Red Army Closing In On Rostov From Three Sides

Drive Also Headed Toward Kharkov, Important German-held Rail Center In Ukraine; Millerovo Recaptured By Reds After Being By-Passed; Nazis Around Stalingrad Being Slaughtered

By The Associated Press
London, Jan. 18 — The Red army was reported pouring across the Donets river a few miles east of Kamensk today in a southward drive on Rostov 85 miles away which was closely coordinated with a multi-headed Soviet assault grinding at all Germany's summer gains in South Russia and approaching within 118 miles of Kharkov, great steel center of the Ukraine.

A special communique and the regular midnight communique as recorded from Moscow broadcasts by the Soviet Monitor told of mighty strides taken by the Russian troops on a front which enveloped southern Russia from Voronezh to the Caucasus foothills.

Millerovo, by-passed last month on the Russian drive along the Moscow-Rostov railway, was reported recaptured. The special communique announcing its fall said "several garrisons" of the city were annihilated by Russian troops.

Several dozen communities in the bend of the north Donets were reported captured, including several large places, one of which was Kaitivskaya, dislocated on the river.

A Moscow broadcast said the river had been crossed, presumably in the neighborhood of Kaitivskaya only 12 miles east of Kamensk, like Millerovo an important railway center on the Moscow-Rostov line.

The Russian force moving southward toward the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk-Novorossiisk railway was reported just 23 miles south of Salsk a railroad center 100 miles southeast of Rostov. This separate Soviet army was menacing Rostov from points 85, 80, and 123 miles.

The Red army is now in position to drive on Rostov, key Nazi supply center, from both the north and the east and other Russian columns are approaching the city on tangents such as the Stalingrad-Novorossiisk railway and the Rostov-Baku railway in the Caucasus.

Smart Flier

Cairo, Jan. 17 (AP)—A single plane of the "Groupe Breigny" flyers with General Jacques LeClerc's Central African Army now moving to the aid of the Allies in North Africa, captured 77 Italian troops. Its pilot who saw the garrison of Italian-held Fort Murzuch, 2,500 air miles southeast of Tripoli, evacuating their stronghold, machine-gunned them until his ammunition was exhausted.

Then he dropped a note threatening to open fire with his cannon unless they surrendered. They did. He had no cannon.

British Eighth Army Is Driving Toward Tripoli

Rommel's Forces Continue In Flight; Allied Airmen Bomb Tripoli And Axis Shipping

Cairo, Jan. 18—(AP)—The British Eighth Army, sweeping across Libya after cracking Field Marshal Rommel's defense at Buerat, El Hsun, was reported within 100 miles of Tripoli today in a thrust apparently designed to by-pass Misurata and other points along the African coast.

A communique from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters announcing that the Vanguard of the British Eighth Army had reached the vicinity of Beni Ulid indicated that his forces were taking a straight line across the Tripolitanian "hump" in an effort to get to Tripoli by the shortest possible route.

Montgomery's announcement said that his forces were in contact with the enemy last evening in the area between Beni Ulid and the coastal villages of Touga and Bir Dufan after advancing a total of more than 80 miles.

The British communique indicated that the Libyan battlefield was more than 70 miles long, stretching from the area of Taouga, 25 miles south of Misurata and Bir Dufan, eight miles farther south of the coastal road, to Beni Ulid, which is on a road leading across country to Tripoli.

British observers said Montgomery was trying hard to bring Rommel to battle, but that the wily German commander was doing his best to avoid a major engagement by fighting small-scale delay actions by day and retreating at night.

Allied bombers, meanwhile, continued their assault on Rommel's base of supplies with two attacks on Tripoli, yesterday.

The Board of Aldermen will meet at the City Hall Thursday night at 7:30 in adjourned session to discuss a proposal to extend the city limits to take a substantial suburban area on which numerous homes have been built and which logically appears to be ready for incorporation in the city limits.

The WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, News Analyst
By GLENN BABB
The mid-winter lull which has ruled for weeks on most of the major war fronts was savagely shattered over the week-end. Berlin's 14-months respite from air attack was ended by the RAF's smashing one-two punch and Berliners made their first acquaintance with the blockbusters, so much more devastating than anything Goering has been able to deliver over London in Africa. General Montgomery set

Residents Nazi Capital Get Worst Week-End Of War

MINERS STILL OUT ON STRIKE

Decline To Return To Work Despite Government Order

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 18—(AP)—The wildcat work stoppage in Pennsylvania's anthracite field spread today to the United Mine Workers district 7 for the second time, forcing two collieries to close in district 1 who continued their 19-day-old strike despite a second War Labor Board ultimatum.

However the district 1 situation appeared to be improving. Approximately 9,000 men were working there today and a back-to-work vote was being taken at the four largest mines still idle. Michael Kosik, district UMW president, predicted that if the four resume operations, others in the district will follow.

On district 7 (Hazleton area) 1,400 employes at the Hazleton shaft colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company and 900 workers at the Edison Anthracite Company's Nesquehoning operations left their jobs in defiance of even their local leaders, some of whom stood at the mine entrance and urged the men to enter.

The Hazleton and Nesquehoning workers are concerned primarily with a demand for a $2-a-day wage increase. The district 7 (Wilkes-Barre and Scranton) strikers are demanding, in addition to a wage increase, that the UMW rescind a 50-cent-a-month increase in union dues.

In Washington, a member of the War Labor Board said the Board probably would refer the strike to President Roosevelt with an informal suggestion that he make a direct personal appeal to the strikers to return to their jobs.

A motion to refer the case to the president was made in a board meeting soon after it convened today. An early vote was expected.

In previous cases of defiance it has been the board's practice to suggest the case to the president, registering formally that he take such action as you deem appropriate. (Continued on Page Six)

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill convened a week's criminal term of Superior court here today. The docket contains several important cases. Today's session was consumed in disposing of minor cases and arranging a calendar for the week.

At the recent regular meeting of the Aldermen J. Herbert Waldrop, vice-president and cashier of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company and a suburban property and home owner, made the proposal to the aldermen in behalf of others.

Midwinter Thunder Storm Was Unusual

A thunderstorm prevailed over a wide area of Eastern Carolina last night, with intermittent showers in mid-January. The rainfall here was light Sunday night. Scattered showers prevailed here during the forenoon today. The temperature outdoors Sunday ranged around 70 degrees and above, in striking contrast to nearly zero weather, with snow, sleet and ice a few weeks ago.

Spring weather, however, stretched over the ratios of fuel oil for householders and business places.

RAF Blasts Berlin Second Night In Row; "Block-Busters" And Incendiaries Start Fires Visible 100 Miles; Two Retaliatory Nazi Stabs At London Puny In Comparison

By The Associated Press
London, Jan. 18 — A strong force of RAF bombers laid huge fires across Berlin in the renewed "war of the capitals" last night, but stiffened defenses of the German city took a toll of 22 planes compared with only one of the previous night.

London's anti-aircraft gunners meanwhile threw Nazi raiders into confusion by the fierceness of their barrage during two assaults last night and early today when the attackers lost 10 or perhaps more planes.

German efforts at retaliation for the mighty attack which apparently caught Berlin defenses napping Saturday night were relatively mild. London's ground guns threw up a curtain of steel and fire more thunderous and powerful than anything Londoners ever heard before.

Instead of trying to drive the bombers away from vital objectives and into the path of night fighters, the gunners aimed the batteries directly on the attacking bombers. The night's bag brought to more than 4,000 the number of enemy aircraft destroyed over Britain since the start of the war.

Folkstone, England, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A strong force of Allied planes roared out over Dover strait beneath low clouds shortly before dusk tonight in the direction of Boulogne and heavy explosions sounded for some time along the French coast.

Some of the planes were reported to be high bombers on the English side of the channel. Anti-aircraft gunfire, probably from the German coastal defenses, also was heard.

The bombers flew to Berlin in bright moonlight on most of the 1,200-mile round trip, but encountered some clouds over the target area. In contrast to the light opposition Saturday night, the Air Ministry said "there were many combats with enemy fighters." One of these was reported shot down.

The Air Ministry said 22 bombers failed to return.

The German high command, in the Berlin radio, said Nazi night fighters and anti-aircraft guns shot down 25, most of them four-motored types. Seven other Allied aircraft were declared destroyed in operations over western Europe and the North Sea.

The German figure for Nazi losses was six. The high command said the German raiders "caused extensive destruction, particularly in the district west of the large Thames bend."

Hitler's officers did not comment on damage in the Sunday night raid. (Continued on Page Six)

Christian Science Service

"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, January 17.

The golden text was from Romans 6:23. "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "My son forget not my law; but let thine heart keep my commandments; for length of days, and long life and peace, shall they add to thee."—Proverbs 3:1, 2.

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The understanding the Life is God. Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of life. Its almightiness and immortality. This faith relies upon an understood principle. This principle makes whole the diseased, and brings out the enduring and harmonious phases of things." (Page 487).

Mr. Dick Howerton, Baptist State Student Secretary, will conduct a week of Deeper Spiritual Thinking at E. C. T. C., January 18-22.

A discussion period will be held each afternoon at the Baptist Student Center from 4:00-5:00 P. M. At this time students will be free to ask questions and to give their views on pertinent problems that are facing American youth today.

There will also be a daily Pause for Power held at the Center from 1:30 to 1:45 P. M.

MEMORIAM

Twice just a year ago today, Dear Mother, God came and took you away.

He took from us our loved one and left us all no home—no mother, no father, and each child apart. No home to go to meet and greet. No mother with her smile. For you had a kind ward for every one, regardless of how you felt inside.

We miss you more than words can say. But life will always comfort us, if we live right, and always do the things you taught us each day in life. You left us sad and lonely and at times, we cannot understand. But God always knows best, and always lends a helping hand.

We hope to meet in a better land where I know you'll be waiting there. Where there's no more heart aches, no more cares; where there's no suffering. Mother, for you had more than your share. Someday, Mother, I hope to meet you. I hope to be with Jesus in the land where we never grow old, for there you'll be waiting, hoping to see each one of us I know.

—By daughter, Mrs. N. A. Roebuck.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Garden Club was held at the Woman's Club Friday, Jan. 15th. Mrs. Crisp the chairman presided. There was a short business session. The chairman put the question to the club "Shall the Garden Club continue its meetings for the duration?" The sentiment expressed deemed favorable that the club continue its meetings.

In the absence of Mrs. R. M. Garrett, Mrs. Jas. Little read a paper which had been prepared by Mrs. Garrett for the church. "Not only was this paper carefully planned and well thought through but showed that Mrs. Garrett had done considerable research. It was enjoyed and should be most helpful for the reason it emphasized both what to do and what not to do in making flower arrangements for the church.

Mr. Floyd Hendrix, Pitt County farm agent, spoke to the club on "Victory Gardens." Mr. Hendrix stated that transportation difficulties would cut Greenville off from her supply of vegetables from Florida, and would tend to reduce the supply from nearby farms in Pitt County. In spite of this probable serious shortage in vegetables, he was not particularly encouraging as to Victory Gardens in Greenville, for in his opinion, the soil is not especially adapted to this purpose. However, he added, for those who decide to put in a garden, his office would be glad to render any advisory assistance possible. The club adjourned and a social hour followed.

The hostesses were: Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Mrs. Fred Haas, Mrs. Hicks Corey, Mrs. N. T. Ennett.

P. T. A. Meeting.

The P. T. A. of the Third Street School met on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Katharine Holtzclaw, of the East Carolina Teachers College, gave a most helpful talk on "Keeping Up The Nutritional Standards During The War." This was a subject in which each mother and housekeeper was especially interested and the guest speaker gave us much valuable information.

Miss Holtzclaw was introduced by Mrs. George Synder, chairman of the program committee.

Mrs. Jane Hall used one of her lovely poems as a devotional for the afternoon.

Much business was transacted during the meeting. The members voted to donate fifty dollars to be used to purchase playground equipment.

The members are anxious to help in the Red Cross and surgical dressing rooms and would like to have some place near this part of town to do that work. A committee was appointed to see what could be done about it.

Mrs. Robeson's First Grade won the attendance prize.

Mrs. J. B. Smith acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Albion Dunn.

YWCA-YMCA Vesper Hour

Leading into a week of services sponsored by the Baptist Student Union on the campus, Dick Howerton, the Baptist State Student Secretary spoke last night at the Y. W. C. A. Y. M. C. A. Vesper Hour. The topic he chose was "Living Your Maximum for Christ."

In discussing the meaning of "living the maximum" Mr. Howerton said that we, at home, also are on the battle front—the "idea front," which is even more important than the military one.

He asked two questions: If you are not living your maximum for Christ, how can you really live? How can you mean what you should to your friends?

He was introduced by Miss Carolina Miles, a student. The service closed with the singing of the benediction a trio composed of Miriam Sexton, Eldise Barefoot, and Evelyn Stewart.

Looking Toward the Future

Glancing over the current magazines at the Sheppard Memorial Library one notices at once that many of the leading articles are taking a look toward the future.

Either they offer help for the present toward a better future or they make definite plans for the future while chaos now rules the world.

Magazines nowadays are not only colorful and fascinating to look at but they are highly informative, and they exert a strong influence on the reading public. Books just can't compete with magazines when it comes to keeping the public posted on today's events. Only the newspaper and radio surpass them.

But so much of their news is so quickly and superficially gotten up that only a certain amount of dependence can be put in them. Writers of magazine articles have so much more time in which to take a long perspective of events and thereby give saner views and judgments. Then, too, magazines offer a variety of opinions while a book is generally one man's thought, and the dilemma of the world today warrants more than the judgment of one man.

Below is a list of some of the more interesting articles that point toward the future.

"Ration Book vs. Pocketbook" by Kurt Solman. In Harper's—a discussion of the revolutionary effects which rationing may have on human society, based on an experiment in New York State whereby ration coupons are kept in bank accounts and "spent" by drawing vouchers just as we now draw checks against our money deposits.

"Nearer and Nearer the Precipice" by Virginia Dabney. In Atlantic—the editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch warns us plainly against those race riots which will be in our midst unless the rabble-raisers and the Negro agitators, extremists both are checked.

"The Strategy of Feeding Europe" by Hiram Matherwell. In Harper's—the outline of an inspiring and dynamic plan for the strategic use of American food in European reconstruction.

"Is the Church Worth Saving" by Dwight Martin. In Religious Digest—here are the cardinal points of religion explained and reasons given why the church is worth saving.

"The Beveridge Report" by Norman Cousins. In Saturday Review of Literature—a Britisher plans for a pay-as-you-go, self-sustaining plan to destroy poverty.

"Getting along in a Man's World" by Mary Lewis. In Vogue—the story of a successful woman who learned that nothing succeeds like brains, initiative, humor and luck.

"Cook be Nimble, cook be quick" by Nancy Frost Mason. In Harper's Bazaar—How not to let shortages, rations, the high cost of living, and servant problems get you down.

"Make your Quarrels Pay Dividends" by Paul Popenoe. Ladies' Journal—an explanation of how quarrels directed toward some issue that has divided a couple might be settled in such a way as to place the partnership on a sounder foundation than before.

"In Defense of Staying Put" by Oliver Gogarty. In Vogue—tells about households of continuance. Now they stand against forgetfulness, how they focus a nation's dreams.

"Needle in the Nazis" by John Kobler. In Saturday Evening Post—the story of Belgium's underground paper that poison-pens the Axis.

"We Must Quit Playing Santa Claus" by Pearl Buck. In New York Times Magazine Section—a forceful discourse telling why arms and not arms is what the Chinese want from us.

"Put Your Home on a Diet" by T. H. Robeson. In Harper's Bazaar—a new method of building a home after the war when the essence of beauty will be expressed in the words, "It Works." It includes no sweets of sentimentality, but plenty of contemporary thought and imagination.

General Robert E. Lee. January 18, 1807-October 12, 1870

"Soldier and gentleman—he did his duty as he saw it."

Brooks, speaking of Lee, wrote—"To be great after failure, quiet amid chaos, steady when all around are shaken."

"Here's to the Gray of the sun-kissed South— When we meet on the fields of France, May the spirit of Lee be with you all

As the sons of the South advance."

Miss Snyder and a group of her students will present a radio program Wednesday night at 7:45 commemorating Lee's birthday. This will be broadcast from the local radio station and is sponsored by the Sheppard Memorial Library and the local D. A. R. chapter.

Knitters Gossip

There has been a good response by knitters; but 50 more are needed to knit circular scarfs and turtle neck sweaters for the Navy.

of the third enemy raid in two days on Guadalcanal. The previous day the Japs sent two air assaults against American positions, the first multi-plane attacks on Guadalcanal since last November.

Yesterday's communique said that the latest American blow at Munda, on New Georgia island, occurred Saturday and that "a number of hits were scored in the target area."

The communique telling of the Japanese raids of Thursday and Friday did not mention Munda as the Japanese taking-off place, but a naval spokesman said the enemy probably used that base inasmuch as it was far closer to Guadalcanal than other enemy airfields in the Solomons.

Two days ago the navy reported that United States planes attacked one group of five and another contingent of nine destroyers which presumably were attempting to land supplies and troops for the Japanese held positions on Guadalcanal. Both groups were damaged, but whether they accomplished their mission was not disclosed.

Last Thursday the navy said American torpedo boats had intercepted a group of Japanese destroyers in waters near Guadalcanal. The Navy report did not say whether the enemy ships were successful in reinforcing or supplying Japanese troops on Guadalcanal.

American sailors and marines landed on Guadalcanal August 7. Japanese efforts to oust them so far have cost the Japanese 765 planes lost in combat action, 93 ships sunk, six probably sunk and 67 damaged.

on June 30, apparently has been headed off. Republican members of congress were reported to have decided not to attempt to prevent renewal of the authority.

A full hearing on how the government's money is being spent was promised by Acting Chairman McKeeler (D-Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee when a supplemental war appropriations bill for about $2,000,000,000 comes up soon.

Likewise, there will be a complete survey of the army's manpower needs starting Wednesday by the House Military Committee.

As with the Brown nomination for price administrator, there was no opposition to the President's choice of Judge Wiley Blount Rutledge of the District of Columbia Appeals Court to fill a vacancy on the supreme court. Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said that a judiciary subcommittee probably would approve the nomination Friday and report it to the full committee for action next Monday.

The appointment of former Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma to be a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board awaited consideration by a senate commerce subcommittee.

Lee's successor, Senator Moore (R-Okla.) already has protested formally against confirmation, but action has been delayed awaiting the return of Chairman Bailey (D-NC) to the city.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

CHECK ON THE ANCHOR

A boatman was once asked, "What would you do if something went wrong with your engine and your boat started to drift toward the rapids?" "Why," he replied, "I would put down my anchor. No sensible man would venture out from the dock without an anchor."

There are times when all we can do is to put down our anchors and wait. St. Paul and his companions experienced shipwreck and we are told that when at last they came to the end of their resources, "they cast four anchors out of the stern and wished for the day."

Many a person carries no anchor in the craft with which he sails through life. He is ambitious, and so gives all attention to machinery and sail. Or he is modern, and cares only that his craft be so designed that it shoots through the water like an arrow. But concerning the anchor—that is old-fashioned stuff. The long-faced and pious insist that men must carry in their craft the anchors of faith and moral principle, but this, says the self-sufficient working with a shrug of his shoulders, is sentiment and nonsense. The object is to get somewhere in life.

Yes, the object is to get somewhere. But there will be storms. There will be times when the best we can do is to cast out anchors of ancient principle and faith and pray God to hasten the coming of light. It is as true in the realm of living as it is in the realm of boating that no sensible man will venture from the dock without an anchor.

TIME TO ACT NOW.

The new vote by the Pennsylvania anthracite miners in the face of demands of the War Labor Board that they return to work is just another case of telling the government and the country to "go take a walk" while the miners do as they please regardless of the consequences to the country and the war effort. The government has coddled organized labor until labor has reached the stage that apparently it feels that it is bigger than the government. This type of foolishness should not be tolerated by the country another minute.

Congress without delay should adopt anti-strike legislation that would place strikers in vital industries, at this time, on the same basis as deserters from the armed forces. The war effort at home is just as essential to victory as the efforts of the men on the firing line and no group of disgruntled workers should be permitted to do anything that lessens or delays our chances of victory.

A resolution adopted by the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation which recently met in Chicago, said: "We are uncompromisingly opposed to subsidies in whatever guise . . .

We believe a policy of subsidization will not thwart inflation but that such subtle use of tax money is placing a yoke on the neck not only of this but future generation. The pretense of administrative policy to keep down the cost of living in a time when purchasing power is high, is a deliberate fraud practiced upon the American public."

Subsidies are no answer to rising costs. The real answer lies almost wholly in prompt correction of political bungling.

nation's 36,000 automobile dealers. Here is an industry which, it appears on the surface, the war virtually annihilated. With practically no cars to sell; parts, tires, gasoline and oil rationed; and mechanics drafted or lured away by higher wages in war industries, it was almost inconceivable that the auto dealer and garage man could stay in business.

Yet the survey of Joseph W. Frazer, an auto company president, indicates such isn't the case at all. Frazer's detailed questionnaire was sent to more than 2,000 dealers. If it's a fair sampling, more than 72 per cent of the dealers will still be in business at the end of the duration and 30 per cent of the prospective and actual dealer casualties expect to reopen as soon as the war is over.

This 20 per cent doubted that it could survive but only 8 per cent declared definitely that they were out of business now or would be before hostilities cease. That's a good deal different from the predictions of a year ago that more than half the automobile dealers would be bankrupt before the end of 1942.

The greatest mortality rate is in the east where gas rationing has been in operation for months, but it is only 6 per cent greater than the rest of the nation. Frazer thinks car dealers have shown unusual ingenuity. Answers to his questionnaires show that the automobile men are selling everything from beer to blackout supplies in order to pay rentals, keep their staffs intact, and themselves off the bread line. There are some new car sales, and dealers and repair shop staffs have all the business they can handle. Then, too, there is the second hand car business. In the heavily populated states of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and California, this is quite a factor. Many dealers have tried a few things that weren't in the books. Many have gone into war production and are handling sub-sub-contracts. One big dealer is cleaning up on a tire-theft alarm device. Another is selling air raid sirens. Several put in harness equipment, mainly as a joke, and are finding it a profitable sideline. In agricultural districts, many are servicing their old customers with dairy and poultry feeds.

A surprising number have converted their showrooms into restaurants and night clubs—especially in war production and military training areas. One other interesting fact that Frazer discovered is that hundreds of auto dealers are planning to combine airplane sales with their car business as soon as it's all over.

The new campaign in North Africa promises the earliest major success. Nowhere have Axis fortunes fallen more disastrously than in this campaign of pursuit across Libya. Only three months ago Rommel was still a threat to Alexandria, the Suez Canal and the whole position of the United Nations in the Middle East.

Apparently that beating he received at El Alamein robbed Rommel not only of the initiative but of the capacity to offer effective resistance. Twice now, at El Agheila and last week at Buerat El Hsun he has abandoned naturally strong positions and fled as soon as his conqueror, Montgomery, was ready to resume the advance. The strong implication is that the Axis high command has decided to abandon Libya and combine forces in Tunisia for a last stand in Africa.

Today's communique suggests that the British commander has loosed an attack that he intends to make the coup de grace. His advance columns are less than 100 miles from Tripoli, driving straight at that objective by inland, semi-desert trails, scorning the longer and probably safer coastal route and probably through Misurata and Homs. The route of this thrust indicates that Montgomery's left wing was on the move in a wide inland sweep days before the British announced the resumption of the drive and that the jittery Axis reports of the Eighth army's movements late last week were based on accurate premonitions of impending disaster.

The distance between Montgomery's vanguard and the Allied force of Britons, Americans and Frenchmen in Tunisia has been narrowed to less than 400 miles. The gap between the Eighth army and the Fighting French column which has come up from Equatorial Africa is even less.

It may be only a matter of days until all three forces are in effective contact and the encirclement of the Rommel-Nehring combination—if that combination can be accomplished—is made complete.

PACIFIC PATROL BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 26 In The Movies Mary drove quickly out of the private road into the highway, turned toward town. Dad had been right of course. This was something the officers must handle. Still, she wished she had some assurance that they would act fast! What if Dan were in danger of his life right this moment? What if it was a matter of minutes!

Her busy mind didn't let her close her eyes all night. Wide awake long before daylight, she got up finally, and dressed in her uniform got down to the post half an hour before she was supposed to go on duty.

The grey morning hours dragged Mary found herself pacing the narrow back-of-ten room like a caged lioness. But when she called in a report to Headquarters about eleven o'clock, nothing alarming had happened.

As soon as she was relieved of duty, Mary drove straight to Hank Gorman's office. He was in. He would see Miss Garthwaite in a few minutes.

Mary was hard-pressed to hold her anxiety in leash as she finally walked into the office. Mr. Gorman's smile seemed exasperatingly calm. His quiet assurance that all possible was being done didn't satisfy her in the least.

"Have you any additional check-up information at all that—?" "Nothing, Miss Garthwaite. We appreciate your interest. We will advise you as soon as we can."

Mary realized her questions had been impertinent, that if the officer did have additional valuable information, he wouldn't be giving it to her! So she thanked him, left the office quickly.

But she couldn't go home. She couldn't face another long afternoon cooped up in the house. Why not go for a horseback ride? She had never been over.

She stopped at the house just long enough to change into riding clothes, tuck a heavy coat into the car and drove straight out to the Mission farm. Old Standing Bear had a few horses there that he rented to local brick fans.

Into The Hills The old Indian smiled as she drove up before the long low farm buildings of which he was caretaker. No one knew better than Mary how great a tribute that was to her. The old Indian's wrinkled leathery face was seldom anything but stolid. But he adored Mary Garthwaite—mostly, she knew, because she was Paul Garthwaite's daughter. But Mary had always loved the old man, had learned to interpret his brusque grunts, his cryptic monosyllables.

"Good morning," she said now smiling at him and noticing that he stooped more with every year. He must be 70 at least. He'd always seemed old to her. "How about a ride, this afternoon?" "No ride. No good little girl ride today," he insisted.

"But I'm not a little girl any more, Standing Bear. And you've said yourself 'I'm good riding.' Why not? It won't rain before night," Mary knew the old man's peculiar obstinacy from earliest recollections. The Bear never approved of any project at first.

PETERS LEADS IN BASKETBALL

Davidson Sophomore Has Scored 63 Points this Season

Richmond, Va., Jan. 18—(AP)—Tommy Peters, Davidson's rangy sophomore forward, who has accumulated 63 points in three family games, was off to an early lead today in the Southern Conference basketball scoring race.

The Davidson sharpshooter, who has a pass-nagging end on the Davidson football varsity last fall, bombarded the hoops for 29 points against Duke's 1942 loop champions picked up 23 more against North Carolina State and then added 11 when his quint toppled strong South Carolina by a 58-43 margin Saturday night.

Nagy of North Carolina is second with 54 points in five games and Hatley of North Carolina is third with 51 points. Runnerup to Peters is Craig of Clemson, who has tallied 46 points in two circuit tilts.

George Washington's well-balanced squad has gone out in front of the team scramble with triumph over North Carolina and Duke in its many loop starts. A surprising VMI quint, which whipped Virginia Tech and Maryland last week, holds second place with three successes against a loss to Duke.

Tied for third place with two iter and a loss each are Washington and Lee, Davidson and Duke. Maryland topped from the lead last week by losing to W. and L. and V. M. I. after having trounced North Carolina and Richmond earlier in the campaign.

The schedule for this week has been curtailed by examinations. Games which will count in the standings include North Carolina at North Carolina State on Wednesday, Virginia Tech at N. C. State on Friday and Maryland at George Washington and Virginia Tech at Duke on Saturday.

Featherweight Battle Tonight

Providence, R. I., Jan. 18—(AP)—A couple of hungry boys say they hope to start eating regularly as soon as Jackie Callura and Jackie Wilson get through battling tonight for the N. B. A. featherweight title.

The hungry pair is Callura and his manager Leo Bradler, who have taken a few bumps in the past several years and managed to squeeze in a meal here and there.

But when they have the sanction of the N. B. A.—conceding always that they tip over the little Negro titleholder—they figure that, despite rationing, they'll be eating much more regularly.

The followers of the N. B. A. champ will tell you that Jackie Wilson is a bad looking fighter in training but a bearcat in the ring. Callura is otherwise. He looks good training and he's usually better when he gets inside the ropes.

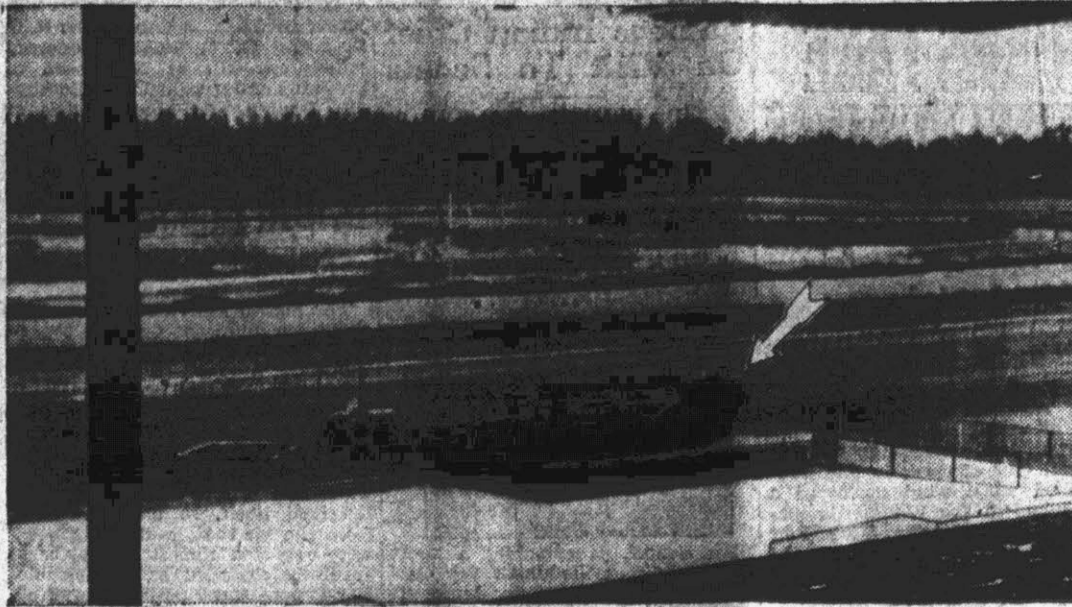

ty has more amusements than the other places, but most of them are along the boardwalk and they stay tightly closed until the summer season gets under way. P. S.—At any season, the shore dinners are something to write home about.

The Pines. Lakewood, only 17 miles inland from Asbury Park, is a winter resort where they begin to hang up the shutters about spring-cleaning time. You can get plenty of sand in your shoes there, too, but what you notice the most in that section are the scraggly, misshapen pine trees that keep reminding us of a New Hampshire description of a scrub pine tract—It couldn't be more ruthless than good for nothing. You have to be careful about you cigar butts there, too; remember one disastrous forest fire during a dry spring a couple of years ago. It isn't surprising that the giants found horse-drawn transportation to their training field on the Rockefeller Estate. Carriage byways have been popular there, apparently because there's no hurry when there's no place to go. Last we heard, the court, where Jay Gould learned to be the world's greatest court tennis player was being used as a gymnasium by the girls of Georgian Court College. Maybe that's just as well. Imagine the reaction if somebody asked a rookie if he'd like a choice seat in the de deans.

The Mountains. The night before the Dodgers picked Bear Mountain for their training site somebody counted 22 deer feeding on the baseball field. But its miles to the nearest place where you can put a couple of bucks on a horse race. Currently, the place is something of a winter sports center (when there's snow) featuring ice skating, skiing and the big stone fireplace in the overseas log structure known as the Inn. In summer, the woods and lakes and the view from the top of Bear Mountain, rising 1500 feet from where the Hudson winds around its base, make it a popular weekend spot for city folks. The Dodgers' announcement put considerable stress on the fact that there's a level playing field. In fact, it probably is the only level field in that part of the country except for the plains at West Point, where the team will go on bad days, to work out in the Army Field House. But if they make the Athletics walk to the top of the mountain every day, we'll guarantee they'll all be in shape for the start of the season.

The Seashore. Asbury Park, to our mind, is a place that's always a little too hot or a little too cold, except maybe late at night after a steaming summer day or on a sunny spring afternoon if you can keep out of the wind. It's a pretty big town, crisscrossed by wide, sandy streets and chock full of hotels of all sizes and shapes and needing more than anything else, a few of the wide, green lawns you see across the lake in Allenhurst and Deal. Here in two pictures that speak for themselves is the sad story of Halleah—the track at Miami that failed to open at the last minute because of the ban on pleasure driving. Top: When the scheduled starting time for the first race arrived, the only thing that came down the track was a couple of dirt scrapers. "Crawlaway" (arrow) is leading the other fellow by six lengths in the stretch. Bottom: Charles S. Howard's great Midland was taking it easy, eyes closed, as the scheduled opening failed to come off.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—This corner can't speak with authority about such places as Evansville and Muncie, Ind., Swarthmore, Pa., or Wilmington, Del., but from personal observation of the spots chosen by the New York clubs for spring training, we think some notably tall tales will develop from the efforts of players and scribes to find something to do outside of working hours. One thing Asbury Park, Lakewood and Bear Mountain have in common is that they're very dead spots in the early spring and just a little too far from New York for quick and easy commuting.

The Seashore. Chicago, Jan. 18—(AP)—A slackening in the demand for milks-coupled with light but prices to recede nearly a cent today.
Corn and oats also declined traders attributing the slump to a letup in the shipping demand for these grains. Profit taking was an added factor in the decline of oats. Grain men said the losses apparently reflected a lack of support rather than any selling pressure.
Prices recovered somewhat in the closing minutes, although not all of the earlier losses were wiped out.
Wheat finished 1/4% lower, May $1.29 1/2-3/4, July $1.39 1/2, corn was unchanged to 1/4 lower, May 98 1/2, oats lost 1/4-3/8, rye was off 1/4-1/2 and soybeans gained 1/4-1/2.

Tornadic Winds Strike In Georgia And Alabama

Atlanta, Jan. 18—(AP)—At least 12 persons were killed, and 38 others injured as week-end tornadic winds battered Georgia and Alabama at widely separated points.
Eleven dead were reported in Georgia, four of them in one family killed when wind destroyed a farm home in the Williamson section of Pike County. Five Pike County negroes also were reported killed near Hollonville.
The farm family included Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wiloughby and their two sons, aged two and ten. A daughter, age seven, was taken to a Griffin, Ga., hospital, suffering head injuries and broken bones.
A soldier was killed at Fort Benning when he stepped on a live wire while repairing storm damage and an unidentified negro was killed near Outhbert Ga., twelve persons were seriously hurt and 29 others received injury at Graves Station, near Dawson, when a tornado cut a 150-foot path through that south Georgia community.
Most of the injured at Graves Station were attending services at the Graves Methodist Church which was destroyed. Three homes were leveled and a school and gymnasium were unroofed.
High winds ripped off the roof of a warehouse at Fort Benning. Captain Russell Hammingren, Public Relations Officer, said Corporal Sidney Bravman, 22, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was electrocuted when he stepped on a live wire.
A child was reported killed in the Union community about 19 miles west of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Famous Indian Chief On Visit To Scouts

By CHESTER WALSH
Chief William Red Fox, full-blooded Sioux Indian, the tribes over which Chief Sitting Bull ruled at the last stand of U. S. Army General George Custer many years ago, and a graduate of Carlisle Indian School, is spending a short time in Greenville under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, James T. Uzzle, field executive, announced today.

Chief Red Fox will be the guest speaker at the weekly supper session of the Lions' Club at the Woman's Club tonight at 7 o'clock.
On his speaking engagements he wears the full regalia of his tribe and active, radiating good cheer and doing fine work about the country talking to school and Boy and Girl Scout groups and others, Scout Executive Uzzle stated.
The Sioux Indian chief was widely known as a Chautauqua lecturer. He appeared in the motion pictures, "The Covered Wagon," "North of 36," "The Vanishing American," "The Thundering Herd" and with Gary Cooper in "Arizona Bound."
Chief Red Fox will talk with the Boy and Girl Scouts, school children and others during his stay in Greenville. He is always interesting and entertaining. He is official historian for the Sioux Indian Tribe.

Marine Orchestra Made Big Hit Here

The orchestra from the Marine Base at Cherry Point, under the direction of Master Technical Sgt. Jacobski, bandmaster, and Technical Sgt. DiMartino, director, provided a wonderful program of music at the Servicemen's Center at the Woman's Club during the week-end.
Festivities began with a dance Saturday night. A special program featuring the number, "We Must Be Vigilant" and "The Marine Hymn," was given Sunday night before a full house and a consistent attendance outside. The Greenville radio station broadcast the program for 30 minutes. Nearly a thousand servicemen were in Greenville over the week-end.
Leaders in the Servicemen's Center were so well pleased with the orchestra that they are going to ask Lieutenant Hart, recreational officer at the Marine Base, to permit the musicians to come to Greenville and play for the President's Ball on Saturday, January 30.

Theaters Help War Fund In Greenville

People here responded generously to the call for contributions to the National War Fund at the Pitt and other theatres here the past several days. The movement is sponsored by the American Motion Picture Industry. Money received will be used to help rehabilitate and fund the workers under selective service who are in the United States and Allied countries. It will be distributed under the direction of President Roosevelt and a selected committee of American men and women, Manager T. Y. Walker of the Pitt Theatre, stated. Any contributions from a penny up will be cheerfully accepted.
The Greenville Service League is cooperating with the motion picture theaters. The following Service League women have received donations at the Pitt Theatre the past several days up to Saturday night: Mesdames L. T. Spotwood, M. R. Long, Foster Young, Ed Wilkinson, R. C. Rankin, and Mesdames Dick Stokes, J. R. Perkins and Study Best.
Patrons of the theatres may contribute to the fund during a part of this week.

Miners Still . . .

The decision then was made by the White House on the basis of informal recommendations of specific steps.
There was speculation whether the board would suggest the use of troops if a personal appeal was ineffective or whether a reclassification of the workers under selective service would be proposed.
Prior to the WLB meeting Wayne L. Morse, a public member of the board, said "it's quite obvious that if they aren't going back to work we'll have to lay the matter before the president immediately. There's nothing else to do."
The board has declared that the strike is endangering the prosecution of the war by creating a hard coal shortage throughout the north-east.
Shouts of "strike! strike!" punctuated the meeting of at least one local which convened last night to vote on the WLB's second ultimatum issued after a public hearing Friday, Carl Kratz, president of this local, said the shouts came from members of other locals and that therefore the balloting was being deferred.

British Eighth . . .

The Eighth army's advance cut to about 400 miles the distance separating it from the allied forces in Tunisia.
Whether Rommel would attempt another stand short of Tripoli or would flee on into Tunisia with the object of joining forces with Gen. Walter Nehring's army defending Tunisia itself, so badly battered from the air that its dock facilities were reported almost unusable, is generally regarded as indefensible. It was considered positive, however, that Rommel might try to fight another delaying action in the Gebel Nefusa, a ridge of hills about 150 miles south of Tripoli where he is said to have erected defense works.
The Axis chief's retreat was being speeded by the allied air forces, which, operating from Libyan bases in close cooperation with the ground forces, blasted ceaselessly at the withdrawing enemy.
Anging far and wide, the airmen pounded Tripoli over the week-end, razing Axis airfields in Sicily and on Lampedusa island and even swept into Tunisia to aid the allied forces there by blasting at enemy vehicles along the coastal road.

British Bombers . . .

on the German capital, but a subsequent Berlin broadcast said fire losses from the "terror attack" were heavy.
A high-flying plane, perhaps an enemy reconnaissance craft, sent British anti-aircraft guns into action along the Thames Estuary this afternoon. No fresh bombing was reported.
In addition to the new bombing of Berlin, the RAF sent fighters against freight trains, barges and trucks serving the Germans in France, Belgium and Holland. The forays lasted 13 hours.
Among the 10 German raiders shot down was a Dornier 217, a two-motored utility craft which the Germans use for purposes ranging from reconnaissance to dive-bombing.
Delighted that Berlin at last was being repaid heavily for the scourging of their beloved city, Londoners nevertheless were wondering whether the London-Berlin duel meant a return of 1940-41 experiences. The Rome radio said Adolf Hitler's government was threatening full reprisals.
A DNB dispatch broadcast from Berlin said a strong German force made the early morning raid and thousands of explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped. However London sources estimated that not more than 30 bombers participated in each raid—both last night and this morning. They said no important public buildings were hit and industrial damage was slight.
The quick exchange of blows demonstrated simultaneously Britain's confidence in her growing air might and the increased strength of her home defenses, which limited the damage inflicted in the London area.
While the RAF poured more explosives and incendiaries on the ruins left in Hitler's capital by four-ton "blockbusters" the previous night, comparatively few German planes succeeded in penetrating to the heart of London.
Twice the Nazis stabbed at the British capital, once at about 9 p. m. last night and again at 5 a. m. today but both times they were met by an anti-aircraft barrage which far exceeded any they had encountered during the height of the "battles of Britain."
In the first attack the Germans dropped some bombs in the outskirts of London but the second raid apparently was even less successful.
Other German planes scattered bombs over parts of southeastern England, but the night's attacks were described as relatively weak and the percentage of Nazi losses—10 aircraft—as relatively high. This was believed to be more than 10 per cent of the attacking forces and air authorities consider a 10 per cent loss almost prohibitive.
Only one bomber out of perhaps 300 which participated in the Saturday night assault on Berlin failed to return, and the British triumphantly maintained they had won the first round of the renewed "battle of the capitals."
That assault was the first on the German capital since November 7, 1941, and was characterized as the heaviest to which the city ever had been subjected.
Returning pilots said they had set fires visible 100 miles away and reported that large areas in Berlin had been laid waste by 4,000 and 8,000 pound bombs and thousands of incendiaries.
Fliers who had participated in previous raids on Berlin—once known to British airmen as "the hottest spot in Germany"—said the anti-aircraft fire was the weakest they had ever encountered there.
"I saw only one searchlight," declared one airman, "and the flak was negligible compared with previous experiences."
The Germans themselves said they had shot down only two British bombers Saturday night and reported three were shot down last night "over the western reaches of Germany."
The broadcast said that high explosives and incendiaries had fallen in densely populated areas and reported that the huge Deutchlandhalle near the Olympic stadium, in which many events of the 1936 Olympic games were held, had been virtually destroyed.
So far as known it was the first time that Britain's four-motored bombers had been used to make the 1,200-mile trip to Berlin and back and the first time the German capital had felt the destructive force of the "block-busters," which

The mid-day communique as recorded by the Soviet Monitor said the drive in the northern Donets was developing successfully and that three more populated places were taken overnight.
On the other fronts of the widespread battleground, the Russians reported new successes, the communique describing the occupation of several more populated places in the north Caucasus. Pierce fighting it said, was in progress on the western outskirts of a large place in the north Caucasus, but the city was not identified. The next really sizeable city northwest of Georgievsk on the Baku-Rostov railroad line is Amavir, about 160 miles southeast of Rostov.
Russian troops, it was said, broke through German fortifications and minefields outside the city and entered the outskirts. Heavy street fighting developed and 450 Germans were reported killed.
In the overnight fighting south of Voronezh, where the Russians are engaged in a new offensive announced only Saturday, the capture of several more communities was reported. The communique said that almost the entire garrison of one strongly fortified center of resistance was wiped out. In another sector, 1,255 German officers and men, were taken prisoners, it was added.
In the Stalingrad area, the surrounded German troops were handed new heavy blows. More than 1,000 Germans were killed and 850 captured, the communique said.
The Russians listed impressive totals of German war material captured in the northern Caucasus between December 29 and January 16 included in this list were 314 tanks 422 mortars, more than 10,000 rifles 385,000 shells, 2,338 trucks, 26 stations, eight locomotives and 1,600 freight cars and 550 railway flatcars.

Meanwhile Soviet forces took another turn in the narrowing loop through about the estimated 50,000 survivors of the once powerful German siege army west of Stalingrad. This troop has now been cut down to about 200 square miles. Soviet officers were quoted as saying the Germans had now lost every foothold on the Volga river.
Further successes also were reported early today southwest of Velikie Luki on the central front northwest of Moscow. Three more enemy strongpoints were seized and 400 Germans killed or captured, the communique said.
The mid-day communique said the capture of Velikie Luki January 1, had caused "panic and alarm" among the Germans and that the German high command had made false announcements claiming the city was still in German hands since January 3.
In the meantime, the communique said, larger German shock formations were concentrated southwest and northwest of the city.
"The German plan was simple—to deny its capture by the Red army and meanwhile, disregarding all losses, to break through the Russian lines, the communique said.
The Soviet command, it was said, "took the necessary measures in good time. Our troops exhausted the enemy by continuous blows and inflicted heavy losses on him. The German offensive was broken and failed."
