Both Sides Step Up Air War On Red Battle Front

Russians And Germans Using Planes As Weather Clears; Soviet Army Sweeps Along Entire Front In Face Of Fierce Nazi Attacks

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Feb. 25 (AP)—

Soviet troops are sweeping ahead along the entire front in the face of increasing enemy counterattacks and despite deep snows in Orel and Kursk provinces, and thick, sticky mud in the Ukraine and northern Caucasus, field dispatches said today.

The weather had lifted sufficiently, however, to permit the aviation of both sides to increase activity in the southern districts. It was clear enough to allow accurate bombing and numerous aerial dogfights developed.

The German airforce was reported throwing its planes into the support of tank and infantry counterattacks west of Rostov, actions which the Russians said they were repelling with heavy loss to the enemy.

(The Berlin radio declared today that available reports indicated 58 Russian planes were shot down in air duels Wednesday and that anti-aircraft guns brought down three more. Four German planes failed to return from their missions, the broadcast reported.)

The most spectacular land fighting was reported in the area west of Kharkov where the offensive is aimed in a wide sweep bearing on the entire industrial Dnieper river valley, with Potava and Kozlovsk as the primary targets. Kiev, Kremenchuk, Dniepropetrovsk and Zaporozh'e as the ultimate goal.

In the last 24 hours two large towns were taken in that sector, the Russians announced, as the Red army smashed through enemy screening forces. The towns were not identified.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, reported in a dispatch from the Ukraine that the Germans had mustered fresh reserves to fill the gaps in their regiments and to man tanks in counterattacks, but that the Red army artillery smashed the German armor with point-blank fire from open gun positions. German mobile units were dispersed and their trucks were wrecked, Izvestia said.

Pravda, the Communist Party organ, told of a dogged advance by Soviet units through deep snow as the flanks north of Kursk were brought nearer to the strongpoint at Orel.

His dispatches said that numerous enemy counterattacks were thwarted, the German positions were encircled and flanked, and several towns were captured early in the day.

Heavy enemy counterattacks continued in the Donets basin, especially southwest of Voroshilovgrad and north of Stalino but here again the Russian offensive pushed forward, it was declared.

Navy Announces Casualties

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Navy announced today 76 casualties in Navy forces, including 6 dead, 10 wounded and 60 missing.

This brings to 37,722 the total of Navy, Marine and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total includes 6,570 dead, 4,480 wounded and 12,572 missing.

Grass Fire Spreads To Garage

The fire department was called to Third Street and Rotary Avenue about 11 o'clock today to put out a small fire on a garage on E. O. Parkinson's place. The garage caught fire from burning grass. Damage was nominal.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By GLENN BABB

A period of ever deeper horror and suffering is promised Europe by Adolf Hitler. In his proclamation yesterday to his Nazi old guard he put into words the threat the world knew was impending.

Power, leagued for his destruction must be on guard for something supremely bold, something like Rommel's recent lightning stroke in Tunisia magnified ten or fifty fold in scope.

He chooses to call what he proposes to put into effect "the mobilization of the spiritual and material values of Europe such as our continent has not seen in its history of several thousand years." But his satellites, the peoples he has conquered, even the neutrals will know what a regime of compulsory labor,

JAPS SUFFER HEAVY BLOWS

MacArthur's Men Step Up Air Raids In New Guinea

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Feb. 25 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur's bomber and fighter planes dealt heavy punishment to Japanese shipping in the New Britain area and delivered smashing blows at enemy land forces in New Guinea yesterday, an announcement from Allied headquarters said today.

Coupled with dispatches from the front, the bulletin painted the picture of results achieved by the Allied airmen.

American Flying Fortresses forced a Japanese warship to run aground off Cape Gazelle in New Britain.

A four-motored Liberator ringed by 13 Japanese Zeros on the west coast of New Britain, shot down four Zeros in flames and returned to base safely.

Heavy bombers roared back over Rabaul harbor before dawn and scored a direct hit on a 10,000-ton cargo vessel, and near hits on two small warships.

Enemy shipping also was attacked near Cape St. George, off New Ireland.

The town and harbor of Babo, and the town of Kaukau, on the northwest coast of New Guinea, were bombed.

Airdromes at Madang and Mahaling in the Lae area of New Guinea, the villages of Angau and Yanga and Lae itself felt the weight of 500-pound and half-ton bombs, which started raging fires.

Attack planes bombed and strafed Japanese ground forces in the Mubo area of New Guinea. A dispatch from the front said that ground activity in the Wau-Mubo sector was light but the Japanese troops were given no respite. Allied planes bombed for supply and ammunition dumps in villages and jungles and followed up their bombs with sprays of machine-gun fire.

New Delhi, India, Feb. 25 (AP)—Commando-like raiders from Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's forces carried out an attack on a small Japanese-occupied village 80 miles southeast of Akyab in Burma three nights ago and destroyed all installations.

Grigg Says Mass Attack Is Near

London, Feb. 25 (AP)—War Minister Sir James Grigg told the House of Commons today he trusted that impatient Canadian soldiers here "will not have to wait much longer" for a mass attack against the enemy.

His comment came as he introduced a new army appropriation bill.

He said that he noted that the Canadians have been linked by the delay in engaging themselves in bulk against the enemy.

"We trust that they will not have to wait much longer and when their chance does come, we know that they will acquit themselves doughtily and that the mother country as well as the cause of civilization generally will have abundant reason to be grateful to them," he said.

These remarks were preceded by a forecast that new fields of endeavor would open for British parachute troops, who participated on a large scale in the North African operations.

Grigg also declared the British were ready to apply to "other possible theaters of operations" the lessons of close army air support and cooperation learned in the Middle East—a cooperation which he described as the most successful of the war.

Gestapo rule, firing squads, forced military service this portends.

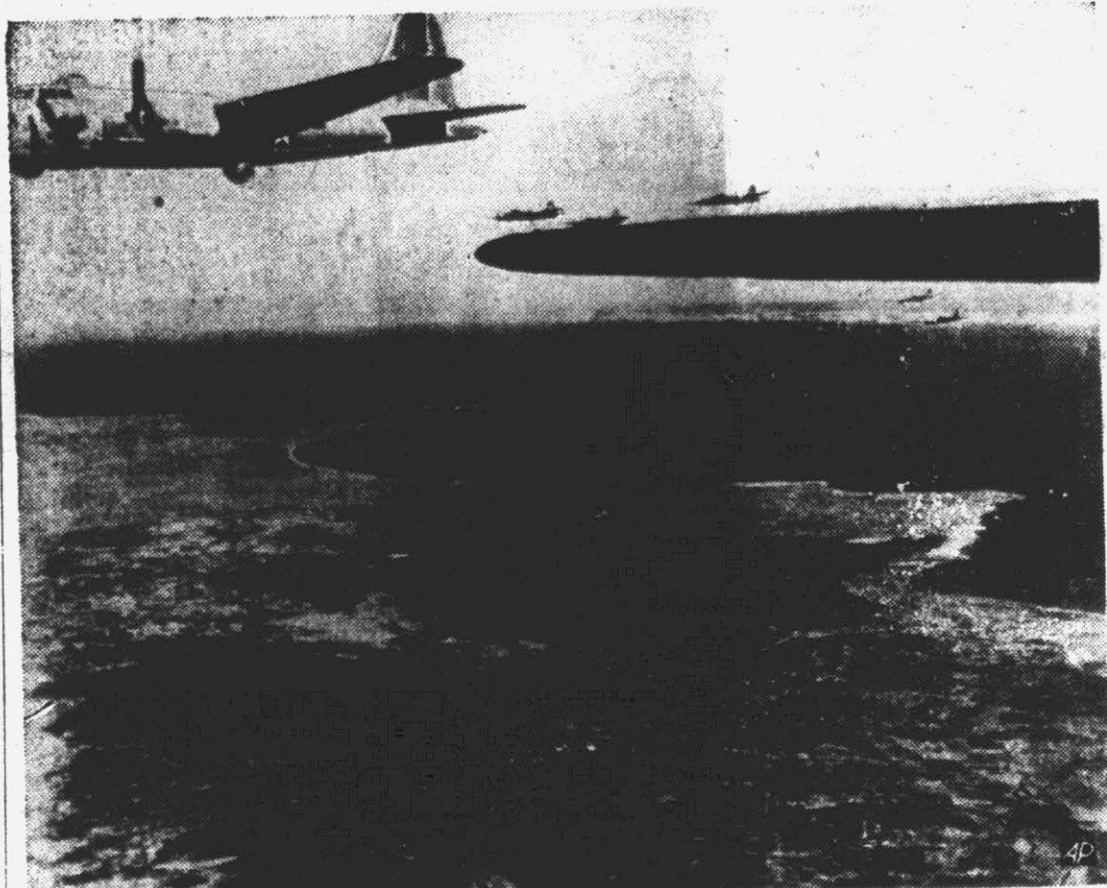

He will meet terror—that is, opposition—"with tenfold terror," he promises. When he speaks of Europe there is no distinction between belligerents and neutrals.

A bold stroke at the western entrance of the Mediterranean might nullify most of the advantage the United Nations have gathered by their occupation of North Africa, might even bring them to disaster.

With Gibraltar in his hands, or even with his guns and planes based on the nearby Spanish shore, he might be in a position to isolate General Eisenhower's whole command.

Nevertheless the temptation of this Spanish adventure, for which he (Continued on Page Four)

End Of A U. S. Bombing Raid In Tunisia

American Flying Fortresses sped for home, leaving in the background the Mediterranean and smoke columns rising from bombed planes and fuel dumps at the Nazi-held El Aouina airport north of Tunis in Tunisia. The raid, timed to hit the field while German transport planes were unloading reinforcements, was termed highly successful with at least 40 Nazi planes destroyed by bombs and an equal number by fire. Bizerie lies in upper left corner of the picture which was made by Photographer Margaret Bourke-White.

Money And School Bills Passed By Legislators

REPORT PEACE PACT IS NEAR

Adopt Both Measures On Final Reading Today

Believe Terms Have Already Been Transmitted

By WARDE WERNER

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—For the second time in this global war Finland seems near the end of armed conflict with Russia. The air is full of official and unofficial reports and conjectures, including rumors that peace terms actually have been transmitted by the Finns through Stockholm.

It was just three years ago that similar reports circulated in various capitals, though at that time there was furious fighting on the Russo-Finnish front. In contrast to the relatively quiet there today.

The Finns contend they already have withdrawn from any active military operations, having recovered the territory they lost in 1940, and that their only object now is to hold their lines against Russian attack. Given guarantees their national integrity and territory will be secure they would be glad, their spokesmen say, to conclude peace.

Information reaching Washington indicates the Finns soon will draw up more specific proposals. The presence of some 100,000 German troops on Finnish soil has often been cited as the chief barrier to any Russo-Finnish settlement, also the fact that Finland depends on Germany for food shipments.

However, the recent frantic "this is the crucial truth" speech of Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels has been interpreted in some quarters as an indication that Germany would glad to get an armistice.

Ignore Order To Return To Work

Cleveland, Feb. 25 (AP)—A spokesman for Aluminum Company of America said 30 striking smelter plant employees today ignored a War Labor Board order to resume work or be discharged.

Only half of the 60 men regularly employed on the 7 a. m. shift reported at the plant, and this group failed to work, the spokesman added.

The WLB was expected to give further consideration to the work tie-up. The board's ultimatum, issued last night to 150 smelter plant workers employed on three shifts, followed the strikers' failure to comply with a previous order threatening "prompt and vigorous disciplinary action" unless work was resumed.

Naples Bombed

By The Associated Press

The strategic Italian port and naval base of Naples was bombed last night by Allied aircraft in a raid which caused damage to civilian buildings and some wounded among the populace, the Italian high command said today in a communique broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

Bangkok Burned

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—The German radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said a five-hour fire in Bangkok, capital of Japanese-occupied Thailand, destroyed a quarter of the city last night.

Upwards of 500 houses, mainly wooden and corrugated iron shacks, were wiped out, the broadcast said. The fire was said to have been mostly in a quarter mainly inhabited by the Chinese.

WOULD CANCEL SALARY ORDER

Committee Says President Overstepped His Authority

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The House Ways and Means committee formally accused President Roosevelt today of going beyond the intent of Congress in his executive order limiting salaries to a net of $25,000 and asked that it be voided.

This carrying along what Rep. Disney (D-Okla.) called "a revolt against government by directive" the committee recommended to the House that Congress itself set the ceiling on high salaries at their pre-Pearl Harbor levels.

This, the committee said in a report on a bill by Disney setting the salary ceiling, "provides a method of salary limitation by law rather than by directive. It does not admit of confiscation or liquidation of incomes. This provision offers an orderly, legal process."

The report to the House, prepared by Disney at the committee's instance, said the president's judgment it was never the intent (Continued on Page Six)

Pitt County Man Missing In Action

Technical Sgt. Herbert Hemby Burnett, 26, gunner and radio man in the United States Army Air Force, is reported missing somewhere in Africa by the War Department, according to his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Burnett of near Farmville, Burnett is a nephew of Jesse, Leon, Milo and L. J. Smith, Mrs. Battie Rountree and Miss Grace Smith of Greenville.

Sergeant Burnett graduated from the Farmville High School and was at State College a year before enlisting in the Air Corps in January, 1942. He went to Maxwell Field, Ala. for his basic training in radio and gunnery. He went from there to an Army gunnery school near St. Louis.

From there he went to Syracuse, N. Y. and finished his training. Burnett went overseas last October. He regularly sent messages to his mother until he was reported missing in action.

There are two more of the Burnett boys in the armed forces. Joab P. Burnett, 20, who joined the Marines when only 17, went to Guadalcanal in the Southwest Pacific with the first transport of Marines. He was in the active fighting there and was among the Marines evacuated from the Solomon Islands to a "quiet place near a big city" to rest and recuperate.

Clay Anderson Burnett, 22, is a cadet in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He had his primary training at Luke Field, Arizona. He spent some time at Santa Ana, Calif., and was later transferred to Baker Field for advanced training. Cadet Burnett is now taking his advanced training at Phoenix, Ariz., and expects to graduate April 12. Before entering the Air Corps he was for a year a member of Old Battery A, of the 133th Field Artillery at Columbia, S. C.

Allied Troops Wipe Out Eight-Mile Gain Of Axis

STIMSON SAYS LOSSES HEAVY

Claims Most of Equipment Has Been Replaced

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The sharp fighting in central Tunisia has resulted in a clean-cut repulse of Marshal Erwin Rommel's armored Nazi forces, Secretary of War Stimson reported today, but "we will not have an easy nor a quick victory."

Losses by the American forces, he told his press conference, have been less heavy than was first believed to be the case. Material losses, including tanks, scout cars and field guns have been heavy, he added, but much of this equipment already has been replaced.

The early estimates of losses in men have been reduced somewhat, Stimson said, as a number of units made their way back to American positions through Axis lines.

The constant air support given the ground forces was vital to the successful counter attack against the Axis, the Secretary commented, but the "most significant reaction" was that of the ground troops.

"They were not broken by the German advance, but came back with a vigor the Germans were unable to withstand," he said. "General Eisenhower reports that all complacency has been dropped. They are thoroughly mad and ready to fight."

The greater part of the British first army is still immobilized by mud in northern Tunisia, Stimson said, but units from this force gave important assistance to the American troops in hurling back the northerly of two German columns which had advanced past the Kasserine pass after the initial breakthrough west of Faid and Sened.

In Southern Tunisia, the British 8th Army is beginning to exert heavy pressure against the Germans in the March line, Stimson said, and already has taken two or three outposts of those fortifications.

"The outlook is for heavy fighting along the entire Tunisian front," he reported.

The Secretary said he thought it necessary "to correct a widespread impression that the American forces in Tunisia are green troops."

Their inexperience, he said, was only in actual combat, and all were highly trained up to the point of experience under fire before they went to North Africa.

"It is our fortune that our troops must be put into fighting against battle-hardened veterans, and we may expect a little uncertainty at first," he said.

"However, there are no soldiers in any army who learn as quickly or have the same resourcefulness as the American soldiers."

His Clipper Crashed

Capt. R. O. D. Sullivan (above) of Sanford, N. C., was in command of the trans-Atlantic flying boat Yankee Clipper from New York which crashed into the Tagus river upon landing at Lisbon, Portugal. Four were reported dead and 20 missing.

WMC HEAD HAS BIG JOB AHEAD

Must Find Jobs For Those Ordered In-to War Work

By CHARLES MOLONY

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The man of Washington's well-worn hot spot today is Paul V. McNutt.

Developments of the next few weeks may determine whether the tall, handsome war manpower commissioner can retain his control over the occupational destinies of some 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 Americans, a power greater than ever before was vested in any one man.

Congress threw down what amounted to a gage of battle yesterday when one of its committees refused to give him the money he said was needed to carry out his ambitious program of reshuffling the work-a-day lives of thousands.

The manpower chief's problem could be summed up this way: He must, within time limits he has set—10 weeks at most—be finding war jobs for vast numbers whom he has ordered out of non-essential work.

To do this effectively, he must expand and strengthen his agency—and he must get authority from congress before he can achieve the strengthening and expanding.

Congress' initial reaction came from the House Appropriations committee, which refused flatly to authorize a penny of the $2,454,000 he said he must have to put his placement agency, the U. S. Employment service, into shape to help carry out his "work or fight" ultimatum to families.

Moreover, it ignored his protest against a requirement that the senate confirm higher ranking WMC appointees. McNutt contends this requirement is crippling him in his efforts to recruit a competent staff.

President Ill

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt was confined to his living quarters in the White House today because of a slight intestinal disturbance, aides said. He cancelled all appointments.

William D. Hassett, assistant presidential secretary, said the chief executive had less than one degree of temperature but would have to remain quiet two or three days.

There was no indication that this activity on the edge of Rommel's southern defense system meant the Eighth Army was launching a major attack, but its operations were sufficiently costly and worrisome to the enemy to force him to divide his strength with the northern fronts.

THE INDIAN CRISIS

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

There are many who believe that either Britain and the erring parties will settle their differences now or the dispute will be settled by revolution. Gandhi has admitted the possibility of civil strife.

An immediate settlement is demanded in the interests not only of England and India, but of the United Nations.

Any alternatives look grim. The best one could hope for would be a stalemate of bitterness. The base at Japan through Burma would be only partly effective. India would be lost as one of the guardians of United Nations interests in the Orient after the war.

Which side is to make the first move?

The consensus as I found it in both camps, is that the first move is up to the government since it has the chief nationalist leaders under lock and key.

It's for the government to decide whether it can afford to reopen the case. There would be an eager response from the Indian leaders. Gandhi's death obviously might alter the situation.

Indian leaders know that an Allied victory is certain. On the other side it must be recorded that Britain's triumph in Libya has made her feel very certain of her position. Whether this also has made her less inclined to dicker with the nationalists remains to be seen.

I found a belief among Indian leaders, government supporters and (Continued on Page Four)

Mrs. O. V. Kittrell of Winterville and her son, William K. Kittrell who is home on furlough from the Naval Training Station, Bainbridge Md., spent today with Mrs. Kittrell's three children at the Middlesex Orphanage. Mr. Kittrell will return to Bainbridge tomorrow.

Tom Wilson will arrive today on furlough from Keeler Field, Miss. to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson.

Captain and Mrs. Frank Wilson and little daughter returned to Clayton yesterday after a short visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson. Capt. Wilson left today for Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Rose Gurgenus of Charlotte will arrive tonight to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gurgenus.

Mrs. Sam Holmes of Belk-Tyler ready-to-wear department has returned from New York and northern markets.

Physical Fitness Class.
The Physical Fitness Class will meet at the Armory tonight from 8 to 9. All adults are invited.

To Enter Training.
Gattie Honeycutt, Jr., left today for Miami, Fla., for pre-aviation Cadet Training in the Army Air Force.

Literature Dept. of Woman's Club.
Misses Pearl Chapman and Margaret Selman were hostesses to the Literature department of the Woman's club Tuesday afternoon at their home at the Colonial Apartments. As guests arrived tea and cakes were served.

Miss Louise Galphin presented the guest speaker, Mr. J. B. Cummings, of the geography department of the college. His subject was India. Mr. Cummings said there were eight distinct races; they speak thirty-eight distinct languages with two hundred and twenty-two dialects. They profess countless shades of religious beliefs; they split into thousands of social castes. They are grouped into many provinces ruled by native princes and British government.

It is not so much the linguistic or racial differences which divide the people of India as differences of religion. There are eight major religions of which Hinduism and Mohammedanism are the largest.

The city of New Delhi which is the capital of India is similar to Washington with wide streets and many circles. In summer the government departments are moved to Simla.

Ninety percent of Indians are farmers, India is second to United States in the production of tobacco and cotton. Major crops are rice, jute, sugar, cotton, wheat and tea.

At the conclusion of the talk a short business meeting was presided over by Miss Eunice McGee.

American Legion Auxiliary.
American Legion Auxiliary met at the Vines House Monday afternoon with Mrs. John Horne. After a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. J. Hicks Corey presented Mrs. C. A. Bowen who spoke on the Flag. Mrs. Bowen opened her talk with the reading of Edgar Guest's poem, "A Flag Is Nothing in Itself." The flag is displayed from sunrise to sunset on clear days, never in the rain or storm. It is raised briskly and lowered slowly and it should never touch the ground. No pennant or other flag is ever permitted to fly above the United States Flag. The only exception is when on board ship a religious flag may fly above the United States Flag to indicate divine service is being held. Mrs. Bowen concluded her talk with the reading of Henry Holcomb Bennett's poem, "The Flag Goes By."

Mrs. John Horne asked for donations of blankets, pillows, old quilts and coats. Last week-end Mrs. Horne said ninety boys spent the night at the Vines House who had accommodations for only sixty-six. To one boy's request for a place to sleep, Mrs. Horne replied jokingly, "The only place left is the library table." He said "I'll take that." The boy slept on the table with an evening cape for a blanket.

Mrs. B. McK. Johnson, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Miss Maria Graham and Mrs. Wiley Brown were hostesses for the afternoon.

Dr. Meadows To Attend Meet.
President Leon R. Meadows leaves today for Cleveland to attend the meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, of which he has been a member for several years. The meeting which will be held February 26-28 is taking the place of the convention of the association, scheduled to meet in St. Louis but was called off.

Jolly-Cline.
One of the prettiest weddings of the winter was that of Miss Lola Mae Cline and Staff Sgt. H. J. Jolly, Jr., which took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. R. Roberts at 5 p. m., Feb. 6.

Rev. C. Spurgeon McClung of the First Baptist Church officiated and attendants for the couple were Sgt. Charles Young and Miss Florence Diamond both of La Junta, Colo. The bride wore light blue and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. John Diamond, mother of the bride and Miss Florence Diamond were gardenia corsages.

Miss Virginia Wade sang, "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Max Basse played the Wedding March from Lohengrin as the couple took their places for the service and during the service softly played, "Thine Own."

Staff Sgt. Jolly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Jolly of Winterville, N. C. and is now in the United States Army Air Corps.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held. Centering the table was a three-tier cake, surrounded by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Following a short wedding trip Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Jolly will be at home in La Junta.

Special Matinee of "Martha"
With the presentation of a special matinee this afternoon for the schools of Greenville, the opera "Martha," a production of the music department of East Carolina Teachers College, was launched on its series of three performances, the other two being scheduled for tomorrow evening at 8:30 and Tuesday evening at the same hour.

The opera, sung in English is melodious, colorful, and entertaining in its story of the tangle in which a court lady (Jean Abeyounis) involves herself and her companion (Lorraine Pritchard) when they go in the disguise of peasant girls to a fair and allow themselves to be hired as serving maids for a year by two handsome young farmers.

To make the performance one of finish and artistry, those in the leading roles, Jean Abeyounis, Lorraine Pritchard, Donald Perry, Jim White, Ingram Walters, and W. B. Harris, have been working with the director, Denton Russell, studying the parts, familiarizing themselves with the music and rehearsing since before the Christmas holidays. Miss Ellen Caldwell is assisting with the stage action.

The costumes, from a New York costumer, are gay and colorful. One of them was worn in the Broadway production of "Du Barry was a Lady." Members of the chorus, which is being directed by Miss Gusie Kuykendall, wear bright peasant costumes.

February 25, 1903

The American republic must go at last, Austria and Germany are preparing to form a combine to freeze us out.

The North Carolina legislature can do things when it is properly wound up.

A gentleman was heard to remark that when Greenville gets the contemplated improvements, electric lights, water works, etc., he would like to have a million dollars to invest here, as he does not believe any town offers safer investments.

There are four scene changes with four sets, designed by Mr. Russell and constructed by a group of students.

The orchestra, under the direction of A. L. Dittmer, head of the music department, opens the performance with the overture and plays occasional numbers; but the accompaniment for the singing will be furnished by the piano, with Miss Camille Jernigan as pianist, two violins, and a clarinet.

Mercy Ship To Orient

A four-masted veteran ship of the seas of the clipper type will soon be pressed into service for an errand of mercy for the American Red Cross. Mrs. Walter L. Taylor of Greenville, executive secretary of the Pitt County Chapter, stated today. The ship will take special food supplies to American prisoners in Japanese detention camps and jails.

The Red Cross secretary said Capt. Alva Hamilton of Morehead City, a dental surgeon in the medical division of the U. S. Army and a brother of Mrs. Jack Nobles of Greenville, is a prisoner in a Japanese camp in the Philippines.

The mercy ship is the Portuguese bark, Fox do Douro, whose entire cargo space has been chartered by the Red Cross for two voyages to ship food parcels to American prisoners of war in enemy territory.

Now being conditioned in Baltimore, the Fox do Douro is scheduled to sail for Lisbon before the end of this month under the neutral Portuguese flag. From there, her cargo will be forwarded to Geneva for distribution under the supervision of the International Red Cross Committee.

The vessel will carry approximately 204,000 standard American Red Cross parcels of war food parcels. Designed to counteract vitamin deficiencies in prison diet, these parcels contain a 12-ounce can of corned beef, 12 ounces of tinned pork, six ounces of liver paste, 16 ounces of powdered whole milk, 16 ounces of oleomargarine, eight ounces of salmon, eight ounces of sardines, chocolate, biscuits, coffee, as well as cigarettes, matches and soap.

The mercy voyage will add another chapter to the romantic adventures of the veteran sailing vessel which was built in Scotland. Before being acquired by her present owners, the Fox do Douro was the Abraham Rydberg, Swedish naval training ship. She visited the United States many times while under the Swedish flag. The vessel is 300 feet long and grosses 32,000 tons. A neutral crew of about 30 seamen will be brought from Portugal to sail the ship, vessels for them having been arranged through the State Department.

Boy Scout News

By EDWIN SCHWARZ
Boy Scout Troop No. 33, Guy C. Evans, scoutmaster, had an interesting meeting at the Rotary Club last night with 19 scouts present. Field Executive James T. Uzie reviewed the approaching Board of Review and complimented improvements in the troop. District Commissioner Charles B. Bissette presented second class scout badges to Erwin Schwarz, Bobby May and Hubert Brown. Douglas Kelley, a former assistant scout executive was a guest of the troop.

Troop 30.
Troop 30 held its weekly meeting in the Armory under the direction of Scoutmaster Bill Drum. The highlight of the meeting was the presentation of second class awards to Scouts Conrad Taylor, and Rodney Roberts, by Councilman Charles Bissette. Attending the presentation were Scout Executive Uzie and Lt. (jg) Doug Kelly, former scout executive of the Kinston district.

Due to the increase in membership, the Eagle Patrol, with Pat Patterson as patrol leader, was formed.

Room Registration Does Overtime Job

By LUCY CHERRY CRISP
If you thought you saw an unusually large crowd of men in uniform on the streets of Greenville last week-end, you were right. The room registration bureau at the Service Center did an over-time job, working until past midnight to find places to sleep for 357 men. And finally, at the end, eight were sent to occupy beds at the jail.

Monday morning a note was found at the Club from a Cherry Point boy that read as follows: "To the Hostesses of the Woman's Club of Greenville, N. C.—This is being written on my first visit to this club, and town. I find this a very friendly town and the people enjoy making you friendly and try to make you feel at home."

And to one of the hostesses who has opened her home to service men, there came this letter from Camp Lejeune: "I am sure you won't remember me so I will explain a little bit. I am one of the fellows who stayed at your house last week-end and I wish to say right now that I had a wonderful time. I am writing this letter to thank you and all the others who helped to make last week-end my

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RAF RESUMES AIR ATTACKS

Nazi Naval Base Ob- ject Of Heavy Raid

London, Feb. 25—(AP)—RAF bombers attacked the Nazi naval base at Wilhelmshaven and objectives in western Germany last night without the loss of a plane, it was announced today.

Allied fliers last hit Wilhelmshaven Friday night. The latest attack was the sixteenth on Germany this month.

The Air Ministry's terse announcement said:

"Last night aircraft of the bomb command made another attack on Wilhelmshaven.

"Bombs were also dropped on objectives in western Germany. None of our aircraft is missing."

The blow at Wilhelmshaven appeared to assure the RAF a new record for the number of tons of bombs dropped on Axis targets in a single month.

In a single raid on the submarine base at Lorient earlier this month more than 1,000 tons of explosives were dropped by Allied fliers, and other forays promised to raise the monthly average of 6,500 tons maintained in the record period of June and July, last year.

At the same time came the official announcement this morning that "during darkness there has been no enemy activity over Britain."

Canadians were reported to have formed a great part of the force which struck at Wilhelmshaven, a center of the U-boat industry in which aerial reconnaissance disclosed about 150 acres were razed during an earlier raid with block busters and incendiaries which touched off torpedoes, mines and other explosives in naval storehouses.

Thick clouds obscured the target last night but crewmen said a white glare showed through the clouds, indicating that substantial new fires were started.

Registration

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 25—(AP)—North Carolina OPA officials believe that more than half of those who will register this week for War Ration Book No. 2 already have registered.

They estimated that 2,000,000 persons in the state had registered during the first three days of the week. The total is expected to be between 3,650,000 and 3,800,000.

The first general conference of governors of the United States was held at the White House in 1908 when Theodore Roosevelt was president.

Cars On Highway Hinder Blackout

By CHESTER WALSH

June H. Rose, of Greenville, assistant state director of civilian defense, observed the blackout of the Wilmington area several nights ago from the nose of a U. S. Army bomber, with other officials and army officers. His observations provided numerous suggestions for improving and making the blackouts more complete.

The response to the blackout alarm in the region from the lower part of Pitt county to Whiteville near the South Carolina line and far inland was made in an efficient way, except in rural areas, Rose said. Using one southeastern town, for instance, Rose said the blackout was complete in villages, towns and cities, but the rural civilian defense air raid wardens did not stop motorists.

One city on which five important highways converge was an ideal target for enemy bombers because motor vehicles heading toward the town, unmolested by air raid wardens, were pointing out the target with headlights pointing in the town's direction.

The practice blackouts are held in different regions to permit state civilian defense officials and army officers to observe them from the air and point out defects in the blackouts which may give enemy planes the clue as to where to drop their bombs, explosive and incendiary, Rose stated.

During this blackout of the southern region Governor Broughton was in one of six planes with army officers as an observer.

"When we have the next surprise or practice blackout in the Pitt county, or Norfolk, Va., region, air raid wardens and others engaged in the work may profit by this information and see that motor vehicles headed for towns are stopped," Rose stated.

Greenville and this section is scheduled to have a surprise air raid blackout shortly. "If you leave home or your business place see that the lights are turned off," a civilian defense leader advised today.

NAVY STUDIES ZERO FIGHTER

Captured Plane Reveals Many Jap Secrets

By ROY G. BLANCK

Washington, Feb. 25—(AP)—A captured Japanese Zero fighter plane is yielding many secrets of Japanese psychology and technique to U. S. experts at the Anacostia naval air station.

The plane, salvaged in the Aleutian Islands, is a machine of no compromise. Unprotected by armor, the Zero's pilot knows when he steps into its cockpit there is no alternative for him in battle but to kill or be killed.

The only Zero fighter the Navy has ever announced capturing, it is a light, swift, maneuverable, efficient machine meant for aerial Jujitsu. In the air it is as agile as a "Jeep" on the ground. It is armed with two machine-guns that shoot between its three-blade propeller, and with 22 millimeter cannon that fire from the forward edge of either wing.

As he goes after an enemy, the Jap pilot opens the throttle, and with the same hand, moves a button one way which starts the two small 7.7 machine-guns spraying the tracer bullets. When he sees the tracers approaching the target he moves the thumb-button the other way and the cannon let go. They can fire 60 rounds each, and the 7.7 guns 500 rounds each.

The pilot's parachute rip-cord is attached to his plane. If he has to jump it opens automatically. If the plane is shot down and throws him out as it flips over, the parachute opens.

The Jap may have a hand grenade. If so, he waits until rescuers surround him. Then he pulls the firing pin and blows up himself and everybody else within range.

Twelve-Year-Old Mother and Baby

Twelve-year-old Mrs. R. G. Foster and her seven-pound daughter are reported "doing nicely" at a hospital in Murphy, N. C., where the infant was born recently. The young mother, according to hospital records, was born at Canton, Ga., in March, 1930. Her 21-year-old husband was inducted into the army last fall.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

LIFE'S POISONED CUPS
A story is told of an ancient king who one day being handed a cup filled with poisoned wine, made over it the sign of the cross and uttered the name of Christ. The cup immediately fell from his hands and was dashed into a thousand pieces at his feet.

There is plenty in the ancient legend for modern man to ponder. If over every situation in life we utter the sacred name of Christ, we may be sure that when the cup is poisoned, it will drop from our hands and break. If we bring all our plans under His will, if we never start an enterprise without Him, what we should do, if we bring to Him the best we know, every day and ask Him to put it aside if it does not match the best He has in store for us—then we may be sure the world's poisoned chalice of temptation and perversity will not harm us. The way to separate the false from the true, the evil from the good, is to bring all things before the Lord of life for His judgment. What is evil will fall to the earth; what is of true and eternal value will continue.

The poisoned cups! There are plenty of them. Parents have warned us, experience has taught us, of their lurking danger. Say the word of Christ over them and they will fall shattered at your feet.

THE MANPOWER PROBLEM

(Scottish Rite News)

The allotment of manpower as between the military, industrial and farming elements of the war effort, not to say civilian requirements of production, is one of the most complicated problems now confronting the country and one on which there is honest and sharp divergence of opinion.

Because our territorial domain contains most, though not all, the raw materials we need to support our economy, we have been prone to think that it would never be necessary for the American people to curtail their food consumption. Ordinarily that would be true, but right now and because of the war, we are called upon to furnish food and other supplies for most of the world. It is also true that soldiers require more food than they consume as civilians.

The farmer needs manpower, trucks and farm machinery. Due to the war, the War Production Board has had to clamp down on the manufacturers of farm machinery and trucks. Now, the plight of the farmer is so acute, as the armed forces and war industries have taken so many men from the farms, that, unless this problem is solved, there may be an actual shortage of food in this country the coming year, some experts say.

There have been several suggested remedies for this and, taken altogether, they may add up to a fairly satisfactory solution. One is that, as the soldiers do not have a restricted number of hours per day or week that they must work, neither should the civilians in time of war. This war is each and every citizen's war, says one group and, therefore each and every adult, women as well as men, should be recruited for service and be subject to governmental orders, all working for the same pay and for the same number of hours. Executives would receive officers' pay. In this way, the entire adult population, it is pointed out, would be working for one end, namely, to produce the supplies needed to win the war.

There are some who go so far as to say that Canada, England and the U.S.A. are doing two things at once—trying to win the war and playing politics at home. Whatever the reasons for such a condition of affairs, they are many, the leaders in the United Nations could considerably shorten the war if they put all adults into service and made them work for the duration.

Of course, not every person is equipped, either by training or experience or both, to fit into work in war industries, but many can be given short courses in mechanics that would, in six months or less, enable them to become machine operators of one sort or another, or to help out on the farms.

How long the workday should be is not an easy question to answer. All people are not physically strong, and what would be mere child's play for some, might prove unwisely fatiguing for others. Management and the workers, by using common sense, could find a happy medium that would result in ample production of goods, on the one hand, and not unduly exhaust the workers, on the other.

A U. S. Senator was quoted as saying that the Army should be limited to 6,000,000 men instead of 8,000,000, and the 2,000,000 men thus saved be distributed over farm and factory as the need might require.

The country's best brains are working on this and its affiliated problems and a solution will no doubt be found.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—If the skeptics turn a fishy eye or a deaf ear at threats to have Hitler, Mussolini, Tojo, et al., before a court of justice and sentence them to their just desserts when this is all over, they certainly have a good reason.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (N. Y.) pointed that out recently. He quoted a newspaper advocating "establishment of a grand court of Allied representatives, civil and military, for the purpose of trying those guilty of crimes during the war."

And he rang in another newspaper headline: "Attonement for Atrocities," with the sub-head: "To pass this over would be to ignore a vital issue of the war."

The first was from the London Daily Express; the second from the New York Times. The headline on both was 1918.

In the same year, John Hayes Hammond advocated an international court made up of jurists from neutral countries to try perpetrators of atrocities.

Mr. Celler, diving into the old files of the Library of Congress, has uncovered some food for thought. The now almost forgotten "Commission of Fifteen" at Versailles drew up a list of 900 persons to be tried before an international judicial tribunal and the crimes of each were listed. No. 1 on this roll of dishonor was Kaiser Wilhelm II. The Crown Prince was there, and so were Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Count Bismarck, and Admiral von Tirpitz.

The crimes with which they were charged were practically the same as would be brought against the Nazis today—mass murders, mass starvation, execution of hostages, massacre of prisoners. They weren't of course, on nearly so grand a scale.

What happened? To make a long story short, 12 persons were finally tried by a German court. Six were found not guilty. Two naval lieutenants got four-year sentences and the other four got six months.

Holland refused to surrender the Kaiser, but, according to Mr. Celler, you can hardly blame Holland. She was acting under pressure from nearly all the crowned heads and royal families in Europe.

Not long ago, the President said: "When victory has been achieved, it is the purpose of the government to make appropriate use of information and evidence in respect to these barbaric crimes of the invaders, in Europe and in Asia. It seems only fair that they should have their warning that the time will come when they shall have to stand in the courts of law in the very countries which they are now oppressing and answer for their acts."

That is, say the skeptics, unless history is allowed to repeat itself.

impartial observers that the way to achieve a settlement was for British authorities to set up a provisional national government and let those who didn't want to play the game stay out.

This provisional government would bear the stamp of the sovereignty which England has promised India. But it would leave details to be worked out and would make its first business the winning of the war. The war effort would be the bond to unite the various factions.

Problem of the WIRE CAGE

BY JOHN DICKSON CARR

Chapter 30

Hugh, in fact, had been so surprised to see Madge that he yelled louder than was necessary. Even so, he had not expected to see them jump. Madge instantly assumed the air of cold aloofness that puzzled him so much.

"I hope I do not intrude," inquired Madge, with a crushing manner which again completely floored Hugh. "I am under instructions, you see. I was asked to come."

"By the police?" inquired Hugh sharply, and Madge whirled on him. "I only mentioned it," he added in some haste, "because I was asked. By Superintendent Hadley. He says they're going to arrest somebody."

"We were all asked," said Brenda. "Hello, Kitty. What's that you've got there?"

"It's a—a lock," said Kitty. "A padlock," she went on, turning it over in her hand. She pressed it, and the lock closed with a loud snap. "Madge here says it was on the gate when Frank was killed."

"You promised!" screamed Madge.

"Come inside here, all of you," Kitty said abruptly.

No air stirred under the poplars inside. It was quiet except for the buzz of a wasp which hovered over the tennis court, circling and diving like a microscopic fighting plane. The sun flashed on the striped pavilion. Kitty turned round with an air of decision.

"Now Madge my dear," she said briskly, with color under her eyes. "I sympathize with you. I do. But we mustn't be stupid about these things. It was very wrong and foolish of you not to tell the police."

"Oh, you cat!" cried Madge, backing away. You promised—

Kitty seemed to smile and frown at once, like a school-mistress. "No, my dear, I didn't promise anything. And it can't do any harm to tell what you know, can it? After all, it isn't as though your Archie told you what he saw. It's a question of what's our duty, Madge."

Madge stared at her.

"Duty be bothered! I won't tell anybody anything," she directed a defiant look at Brenda, who was puzzled. "I won't tell her anything. I don't believe the police asked me to come here at all. I believe it was all a flummox you got up yourself. I won't."

Five minutes later, sitting on the edge of the pavilion porch, she was again pouring out the story of Arthur Chandler. And Hugh, who had exchanged meaning looks with Brenda, found the pattern taking form with deadly clearness. They were approaching something.

"And we were right," said Hugh, smacking his fist into the palm of his other hand. He felt hot, excited, and, for some reason, a trifle queasy about the stomach. "Chandler got those photographs after all."

Kitty's voice was sharp.

"Photographs? What photographs?"

"Of the murderer. Didn't he, Miss Sturgess?"

"He didn't say anything about any photographs," Madge complained. "Why don't you listen? He was going to take pictures of Frank; not of anybody else. He only said, 'be quiet, that's all.'"

And they were all quiet, for they heard voices. Bumping, Old Nick's wheel chair emerged through the opening in the poplars; and Nick's expression, which seemed to be heightened by the buzzing of the wasp, was one of deep satisfaction. Behind him lumbered Dr. Gideon Fell.

Fell had put aside his cloak and his shovel-hat. He wore a loose, shapless suit of black alpaca, shiny at the seams and with pockets bulging; and he walked, very slowly as though in doubt, leaning on his ivory-headed stick.

"Did anyone here," murmured Brenda, so low that Hugh hardly heard, "ever have a psychic feeling? Something's going to happen. And happen soon."

"Nonsense," Kitty said. "It's the heat. Don't you feel that?"

The two doctors, of different professions and perhaps different views, stopped in the grass a little way from the pavilion.

"Good evening," said Dr. Fell, inclining his head politely. "We are—harrumph—grateful that you could see your way clear to assisting us today."

"Assisting you?" said Hugh sharply, "in what?"

"In showing how Frank Dorrance was killed," answered Dr. Fell, sniffing. "It is necessary that you should all be present to see it. Where (can any of you tell me) is the switch that controls the floodlights?"

Brenda frowned. "Floodlights in the daytime? Why?"

"Because you will then," exclaimed Dr. Fell, "see much more clearly how the thing was managed. We were all looking at it on Saturday night; but unfortunately," he massaged his forehead with one hand; he seemed disturbed and a little nervous—"unfortunately, like other things here, it was much too big to be seen. It—we must wait for Henry. He will be here in a moment."

A little way behind Dr. Fell's elbow, Hugh could see Nick's face. On it, as Nick looked at both him and Brenda, was a sneer of such positive pleasure that apprehension struck again. Were the frame-ups over, after all? Were they? Could they be?

Hugh moistened his lips.

"Is it true," he asked, "that someone is going to be arrested? Here? Now?"

"Yes," said Dr. Fell.

"The evidence in the case," Dr. Fell went on, clearing his throat with a rumbling noise, "was clear and complete last night. But it has taken today definitely to establish motive. The prosecution is not bound to prove motive in a court of law, but we thought the trial would be tidier if it were produced. . . . I think that's Hadley coming now," he added, turning around.

Hugh felt a singing in his ears, a roaring of blood in the head.

"Can you tell us," he said, "what the motive was?"

"Oh? Oh, yes. Financial gain."

"Financial gain?" cried Kitty.

"But—"

She stopped. Superintendent Hadley, brisk-stepping and followed by two men who remained at the gate, entered the enclosure. In one hand he carried both a briefcase and a small suitcase. They followed every movement he made until he reached them.

"Good evening," Hadley said. "Miss White, Miss Sturgess, Mrs. Bancroft, Mr. Rowland." He turned to Nick. "Is your name Dr. Nicholas Young?" he asked.

Nick jerked his head around.

"You know damned well it is, Superintendent. What about it?"

"It is a formality, sir," answered Hadley. His voice was colorless. "At the end of this interview, I must ask you to accompany me to Dale Road police station, where you will be formally charged with the murders of Frank Dorrance and Arthur Chandler. I must therefore warn you, Dr. Young—"

Hugh Rowland, who had been fighting a cigarette, dropped both cigarette and match. Very slowly, they all turned to stare.

enemy fighter base and a southern terminal for the air ferry route from Sicily and Italy.

Bombs sprayed steel fragments among transport planes and fighters on the field, scored hits among the planes and left a number burning.

The raiders were intercepted by 25 or 30 enemy fighters, and a running dogfight ensued in which the Marauders destroyed five Messerschmitt 109s and a transport plane in the air, while the Spitfires got two more Messerschmitts.

American Havocs escorted by Spitfires also bombed a town and railways near Sebilla and Spitfires and Airacobras strafed Axis motor transport just south of Kasserine.

Other Allied planes strafed troops and gun positions near the enemy base of Kairouan, smashed with full bomb loads at roads in the Kasserine, Feriana and Gafsa areas, and attacked the railroad bridge and transport in the vicinity of Faid.

Americans shot down at least eight enemy planes, it was reported, while the Allies lost six aircraft.

French bombers also were in action for the first time in this theater. Equipped with French-made planes, a veteran unit of the regular French air force attacked an enemy concentration in the Nefta area, far to the south, near the northwest end of the Chott Djerid. This unit fought in France before the armistice and participated in bombing operations on Italian cities after Italy entered the war.

S-T-R-E-T-C-H-I-N-G DEFINED

For an interesting and practical treatment of the now familiar meat "stretching," I suggest this variation of the English Grill. It's an appealing combination that your family will enjoy. It's different, it's tasty, nutritious and filling as well. You can serve and enjoy this menu with a clear conscience too, because it uses only a few ounces from your self-imposed, weekly allotment of meat—it's what I really call S-T-R-E-T-C-H-I-N-G.

Menu
VARIETY GRILL
BAKED POTATO
SHREDDED CARROT AND APPLE SALAD
ROLLS
CLEAR BROOK BUTTER
ORANGE TAPIACA PUDDING
BEVERAGE

VARIETY GRILL

For each serving: 1 slice of Wilson's Certified Bacon, 1 link of Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage, 2 slices of Veal Kidney, 1 thick Tomato Slice (sprinkled with bread crumbs) and 3 mushrooms.

Fifteen minutes before potatoes are baked, brush kidney slices with Clear Brook Butter, season, then place on preheated broiler, 3 1/2 to 4 inches below flame. Brown on one side for 10 minutes, then turn. Now, place on broiler the Certified Bacon and Sausage Links, together with the tomato slices and mushrooms that have been brushed with Clear Brook Butter and seasoned. Allow another 5 to 10 minutes until brown, basting the tomato slices and mushrooms occasionally with the meat drippings. Serve immediately on individual plates.

To prepare Kidneys for cooking: Kidneys must first be washed and the fat and outer membrane removed. Then slice with a sharp knife, removing the fat and tubes. Soak one hour in salted water before cooking.

It's not too soon to start planning this year's Victory Garden, either!

CITADEL WINS FROM CLEMSON

Making Bid for Place In Quint Tournament

Richmond, A., Feb. 25—(AP)—The Citadel climbed nearer a berth in the southern conference basketball tournament at Raleigh next Thursday with a 63 to 38 trimming handed Clemson last night. The win moved the Citadel into eighth place in the conference standings ahead of Maryland.

Citadel's light brigade has one more game to play and that is with South Carolina Saturday night. A loss to the Gamecocks would make them finish the season with four wins and four losses—and rob them of all but a mathematical chance of getting a tourney bid.

Virginia Military Institute, with Richmond, the only two teams in Virginia still in the running, tonight goes to College Park, Md., to play the University of Maryland, which needs a victory to end up with better than a 500 per cent average. The Cadets have six wins and a loss. They play the powerful colonials at George Washington Saturday night.

Richmond has, at best, an outside chance of getting into the tourney. The Spiders have finished their season and have only a slim hope that their 4-4 record will enable them to make the jaunt to Raleigh.

North Carolina, with eight wins and eight losses, have the slimmest of hopes of getting into the tourney. They play Duke's defending champions Friday night.

William and Mary is the only Virginia team to clinch a place in the tournament. The tribe, which lost to Maryland, 51-36 at College Park Tuesday night, have six wins and four losses and have no more games to play.

Harris Given Free Hand With Phils

Philadelphia, Feb. 25 (AP)—Stanley (Bucky) Harris, newly appointed manager of the Philadelphia Phils, was assured today of a free hand in all managerial duties—except in spring training.

The hills' new owner, William D. Cox, announced Harris' appointment yesterday and later said he had "asked" the former Washington Senators' mentor to try "my training system"—which he called "the commando type."

Harris retained Chuck Klien as player-coach.
Cox told reporters his training system will combine running and calisthenics.

Down The Heavyweight Trail

By James J. Johnston

After a three-year lay-off Jack Dempsey returned to the ring in 1926 to risk his crown against a boy from the sidewalks of New York and exmarine named Gene Tunney. Dempsey's prowess was so respected that few figured Tunney had a chance.

But boxing enthusiasts had forgotten that Tunney had never been knocked out, that he was a serious student of boxing and a keen observer of fighting styles, that he was clever, fast and had a good paid of legs.

As the battle started, Tunney walked out with a determined look on his face and Dempsey, a little puffy, rushed towards Gene, croaking and weaving as usual. As Jack got within range and was ready to throw a punch, Tunney backed away. Dempsey straightened up and started after him again. Tunney moved away. Dempsey stood up and Tunney jabbed him with a straight left that stunk.

Jack began to weave and get closer to Tunney but this time Gene didn't move as Jack expected he would. Dempsey came in unprotected and Tunney landed with a one-two punch, a left and a right. That won the fight and the title. Although the bout went 10 rounds.

Among the small group who thought Tunney would win was one of his fighters, the middleweight champion, Harry Greb. Harry had given Gene his only defeat and had been soundly trounced in a return bout.

"You can go and bet all the money you can lay your hands on that Tunney will beat Dempsey," Greb had told me.

"I know," he said. "Tunney hit me harder than I was ever hit. That right hand body punch of his, together with his straight left, will get Dempsey to pieces. This is the surest win I've ever known."

"You saw me box Jack in the gym. You know I can beat him, but I can't lick Tunney. Tunney is boxing all the time, is in great shape, can box like a streak and has good footwork. Dempsey may hit him once but, brother, that's all. He'll never hit him again. Tunney has a good fighting head. If you hit him, he doesn't want to get even. He quickly in return to get even. He'll back away and figure you out and cut you to ribbons."

Greb really called that one. The ring-rusty Dempsey was no match for the cold, calculating, punishing Tunney. And Gene whipped Jack again later, although he did come within a second of not doing it.

Joe Louis, although a terrific puncher, is not a one punch knock-outer and no one without such a punch could whip Tunney. If he's hurt Louis will slug it out, but not Tunney. Gene will avoid trouble until he gets you in just the spot he wants you and then he'll whip you. I think Tunney would have outboxed and out-manuevered Louis and would have given him as bad a lacing as Gene gave Dempsey.

And luck
And Bucky still has a big job to buck.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—Idea man, Nolly J. Sams of the Charleston (S.C.) Evening Post suggests that minor league baseball clubs that are disbanding for the duration might donate their uniforms to service teams, which need equipment. They could toss in bats, baseballs and other equipment, too, and earn a rousing vote of thanks to fold up.

Even before they officially decided to fold up, Texas League club owners were considering fast semi-pro clubs or a service league to keep their ball parks busy. A good prospect is the Waco Army Flying School, where Birdie Tebbetts, now at Officers Candidates School, Sid Hudson, Buster Mills, Bruce Campbell and Hoot Evers are expected to be on hand this summer.

Harris Harassed
The Senators to Philles movement. For Bucky is no improvement. Both clubs need players and cash.

One-Minute Sports Page

Tickets for the N.C.A. and Invitation Basketball Tournaments at the Garden next month already are selling at a $600-$700 a day clip. Eddie Walker, Chalky Wright's manager, spends his spare time sending service men the boxing news. He writes regularly to about ten of them. When Joe Gardner, Georgetown graduate manager, reported that big John Mahken's induction had been postponed until he is having some dental work done, local coaches began inspecting their squads like horse traders trying to learn a nag's age. If Dolf Camille becomes manager of the Dodgers, he can start teaching the boys how to hit homers in Cincinnati. Dolf socked five there last season while no other Dodger hit even one.

Today's Guest Star

Flem R. Hall, Fort Worth (Tex.) Star Telegram: "The tragedy of the Texas League is that it is giving up without making a fight for life. Its sister Southern Association is making a brave effort. So are several of the smaller leagues. All of them know they may never finish the season, but they are going ahead with preparation, avoiding all talk of quitting and doing the best they can."

Service Dept.

Kenny Butler, playing in the outfield for McClellan Field, Calif., received word recently from the Boston Red Sox that he should report to Louisville when the war is over. Kenny thinks he'll report to Officer Candidates' School first. Fort Monmouth, N. J., will be represented in Saturday's A.A.U. track and field championships by Corp. Ralph Hammond former Ohio State sprinter, and Sgt. Clark Mallory, high jumper from Southern California. Aviation Cadet Joseph Kuhn, former golf pro at the Hawk's Nest Club of Gauley Bridge, W. Va., recently set a record of 3:30 over the 30 barriers of the Georgia Pre-

Flight school obstacle course. Probably looked easy to anybody used to climbing mountains and bunkers at the same time.

Weighty Business

After staging a tonnage tournament for his Sperry Corp. Bowlers at Freddie Fitzsimmons' Alley, Dixie Walker complains: "The big two-man against two-woman teams and the boys have to spot the girls one pin per pound."

Green Phantoms to Meet Coast Guards

Greenville High School's Green Phantoms will meet a strong Elizabeth City Coast Guard Air Station five Friday and Saturday nights in the GHS auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The Coast Guard boys are expected to be plenty tough for the Green Wave. They are expected to have a very strong team. The Greenville High boys will be seeking revenge Friday night because of their defeat by the Washington High five last Tuesday night.

Coach Farley no doubt discovered flaws in his team Tuesday night and will have a smoother working team to meet the Coast Guards than met Washington earlier this week.

Taking the hardwood for the Phantoms will probably be Moye and Musselwhite who made a good showing against Washington. Holding down the forward positions for the Green Wave will be Dunn, and Harrison or Corey. Andrews, veteran center of the Phantom five will hold down his regular pivot post.

During the half time a tumbling exhibition will be put on by members of the boys' physical education classes.

The Beer Industry's "SELF-REGULATION" Program

Unless you are a clubwoman, or a civic worker or sociologist, you probably don't know much about how beer is sold.

But instinctively you want it to be sold in decent places, under regulation. You want the few simple rules that go with beer licenses, to be enforced. And so do we.

Actually we act for the citizens of this community in safeguarding their interests. We complain to your law enforcement officers when we find beer law violations. But we do it on behalf of the legal beer industry's uncompromising stand in upholding beer's good name.

Since we began our self-regulation program in this state, we have found that the great majority of the places where beer is sold are run by decent, honorable men mindful of their responsibilities to their community and to their industry.

But a few black sheep who tried to beat the game—who broke the law—are no longer in the beer business—thanks to enforcement officers who acted on our complaint. That's a record we are proud of, that we want you to know of.

Where beer is sold, we insist on wholesome surroundings, a decent regard for the community and for its laws.

NOT TO RELAX DRIVING BAN

Eastman Says Rubber Situation Will Become Worse

New York, Feb. 25—(AP)—Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, predicted today that before the end of the year the transportation rubber situation would become "worse, rather than better."

Speaking before a wartime conference on employee transportation, Eastman said: "I can see no reason at all for relaxing in any way the programs of economy and conservation which have been inaugurated but, on the contrary, every reason for promoting and pressing these programs with intensified vigor."

Eastman's address, heard by a large group of traffic men, referred to transportation as one of the greatest and most difficult of wartime problems.

"Steadily," said Eastman, "the job is growing bigger and steadily the facilities are growing less. The most the public can expect is accommodation—not good accommodation—and every possible expedient must be brought into play that will enable the facilities that we have to do the utmost possible work."

Eastman said that the private automobile still remained the most important factor in transportation and he urged car owners to go in more extensively for "group riding" as an aid to war workers lacking adequate travel facilities.

Nazi Drive Menaces Supply Line

A Nazi break-through at Kasserine Gap brought a new threat to Allied forces in Tunisia as they fought off Gen. Rommel's warriors near the out-kirts of Thala (1), important railway junction. Late reports, however, said British and American tanks and infantry stopped the Nazis within four miles of Thala, while other Allied units had beaten back the attack toward the west in central Tunisia. If Thala should fall, the Nazis would be in position to threaten the railroad linking Tébessa with Bou Aradja (2) and the main British forces in the north. The shading shows approximate Allied-held territory.

Mother Slain Fighting For Them

Carl T. L. Owens (left) and his brother, Ellis W. Owens (right), sit with heads bandaged as officers question them at Lexington, N. C., after their mother, Mrs. Miley Ann Owens, was shot to death battling officers who went to her home near Lexington to arrest her sons on charges of deserting from the army. Sheriff Raymond Bowers said Mrs. Owens met the officers at the door with a shotgun and was shot in a struggle that followed efforts to disarm her. Bowers charged her sons then attacked the officers with clubs.

istice in the east; if not on the whole front, then at least on the 1000-mile Finnish section of it. She could use those 100,000 soldiers elsewhere.

The year 1943 has been repeatedly compared with the year 1918, and Finns have not forgotten that when Germany withdrew her troops from Finland at the end of World War I their departure did not mean the end of Finland's new-found independence or the re-establishment of Soviet rule in that country.

Some statisticians estimate that the population of South America, which in 1940 was about 100,000,000 will double in the next 29 years.

POSTPONE USE OF ARMY MEN

No Explanation Made Rescinding Oripinal Order

Salt Lake City, Feb. 25—(AP)—The army, which last Tuesday said it would permit use of troops to pick Arizona's vital long-staple cotton crop, postponed the necessary authorization last night without explanation.

The postponement, disclosed at the headquarters of the Ninth Service command, probably will mean loss of approximately 7,500 bales of the war-essential fiber, Earl Maharg, executive secretary of the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation, said. In Washington War Manpower Commission sources said they had no knowledge of the order or of reasons for it. The War Department said it had no comment beyond the Salt Lake City announcement which said only:

The headquarters declined to say whether the postponement was temporary or indefinite or to give any reason for it.

Approximately 15,000 acres of long-staple cotton is reported deteriorating in Arizona fields for lack of pickers.

Under suspension of rules, the Senate passed a bill by Senator Johnson of Duplin to provide for a Constitutional amendment allowing the Legislature to fix the salary of the Lieutenant governor.

Johnson, who said he was not a candidate for that office, said he did not think the Lieutenant Governor was paid enough. The office pays a total of $1,400 for four years' service.

Lieut. Gov. R. L. Harris said the measure would not affect him, since his term would expire before its provisions could become law.

The House after receiving 26 bills and passing 37, recessed until 4 p. m., and scheduled a night session. The Senate passed 72 bills and received six.

The Senate election laws committee, meanwhile, killed a measure by Senator Hudgins of Guilford to rewrite North Carolina's absentee ballot laws. The measure would have outlined steps toward obtaining an absentee ballot, limited the privilege of issuance to the county election chairmen, and permitted application only by mail or in person.

A greatly modified substitute bill by Senator Wilson of Caldwell was adopted, however. It was designed to save the state $1,500 in each election by allowing the use of single style envelopes for ballots mailed to applicants who are ill, and to those absent from the county on election day.

lations which had been useful to the enemy, it was announced today.

"On the night of February 22-23 one of our fighting patrols carried out a successful attack on the enemy occupied village of Myebon about 60 miles southeast of Akyab," said the British communique.

"Our troops landed from vessels of the Royal Indian navy coast forces and remained in possession of the place about five hours.

"All buildings which had been useful to the enemy were burned, the jetty was blown up and a 100-foot river steamer was destroyed. "The opposition was very slight and quickly overcome."

The raiders suffered no casualties, the communique added.

of the Congress in either of the Anti-inflation bills to give the president authority to issue the executive order of October 3, 1942 (placing the limit on wartime salaries), but it is evident that the intent of Congress was to the contrary." The committee approved the Disney salary proposal last Saturday by a 15 to 10 vote, and in doing so brushed aside Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation that Congress impose a super tax to limit wartime salaries, after taxes, to $25,000 for single persons and $50,000 for married couples.

Negro Found Dead
George Grimes, middle-aged Negro, was found dead in bed by his wife about 5 o'clock this morning. He had been in ill health for some time. He succumbed to a heart attack. Coroner Griffin House said death resulted from a natural cause and deemed an inquest unnecessary. Grimes was employed from time to time at local tobacco factories. His wife, Mrs. Lucille Grimes, survives.
