Coal Industry Is At A Standstill

Miners Staged Another Walkout As Third Truce Ended Last Midnight; No Comment Yet From Secretary Ickes; Steel Mills Begin To Shut Down Coke Ovens

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—The big coal mining cog of the nation's war machine stalled again today and the 500,000 miners who run it looked to the government for their cue.

Rejecting what they termed an "infamous yellow dog contract" proposed by the War Labor Board, John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers invoked their "no contract no work" policy for the third time within two months after negotiations with the operators collapsed.

By mid-morning there were no reports of any UMW members working in disregard of that policy in either bituminous or anthracite pits. And in Illinois at least 2,500 of that state's AFL Progressive Mine Workers were idle in a sympathy stoppage that affected 11 of the state's 130 mines with PMW contracts.

The stoppage was felt immediately in at least two steel centers. The Republic Steel Corp. said at Birmingham, Ala. it was forced to have its coke oven production and added that its four blast furnaces there and one at Gadsden were operating at only 80 per cent of capacity.

At Pittsburgh the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. banked its first beehive coke ovens, asserting the company's coal stockpile still was materially reduced as a result of the second walkout which closed 11 of the firm's 23 blast furnaces in that area.

Pennsylvania with 200,000 hard and soft coal miners and West Virginia with 120,000 bituminous workers represented more than three-fifths of the total number idle. Numbers of UMW miners in other states include 60,000 in Kentucky, Illinois 25,000, Alabama 22,000, Virginia 23,500, Ohio 21,000, Tennessee 10,000, Indiana 8,000, Arkansas-Oklahoma 6,000, Colorado 6,680, Wyoming 4,100, Utah 3,300, Iowa 2,000, New Mexico 1,800 and Montana 1,300.

The door was held open for a speedy resumption of operations under the direct sponsorship of the government, however, and the next move appeared to be up to Interior Secretary Ickes, who was placed in charge of the mines on May 1 as federal fuels administrator.

Ickes, represented by his aides as feeling that no private action last night could have fended off the expiration of the latest work agreement at midnight, made no immediate comment. He cancelled a projected trip to Columbus, Ohio, where he

Government Gave 'Em; We Snap 'Em

Calling for several hundred persons to snap string beans! The federal government has shipped another carload of string beans to June H. Rose for the city schools cafeteria. The beans were donated for canning. They will be valuable next winter when money will be more plentiful than food.

Rose is calling for white and Negro volunteers to help snap the beans, which will be sent to the school canteen at the NYA Center. Here is a chance for men and women, boys and girls, to perform a patriotic service.

White volunteers are to report at the high school, Negro volunteers at the Fleming street school tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, afternoons and nights.

"There are enough string beans in the car to make 10,000 quart jars. If there is a food shortage here as a result of the war, these beans will be a blessing to us all," Rose stated.

State Troops Called Out To Help Restore Order

State Troops Called Out To Help Restore Order

Detroit, June 21.—(AP)—Michigan state police and state troops were ordered to Detroit today to restore order after six persons were killed and some 200 injured in widespread race riots.

Captain Donald S. Leonard of the Michigan state police announced shortly before 11 a. m. (EWT) that Governor Harry Kelly of Michigan had ordered mobilization of the state forces.

At that time outbreaks of violence which had spread from an altercation at the Belle Isle bridge last night were continuing despite the mobilization of the entire 3,500 members of the police force of the nation's fourth city.

Six Negroes had lost their lives, one white civilian was dead and a police sergeant had died of wounds received in a gun fight with a Negro store-keeping gang.

Capt. Leonard said the governor had directed mobilization, at two Detroit armories, of 1,000 state troops picked from the best-trained companies in the state. In addition, 500 members of the state police force including those in Michigan's upper peninsula, more than 300 miles from Detroit, were already mobilized and standing ready for action if needed.

Governor Kelly arranged to fly to Detroit from Columbus, Ohio, where he had gone for the annual governors' conference.

He said at Columbus, "I am not declaring martial law. I am trying to hold the situation without that. We've got to stop this today if we're ever going to," the governor said.

COL. SNEDEKER IS COMMENDED Say Italian People Are Ready To Quit The War

Officially Praised for Distinguished Service in Solomons

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Edward W. Sneedecker, U. S. M. C. 46 of 411 11th Street, Greenville, N. C., secretary Frank Knox for distinguished service in the Solomon Islands area.

As division signal officer during the Solomons operation, Lieutenant Colonel Sneedecker won the praise of Major General A. Vandegrift, commander, for extending Marine communications "far exceeding the designed capacity of a divisional system" under long periods of bombardment.

The secretary's letter of commendation stated: "I have read with pleasure the report of the commanding general, first Marine division, fleet Marine force, in which he recommended that you be awarded a letter of commendation for exceptionally meritorious service to the government in a duty of great responsibility."

Greenville Boy Is Reported Missing

Richard W. Briley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Briley of Greenville, operator of a generator for welding, was today reported missing after an explosion on the ship on which he was working at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. This information was telephoned to the family this morning. Details of the explosion were not given, the boy's father told a Reflector reporter.

Adequate Oil For Curing of Tobacco

Washington, D. C., June 19.—Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of the First Congressional District of North Carolina, today stated that for sometime he had been constantly in contact with the Petroleum Administrator for War in behalf of the tobacco curers who use oil for curing.

Mr. Bonner received a letter today, assuring him that adequate oil would be available. The following is quoted from the letter signed by the Petroleum Administrator for War: "The Petroleum Administration for War has long recognized the importance of furnishing farmers in the tobacco growing areas with an adequate supply of fuel oil to enable them to cure their tobacco."

The War Food Administration, as a claimant agency, recently included in their request to this office that the fuel oil requirements of farmers for curing tobacco in the Carolinas be considered. Consequently we have arranged for the allocation of an adequate supply of fuel oil for this purpose.

In view of the foregoing, consumers in your area should have no difficulty in obtaining fuel oil for tobacco curing purposes. However, if I may be of further assistance to you at any time, please let me know."

News dispatches from Moscow and the short wave broadcasts from Tokyo would give one the impression that all was well between those two obviously antagonistic countries.

Italian Centers Pounded By Increased Air Activity

AIRMEN BLAST NAZI CITIES

Raids Continue To Pulverize Axis Industries

By E. C. DANIEL

London, June 21.—(AP)—Lancaster bombers penetrated deep into southern Germany last night to attack the Luftschiffbau radio factory at Friedrichshafen and damaged all main buildings, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

Three bombers were lost. The factory makes radio location equipment and "is one of the largest of its kind in Germany," the communiqué said. "Heavy damage was done."

Swiss dispatches earlier had said the reverberation of bombs shook Swiss houses clear across Lake Constance. The German radio had told also of attacks in the northern part of the Reich.

Great waves of RAF bombers swept out in daylight today to resume their battering of the European continent. A 90-minute silence of the Kalundborg radio in Denmark suggested another raid on northern Germany. The drum of motors was heard continuously for more than a half hour.

The reports of night attacks were not immediately confirmed by British officials, but the attacks were foreshadowed by widespread air alarms last night in northern Swiss cities.

One of the largest German centers around Lake Constance is Friedrichshafen, center of the great Zeppelin works, airplane engines and submarine parts factories. Der Bund of Bern reported that powerful detonations from bombs early this morning resounded across the lake and that flames soon shot up and spread rapidly.

The German broadcasts, recorded by the Associated Press, described the raids in the north as "disturbance attacks."

The British struck a devastating blow at the great French munitions works at Le Creusot Saturday night which was said by the Paris radio to have left the sprawling Schneider armaments works "nothing but a mountain of debris" with 250 dead and half the 15,000 population of the town homeless.

The Swiss Telegraph Agency reported Le Creusot was almost entirely destroyed. Successive waves of Allied bombers dopped incendiaries and explosives for 40 minutes producing "horrible spectacles," the agency said.

Important Notice Tobacco Workers

"Since the United States Employment Service, under the new labor stabilization plan, will refer all workers to the local and Farmville tobacco factories this season, it is requested that those interested in working in a tobacco factory this year who have moved from their last address call at the local Employment Office in order that our records as to correct address may be up-to-date so that when the tobacco season opens and we mail you a card it will not be delayed in the post office because of an incorrect address." Robert Pease, manager of the Employment Service also desires to secure names and addresses of persons with no previous tobacco factory experience who are interested in working in tobacco this year.

Court Rules On Citizenship Case

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—In a 5 to 3 opinion, the Supreme court ruled today that the American citizenship of an alien can not constitutionally be canceled merely because he is a member of the Communist party.

Justice Murphy, who delivered the majority opinion, asserted that cancellation of citizenship was not justified by imputing a "reprehensible interpretation" of an organization to a member unless there were "overt acts" committed by the member "indicating that such was his interpretation."

Chief Justice Stone, and Justices Roberts and Frankfurter dissented. Justice Jackson, a former attorney general who handled the litigation in the Justice Department, did not participate.

The long-awaited decision constituted a victory for Wendell L. Wilkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, who represented the Communist party before the Supreme court.

Murphy declared that "clear, unequivocal and convincing" evidence was required for setting aside a naturalization decree and that such evidence had not been presented against William Schneiderman, state secretary of the Communist party for California and a native of Russia, who became a citizen in 1927.

Wrote Resolution

Rep. James William Fulbright (D-Ark.), (above), a Rhodes scholar, is the author of the "lasting peace" resolution, a 51-word demand for an international authority with power to maintain a lasting peace in the world. The proposal has been given the blessing of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It took about 12 years to draft the resolution.

Medium bombers and fighters cooperated to round out heavy weekend blows against Italy and Sicily. The Italian high command communique, broadcast from Rome, said Naples, a major west coast supply port; Foggia, a railroad city near the spur of the Italian boot; Spinzola, 45 miles to the southeast; and Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, on the toe of the boot, were attacked by Allied airmen yesterday.

REDS DESTROY NAZI PLANES

Little Ground Activity Today On Russian Front

Moscow, June 21.—(AP)—Land warfare on the Soviet front lapsed into local scouting operation and sporadic artillery bombardments today just one day short of the second anniversary of Germany's attack on Russia.

A tense Red Army awaited the summer offensive many observers believe Hitler must launch soon if he hopes to try to knock Russia from the war before the allies attack in the west, but the continuation of day and night bombings was the only indication that a large scale smash might be expected soon.

The Russians announced last night that 176 German planes had been knocked down during last week, boosting enemy aircraft losses during the week were 94.

A German transport was sunk and a tanker and two transports were set afire in the barents sea during an attack by Russian bombers, torpedo carriers and torpedo planes, the Russians said today.

War Money Bill Passed By House

WAR MONEY BILL—18. M. Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Without a dissenting vote, the house passed and sent to the senate today a $71,510,438.87 war department appropriation bill to meet the army's request for funds to "bring the war home to Japan, Germany and Italy."

The record vote was 345 to 0. Biggest supply bill in history, the measure, department officials told the House Appropriations committee will permit the recruiting and equipment of 7,500,000 men by the end of this year and furnish approximately 100,000 airplanes for incessant bombing of the Axis.

Curing Tobacco Black Jack

They were cropping tobacco and putting it in the curing barns on J. F. and J. H. Buck's farm in the Black Jack community Saturday, with prospects of other leaf being ready for the barns in a day or two.

Algiers Radio Warns Italians To Seek Peace Now; Strategic Points In Italy And Sicily Smashed By Bombs; Berlin Forecasts Action In Aegean Sea Area

By HAROLD V. BOYLE Allied Headquarters in Africa, June 21.—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' air fleets were declared officially today to have wrought new destruction upon Sicilian targets from Marsala to Messina straits — shooting down 16 Axis fighters in the process—and the Rome radio said Naples and four other Italian mainland cities also were raided yesterday.

Medium bombers and fighters cooperated to round out heavy weekend blows against Italy and Sicily. The Italian high command communique, broadcast from Rome, said Naples, a major west coast supply port; Foggia, a railroad city near the spur of the Italian boot; Spinzola, 45 miles to the southeast; and Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, on the toe of the boot, were attacked by Allied airmen yesterday.

These raids were not reported in Allied announcements, but the Italians have on occasion told of such attacks before they were reported by northwest Africa, Malta or Middle East communiques.

(The Algiers radio warned the Italian people in a broadcast today that Allied air blows, which have been largely confined to ports, would spread now to the interior.

"If you want to save your industries and see Italy restored to the position of a great power, you must announce your demand for peace and demonstrate for peace."

The northwest African air forces lost five planes during the fresh operations, which included a heavy assault by RAF Wellingtons on Messina Saturday night. Fires visible 100 miles away were started in the Messina railway freight yards and the ferry terminus area.

Aerial patrols over Pantelleria frustrated a new attempt by Axis fighter-bombers to break through and strike at the island's British garrison.

(Axis radio broadcasts said Allied naval dispositions off Syria indicated a possibility of action in the Aegean.

(A Saturday night attack by German bombers upon an Allied convoy off Cap. Serrat, Tunisia, was reported in a DNB dispatch radioed from Berlin to have left six transports and merchantmen totaling 35,000 tons seriously damaged, one of them enveloped "in a huge cloud of smoke."

(Steady strengthening of British and American forces in the Mediterranean zone again was indicated (Continued on Page Six)

Will Name Market Openings June 30

By CHESTER WALSH The United States Tobacco Association will meet at John Marshall Hotel in Richmond, Va., on Wednesday, June 30, at 10 a. m. Dates for opening the tobacco markets will be scheduled. A. B. Orrington of Danville, Va., is president of the association.

In compliance with government suggestions the tobacco markets will remain open longer this year than in previous years. The government insists that marketing seasons be in cooperation with economic harvest of all crops.

Farmers have planted more food and feed crops this year to meet war time requirements. The government insists that marketing seasons be in cooperation with economic harvest of all crops.

Mines Must Operate To Prevent Fuel Shortage

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—To meet this year's demands, the largest in history, soft coal "must be mined" at full capacity every month," the Office of War Information said today.

Shortages of manpower and equipment could put a top limit on coal production OWI said in a long report on fuel prospects for the coming winter, and a third factor is "a temporary production stoppage."

Gasoline and fuel rationing cannot be relaxed if petroleum needs are to be met, the survey declared—and military demands for oil may make the curbs on civilians even harsher than in the past.

OWI said its report was as off today, and the situation is subject to change.

Easterners particularly should not be misled into false optimism by the rapid increase in pipeline lines, the report said. OWI quoted deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies as warning that the future flow for the "big inch" and lesser pipelines has been anticipated in all calculations.

"We know all the favorable factors," Davies said. "The big unknown factor is what military demands might be under some circumstances. On that score we can take no chances of not having everything that may be needed."

Fuel shortages can be avoided, OWI said its report was as off today, and the situation is subject to change.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By MAX HILL News dispatches from Moscow and the short wave broadcasts from Tokyo would give one the impression that all was well between those two obviously antagonistic countries.

Such is not the case, emphatically. They have nothing in common much to quarrel about.

It is interesting to note that it is Japan which is applying the "soft pedal" rather than the Russians, whose hatred for the Japanese is frequently expressed in no uncertain terms.

The Russians boldly describe the Siberian frontier between Manchuria and Chosen (Korea) as the Far Eastern front, as they have kept two well-equipped armies out in that area despite the trials of the war with Germany.

Japanese hate and fear the Russians. A Japanese who was influential in the government at that time—1941—once told me what it was. He said: "You in America, protected from all sides, have never had a big bear on your back all the time."

That hatred is shared by the Russians, but not the fear. The war with Germany has fortified their quiet confidence.

Just how "touchy" the Japanese really are on the subject of relations with Russia is indicated by the inspired broadcasts from Tokyo.

No mention was made in the home service broadcasts of the recent dissolution of the Comintern. The Japanese government would rather not have their people know of this development.

Spokesman Hori of the official board of information of Tokyo tried to scoff at rumors that the Soviets might lease bases to the United States. It was absurd, he said, to think that we might set air bases from Russia in the Far East, although he admitted such a development might have a serious effect on Japanese-Russian relations.

Japan has only one time to attack—the present. Next Year probably will be too late because of the full force of America and Great Britain will be mobilized against her Hitler's Germany by that time, if not defeated, will be seriously weakened.

Russia does not have the striking power in the Far East that the Japanese now have, but she does have at least her normal strength, if not an emergency force.

One factor is definitely on the side of the Japanese, just as it is in her war with us—distance.

Vladivostok is a full 11 days journey by rail from Moscow, and the maritime provinces, valuable to Japan because of the fishing rights, are vulnerable. Perhaps Russia could not hold them long against a determined drive, but America's Christian Science Service. "Is the Universe. Including Man Evolved by Atomic Force?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.

The golden text was from I Cor. 8:6. "To us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. Let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he hath chosen for his own inheritance." (Ps. 33: 6-8, 9-12).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Infinite Mind creates and governs all from the mental molecule to infinity. This divine Principle of all expresses Science and art throughout His creation, and the immortality of man and the universe."

Library News. One World. Wendell Wilkie's book "One World" has become the fastest selling book in the history of publishing, it having surpassed the record of "Gone with the Wind" in the number of copies sold during an equal interim after publication. The book merits this honor. Its popularity is not wholly due to advertising or the political significance of the author. It is a convincing book demonstrating to the reader a new way of thinking—global thinking. In a straightforward repertorial manner Mr. Wilkie tells the story of his forty-nine-day trip around the world to feel the pulse of different nations. And so important were his findings that he was inspired to write a book about them. Particularly interesting are his observations of what is happening in other countries. After centuries of ignorant and dull compliance hundreds of millions of people in east-

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR June 21, 1903

Sunday night at the Methodist Church was the occasion of Children's Day exercises. A large audience was present. The children were drilled by Mrs. G. E. Harris and Mrs. Wiley Brown, and the exercises with which the program was rendered proved how thoroughly the ladies performed their part. Music was by Miss Mammie Haskett at the organ. The Greensboro Female College closes its doors for lack of patronage. Many women all over the land will receive this news in sadness. The G. F. C. observed better times.

ern Europe and Asia have opened their minds. Men and women all over the world are on the march, physically, intellectually and spiritually. Equally as interesting is what he learned about how other nations regard Americans. Many a reading of missions will delight in reading what he says about the reservoir of good will toward us. Many things have created this enormous reservoir, at the top of the list go hospitals, schools and colleges which Americans—missionaries, teachers and doctors—have founded in the far corners of the world. Many of the leaders of old countries—men who today are running Iraq, Turkey or China—have studied under American teachers whose only interest has been to spread knowledge. Now, in our time of crisis, we owe a great debt to these men and women who made friends for us.

Again and again Mr. Wilkie praises "the whirlwind of public opinion" that accrues in a strong two-party system of politics. We here in the south, sometimes toward parties at least two strong political parties are absolutely necessary in a true democracy. There must always be a party to pull on the backing straps while the other pulls forward to keep the momentum from becoming too great. In other words every political party needs another party to apply the brakes.

Mr. Wilkie's explanation of our success here in America is noteworthy. Says he, "Our success has been due to me that by the happy coincidence of good fortune there was created in America the largest area in the world in which there were no barriers to the exchange of ideas or goods."

Only at the last of the book does he become critical, and only once bitterly so. He flays military expediency, unmercifully, whether practiced by other nations or our own. Above all he hates it in dealing with men, saying that in the long run it will cost more than putting the cards on the table. Expediency, he thinks, sows the seeds of the future discontents, racial, religious, political, not alone among the people whom we need to free, but even among the United Nations themselves. It is such discontent that has wrecked the hopes of men of good will throughout the ages.

Nearly every reader remembers something about a book he has read, some thought, a description, a character or just a chance remark that especially appealed to him. Anyone who notes a clever retort will not forget the one in this book. When the Nazis complained of Wilkie's presence in Turkey, his immediate response to the newspapermen was this: "Invite Hitler to send to Turkey, as representative of Germany, his opposition candidate."

"One World" is now in circulation at the Sheppard Memorial Library. —H.L.R.

City Home Makers Enlist For Service

The demonstration in food conservation given at the Agricultural building Friday morning, concluded the first series of demonstrations in the city-wide program planned to reach every family in Greenville.

Two methods of canning have been shown in these demonstrations—the hot water bath for acid vegetables and fruits, and the pressure canner for non-acid vegetables.

The third method of food preservation shown was brining. A fourth method of food preservation which is being recommended and which is growing in popularity is drying or dehydration of fruits and vegetables.

With lima beans, corn and tomatoes coming in season the canning of acid vegetables or mixtures in the hot water canner is expected to be in full swing.

Negro Program Launched

The Negro program for food conservation was set up at a meeting of zone leaders, canvassers and interested citizens held at Fleming street school June 18.

Interest and enthusiasm ran high as plans for the program were discussed. Five demonstration centers with dates for demonstrations for food conservation were planned as follows:

Thursday, June 24, 8 p. m., Fleming St. School. Friday, June 25, 8 p. m., Selbah's Chapel Church, South Greenville. Tuesday, June 29, 3 p. m., YMCA, Second St. Wednesday, June 30, 3 p. m., Fifth St. School. Thursday, July 1, 3 p. m., Methodist Church, Albemarle Ave. Friday, July 2, 3 p. m., Woman's Club, 12th and Pitt Sts.

There are several hundred varieties of cultivated rice.

QUAKE FATAL TO THOUSANDS

Berlin Reports 15,000 Killed In Turkish City

London, June 21.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said today that a violent earthquake had rocked the north-west part of Anatolia province of Turkey and the unconfirmed reports placed the dead in the city of Adazar alone at 15,000 half its population. The account, from the none-too-reliable Transocean News Agency, said the quake occurred shortly at 7:30 p. m.—Sunday night during a heavy thunderstorm, and that a muffled subterranean rumbling from below the earth's surface added to the terror.

The quake's epicenter was placed at Adapazar, and the unconfirmed reports, Transocean said, were that 40 per cent of the houses were destroyed and another 30 per cent were damaged severely.

Anatolia is the great western peninsula of Turkey between the Black and Mediterranean seas, leading to the Bosphorus. The earthquake shocks were felt at Istanbul, formerly Constantinople, and the principal city of Turkey, and the German agency said the people there were "seized with panic," rushing from their homes and restaurants. It required more than an hour to restore calm, the report added.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said that all telephone and telegraph communications were disrupted and that railway traffic between Istanbul and the capital, Ankara, was interrupted.

Physicians, nurses and medical supplies were dispatched to Adapazar, it was said. The city of 30,000 lies 75 miles east of Istanbul.

Recruiting WAVES At Postoffice Here

Physical requirements have been modified considerably for enlistment in the WAVES, it was announced here today by Lt. Comdr. Charles B. Neely, and Tar Heel women are urged to make immediate application for specialist training.

WAVES applications may be obtained at any North Carolina Navy recruiting station, located at Charlotte, Raleigh, Greensboro, Asheville, Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Wilmington, New Bern, and Elizabeth City.

Age limits are 20 and 36 for enlisted WAVES; 20 and 50 for officers. No education beyond two-year high school is necessary. Married women are eligible, and single women may marry while they are in the service.

Uniforms are furnished free by the navy, and all other expenses are paid by the government. Every cent a WAVE makes is clear.

Plans for invasion paint a vivid picture why WAVES are needed in the navy. Every woman who volunteers releases a fighting man to help in achieving victory.

U. S. Navy Recruiter D. R. Taylor is stationed at the post office today and tomorrow. He will be glad to furnish information.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. Whedbee

Funeral services for Mrs. Sallie L. Whedbee, 67, who died at the home of her son, W. L. Whedbee, 301 Latham Street, Saturday afternoon, were held at the home Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The Rev. John D. Simons, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Whedbee was a native of Halifax County, Va. She was a daughter of William Thomas and Ella Moseley Lipscomb. Her family came to Greenville when she was a young woman. She married Judge Harry W. Whedbee in 1899. He died in 1926.

Surviving are two sons, W. L. Whedbee and Charles Whedbee of Greenville; a daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Thompson of Louisville, Ky., a grandchild, two brothers, W. T. Lipscomb, manager of the local branch of the Imperial Tobacco Company and Col. C. T. Lipscomb, of St. Michaels, Md., and a sister, Mrs. T. B. Wilkerson of Durham.

Active pallbearers were James S. Ficklen, Judge Dink James, T. H. Boykin, J. H. Rose, H. Dan Laughlin, and John H. Adams. Honorary pallbearers were members of the Pitt County Bar Association and the deacons of Memorial Baptist Church.

Out-of-town relatives and friends were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hundley and Miss Marge Hundley of Durham; Thos. B. Wilkerson, Jr., Greensboro; Mrs. Sidney McMullen and Mr. Phillip McMullen of Edenton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whedbee of Hertford; Mrs. Falmouth Wilson, of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Dickerson of Kinston.

Urges Plans For Future

Columbus, Ohio, June 21.—(AP)—States must "cease squawking and begin planning" for public service programs which follow the war, Gov. J. Melvin Broughton (D-NC) asserted today at the 35th annual governors' conference.

"Those who contemplate or advocate nationally or internationally a resumption of the old order missing completely the meaning of the soul of these disturbing days," Broughton declared at a luncheon meeting. "States must cease their squawking and begin planning; they cannot abdicate their responsibility for public service and at the same time deny the expansion of federal service."

Both federal and state governments should begin at once the elimination of non-essential activities and agencies, streamlining present governmental functions, he asserted, adding that in planning for the post-war period officials must also:

Recognize that whatever is done by federal or state governments should supplement and not subordinate individual initiative; realize that Americans after the war will expect and demand fair wages, decent living conditions, agricultural opportunities, a program of public health for all, and assurance against unemployment and hunger.

Understand that business and government must work together in solving economic problems, and that local governments will have a "responsible part" in solving post-war programs.

Miss Exum Chosen For Church Post

High Point, June 21.—(AP)—Miss Marguerite Helms of Charlotte will head the North Carolina Christian Endeavor Union for another year.

She was reelected yesterday at the closing session of the organization's annual convention.

Miss Virginia Cecil of Greensboro was elected first vice-president, Howard Patterson of Burlington, second vice-president; Miss Hazel Hedrick of Thomasville, treasurer, and Roy P. Barber of Greensboro, executive secretary.

Departmental officers elected were: Young People's Counselor, Miss Gladys Taylor of Greensboro; High School Counselor, Miss Mabelle Dick of Greensboro; Junior Counselor, Miss Myrtle Davis of High Point; Alumni superintendent, Miss Novella Exum of Greenville; and Director of Finance, Luther R. Medlin of Gastonia.

"The commanding general stated as follows: "In the capacity of division signal officer during the Guadalcanal operation, Lieutenant Colonel Snedeker's services represented a highly important contribution not only to the division itself but to the success of the operations as a whole.

Despite slender resources of personnel and material it became his responsibility to create a system of communication far exceeding the designed capacity of a divisional system. By his energy, ingenuity, initiative and resourcefulness he succeeded in establishing such a system which proved vital to the operations of the combined arms and services engaged in the campaign for Guadalcanal."

By his outstanding capacity for leadership, organization and professional ability, he was able to maintain it despite continuous loss of personnel and destruction of equipment brought about by long periods of bombardment and enemy interference.

"Your distinguished conduct and the efficient manner in which you established and maintained a communication system so essential to the operations of the combined arms services in the Solomon Islands area were in keeping with the finest traditions of the naval service and merit my high commendation."

Nursery School Seminar Will Be Held At College

Of special interest to persons who are planning to participate in the organization and management of a kindergarten-nursery school and to mothers of young children will be the nursery school seminar to be held at East Carolina Teachers College from June 30 through July 21, under the leadership of the department of Home Economics and the department of Education, in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction. The seminar has been arranged to help meet the need for trained caretakers of pre-school children of women who are answering the nation's call for women war workers; and also, according to President Leon R. Meadows, to be another part in the efforts of East Carolina Teachers College to supply teachers for the schools of North Carolina in the present teacher-shortage crisis.

The seminar will carry four and a half hours' certification credit, and will serve as either a "refresher" course for primary and home economics teachers who have been out of the teaching field for a few years or preparation for those who are just entering the work of nursery school staffs or primary education.

The curriculum will include intensive study of the development of the young child through proper physical, mental, and emotional training education in the nursery-kindergarten school; observation and practice in the nursery school of the college; and organization and management of pre-school centers.

Though the seminar is offered primarily for teachers and other workers in nursery schools, its courses would be of great value to mothers of pre-school children; and it is hoped that the arrangement of the daily program will make possible the attendance of interested mothers. The schedule is as follows: June 30-July 21:

- 8:00-9:00—Development of the young child.
- 9:00-12:00—Observation and participation in the nursery school.
- 2:00-3:00—Organization and conduct of a pre-school center.
- 3:00-4:00—Education in the kindergarten-nursery school.

A strong faculty has been provided for the seminar. Among those from the College faculty will be Miss Katherine Holtzclaw, head of the Home Economics Department; Dr. Carl C. Adams, head of the Education department; Dr. Frederick C. Brooks, head of the Department of Health Education; and Miss Dora Coates, instructor in primary education in the Training School, who for several months last winter was a member of the state staff that organized nursery schools and kindergarten in defense centers. Miss Edna Mae McDonald, a highly trained and experienced kindergarten teacher of Sumter, S. C., will be director of the nursery school, and she will be assisted by members of the child care staff of the State Department of Education.

President Meadows has helped with the arrangements for this special course and is glad to offer its service not only to the nation in its immediate needs but also as valuable training for teachers and mothers of children at any time.

How the Battle of Bataan Was Fought

Chapter 19

DURING those first days when Corregidor was under heavy bombing attacks we were too busy keeping our skins intact to learn much about what was going on in Bataan. It was still terra incognita.

I watched the maps on the walls of the USAFFE tunnel and saw that our lines were holding pretty well. That was encouraging until I made the shocking discovery that the powerful army of more than 250,000 troops which we had imagined was defending Luzon had existed only in our imaginations.

Instead of sixty thousand American soldiers, there was only one regiment of infantry, the 31st, and in its biggest fight its front-line strength was only 636 officers and men.

There were less than thirty tanks in Bataan.

There were about ten airplanes. The American forces, including tanks, Air Corps personnel, Signal Corps, and Engineers, did not exceed five thousand on Bataan with another seven or eight thousand on Corregidor.

The remaining soldiers on Bataan were some thirty thousand Filipinos, of whom approximately half were well-trained Scouts and the remainder virtually untrained recruits.

General MacArthur did not have even enough troops to hold an unbroken line across the fifteen-mile-wide peninsula, and he had to leave part of the mountainous area in the center undefended. The Japs quickly found that out.

The Battle of Bataan was fought from January 1 to April 8. The battle developed in three stages. We won the first round, the second was a stalemate, and the third was a black and bitter and crushing defeat.

The first phase of the battle extended from January 1 until February 10. After preliminary skirmishing while our advance units were still fighting delaying actions, the Japanese hit our main line of resistance on January 6 at Moron on the western flank. Having taken most of Luzon almost without a struggle they pushed on, recklessly and confidently, and captured Moron. The weary 10th Cavalry, which had borne the brunt of fighting in the Lingayen area, was ordered to counterattack. They recaptured Moron.

THEN the Japanese hit our right flank along the shore of Manila Bay and pushed back the lines of the 41st Division, Philippine Army. The Japanese suffered heavy losses for every foot they gained, for they were under fire from our big 155 artillery. Then MacArthur ordered the 41st Division to attack. The 41st went forward under a blasting barrage. They restored their positions.

The Japs thrust at another place, a few miles inland up the slopes of Mt. Natib. Their agile soldiers found that part of the mountain was undefended and slithered through and into the rear of our lines. They climbed trees and began sniping, picking off our officers and the men carrying supplies to the front. Simultaneously they made a headlong attack against the 51st Division of the Philippine Army, which was holding positions inland and adjacent to the 41st. The 51st was driven back for a half mile.

MacArthur called on his lone American infantry regiment, the 31st, to restore the gap. In five days of dogged, foot-by-foot fighting, the 31st regained all but 150 yards of the salient. But by that time hundreds and hundreds of Japs had infiltrated over Mt. Natib and our positions were becoming untenable. On January 26 MacArthur had to withdraw his forces back to the second and final main line of resistance, extending from Pilar to Bagac. There could be no further retreat.

THE Japs thought it was all over. They pushed forward, confidently marching down the east coast road in groups of five and six hundred. Our 155's blasted them off the road and the Jap drive was stopped cold. By the end of January the Japs had fallen in their attempt to crack our line in front of assaults. Lieutenant General Masaharu Homma, the Japanese commander, gave up and withdrew his forces for a few miles.

Homma tried new tactics. He attacked MacArthur's flanks from the China Sea side. This was a serious, almost a fatal threat to Bataan. The Japanese landed on five points of land along the west coast. MacArthur couldn't draw troops from his front line to face them. That would have left the front wide open. But somewhere MacArthur found the men he needed, half a company here, ten men there, a squad from somewhere else.

These makeshift forces penned the Japs on the points and prevented them from cutting the west road and coming in the rear of our front lines. Part of the 57th under Colonel George Clarke, and 45th Filipino Scouts, after aiding the 31st U. S. Infantry in fighting on the east coast, were rushed over to fight against the landings. The naval battalion of Marines and sailors, commanded by Commander Frank Bretz, pitched in. The PT boats broke up one attempt by the Japanese to reinforce their landings. Three P-40's took the air one night and bombed and strafed another landing group.

THROUGH the thick jungle our forces inched their way forward to mop up the Japanese on the points. The fighting was slow and hard and costly. But finally, about February 10, the last Japanese was killed. Altogether about 2,500 of them died in the futile attempts to crack our flanks.

Homma made one final effort. A Japanese regiment drove a wedge into the western side of our front lines. That sector was held by Igorots from the mountains of Baguio. The Igorots led an attack by our infantry and tanks which wiped them out to the last man. Our front was restored.

That was the last gasp of the first Japanese offensive. Homma's original landing force had been cut to pieces. MacArthur estimated "the Jap" had lost thirty thousand men killed or wounded in six weeks of fighting in Bataan. The Japs were short of ammunition, medicine and guns. They pulled back all along the line. MacArthur's spies, coming out from Manila, reported the Jap officers were having trouble getting troops to go to the Bataan front. Some of the younger Japanese threw away their uniforms and tried to disguise themselves as Filipinos. The Jap officers rounded up every Filipino with a short haircut, suspecting him of being a Jap soldier.

THEN came the second phase of the battle while the Japs waited for reinforcements. They might have won in the first phase if they had not moved their Air Force to the south, Malaya, and the Netherlands East Indies. From the end of January until nearly the end of March the Japs had only a handful of planes, possibly less than thirty, flying in the Philippines at any one time. That was the reason Bataan held so long.

The Japanese were waiting for reinforcements and MacArthur, too, was awaiting reinforcements. His soldiers were full of confidence. They had licked the Japs and thought they deserved reinforcement. Wainwright wanted help. So did Jones and Lim and Capinpin. They knew they could win with the proper tools. They believed the Philippines had to be held, now that Singapore and Java were going. They thought help was coming. The Japs, apparently, knew that it wasn't.

So the Japs took their time and brought in their reinforcements and brought their planes back, about the end of March. Meanwhile our forces, which a few weeks before had been confident of final victory, were running out of food, medicine, and bullets, and out of hope too.

The Japs called in General Yamashita, who had blitzed Malaya and Singapore. On April 1, with his reinforced troops, Yamashita struck. His planes hit everywhere at once. His troops smashed against our front all along the line. They landed on the cliffs on the China Sea coast and simultaneously on the level east coast of Manila Bay. They attacked everywhere in that final terrible assault.

For eight days our forces held: the young Filipinos, the veteran Scouts, the aviators without airplanes.

Then the Battle of Bataan was ended.

Try this Grand Way to SAVE CLOTHES in WARTIME

YES, OXYDOL GETS CLOTHES WHITE WITHOUT BLEACHING - CLEAN WITHOUT HARD RUBBING

Sparkling White just with Sudsing Action

You just don't need harsh bleaching, long washer runs, or hard rubbing to get beautiful white washes with OXYDOL. Saving so much wear can double the washday life of clothes.

Sure! We're Oxydol's "Hustle-Bubble" Suds

We last longer, get out more dirt and grime. Every ounce is richer in washing power than before. Except for stains, your wash comes white without bleaching—just with rich, safe sudsing action.

Safe for washable colors and rayons, too

This rich sudsing is a beauty treatment for washable rayons and colors. Even milder on hands than before, too.

AVOID SOAP WASTE!

TODAY MAKE EVERY PACKAGE OF OXYDOL GIVE YOU MORE WASHINGS THAN EVER BEFORE

Waste in wartime is unfair, unpatriotic. That's why Oxydol says, please don't waste soap. You know, soap is made from vital materials needed to win the war. So make every ounce of Oxydol do full duty. You'll be surprised how a little care saves so much soap—gives you more washings per package, and sparkling white washes, as well!

1. Measure your Oxydol for machine or tub—don't pour. Suds need only just cover the clothes. Run machine with full load of clothes.
2. Soak clothes in clear, cool water before washing. Then just wash in Oxydol suds and hot water.
3. In washing dishes, do less greasy things first, while pots and pans are soaking in plain water. Use as small a dishpan as you can.
4. In making suds in dishpan or washbowl, draw water first. Put in a little Oxydol. Stop! Swish well for suds. Don't use more Oxydol than needed to make suds.

This Longest Day; Hard Winter Ahead

By CHESTER WALSH

Today, June 21, is the longest day of the year, and the first day of summer. This is the time when the sun arrives at its most northern point in the summer solstice. For several days sunrise and sunset will be about the same time. Then the days begin to shorten a few minutes each day, and the nights are longer.

Crops are thriving in fields and gardens. Weather has been favorable, although rain is needed. Vegetables are ripening. More food crops are planted in Pitt County than in a generation. There is more poultry, more hogs. Farmers have responded to the government's war time call for more food and feed crops.

In a little while we celebrate the Fourth of July, not Monday, the 5th this year because the holiday comes on a Sunday. Tobacco will be ripening and curing in the barns. The markets will open in late August and be kept open longer than last year. Labor Day will "pop up" on the calendar and vacation days are over. The harvest season and then comes Thanksgiving Day in November. Next is Christmas, and then the year is ended. Time passes swiftly, especially during this war.

Those who provide for an unusual winter — not the weather — but what's going on in the war areas and back home from where supplies are sent — will be regarded as the wise ones — said a man today who is a philosopher in his outlook on life. "This year will go down in history as one of the most momentous," he added.

Incidental it was tomorrow two years ago that Hitler and the Germans sent their forces against Russia, threatening invasion of Moscow, Stalinsk and other centers. The Germans are now on the defensive.

It is singular to recall that a man substituting for Miss Bruce Sizer as a speaker at the Kiwanis Club's meeting on July Fourth, 1941, shortly after Hitler's Russian ultimatum, said: "In this war Russia will be as was the Red Sea when the Egyptians were pursuing the Israelites." The prophecy has been realized. The Russians have been a wall of steel to hold back the Germans as did that great wall of water that stopped the Egyptians.

Important Notice To Workers

Under the employment stabilization plan of the War Manpower Commission, no worker now engaged in essential activity may be hired locally unless he has a statement of availability from his last employer. Beyond normal commuting distance no worker can be hired without a statement of availability issued by the United States Employment Service. Before changing jobs visit the Employment Office serving your area.

IT'S a weird-looking contraption. I'll admit. But when you think what aviation gasoline and synthetic rubber mean right now, it begins to look pretty wonderful!

It's a plant for a new-type process for making aviation gas and synthetic rubber material from petroleum. It makes more gallons of better gas than any process ever did before. It makes both the gas and the synthetic rubber material at once, which is mighty important right now!

It's a fluid catalytic cracking unit. Our Esso research workers who developed it call it a 'cat cracker.' But we did that long before the war, back in the 1930's—and that's why I call it a statue of liberty.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

CONCEIT IS RUINOUS

Every now and again we run across the type of person whose career is either being progressively ruined or else has been ruined by conceit.

Just recently my attention has been attracted by a young man who, in the mid-twenties, has so conducted himself with reference to his associates that he has lost a good position; and worst of all, he has damaged his prospects of getting another.

Someone has said that conceit is vanity driven from all other objects and forced to appeal to itself for admiration. Especially in the case of young men, it acts as a solvent to the career which may be in the process of building.

A person afflicted with this miserable vice should pull the brake hard every time he feels disposed to talk about himself and to see to it on all occasions that he keeps what he considers his superior qualities a carefully guarded secret.

TIME TO GET DOWN TO BUSINESS

With the coal miners' third strike within 90 days threatening a complete tie-up of our war production; with an anti-strike measure still unsigned on the President's desk, and with those in authority apparently passing the buck from one to the other, instead of forcing a showdown between the government and John L. Lewis, no doubt some of our men on the battlefronts are beginning to wonder if this is the kind of America they are fighting to save.

All these difficulties should have been foreseen long ago and definite steps taken to prevent them rather than wait until things get into such a muddle as they are now. Hitler and his associates in crime must be getting a lot of encouragement out of all the bickering that are going on on the American home front and it is also possible that some of the smaller nations that are looking to us for protection and guidance are wondering how we will be able to help them straighten out their affairs if we can't take care of such situations as these here at home in time of our country's great peril.

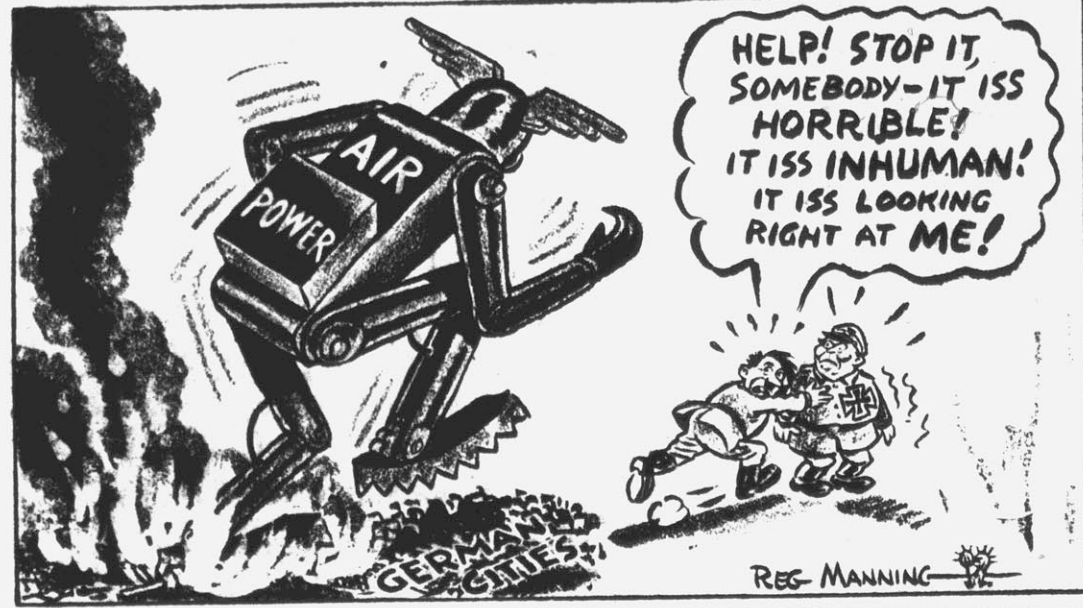

While the war on the fighting fronts apparently has turned in favor of the United Nations it is still possible for us to lose it if we continue to do our fighting among ourselves here at home instead of devoting our full energies to fighting our enemies on the battlefields.

Our men on the battlefields know there is a war on and the wives, mothers and sweethearts of our fighting men likewise know it, but apparently those in charge of our government still feel that politics and vote-getting should come first, with the war effort taking second place.

In our opinion, the time for pussyfooting has long passed and the administration should take steps immediately to see to it that the full energies of this great country are devoted to winning the war.

short-cut route via Canada, Alaska and Arctic Siberia is a potent factor the Japanese have not overlooked. Russia is satisfied to maintain the present troubled but uncertain relations which prevail between her and Japan in the Far East—but this may not be true of Japan. She has too much at stake to permit the United Nations a probable avenue of attack through Siberia, and she may decide to strike to the north also in an attempt to complete the circle of bases she has around her home islands. This is a factor in the global war which has been neglected recently, due to developments in Africa and Europe, but just the same it is a powder keg which might be touched off at any time.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has moved to reduce a proposed $500,000,000 fund for subsidy payments to $250,000,000 an amount which would not permit the CCC to enter any new subsidy fields. What the senate does on this question is likely to furnish a criterion for its action on a house move to prevent the Office of Price Administration from using any of the $130,000,000 it would be allowed in a $2,898,000,000 war agency appropriations measure to finance the administration of subsidies. The house also lopped $30,000,000 off the amount its appropriations committee previously had recommended for all OPA operations.

Washington, June 21—(AP)—An average, 3-cent a pound reduction in the retail price of most meats went into effect today—the second of three price rollbacks undertaken by the Office of Price Administration through payments of subsidies. The cutback affects all meat except cured and processed pork, but those cuts will come under the subsidy plan July 5. The new meat price followed a ten per cent reduction in butter prices earlier this month. A similar reduction is scheduled for coffee prices, but an effective date has not yet been set.

LOSER TAKE ALL

Chapter 14 Bert took Ann to a new restaurant, quieter and more secluded than the last one they visited. Here, at a small table to themselves, he wanted to hear about the Masons. "They're my charity case," she said, borrowing Sarah's words and sure that Bert would recognize the reference. "The one you turned down." "I turned down?" "Yes. The one Sarah called you about yesterday noon. The workman's wife with the. When you refused to go I believe she went so far as to suggest she knew in advance you wouldn't take the case." His face clouded. "Either you're making it up or I was unconscious. Sarah didn't call me about any charity case." "She didn't?" Ann was puzzled. "Then she talked on the phone to herself." That or Bert for reasons of his own had decided to deny it. She didn't know which but she was inclined to believe Sarah faked the conversation, not wanting Bert exposed to anything in which Ann was interested. "We managed without you," she said and let the smile in her voice relieve the sharpness of the rebuke. "You'll have to start at the beginning." He listened attentively while she outlined the plight of the little trailer family. "It's pitiful. Bert. Four persons crowded into a space no larger than the corner of this room." "Well, if the man's making money his family doesn't have to live that way." "Oh, but they do! There's not a vacant house in Radville and there must be 40 families in the camp." "We've had lots of building since the defense plant opened." "Certainly. But these are the overflow and when I think of all the space to waste at Terrence House it makes me wonder if something shouldn't be done about it. Staff and all, we haven't more than 17 people in a house that would accommodate a small army." "Sure," he chided. "Bring them all up to the hotel and let them mix with our finicky clients." "They're helping win the war!" she retorted and was sorry when she saw him flush. He wasn't helping win it. Or at least he wasn't in uniform. But she understood they hadn't called him because he was one of the last two doctors in town. He shrugged. "Let's talk about next week. Ann I brought you here to talk about us." "Oh." "You see," his dark eyes studied hers with speculation. "I want to know where I stand." "Where you stand?" "You know what I mean. I'm in love with you." "In love with me?" Her lips parted and surprise spread to her eyes. "But, Bert, you know how I feel." "No, I don't. That's why I'm asking you." She pulled away her hand from the possessive grasp in which he held it. "I—I've had my mind on the will and all that. I—I haven't had time." "You had time to be with Lane." "With Jerry? You're crazy." "Then why did you meet him on the bridge last night? Why didn't both of you leave the hotel together? Afraid of being seen?" "So Bert knew Jerry followed her and had mistaken their quarrel for a lover's tryst. She wanted to laugh but her sense of humor deserted her. "He followed me. He had no business doing it." Bert scoffed. "I'd say he followed you, all right, but it looked as if he had both business and invitation to do it." "I suppose you wouldn't believe the truth that he almost scared

American League Race Tightest In History

Eight Clubs Separated By Only Eight Games; Six Bunched Within Two And A Half

By JUDSON BAILEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)

This year's pennant race in the American League may become historic as the tightest from top to bottom that the major leagues have ever seen.

With the season approximately one-third gone the standings should have thinned out like shoe customers after the No. 17 coupon expired. But instead, the eight clubs are separated by only eight games and six of them are bunched within 2 1/2.

Startling shifts have been going on in the standings as a result. The Cleveland Indians, who were in seventh place before they started play Saturday, had soared into third at the close of competition yesterday.

The Boston Red Sox, who dragged along near the bottom for weeks, bounced blithely into the first division. The Chicago White Sox, who were third ten days ago, dropped into a tie with the St. Louis Browns for last place.

The greatest distance between any two clubs is the three games separating the first place New York Yankees and the second place Washington Senators, yet in ordinary times this would be considered a red-hot rivalry.

It is a pretty good one even now, and yesterday, when the Yanks and Senators tangled in a doubleheader at Yankee Stadium, Washington won the first game 5-3 and New York the second 7-6.

Wildness by Charley Wensloff and Ernie Bonham gave the Senators the opener. After Mickey Vernon had hit a two-run homer in the sixth, they walked five men to force in two runs. The Yanks clinched the nightcap with five runs in the second inning, climaxed by Charley Keller's second homer of the day and his tenth of the year.

Cleveland and the White Sox also split, Chicago nailing the first 10-6 with seven runs in the fourth inning and the Indians capturing the second 7-2 with Jim Bagby pitching six-hit ball.

Boston swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3 and 6-5 with an attack that included five home runs. Jim Tabor hit two to highlight the first game and Baby Barna got one with one on to decide the second.

The Browns downed Detroit twice 6-3 and 5-4 with homers figuring importantly. Chet Laabs hit one with two aboard to decide the first game and Harland Clift duplicated the feat in the afterpiece.

The National League standings also were shuffled with Cincinnati dropping from third to fifth in one afternoon and the phenomenal Phillies regaining a berth in the first division.

Pittsburgh sunk the Reds with a double victory yesterday 5-4 and 4-2 and the Pirates ascended to third place. A three-run homer by Elbie Fletcher in the eighth inning decided the first game and a four-run rally in the eighth produced all the Pirates' runs in the nightcap.

The Phillies swept two at Boston 13-7 and 7-0, scoring ten runs in the seventh inning of the first game and getting a dazzling three-hit pitching performance from Schoolboy Rowe in the nightcap.

The Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the New York Giants 8-7 in a single game that went ten innings before a hit by Augie Galan drove home the deciding run.

This cut the first place margin of the St. Louis Cardinals to 2 1/2 games as the world champions divided a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. The first was a wild affair in which ten pitchers were used, the Cards winning 10-9 with a six-run rally after two were out in the eighth. The second game, abbreviated to five innings by the weather, went to the Cubs 2-1.

The Browns downed Detroit twice 6-3 and 5-4 with homers figuring importantly. Chet Laabs hit one with two aboard to decide the first game and Harland Clift duplicated the feat in the afterpiece.
