American Forces Make New Gains On Tunisian Front

British Suffer Slight Reverses; Allied Airmen Score Hits On Eight Axis Vessels, Sinking Cruiser and Two Destroyers

By EDWARD KENNEDY Allied Headquarters in North Africa, May 1—(AP) American troops, continuing their stubborn advance toward Mateur, stormed and captured Djebel Tahent yesterday and wrested a neighboring high point from the Germans in a fierce bayonet charge. Allied headquarters announced today, as Allied air forces blasted an Axis concentration of warships and vessels of all sizes in their most successful attack yet on the enemy's sea lanes.

Direct hits were scored by the airmen on at least eight ships, including a light cruiser and two destroyers which were sunk or left aflame and apparently sinking.

The Second U. S. Army Corps of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., took Djebel Tahent, known as Hill 609, 16 miles southwest of Mateur in the Sidi Nsir area and captured Hill 624 just to the south. Their new positions permitted them to begin long range shelling of Mateur, 18 miles southwest of Bizerte.

But while they were scoring these successes, the British First Army lost ground east and northeast of Medjez-El-Bab in exceptionally hard fighting.

Allied communique No. 176 said exceptionally heavy fighting raged throughout yesterday, with the Germans pushing out in repeated counter assaults in the critical Medjez-El-Bab zone which guards the open plain before Tunis.

In one area our forward troops were forced to make a slight withdrawal, but elsewhere all our positions were firmly held, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced.

The Allied command stressed bloody losses inflicted on the Germans as the enemy battled with desperation both here to maintain his mountain defenses protecting

It is urgently needed for the war effort, and how-ever, are urged to do their bit by turning in the empty cans now.

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE President Roosevelt says that one of the things which impeded him in his recent four was the benefit in physical condition and mental alertness that men and women in service and war-workers uniforms have realized. He thinks the camps and industrial plants ought to be put to good use after the war, possibly by requiring the youth of America to give a year's service to the country. He has no specific program and expresses the view that any plan developed probably would be only partly military. A lot of people, especially parents of boys under military age, have been doing a deal of thinking along that line lately. They're interested

I always put the children first, but there is no organization in America more appropriate than the Boy Scouts. You have put your shoulders to the wheel in community projects and performed your tasks cheerfully and efficiently. Your active part in the war work will always be remembered.

In behalf of the people of Greenville I congratulate you and commend you and the fine men who are your leaders and those carrying on in the District Boy Scout Council, I especially want to commend James T. Subs Fighting Losing Battle

London, May 1—(AP)—Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of U. S. naval forces in European waters, said today that "slowly but surely" our air winning the battle of the Atlantic. For he it from me to belittle what the U-boat has done and is doing, Admiral Stark said. "I know it only too well, but I also know that the U-boat is fighting a losing battle." Stark spoke at a ceremony during which he accepted on behalf of the Navy a replica of John Paul Jones' flag, made by the women of York-shire. The flag will be placed in the United States Naval Academy museum.

REDS REPULSE NAZI ATTACKS IN KUBAN AREA

Major Air Battles Continue Along Entire Russian Front

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, May 1—(AP)—Major air battles continued up and down the long Russian front today with the fiercest fights above the narrow Kuban bridgehead. The Germans hold in the western Caucasus while on the Donets river front a company of Nazi automatic riflemen who forced the river were exterminated or forced to swim back to safety through the icy waters.

The Donets action was south of Izium in the sector 70 miles southeast of Kharkov. The noon communique said the greater part of the Germans who crossed were wiped out and only a few managed to swim back to the right bank. A company nominally numbers 250 men.

The latest communique and dispatches told of no renewed land activity in the Kuban but there was no reason to believe the Red army was not still driving against the foe deployed between Novorossisk and the Taman peninsula leading to the Crimea.

The German high command said "German and Russian troops again achieved great defensive success in the Kuban bridgehead yesterday." The communique broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians attacked with strong tank artillery and air support, but were bloodily repulsed.

Russian Stomach plates were credited with destroying "hundreds of enemy guns while assisting our troops." Continued raids were more on railroad stations and other communications day and night.

The present pounding of German communication lines was interpreted as meaning just one thing—that the Russians were well aware that the enemy was trying to ward up reserves and every kind of war material for an offensive.

Pravda reported from the Kuban on difficulties encountered by Red infantry and artillery. The dispatch said advance posts are in mud, tanks and scouts go out day and night in fishing canoes, armed with automatic rifles, mortars, machine guns and light field pieces. The units are called "mosquito groups" and are drawn through the brackish water.

Says Allies Will Break Backbone of Fascist Beasts

By The Associated Press

Moscow, May 1—Premier Joseph Stalin hailed the British-American aerial blows at Europe today as foreshadowing a second front when all the Allied armies "will break the backbone of the fascist beast" with joint smashes from east and west and called for the "utter annihilation" and "unconditional surrender" of Hitler's Germany.

In a May Day order of the day to his nation and his army, Stalin renewed the "unconditional surrender" keynote struck by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt at their Casablanca conference.

The Russian leader signed the order both as supreme commander and as marshal.

He praised the Allies' campaign on the North African front which, together with the air war, the Russian successes and the failure of the German counter-offensive in the Kharkov region, Stalin said, had caused a great Axis crisis which resulted in a German "battle about peace."

Devising German propaganda attempts to split the Russian-British-American coalition, he threw all German peace talk with the state-ment: "But of what kind of peace can one talk with the Imperialist savants from the German Fascist camp who have drowned Europe in blood and strangled it with gas?"

It is now clear that only after utter annihilation of the Hitlerite armies and the unconditional surrender of Hitlerite Germany can there be peace to Europe.

Republicans Will Fight Committee Tax Proposal

Washington, May 1—(AP)—Internal reports the House Ways and Means committee's Democratic majority called today Congress to support its "compromise" proposal to veto a plan while the Republican minority presses anew for passage of the Ruml skip-a-year agreement.

The Democrats called the Ruml plan "unfair a gross violation of the principle of ability to pay" while the minority countered with an assertion that the opposition compromise was a step toward "a situation of pressure and a combination of stubborn differences."

Under the committee plan, the Democrat "there will be no doubling up for more than seven million new tax payers and the old taxpayers will be forced to go some doubling up will result in a substantial reduction of their 1942 tax."

The Ruml plan said the Republicans "is the outgrowth of greed and common sense. It is as simple as it is simple. It meets the need for

Want Forger On Murder Charge

Portsmouth, Va., May 1—(AP)—North Carolina authorities will be asked for release of Cecil Bennet Ward, by law serving a term for forgery in Central Prison, Raleigh to stand a charge of murder in connection with the death here at James F. Latham, 37, whose body was discovered at 6 p. m. yesterday in Western Blaine district in Norfolk County.

Ward was arrested charged with the murder of Latham, and the body was found in a small clearing in a forest in a remote section of the district.

Finding of the body followed a search that had been in progress since last Tuesday when county police were asked by Mrs. Doris Latham, 28, widow of the 47-year-old victim, who has been missing from his home at 40 Cambridge Street, Barlow Place since March 13 to investigate the disappearance of her husband.

County Judge Arthur A. O'Leary said the finding that he would communicate with Attorney General H. M. Mann of North Carolina regarding the case of Ward, who is presently in custody of the state penitentiary at Raleigh.

Ward, who is presently in custody of the state penitentiary at Raleigh, was charged with the murder of Latham, who was a candidate for the U. S. Senate in a campaign. Herman H. Dyer, police and court clerk is assisting him.

Mayor Bruce Stagg and A. J. Arthur Collins, Second Ward, and V. Kell Third, David A. Ellis Fourth and A. E. Hargrove, Fifth Ward, have no opposition. S. H. Elston is opposed.

Persons who have moved since the ward are required to register. Books are open today at the City Hall and the court house.

British Subs Sink Ten Axis Vessels

London, May 1—(AP)—Ten more enemy ships have been sunk in the Mediterranean by British submarines, the Admiralty announced today.

Among the ships sunk said the communique was a large tanker torpedoed near Maritimo island "while west-bound on a course for Tunis. She was escorted by an unusually large number of surface craft and aircraft."

Another tanker was sunk by gunfire off Italy's west coast and a large ammunition ship was blown up off the island of Monte Cristo, between Italy and Corsica.

Other sinkings were off the east coast of Corsica, northwest of Sicily and off the northern tip of Tunisia. One vessel apparently had been previously damaged by air attack, the Admiralty said.

President Tells Ickes Take Action Immediately

Interior Department To Operate Mines; Army To Be Used If Necessary To Furnish Protection To the Workers; President To Broadcast Sunday Night

(By The Associated Press) President Roosevelt today ordered government seizure of all struck coal mines and directed the War Department to take any action needed to provide protection of the pits—and in a statement called on striking miners to "return immediately to the mines and work for their government."

Asserting that the production of coal must and shall continue, the chief executive said he would talk over the radio "to the miners of the nation" at 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

This was taken to mean that he will take his case to them and to

Washington, May 1—(AP)—Solid Fuel Administrator Ickes today sent telegrams to 4,000 bituminous coal mining companies instructing them to operate their mines in the names of the United States Government and to apply for troop protection if they need it.

The White House action, taken in orders to Interior Secretary Ickes and War Secretary Stimson, followed U. S. President John L. Lewis' defiance of both Mr. Roosevelt and the War Labor Board to which contract disputes involving both the bituminous and anthracite miners were certified.

Shortly after the President's order was issued, a press dispatch telling of it was delivered to Lewis at (Continued on Page Six)

POST-WAR PROSPECTS Babson Sees Many Golden Opportunities

Babson Park Mass. May 1. We still have a long way to go before this global war is ended, but I am optimistic. The longer the war lasts the nearer is its end. Some are impatient over the "downs" with which a "second front" is being opened, but in Africa in stepped-up Allied bombing of the continent and in other ways we already have a second front. The lives of many men are being saved by cautious and thorough policies. I have great faith in our military leaders and have no arm-chair recommendations to make them. As an economist however, I am justified in looking forward to some of the opportunities awaiting us.

General Prosperity Mr. Winston Churchill has predicted that, at the end of the war, the British people will have at their disposal more money per capita than ever before in the nation's history. Likewise in the United States the average person will have considerably more money on hand and far greater purchasing power than ever before. Billions of dollars have been spent in manufacturing destructive war materials during the past three years. While much of this war material is consumed or lost, yet its monetary cost has not been lost. Money can never be destroyed, although its purchasing power may decline. If simply changes hands or takes a new form, I believe that sufficient cash or credit will be available in our post-war period.

Washington, May 1—(AP)—The $1,000,000,000 war loan drive biggest in history is officially expected to top $18,000,000,000 but its sponsors won't want to stop there.

The Treasury is the directing agency but promotion of the campaign also has been a matter for individual citizens and groups all over the country. All 12 of the nation's federal reserve districts have topped their quota, a Treasury official reported.

The arrows on this map indicate the direction of Allied advances in Tunisia where American, British and French troops are straining the 140-mile Axis line (broken line). A converging French-British drive on Pont Du Fahs threatened to flank the extreme southern Axis positions as British armored forces drove north and south of Goubellat. Elsewhere, U. S. troops advanced west of Mateur, and the British Eighth Army was reported approaching Bou Ficha.

New Chief Of Red Army

Marshal A. M. Vassilevsky (right) was identified Saturday (April 24) by the official Russian news agency, Tass, as chief of the general staff of the Red Army, in the first indication that a formal change had been made in the Russian top command. Here Michael Kalinin, president of the U. S. S. R., presents the Order of Suvorov, first grade, to Vassilevsky. The command has been held by Marshal Boris Shaposhnikov. This picture reached the United States by way of London.

Found Slain

Mrs. Deibert Rader (above), 23, wife of an orchestra member playing at a Biloxi, Miss., night club, was found shot to death in a beach cabin which the Raders shared with two other members of the Orchestra. Rader told officers he came home from his night's engagement at 1:45 a. m. and found his wife shot to death. Mrs. Rader, formerly of Kinsley, Kans., was the mother of a two-year-old daughter.

How to "PREPARE" Tin Cans for War Duty

Clean can well and soak off label

Cut off both ends and flatten

Tuck cut-off ends in can

Save in separate containers and give to an authorized collector

UNCLE SAM NEEDS YOUR TIN!

Follow these Official Instructions by the War Production Board!

Nearly ninety percent of America's tin formerly came from Malaya. And tin is vital to the war effort—for airplane parts, machine gun mounts, gas masks, countless other military uses! That's why Uncle Sam needs your old tin cans. Read the simple instructions below and cooperate with your Salvage Committee, Defense Council, and Municipal Authorities to help make the salvage of tin cans a big success in your community.

Important Facts to Help You.

All paint, oil, varnish, floor polish, or cone-shaped cans are not wanted for salvage. Evaporated or condensed-milk cans are not worth saving. Put these with your trash.

Coffee cans and others with painted-on-can labels are wanted. It is not necessary to wash off the small amount of glue which holds labels.

Be Patriotic.—Keep this leaflet in your kitchen for handy reference.

Why "Prepared Cans" Are Needed

- 1. Washing prevents deterioration of tin coating—assures sanitary condition—and prevents contamination of detinning fluid.
2. Removing top and bottom permits the free flow of detinning fluid over all surfaces of the can.
3. Flattened cans occupy less space in collection, shipment, and detinning operations—thereby decreasing handling costs and increasing plant capacity for detinning.

Start Saving Cans Now.—Properly "prepared cans" are clean and fit suitably into a basket or other container.

Collection Day.—The designated collection day for your neighborhood will be announced and publicized intensively through your local salvage committee. Watch for newspaper and radio announcements.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE RIGHT SPIRITUAL EMPHASIS

We never understand the true nature of Christianity until we realize that the core and center of it is love. St. Paul made this plain in the words with which he closed his famous Hymn of Love, the thirteenth chapter of I Corinthians: "But now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, and the greatest of these is love."

But what we very often fail to catch in our reading of the Bible is the unmistakable teaching that what really counts is not our love for God but God's love for us. It is true that we are to love God and love our fellow men, but this we can never do in any satisfactory fashion until our hearts have been made new by the realization that in spite of our unworthiness, God has loved us and continues to love us with an undying and everlasting love. The great saints of the church have never thought much of their own love of God. What has consoled them in the midst of every trouble has been the realization that God's love for them never dies down. "I think I am the poorest wretch that lives," said a leader of the church upon his death bed, "but I love God or rather I am loved of God."

Regeneration of the spirit and the peace which follows in its wake come when we realize that our salvation depends not upon our allowing to flow in across our souls the realization that God loves us and has said so unmistakably in the person and life of Christ. ### EVERYONE A FEDERAL EMPLOYEE?

The phrase, "social security for everyone," is the new political bait being prepared to lure the voter. It is a fine sounding catch-phrase.

There is something even greater than full-stomach social security, however. There is an individual freedom—the right to do things for oneself.

Political social security that makes one a virtual ward of the state in return for a full stomach and a place to sleep destroys freedom.

Government can only "give" to the people what it first takes away from them. It can tax or confiscate savings and redistribute them under the guise of equalization of wealth.

But a nation will starve if a majority of the people do not have the individual ambition and incentive to work and save, and produce new wealth continuously to take care of themselves and that small percentage of unfortunate individuals who will always be wards of the state and who should be cared for much better than they are now.

Political planning of the lives of all the people in a nation can be carried too far, just as can parental planning of the lives of children—we face that danger in our country. The planners and spenders are beginning to outnumber the workers and the savers.—"The Black Fez," Dubuque, Iowa.

The Wonderful Wizards of Washington, Paper Fight

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

First of two articles on the growing importance of air power.

Washington — The biggest air story of World War II is in the making.

Although they won't give any reason at all for publication and very little more than that off-the-record, air corps officers in both the Army and Navy are treating Washington to the biggest grins of this war so far. That set this correspondent to digging, and out of the files and conversations with unquotable but authentic sources, it's apparent that big things are in the making along the ack-ack front.

I'm not going to make any effort to give a complete round-up of what is taking place, but I am going to hit a few important high spots.

Let's start with WPB Chief Donald Nelson's recent statement that April airplane production in the United States alone has hit just under 40,000 planes. Let's note that some observers are saying flatly now that no matter how large our Army becomes one-third of it will be air corps. This includes the ground crews, the Air Transport Command, etc.

And then let's settle for a few reports from the fronts. In the Pacific, in spite of recent concentrations of Jap air power and the desperate plea for more planes from our own commanders, it has been officially reported that we still are knocking out five Nip planes for every one of our sacrificed. So far, too, there seems to be every indication that we are breaking up those convoys of troops and supplies.

I don't mean to minimize the urgency of appeals from the Pacific and China for more airplanes. I do want to emphasize that the most emphatic of these appeals has come from General Douglas MacArthur—and that even in the tragic days of Babson General MacArthur still was considered here as feeling that air power was merely an adjunct to fighting forces on the ground and water.

In Africa, Allied air forces have written one of the most stirring sky stories of the war, taking command of the air over Tunisia, pulling such stunts as knocking down 68 big Axis transports and a score more fighting planes in 48 hours, raiding Sicily, Sardinia and Italian mainland cities without sacrificing offensive air strength on the Tunisian fronts, and putting 20 big Axis convoy planes in a single battle.

From Russia comes a report of a 200-plane blockbuster raid on the East Prussian rail center of Insterburg and numerous other raids on Danzig, Tilsit and Gumbenberg. For the first time in the war on the eastern front Russia has opened up with a bombing offensive.

What's happening on the western front is too well known to need repeating. United States daylight precision bombers are smacking industrial Germany by day. The RAF whirled more than 30,000 tons of bombs on the Nazis in 1942, apparently is out to make that seem like a year of time-around-the-spoor.

Potatoes will freeze at 30 degrees Fahrenheit but if stored at temperatures above 40 degrees they will rot.

HORSE PRAIRIE

BY CLEM COLT

Chapter 23

As Tubac sat there viewing the ruins, a rumble of hoof-beats came sweeping fast from out of the west and Tubac, bleat eyed, yanked up his rifle and laid it across the pommel. But he saw quick enough who the horseman was.

"We're cleaned!" Winch Face yelled. "Cleaned slick. That Stampede crowd struck the herd not two hours back an' there ain't enough beef left t' put in a basket! White Eye's dead an' all them strays we devoured an' branded has been drub plumb over Apache Leap!"

"So they wanta play rough, do they?" Tubac snarled; and Winch Face tucked in. "Too rough fer me. Just give me my time an'—"

"I'll give you something all right," Jones swore. "If I catch you tryin' to run out on me! This is a finish fight an' we're goin' to finish it. C'mon," he yelled, and spurred back up the trail. But when they came to where he'd left Sue there was nothing but the empty trail. It was mighty plain what had happened. Sue was gone, but there was plenty of sign to tell why she hadn't waited. She had had her choice in the matter. Four men had come spurring out of the brush and had one, taking her with them.

The trail petered out within ten horse lengths and they quartered for a long half hour before they finally cut the men's sign again. That outfit was slick when it came to tracking horse tracks, but Tubac learned from experts. By the time the sun was four hours high they were entering a country of upthrust buttes, of mesas and up-and-down canyons. They were getting close.

"Can't be over ten minutes ahead of us," muttered Winch Face, peering about nervously. Tubac nodded. "Better keep your eye skinned for an ambush. Like enough they've—" The rest was lost in the racking crash of a rifle whose slug cut the band neatly off of Jones' hat. They were in a kind of gully-like swale and the shot had come from a flanking hogback just ahead and a bit to the right of them. You could see the smoke drifting up from the brush and Tubac, as Winch Face jumped from his saddle, grabbed up his rifle and peeped the place. But the shooter had moved from the spot and his next shot ricocheted from the horn. Tubac got off the horse pronto.

"Watch 'im!" he growled at Winch Face. "Blast hell outta the place next time he shows. When you quit he'll pop up an' I'll nail 'im."

"Yeah, but run yore eye across that arroyo we jest come outta!" Jones took a quick look. Two riders were coming up out of the gully back there.

The sniper up front took another shot at them and Winch Face emptied his rifle. At the last shot the druggie's head came above the brush and sunlight shone from the rifle. Tubac's Spencer spit flame.

"C'mon," Jones muttered, swinging into his saddle. "Time to be light'n' out here—"

"You know what I think?" demanded Winch Face, spurring his bronc alongside. "I think that hombre yu' jest handed a harp to, an' them two gunicks that's larrupin' up from behind, is three of the four who run off with yore woman."

"My own idee, exactly. They've split. The fourth skunk's tuggin' off with Sue while these three've dropped behind to—"

"Great Caesar's ghost!" breathed Winch Face, clapping in his spurs. "Them fellas must be ridin' whirlwinds!"

A backward look showed Tubac the two men had indeed closed the gap between them. The man in the lead, which was anything but reassuring, was anything but reassuring.

When they'd crossed the crest and put the ridge between them and the guns of the two Stampede men, Winch Face wanted to know how Jones expected to look for sign so long as the pair kept after them.

"Can't," declared Tubac curtly. "We got to knock them coyotes out of their saddles. No sign! We'll drop the horses, that'll serve just as well. When we come to that clump of trees just ahead, we'll ride straight through, then drop back an' give 'em a tume from our rifles."

"You can," Winch Face said generously, "but me, I'm foggin' right along. There's a big dust comm' down that gulch on the right."

Tubac swore, for so there was and this would not be safe place to linger when the men who were making it debouched in this gully. There must have been tight or ten in the bunch. They spurred for the tumber. Just beyond it, to the left, another canyon opened, and with a quick call to Winch Face, Tubac swung Callopie into it. "Look there!" he cried. "Them tracks! That'll be Sue an' the one in charge."

we can make synthetic rubber and other products. This makes us independent of the East India and Germany. Adequate substitutes for gunnys, for example, are already in use; and we have found substitutes for hemp which formerly came only from the Philippines. We are now manufacturing our own potash and nitrogen generally used in fertilizer, particularly through the science of chemurgy, faces a most hopeful future.

Radio as we know it today will be replaced by television. Thousands of people are now being prepared to become customers, manufacturers and distributors of new electronic equipment. Space allows for the consideration of only a very few of the wonderful tools and services that will be made and used in the post-war era. As I consider them my enthusiasm for the future steadily increases provided we have an accompanying spiritual awakening.

It seemed a pretty likely conclusion. "If there's a good high rise any place in this canyon I'll sure whittle down the odds," Tubac muttered. And a half hour later they saw one; a rise built just to order. They rode for it, plying both quirt and spurs, as though to give the impression they were hunting the quickest way out of the country. But after they crossed it they slowed down some while Tubac squinted for cover. There was a rubble of boulders at the foot of the slope and, just beyond, screened from the rise by the towering rock shoulders, there was a break in the canyon wall on the right, and a trail angling up toward a glimpsed plateau, with the tracks of two horses deep-scoring it.

"There's the way that hiehbinder went with Sue an'— But first things first," grunted Tubac, and forthwith slipped from the saddle, throwing his reins and, with his rifle, crawling back through the boulders till he found a good spot giving view of the rise.

The clatter of hoofbeats rose to crescendo. The rise showed suddenly black with horsemen and Tubac waited till Winch Face quit firing, not caring to waste any bullets. Two men left their saddles at Winch Face's salvo, another waved wildly and clutched at the horn. Then Tubac came to a knee and let go. The foremost rider—and it looked like Potter—flung his arms out and pitched head first from his horse. His hat came off and rolled down the slope and the man rolled over four or five times, too. But Tubac wasn't watching him; he was pumping lead at men still in their saddles, firing coolly, maliciously.

Count Fleet Picked As Kentucky Derby Winner

Only 12 Entries For 69th Annual Race To Be Held Today

By SID FEDER

Louisville, Ky., May 1 (AP)—Minus much of its face paint and its fireworks—and definitely a "war-baby" this year—the Kentucky Derby will be unfolded for the 69th time today, and from end to end of derbytown, the neighbors' children are convinced it's a cakewalk for Count Fleet.

In fact, the expected 50,000 fans who are riding the street cars, the "A" cards and "shank's mare" picturesque Churchill Downs, because of war-time travel restrictions are so sure "the Fleet" is in that many are wondering why the 11 other three-year-olds who entered will even bother to show up when the band takes aim at 5:30 p.m. (C.W.T.) and lets "My Old Kentucky Home" drift out in that way that makes even a Yankee bare his head.

Only one of these 11 — Ocean Wave, stablemate of Whirlaway in Warren Wright's barn—is being given even the faintest chance of sinking the Fleet and thereby spoiling the rosy hopes of Mrs. John D. Hertz, of the Chicago Yellow Cab and U-Drive-It Hertzies, for her second derby triumph.

But the Wave walked home with a cracked left fore-hoof last Tuesday, and it wasn't until this morning that his trainer, plain Ben Jones, the Parnell, Mo., matriarch of the turf, could even decide about sending the husky son of Ebenham to the post. In the Wave plain Ben was after his third victory in the run for the roses, to follow up his conquests with Lawrin in 1938 and Whirlaway in 41.

The rest of the field, in which there is a total of 11 colts and one gelding, the high-speed gold show-er, owned by Mrs. Vera S. Braze of Greenwidge, Conn.—appears to be able only to give it the good old college try for second or third place.

Allen Simmons' Blue Swords, who gets the Akron (Ohio) vote and W. E. Boeing's Slide Rule, one of the "Boeing bombers" who make up a racing "entry" for the Seattle airplane builder, are given some slight consideration by the long-shot pluniers, but only by those affiliated with the society of two-buck bettors.

This is a derby in which war has been an added starter from the word go, and which threatened for a time to end the continuous run for Col. Matt Winn's colorful May-Day merry-go-round.

As a result, the cash customers sitting in on this year's party are drawn, almost exclusively, from the greater Louisville area, as Col. Winn promised. Of course, there are the usual few who creep in, but they are not having much fun about it. Hotels here are bulging at the seams with uniformed men and defense workers, so new-comers have about as much chance of finding a place to hang their hats as they have of finding a good bottle of bourbon in this virtually whiskey-less village.

Approximately 14,000,000 men over 45 years of age are now working in the United States.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 1 (AP)—All three players who won the most valuable player awards in the "AA" minor leagues last year are playing for National League clubs this season and their contest for big league laurels ought to provide one of the more interesting sidelights of the pennant race. Right now you can have your choice between the American Association—Eddie Etanky is hitting .323 for the Cubs—or the International League — Red Barrett won his first start for the Braves with a six-hitter. The Red's Ray Mueller, who won the Pacific Coast League award, has made a start to ward last year's iron man catching stunt by working every game so far but is hitting only .100 and the Cubs Kewpie Dick Barrett, who almost beat out Mueller, has turned in three hitless innings of relief pitching.

W. Roland Galvin, faculty chairman of Athletics at Thomas Jefferson High School in Richmond, Va., tells this one about a Japanese student who was in his physics class a few years ago. The pupil from the far east didn't care much for Galvin's teaching methods and told him "One-day, Mr. Galvin, teacher like you in Japan. Next day, no teacher."

Sportpourri
The National Track and Field championships will have another "second edition" this year in the Pope Plus meet at Passaic, N. J., on June 22, two days after the Nationals. The AAU relay titles will be decided there. Manager Eddie Walker promises to put up a genuine non-elastic $1,000 check to get his fighter, Chinky Wright, a chance to regain the New York model featherweight championship from Willie Pep. Eddie says he neglected to get a return bout clause in the contract for their first fight because he was so sure the Chink would win. Danny Linwaler can't run because of the charley horse he pulled in the Australian pursuit race. The Phils staved the other day but it doesn't keep him from winning. He's kept his ordinary streak alive by appearing in two games as a pinch batter and drawing passes both times.

Today's Guest Star
John M. Gill, Jr., Ashland (Ky.) Independent. A report from Cincinnati says John Vander Meer may be deferred because of frequent headaches. Well, then what about all the batters who get headaches trying to hit Johnny's fast one?

Last Word
In case you're still doubtful about the desirability of the Baita-baitov baseball, 60 observations in an experiment conducted in the materials testing laboratory at Cooper Union showed that the 1943 model bounced an average of 25.9 percent lower than the 1942 ball. The scientists didn't get a baseball with either kind.

Service Department
Lieut. Denny Myers of the Navy apparently can't get away from the same kind of troubles he had as a Boston College football coach. His squadron team at the Iowa Pre-Flight School rolled up the biggest score of the spring series, 31-0 against Lieut. jg. Dick Risher's squad then was promptly Holy Crossed by the team coached by Ensign Forrest Evashevski.

WASHINGTON IS MOVING UP

Team Better Than One That Finished Last Year

By ORLO ROBERTSON (AP Sports Writer)

The 1943 baseball season still is in the toddling stage and Uncle Sam has reserved the right to wreck any given club without formal notice but there's a sneaking suspicion that Ozzie Bluege has a team in the nation's capitol that is better than the one that ended last season buried in seventh place in the American League.

Today's standings show the Washington Senators nudging the pace setting New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians as the result of their 2 to 1, 10-inning victory over the Yanks yesterday. It's probably too much to expect the Senators to be in third place come world series time. But if Emil (Dutch) Leonard maintains his early season form, Bluege's first year as a manager is likely to be a happy one.

The veteran knuckle ball hurler wasn't much help last year when Bucky Harris, now guiding the Philadelphia Phillies, was at the helm of the senators. He had a good year in 1941, winning 18 and losing 13, but suffered a broken leg early last season and didn't return to action until the last month. Even then he was far from his best and ended the campaign with a two and two record.

Dutch already has matched that record as far as winning games are concerned. He failed to go the route against the Athletics in the season's inaugural but came back last Sunday to throttle the same team and yesterday hurled fourth ball as his mates bunched two of their seven hits off Hank Borowy to score one run in the second and then, after the Yanks had squared accounts in the fourth, put together two more blows for the deciding tally in the first extra frame.

Ellis Clary, third baseman who played in 76 games for the Senators last season after starting with Chattanooga, and Bob Johnson, the hard-hitting outfielder obtained to produce the winning tally. Clary led off the tenth with a double, his second hit of the game. A fly ball and an intentional pass got him no closer to home but Johnson crashed through with a single and that was the ball game.

The defeat dropped the Yankees into a tie for first place with the Cleveland Indians who, like all the other teams in the American League were kept idle by the weather. Each has won five and lost two as compared to the Senators' six and three. The only two National League games scheduled also were postponed and the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers promptly turned their contest into a double-header today at the Polo Grounds. They also will play a twin ball tomorrow along with all the major league outfits.

If you haven't gotten around to buying a Second War Loan Bond, stop and think what it would mean to you if our soldiers hadn't gotten round to the fight.

Brown Outlines Price Program

Washington, May 1 (AP)—A new four-point program to "roll back" excessive prices and enforce controls is the goal today of the office of Price Administration. Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, in a radio broadcast last night, outlined this program:

1. Extension of price control to "every important commodity"
2. "Rolling back" of prices now considered excessive. Brown particularly mentioned meats, fresh and canned vegetables and coffee.
3. Establishment of specific dollar-and-cents price schedules for foods, to be printed in booklets available to buyers and sellers alike.
4. Vigorous prosecution of black-market operators.

The WAR TODAY

The well-trained, well-armed army is the one which will render the best defense of its country. Having reached this conclusion, many parents are figuring on sending their young benefits to military academies as soon as they reach the age for preparatory schooling. With this education a young man would come up to his compulsory military service with a good background. We don't need to think of military training in terms of any such arduous and time-consuming process as is seen in militaristic Germany. That represents an extreme which, of course, is abhorrent to us. German boys serve in the Hitler youth movement between the ages of ten and eighteen. They then do three years compulsory military service after which they are in the reserve for fourteen years and in the Landwehr, or home defense, for nine years more.

The thing that has interested me most about the Nazi training has been that devoted to the youth movement. I was in Germany not long before the war and must admit that never have I seen finer physical specimens than one encountered in the teen age lads who were undergoing intensive exercise in the labor groups and other corps. Heaven forbid that we emulate the Boche, but after all they have demonstrated what physical training can do.
