Allies Continuing Steady Gains On Sicilian Fronts

Germans Being Rolled Back in Bitter Fighting; Warships and Planes Hail of Explosives on Retreating Enemy; 500 Germans Captured

By RELMAN MORIN
Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Allied ground forces made progress everywhere along the front in Sicily, Allied headquarters announced today, as heavy warship units rained torrents of shells on the enemy's exposed coastal positions.

Announcing that American daubers captured 1,500 German prisoners in landing behind the lines near Cape Orlando Sunday night—a feat which resulted in the fall of the enemy's northern coastal anchor positions—San Fratello and San Agata—naval communiques said heavy U. S. warships continued to batter a way for the seventh army. British destroyers shelled the coastal road and railway at Riposto, north of Acireale and nine miles south of Taormina on the east coast, after blasting at similar targets at Taormina.

The progress of the troops, spearheading toward the Messina tip, was officially described as "slow and steady" with the enemy resorting to "every device to hold up the relentless advance of our forces."

However, the Germans' position "daily becomes more difficult," the communique said, despite heavy demolitions, rugged ground and lack of roads which interfered with swift advance movements. The British Eighth Army was described as making considerable progress in "closing around Mt. Etna," advancing up the central shaft between that giant landmark and the sea, and pushing on beyond Bronte on the road west of the mountain toward Randazzo. The British were reported less than seven miles from Randazzo, communications hub of the enemy's position.

Flanking patrols of the British and Americans were said to have closed the gap between the two armies in that sector where the Americans had pushed past Casaro to within 10 miles of Randazzo.

The American raiding party which landed in the Germans' rear at Torretta, just west of Casaro, has succeeded in cutting communications between the enemy's headquarters and its forces.

Mule Brings Dead Man From Woods

Doremus H. Haddock, tenant on Key Brown's farm east of Greenville, died of a heart attack while hauling wood from lowgrounds to a tobacco barn, yesterday afternoon. He was stricken in the woods while sitting in the back of a cart, with his legs dangling from the rear. Haddock had been dead some hours when the mule and cart (borrowed from a neighbor) came out of the woods, carrying the body, passed the barn where the animal is stabled and headed toward a group of persons working in tobacco, who discovered the body.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be in the Mack Smith cemetery near Chicod school.

Mr. Haddock is survived by his wife Mrs. Lucy Haddock; four sons, Robert Lee of Greenville, R. D.; Joshua, U. S. N., stationed at Little Creek, Va.; David, U. S. N., stationed at Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Joseph of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Hannah of Greenville, Route 5; Miss Clara Belle Haddock and Mrs. Lonnie Brown, of the home; two brothers, Joe Haddock of near Ayden and Heber Haddock of Beaufort county; and a sister, Mrs. Monk Mills of Blackjack.

Wallace To Keep Hands Off Production Program

Washington, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Vice President Wallace, disclaiming reports that he may be called on by President Roosevelt to assume general control over agricultural production, pricing and rationing, declared today he intends to keep hands off price and food administration problems.

"There is nothing to those reports," Wallace told an interviewer. He referred to a statement published recently by Spade, a magazine circulated among Agricultural Adjustment Administration (AAA) county committeemen, that the vice president was the "biggest bet" to head a possible new production-price-rationing setup to supersede the office of Price Administration (OPA) and the War Food Administration (WFA).

FATHER DRAFT IS UNCERTAIN

Senator May Will Seek to Block Further Inductions

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military Committee announced today that he would introduce on September 14, the day congress returns from its summer recess, legislation to prohibit the induction of fathers.

Moreover, May said the bill might provide for the discharge of fathers already in the army, regardless of whether their children were born before or after Pearl Harbor. May told newspaper men that the army now has approximately 10,000 men, and "I think congress might determine the army is big enough, with the 80,000 18-year-old youths they are getting each month."

Trouble Brewing In The Balkans

ISTANBUL, Aug. 9.—(Delayed)—(A. P.)—Rising political tension in Bulgaria and Hungary was reported from Balkans today, with the situation in Bulgaria apparently the more critical.

Throughout yesterday there was feverish political activity in Sofia, the reports said, as a large number of opposition deputies under the presidency of the opposition leader, former Premier Nicholas Moushanoff.

The meeting reportedly adjourned after passing a resolution to send a deputation to King Boris informing him that something must be done quickly to save the nation from catastrophe.

In Hungary, student peace riots Saturday night reportedly precipitated a special cabinet meeting. Some of the ministers, led by the Minister of Finance, were said to have demanded severe measures against the students while a second group recommended that the cabinet resign.

Wallace, who was Secretary of Agriculture before he was elected vice president in 1940, declined to discuss next year's political outlook or to elaborate on his recent public espousal of an economy of plentiful production in the postwar period.

He disclosed that the plans to speak in Chicago Sept. 11 at a rally which will be one of several staged by supporters of the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution for international postwar collaboration.

Wallace said he had been impressed on his recent trip to Detroit and to Iowa with the "good job" that is being done by workers and farmers to produce war goods, often against great difficulties.

RAF BOMBERS LOOSE ATTACK ON NAZI CITIES

Armament Plants at Mannheim and Ludwigshafen Blasted Last Night

London, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Big formations of the RAF's heavy bombers blasted Mannheim and Ludwigshafen last night while speedy Mosquitos attacked targets in the industrial Ruhr valley, the Air Ministry announced today.

Nine bombers were lost during the night's operations, in the course of which RAF fighters attacked enemy airfields and railways in France and the low countries, shooting down two enemy aircraft a communique said.

Large fires were reported set in Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, twin towns situated on opposite banks of the Rhine near its junction with the Neckar, 43 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

Together the two towns form an important armament center. Great factories there turn out tanks and motor vehicles. The towns, which have a combined population of about 350,000 in normal times, represent the second largest inland port in Europe.

Last night's attack was the 57th raid on the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen area, which was last hit on April 16.

It was the first time the RAF's heavy bombers had been over Germany since the night of August 2, when they made their last night attack on Hamburg.

Fighter planes which participated in sweeps over western Europe last night attacked the German airfield at St. Didier in France and shot up railway targets near Abbeville, the Air Ministry news service reported.

Britain, meanwhile, enjoyed another raid free night. The number of planes which participated in the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen raid was not immediately disclosed, the Air Ministry merely describing the attack as heavy. Residents on the British east coast, however, reported that great formations of planes were seen heading eastward across the English channel just before midnight and said the moonlit sky "seemed full of them."

Preceding the night raids British fighters carried out patrols over northern France last evening, shooting down seven enemy aircraft in dogfights. Three of the British planes failed to return from these sweeps.

DVB, German news agency in a broadcast from Berlin recorded by the Associated Press, said that the RAF raid on Mannheim caused "considerable damage" and that the "population suffered loss." The broadcast added the claim that 13 planes were shot down.

Washington, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—The Agriculture Department today forecast the corn crop at 2,874,111,000 bushels and wheat production at 834,894,000 bushels, based on August 1 conditions.

The corn crop was forecast a month ago at 2,706,552,000 bushels. Production was 3,175,154,000 last year, and the 10-year, 1932-41, average production was 2,349,267,000 bushels.

Wheat productions was forecast a month ago at 790,323,000 bushels. The crop last year was 981,327,000 bushels, and the ten-year average production was 738,412,000 bushels. The winter wheat crop is placed at 533,857,000 bushels, compared with 519,190,000 bushels forecast a month ago. 703,253,000 produced last year, and then ten-year average production of 550,181,000 bushels.

The bombers struck Saturday at Thazi dam, reporting hits "close to the target."

All of the bombers returned safely.

RED OFFENSIVE AGAINST NAZIS GAINING SPEED

Russian Army Threatens 'Stalingrad Trap' of Huge German Forces at Kharkov; Other Columns Drive Toward Bryansk and Smolensk

Moscow, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The fast rolling Soviet offensive mounted speed today as Russian troops surpassed the westernmost point reached during last winter's campaign and hammered forward along a wide front reaching to within 12 miles of Kharkov.

While one column was within 12 miles of Kharkov on the north another was 30 miles west of the city, a third was 20 miles away and a fourth was driving south after crossing the western bank of the northern Donets and was within 25 miles of the big Ukrainian center.

(The Berlin radio reported heavy fighting in the Kharkov area and also said the Russians had launched an offensive to the north in the direction of Smolensk.)

The Soviet forces also were stepping up attacks on the Poles.

SAY ITALY TO STAY IN WAR

Germans Confident Badoglio Will Not Surrender

Madrid, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Dispatches of Spanish correspondents in Berlin to Madrid's morning newspapers today mirrored expressions of German official confidence that Italy would continue in the war with the help of German reinforcements and that Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio had abandoned hope of peace with the allies.

"The weight of German arms," said the Arriba correspondent in Berlin, "has outweighed the mistaken will of home quarters inclined to cede to enemy pressure."

Although there still was no communique concerning the reported conference between German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Baron Raffaele Guariglia, foreign minister in the Badoglio cabinet, Spanish correspondents reached the same conclusion, based on what Nazis told them and "optimism" which they reported had spread through official Berlin.

In the two weeks since Mussolini's fall, according to Italian reports, the Germans have quietly and carefully moved sufficient troops into the Po and Trieste regions to seize that sector if necessary.

About the time that Badoglio apparently was convinced that his choice was what the Italian press called "dishonorable surrender," or continuation of the war at Germany's side, von Ribbentrop had the guns to back his words.

He was represented as able to warn Badoglio that the Italian marshal now could not surrender all of Italy since the Germans had the (Continued on Page Six)

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
A west coast reader has written to me to ask for referring to the Japanese as "barbarians" and "savages."

He says (1) that these terms are unsuitable, and (2) that they are unworthy of this columnist. Having lived among the Japs for 43 years, he has found them cultured, courteous and democratic. They will return to democracy when they get out from under the military dictatorship now hold them down.

Well, I hasten to admit that it isn't good form to lose opportunity about loosely. Obviously, too, 73,000,000 Japanese can't all be bad. Further, a news analyst isn't permitted to have any emotions when he is writing.

I still feel, however, that the vast majority of the Japanese are savages at heart. It's easy enough to teach a savage to use a knife and fork, but that doesn't change his instincts.

I have before me a dispatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent with United States troops on New Guinea Island out in the Pacific. He records a report made by Lieut. Nicholas T. Kiebert about the manner in which Jap soldiers bayoneted helpless wounded Yankee soldiers to death. In one instance five of the savages "popped a wounded man again and a tree and took turns bayoneting

Lieut. Vernon Tyson Tells of Fighting In Africa

By WYATT BROWN
North Africa, Pantelleria and Sicily have been the theaters in which Lt. Vernon Tyson has been operating his pursuit planes as a member of the American Air Force according to his recounting of his experiences last night at the Greenville Rotary club. Two planes have been shot out from under him according to Reverend George W. Perry in his introduction of Lt. Tyson. Lt. Tyson told partially of one of his missions in Africa.

His next stop was Cairo where he took in the Pyramids and the obelisks. Then he went to train in the desert. "It was hot as blazes in the day and cold as — at night," he declared. At night he said they used six blankets if they could get them.

Drop 224 Tons of Explosives Without Interference from Enemy Planes

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Allied bombers ranged the whole length of the Southwest Pacific battle area yesterday, dropping 224 tons of bombs on four Japanese strongholds—Vila, Salamaua, Bairoko and Ambonia.

There was no attempt at interception by enemy planes.

The heaviest bombloads were released on Salamaua and Vila, presumably the next major objectives of a two-pronged thrust directed at the great enemy base of Rabaul, New Britain.

Successful flights of Liberators roared over Salamaua, dropping 103 tons of bombs in 40 minutes. Damage was heavy, a headquarters communique said.

Liberators teamed with medium bombers, under a fighter cover of Wildcats, in two attacks on Vila airfield, dropping 63 tons of bombs and setting large fires. It was the heaviest bombing attack yet made on the Koolmbana island airfield, one of the enemy's few remaining strongpoints in the central Solomons.

Across Kula gulf, torpedo and dive bombers smashed 22 tons of bombs upon much-battered Bairoko harbor, 10 miles north of Munda. Results were not reported.

Two thousand miles westward, Liberators' bombers in strength, the communique said, carried out a night assault on Ambonia, the former Dutch naval base on the island of that name.

Heavy rain on New Georgia hampered ground forces advancing northward from Munda toward Bairoko.

Ground activity in the Salamaua sector was limited to patrolling and harassing artillery fire, the communique said.

Favors Ballot For Teen-Agers

Portland, Me., Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Rep. Robert Hale (R-Me.) gave his support today to the movement to lower the voting age to 18 years.

"I favor extending the franchise to all persons over 15 years of age," said Hale in response to a press query. "If a person is old enough to fight for his country, he is old enough to vote."

Georgia recently lowered the age to 18 years and Sen. Van Nuys (D-Calif.) predicted that action would spur congressional action.

BRITISH URGE ROME BOMBING

Press Says More Pressure on Italians Needed

London, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A demand that Rome be bombed again was sounded in the British press today as the Sicilian campaign moved rapidly toward a climax with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government showing no sign of heeding Allied surrender demands.

Urging a repetition of the July 19 bombing of Rome, the London Daily Express declared that "we should remind a million Italians in their capital that their need to force a decision from Badoglio is still more pressing than ours."

This expression of opinion coincided with a Rome broadcast indicating that, for the moment at least, Badoglio had no intention of cutting his ties with Adolf Hitler.

Group Discusses Post-war Plans

Washington, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—President Roosevelt arranged a conference today with his State Department advisers on post-war planning, headed by Secretary of State Hull.

The others attending were Undersecretary of State Welles, Chairman Norman Davis of the Red Cross, Dr. Isaiah Bowman of Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Leo Pasovolsky, special assistant secretary of state in charge of post-war planning.

Dr. Bowman, vice president of the National Academy of Sciences, was chief American territorial specialist at the Paris peace conference in 1919, while Pasovolsky is specialist in post-war planning.

Another caller at the White House was Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) who said he told the President of his observations on a tour of the country discussing a pending Senate resolution for international cooperation after the war.

Bringing More Pressure To Change Leaf Ceiling

A South Carolina delegation, headed by Senator Burnt R. Maybank, and Governor Olin D. Johnston has appealed to the office of Price Administration (OPA) and President Roosevelt, respectively, to eliminate the OPA's $41 ceiling price of blue-cured tobacco, thus permitting growers to "sell tobacco on the open market without a ceiling price."

Joining in support of Governor Johnston and the South Carolina delegation was North Carolina's Governor J. M. Broughton who wired his protest against the ceiling Credit Corporation President J. B. Hutson.

Senator Maybank said the South Carolina ceiling should be at least 45 cents per pound. The OPA's present ceiling price of 41 cents is based on average prices in the blue-cured belt ranging from Virginia to Georgia.

He said the 41 cent level was inequitable to South Carolina since tobacco sold in his state is graded and tied whereas in Georgia it is sold ungraded and untied.

To Confer with President Roosevelt and Combined British and United States Staffs; Chief Executive Announces Russia Not to Take Part in Conferences

Quebec, Canada, Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Prime Minister Churchill has arrived in Canada and expects to hold shortly his sixth conference with President Roosevelt.

The Prime Minister's arrival was announced here late today and shortly afterward Mr. Roosevelt told his press-radio conference in Washington he expected to confer with the Prime Minister and that conferences would be held between American and British military staffs.

Mr. Roosevelt said there would be no Russian participation in the new conferences, although he said this did not mean that he would not be awfully glad to have the Russians present. This was in response to a question whether Russia would be represented.

The Chief Executive told reporters he had just received a telephone message from Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada announcing Mr. Churchill's arrival in Canada, with members of his staff.

The President then said the reporters could assume that he would probably see the Prime Minister and also there would be a staff meeting. The time and place and other details for this joint meeting will have to come later, the President said.

Asked about continuing reports that the United Nations should open a second front in Europe and whether it was not a third front that remains to be opened, the President smiled and told his questioners that he talked with a communist. He asked that the reporter never had been a communist and let it go at that.

Mr. Roosevelt in discussing the forthcoming meeting also was asked about reports from Madrid that Hitler had been supplanted in Germany by a military junta.

The President said he had no information on that beyond what he had seen in the newspapers, nor had Secretary of State Hull up to 12:30 p. m. eastern war time, today.

Commenting on a noon conference he had with a group of diplomatic and special advisors, the President said it represented a continuation of post-war planning.

Mr. Churchill's arrival in Quebec coincided with United Nations' victories in the Mediterranean, Russia and the South Pacific.

He was accompanied by a top (Continued on Page Three)

Merchants Body Holds Meeting

Directors of Greenville Merchants Association last night enjoyed a barbecued chicken dinner, received the resignation of the association's president, Charles B. Bissette, who will leave this week to join the armed forces, and discussed plans for the all-member banquet to be held in October.

The dinner and meeting were held on the lawn at the home of John B. Webb, vice president of the association with Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary, as hostess.

In addition to routine business, a committee was appointed to procure a speaker and make plans for the all-member banquet to be held either the second or third Tuesday night in October. Following the secretary's reading of the resignation of President Bissette, C. R. McBrayer, in a brief talk, expressed appreciation for the interest Mr. Bissette had taken in the association's affairs and in the community in general and, in behalf of the membership, wished him God speed and an early, safe return to civilian life.

Governor Johnston's direct appeal to the president followed telegrams by the governor, congressmen and tobacco growers to Washington officials. The governor told the president that if he could not eliminate the ceiling entirely for South Carolina, he would suggest a (Continued on Page Four)

August 10, 1903

No Bitter Liquor Campaign
It is probable that at no distant date Greenville will be confronted by the question "dispensary or no dispensary?" It is one of the problems of civilization to which we of this generation fall heir, and one that we must solve some way or other.

The position of The Reflector on the liquor question has been well known for more than 21 years. We are against whiskey in any shape or form, and have opposed it all our lives. But we don't think we have any special license from heaven to force the balance of creation to think as we do. We have our opinions and we advocate them freely and fairly.

The point we wish to make is that a rabid, bitter, whiskey campaign in a small town or city is an evil only of lesser magnitude than whiskey itself. There will be no such campaign in Greenville indulged in by The Reflector.

Boy Scout Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Greenville District, Boy Scouts of America, at Hooker and Buchanan's office next Monday night at 8:30 J. A. Gaskin of Wilson, executive for East Carolina Council, will attend.

Lecture On Greek Art.
Included in the illustrations for the "Greek Art in America" lecture to be presented at the Art Center tonight are a wide range of objects made by ancient Greek artisans and artists—from engraved bronze dagger blades dating as far back as 1700 B.C. on through rings, vases, mirrors, statuettes, perfume vases, pottery, made in various periods of Greek history, on up to examples of statues representative of the golden age of Greek art—life-size bronzes and marbles.

With a script written by Gisela M. A. Richter, for the American Federation of Arts, this lecture gives a most interesting quick view of the life of ancient Greece as it has been preserved by this country's artists. Illustrations were made from pieces which are in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and smaller collections in Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City, Buffalo, and other American cities. This is the last of the summer series of illustrated lectures presented this year by the Art Center, and the public is cordially invited to attend. It will be presented, as the others have been, in the auditorium of Sheppard Memorial Library. The hour is 8 p. m.

flight array of his military advisers he will consult with President Roosevelt after a series of conferences with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

The prime minister was accompanied by Lord Leathers, the minister of war transport for the United Kingdom, and the British chiefs of war transport for the United Kingdom, and the British chiefs of staff.

Prime Minister Churchill was also accompanied by Mrs. Churchill and his daughter Subaltern Mary Churchill of the auxiliary territorial service.

Wing Commander G. P. Gibson who led the air squadron which successfully attacked the Moehe and Eder dams also travelled with Churchill's party.

The members of the Prime Minister's personal staff included Lord Moran, president of the Royal College of Physicians; General Sir Hastings Ismay, Churchill's personal military adviser; Mr. J. M. Martin, principal private secretary; T. L. Dawson, private secretary; and Commander C. R. Thompson, Royal Navy, personal assistant.

The subject matter of the war strategy meetings here as well as the decisions reached naturally will remain the greatest of secrets until they are impressed forcibly on the ears by the mounting power of Allied arms.

Our soldiers are sure glad to get FLIT—and all our other super-slaying insecticides. They're real weapons of war on many insect-infested battlefronts.

Lewis Before WLB

With a trace of rancor, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers chief, appeared in Washington before the War Labor Board he had long defied and ignored. Addressing the WLB, he said, among other things, that American miners "are the only mine workers in any civilized country who do not receive compensation for travel time at each end of the shift."

Allies Continue . . .

the main body of Lieut. Gen. Charles A. Patton Jr.'s seventh army, it was stated.

Meanwhile the allied air fleets were declared to have enjoyed "absolute air supremacy yesterday, not only over Sicily, and the Messina Italy."

Both the strategic and tactical air forces concentrated on bombing and strafing the enemy along his avenues of escape.

Flying fortresses paced the allied air smashes with heavy wallows at the Messina outlet, cascades of explosives on that bottleneck where virtually all enemy motor transport from base to front must pass.

For the fifth straight night RAF and Canadian Wellingtons attacked landing craft on the Messina beach-bomber coastal installations and caused a large explosion and fires at Paradiso.

The narrow enemy roads of the Sicilian bridgehead were raked by relays of American fighters and bombers attacking at windshield height. They destroyed 16 vehicles and damaged more than 20 in roaring attacks in the Barcellona area east of Cape Orlando where the Germans were preparing to make a new stand against the Americans.

Barcellona is 23 miles east of Cape Orlando and only 17 miles from Messina.

Fighter-bombers also maintained their savage raids on the Randazzo area where they piled wreckage upon wreckage in an effort to block that filter point for enemy transport.

The only place identified in new forward movements of the allied troops was Fedara, a town on the slopes of Mt. Etna which was taken by the British.

The position of a considerable force of German troops fighting a hard rearguard action against the Americans between Bronte and Cassar was not known, but it was possible that these Nazis had been trapped by the junction of British and American patrols.

This joining of forces appeared to have closed the top of a rectangular scotch unless the Germans were able to race through a narrow escape lane at the last moment.

Lions Have Program Of Music And Song

Music and song featured last night's weekly supper meeting of the Greenville Lions club. Miss Jean Abeyounis, talented young singer, well known for her outstanding performance in the presentation of the opera "Martha" at the college some months ago, sang "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier." James Ray Pittman and Miss Abeyounis sang "Moonlight and Roses." Miss Mary Belle Robertson was accompanist. President Godfrey Oakley presided.

The remainder of the program consisted of feasting and fellowship and some "old-time barber shop harmony" by the Greenville Harmony Club, comprised of "Tige" Gardner, James Ray Pittman, Bill Lee and Aubrey Tilley.

Larry Averett won the attendance prize. Lieut. Alf Hodges and George Thompson were guests.

Fatal Gift
Golden, Colo., Aug. 10—(AP)—A toy wagon, a gift for her first birthday, costed tiny Glenda Moore to her death in an irrigation ditch two miles east of here on her first ride.

The horror-stricken mother, Mrs. Howard G. Moore, saw the wagon with Glenda rolling toward the ditch, but could not overtake it.

Casualty List
Washington, Aug. 10—(AP)—The navy announced today 63 casualties, including 12 dead, 6 wounded and 45 missing.

This brings to 28,178 the total of navy marine corps and coast guard casualties reported to next of kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total includes 1,015 dead, 4,970 wounded, 10,040 missing and 4,153 prisoners of war.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL I. NOTGLAS

THE TRASH CAN HELPS
A young man was to report at work at 8 o'clock on a certain morning. He had wanted this job for a long time and now his chance was at hand. He awoke that morning with the sun shining in his eyes and looking at the clock saw to his horror that it was a bit after ten. The alarm, although pretty set, had failed to go off.

"This is a foul way to start a new job," he was saying to his employer a half hour later. "But I can promise you, if you'll let me start work that I will never happen again." "How am I to know that the alarm clock won't behave the same way tomorrow morning?" asked the boss. "Because," replied the young fellow, "I'm getting a new one. I chucked that one in the trash can as I came downstairs this morning." "O. K.," said the boss. "If you're starting out that way, I'll give you a chance."

A new start of any variety means a clean break with the past. It means closing the door on what one has been accustomed to, turning resolutely and walking in another direction. It seems throwing into the trash can the things in which we formerly put our trust and which failed us in the hour of need.

Many people believe in oiling up the old alarm clock, giving it a little shake and hoping it will do all right the next time.

Whether one is dealing with defective alarm clocks, evil companions, or some bad habit which has fastened itself upon his character, the thing most needed is decisive action. Chuck such things and persons into the trash can where they belong and start out with new resolution and assurance.

THERE IS A WAY

Tobacco growers in the flue-cured belts that grade and tie their tobacco are justified in their demands that the ceiling price be raised enough to take care of the additional expense of marketing the crop under this method. Under the present set-up tobacco in the Georgia belt, sold ungraded and untied, is governed by the same price ceiling as the other belts that grade and tie. Unless efforts to get the ceiling changed are successful the only alternative for our section is to begin to market the crop ungraded and untied, thereby eliminating the extra handling expense for the farmers.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Thursday is semi-annual Dollar Day in Greenville, which means that shoppers of this section will again have the opportunity to buy merchandise at bargain prices. This is a fine opportunity for our people to save money on their purchases and place the difference in war bonds or stamps. By shopping in Greenville Thursday of this week you can make your money serve a two-fold purpose.

A GOOD IDEA

British newspapers today suggest that another bombing of Rome might bring home more quickly to the Italians that their best and only way to get out of the war without their country being completely destroyed is unconditional surrender now. Distasteful as it may be for the Allies to bomb Rome, it is worth it, if by this method Italy can be removed from the war more quickly, thereby saving lives that might necessarily be lost if surrender is delayed.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK SHINNERTY

"During Jack Shinnerty's vacation, his column is being conducted by members of the Washington staff of The Associated Press. Today's column is by Alexander R. George, AP Features Writer."

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington—Allied bombing may not yet have cracked the morale of the German people, but conservative observers believe the nerves of thousands of people in off-shattered cities of the Reich are nearing the "cracking" stage.

In the last year of World War I, when Allied planes were making relatively puny attacks on some cities, the Germans put out "feelers" for an agreement between the belligerents which would limit bombing operations.

In February, 1918, the Spanish ambassador to London told the British foreign secretary that the king of Spain had been in communication with the German government with the object of getting some check placed "on the bombing of undefended towns."

In March of that year, the Reich stag requested the German high command to present measures looking to an agreement with regard to air raids. The British government then took the position that such an agreement would be only to give an advantage to the enemy.

In June of this year it was the Spanish government again which proposed to "humanize" air bombing. It was suggested that belligerents declare zones of "total bombardment," zones of partial objectives and "non-bombardable zones" to be under the supervision of a committee of neutrals.

A few days later Winston Churchill said: "Nothing will turn us from our endeavor to accomplish the complete destruction of our foes by bombing from the air in addition to all other methods."

And U. S. Air Chief General Henry Arnold said: "We are going to end the war and end it soon by bombing military objectives consistently. Axis morale is already beginning to crack."

Major Grosskreutz, writing in the German military publication Die Luftwacht in October, 1928, said that the reason for the Reichstag's air-raid limiting proposal in 1918 was that "the severe moral shock to the population of towns in western Germany subjected to enemy air raids called for effective and speedy measures."

The weight of bombs dropped on Germany during all of World War I was estimated at about 1,600 tons. This summer in a single 45-minute raid on Duisburg, the RAF dropped 170 tons of explosives. And in recent one-night blasting of Hamburg the bomb tonnage was estimated at 2,600.

Hunger and war weariness in 1918 had made the nerves of the German people "acutely sensitive." Observers say the German people now are probably not as hungry as in 1918 but they are probably as weary.

And it was Nazi morale builder Goebbels himself who, in September, 1942, instructed his editors: "The German people are more sensitive than the British. Enemy air attacks on German cities will, in forthcoming months, create a most decisive problem in internal politics."

The WAR TODAY

The Japanese have savage instincts despite their veneer of civilization. I'm one of those who believe that human nature can be changed. On that basis the nature of the Nipponese can be changed—in the course of generations.

Meantime it's vital that we recognize what sort of people we are up against. We have a bitter job to do and that is to render them so utterly impotent in the military sense that they won't in a hundred years be able to arm themselves against us.

And when this war is over, we shall have fought in vain if such criminals as Hirohito and Tojo and Hitler and Mussolini and their cohorts, aren't brought to book for their sins. We said this during the last war, too. There was a lot of talk about punishment of war guilt—hanging the Kaiser, and that sort of thing—but in the end nobody had the guts to do anything about it.

Even now some say that terrific international scandals will be exposed if the big war criminals are placed on trial. Others claim that such trials will establish precedents which might be turned against one of the Allied nations if it happened to be defeated in a subsequent war. Still, the allied chiefs have promised that the guilty shall suffer after this war, and all signs are that they intend to carry this out.

Bringing More . . .

ceiling of $48 per hundred pounds. He added that "South Carolina growers cannot compete with Georgia growers" because of the loss through grading and tying.

Governor Broughton in his message to the OPA and Hixon asserted that grading boosted the worth of tobacco at least five cents per pound.

Meanwhile, Florida warehousemen and buyers yesterday decided to end the 1943 auction season at Live Oak following Friday's sale. A total of 306,310 pounds of leaf was moved there yesterday, averaging 41.92 cents per pound. A total of 122,520 pounds were sold during the same time at Lake City for an average of 38.70 cents per pound.

Sales were light in volume on the Georgia flue-cured markets, most of them selling out by mid-day, the war food administration said.

In comparison with last Friday, prices for most grades were steady to slightly higher, nondescript grades showing the greatest increases—ranging from three to four cents per pound higher.

Bulk of the offerings was composed of common to fair leaf, low to good lugs, and nondescript grades.

Wilson, N. C. Aug. 10—(A. P.)—J. E. Winslow of Greenville, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, issued a call today for a meeting to be held here tomorrow night to discuss efforts to get a higher ceiling on tobacco prices.

Winslow said producers in this state were entitled to a better price because of their practice of selling their tobacco graded and tied when as in Georgia, where the same 41-cent ceiling is now in effect, the tobacco is sold loose.

The peanut crop and cotton program for next year will also be discussed, Winslow announced.

Raleigh, N. C. Aug. 10—(A. P.)—Further light sales were expected on the state's border belt flue-cured tobacco on the floors at sales time to keep the auctions going for half

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 29
Johnson was grinning. "The newspaper, I dream of 'em. We can run an item in the Personal Column, couldn't we, you phony. Taggard'll be reading about Chevalle tomorrow. He'll know his game's fished. He'll be waiting for you to come back to the Hotel Famoso. You don't come back. He's got to watch the Famoso. You're his only contact, pal. If you're telling the truth, you won't come back. He gets worried."

"He won't watch the Famoso. He'll be too afraid of being picked up."

"By who? Us? We're on the run. By you G. I.'s? You'll never expect him at the Famoso. Damn!" he exclaimed. "Damn, I'll bet five to one that's where he's been all along. Registered under a phony."

"No," Clara said. "Not with the whole works after him."

"That's where he was! Must've stayed in his room a lot. That's where! We had a guy tagging his daughter, but when she went back to sleep, our guy quit. That's when he maybe walked out. That's where he was. That's why he dropped in on this G. I. I. was handy. We'll get Taggard now!"

"You can't go near that hotel," the woman said.

"That's right. The G. I.'s are thick as hell there. But if he got away with it we can too. They won't expect us there. Ain't we on the run? Ain't that where this G. I. lived, not to mention Taggard's girl. Yeh, we run Personal in the paper. Let's see? We want to get over the Frog's dead. How about the Frenchman left the country. Yeh, that'll even the idea. And something about catching this G. I. Yeh: I was in Texas, but left Texas."

"I listened to him. I had to think of some out, but my experience hadn't prepared me to keep pace with you, like Johnson."

"The Frenchman left the country. I was in Texas but left Texas. Now we need a windup. A place, a time to get Taggard. Yeh: I miss you very much. Must see you right away before I go back to Texas again. Meet me on the Zocalo any night at ten o'clock. I'll be in front of the—'Let's see: The Cathedral.' Johnson grinned. "That's good. We'll wait for him. He'll show up."

"I listened. It didn't seem to me as if he could have the nerve to get at Sam Taggard in front of the Cathedral. Even at ten o'clock there would be people all around. And yet—I stared at his face and the faces of the murdered men: Lathrop's Chevalle's floated before me as reminders of his determination to get the tin."

"Let's see," he said. "It ought to be like this. Dear Sweetheart. The Frenchman left the country. I was in Texas but left Texas. I miss you very much. Must see you right away before I go back to Texas again. Meet me on the Zocalo any night at ten o'clock. Yours sweetheart—He paused. "How'll we sign it? I got it. 'Waiting.'"

"I knew now that I was going to die."

Two nights later they had picked up Taggard. They roped him into a chair as I was roped, both of us in a room bare as an empty attic. They gagged us, so we couldn't speak. They let us wait.

Then, Johnson came in. "Taggard, your daughter's in this house. I'll bring her in here in a few minutes. I'm not wasting time. You hand over the maps and she walks out. Taggard, I'm not going to keep asking you. Shake your head if you want to talk."

Taggard's head made no move. "Where's the tin?" Johnson cried, his fingers opening and shutting. "Where's the tin? Shake your head, you damn buzzard! I'll make you talk, Taggard!"

I felt sick at the tone in his voice. Side-ways, I glanced at Taggard. Taggard knew where the location maps of his discovery were. He also knew that once Johnson had them, he was going to die. He also knew that his daughter was in this house. I felt sorry for him. I couldn't help it.

Mirtlo now entered the room. He spoke in Spanish with Johnson and then they pulled the gag from Taggard's lips.

"Go on and talk!" Johnson said. "Yes, Senator Mirtlo urged. 'It is better so. For all comes to a finish, senator.'"

"I've got nothing to say," Taggard said. "You've got more'n that to say," Johnson said. "Just a bit more. Sure you have, Sam. How about your kid?"

"Where's my daughter?" Taggard said.

"Do you want to see her? Sure you want to see her. Maybe if you see her you'll talk. Get her, Mirtlo."

She would soon come in. I thought. She would soon come. I hadn't seen her since the night in the Club Opalo.

Lila came in with Mirtlo. She was wearing the same dress she had worn at the Club Opalo. She stared, transfixed, as if she too were strapped and bound. Then she cried out. "Dad, Daddy." She leaped forward. Johnson circled her wrist with one hand.

"Keep it down!" he said. "I'm all right, Lila," Taggard said. "There she is," Johnson said. "The time's kicking on."

I agreed with him. I had a hunch that Sam Taggard and I would soon be following after Chevalle and Lathrop. The room was spinning before my eyes, and the Fascist passport I had used a few days ago seemed to be spinning with the room, spinning separately and yet together. Naranja. Naranja.

Johnson said. "This is the last little family party. Taggard, you collected plenty dough for that tin location. You're going to deliver. If you keep on playing shutmouth, I'll make you deliver. I'll make you talk. How would you like to see your daughter beaten up with you in the rinkside seat?"

I knew then and there that we were all going to be killed before this night was over. Numbly, as if in a dream, I considered the fact. I was aware of her as if she were a person in a dream. I bit on my tongue. I bit on my lips.

The panic passed. This was no dream. Tens of thousands of other people had also been helpless in the hands of the Gestapo. We were all there we had been a minute ago. Sam Taggard and myself bound in the two chairs. Johnson and Mirtlo close to Lila. Her eyes caught mine. There was pity in her eyes and something deeper and warmer than pity. At least that was what I thought.

ping up their assaults in the drive on the big German base at Bryansk. 250 miles to the north of Kharkov. The spearhead of the Red army there had covered one-third of the 75-mile distance between Orel, the German base which fell last week, and Bryansk.

The Kharkov assault resulted in the capture of more than 100 villages, the Russian communique said. Indications that the German forces were retreating in some disorder were seen in the Russian report of the capture of 212 tanks, 139 guns of machineguns, 6618 motor trucks, 30 radio transmitters, 41 supply and munitions dumps, 315 loaded railroad cars and 500 horse-drawn carts.

The speed of the Russian advance on Kharkov presented a definite danger of entrapment to the thousands of Nazi troops occupying the base, the communique indicated. The Soviet air force rained behind the lines hammering at German rail communications upon which the garrison would be forced to rely for withdrawal.

KIDNAP VICTIM IS RECOVERED

Baby Found Alive and Healthy Last Night

Albany, Ore., Aug. 10.—(A. P.)—Tiny Judith Gurney, kidnaped from the Albany hospital last Tuesday, was found alive and healthy last night, and police today investigated the bizarre story of a 26-year-old army wife charged with the abduction.

District Attorney Harlow Weinrick said the woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, fooled her husband, a young couple living with her and neighbors through nine months of feigned pregnancy, then appeared at home last Tuesday with a two-day-old baby.

She confessed to a child-stealing charge, Weinrick said, but only after her story of giving birth to the child in the Albany Hospital had been refuted by nurses and doctors who said she had not been a patient and by a doctors' examination which Weinrick said proved she had not borne a child within five years.

There was evidence of an earlier birth, but Weinrick did not disclose what had happened to that child. Neighbors said Mrs. Wright had no child at home until last Tuesday.

Weinrick said this is the story of the kidnapping:

After months of declaring she was going to have a baby, Mrs. Wright inspected the Albany hospital, six blocks away, August 1, then stole the child from the nursery in early morning Aug. 3.

To friends she explained Tuesday the doctors had permitted her to return home because of the hospital bed shortage and because the birth had been "easy" for her.

It was not until last night that a neighbor reported to police that diapers had suddenly appeared on Mrs. Wright's clothes line. Police investigated but no one answered the door. Mrs. Wright then suggested to her husband, Sgt. Jesse Wright, home on one of his infrequent leaves from nearby Camp Adair, that they visit friends in Portland. Police arrested them before they had gone a block, and held Wright as a material witness. At the hospital the baby was identified from footprints. In the Wright home police found a hospital bracelet, used to identify babies. It bore the name, "Gurney."

Judith, eight ounces heavier than when she disappeared, was restored to her parents. Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney, who had pleaded by press and radio for the kidnaper to give up the tot.

SEEK TO TEST NO-STRIKE LAW

Miners' Counsel Con- tends Law is Un- constitutional

Pittsburgh, Aug. 10—(AP)—Motions to quash five indictments charging 30 coal miners with violations of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law on grounds the recently enacted measure is unconstitutional were filed in U. S. District Court today.

At the same time, pleas of innocent were entered for the 30 men, indicted by a federal grand jury investigating recent work stoppages in southwestern Pennsylvania soft coal fields, by their attorney, former Representative Harry A. Estep.

The motions set forth four counts of unconstitutionality in the first court challenge of the anti-strike law, enacted less than two months ago over a presidential veto. Estep charged that freedom of speech was abridged, that the 13th amendment to the constitution prohibiting involuntary servitude was violated, that coal mines were illegally in possession of the United States, and that sections of the indictments charging men with picketing were illegal.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker set Wednesday, Aug. 18, for hearing on the motions. Trials of the miners are scheduled to open September 1.

Father Draft ...

(Continued from Page One) said a bill preventing the induction of fathers would be "dropped into the hopper soon after the chaplain's prayer is finished" on September 14. He expressed belief President Roosevelt would not veto such a bill. His bill, May said, will have a proviso whereby men with children could enter the army upon their request.

The house passed last spring a measure by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.) to prevent induction of married men until all single men within a state were taken. This measure now is pending in the senate.

Los Angeles, Aug. 10—(AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey frankly admits "there are too many imponderables involved" right now to venture a guess as to what may happen in the father-draft situation.

"You tell me what the situation in Europe, in Russia, and in the Pacific will be in two weeks or a month, and I'll tell you how the draft will be working," said the Major General, here to testify before a house military affairs sub-committee.

Rep. John M. Costello (D-Calif.) subcommittee chairman, asked the draft director: "Will fathers in some states be called before fathers in other states?" "We are trying to work that problem out," Gen. Hershey answered. "But non-fathers will exist in labor areas because we are constantly afraid to cut too close to the minimum in productive centers."

Teacher Shortage
Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 10—(A. P.) The North Carolina Education Association reported today there are 1,230 teacher vacancies in 148 North Carolina public school units. Fred Greene, secretary of the Association, said vacancies would probably reach 1,500 before all the units open this fall.

War Bonds should mean something more to you than just "a good sound investment." Figure it out yourself.
