

INCREASE IN FIGHTING ON SOVIET FRONT

Reds Report Capture Of Positions In Face Of Numerous German Attacks

By EDDY GILMORE Moscow, April 8 (AP)—While no big changes took place overnight on the Russian-German front, still oozing with the spring thaw, increased action was reported today in several sectors.

The Red army stormed German positions south of Izyum and captured advantageous lines in the face of sharp Nazi fire after several days of numerous German attacks.

In the Svsk sector northwest of Kursk the Germans again began counterattacks but they availed nothing. The Russians previously halted large-scale enemy operations there.

The Volkov front saw battling again, with the Germans once more trying to take a Soviet position and again, failing. Although there was sharp fighting in this sector, south-west of Leningrad, the conflict was not believed to be a major operation.

Artillery duels and scouting operations took place on the western front where the Russians have been edging toward Smolensk.

Nothing was mentioned in the noon communique about the Kuban area or west of Rostov.

The German high command communique broadcast from Berlin today said the eastern front generally was calm. Isolated Russian attacks against the Kuban bridgehead and in the central Donets area were repulsed, said the Nazi war bulletin recorded by the Associated Press.

A Red army newspaper dispatch said the Germans' recent attacks south of Izyum had cost them tremendously in manpower.

In all directions in which the attempted to advance, the ground was littered with piles of burned tanks put out of commission by Soviet artillery fire. Red Star reported.

The Red army's guns also smashed many trucks caught near the front line trenches south of Izyum.

The dispatch from Izyum, however, reported considerable Soviet activity, which may mean the Germans are preparing for still another assault upon the Red army bridgehead, hoping again for a major breakthrough.

It was evident that the Germans never believed they would be stopped at this Donets river line and had laid their plans for operations on the eastern side of the river once they crossed it.

The Red army's withdrawal from Kharkov begins, more than ever before, to look like good strategy.

The Russians here are continuing sharp artillery barrages day and night.

Although the communique did not mention the Kuban area battle Pravda, the Communist party paper, said that stiff battles continued and several more villages had been captured in the delta in the last few days.

SCHOOL BOARD IN FIRST MEET

RALEIGH, April 8 (AP)—North Carolina's new Board of Education took office today and held its first meeting after the induction ceremony.

The ceremony was in the office of Governor Broughton. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Stacy of the State Supreme Court.

The new board is composed of 12 appointive members and the state superintendent of public instruction, who are ex-officio members.

The board named Clyde A. Erwin as secretary; Lt. Gov. R. L. Harris as chairman, and Nathan Yelton, secretary of the old State School Commission, was named comptroller at a salary of $6,000 a year.

Julian S. Miller, Charlotte newspaper editor, was elected vice-chairman.

Shortly before the members took office, the North Carolina Education Association formally made Governor Broughton a life member the first layman accorded that honor.

In presenting the membership John C. Lockhart of Charlotte, retiring president of the Association, said he was pleased to see the new board.

Destroy 37 Jap Planes In Battle

Encounter One of Greatest Aerial Engagements In Solomons Area; Americans Lose 7 Fighters

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, April 8 (AP)—American fighter planes destroyed 37 Japanese aircraft in a sky battle over the southeastern Solomon Islands Wednesday, the Navy announced today when the enemy struck at American shipping off Guadalcanal with an armada of 98 planes.

Seven American fighters were lost but one pilot was rescued.

The battle, one of the greatest ever fought in the air of that area, climaxed a two-day period of aerial activity during which American planes made six forays against enemy installations throughout the Solomons archipelago.

Whether the Japanese, whose force included 50 bombers and 48 Zeros, were successful in reaching American ships at Guadalcanal was not reported.

The destruction of the enemy airplanes during the action on Wednesday raised to 943 the total number of Jap aircraft reported in Navy communiques as having been destroyed in the Solomons to date.

These are actual combat losses and do not include operational losses which would make the Japanese investment of aircraft in the Solomons fighting much greater.

Not for many weeks had the Japanese struck at Guadalcanal or at shipping in the vicinity of the island with such force. The last fighting of any consequence had developed around February 1 when the enemy was attempting to remove his officers from the force then being crushed by advancing American ground troops on the island.

Coincident with news of the American victory in the skies, Japan's army press chief, Maj.-Gen. Nakao Yahagi, voiced a threat of Japanese invasion of India.

Yahagi declared that "the enemy's ambition of recapturing Burma has at last been crushed" and that Japanese successes on the Burma front had "increased the confidence of our forces to advance into India."

Meanwhile, Japan had a fresh attack of "bomb jitters" today as the Tokyo radio for the second time in 24 hours warned the Japanese people that a new American bombing assault might come at any time "either from the China continent, the Aleutians or from aircraft carriers."

The U. S. Office of War Information said Tokyo broadcasts recalled that it was just short of a year ago that Maj.-Gen. James H. Doolittle's bombers made their first sweeping raid on Japanese mainland cities.

BOLIVIA WILL FIGHT AXIS

La Paz, Bolivia, April 8 (AP)—Bolivia was summoned to war against the Axis powers and their satellites by an executive decree today, and leaders of political blocs of the Chamber of Deputies arranged a meeting to consider the action of President Enrique Penaranda and his cabinet.

Observers here believed an immediate session of Congress to vote a formal declaration of war would be demanded. Congress is the only body authorized constitutionally to adopt such a measure.

Foreign Minister Tomas Manuel Elio said the decree placing Bolivia beside Brazil as the second country in South America to manifest martial opposition to Germany and Italy, also would apply to Japan and (Continued on Page Eight)

British Army Launches Offensive Against Tunis

Pilotless Plane Lands Safely

German-controlled Radio Says Allies Have 'Crushing Superiority In Men And Materials'; Air Forces Continue Hammering at Enemy

By ROGER GREENE Associated Press War Editor Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British 1st Army has stormed within 27 air-line miles of Tunis in a sharp new offensive in North Tunisia, dispatches said today, while in the South the British 8th Army rolled up gains in pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered Africa Corps.

(An Algiers radio broadcast recorded in London at 8:38 p. m. (2:38 p. m. EWT) said the Eighth army was reported continuing its sweep north, and "all enemy attempts to stop the advance have failed completely.")

Striking across battlefields of the Carthaginian empire, 1st army troops were reported to have advanced four or five miles by a surprise attack in the sector of Medjez-El-Bab, 36 miles southwest of Tunis, the capital.

The German-controlled Paris radio said Anderson was attacking with a "crushing superiority in men and materials."

Meanwhile, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sent a message of congratulation to his field commander, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, declaring:

"The army, the navy and the air force are now in a position to exact the full price from the enemy confronting us in Africa."

An Allied communique indicated that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th army, newly united with the American 2nd army corps, had been checked for the past 24 hours in driving Rommel northward along the coast.

A bulletin from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said the British 1st army had developed "a successful attack in the area between Medjez-El-Bab and Munchar, taking prisoners and gaining much ground."

The communique said Gen. Montgomery's troops beat off a series of Axis counterattacks after the Allied breakthrough at the Wadi El Akarit, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

"Our mobile forces started to pursue northwards early on April 7," Allied headquarters said.

"The pursuit of the enemy continues relentlessly and many more prisoners together with much abandoned material have been taken."

"A Berlin broadcast asserted that British tanks which broke through Nazi lines had been checked and the Allies frustrated at encirclement had been frustrated at encirclement."

"Axis troops have taken up fresh positions," the broadcast said.

More prisoners were rounded up in both northern and southern sectors and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's positions again were blasted and shot up by Allied aerial squadrons.

Allied air forces of the Middle East renewed the hammering of Axis trans-Mediterranean bases. Cairo communique said heavy (Continued on Page Eight)

La Guardia Will Remain At Post

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that Mayor La Guardia of New York had offered his services to the armed forces but that "it would be very difficult to find any place in the army" where he could be as helpful as in his present job.

"After talking it over we decided to leave it open and the mayor assured me he would always be available if needed," Stimson told a press conference.

The secretary said that he feels that La Guardia is "in his present office rendering directly to New York and indirectly to the nation, services of great value."

Secretary Eden Invites Hull For Talks In London

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, discussing his recent conferences in Washington before the House of Commons, disclosed today he had invited Secretary of State Cordell Hull to visit London and said he was satisfied there is "complete agreement" between Britain and the United States on the "future policy toward France."

He also reported that he and United States authorities "found a very close similarity of outlook" on postwar matters.

"I am satisfied," the Foreign Secretary said, "that as regards the future policy toward France there is complete agreement between us. Eden said "there had been some misunderstanding in this country of the purpose the United States administration had in mind in maintaining relations with Vichy," but that these misunderstandings had been smoothed out.

"We naturally wanted to see all sections in France prepared to fight the common enemy, united and together," he added.

He said an agreement on policy toward Spain, Portugal, Turkey and other European neutrals was reached and plans had been made for an improved exchange of information on enemy and enemy-occupied territories.

He said his discussions in Washington fell mainly under three (Continued on Page Four)

Seventy Planes Destroyed in Paris And Antwerp Raids

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—American gunners destroyed 70 German aircraft in Sunday's daylight bombing of the Renault works near Paris and Monday's raid on the Erla Aero Engine Works at Antwerp, it was announced officially today.

Forty-seven German planes were shot down in the Renault raid, most of them from Heinkel He 111s, Hermann Goering's crack squadron of yellow-nosed Focke-Flu 109 fighters, the Eighth U. S. Army air force headquarters said.

The following day, attacking the Erla works at Antwerp, the American can bombers destroyed 23 German fighters.

Escorting RAF, Allied and Dominion fighters shot down a total of 10 more challenging fighters in both raids, pushing the overall figure to 80.

Eight bombers and eight Allied fighters failed to return from the missions. Four bombers and seven fighters were lost in the Renault raid; four bombers and one fighter over Antwerp.

In both raids German fighters met the bombers and their escorts as they approached the European coast, following them to their objectives and then pursued them back to the coast, daring in for attacks whenever possible.

Affirms Conviction

RALEIGH, April 8 (AP)—A State Supreme Court decision upholding conviction of Clyde Grass of Kanawha of murdering his father-in-law, W. A. Godwin, and his sister-in-law, Annie Lee Stafford, automatically sets April 23 as the death date of Grass.

The court's decision, handed down yesterday, found no error in the trial and conviction of Grass.

Unusual

RALEIGH, April 8 (AP)—A worker returned an unemployment benefit check to the Unemployment Compensation Commission, explaining that he had got a job after putting in his claim and no longer needed the money.

It was the first time such a check had been returned to the Commission voluntarily, and Acting Chairman Ralph Moody was so impressed that he had photostatic copies made of the accompanying letter.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Should the winged fighting forces of the Allies cease bombing industrial cities because civilians are killed in the raids which are carrying us towards victory and the end of a bloody war?

A committee of Britons has petitioned the British government to "stop bombing civilians." The committee doesn't object to precision bombing of military and industrial targets, but is "horrified" at such civilian casualties as were caused in Cologne.

Of course, deliberate bombing of civilians is contrary to international law, but the committee has registered its protest at the wrong headquarters.

The Germans, Italians and Japanese have engaged in purposeful bombing of non-belligerents throughout the war, presumably in an effort to break civilian morale. Some awful atrocities have been committed.

There has been no incident of this sort chargeable to the Allies, so far as I know. The civilians who have been killed in Cologne and other places have died by chance, not design.

Agreed that deliberate bombing of civilians is savagery—supposing they get caught at the target? Are bombs to be withheld because of that?

The factories of Cologne were turning out weapons of death to be used against the Allies. Likely some were making bombs for British babies. Certainly the efforts of that great industrial center menaced the Allied cause. They were protracting the war, thereby costing the lives of thousands of United Nations troops and causing untold suffering to civilians in Allied countries.

Humanity doesn't ask us to make such a sacrifice in order to protect enemy peoples.

Talk about "humane warfare" is bunk. War can't be humanized, though we can and do soften some of the blows. Just so long as there's armed aggression which must be met by defense in kind, just so long will civilians die. Wars are won by killing.

Does death by bombing hurt a civilian more than it does a soldier? I doubt it, though perhaps the civilian's mental anguish is greater because of lack of schooling in violence.

The Allies aren't going to let the lives of a few thousand civilians stand in the way of saving the world from the barbarities of Hitler and the Japanese.

The United States for one is building the greatest airforce in the world. We shall go out of our way to save civilian lives—but, unless my guess is wrong, we shall keep right on bombing with increasing intensity until the enemy is smashed.

the Christmas holidays. During his stay, Johnny was invited for meals in a number of local homes, and became well acquainted with several families here. Later, one of his hostesses, Mrs. George Gardner, wrote to Johnny's parents back in Wales, telling of his visit here. Last week Mrs. Gardner was delighted to receive replies to her letter, one from Johnny's parents and one from his sister. For their glimpses of present-day life in Britain as well as for their expressions of appreciation, these letters are of peculiar interest to the community that took a little British sailor to its hearth and heart when he was far from home. The letter from Johnny's parents reads:

"Your most welcome letter to hand last week. Needless to state, we were delighted and charmed that you, a complete stranger, should concern yourself to that extent. It was a kindly gesture that we shall always remember, and even more than that, your great kindness to our boy. Such actions are never lost.

"There are in this little England of ours people that have confused conceptions of our American friends, but I am quite confident that many of these illusions are being rapidly dispelled for all time. The feeling over here regarding the ultimate outcome of this frightful war is one of supreme confidence, especially when we think that 'Uncle Sam' is only just beginning to get into his stride. The world becomes smaller every year. I need hardly remind you that if any one of you should one day find himself in this little country of ours, a friendly welcome awaits him here."

And to this letter, sent from North Wales, Johnny's sister in London adds her own appreciation: "I am certain my father and mother have written to express their appreciation of your letter about Johnny. It seems strange to refer to him by that name for we all call him 'Haydn'. I would add my thanks to theirs. My fiancé is in the Air Force in India; my eldest brother is serving with the army in the Middle East, and then Haydn in the Navy was sent overseas so very quickly—it was only last February that he left school. It was a real thrill to hear from you because it is so nice to think that Haydn has made friends with a family. When you are miles from home a little bit of family life does make such a difference. I have been in London nearly six years now, working as secretary in one of our largest co-educational secondary schools in Middlesex. Mummy has only me now coming home about every three months. And that won't go on very much longer for I am 22 and, although up to the present I have been reserved, I shall be called up for the Forces in June." We are all so grateful to you for taking an interest in Haydn and for making him at home in a strange land."

The slogan of the ordnance division of the Army is: "The difficult things we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."

Many people of the community remember the Little British sailor, Johnny Jones, who suddenly appeared in Greenville just before Christmas on leave from his ship then in port at Norfolk for repairs.

Hopping a ride out of Raleigh for Washington, Johnny thought himself headed for Washington, D. C., until a few miles out of Greenville—he discovered that it was "Little Washington" toward which he was heading, and stopped off here.

Liking our community, when his stated leave was up, he got in touch with his commander and was granted permission to stay on through

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GETTING A NEW START
Watch a little child learning to walk. Half the time he is not walking at all but falling. What happens every time we take a step? We simply catch ourselves in the act of falling. We push ourselves over until we lose our balance, and then we take a step forward and catch ourselves before the fall occurs. Even when we are grown up we continue to fall, and every child learns to walk by falling over and over again.

So it is in the building up of strong character. We do not learn to walk morally and spiritually without falling. The child who, after a first fall, stretched himself out on the floor and refused to walk any more would lie on the floor or on a bed to the end of his days. There are some people who can never pick themselves up after failure. Many a person worries about past sins until he literally brings himself to the edge of the grave. Repentance is necessary for salvation; but there is a world of difference between repentance and remorse. Remorse leads us to despair; repentance leads us to forsake our sin, make restitution for our evil doing if possible, and then to cry out to God to help us in a new start.

God does not ordain sin in our life, but what He does ordain is that after we have fallen into sin through our own perversity and foolishness, we arise from our sin with new wisdom and resolve to go on to better things.

We learn to live satisfactory lives precisely as we learn to walk, by falling and then getting up after each fall and going forward.

PERMANENT PEACE IS POSSIBLE

Future world peace depends to a large extent upon the United States—providing we do three things: First, keep our faith with the American capitalistic system by allowing individuals and businesses to survive with sufficient earnings to maintain private jobs in free enterprise; Second, actively participate in world affairs; Third, lead the way in broadening the flow of international trade.

The first is essential to peace because the alternative to free enterprise is state socialism, and state socialism leads to war. The dictators have proved that. The second is essential because our cooperation is necessary to enforce a just peace. The third is essential because nations tied together by trade are far less inclined to fight.

Every effort must be made to awaken people to the fact that our leadership is sorely needed in the creation of a lasting peace and a new era of trade, just as every effort must be made to awaken the people to the fact that all of us have a common interest in the maintenance of the free enterprise system.

In pleading for such leadership, Clark H. Minor, the chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council, says: "When we look over the past and see the ravages caused by war... we must be convinced that the establishment of permanent peace would be so beneficial to every inhabitant of the world that there is hardly any immediate sacrifice which we could be called upon to make which would not be repaid a thousand-fold.

He further declared: "That we and every country may enjoy the fruits of the particular aptitudes of other nations, of their particular natural resources, requires that no barriers shall be placed in the way of our access to such fruits. This means intelligent and courageous action with respect to tariffs, exchange regulations and all the... unnecessary impediments which now restrict the flow of goods... Our country has the least to fear from being a leader toward freer world trade. With our total foreign business representing such a small percentage of our total trade, and with our resources of such great richness, we are surely the best situated to take the lead in a program benefiting not only ourselves directly, but all other civilized nations."

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Grow yourself some fish. That's the war cry which Harold L. Ickes' Fish and Wildlife Service, with the aid of Soil Conservation and several other agencies in agriculture, are shouting at the farmers. If you have a farm that boasts a stream, a fair-sized spring, or even a generous puddle fed by surface drainage, it may be no trick at all to grow a goodly crop of crappie, perch, bream, catfish or bass. One North Carolina farmer, who has had such a "fish farm" for years, comes through with this story: He built it under directions of the Department of Agriculture. It was stocked and is replenished by Mr. Ickes' fishermen. In spite of

HORSE PRAIRIE BY CLEM COLT

YESTERDAY: The Stamped Cattle Company brings in the sheriff and orders the arrest of Tubac Jones on several trumped up charges. Tubac floors one of the directors and is ordered out of the county by the sheriff.

Chapter 3
Tubac Jones kept going, but not a fearful great way. He kept going until the upthrust brow of a sugarloaf hill cut off all view of the grinning escort; and after that he flopped down in the dappled shade of some wolf's candle and pulled off his boots with a doleful groan. That had been Lot Decker's notion, unhorsing him at the boundary and sending him off on shanks mare.

"Fine kettle of fish!" growled Tubac bitterly, gingerly inspecting his blistered feet. That had been paid for the horse was small consolation. The most malicious insult devised by man was to leave a waddy afoot in this country; and Tubac Jones was never the man to forgive or forget an injury. He was thinking what he would do to Lot Decker when he saw dust coming up the trail. He yanked the returned gun out of his belt and glared down the trail. He did not, however, bother getting up—not even when a horse herd broke round the bend.

The rider with the herd angled over, leering eyes taking in Jones' situation.
"Never mind laughin'," Tubac growled, and let the rider have a squint at his gun. "Cut me out one of them shad belled plugs."
"You mean one of these here racin' shad belled plugs?"
"I don't care what you call 'em. Just cut me out one an' quit gasin'."

"What'll you give me for the entire herd?"
"I ain't no circus man," Jones came back dryly.
"You don't know what you're passin' up, friend. Why, with this remuda you could open a stable."
"You mean a glue factory, don't you?" Jones made to pull on his boots, but his feet had swollen and he quit with an oath. "I'll want a bill of sale."
"O' Snaggle-Tooth Potter wouldn't 'till nobody."
"I'll take your John Henry just the same."
"As you please," Potter growled.
"How much you want?"
"We'll make it twenty-five dollars."
Jones got out his wallet. Potter's face registered surprise, when he caught the edges of some of the bills as Tubac thumbed through them in search of a small one. He said, "What bank you been doin' business with, friend?"
"I told you that," Tubac grunted, "I'd know most as much as I do."
Potter grinned. "What do they call you if I might ask?"
"You're lookin' at Tubac Jones, boss an' owner of the T Bar J."
"Never heard of it. Where you located?"
"Squatin' on the Holeman grant."
"You're the what! Did you say Holeman grant?"
"Nothin' wrong with your hearin'."
Potter mopped his head with a short-sleeve. "Mister, when the Stamped Hog an' Ca—"
"They already know about it," Jones grinned sourly. "That's how come I'm over here without no horse," he said, and told him the story.

Potter whistled. "An' you're allowin' I go back for more?"
Jones scowled. "I'm goin' back all right. You watch my smoke! No whoppyjawed this-an'-that can treat yours Truly like Deckerman done an' expect—"
"You don't know what you're bitin' off at, partner. Why, you've been killed around here for 'less hell than you've raised already."
"I ain't even got started yet."
"Are you loco?"
"Not so's you could notice it. I got pressin' business."
"You'll get a shutter if you go back there! I'd be plain suicide. The whole town's got their hooks in that grant. You ain't jest fightin' Haines an' Lot Deckerman—"
"I got a batch of goods bought at McGillis' store an'—"
"D'you know who 'o' man McGillis is? Lemme tell you, brother! Archie McGillis, among other things, is boss director of the Stamped Hog an' Cattle Company, an' the minute he sees your mug in town—"
"I'll take care of that when I meet it," Jones scowled. "It ain't your funeral anyhow."

It was crowding toward dusk when Tubac Jones rode back to the scene of his recent defeat. The lamps of Stockton spilled pools of light through the felted shadows and from one of its honkytonks came the scrape of a fiddle.

He'd more urgent reasons for coming back than the supplies he'd mentioned to Potter. The first and foremost of these was his white-stocking roan, Callopo. He had raised the horse himself from a colt and it could do everything but talk.

It was hardly likely, he thought, that Deckerman had given the horse a second look—or the sheriff, either, for that matter. Their main idea had been to set him afoot as a hint that the going was going to be rough if he had the nerve to come back here. A sly man, Lot, and fresh as they come—but Jones aimed to be a mite fresher.

It was a pretty safe bet, he told himself, they had put Callopo in some public corral or feed barn. He found the horse at the first one he tackled. He flipped the stableman a couple of silver dollars and stooped down to lift up his saddle. "Hold on there!"
Jones gave him a mackerel-eyed stare; and the man said, "What in thunder you think you're doin'?"
"I'm gettin' ready to saddle my horse."
"Well, you kin jest put that saddle back down on the floor. The Sheriff brought the critter in here an' here he stays till Ike Shallet says diff'rent!"
Jones did some quick thinking. The last thing he wanted was a row. "Didn't he tell you I'd be comin' after it?"
"He didn't tell me nothin'!"
"Humph—dang funny. Ne'mind; I'll have him gimme a note to you. Just get the nag saddled. I'll be back in a jiffy," Jones said, and wheeled out of the stable and around the corner where he tore a page from his tally book. "Give bearer the white-stocking roan," he wrote with a grin; and signed Shallet's name with a flourish. Then he went back into the stable.

The hostler stood just where Jones had left him. "The Shallet never wrote that, mister."
"How the hell," Jones scowled, "do you make that out? You ain't even taken a look at it—"
"I don't have to look at it," the stableman said; and when Jones saw the sheriff.

Plan Program . . .

emergency should produce all they could. Nelson previously had endorsed the idea for certain war industries.

Wilson, now the sparkling behind WPB's incentive pay proposal, went to the White House recently. That he got at least a tentative go-ahead was indicated by the fact that he immediately thereafter set about getting clearance from the two agencies which might have opposed him on anti-inflationary grounds—the War Labor Board and the Office of Economic Stabilization.

These agencies also were understood to have acquiesced. Wilson holds the plan to be inflationary, rather than the reverse, since it would result in greater output per dollar of wages paid and lower unit cost of production.
WPB officials are confident, moreover, that it would step up production by at least 10 per cent, without a corresponding drain on manpower. Some feel the increase could be as much as 30 per cent.

Talk in WPB has revolved about a plan whereby every employee in a plant would get a pay bonus scaled to the percentage of increased production.

Secretary Eden . . .

headings: First, "operational matters—immediate questions concerned with the conduct of the war"; second, "political cooperation between us in connection with actual military operations that have taken place or will take place"; and, third, questions arising out of the war.
"I came back," Eden said, "greatly encouraged by the large measure of general agreement which we found and I am certain that will be of great value to us in future exchanges we shall have, both with the United States and other governments who are our allies." This was the first reference he made which seemed to apply to Russia.

At the time of his Washington talks, it was assumed that one purpose of his visit was to bring about closer relationships between the Soviet Union and the United States. The Foreign Secretary described his conversations in Washington as similar to those he had more than a year ago in Moscow with Premier Joseph Stalin and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

WATCH NUTRITION AS GUARD TO HEALTH

Spending the red stamps wisely is a real challenge to you homemakers who are truly serious in doing the patriotic job of feeding your families adequately. You have a three-fold responsibility: (1) to plan your meat selection so that you will satisfy, to as great a degree as possible, your family's preferences; (2) to keep an eye on the nutritive value of the meat you serve; and (3) to stretch your red stamps over as many low-point meats as possible rather than spending too many of your family's points on meat of high point value.

Did your husband expect steak for dinner every night back in the good old days? I don't blame him. I like steak too. Its delicious flavor and juicy content make most everybody want it. But it's your problem to convince him that at the present point value, steak a day is an impossibility.

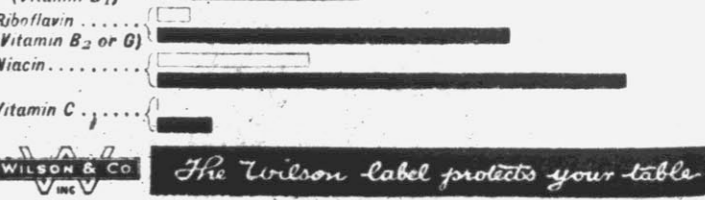

So, I thought you might be interested in seeing a comparison between a steak and three other meat dishes (pork chop, beef porcupine and breaded pork liver) which total the same number of red stamp points for a family of four.

FOR WOMEN ONLY
After selecting these three meat dishes I calculated the nutritive value of each. You can see by a glance at the chart below that these three dishes provide even more food value than the steak.

Perhaps this fact will help appease friend husband until he can again have his steaks as often as he desires. But my advice to you is to keep this information to yourself and concentrate on making these low-point dishes so delicious and attractive he will be content with fewer of his beloved steaks.

VITAL TO HEALTH
With the amount of meat limited, there is a real health danger unless we choose wisely. Thiamin or Vitamin B1, which is so important to the normal functioning of nerves and digestion, has been low in the average American diet, even in peacetime.

Pork is one of the richest sources of thiamin, so care should be taken to serve pork frequently. It is due to the pork in the chop suey that the thiamin line on the chart below is so long.

To Present Piano And Violin Concert

The next musical offering from the College Music Department will be given next Tuesday evening, April 13, in the Austin auditorium at 8:30 when A. L. Dittmer, violinist, and Mrs. Guy Smith, pianist, appear in a concert of violin and piano music.

This concert has been timed to serve as a special feature of the "Greenville Art Festival," sponsored by the Greenville Women's Club, who are acting as co-sponsors for this evening.

Mr. Dittmer, head of the College Music Department, is well known in and around Greenville from previous appearances as a violin soloist.

Mrs. Smith, formerly of the college faculty, is now organist at the First Presbyterian church of this city. She is noted for the excellent accompaniments she has furnished at various times for traveling artists who appeared without an accompanist, which, in spite of their extemporaneous nature, were practically flawless.

These two artists will also be remembered to Greenville lovers for the concert they gave last year.

The program to be given next Tuesday is particularly interesting from the fact that so many contemporary composers are represented. A composition by Efram Zimbalist, husband of the beautiful Alma Gluck who died not long ago in the prime of her life; one by Albert Spalding, well remembered for his appearance here last fall; another by Albert Stoessal, professor of music at N. Y. U.; two by Fritz Kreisler, and one by Samuel Gardner, violin instructor at the Yullard

Navy Offers A Fine Chance Men, Women

By CHESTER WALSH
Chief L. B. Scruggs, recruiting officer for the U. S. Navy in this section is a Tar Heel and hails from Rocky Mount. He is developing a more friendly attitude toward the Navy through personal and intensive work for enlistments in the Navy and the Seabees. He has been guest speaker at civic clubs, schools and other groups in behalf of enlistments with good results.

In his regular coverage of this territory as a Navy recruiter Chief Scruggs opened a Navy recruiting substation at Snow Hill today. It will be open all day tomorrow. He will be at Ayden Saturday to give information about enlistments in the Navy, the WAVES and the Seabees. Men and women interested in volunteering for Navy duty are invited to meet him for an interview.

While enlistment regulations still restrict wide-open enlistments of draft-age men, several branches now are open to Selective Service registrants. The Seabees, the Navy's construction battalions, now are open to men between the ages of 18 and 38 who have had experience in any phase of construction. They are consequently eligible for petty officer ratings in the Naval Reserve.

Seventeen-year-old men are still eligible to volunteer for the Navy or Naval Reserve. However, as soon as the youngster reaches his 18th birthday, he is placed under the jurisdiction of Selective Service and is no longer eligible to volunteer for any branch of the service.

Women who are interested in the WAVES may obtain complete information on the WAVES from Recruiter Scruggs. Application blanks and complete information will be available from the recruiter.

Lt. Cmdr. C. B. Neely, head of the State's Navy recruiting, said yesterday that many women are needed for duty with the WAVES. North Carolina has been assigned a quota of 3,000.

Education and physical requirements for the WAVES have been relaxed considerably, Commander Neely said. Now, a woman need only have two years' high school work to qualify. Age limits for the WAVES are 20 and 50.

To 17-year-old men, the Navy extends its fullest possibilities. Over 50 trade schools, which qualify the young recruits for petty officer ratings, now are available to the young volunteers. These trade schools teach everything from radio to carpentry, and last for about three months.

About 30 per cent of the Navy's personnel now is made up of teenage youngsters, Commander Neely said yesterday. "Every one of them," he added, "is well on his way to another promotion right now."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 3—(AP)—Perhaps it's too early in the season to be bringing up the subject, but there may be enough college sports activity, especially baseball, next summer to make up for the shortened spring schedules. ... Asa Bushnell, who keeps his fingers in a whole wagonload of college pies, points out that a lot more eastern schools will be having summer sessions this year and he figures that most of them will try to organize teams with the same sort of pick-up schedules that some operated successfully last summer.

Enough Is Enough

When some 3,000 Lakewood, N. J., school kids were given time off the other day to watch the Giants practice, they also were given a lecture on good behavior. ... For about a half hour they acted like perfect ladies and gentlemen, then the strain was too much for them. ... A voice in the deep silence suddenly rang out: "Hey, horseface, back to the underbrush for you!" ... And from there on the kids behaved like themselves.

One-Minute Sports Page

The Jamaica Racing Association has set a row of hitching posts behind the grandstand to accommodate spectators who know that horses are more than just numbers at the Mutual windows. ... Bill Frank, 16-year-old Elkhardt, Ind., sports-caster, aired play-by-play reports on 50 school basketball games during the past season. ... He's one kid who never should be at a loss for words. ... Rose Cohen, who handles press tickets for Mike Jacobs and has dealt out about 40,000 in the past year, forgot to reserve one for herself last Friday and had to crash the gate for the Armstrong-Beau Jack scrap.

Today's Guest Star

Les Gooffs, Salt Lake City Deseret News: "The cockiest freshman athlete in one of our colleges was assigned a part-time job washing the gymnasium floor. Same old floor flosser, as it were!"

Service Dept.

The Manhattan Beach Coast Guard Station, which has cleaned up most of the sports titles in local naval circles, may drop its entire varsity program. ... Lieut. Jim Burchard, former New York World-Telegram sports scribe now a correspondent for "Stars and Stripes" and a member of the Algerian Boxing commission, has been wounded but reports it isn't serious. ... Camp Craft, S. C., plans to operate two baseball leagues and one softball circuit this summer. ... Torchy Feden, the old six-day bike racer, has been made a sergeant in the Canadian Air Force.

It Ain't Hay, Brother

Roy Sanner, Montreal Pictorial from Arizda, Ark., has been getting his first look at New York since he has been temporarily attached to the Dodgers. ... The other day his guide, Al Sherer, took him to the Radio City Music Hall and, when they got inside, asked, "What do you think of the place?" ... Sanner craned his neck to see it all and replied: "Sure would hold a lot of hay."

Training Camp Briefs

By The Associated Press
Lakewood, N. J.—The New York Giants seem to have cleared up two problems that troubled them during the early part of the training season—Whether Carl Hubbell's left arm would be in good shape for the season and the team's failure to hit in intra-camp games. Hubbell, making his seasonal debut against the Ellis Island Coast Guard team yesterday, gave only one hit in three innings and fanned five men in a row. In three exhibitions so far the Giants have pined out 43 hits for 51 runs.

Wallingford, Conn.—The Boston Braves planned a pickup game against the Choate school team today but to make things a little more even Manager Casey Stengel planned to trade batters with the Schoolboys and to start his Yannis-gans.

Brooklyn—The Dodgers turned to Kirby Higbe's pitching for consolation for their narrow escape from defeat in yesterday's exhibition against Yale at New Haven. Higbe allowed only two hits and fanned nine during a four-inning stint.

Cape Girardeau, Mo.—Already beset by a number of troubles, Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns had another on his hands today on the eve of a seven-game series with the Cardinals. Shortstop Vernon Stephens, who has an eye infection, returned to St. Louis ahead of the rest of the squad for treatment.

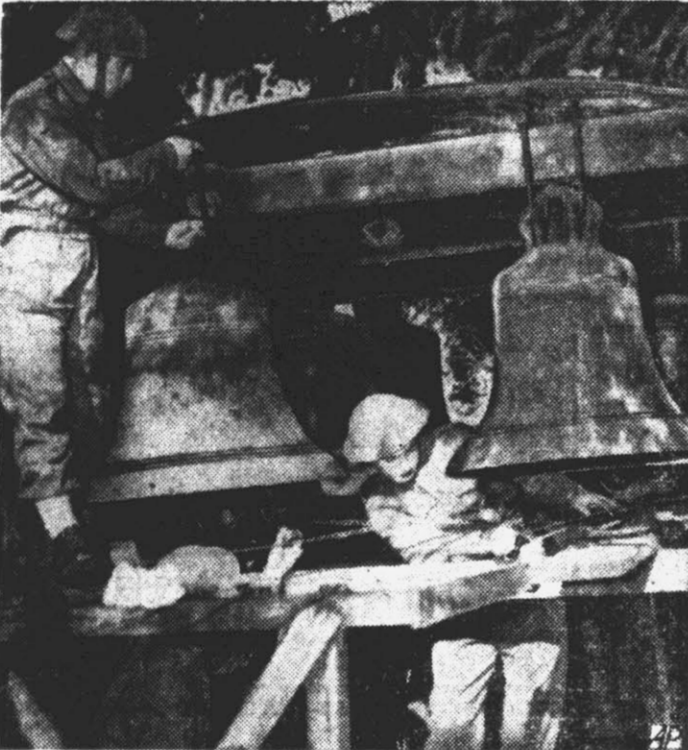

College Park, Md.—With no game on schedule, the Washington Senators looked for a big order of batting practice from Manager Ossie Bluege. Despite their 10-8 victory over the Naval Academy at Annapolis yesterday, the Nats made only six hits.

Muncie, Ind.—Jimmy Wasdell, Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder, has received a notice from his draft board to be ready for his first examination within a few days.

Asbury Park, N. J.—As the New York Yankees broke camp and headed for their home grounds today, with their lineup still uncertain, Manager Joe McCarthy pronounced George "Snuffy" Stirrweiss and Johnny Lindell the standouts of the blustery spring sessions. Lindell, he indicated, would be carried as an outfielder and spare first baseman and will pitch only in case of a shortage of moundmen.

Ruling Not Aimed At Gen. M'Arthur

Washington, April 3 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today "with great explicitness" that Army regulations banning political activity by soldiers were not aimed at Gen. Douglas MacArthur or any other individual.

The secretary told a press conference that the regulations made public earlier this week embodied war department policy adopted as long ago as 1925 and represented in his opinion as an essential safeguard for maintenance of the traditional American policy that no individual should exercise both civil and military authority at one time.

The latest regulation, dated February 25, 1943, prohibits anyone in the army from participating actively in a political campaign, forbids soldiers to seek or accept election to any public office not held by them when they entered active military service, or to accept reelection without prior approval of the War Department. Such approval would be granted—with an honorable discharge from the Army—only in cases of "military hardship."

Arrange For Large Shipment of Sugar

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Arrangements have been made for bringing in an additional 230,000 tons of sugar from Cuba to ease some of the sugar rationing problems in the United States, it was learned today.

High officials who asked that their names not be used, said however, that the arrangement does not mean any change in the general consumer rationing of sugar. Much of this sugar will be available to people wanting to do so, continuing, it was pointed out. Such allotments were made last year.

Cork is principally cultivated in Spain and Portugal.

Announce Dates For Art Festival

By LUCY CHERRY CRISP

Dates for the annual Spring Art Festival, to be held this year under the joint sponsorship of the Woman's Club and the Community Art Center, are announced today as April 12-15, Monday through Thursday of next week.

Serious consideration was given to the idea of omitting the Festival this year, on account of prevailing war conditions, but the final conclusion reached was that in time of war, even more than in ordinary times, there should be recognition of the enduring values and indispensable contributions that the Arts and Crafts make to our daily lives. Thus it was decided that the Festival, originated and sponsored for a number of years by the Woman's Club, should be held this year, though on a smaller scale than usual.

There will be no outside artist or speaker for this year's Festival, but exhibits will be arranged from local collections of interest and artistic value. Chief among them will be two planned to be in keeping with our present trends of thought. First, an "International Exhibit" made up of various articles from the arts and crafts of as many countries of the world as possible. Next, an "Early American exhibit" the word "Early" being used here to denote arts and crafts articles from any period in our national history prior to the twentieth century. People of the city or community who have paintings, prints, pottery, hand-made laces, coverlets, metal work, or any arts or crafts pieces which they would loan for either of these two exhibits are invited to call Mrs. F. B. Haar, 3829, or Mrs. John G. Fleming, 3685-1, before 9 p.m. on Saturday. All articles to be exhibited must be at the Woman's Club by 12 noon on Monday. Other exhibits of the Festival will include several new portraits by Georgia Pearsall Hearn, exhibits from the city schools and the college, an exhibit of hand-painted china, and one of work done at the local Community Art Center, with its extension work-shop at the Service Center at the Woman's Club.

The opening program of the Festival will be presented Monday night at 8:30, at the Woman's Club. Further announcements concerning this program and others connected with the Festival will be made each day through the newspapers.

Coincident with the Art Festival this year comes the announcement from the sponsors' board of the local Art Center, until March 1st a WPA art gallery, that provision is being made to continue the work of the Art Center here in Sheppard Memorial Library and at the Woman's Club Service Center. Funds for several months are already in hand, contributed by local citizens who feel that such a center for art education and activity is an essential part of the kind of city and community this one intends and endeavors to be.

It will be recalled that last year the Art Gallery brought to Greenville for the Art Festival the noted artist, Louis Orr, with an exhibit of his exquisite etchings. This year, with a much less extensive program planned, all exhibits of the Festival will be shown at one place.

the Woman's Club. Further announcements concerning the Festival will follow.

Forest Fires Rage In Western Carolina

Winston-Salem, April 8—(AP)—Forest fires raged today in the woodlands of northwestern North Carolina.

Fires were reported in the Peak Creek community of Ashe county, not far from Laurel Springs; on the Caldwell-Watauga county line near the border of Wilkes county; and in the South Mountain area of Burke county.

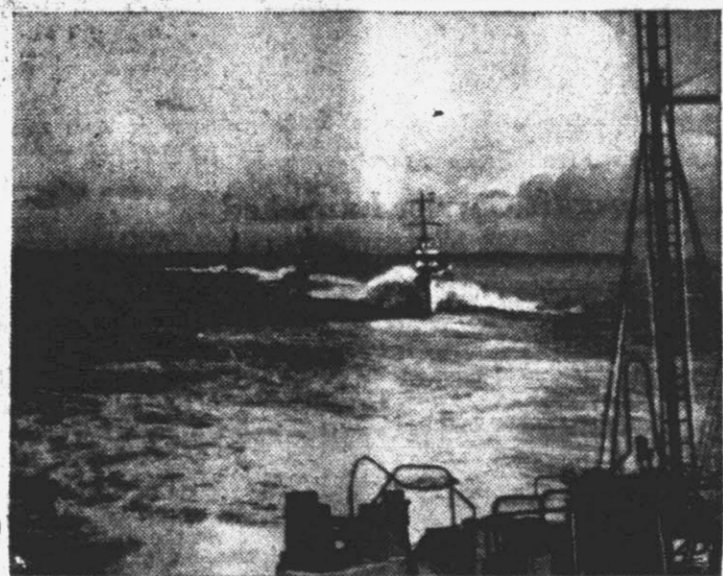

A blaze in the Low Gap section, of the Surry County, N. C.-Carroll County, Va., line was controlled yesterday after a long battle by boys from Mount Airy and Galax, Va., high schools.

James Council, highway engineer of Boone, said yesterday the smoke indicated the fire in Ashe county had made substantial headway.

The fire in the Watauga-Caldwell section was spreading, but much of the timber had been cut from the area and the loss was said to consist mostly of firewood.

Damage from the Burke county fire was not believed serious.

Cork bark is removed every eight or ten years.

The second U. S. corps of Lieut. George S. Patton, Jr. and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army collaborated like two woodsmen at the end of crosscut saw to rip Rommel's rearguards from their positions.
