Twelve More Towns Reported Captured; British Maul German Tank Divisions In Drive Toward Catania; Axis Forces Expected To Attempt Withdrawal

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 16.—(AP)—The hard-punching British Eighth Army was reported within 15 miles of Catania in a northward surge up the Sicilian coast today after falling upon two German armored divisions and severely mauling them.

Allied headquarters announced the capture of 12 more towns, as Americans, British and Canadians advanced all along their moon-shaped front and more than 20,000 prisoners were in Allied hands when Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's veterans administered another whipping to the Hermann Goering and 15th German armored divisions.

The American Seventh Army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., seizing a number of towns on the western sector, some of them of the greatest strategic importance, had taken nearly 16,000 of the prisoners. This time Montgomery fell upon the Germans north of Lentini, where the Axis had gathered important armor for a strong counter-attack, and smashed them back.

Observers believed the enemy had asked his all on counterattack. With an "appreciable number of tanks" already in Sicily, observers were confident the German tank forces would be dealt with, and that thereafter the enemy would be obliged to fight a defensive rear-guard action while conducting a withdrawal from the island.

The Axis appeared powerless to keep the Allied fleet in check as it grew strong seaward support to Montgomery's right flank and battered the enemy's coastal positions at will.

The 15th German armored division was believed to be a collection of German units which had been assembled to go to Tunisia before its fall. It was then given the name of the enemy division that was wiped out in the Tunisian fighting. Another hot struggle also was reported inland about 35 miles from the east coast of Vizzini, one of the newly captured towns.

This town on a vital second line of communications upon which the Axis had been obliged to fall back. (Continued On Page Three)

Shakeup of BEW Puts Perkins Out

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—A Board of Economic Warfare spokesman said today President Roosevelt's action in reorganizing the BEW into an Office of Economic Warfare undoubtedly means that Milo Perkins, BEW director, is out of a job.

This authorized spokesman said merely he did not expect much to be doing around BEW today, adding: "Mr. Perkins was fired yesterday, and that seems to be all there is to it."

The spokesman said he did not know whether Perkins had submitted a formal resignation, but he added there is no room for doubt that the executive director considers himself out of a job.

The spokesman said he interpreted Mr. Roosevelt's action as putting the activities formerly in the hands of Vice President Wallace under Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes and those held by Perkins under Leo T. Crowley, newly named director of the OEI.

Neither Perkins nor Crowley could be reached for comment. Crowley was out of town.

Planes Of Baby Carrier Win Battle With Subs

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—In a series of anti-submarine battles in the North Atlantic, the planes of a single baby aircraft carrier recently successfully attacked ten German submarines, definitely destroying two and probably destroying eight others, and delivered two convoys safely across the Atlantic to American forces poised for actions against Hitler's Europe.

The story of the gallant little flat top, officially designated only as "Carrier B," was told by the navy today in a detailed account of how these auxiliary floating air fields are helping to clinch victory for the United Nations in the vital battle of the Atlantic.

Altogether, the carrier's accomplishments included attacks on 11 submarines, with ten sunk or probably sunk, dispersing of two wolf packs which struck at two different

City Of Naples Crushed By Allied Aerial Attack

FRENCH PLANT BOMBED BY RAF

Other Raids Over Germany And Low Countries

London, July 16.—(AP)—Halifax bombers of the RAF attacked the Peugeot motor vehicle works at Montebellard in northern France last night, the Air Ministry announced today, and Lancasters swung across the Alps to pummel targets in northern Italy.

The Peugeot motor works produce two ton trucks and the output was second only to that of the Renault plant before the latter was flattened by air attack.

The plant is reported to turn out between 6,000 and 8,000 trucks a year and employs 10,000 men.

Montebellard is located about 10 miles south of Belfort in eastern France, near the Swiss border, and the German radio said in a broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, that the raiders had violated Swiss territory.

Auxiliary raids by RAF intruders on airfields and railways in Germany, France and the Low countries were also reported.

Seven bombers were listed as missing. Only one enemy plane was shot down.

The communiqué said weather over Montebellard was clear and preliminary reports indicated the attack was "concentrated and effective."

Keeping up the air offensive, two waves of Allied planes swung across Dover Strait this morning in the direction of Boulogne and Calais. (Continued On Page Six)

Other Pulverizing Blows on Sicily and Italian Mainland

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 16.—(AP)—The great Italian mainland port of Naples lay in smoking ruins today, crushed under the same staggering Allied aerial assault that virtually wiped Messina from the soil of Sicily the previous day.

Twenty-four solid hours of bombardment by the heaviest bomber formations from North Africa left Naples, fountainhead of enemy reinforcements and supplies for Sicily, a blazing inferno, its arsenal all but demolished and smoke rising more than 20,000 feet over the stricken city.

The Allied aerial offensive was spreading deep into Italy itself. While Naples was bearing the brunt of yesterday's smashing attack, American Liberator bombers from the Middle East tore into two important enemy airdromes in southern Italy by daylight and heavy RAF Lancasters swung down over the Alps from England to pulverize communications in northern Italy.

Medium bombers and fighter-bombers scourged the enemy in Sicily by night and day, raking road and rail communications and giving tight overhead protection to Allied forces fighting in the south and east of the island. Sixteen enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day, an Allied announcement said, against the loss of seven Allied planes. (Continued On Page Six)

Three-Way Senate Race Is Indicated

Charlotte, July 16.—(AP)—At least a three-cornered race for the U. S. Senate in North Carolina was in store today following the announcement that Marvin L. Ritten, Charlotte lawyer, would also run. Ritten, twice a member of the State House of Representatives, told a Charlotte Observer reporter he'd run "to provide a candidate for that great crowd of folks who don't want to vote either for Bob Reynolds or the Shelby bunch."

The Charlotte man admitted that the most he could hope for would be to force Reynolds and Clyde R. Hoy of Shelby into a second primary, but added, "you can't ever tell about politics. I might be nominated."

Issue Ultimatum To The Italians

Roosevelt and Churchill Declare Italians Must Choose Between Death For Mussolini And Hitler or Life For Italy

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill today gave Italy her choice—to surrender honorably or be blasted out of the war.

In a virtual ultimatum, the Allied leaders said the time has come for the Italian people "to decide whether Italians shall die for Mussolini and Hitler—or live for Italy and civilization."

The statement added: "The skies over Italy are dominated by the vast air armadas of the United States and Great Britain," and "Italy's sea coasts are threatened by the greatest accumulation of British and Allied sea power ever concentrated in the Mediterranean."

In a joint statement issued simultaneously at the White House and in London this morning the two United Nations leaders told the people of Italy that the sole hope of Italy's survival "lies in honorable capitulation to the overwhelming power of the military forces of the United Nations."

"If you continue to tolerate the Fascist regime which serves the evil power of the Nazis, you must suffer the consequences of your own choice," the statement said.

With Allied forces sweeping across Sicily toward the Italian mainland, the President and British Prime Minister in their message broadcast to Italy from Algiers and other adjacent Allied points, said they could take no satisfaction in invading Italian soil and bringing the tragic devastation of war home to the Italian people.

They added that they were determined, however, to "destroy the false leaders and their doctrines which have brought Italy to her present position."

The release of the joint statement, which followed several informal invitations in recent months that Italy get out of the war, was the signal for a propaganda drive which included the dropping of thousands of leaflets on Italy by Allied bombers in addition to beaming the message to the people of Italy by radio.

Asserting that Germany's hopes for world conquest "have been blasted on all fronts," the joint statement declared the skies over Italy are dominated by vast Allied air armadas and Italy's coasts are threatened "by the greatest accumulation of British and Allied sea-power ever concentrated in the Mediterranean."

They added: "Every moment that you resist the (Continued On Page Three)

Will Run If McCormick Enters Illinois Primary

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie will be a candidate for the 1944 Republican Presidential nomination — If Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, enters the Illinois preferential primary next April.

The 1940 GOP nominee showed his hand yesterday, challenging McCormick to a campaign for the Illinois primary vote.

Willkie, in an interview, was asked: "Have you seen reports that Colonel McCormick may run in the Illinois primary for the Republican Presidential nomination?"

"Yes," was his written reply. "I certainly hope it is true. For then I could really make the issue clear — the greatest issue of the day — American relations to the rest of the world and liberal internal domestic policies."

Asked if he would enter other preferential primaries, Willkie said that could be decided later. His present plan is to make a complete survey in January then decide future moves.

When Willkie's statement was made, McCormick was in Canada and there was no immediate indication as to if and when an answer would be forthcoming.

McCormick has not commented on the request that he enter the primary, made July 1 by the Republican Nationalist revival committee, a recently organized group with an announced aim to help maintain the Republican party as the "Nationalist Party" in American politics.

In a statement issued last night in Chicago, William J. Grace, secretary of the committee, said: "If Willkie will follow through and become a candidate in the Illinois Presidential preferential primary next April he may in part (Continued On Page Six)

Delay Draft Of Fathers

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—Most of the nation's fathers will still be in civilian clothes by October, perhaps much longer, say draft officials who are counting on single and childless married men, and the "teen-age group to meet the armed forces' requirements."

This continued immunity from selective service applies however only to those fathers living with and supporting children born before last September 15 and working at jobs outside the non-deferrable list. About 6,500,000 have those qualifications.

This was the draft picture given reporters by Major Emmett Solomon of selective service's manpower division yesterday.

The 1,566,000 single and childless married men already classified as available for immediate induction will fill the quotas for July, August and September, although some will win reclassification on appeal and about 40 per cent will be rejected and put into class 4-F.

Supplementing this were these factors:

1. At least 50,000 youths who become 18 each month can be counted upon with certainty to land in uniform. An even greater number of the total of 90,000 reaching that age monthly may prove inductible.

2. An indefinite number will be "recovered" from the pool of 2,976,000 men rejected before because of physical, mental educational or moral disqualifications.

Many of the 705,000 single and childless married men now holding occupational deferment for farm work are likely to be called by local boards after the harvest season ends.

4. Occupational deferments for non-occupational work expire constantly and most of this group of (Continued On Page Six)

Canadians Ahead In Bond Purchases

Chapel Hill, July 16.—(AP)—On a basis of population the people of the United States would have to buy six times more war bonds than they did in the last fiscal year to match the record of Canada.

This information was furnished the North Carolina Bankers conference here by Dr. William A. Irwin, educational director of the American Institute of Banking.

Generally speaking, he said, the people of Canada, rather than the banks, are buying long term bonds, whereas the situation is reversed in this country.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
July 16, 1903

Good Luck Party.

A most enjoyable evening was that spent Wednesday from 8:30 to 11 at the hospitable home of Miss Helen Forbes. The occasion was a hunt for a four-leaf clover, given complimentary to Miss Eva Hassell of Washington, who is visiting Miss Forbes.

The hallway and parlor presented a pleasing effect, being beautifully decorated with horseshoes and three-leaf clovers, everything suggestive of good luck. When all assembled the hunt commenced and Miss Vernessa Smith was the lucky one to find the four-leaf clover. She was presented with a beautiful silver horseshoe with 13 lucky pennies added as a mascot.

Toasts were then declared in order, as each guest had been asked to have one ready. The toasts were very good and would have done credit to much older heads. Alex Black's was the best, or was appreciated most by the crowd.

Delightful refreshments were served by Miss Forbes.

City Homemakers Enlist For Service

Canning Budget

By this time the canning budget for one person, shown in the window of Garris Grocery, is a familiar sight to many homemakers, because shelves by this time are filling up with jars of home-canned products.

"Some homemakers say 'We're going to can all we can.' This is a good aim, but most of us find it profitable to estimate how much our family can use and set a goal in terms of actual numbers. Be sure to look over the budget for one person in the Window of Garris Grocery, modify and add to it according to the needs of your family and what you can get to can, then set a goal to reach."

Other Exhibits

Don't forget—there's still time to extend that victory garden. Look in the window of Ehrd's Department Store, near Colony Theatre, for suggestions. Also see the exhibit on drying of fruits and vegetables in the window of Mr. L. J. Smith, real estate, and the exhibit on canning equipment in the McCormick Music Store—both of these exhibits are on Fifth street.

New Homemakers

Mrs. G. C. Honeycutt and Mrs. Sizemore, who live in Chatham Circle, have been added to the list of active homemakers. Following a demonstration Mrs. Honeycutt and Mrs. Sizemore canned 35 quarts of snap beans and with some further help from the city assistant agent, corn was canned.

With jars of vegetables, pickles and fruits multiplying by the dozen Mr. Honeycutt saw the need of preparing for winter. Result—a nice storage room with several shelves.

The Honeycutts and Sizemores have their gardens on city lots. The Honeycutts also get a supply of vegetables from their farm. They believe in the rule "from vine to can."

Double Duty

Mrs. C. V. Croom, East Tenth St., has been enlisted as a nurse for the past 10 months, due to the shortage of nurses. Her home canning program, however, goes right on. She has canned 50 quarts of snaps, field peas, butter beans, corn and cucumbers.

Birth Announcement

Ensign and Mrs. Clyde M. Brown of Liberty Mo., announce the birth of a son, Charles Moseley, on Tuesday, July 13, 1943.

"Caulk off" is a Navy slang term meaning to take a nap.

FAT FOR FIRING LINE—Herman Klink (right), truck driver from Fort Lee, N. J., watches George Pappas, New York restaurant proprietor, salvage inedible fat. One pound of fat produces enough glycerin for 50 machine gun bullets.

Leave For California.
Mr. and Mrs. John H. Coward of Ayden, left yesterday for Mather Field, near Sacramento, Calif., to be with their son, Graham Coward, a student in navigation at an Army Air Corps training school. They received a message from an Army medical officer that their son was seriously ill.

Return From Virginia.
Mrs. W. C. Shreve and son, Bill, Jr., have returned from a visit with Captain Shreve's parents in Falls Church, Va. While away Mrs. Shreve and son flew to Akron, Ohio, where they spent two weeks. They also visited Capt. Shreve's sister, Mrs. Joe Copley, in Blacksburg, Va. Miss Minnie Ellison of Washington, D. C., returned to Greenville with them for a few days' visit.

Mt. Pleasant News

Mount Pleasant Anniversary.
Mount Pleasant Christian Church, a few miles north of Greenville, will observe her seventy-fifth anniversary the first Sunday in August, on August 1.

This church was organized July 18, 1868, by Josephus Latham and Amos J. Battle, who were leading a revival there, which continued until July 31, 1868, resulting in 34 baptisms and 15 others received by fellowship. At a quarterly meeting they agreed to call the new church Mount Pleasant.

For seventy-five years Mount Pleasant has held its first-Sunday preaching. Raleigh L. Topping of Roanoke Rapids, now preaches. It is planned to invite some service men to dinner which will be served after the anniversary services.

On Sunday, July 4, a patriotic program was given at the Mount Pleasant Church, at which time the service flag was dedicated to the boys who are serving their country. There are twenty-seven stars on the flag. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Briley have five sons in the service and

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Forbes have four. The church flag and the United States flag were on display.

Professor Nelson of Roanoke Rapids, delivered the address at the morning services and Dr. Haney of the Christian Church in Greenville, the afternoon sermon. Dinner was served on the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith have moved to Norfolk to make their home. For the past several years Mr. Smith has taught the adult class in Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jenkins, Jr., and children, Billy and Barbara Lela, of Raleigh, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jenkins at their home, Sandy Knoll.

Tar Heel Soldier Killed.
Moses Lake, Wash., July 16.—(AP)—Mystery surrounded today the death of Sgt. William B. Woodruff, of Roanoke Rapids, whose body was found Tuesday in Moses Lake, 200 feet offshore.

The soldier's face and scalp were badly lacerated. Physicians said he had been dead at least 48 hours. A bare announcement from the public relations office of the Moses Lake army air base did not mention the cause of death.

Passenger Train Wrecked.
Point of Rocks, Md., July 16.—(AP)—The engine and six cars of the eastbound Cleveland-Washington passenger express of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad were derailed today in Point of Rocks tunnel.

B. and O. officials in Baltimore said no one was injured and the cause of the derailment had not been determined. The passengers were transferred to a later train.

Governor To Speak.
Raleigh, N. C., July 16.—(AP)—Governor Broughton will deliver a state-wide radio address tonight, urging North Carolina tobacco growers to vote to maintain marketing quotas on tobacco. The referendum is scheduled for July 24.

DOGS PROVING WORTH IN WAR

Former Pets Perform Valuable Service on Battlefronts

Camp LeJeune, July 15—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. America's pet dog has gone to war and is doing a good job, too.

Months ago a search was begun by the U. S. Marine Corps to find means of supplying its troops in the dense jungles of the South Pacific islands with "added perception" and decided, among other things, to give

To Preside

WILLIE F. OWENS

Willie A. Owens, of the money order division of the Greenville postoffice and president of the North Carolina Federation of Postoffice Clerks will leave tomorrow for Charlotte to preside over the annual convention of the association at Hotel Charlotte. The association is statewide. Principal business of the convention will be a conference of wartime problems and election of officers for next year.

E. L. Howell of this city will accompany Owens to report the convention proceedings.

man's best friend a try at it. So thick is the jungle brush on Guadalcanal, New Georgia, and the other islands in that area that it is virtually impossible to see, hear or smell anything beyond a few yards' range.

"The task of ferreting out the Jap loomed as a difficult one," commented First Lieut. Louis W. Davis of Baltimore, Md. The training director of the Marine Corps Dog Training Center here. "Several methods have been developed to overcome these obstacles, but the one that may well prove to be the most successful is Mr. and Mrs. America's pet dog."

The dog training center, established only a few months ago, already has produced many graduates now serving with combat units. Many more are being schooled. Each dog is a specialist in his particular field. The courses include guard duty, first aid, scouting, messenger service and sniper detection.

As a messenger, the dog is peerless. Where brush is so thick that a man finds it impossible to penetrate with a telephone cable, the dog can travel at nearly top speed. First aid dogs will locate men whose wounds are not so severe that they are prevented from crawling to safety but who may perish because of the inability of medical men to find them.

No amount of camouflage, however clever, will fool the canine super detector. These dogs are taught from the beginning to refrain from barking or making any noises that might divulge positions to the enemy. So thoroughly is the scout impressed with the importance of keeping his tongue that it is possible to spend a full day with these dogs and never hear a bark—not even a whimper.

The scout is the specialist of specialists. He must be able to guide his master through snipe-infested areas. He is charged with the responsibility of locating concealed enemy emplacements and at the same time preventing detection of his own patrols. He must be able, on command, to get back to his own lines with important information. If the job of being a devil dog guard is the least glamorous of the canine assignments, certainly it is not the least important. Marine officials say.

Heavy Weight Crop Tobacco Predicted

By CHESTER WALSH

Farmers in Greenville today attending to business and hurrying back to the farms and to the work of cropping and curing tobacco were "bragging" about the weight the leaf is putting on as a result of the rains of the past 10 or 12 days. Partly cloudy skies the past several days have "put the sun's heat" to the growing crop by degrees and farmers are thankful for that. Today Old Sol was "bearing down" full blaze and sent the mercury to the upper part of thermometers.

Reports of farmers in this county on the condition of their tobacco and other crops are optimistic on the whole. As a general rule, the growers always say the crop is "so-so" until they place the leaf on the warehouse floors, but it's different now. There is a mighty fine crop of tobacco maturing out there in the fields and it is needed. The world supply of tobacco is short. Incidentally, representatives of the buying companies, including independent, are cheerful over prospects of a good crop and say so.

Curing of the bright leaf crop is now in full swing. Early curings are showing exceptionally good color. There is an old saying among tobacco growers that "when there is a good quality crop growing the lugs are not always so good." This rule does not apply to the present growing crop farmers who know, declare. Some of the first curings of lugs have produced a leaf that is far superior to what was expected.

The bright leaf markets will open on August 24. The season will be extended over a longer period than in recent years to permit farmers to attend to their cotton, peanuts and other crops.

Night Life In City Now Thing Of Past

By CHESTER WALSH

Early closing of cafes, refreshment and other places in Greenville has met with popular public response. It will appear to the most casual observer who rambles around downtown Greenville any night about 10 o'clock. The crowds are not here. People are at home. Through motion that is scarce. Local traffic has almost disappeared. The eating places close at 10 o'clock. At this time there are only a few stragglers to be seen. Around 11 o'clock when the movie houses empty the late crowds are always small.

Two eating places on Dickinson Avenue which take care of through traffic, travel, truck drivers and others, remain open all night for the convenience of the public, but the crowd is not there.

Incidentally, since the ban on the sale of beer and wine from 11:30 p. m. until 7 a. m. went into effect nearly all of the "night life" of Greenville has disappeared. "Things at night ain't what they used to be," the police and other enforcement officers can testify. There has been a remarkable decrease in the number of arrests made here. There was not an arrest made in the city one day this week.

Edgerton Heads Hospital Board

Raleigh, July 16—(AP)—N. E. Edgerton of Raleigh today was elected chairman of the North Carolina Hospitals Board of Control at the organization meeting of the board.

Before receiving the recommendations of Governor Broughton as to procedure and appointments, the board, named last week in compliance with an act of the 1943 general assembly, was sworn in by Associate Justice M. V. Barnhill.

The board will have management and supervision of the State Hospital at Raleigh, the State Hospital at Morganton, the State Hospital at Goldsboro and Caswell Training School at Kinston.

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson of Winston-Salem was named vice chairman of the board and Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer and ex-officio member of the board, was elected secretary.

Governor Broughton after urging that no politics be allowed to enter the decisions of the board, recommended that the new group elect R. M. Rothgeb, business manager of the State Hospital at Morganton, as general business manager. Rothgeb formerly was engineer and business manager in the State Budget Commission.

Further, the governor recommended that the board name G. M. Hill, now assistant business manager of the Morganton institution, as business manager succeeding Rothgeb. He asked that the new group delay the appointment of a superintendent until it has had time to study possible candidates for the position. Dr. F. B. Watkins, superintendent, died recently and Dr. J. S. Sanders, acting superintendent, has tendered his resignation to enter the armed services.

Praises History of Seal
Raleigh, N. C., July 16—(AP)—Revision of a pamphlet, "The History of the Great Seal of the State of North Carolina," by D. L. Corbitt of the staff of the State Department of Archives and History was announced today by Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary. J. Bryan Grimes originally compiled the data and the pamphlet first was issued in 1909.

Corbitt is a native of Greenville and well known here.

Mathematicians have figured that should all the offspring of a single plant louse live and reproduce at a normal rate during one year, their combined weight would amount to more than that of the Japanese and the German armies combined.

tack, the dog is able to expose the intruder at distances six times greater than the range of man.

The Marines who have observed the development of the dogs here as warriors agree that the Jap may well "beware of the dog."

Wants Peace With Russia

London, July 16—(AP)—Polish Prime Minister Stanislaw Mikolajczyk declared today it is "the sincere wish of the new Polish government that relations with Russia be re-established and that his regime would not stand in the way of anyone attempting to settle the dispute."

New Head of Field Forces

London, July 16—(AP)—Major General Leonard Townsend Gerow has succeeded Major General Russell P. Hartle as commanding officer of U. S. field forces in the European theater, army headquarters announced today.

The nature of Hartle's new assignment was not disclosed. Gerow (pronounced Jarow) is a 54-year-old native of Petersburg, Va., and like Chief of Staff George C. Marshall, is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute.

Planes Of . . .

ed as "very probable" or "probable" there is an excellent chance that the submarine was destroyed. Submariners say that to get credit "you've got to bring back the submarine's periscope or the captain's hat—and that's hard to do from an airplane!"

The first of the definite kills was accomplished by the flat top's planes in the final attack on the first wolf pack.

"Again far off the convoy's port quarter," the navy related, "another Avenger pilot spotted a surfaced U-boat directly beneath him. This was almost certainly the same sub attacked only a short time previously. Immediately kicking over into a vertical dive, the Avenger pilot hit the jack-pot by placing all bombs in salvo directly under the U-boat's stern."

The wounded sub immediately submerged, but, damaged beyond control, resurfaced quickly at a steep angle. Still in this position, it started to sink again, hopelessly out of control. Then it resurfaced and crewmen popped out of the conning tower to surrender. 12 minutes after the first sighting by the Avenger's pilot.

"A U. S. escort destroyer promptly raced to the spot. The evidence of this kill consisted of 21 enlisted prisoners, two minor officers, and the submarine's skipper. The U-boat sank from under them during the rescue."

"Later," by radio, the Avenger pilot claimed the submarine captain's hat. This claim was evaluated and allowed.

"The escort carrier had not only stunned and dispersed the wolf pack, but no sub had approached the convoy closer than 18 miles."

The second strike killed resulted from a 28-minute fight between four of the Grumman Avengers and two Grumman Wildcat fighters cooperating with bombing and strafing attacks to destroy the sub and bring home part of its crew.

The navy called that final fight "a beautiful exhibition of timing, quick punching and coordination which destroyed the submarine and resulted in the capture of seventeen survivors by a U. S. destroyer."

"An Avenger pilot spotted the surfaced sub shortly after noon. Other Avengers and Wildcats quickly reached the scene. They dealt it a continuous series of bomb and strafing attacks. The U-boat tried to submerge, but an Avenger dropped a load of eggs so accurately that it was slow to the surface out of control."

"The hawk-like planes attacked with machine guns and more depth charges, a salvo of which landed squarely on the stricken sub. The U-boat blew up so violently that only 17 of her crew survived."

The navy explained that the little carriers are either ships converted from hulls of merchant vessels or else built from the keel up as carriers with merchant hulls.

They are being turned out in steadily increasing numbers.

Roosevelt Clamps . . .

not deciding who was right in the battle which flared into the open June 29 and grew hotter and hotter by the day.

The President, in letters to Wallace and Jones, said there wasn't time in the midst of war to find out "where the truth lies" in such matters. The important thing, he wrote, was to "clear the decks and to get on with the war at once."

A fresh start with new men, unencumbered by interagency dissension and bitterness.

Both principals accepted the President's rebuke without argument.

Wallace commented: "In wartime, no one should question the overall wisdom of the commander in chief."

Said Jones: "I concur most heartily in the President's determination to have harmony and cooperation. . . . The new director will find the affairs of all RFC agencies engaged in foreign purchases in excellent condition. . . . Functioning with a maximum of efficiency and at a minimum of expense."

Jones pledged cooperation to Crowley whom he described as the best qualified man for the job. Crowley himself had nothing to say except to accept the assignment.

Disagreements between Wallace and Jones over policy go back months though undercover until the Vice President issued a 28-page blast on June 29 in which he accused the white-thatched Texas banker of "obstructing" BWV. The next day, both were hailed to the White House where James R. Byrnes, presidential right-hand man, sought to make peace.

In a matter of hours, however, Wallace repeated in another statement that the RFC delayed the war effort though he tempered it by saying he never intended to question Jones' patriotism. Six-foot-two Jesse met the challenge, called Wallace's words "dastardly." Congress got interested but numerous moves for an inquiry died aborning.

Presidential sharpshooter pondered the President's sharply-worded rebuke, of Wallace for a hint about the 1944 situation. Some took the entire incident to mean that, should Mr. Roosevelt become the nominee for a fourth term, it was highly unlikely that Wallace again would be his running mate, though this was pure speculation.

In turning the economic warfare setup over to Crowley, the President singled out one of the capital's more anonymous officials.

Here since 1934 and a bachelor, Crowley is one of the most self-effacing figures in high position. Chairman and president of the Standard Gas and Electric Company, he accepts no salary from the government.

Issue Ultimatum . . .

combined forces of the United Nations—every drop of blood that you sacrifice—can serve only one purpose: to give the Fascist and Nazi leaders a little more time to escape from the inevitable consequences of their own crimes.

"The time has now come for you, the Italian people, to consult your own self respect and your own interests and your own desire for a restoration of national dignity, security and peace. The time has come for you to decide whether the Italians shall die for Mussolini and Hitler—or live for Italy and for civilization."

The White House called newspaper offices less than a half hour before making public the joint statement. Many reporters were routed out of bed to rush to the executive offices and handle it.

Asserting Mussolini had plunged the Italian people into a war which he thought "Hitler had already won," the President and Prime Minister said that at this moment the combined armed forces of the United States and Great Britain "are carrying the war deep into the territory of your country."

"This is the direct consequence," it continued, "of the shameful leadership to which you have been subjected by Mussolini and his Fascist regime."

It added that the Fascist leaders sent Italian ships, ships and air forces to distant battlefields to aid Germany in her attempt to conquer England, Russia and the world, in spite of Italy's great vulnerability to attack by air and sea.

"This association," the United Nations leaders told the Italian people, "with the designs of Nazi-controlled Germany was unworthy of Italy's ancient traditions of freedom and culture—traditions to which the people of America and Great Britain owe so much."

They said Italian soldiers have fought courageously, but have been betrayed and abandoned by the Germans on the Russian front and on every African battlefield from El Alamein to Cape Bon.

Allies Continue . . .

changed hands several times before the British got it securely in their control.

Continuation of the advance from Vizzini would quickly menace the towns of Militello and Scordia at the western entrance of the Catania plain. At Lentini the British already were fighting at the southern edge of that plain.

With the immediate prize of Catania, half way up the east coast, near at hand, the veterans of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were said by today's communique from Allied headquarters to have "made further progress against German troops who desperately contested every inch of the ground."

"The Rome radio, in a broadcast recorded in London, said 'the real and true decision for the island will be reached in a new battle which has already virtually started in the Catania plain.'"

"Severe losses were inflicted upon the enemy" by the American Seventh Army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., which "advanced several miles across difficult hill country and captured further important positions," the communique added.

Although the headquarters bulletin said the "speed of the advance is very satisfactory" it called attention to the limiting factor of Allied transport and supporting weapons at this stage of the operations.

In their latest action, Allied warships again shelled Catania, and a destroyer accounted for another enemy motor torpedo boat.

The 13 towns listed as captured by the communique included several already known to be in Allied hands. They were:

Canicattini Bangi. Comiso. Biscanicattini. Vizzini. Vittoria.

Niscemi. Campobello. Palma.

Montechiaro. Sortino. Modica and Riesi.

Canicattini, Niscemi, Gagli, Vittoria, Campobello and Palma Dei Montechiaro were captured in the American sector of the front.

The taking of Vizzini put the British astride the central highway connecting the Axis' eastern and western front. Vizzini is on the slopes of the Iblei mountains and about 25 miles west of Augusta.

Niscemi is only about nine miles from Caltagirone on the same highway and is southwest of Vizzini.

Canicattini is 15 miles northeast of Agrigento, on the extreme western flank and about 13 miles inland.

Vittoria is on the coastal railway and a few miles due west of Comiso, already reported captured.

Biscari is about six miles inland and east of Gela.

Campobello is to the rear of the American western front at Naro and Canicattini.

Sortino and Canicattini are on the eighth army front. Sortino is about 12 miles southwest of Augusta and Canicattini is about the same distance west of Syracuse.

The American seventh army, in fanning out over a deepening expanse of its long coastal strip, had captured 15,992 prisoners.

Russian . . .

Orel had penetrated 28 miles into the German line to within 18 miles of the Orel-Bryansk railway and the other column driving from the east had pushed ahead 15 miles on an 18-mile front to within 28 miles of the city.

In attacking the Orel sector, the Russians drove on one of the strongest defended positions behind the German lines.

Pravda, the Communist party organ, pointed out that the Nazis have spent a year and a half fortifying the area, which was used as the springboard for their seemingly short-lived 1943 offensive.

The break-through at Orel was interpreted by some foreign military observers in Moscow as the end of Hitler's last all-out attempt to defeat Russia.

They said there was no question the Germans had hurled the most of Wallace for a hint about the 1944 situation. Some took the entire incident to mean that, should Mr. Roosevelt become the nominee for a fourth term, it was highly unlikely that Wallace again would be his running mate, though this was pure speculation.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE DANGEROUS

We have all heard the statement that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Thomas Henry Huxley, the scientist whose ideas were so influential in the latter part of the nineteenth century, once wrote: "If a little knowledge is dangerous, where is the man who has so much as to be out of danger?"

The Bible makes it very plain that the reason why we should refrain from judging others is not because their actions are not worthy of judgment, but because we know too little to judge anybody. The next time you start to express wholesale condemnation on some person in public life or private, just stop a moment and ask yourself whether or not you actually know very much about the situation or person you are condemning. You may know quite a few facts, but do you know them all? Full justice is never accorded any man, nor is proper condemnation made, until every last fact is available and has been given thoughtful consideration.

And in the field of opinion as to what constitutes truth or error, we should certainly be reticent to speak. Many of the things people were perfectly sure about in the field of science fifty years ago have been repudiated by scientists today. It was this same Huxley who said also that it is the customary fate of new truths to begin as heresies and to end as superstitions.

WE NEED MORE LIKE HER

News from all the fighting fronts is encouraging for our side at this time, but yesterday's announcement that the Russians had taken the initiative and were hurling the Germans back was most welcome news. It's now or never for Hitler in Russia and his failure there now will hasten the day of his ultimate defeat. Despite what some of our people might think of Russia and its ideals, we must admit that at this time the country is proving a most important ally for the United Nations. We should be grateful for the part Russia is playing in the present struggle to save civilization.

A GOOD START

Now that Mr. Roosevelt has publicly chastised both Wallace and Jesse Jones and served notice on other officials that no more wrangling will be tolerated, maybe we can get along with the business of winning the war. No doubt there has been bungling in most every department in Washington in the handling of the war effort and such mistakes should be corrected and future mistakes eliminated as much as possible. Jealousy between departments and department heads should be relegated to the background in the interest of the more important job ahead of us. If Mr. Roosevelt will go still further and eliminate all the useless bureaus and departments in Washington maybe his job of keeping the loud-mouthed officials in line will be much easier. What the country needs and wants right now is more action and less squawking among those in authority.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — It won't mean anything so far as taxes are concerned for years to come, but it's considered certain on the Hill that wartime appropriations for the last two fiscal years hit the peak.

Starting with 1944, war appropriations probably will taper off sharply, even if the war still is raging, and may even do a crash dive if victory is in sight.

As a matter of fact, members of Congress, now returning home for the first long period in more than three years, probably will make a point of this. There has to be some answer to charges such as that hurled by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones in his tiff with Vice President Wallace. "Squandering the people's money, even in wartime, is no proof of patriotism."

Couple this with the declaration of Sen. Robert M. La Follette: "I do not hesitate to make the statement that if Congress refuses to appropriate another dollar, this war could be carried on for two years without any (further) action by Congress."

And that from Sen. Harry S. Truman.

man: "The Army and Navy know how to waste money better than any other organizations I ever have had anything to do with."

Wrap these statements up with that of Sen. Harry F. Byrd: "At the beginning of the 1943-44 fiscal year, there was more than $203,000,000 in the Treasury, appropriated for war purposes, but unexpended, and the war agencies of the government have authority to make further appropriations for nearly $25,000,000,000 more."

He pointed out that this staggering sum (only a book obligation, not cash on hand, understand) is exclusive of the vast amounts being expended by government corporations.

Emphasizing the fact that up to now Congress has almost without a whimper appropriated everything that the Army, Navy and other war agencies have asked for, Senator Byrd said: "It seems to me the time has come when closer scrutiny should be given the colossal appropriations now being made."

Add all this up and you begin to get the picture of things to come. Not yet has the United States been able to spend a hundred billion dollars a year for war purposes, yet appropriations and contract authorizations now enacted give us $228,000,000,000 to play with next year.

In the closing days of the Congressional session, there was plenty of evidence of rebellion against blanket appropriations. Army and Navy requests for funds did go through unscathed — but with some reluctance. Some other war agencies didn't do so well.

It's pretty freely predicted that once the boys get back to explaining billions to the constituents, it will be a different story and that from autumn on the Army, Navy and other agencies will have to spend what they have already, and spend it well, before they get more.

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 8

After leaving Fall, I could only think of Sam Taggard's daughter. Our facts about her were not too revealing. I was looking forward to meeting her. If she were a Gestapo agent, I would know.

The Taggard tin was certainly a mess and Sam Taggard, alive or dead, was still in the center of it. If he were dead, our main job still had to continue. His discovery had to be rediscovered and the missing maps found.

The other alternative was to send tin-hunting expeditions into all the mountains of the Latin Americas. I thought of Lila Taggard again. She must have gotten my name from the desk clerk. And she had also found out when I was in my room and when I was out. And Mirtilo had called upon her during the sleeta hour when people usually do not have visitors. It was then, only then, that she had called on me and asked me in English, not Spanish, where her father was. Strange actions. She suspected me of being a government man and yet she had brought Mirtilo and myself together. Why?

When I finally reached the hotel the manager nodded at me from his desk. "I have a letter for you, Senator Calder." He passed me an envelope.

Flopping down into a chair, I slit the envelope open. I first looked at the signature—Taggard. I read:

"Dear Mr. Calder,

"I called on you to thank you for your assistance. I will get in touch with you when I return.

"Yours truly,

"Lila Taggard."

I hauled myself out of the chair and walked to the elevator, rode up, unlocked my door and entered my room. I stretched out on the bed to get some rest.

When I woke up my room was dark and somebody was knocking on the door. I went to the dresser and picked up the 38.

"Who's there?" I said.

"Miss Taggard."

"One minute, please." I combed my hair back with my fingers, shoved the 38 into its holster under my left armpit. Then I slid into a loose sport jacket and opened the door.

"I'm sorry I was out when you called last night," I said.

She sat down. "I wanted to thank you for your assistance, Mr. Calder."

"That wasn't anything," I said.

Her lovely face was expressionless, I noticed.

It had to be a lovely face. A discovery as valuable as her father's would inevitably not only involve Gestapo intrigue and sabotage, but also at least one beautiful woman. I didn't trust this one at all. I was unmarried and unattached to anyone back in the States. Her presence in my room was disturbing.

"How about dinner, Miss Taggard?" I asked.

"I'd be happy to. I was a little worried about you last night."

"Worried?"

"I wanted to thank you after you left my room but as I opened the door I saw you turning down the stairs. I had the notion you were after Senator Mirtilo."

"No. I had an appointment I'd almost forgotten about."

"That makes me feel much better."

"It's not too personal, may I ask why?"

"It is personal."

Her brown eyes met mine and I remembered that the eyes of the murdered man were also brown; if it was Sam Taggard, I had a bombshell in my reserves. Her looks and sex would be no deterrent if I felt that a blitz a la Gestapo could gain information.

We stepped out into the corridor and she said, "I'll get my hat and pocketbook. Won't be a minute." In less than a minute she appeared, smiling, a tiny black hat perched on her hair.

"What do you do for a living, Miss Taggard?" I said at the elevator.

"Oh, nothing much. I have a place in Acapulco. I do water colors. I also copy some of the native patterns, introduce variations of my own and send the designs to department stores."

"A retired tourist, aren't you?"

"Not exactly. I sell some of my designs. Anyway, you can't call me a tourist. I've lived south of the Rio Grande most of my life. She preceded me into the elevator and I smiled at the back of her white neck, thinking that before this night was over I was going to shatter her innocent front. "Now if I were living in the States," she said, "I might be described as a tourist."

"I don't think you would be a tourist back in the State," I pressed the street level button. "You might be a WAC or working in a war plant."

"And you might be wearing a uniform."

I pulled the emergency brake. The elevator stopped between floors.

"Why did you do that?" she asked.

"MAN THE FLIT GUNS HERE THEY COME BOYS!"

FLIT has a wartime job helping our soldiers fight insect-enemies on many battlefronts.

"Let's drop this man meets girl innocence stuff. Let's talk sense!"

"You F. B. I. men are always strong on talking sense." She had retreated into a corner of the elevator, angry and shocked.

"I am not an F. B. I. man," I said. "Of course not. You're a mining engineer who spends his time advising women to work in defense plants. See here, Mr. Calder, I'm sick and tired of being hounded by the government."

"I am not an F. B. I. man," I insisted. She shook her head as if to say: "It's pointless lying to me."

"I followed your friend, Mirtilo yesterday," I said.

"You did." Her composure was a pale composure. "He's not a friend of mine."

"Why do you feel you're being hounded by the government? It's your government or have you forgotten like your father?"

DODGERS MAY GIVE MEDWICK HIS RELEASE

Team May Do Some House-Cleaning To Cut Down Rebellion Against Manager

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Bums rush is on in Brooklyn for fair and this time the heave-ho is about to go to Joseph Michael (Muscles) Medwick, the once celebrated outfielder whose usefulness to the Dodgers, like that of Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, apparently has come to an end.

When the ball club left New York last night for a three-weeks trip away from the stormy scene of insurrection at Ebbets Field, Medwick was left at home.

Although the maneuver was shrouded in mystery by club officials, no mirrors were needed to see behind the veil of Branch Rickey's house-cleaning.

Having moved to wipe out the rebellion against the manager, Leo Durocher, by trading Newsom to the St. Louis Browns for two antiquated pitchers, Fritz Ostermuller and Archie McKain, Rickey has 26 players on his roster, one over the limit, and was compelled to get rid of another man.

His choice of Medwick was connected only indirectly with the rebellion. Rickey had been trying to dispose of him ever since becoming president of the Dodgers last November. He didn't like the temperamental of the famous slugger, who never had batted less than .300 in 12 seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn and who had been the National League's batting champion and most valuable player in 1937.

Although he has come down a long way from his original asking price, Rickey's chances of making a deal from Medwick have faded with the player's performance this year. At present his batting average is .272 and he hasn't made a hit longer than a double.

The rebellion apparently caused Rickey to decide that this would be a good time to sweep off the stoop, but good.

Under baseball rules the Dodgers do not have to shave their roster until their acquisitions in the Newsom deal report. The deal provided Rickey with an opportunity to make one final effort at trading Medwick before it would be necessary to simply cut him loose with an outright release.

Last night Durocher simply announced that Medwick had been given "permission" to remain at home and that an explanation probably would be forthcoming today after the game with the Braves. Rickey's office said he would be out of town today.

In any case the Bums hit the headlines again at the same time they hit the road and their antics continued to provide a smoke-screen over the activities of other clubs, most of whom resumed play yesterday after the all-star game layoff.

The Dodgers, while idle, even gained half a game on the Cardinals, who were whipped 4-3 at Pittsburgh last night as Maurice Van Robays, just returned from a minor league whirl at Toronto, collected a double and two singles to lead a 14-hit attack on Max Lanier.

The Chicago Cubs bunched five runs in the third and three in the eighth to crush the Cincinnati Reds 8-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Hiram Bithorn. Bill Nicholson hit his 12th home run with two on in the eighth. The spree interrupted the winning parade of Elmer Riddle, who had won nine of his last ten games.

The Phillies pounded a 9-1 victory out of the New York Giants as Richard (Kewpie) Barrett pitched steady seven-hit ball. The only run against him was a homer by Buster Maynard.

In the American league Orval Grove attained his eighth triumph without defeat by pitching five-hit ball as the Chicago White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 7-4.

Washington whipped the Boston Red Sox 4-3 with Bob Johnson driving in three runs, two of them on a homer. Each team made five hits, but the Red Sox bunched theirs for three runs in the second before Alex Carasquel came in to pitch seven innings and get his tenth victory.

The St. Louis Browns stopped the

East End Defeats West Greenville

East End walked all over West Greenville yesterday morning at West Greenville, defeating them by the score of 19-5. East End made a rout of the game in the first inning by scoring 11 times. West Greenville never did get going until the last inning, when they scored their only runs.

Pease, L. Bland and Tommy Pace did all the hitting for the winners, with Nichols and Sellers leading for the losers.

The score: R H E
East End 11 06 000 2-19 8 3
W. Greenville 000 000 5-5 3 6

Training School got back into its winning ways yesterday at the High school when they shut out Third Street by the score of 8-0. This was the first defeat for Third St. in their last six starts. By virtue of this game, Training school now has a comfortable lead over the field for the first half of the season.

Chico Burton with three doubles led the hitting for the Trainers while Bobby Williams and Dave Jones were getting the losers four hits.

The score: R H E
Third St. 000 000 0-0 4 4

Third Streeters Lost To East End

East End won their second game in a row this morning when they defeated Third Street in a well played game by the score of 8 to 0. The game was tied up at six all until the sixth inning when East End rallied to score two runs and win the ball game. Neither team was able to do much hitting most of the scoring came by way of wildness on the part of the pitchers and good base running.

Bobby Flye, Jones and Pleasant were the only Third Streeters able

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 16—(AP)—A recent visitor of these precincts was Mrs. Ciolet Jean McClatchey, an attractive and very earnest young woman from Bartlesville, Okla., by way of South Orange, N. J., who stopped to put in a few good words for the common copper cent.

The reason that Mrs. McClatchey thinks so highly of cents is that when 200,000 women bowlers start contributing them, they mount up to a good many pretty pennies, and as chairman of the War Service committee of the Women's International Bowling Congress, Mrs. McClatchey wants to keep the pennies, nickles and dimes pouring in. She also is interested in giving her favorite sport full credit for its war contributions.

Last year the W. I. B. C. bought a bomber plane for the Air Forces, and "adopted" its crew, there by giving Capt. William Chum and Sgt. William Morehead something of an advantage over sailors who have only one girl in every port. "Miss W. I. B. C." already has been in action and recently returned to Dayton, Ohio, for a checkup.

The girls found they had some money left over, so they bought an ambulance which will be presented to the Army soon, probably at Columbus, Ohio. They're not setting any quotas for their contributions during the coming pin season, but they expect to pay for "one or more" ambulance planes at $80,000 each.

Impressive as these figures look, what really stirs Mrs. McClatchey's enthusiasm is the fact that a large part of the money comes from pennies dropped in the "kitty" for misses, splits, etc., during bowling matches. One of her favorite novelties is putting a yellow pin in each pit. "These all uniform apparently haven't stopped bowling, for several applications for league sanctions have been granted. "We think that writing letters is very important, too," Mrs. McClatchey adds. "I wrote to about 500 boys in service and sent them little gifts and make cookies for them. In fact, I think it is all very good work. If I didn't think so, I'd get a job on the production line where I could do more good."

Changing the subject as far as possible, the boys who came down from Buffalo for the all-star baseball game say that Sen. Jim Mead is really steamed up over his idea of having the Army and Navy play football in some metropolitan center where a lot of people would pay to see it. Wonder if he might be thinking of that big Buffalo stadium that never has been clear full? Branch Rickey says he crosses his bridges when he comes to them. If he runs into any more incidents like the Newsom-Durocher affair, Branch likely will be casting longing looks at the Brooklyn bridge — and wondering whether it would be quicker to walk or take the Fulton street car.

"Dear Mom" (Bill writes), "We had beans tonight and they tasted fine, because I knew you'd helped pay for them. It was swell of you to skip that new coat and buy a Bond instead. With you and me on the same team, we'll lick that Axis gang."

Grain Market

Chicago, July 16—(AP)—Selling of rye unsettled grains today, the market again having to contend with disappointed liquidation over the statement of Price Administrator Prentiss Brown that present ceilings on corn will be maintained. Rye was down more than a cent at times, but losses in wheat and oats were only fractional. Commission houses gave September wheat support at $1.44 1/2, steady the market. Crop reports were favorable and the quality of winter wheat now being harvested was reported as superior to that of last year, particularly with regard to moisture content. It is said one more good rain would carry the spring wheat crop in the northwest to maturity. At the close wheat was 1/4-1/2 lower, July $1.44 1/2, September $1.44 1/2, oats were off 1/4-1/2, July 70 1/2, and rye was down 1/4-1/2, July $1.07.

Prices Coming Down. Boston, July 16—(AP)—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown declared today that the OPA recently had started a downward trend in living costs for the first time and that it would battle to reduce the cost of living "until our objective is won."

"You have already seen reductions in the price of meats and butter and you will see other reductions in the near future," he told the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Fruit, cotton and tobacco are widely cultivated in Turkey.

land along the valley of the Bitol river toward Mubo's rear.

After Americans and Australians conquered southeastern New Guinea in mid-January by destroying a Japanese army of 15,000, Australians had moved through the jungle north more than 150 miles toward Salamaua. But they found the Japanese entrenched on Observation Hill, Green Hill, the Pimple and other Mubo strongpoints. From spring until the current offensive, it was a stalemate.

Today's communique from General MacArthur, who now is in the field in New Guinea in personal charge of the campaign, disclosed that the Americans who moved inland from Nassau Bay joined the Australians July 10 at Bulgap creek, cutting communications and isolating the Japanese on Observation and Green hills.

Observation hill was overrun after 106 tons of bombs fell among its demoralized defenders in less than 45 minutes from Allied planes. From front and rear, other enemy defenses at Mubo were stormed.

"Our ground forces have now cleared the Mubo area of all organized enemy resistance and are pressing on Komiatum (five miles from Salamaua)," the communique said.

"Approximately 950 enemy troops were destroyed. Our losses were light."

The sky fight over the central Solomons, where the Japanese have expended more than 260 planes since the current offensive started, found the Americans shooting down more planes than they had in the air tackling the 27 enemy bombers and their escort of between 50 and 60 Zivkows. The 45 downed, we lost three planes, and our Solomons losses to date are under 50.

The focal point of the Solomons drive, the Munda air base on New Georgia, was further menaced and isolated. Throwing off an enemy counterattack, United States troops moved through the jungles still nearer Munda's foxhole and log bunker defenses. Our artillery blew up four enemy guns near the air-drome yesterday.

the western Aleutian island had been bombed by American warships on July 6, 9, 11 and 14. Gertrude Cove has been the objective in four of those assaults. What the exact target is there is not disclosed. Speculation included the possibility that the Japanese had strongly defended the area and that American strategy might call for cracking defenses at that point preliminary to any invasion attempt. Other speculation included the possibility that it might be the scene of a radio locator station or some other piece of important operational equipment.

Along with the communique, the navy gave out a memorandum on announcements previously made in the south Pacific, covering the loss of the American destroyer, Gwin, a 1,630-ton vessel damaged in the second battle of Kula Gulf on July 13th, and which went down while being towed to an Allied base.

1,373,000 are single or childless married men.

On the other hand, it was said, only unexpected developments can continue immunity for fathers throughout a prolonged war because

More than half the total of 22,184,000 draft registrants 18 through 37 either have entered the armed forces already or have been rejected as unqualified.

The armed forces already have a strength of 3,300,000 men and women and, though casualties thus far have been considerably below the allowance made for them in military plans, the officially projected size of the armed forces is 10,800,000 by the end of this year and 11,300,000 by the middle of next year, largely as the result of naval expansion.

justify his existence by giving the people an opportunity for a referendum that is as important in American history as 1776 or 1863.

"No two men in American life today could give the people an opportunity for a referendum on the issue of nationalism versus internationalism X X X like Col McCormick and Wendell Willkie."

Willkie said that if McCormick is a primary candidate, he would stump Illinois thoroughly, walking from town to town, if necessary, to spread his doctrine.

City Of Naples ...

The Allies' famous one-two punch delivered by four waves of American Flying Fortresses in daylight and by the RAF's sturdy Wellingtons at night, was employed to give Naples a tremendous battering.

The 24-hour bombardment was described here as comparable to the previous day's "annihilation" attack on Messina, gateway to the Italian mainland, which literally destroyed an area two miles long and one mile wide.

Aerial photographs showed that an ammunition train had exploded in the Messina port area. Docks, warehouses and locomotive sheds still were seen burning furiously on the neck of land that sticks out within three miles of the Italian peninsula.

"You get the impression that the whole of Sicily is slowly burning up," said a crewman of an American medium bomber, one of hundreds that swept the island from dawn to dusk. "Targets are becoming scarier by the hour."

It was officially announced that enemy aircraft resistance was decreasing by the hour. "Very few enemy aircraft were seen during the day and few attempted to fight, although our fighters and bombers flew back and forth at will, strafing transport and communications," an announcement said.

Besides the Royal arsenal and torpedo factory at Naples, direct hits were reported on depots, storage buildings, a roundhouse and on a railroad overpass in an area mushrooming with fires and explosions. The last two waves of Fortresses were unable to observe results because of smoke. Four of 23 enemy interceptors were shot down by the unescorted Fortresses.

A British communique offered scant details of the long flight made by its four-engined Lancasters to hit northern Italy, saying merely that electric transformer and switching stations were attacked. The purpose of the raid apparently was to upset communications between the northern Italian industrial areas and the invaded southern region.

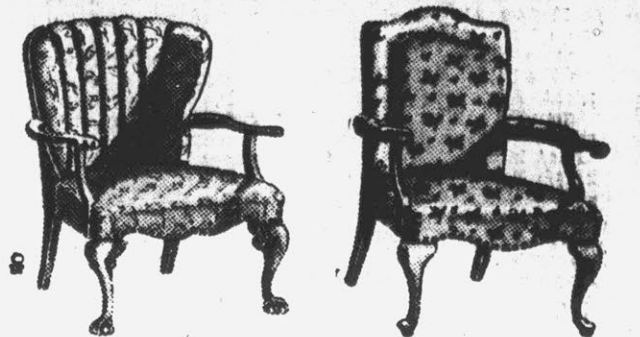

(An Italian communique reported that Naples, Foggia and Genoa were raided by Allied planes. As there was no mention of an attack on Genoa in Allied dispatches, it was possible that the Lancasters dropped their bombs on or near that northern city. The Italians said their fighters shot down four four-engined Allied planes over Naples.)
