipate a greater German war output this year than ever before. U-boats still are being produced faster than we can destroy them; the Nazi aircraft industry continues to give the Allies a real contest in the race for new and better types; testimony from many fronts is that the German forces receive a steady flow of new powerful, constantly improved weapons. Hitler's war machine no longer enjoys the terrible preponderance in trained manpower and weapons it held over all adversaries in 1940-41 but that is because of the rising might of those adversaries.

replaced, the demands of the second front already opened in the Mediterranean area and of the preparations against a third front in the west must be met. At the same time war industry must be expanded and accelerated to an unprecedented degree in the attempt to match the production of the United States, the British Empire and Russia.

Chapter 23 Three More Planes

In just ten days they brought Dan from the hospital. Mary returned home at noon one day to find him, pale and a little hollow-eyed, but otherwise very much himself. Comfortably settled in Dad's big leather fireside chair in the library, he looked up from his book as Mary, amazed, stopped in the doorway.

"Well, hello," he said automatically and at once missed his characteristic, crinkly-eyed smile.

"Hello yourself," he said coolly, rose politely.

"I am so—" she was about to say "surprised"—maybe even thunder-struck better expressed her feelings—but realized that wasn't exactly the welcoming hostess. So she changed it to "glad that you are making such rapid recovery."

"Thank you," he didn't sit down. Didn't even seem to want her to sit down either.

"Well—I am so glad," she said weakly, wished her lips weren't so ready to tremble.

"You're looking well," he said, and she knew from the cool scrutiny of his blue eyes that he recognized her embarrassment and was enjoying it.

"Thank you"—and couldn't think of another thing to say.

"I haven't had an opportunity before now to congratulate you on your heroism in saving our lives. I wanted to ask you how it felt to be the 'loneliness of the hour!'"

Mary winced, remembering her own sarcasm, remembered, too, Dan's reply. "Oh—I'm enjoying it thoroughly."

"I thought as much. At that, you did a nice job."

Lips curling, she smiled. "Thank you so much."

"For a rich man's darling, you do pretty well."

Mary, hands jammed deep in the pockets of her sport coat, realized that he hadn't heard of her broken engagement. For a moment she considered telling him. Then, something held her tongue. He'd hear of it sooner or later. Telling him of it now would seem too much like a plea for forgiveness.

She murmured something polite and escaped to her room. Where she demanded of the reflection that faced her when she dropped down on the bench before her dressing table—where was the Dan Sherman she'd first met? The one who'd pronounced her beautiful. The one who'd even insisted that she was in love with him. Something had changed him so—made him seem bitter, hard. Why couldn't he see that she did love him, now. And that she knew it.

That was easy, the reflection seemed to answer. All that first ardor had been before Carmencita! Simple as that!

Familiarity Breeds Contempt
Mary turned away from the truth her mirror told, busied herself with elaborate ritual of bathing and changing into afternoon clothes. This would be the third benefit bridge party this week. She dreaded another, yet knew she would go docilely enough. In some small way, it would appease her mother she hoped.

Mary sighed. She knew that Mother had a plan! Maybe she was trying to let "absence" make the heart grow fonder! Mary smiled to herself. Or maybe—and this idea nagged her full attention—she was fighting fire with fire!

So that accounted for Dan Sherman's presence in his house! Mary saw through it all now. Bring the enemy right into camp and then fight him with all the subtle weapons of which Evelyn Garthwaite was master!

It should've been to verify her analysis of the situation, Mary got it that afternoon as she and her mother drove to the bridge party.

"I'm so thrilled with the Lieutenant's rapid recovery, aren't you dear?" her mother said gayly, just missing a car as she left-turned into a side street.

Mary held her breath a moment. Mother's driving was sometimes as erratic as her thinking.

"Yes—very."

Mary studied her mother's face from the corner of her eye. She'd been perfectly right. Mother's plan was so simple, and so obvious, a child could understand it. Familiarity would breed contempt, she thought bitterly. Yes—but probably only more of Dan's contempt!

"Yes, Mother," she said quietly and resolved right then to get somewhere to do her patriotic duty—somewhere outside of her own home! If Dan needed cheering, she certainly wasn't the girl to do it!

Still heavy-hearted, Mary reported for duty at the post the next morning, glad to have something to do to occupy her mind. And the events of the morning did just exactly that.

By nine-thirty the first of three strange planes had passed high overhead. The other two followed in quick succession.

Before Mary had finished telephoning in report of the first, she was sure that something utterly sinister was happening. Flying so high she could not identify them, the planes came in directly from the veiling banks of fog just off shore headed straight toward the mountains. Just as—weeks before—she had observed other planes. Planes that had simply disappeared.

Fire
But submarines were known to be off shore. Some of them large enough to carry a small plane. And certainly aircraft could come in this close from a carrier. Mary, straining to hear better the muffled hum of those distant motors, recalled details of the torpedoing of the Coast Guard cutter that Dan had commanded.

Crippled, Dan's ship had radioed the alarm and news had filtered back later that the huge blimp that patrolled the coast had dropped the charge that finished that submarine.

But the enemy was back. Mary felt sure of it as she listened to the drone dying away toward the mountains. She was sure she caught something of alarm in the impersonal voice at Fourth Interceptor Command headquarters.

When, shortly before noon, she received the telephoned information that three planes had crashed up on the last ridge, that forest rangers reported fires starting, she knew her premonition of danger hadn't been unfounded.

"Of course, they'll find the wrecked planes right away and be able to identify—"

"Don't be too optimistic," the girl who relieved her at noon that day warned her dryly. "Those mountains are vast, you know. It may take days before they find the planes. And did you hear that three farmers in Mission Valley reported they saw parachutists?"

Horrid! Mary stared at the uniformed girl. "Really! Do you suppose they could just be—imagining things?"

"Maybe," the girl shrugged. "I doubt it. We've been receiving so much attention here from our wily enemy—why not parachutists too?"

Mary nodded, started down the steep stone steps. Why not, indeed? And had those planes she'd heard weeks before dropped parachutists too? Could that account for the sabotage, for the wrecked railway trestle, for the deadly accurate shelling along the coast?

5. Recommendation by Senator Butler (R-Neb.) that the United States, once victory is won, acquire "all the thousands of islands in the Pacific and establish mighty air bases" so that "any local insurrection can be stopped before it gets a head start."

Senator George asserted that committees of both houses probably will be busy with pressing matters for several months making it impossible to consider a social security program in that time even if the President should outline his plans specifically.

"Certainly," he said, "we ought to pass some kind of pay-as-you-earn tax legislation before March 15, if that is humanly possible. It won't be long until we will have to extend the debt limitation, for the deficit is climbing daily, and the administration will want the trade agreement authority renewed before it expires June 30."

goods for civilian consumption to the manufacture of war materials. It was reported reliably that last fall only 20 per cent of the nation's industrial capacity was producing peace-time goods.

Even the firm which has been manufacturing Nazi party flags and decorations for party affairs has been involved in the turn over and now is making camouflage materials—for which unrelenting British aerial assaults have created a great demand.

Shortages consequently are being felt more keenly in every line. While new clothing ration cards are being issued, the German press has warned the public to use their sparingly, and it will be possible to purchase a new suit only in case of "urgent necessity."

Shoes also have been standardized and now are purchasable only with a special permit obtained from rationing boards. Previously unrationed articles of wearing apparel, such as suspenders and garters have been placed on the point system.

WHEN GRANDMA COOKED

The exacting recipes of today's gayly covered, streamlined cookbooks are a far cry from those of olden days when grandma whipped up many a tasty morsel from a "pound of this" and a "pinch of that," mixed well with a "quarter of a stone of flour." We also know that quality products were just as important then as they are today, and that grandma was just as interested in getting the best for her money as are today's homemakers. That's why we say you can always be sure of quality if you buy Wilson's Certified Products.

Sweetbread-Ham Rolls: Soak 1 large pair sweetbreads (unrestricted) in cold water 20 minutes. Drain. Drop into sufficient boiling water to cover. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 peppercorns, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 stalk chopped celery. Simmer 20 minutes. Drain. Plunge into cold water. Drain, remove skin and membrane. Break into 4 parts.

Add sweetbreads to 1 cup thick cream sauce (made of 3 tablespoons Clear Brook Butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup liquid made of cream and sweetbread stock). Chill until sauce is firm. Roll in sifted bread crumbs. Wrap in ½ inch thick slices of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham. Fasten with toothpicks and broil slowly.

Taste-tempting, too, when served with broiled orange slices or sliced potatoes, dipped in melted butter, then broiled.

DIMAGGIO OUT OF BASEBALL

Quitting Game To Join Armed Forces, Says Joe

Reno, Nev., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Joe Dimaggio, perhaps the greatest player in the game today, is quitting baseball to join the armed forces.

Back on a love-and-kisses basis with his pretty wife, Dorothy, the New York Yankee batting star, the game's highest paid player, made known he would apply for some branch of the service "as soon as I can get a few things straightened out."

Joe has been one of the Yankees' top batters since 1935, when he went to the big time from the San Francisco Seals. His 1942 salary was $40,000 or thereabouts.

Twice Joe has led the American league in batting, twice has been named its most valuable player. In 1940 he led the league in home runs, his specialty.

Joe would be the 11th Yankee to join the services, those before him including Red Ruffing, Phil Rizzuto and Tommy Henrich.

With an arm around Mrs. Dimaggio, Joe told newsmen he was enlisting shortly but would return to baseball after the war "if I can still play." He said he hadn't decided yet just what branch of the service he would ask for.

Joe's San Francisco draft board must grant him permission to enlist. He is deferred in class 3-A because of his wife and son, Joseph Paul Dimaggio 3rd, 14 1-2 months old.

Mrs. Dimaggio had been in Nevada just one day short of the required six weeks residence period for divorce when they called newsmen to the office of their attorney, and announced they had patched up their differences.

Due largely to his excellent work, the Yankees have figured in six world series in the seven full years he has been with them. He went to the Yankees for only $25,000, plus two players.

Until last season, when a slow start caused him to drop to .305, Joe had an all-time batting average of .345. In 1939, his peak year, he hit .381.

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The hockey team had to call off a game with Minnesota because it had only seven players available after they had met once. It also called off the rest of its schedule. Gordon Gilmore of the St. Paul Dispatch provides further information that both teams wanted to let the Illinois use freshmen so the second game could be played as an "exhibition" but the Western Conference faculty representative said no because of the Big Ten freshman rule. This, Gilmore points out, caused Minnesota to waste some 17,000 man miles of transportation. It also leads us to wonder what kind of trains were meant in those high-frown speeches we've heard about the valuable "training" offered by college athletics.

MANY PLAYERS IN SERVICE NOW

Big League Has Been Hard Hit By Call To Arms

By AUSTIN BEALNEAR

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Baseball fans will get their usual quota of Major league games during the 1943 season, unless present plans fall through, but they may have to tour the globe for a glimpse of their favorite stars.

The baseball world still was waving goodbye to Pete Reiser, the slugging center fielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, yesterday when Joe Dimaggio, who operates in a similar capacity for the New York Yankees, decided to follow pistol Pete into the armed forces.

His marital problems solved, Dimaggio announced in Reno, Nev., where his wife had taken up residence, that "everything is straightened out," and "I'm going to try to get into the armed forces in the near future."

Reiser passed his physical examination in St. Louis earlier in the day and was accepted for service in the army.

With Reiser, the Dodgers have sent 15 men into the service and are topped in that respect in the national league only by the Phils, who have watched 17 players march off to war.

In the American league, the Athletics and White Sox boast the largest service flags, each with 19 players in the employ of Uncle Sam.

A total of 201 Major leaguers are now in the army, navy, coast guard or marine corps, 116 of them from the American league.

Pitchers Ted Lyons and Johnny Rigney are among the White Sox players wearing uniforms of another sort. The Athletics' list is headed by Phil Marchildon.

Greenburg is one of 18 Detroit Tigers in fighting togs. The Cleveland Indians have lost 15 in addition to Feller.

The Washington Senators have seen 15 of their players march away including Cecil Travis, Sid Hudson and Bruce Campbell. Dimaggio will be the 11th New York Yankee to go. He will join such former teammates as Red Ruffing, Phil Rizzuto and Tommy Henrich as well as his brother, Dominic, one of nine from the Boston Red Sox, who furnished Williams and Johnny Pesky. The St. Louis Browns have sent eight.

Pitchers Hugh Mulcahy heads the Philadelphia Phils' list of 17. The Dodgers point with pride to 14 who preceded Reiser, including Harry Lavolette, Hugh Casey, Johnny Rizzo and Larry French.

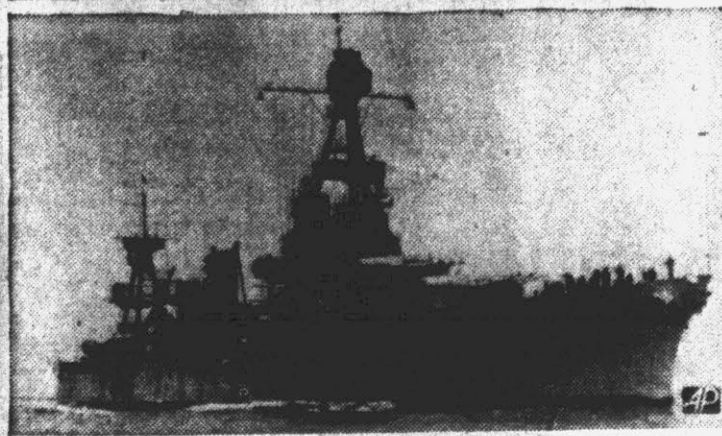

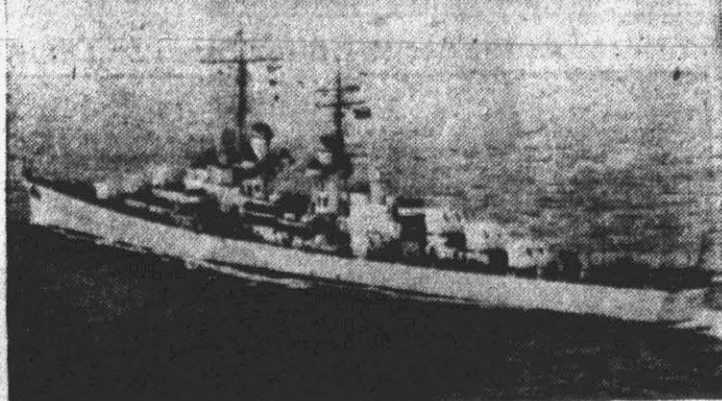

The Chicago Cubs already have sent a dozen players.

The New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds had lost 11 each. Hal Schumacher and Babe Young are

U. S. Cruisers Lost In Guadalcanal Battles

The light cruisers, U. S. S. Juneau (left) and U. S. S. Atlanta (top, right) and the heavy cruiser, U. S. S. Northampton (bottom, right) were sunk in Guadalcanal battles. The Juneau and Atlanta were sunk between November 13 and 15, and the Northampton was lost north of Guadalcanal the night of November 30-December 1. Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With The Wind," christened the Atlanta at Kearny, N. J., September 6, 1941.

the best known among the Giant losses, while the Reds' group includes their No. 1 catcher, Ray Lamman.

Stu Martin and John Lanning are among the nine sent by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals have only five in the armed forces, but Terry Moore is a civilian instructor for the army and won't be back. The Boston Braves have lost five also.

In addition, all the clubs have some players working in defense plants and they may not report for spring training, although the war Manpower Commission don't hold them to their jobs in most cases.

sive actions along the Tunisian front. Even this action was not touched upon in an Allied force communique.

"There is no change in the ground situation," it said.

"Air activity was light. Our fighters shot down one enemy fighter without loss."

"Last night two enemy bombers were destroyed. It is now known that one more enemy bomber was destroyed January 12."

The French spokesman said that 80 Italians were captured after the French closed in upon a valley where fighting had been going on for two days.

It was also announced that a Morocco division operating near Kairouan had killed 17 Germans and captured eight in local engagements.

An American Spitfire pilot shot down a German plane from a number seeking to attack an advanced air field and the raiders were driven off, a spokesman for the RAF announced.

On the political front two more minor arrests were reported in the military investigation into the Christmas Eve assassination of Admiral Jean Darlan. The prisoners were held for questioning.

help little business men, particularly those affected by wartime priorities.

Leading the fight for merchants hurt by restrictions, Rep. Ward of Craven proposed that, with the approval of the advisory budget commission, the revenue commissioner be granted authority to modify or suspend business license taxes under war conditions.

A measure by Rep. McDougle to deal with habitual drunkards in Mecklenburg county received a favorable report from judiciary committee one of the house today and there were indications that other counties would be included.

The bill would allow a judge in his discretion to impose a $50 fine or 30 days imprisonment on the first public drunkenness conviction, $100 or 60 days for the second if within 12 months and two years on the roads for the third.

Rep. Burns of Person suggested that the bill be made statewide and Rep. Falls said he wanted to include Cleveland. Rep. Arch Allen of Wake said he wanted to talk with his local judge about it. So the committee reported the measure favorably and said that it could be amended from the house floor.

Scouts Praised By Rickenbacker

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker declared today that American service men were better fighters because of the self-reliance they learned as Boy Scouts.

Rickenbacker told 450 committee members and workers of the Greater New York Councils of Boy Scouts of America at a "dawn patrol" breakfast starting the councils' 1943 campaign to raise $350,000, that the scout teachings were largely responsible for the self-reliance of former scouts fighting "in many hell-holes throughout the world."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—Late buying in steels, chemicals and specialties shook the stock market out of its general apathy today and put favorites up fractionally to 2 or more points. Near the close, prices were pretty well jumbled. Numerous issues sold at Wednesday's final quotations. Transfers were around 600,000 shares.

Anti-Fascist Editor Slain In Dim-Out Mystery

The body of bearded Carlo Tresca, anti-Fascist editor of the Italian semi-monthly "Il Martello," lies in the street (left) after he was shot in New York on dimmed-out Fifth Avenue. The assassin escaped in a small dark sedan. Tresca (right) was 58.

Georgia's New Governor Takes Oath

Ellis G. Arnall, (left) Georgia's retiring attorney general, accepts the reins as chief executive of the state as Chief Justice Charles S. Reid of the state supreme court, administers the oath during inaugural ceremonies held in front of the state capitol building in Atlanta. Eugene Talmadge, (right) who was defeated by the 35-year-old Newnan attorney, stands by solemnly. Visible in the rear between Arnall and Justice Reid, is E. D. Rivers, succeeded by Talmadge two years ago.

T. H. Lemmicks Died After Long Illness

Mr. T. H. Lemmicks, 77, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Mezzell of Winterville, Wednesday night at 11:20 following three weeks of critical illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Walter B. Nobles, Free Will Baptist Minister of Winterville. Burial will be in the Winterville Cemetery.

Mr. Lemmicks is survived by two sons, E. H. Lemmicks of Carson, Va., and W. L. Lemmicks of Emporia, Va., a daughter, Mrs. L. W. Mezzell of Winterville, and 17 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

His family moved to Winterville last January from Florida.

To Launch New Carrier Sunday

Camden, N. J., Jan. 14—(AP)—The daughter of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander of the South Pacific force of the Pacific fleet, will christen a new aircraft carrier—the USS Cowpens—at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation yards Sunday, the Fourth Naval District announced today.

Mrs. Preston Lea Spruance of Greenville, Del., will sponsor the craft and Admiral Halsey's wife and the three Spruance children, Preston Lea, Jr., 9, Margaret, 7, and William Halsey Spruance, 5, will attend the ceremony.

The Cowpens will be the fourth carrier launched by the New York shipbuilders in 20 weeks. The others were the Independence, Princeton and Belleau Wood.

Named in memory of a Revolutionary War battle fought at Cowpens, S. C., the ship, like the Independence, Princeton and Belleau Wood, was converted from a 10,000-ton cruiser part way through construction, the Navy said.

Thief Makes Haul; But Money No Good

Charlotte, Jan. 14—(AP)—A thief broke into a downtown drug store here last night and stole from the window a display of money, including two $100 bills, two $20's, two $5's and two ones.

But he is due for a rude awakening if he tries to spend his loot. The bills formed a "know your money" exhibit placed in the window by the U. S. Secret Service. They were all either specimens or counterfeits.

WILL REVIEW SEA WARFARE

Committee Seeks Full Report For The Nation

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—Anxious to give the public all information possible within the bounds of military security, the House Naval Committee decided to undertake today a broad review of American sea warfare since Pearl Harbor.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) reported that the inquiry would get under way with Vice Admiral E. H. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, called as the first witness.

Horne's testimony was expected to lay a broad foundation for a continuing study which will cover almost every phase of the naval program, from the training of WAVES to the battleship-versus-carrier argument.

The first session will be held behind closed doors. Vinson said details of naval strategy could not be disclosed for obvious reasons, but that Horne—after the meeting—would make public a statement covering in general terms as much of his testimony as deemed safe.

Other committee members said they would inquire into such questions as these:

1. What strides have been made in combatting the submarine menace?
2. How close is the coordination now between the Navy and other armed forces?
3. How great a menace is the outpost established by the Japanese in the Aleutians, and what is being done to oust them?
4. What steps have been taken in developing the Navy's air arm?
5. What does the Navy need chiefly in the way of new ships or new legislation?
6. Have recent engagements demonstrated that present type plane carriers are too vulnerable to air attack?

Baltimore local declared: "I defy any of you to stop us from going back."

The position of 7,000 other strikers employed in four collieries was not determined in the poll. United Mine Workers leaders believed some favored returning and others were for continuing the 16-day-old wildcat walkout in spite of a war labor board declaration indicating, said they were "content to let the government make the next move."

Others developments included: 1. Spokesmen for another 23,000 miners in the southern section of the mine region set Friday as a "deadline" for action on their demands for a bonus over present wages estimated unofficially to average $8.50 daily.

2. Coal dealers in Philadelphia reported their stocks exhausted or extremely low and stockpiles reached low levels elsewhere in the oil-rattled northeast.

3. In Washington solid fuels coordinator Ickes announced that anthracite producers had temporarily suspended shipments to Canada and to points west of Erie, Pa., and that bituminous coal producers would increase shipments to the north Atlantic area. Ickes said the anthracite producers acted at the "request" of his office and that Brig. Gen. Bruce P. Disque, assistant coordinator, had asked the bituminous industry to supply 200,000 tons a week to former anthracite users during the emergency period caused by the strike.

4. Representative McCormack, House majority leader, and Senator Brewster, (R-Me.), said in Washington those responsible for the walk-out are guilty of "what might well be termed treason."

Convoy Arrives At British Port

London, Jan. 14—(AP)—Large numbers of American forces, together with a big contingent of New Zealand, Australian and Canadian air personnel have arrived at a British port, it was disclosed today.

W. J. Dorian, New Zealand high commissioner, welcomed the troops and gave a special word to the Americans, acknowledging kindness shown by the people of the United States to New Zealanders.

Five Killed In Crash Of Bomber

Blountstown, Fla., Jan. 14—(AP)—An Army bomber from MacDill Field, Fla., crashed in a forest near Blountstown yesterday, killing five men on a routine training flight. There were no survivors.

MacDill announced these dead: Second Lt. Neil B. Snyder, Enid, Okla., pilot.
Second Lt. Sanford O. Schulberg, Belleville, Mich., co-pilot.
Second Lt. Abner R. Brooks, El Paso, Tex., navigator.
Staff Sgt. Walter E. Chatham, Galveston, Tex., engineer.
Staff Sgt. Waldo W. Lindsey, Irwin, Ga., bombardier.

Some Miners . . .

Approximately 300 officials of the United Mine Workers, which has joined in pleas for an end to the walkout, attended last night's meeting. To leaders of the 10,000 miners who decided to disregard the W.B. James Hennihah, president of the

Navy Flier Killed
Norfolk, Va., Jan. 14—(AP)—The Fifth Naval District announced today that a navy land plane crashed in Chesapeake Bay yesterday, killing its pilot. Ensign Robert Warren Kooniz, U. S. N. R., of Auburn, Alaska.

Russian Drive . . .

combined drive northwest of Minnirnyie Vody, the smashing of waves of determined Axis counterattacks in the lower Don river area and new successes in the Russian campaign to throw the Germans out of the Stalingrad factory area and to exterminate the besiegers.

(The Russian army of the lower Don has swept into several more populated places in their drive toward Rostov despite stubborn enemy resistance, the Soviet noon communique said today.

(The towns were not named in the war bulletin which was recorded in London by the Soviet Monitor from Moscow broadcasts, but the communique said that heavy toll was exacted from the enemy.

(A number of places also were taken in the North Caucasus drive the Russians reported, after the rout of Axis troops attempting counterattacks, and the capture of one town allowed the release of a large group of Soviet citizens and prisoners of war who had been held in a concentration camp.

(The war bulletin also said that nine German planes were brought down in duels in the Stalingrad area and that a Russian airforce raid on a German airbase there resulted in the destruction of five more Axis planes.)

(The Moscow correspondent of Reuters reported in London that high-ranking German officers were leaving the Stalingrad area by plane.)

Red army columns slashed due north from the Mineralnye-Vody-Rostov rail line to recapture Zhuravskoye, seizing the district center of Novoselskoye and other large towns it was stated.

Zhuravskoye is 45 miles west of Budenovsk and 20 miles to the north of it is Blagodatnoye, at the head of a rail spur that pushes northwest to meet the Divno-Krapotkin railroad. Thus more elements of the Caucasus army are fused with the Red army troops that had rolled south through the Kalmyk steppe to form a vast front now ready to turn west in a sweep toward Rostov.

In one unspecified sector of the Caucasus battle the early communique reported that a German infantry and tank counterattack was repulsed with 14 tanks destroyed and the infantry turned by a flank attack that accounted for 100 German dead.

(The German news agency DNB was quoted by Reuters, British news agency, as conceding last night that Soviet tanks had broken the Axis main line in the Caucasus.)

WHAT HELPS NORTH CAROLINA HELPS you!

The loss of these taxes would mean that you would have to dig still deeper into your pocket to maintain these services.

To protect such contributions to our state's welfare, the brewing industry carries on a self-regulation program designed to assure wholesome conditions wherever beer is sold. You know this program as the "Clean Up or Close Up" campaign.

As a part of this work, our Committee has cooperated with your law enforcement officers to eliminate 241 undesirable beer outlets.

Your help is asked. You give it when you patronize only those dealers who are law-abiding, and when you report any law violations to the authorities, or to this Committee.

Every legitimate industry that contributes to North Carolina's good is important to you, too.

The legal beer industry gives jobs to 13,000 North Carolinians. It pays them salaries totalling more than $12,000,000 a year. Its steadily growing taxes—$2,800,000 to the state in 1942—are a tremendous aid in advancing many public services.
