Berlin Says Allies Are Massing For Invasion Of South Italy

Allied Planes Continue To Smash Italian Communications; Heavy Enemy Opposition Encountered Near Naples; Airdrome North Of Rome Blasted

Stockholm, Aug. 31.—(AP)—A German Foreign Office military spokesman told foreign correspondents in Berlin today that the Allies were making new invasion preparations in the Mediterranean, dispatches to the Swedish press said today.

The spokesman said that fleets of transports, invasion barges and warships were being formed in eastern Tunisia, Sicily, and Oran and suggested that the Allies were planning an attack on southern Italy or France. He added that 300,000 French troops were concentrated at Oran.

By NOLAN NORGAARD Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Newly-massed concentrations of enemy fighters battled U. S. Marauder bombers and escorting Lightnings yesterday in the bitterest combat of the air war over Italy.

The medium bombers blasted railroad yards at Aversa north of Naples.

Seventy to 75 German and Italian planes jumped the Allied fleets near the coast and over the target, and a great running battle continued afterward more than 100 miles out to sea, with the Axis losing 17 planes.

Flying Fortresses meantime hit the Viterbo airfield north of Rome with a heavy rain of bombs. Allied headquarters announced today.

Formations of Mitchells with Lightning escort and RAF Wellingtons staged a day and night assault on freight yards at Civita Vecchia northwest of Rome.

Other medium, light and fighter bombers raided railway objectives in southern Italy during the day, and fighter-bombers struck at communications in Sardinia.

In all, 21 enemy planes were downed, with 15 Allied aircraft reported missing.

The Fortresses, meeting comparatively light opposition, strewn bombs throughout dispersal areas at the strategic Viterbo airfield 40 miles above Rome, leaving hangars and other buildings in flames. They shot down two enemy planes.

At Civita Vecchia, a rail junction for the Rome-Leghorn route and industrial town of Terni, the Mitchells knocked out tracks in the northwest section and scored direct hits on the railroad station, warehouses, and locomotive sheds.

Night-flying Wellingtons guided by their fires followed up in two sharp attacks, dumping two-ton block-busters to create a terrible scene of explosions and fires.

An entire train north of the town blew up, and chemical works and the transformer station suffered direct hits. The glow from the fires (Continued on Page Six)

SALES ON LEAF MARKETS

Sales To End At One O'clock Beginning Thursday

Wilson, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Beginning Thursday, the sales day on tobacco markets of the eastern North Carolina and South Carolina districts will be shortened from five to three and one-half hours.

This was voted last night at a meeting of the U. S. Tobacco Association's marketing committee here.

The curtailed sales day will be effective for a five-week period. It also will take effect for a four-week period on the middle and old North Carolina belts on the opening day of their markets.

R. R. Patterson of Danville, Va., committee chairman, said the action was taken because of the labor shortage in tobacco processing plants. He said the plants were unable to clear tobacco sold in one day in time for the opening sales the next day.

Sales will run from 9:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. each day, Patterson said. The resolution to adopt the shorter hours also specified that no pile of tobacco should exceed 300 pounds and that buying interests should telegraph their buyers not to buy more than 1200 piles during a three and one-half hour selling period.

Patterson said the curtailed program probably would be continued if the labor situation had not improved by the end of the five-week period.

The shortening of sale hours on tobacco markets beginning Thursday will not disrupt the order of sales on the Greenville market. Supervisor R. C. Rankin stated this morning. We will follow the same order as now set forth in the season's sales card, Mr. Rankin said. (Continued on Page Six)

Berlin Reports Invasion Attempt

London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The German radio declared today that British troops attempted a minor landing in Italy southeast of Reggio Calabria across from Sicily, but that it was "immediately scotched."

The German broadcast was recorded by Reuters. No details were given.

Reggio Calabria lies just across the strait of Messina from Sicily. A landing to the "southeast" would have been on the very bottom of the toe of Italy.

The landing was attempted Sunday by 400 men, the broadcast said. The German reports brought no official comment in London and were viewed with skepticism.

It was felt here that if any landing was made it might have been a small-scale, hit-and-run attack against some enemy installation, a reconnaissance penetration or (if not to keep the enemy defenses on edge and cover activities elsewhere. No announcement was expected from the Allied command.

Hutson To Speak Here September 10

J. B. Hutson, president of the Commodity Credit Corporation, will be the speaker at the annual Pitt County Farm Bureau rally on Friday afternoon, Sept. 10, at 5 o'clock at the Greenville baseball park.

Other distinguished speakers will also be on the program.

Mr. Hutson's speech will be of a great deal of interest to the farmers of this area concerning price ceilings and handling of tobacco and peanuts. All Farm Bureau members of Pitt county and their families are cordially invited to attend. This is expected to be a large event in Pitt county and farmers and their families from all over the county are expected to attend the rally. Supper will be served.

Von Hannecken rushed troops to areas where strikes were reported paralyzing every type of business. The cities affected were Skagen, Jhoerning, Saaby, Aalborg, Viborg, Aarhus, Grenaa, Fredericia and Svenborg. Extraordinary efforts were taken to prevent spread of the strikes to other industrial centers.

COUNT IS HELD FOR JURY TRIAL

Charged With Murdering Rich Father-in-Law

Nassau, Bahamas, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Magistrate F. E. Field today ordered Alfred De Marigny held for jury trial on a charge of murdering his multi-millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

He ordered the tall, bearded De Marigny, husband of Sir Harry's eldest daughter, Nancy, committed after hearing 28 witnesses testify at a preliminary hearing which began July 12, four days after Oakes' bludgeoned and burned body was discovered in a bed at his seaside estate, Westbourne.

The British Premier said, however, that it was hoped soon to hold a United Nations conference at which the Soviet would be represented.

Such a unity of decision between the three great opponents of "Hitlerite tyranny" would be greatly desirable, he said.

Churchill said he did not blame Russia for any criticism it had leveled at its allies for not having opened a second front on the continent.

He said that whenever a second front was opened on the continent it would be done only when there was every chance of military success and would not be swayed by political considerations.

However, he went on: "I look forward to the day when British and American liberating armies will cross the channel in full force and come to close quarters with the German invaders of France."

"You would certainly not wish me to tell you when that is likely to happen, or whether it is near or far, but whenever the great blow is struck you may be sure that it will be because we are satisfied that there is a good prospect of continuing success and that our soldiers are expended in accordance with sound military plans and not squandered for political considerations of any kind."

Churchill said he was looking forward to the opening of a third front, presumably referring to Japan.

Italy, he said, was paying a "terrible penalty" for having been misled by the Germans.

The terrific aerial attack against Germany, Churchill said, would not have been possible without the magnificent stand of the Russians against Hitler's forces.

No country, he declared, ever had withstood such a devastating attack as that thrown at the Russians. The fate of King Boris of Bulgaria, he pointed out, might serve as a warning to other rulers that "the wages of sin is death."

At present, Churchill pointed out, Britain's principal activity against Japan must of necessity be centered in India.

Churchill and Roosevelt Want Talks With Stalin

Prime Minister Says Japan Was Chief Topic Of Quebec Conference; Promises European Front When Success Is Assured

London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today said in an address today that the recent conference here was concerned principally with "inflaming" the war against Japan, with whom Russia is at peace, and that therefore it would have been an embarrassment to the Soviet Union to have been represented.

The British Premier said, however, that it was hoped soon to hold a United Nations conference at which the Soviet would be represented.

Such a unity of decision between the three great opponents of "Hitlerite tyranny" would be greatly desirable, he said.

He expressed extreme confidence in Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, the new Allied commander in chief in that theater.

CONTINUE AIR WAR ON NAZIS

Germany Attacked Last Night, France Hit Today

London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Following up a heavy RAF attack on the Rhineland, American marauders today raided a German airfield at Lille-Vanderville in France and a power station Mazingarbe, France.

Headquarters of the Eighth American Air Force called the attacks "successful." One of the B-26 medium bombers is missing.

One fighter from the RAF, Allied and Dominion Spitfire escort which accompanied the bombers was also listed as missing.

Preliminary reports showed three enemy fighters were destroyed. Mighty fleets of heavy and medium bombers roared across over the continent to bring the fourth year of the war to a thunderous close.

The war-torn industrial cities of Muenchen-Gladbach and Rheydt were hammered by the RAF bombers last night, a communiqué announced, while Mosquito bombers raided Duisburg at the same time, ending a two-day lull in the aerial offensive.

Twenty-eight bombers were lost. German broadcasts reported 24 raiders shot down and said Muenchen-Gladbach and Rheydt had been especially hard hit.

"The population suffered losses and considerable damage was caused to churches, schools, hospitals, residences and public buildings," the Germans asserted.

Stove Dealers Must Register Promptly

All stove dealers and distributors in Pitt county must file Registration Statement (Form R-902) between September 1 and 3, in person or by mail, at the Pitt County Ration Board.

Inventory taken at the close of business August 31 should include: (1) all rationed stoves held in stock in storage in transit old held on consignment; (2) all rationed stoves bought but not delivered; (3) all certificates received for stoves sold and delivered; (4) all stoves delivered under priority order not yet replaced by supplier.

Sales for stoves in 1941 or 1942 should be reported for the year with the larger sales. Allowable inventories will be given and forms returned at the time of registration if all data is complete.

After September 3, any dealer or distributor who has not registered and filed it with his board is prohibited from buying, selling or acquiring rationed stoves.

Call Strike. London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Leaflets have been distributed in Rome calling on the people to go on a 15-minute strike at 10 a. m. tomorrow, standing silently with arms crossed the Rome radio said today.

In a later broadcast the Italian news agency declared six Italian anti-Fascist parties had demanded they do anything to do with the strikers. The broadcasts were heard by the Associated Press.

Killed In Collision. Marion, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Allen Worley, an elderly couple of East Marion, were killed yesterday when the automobile in which they were passengers was struck by a train here.

Russians Score Double Victory

AIRMEN BLAST WEWAK AGAIN

Thirty-Seven Jap Planes Downed In Air Battle

By DEAN SCHEDLER Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Liberators and Lightnings, in a 114-ton bombing attack on Wewak, New Guinea, have added at least 37 Japanese planes, and possibly 49, to the more than 300 destroyed there since mid-August.

This new air victory, scored Sunday, was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in a communiqué which also disclosed that Allied troops hold strong ridge positions above as well as below the airfield at Salamaua, 350 miles below Wewak.

At Wewak, where the enemy has sent in reinforcements to replace losses which have been mounting since August 17, the Liberators and Lightnings, while the Lightnings, in furious battles with 60 Zeros, downed 25 for certain, 12 probably, and damaged at least 17 others.

"Our losses were light," the communiqué said. Previous communiqués on the land fighting at Salamaua have been concerned mainly with action below the airfield, where American and Australian jungle forces have edged to the southwestern end of the air strip. But today's communiqué told of Allied forces repulsing Japanese counterattacks Saturday night and early Saturday night and early Sunday on Kila ridge. Kila is a small town above the airfield and slightly west of Salamaua.

Along a nearby ridge, which runs southward, Allied troops threw back the Japanese and killed at least 40 of the enemy, a spokesman said.

The Wewak raiders, in addition to destroying enemy planes, started explosions and fires among ammunition and fuel dumps.

Not a Lightning fighter was lost in the series of brilliant dogfights. The first battles were fought at altitudes ranging from 13,000 to 20,000 feet, during which time seven Japanese planes crashed. A short time later, another large force of Japanese fighters appeared for combat with the same group of Lightnings. Eighteen enemy aircraft were shot down.

The communiqué also reported a raid by a strong force of Mitchell medium bombers which dropped 45 tons of bombs on supply bases at (Continued on Page Six)

Asks Compulsory Training Program

Washington, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military Committee called for compulsory military training in peacetime today with the assertion that Uncle Sam should "carry a big stick all the time just in case any of the other big stock boys get ideas."

The Kentuckian said he would seek legislation to require every able-bodied male between 17 and 21 to take a full year of training for fresh courses.

Under this program, he said, a well-trained and competent reserve force of approximately 10,000,000 young men could be built up in 10 to 15 years.

With such a reserve force, May said, the size of the regular, or standing, army could be held to approximately 500,000 men.

Shell Warships. London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The German International Information Bureau reported that Nazi long-range batteries shelled seven Allied warships spotted close to the British southeast coast of Dungeness this afternoon, hitting several of them in a 20-minute bombardment.

The ships escaped behind smokescreens, said the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press here. There was no Allied confirmation of the report.

Twenty-Seven Killed In Passenger Train Wreck

Wayland, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Twenty-seven persons were dead today — many of them from inhaling live steam — after the crack Lackawanna limited passenger train and a switch engine crashed head-on near this southwestern New York sharp curve at Little Falls, killing 31 and injuring 123.

The engineer of the limited, James E. LeRoy of Buffalo, said the train was speeding through Wayland when he saw the switch engine on a siding paralleling the main line westbound track.

"The engine of the local freight locomotive, apparently was confused and thought the limited had come through and started to pull out on (Continued on Page Three)

Important Towns Of Yelnya, And Glukov Taken; Guns Of Moscow Boom In Salutes; Victorious Reds Surging Forward On All Fronts

London, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Soviet army captured the towns of Yelnya and Glukov, in twin drives against the center of the German front. Premier Joseph Stalin announced today in two orders of the day.

The Soviet premier first announced the victory at Yelnya, 45 miles east of Smolensk. A short time later, he followed it up with the triumphant announcement that a second drive in the Sevsk sector had netted Glukhov, 42 miles northeast of the important railway junction of Konotop.

Stalin also disclosed that this rush had captured Rylik, 44 miles north of Sumy and 67 miles east of Konotop.

The dual announcements halted the second and third important victories for the Soviets in two days.

Moscow had just heard the victory guns celebrating the capture of Targanov on the Sea of Azov in southern Russia when the guns were ordered again to fire 12 salvos for Yelnya.

Yelnya is 35 miles west of Spas Demensk, the last town reported captured on the main line railroad running from Latvia eastward through Smolensk and into central Russia.

Stalin called Yelnya an "operationally important large road junction and the most important center of resistance on the defenses in the Smolensk direction."

The city was taken after Soviet troops broke through strongly fortified German defense lines, Stalin announced.

The capture of Yelnya, a day after the capture of Targanov, more than 600 miles to the south, gave striking proof of the power of the Soviet summer offensive which now has recaptured Orel, Belgorod, Kharkov, Sevsk, Karachev, Targanov, Yelnya and hundreds of lesser towns.

Red army cavalry and tank units on the Sea of Azov were reported wiping out remnants of the German garrison of Targanov which had fled west of the city, and were advancing to threaten the seaport of Mariupol, 75 miles to the west. They already had driven along the coast 23 miles toward the Mius river city.

Apparently the Russians announced that 15 populated places had been recaptured in the great victory which threatened the whole German right wing and proclaimed that the entire Rostov region had now been liberated from the Nazi invaders.

The capture of Targanov followed the same general pattern as the pincer movements which resulted in the fall of the German bastions of Orel and Kharkov earlier this summer. The Soviet communiqué disclosed that Red army divisions had launched a drive from Donetsk-Amvrosievka, 40 miles northwest of Targanov, to Veselo-Vosnesensk. (Continued on Page Two)

Rouse Funeral Is Set For Thursday

Funeral services for Richard "Dickie" Rouse, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy W. Rouse of this city, who was instantly killed yesterday afternoon, are tentatively set for 11 o'clock Thursday morning. Arrangements are incomplete pending arrival of his brother, Troy W. Rouse, Jr., from his army station in South Dakota.

Young Rouse met his death yesterday afternoon when he was run over by a truck while he and a companion were watching the operation of a steam shovel at an asphalt plant being operated in connection with the paving of the local airport.

In addition to his parents and his brother, he is survived by two sisters. There was no Allied confirmation of the report.

Eleven Hurt In Wreck at Fremont

Goldboro, N. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Eleven persons were injured early today when the locomotive of Atlantic Coast Line train No. 41 derailed the last car of an empty pullman train as both were leaving the station at Fremont, Mayor O. E. Turlington said.

Three of the injured were brought here and dismissed after receiving treatment for superficial injuries at a local hospital, the mayor said. The engineer and fireman of the locomotive pulling the empty train were taken either to Rocky Mount or Wilson for treatment, Turlington said.

C. G. Sibley, general manager of the Atlantic Coast Line, said in Wilmington that the accident appeared due to "man failure."

Nazis Faced By Series New Strikes In Denmark

By JOHN L. COLBURN Stockholm, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Harassed German occupation authorities in Denmark, having crushed the last vestiges of a military revolt after two days of violent fighting, were faced today with a new threat as a series of general strikes against their dictatorship broke out in nine cities.

With King Christian a prisoner in Sorgenfri castle, most of the government members jailed or under house arrest and scores of other prominent Danes in prison, Gen. Hermann Von Hannecken moved to tighten the German military grip over the country by rounding up all Danish army and navy officers.

Von Hannecken rushed troops to areas where strikes were reported paralyzing every type of business. The cities affected were Skagen, Jhoerning, Saaby, Aalborg, Viborg, Aarhus, Grenaa, Fredericia and Svenborg. Extraordinary efforts were taken to prevent spread of the strikes to other industrial centers.

The strikes indicated the Danes were agitated by threats of drastic penalties, including death, under Von Hannecken's martial law decree instituted before dawn Sunday, when he stripped the government of Premier Eric Seavenius of all power and sent a Nazi captain to tell King Christian, "You are my (Continued on Page Three)

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

Never since Hitler broke his pledged word and attacked Russia has the position of his armies on the eastern front been so precarious as it has become with the loss of his right wing anchor—Targanov on the Sea of Azov.

Having taken this major strategic hold, which is one of the vital parts of the gateway to the oil fields of the Caucasus, the Red army today is reported crushing its way steadily westward along the coast of the sea of Azov. Small wonder that Marshal Stalin ordered a 124 gun salute in Moscow in honor of the Red army, while all Russia exulted in the prowess of their men at arms.

The fall of Targanov was effected by the application of a pair of great pincers to the Hun line. The Reds thrust fiercely into the German defenses 40 miles above Targanov, and started a turning movement southward, towards that port. Meantime, another Russian force was smashing directly at the Red army, while all Russia exulted in the prowess of their men at arms.

Similar turning movements are being driven into the German line as far north as the Kharkov area and some 800,000 Nazi troops are in danger of encirclement. Thus Hitler's whole southern wing is being forced back. Having been torn loose from his Targanov anchor, the Fuehrer now is faced with two nasty alternatives:

1. He must stage a heavy counter-attack in the Donets basin to the north of Targanov and fling the Reds back.

2. Failing in this he must continue his withdrawal until his whole back front from the Sea of Azov northward to Lenninrad, a distance of more than a thousand miles, has been pulled back under fierce Russian attack to the line of the great Dnieper river.

General H. S. Sewell, the British military expert, remarked that "heavy counter-attacks must be expected in the Donets, and failure in this respect may well be regarded as a sign of Nazi weakness."

That seems to sum the matter up neatly. If the invaders don't counter-attack, or if they make the attempt and fail, it will be significant as showing that the German machine has lost a tremendous amount of that vital striking power which long terrified the world.

Should the Germans be forced to retire to the line of the Dnieper, one would expect them to make a back-to-the-wall stand to hold the Crimea. The Dnieper bulges out to the east just north of the Crimea. There's a railway which touches the point of this bulge by Zaporozhie and runs south through Melitopol into the Crimea.

It's logical to expect the Germans to try to hold along that railway if they get pushed back that way. (Continued on Page Three)

Russians Score . . .

The communique said the German suffered heavy losses in men and equipment in the ensuing battle.

German broadcasts dismissed the defeat as a "strategic withdrawal" — the same terms used to describe the fall of Kharkov — and said military installations had been destroyed in the face of the Russian advance.

Tsarigrad is the sixth major German stronghold to fall to the Russians since they turned the abortive German push which started July 5 in the central sector into a Red army offensive.

Orel, the first to fall, was quickly followed by Belgorod and Karachev. After stubborn resistance the Nazis lost Kharkov and a new push in the central sector encompassed Sevsk.

Action on other fronts found the Soviet drive on Bryansk, important rail junction and German base 200 miles southwest of Moscow, gaining momentum with the Russian communique announcing gains of six to 13 miles and the capture of 50 villages.

Russian columns pushing on from Kharkov apparently were meeting stiff German resistance. The Nazis launched a counterattack with large forces from Lyubotin, 17 miles west of the city, the Russians said, but it was smashed and the Soviet troops pushed on establishing new positions.

Farm Labor Problem Solved In County

By CHESTER WALSH

The county farmers' interest in the tobacco crop, cured the leaf and stored it in packages for grading this summer with less trouble than was anticipated earlier in the season when the labor problem confronted them more than any other group.

Flora F. Hendrix, county farm agent, the County Board of Agriculture and other groups functioned efficiently in securing and placing labor where it was needed to harvest the tobacco crop.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts, specially appointed coordinator of farm labor in the county, said today.

Months ago he was coordinating of farm labor in recommendation of farm agents. Pitt County farmers have been faced from time to time with outside agents trying to lure and import local farm labor.

Judge Roberts and "Bob" Pease, U. S. Employment Service manager here, the county agent, the Farm Bureau, tobaccoists and warehousemen and others planned a campaign for securing workers, to see that they were adequately paid and that the workers stayed on the job. The County School Board ordered the schools to keep open short hours during September to facilitate harvesting of crops.

The farmers' next problem is harvesting cotton and peanuts.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS BANKER

Waldrop Speaks In Interest Of Third War Loan

By WYATT BROWN

Money was the subject of a discussion by J. H. Waldrop last night at the Rotary Club. After a few words on what money is Mr. Waldrop broke down the huge sums mentioned in connection with the war into more understandable terms for his audience. In concluding his remarks he touched upon the patriotism of citizens of Greenville in connection with the coming Bond Drive.

In describing what money is Mr. Waldrop went back to the time when everything was done in exchange of goods by a system of barter. The first money was issued against furs. If one received money in a trade it could be exchanged with the government for furs. Furs at that time were generally acceptable. Money is issued always against some generally acceptable commodity.

Then money graduated into the use of tobacco as the backing commodity being succeeded by corn, live oil and many other commodities.

During the French Revolution land was used as the commodity to back money. The values varied so and fluctuated so that the money issued against land got out of hand.

Then he related how "not worth a continental" came to mean what it does today. During the American Revolution money called "continental" was issued and as in the time of all wars inflation came and the continental currency became worthless. In the Civil War "greenback" money was issued by the government and due to inflation got to be worth only 35 cents.

Since "greenbacks" gold has been used as the commodity against which money has been issued. Other metals have been used about the world but gold is the most generally acceptable metal. Going off the "gold standard," he explained, does not mean gold has lost its attractiveness for it is still most acceptable in international trade and anywhere else.

It takes about eight silver dollars to make a foot. With that unit one can measure the size of a billion or a million dollars.

Next Mr. Waldrop took up the huge sums mentioned in the press about the war. Over $200 per person—every man woman and child in the United States—has spent each day by the United States on war. That is a total of over $7,000 per second.

Speaking of the national debt of one hundred and forty-seven billion dollars it meant that North Carolina's part would be four billion and the total taxable value of real and personal property in North Carolina is two and one-quarter billion dollars.

The forty billion dollar "inflationary gap" was next explained. Take from the national income this year every expense one has and all the things available for everyone to buy, the government economists figure there is forty billion more that cannot be spent for. Therefore that forty billion of unspendable is the money or buying power which can cause inflation.

Farm income has increased 37 per cent and business income 27 per cent. Mr. Waldrop stated that with the government control and rationing set-up that forty billion inflationary gap will stay constant.

Then he spoke of what makes war so expensive by referring to a battleship which costs twice as much as a university like Duke. One day of war costs more than all the colleges in North Carolina cost to establish.

Here Mr. Waldrop brought in the bond drive that will start September 9. He said the banks were not being permitted to buy these bonds in this drive. If the banks bought the bonds, he explained, the people would still have their money and the threat of the "inflationary gap" would increase for it would be available for inflationary purposes. Greenville's quota will be $840,000 of bonds.

In conclusion Mr. Waldrop spoke of how the behavior of John L. Lewis and the strikers in industry had made us all ashamed. "If we have money that we live without spending and do not buy bonds, I wonder if we could not call that money on strike. With the increased price of tobacco we are not all benefitting from the war. It is our patriotic duty to invest money that is not needed into United States government bonds. We need not worry for the bonds are just as good as the money in your pockets. It is a good investment," he declared without reserve.

Walter Jones of Farmville was a visiting Rotarian last night. Miss Dorothy Bain of Washington City and Staunton Harvey, Gene Gray, W. A. Darden, and Sammy White were guests of the club. John Fleming, club president, presided.

With the sovereign and the government which resigned within a few hours, apparently powerless, Danish citizens living in Stockholm expressed belief that political leaders outside Denmark would form a free Danish government in London and ally it formally with the United Nations.

Free Danish leaders headed by Christmas Moeiler have been functioning in London, but until now had no authority to exercise governmental powers. The Nazi overlords recognized the threat of Moeiler's influence in Denmark by immediately arresting most of the leaders of his conservative party.

the main line to continue switching," he said. "When I saw the other engine pulling out, I slammed on the limited's emergency brakes, but it was going too fast to avert a collision. The two locomotives met at the switch."

The limited, a 13-car train, sheared off the front end of the switch engine and cracked the driving cylinder. The switch engine remained upright on the spur track.

The limited locomotive hurled down the track and toppled broadside across two main tracks and two spurs. Three coaches, the dinner, a baggage car and mail car were derailed.

Eye-witnesses described the horror scene. B. J. Shields of Buffalo said "it was a seething furnace. Some of the persons were in such pain they begged to die."

Staff Sgt. Richard L. Franz of Marshfield, Ore., who suffered burns and cuts, declared, "All I can remember is they slammed the brakes on and the train stopped. We didn't realize the train was wrecked. Then the steam pipe broke and everybody started screaming and began to pile out. The steam was so dense you couldn't see where you were going."

Robert Kaiser, Henmore, said "the odor of burning flesh was terrible."

Mrs. Harriet Gibson, Corning, who was injured, recalled "there was a terrific jolting—people were screaming, trying to get out of the coach. Some broke the windows and went out that way." X X X

Blood plasma was flown from Rochester, Buffalo and Oswego and administered to the injured in several hospitals in the Wayland area.

Meanwhile a crew of 300 attempted to clear the wreckage while railroad authorities began formal investigation. Passenger traffic was rerouted over the Erie line and the freight over the Lehigh.

Several soldiers on the Lackawanna limited helped rescue the passengers and broke windows to permit steam to escape.

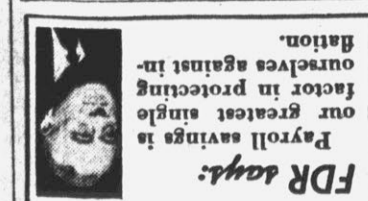

Railroad officials said twenty-three persons died instantly and four expired later. Of the dead, 14 were identified at three undertaking establishments—were bodies of 18 women, three men and two small girls.

Some of them were scalded and burned so severely identification was reported extremely difficult to establish. The wreck scene is about 50 miles south of Rochester. Al Driscoll, engineer on the switch engine, was reported to have escaped injury. He could not be reached for comment.

Colored News

A farmer remarked the other day that is coming next, when the farm agent told him that it was time to plant his fall and winter garden and make ready to sow his small grain. The agent's answer to him was that the next thing to come, if you don't get busy, will be "hunger."

We all know that war calls for more food and that this is the time to plant fall vegetables and sow small grain. With God's great gift to man in this sunny east we should keep the fields and gardens green all winter. With the increasing demand of raising more poultry and livestock, it is important that we sow more grain. In some sections of the state the drought has caused a serious shortage of feed and food. That means we must step up our production so that we will be able to make up for their shortage. We must not let our garden be idle during the fall and winter, when we think of the boys to be fed who are standing between us and all danger while we go about our duties. We have time yet to plant a few fall chickens, with a little push they will soon be large enough to fry. This will help save the summer pullets to lay. Already we are facing a shortage of eggs. It is high time to cut down all tobacco stalks and get things in shape to plant pastures, sow wheat and fill the fields onions, collards, cabbage, mustard, turnips and tendergreen. With the increase of poultry and livestock we must plant more. Don't let anybody get excited and stop work because tobacco is selling well and corn crops look well. We must fight on until the victory is won. Dennis Dupree, Negro Farm Agent.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By SAEL L. DOUGLAS

THEREFORE REJOICE

Dwight L. Moody used to preach that God stood behind the sinner with a double-edged sword, ready to hew him down. One day when he was preaching in Dublin, Moody met a young English evangelist named Henry Moorhouse. The great American preacher was unimpressed by the young Englishman but agreed that if he came to America he could preach on Sunday in Moody's church. Moody thought so little of him that he arranged that the sermon be preached on a Sunday when he himself was to be absent from the pulpit.

Upon his return, Moody found everyone talking about the young Englishman. So the old evangelist went to a meeting and sat himself down, intent upon finding out just what it was this youngster had. To his amazement, he found him preaching on just one theme, namely, that God loves the sinner. He is not standing behind him with a two-edged sword, ready to hew him down. Instead, he is behind him with love, and the sinner is running away from this love so freely offered.

Moody, after listening to Moorhouse for a few evenings, gave up his former ideas and after that preached as the young Englishman did, that God is love. It made a vast difference on the preaching of the older man and greatly added to the power of his message.

Too often we cringe in fear before God. Certainly the Most High does not want this. "God is love." That Biblical declaration should fill us with assurance.

FAILURE INEXCUSABLE

Yesterday's announcement by Donald Nelson of production gains in certain war materials during July are encouraging, but he warns that further production increases are required if necessary goals are to be met. Not to meet these goals is a direct threat to military schedules which are based on securing certain kinds and quantities of equipment on specified dates.

Lieutenant General Brehon Sparvell recently warned that "only two-fifths of our program for 1943 was accomplished in the first half of the year." As a result, monthly schedules in all elements of our Army program must be speeded up to attain the procurement goals necessary to provide our growing Army with enough and on time.

"... Our military success," points out the General, "instead of offering a chance to relax, actually quickened the tempo of our need for the materials of war. With every victory the need to turn on the power as never before will become more and more pressing."

"We must pour into this war the entire strength and intelligence and willpower of the United States. We cannot afford to waste our substance or the lives of our men by relaxing along the way."

It is up to every American citizen to heed these words. They were spoken in deadly earnestness. Failure cannot be excused when the lives of men are at stake.

Keeping Up Nazi Morale

PHOENIX REPUBLIC AND GAZETTE SYNDICATE

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

(Second of Two Articles on Civil Service Methods)

Washington — The first time we ever got a job, the boss said: "If you're no good, you're fired, if you are, you get a raise."

Uncle Sam, these days, is taking so many words to say the same thing; so many hours of employees' time to find out how good or bad they are; and so many millions of the taxpayers' money on checkers and checker-checkers to classify workers, that the House Civil Service Committee, headed by Robert Ramspeck (D-Ga) has decided to make a major issue of it.

The road to success with Uncle Sam is paved with nine "efficiency ratings," ranging all the way from 1-E for excellent, to 9-U for unsatisfactory; and in between are such things as 4, 5, or 6-G (for good).

The way you get to be a 5-G, for example, is to have your teacher (immediate boss) mark your 32-question report card with at least a check (which means "adequate") on all important queries about the job you do and "minus marks" (meaning weak) fully compensated by plus marks (meaning outstanding) or a majority of underlined elements (important factors in your particular job) marked at least with a check, and minus marks on underlined elements overcompensated by plus marks on underlined elements.

Don't ask me what that means. It takes the Civil Service Commission 32 pages in the "Efficiency Rating Manual" to explain this rating business and what to do if it doesn't work.

It's the What-to-do-if-it-doesn't work part of it that I like best. If the employee kicks, his rating official is supposed to give him a hearing. Then Civil Service goes completely Dale Carnegie.

In ten little snappy paragraphs, they tell the "boss" how to prepare for the interview. It includes such suggestions as: "Select a time when both you and the employee are not under undue strain or pressure of work; provide for privacy."

In 12 more paragraphs, the boss is advised how to conduct the interview. This section leads off with the hint that it would be a good idea to "Put the employee at ease by some friendly remark not necessarily about the matter to be discussed."

How to conclude the interview takes only nine paragraphs, and it's as simple as X, Y, Z, except for one section near the end which says: "Do not try to force the employee to agree with your evaluation of his performance."

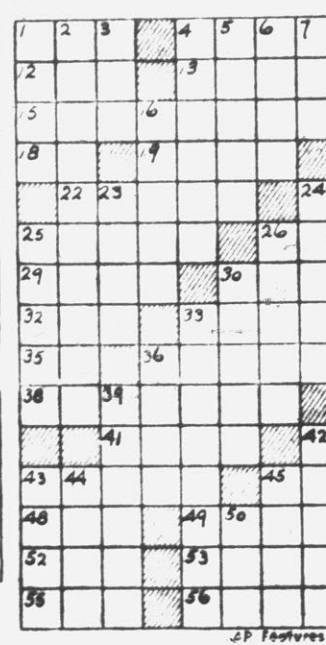

That, rating officials tell me, is something of a stunner, since that's about all the interviews are ever held for.

"Bob" Ramspeck and his committee say they are going to change that "efficiency" business. Uncle Sam is the greatest employer in the world today. After listening to his employees gripe, I think I can say positively that all they want is a few stepping stones and a little less red tape. A change in the "efficiency" rating system" would be a help, to say the least.

THE LONG NIGHT

By Eleanor Atterbury

Chapter 16

As long as it was daylight, Bette didn't acknowledge creeping terror even to herself. But when the shadows deepened and the dark clouds brought forecasts of a stormy night ahead, she hid to face facts. So tired her legs trembled, she sat down on one of the great granite rocks. If she were on the right trail, she would have been at the post by now. That she was hopelessly lost was too terribly obvious.

For nearly half an hour she sat there, holding back terror by sheer force of will power, trying to consider what would be sensible for her to do. That she was on a fairly well-defined trail was something in her favor. It must lead somewhere. She had seen footprints several times within the last hour—and tried to tell herself they must be her own and Paul Porter's of the day before. Now, of course, she knew they weren't.

Anyway, they were human footprints, she told herself grimly, and not those of a grizzly. She pulled her coat tighter against the growing sharpness of the chill air. It might be April all right but this was Alaska. She wondered if anyone ever froze to death when it wasn't snowing.

That idea brought her to her feet again with renewed vigor. At least she wasn't going to sit down meekly and accept defeat. She'd keep going until she dropped.

Later, she wondered what guardian angel had pushed her on the next five hundred yards. If she hadn't found the courage to push on, she might easily have perished in the storm that lashed through those mountains that night. As it was, she stood a little later at the throat of a gap in the mountain range and, amazed, looked almost straight down at the ocean below.

Breathless, she stared unbelievably for a long moment. But the ocean seemed in the wrong place! And the tiny beach far below was almost completely encircled by cliffs. A blue harbor was almost encircled by protecting arms of rugged promontories that almost met. Why, a ship could pass that tiny opening a hundred times and never suspect the break there in that range, and the blue harbor behind it.

Strange. She didn't remember. Then, suddenly she realized what she had done. Instead of following the stream that flowed toward the southern end of the island, she had followed one that poured into some river flowing to the northern shore. She recalled the hours this morning that she had "lost" her guiding stream completely. Remembered now that it was too late, that the new stream had been much larger. She would have noticed that it ran in the opposite direction. She had, she concluded finally, simply crossed the watershed! No wonder her legs ached with fatigue. She sat down, sagged wearily against a tree stump.

Now what? It would be dark before she could find her way down to that strip of white beach below. And if she did, what good was that? As if in answer, she saw a small boat push away from what looked like a clump of trees thrust down to the water's edge. After several moments, the faint hum of a motor was blown up to her. There were people down there!

Her heart lifted joyously. If she hurried—

She jumped up, started down the mountainside until a fallen tree trunk—and another idea—brought her up short. What if the people were enemies! What if she were walking straight into a Jap camp? She considered the idea while she sat astride the log.

She'd have to chance it. She certainly couldn't turn back—not now. She searched the sky's black throat. Another hour of daylight at most. She'd have to hurry.

Her descent was so rapid as to be perilous at times. She scrambled through brush, sometimes sending showers of earth and stones landsliding down a sheer cliff to make noise enough to rouse anybody who might be below.

Caution overtook her when she was within half an hour's walk of the beach. The small motor boat had disappeared. Hardly a ripple disturbed the surface of the water. The beach now directly below her, seemed deserted. For all the evidence of human occupation, she might have been the first to look down at this gem-like little harbor. Still, she had seen that boat, heard its motor.

She was still trying to believe she hadn't dreamed it, when she saw the boat come back. From a hidden point just out of sight of her lofty perch, she saw it cut across the blue waters of the bay, leaving a white ribbon of foam in its path. Back to the clump of trees that seemed to grow right out into the water. It pulled alongside. Straining her eyes, Bette was sure she saw someone climb out of the boat. Up onto what? A tree branch? Absurd.

Craning her neck, she peered through the gathering dusk. Those trees growing out into the water like that. At no other spot along the narrow rim of the harbor did the undergrowth push that close to the bay.

Slowly, the reason unfolded as she watched the figure swallowed up, then the boat, both drawn into the green brush.

Camouflage! She was sure now that accounted for the strange disappearance of both man and boat. A ship lay there snug against the harbor's edge, shielded from any scouting plane by an elaborate screen of branches and leaves.

Fascinated, she made her way farther down the bank, some inexplicable sense of caution warning her to move slowly, silently.

When she was close enough to be sure beyond all doubt of the vessel that lay hidden there, she stood still longer, unconsciously waiting for some further signal. Friend or enemy? She still couldn't be sure.

While she was still weighing her chances of freezing if she spent the night here in these woods or being shot if she walked into an enemy camp, she heard the sound of footsteps. Instantly on guard, her eyes turned toward the sound. On a branch of the trail which hair-pin-pinned into a curve just below the point where she crouched, silent, trembling, she saw something move. Slowly, cautiously, the tall figure of a man moved from one shadow, disappeared into the next.

TAX RETURNS DUE SEPT. 15

Approximately One in Three Taxpayers Must File

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—One of every three federal income tax payers must file a new income tax return by Sept. 15.
This is a declaration of estimated 1943 income and taxes. In most cases a person who has to file such a declaration will have to send in a payment with it—and make another payment on Dec. 15.
Four classes of taxpayers must make this new report:
1. Those whose income is more than $2,700 if single (or married but not living with husband or wife) or more than $3,500 for a married couple, with or without dependents. As in the past, married couples may file either joint or separate returns.
2. Persons whose income isn't subject to the withholding tax—the deductions from pay withheld by employers—under pay-as-you-go. In this group are individuals who aren't on regular wages or salaries, also ministers, farm laborers and household servants.
There are two exceptions in this group—farmers, who have until Dec. 15 to make their report; members of the armed services, who can wait until next March 15.
3. All those whose income this year will be less than in 1942—if they were required to file an income tax return for 1942. If the 1942 income tax is greater than the estimated 1943 income and victory taxes, the 1942 tax becomes, in effect, the 1943 tax.
4. Those who are on regular wages or salaries subject to withholding deductions but who have additional income this year from other sources totaling more than $100.
In general, the plan is to collect income and victory taxes not being paid through deductions from pay. All taxpayers still will have to file a return next March.
Those who file the declarations must do these things:
Estimate their 1943 income and figure the taxes on it (including victory tax).
Total up how much has been deducted and will be deducted (if anything) for federal income and victory taxes from their wages or salaries in all of 1943.
Add up the payments they made in March and June of this year on their 1942 taxes.
These two amounts—the total withheld from pay and the tax payments in March and June—are to be deducted from the total estimated 1943 taxes. The balance, if any, is due in equal installments on Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.
There are penalties for failure to estimate within 20 per cent of the amount of tax as finally determined in the final report next March. However, you can file a new declaration by Dec. 15, and pay accordingly (to escape the penalties) if there's substantial change in your income.
In any case, your total 1943 tax will be at least equal to the 1942 tax as you figured it last March, so you can check back on your last return to cut down the possibility of error.

amined De Marigny July 10, the day after his arrest, and "I didn't find any signs, burns or scalds."
Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police previously had testified that the night of July 8, some 14 or 16 hours after Sir Harry's body was found, he subjected De Marigny to a microscopic examination and found burned hairs on the accused man's arms and hands.
Dr. Oberwarth testified that he made a naked eye examination and declared under prosecution questioning it would be possible that burned hairs might not be detected save by examination under lenses.

are situated about 18 miles west of Dusseldorf proper in an area which has been raided some 50 times in all. Both places have great war factories and acres upon acres of warehouses.
The raid shaped up as the third assault upon Germany in eight days.
The population suffered losses and considerable damage was caused to churches, schools, hospitals residences and public buildings, the Germans asserted.
Other targets in France and the low countries were also attacked during the night's operations.
Dusseldorf itself was last raided by the RAF on July 6 when 43 bombers were lost. Rheydt which has been a target in eight specific raids, has lost engineering works, textile factories and an airfield. Muenchen-Gladbach is a city of 100,000 population a mile or so to the north on the river Rhine. It also has large engineering and textile factories five railway stations and an airfield.
Vienna dispatches to the Swedish newspapers today said that residents of that city were in a panic as fear of new Allied aerial attacks mounted.
Refugees from Hamburg who have arrived in Vienna added to the unrest, the dispatches stated, with stories of the devastation caused when the city was all but wiped out.
Blacards tacked up around Vienna warned all persons whose residence in the city was unessential to leave immediately. Persons who had to work in the city were spending their nights in the surrounding countryside, the reports added.
As the day wore on heavy aerial traffic continued across the English Channel, with the Allied raiders heading again for France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Nazi airfields apparently were the chief targets of the daylight shuttle operations.

The Italian communique, broadcast by Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, said 40 Allied planes were downed over the Rome and Naples area. The German radio said Nazi fighters destroyed 26 out of 60 attackers near Naples.
German planes in a new attack on Augusta harbor in Sicily damaged an Allied merchant ship and hit several landing barges, the Italians added.
P-40 Warhawks made unserviceable a steel railway bridge near Decimomannu airfield in Sardinia. Two Warhawk pilots, Capt. James A. Garret, Belmont, Mass., and flight officer Walter A. Bryant, 1201 13th Ave., Hickory, N. C. destroyed an 80-foot radio tower at Pula.

Cut Sales . . .

but each house will be cut 18 minutes from each hour of the schedule now allotted. This means that a house that is now allotted a three hour sale will actually sell two hours and six minutes, while a house with a two hour sale, according to the sales card, will sell but one hour and 24 minutes under the curtailed plan. Mr. Rankin stated that the plan of reducing each sale rather than change the entire schedule was decided upon this morning following official announcement of the curtailment for the next five weeks.
Commenting on the change, he declared that it was welcomed by the local market because the warehousemen realized the necessity of co-operating in every way to help relieve the present labor conditions in this farming section. Under the curtailed sales plan farmers will have more opportunity to harvest their other crops and get necessary work on the farm done, the factory men will be able to handle the lighter sales in a more orderly manner and the lighter sales will relieve the labor shortage in the warehouses.

Airmen Blast . . .

Alexishafen and Bogadjim, between Wewak and Salamaua. The bomber pilots went in at treetop height to strafe as well as bomb. Many barges were sunk.
Across New Britain from the New Guinea battle scene, a Catalina on night patrol dropped a 500 pound bomb squarely on a Japanese cruiser in the vicinity of Kavieng, New Ireland.

The latest reports from the Solomons were on limited air activity. American Corsairs destroyed eight enemy planes on the ground and started fires visible for 20 miles in a raid on the Kahili airfield on southern Bougainville, the biggest airfield remaining in Japanese hands in the Solomons.

Other escorted medium bombers struck at Santa Isabel Island, northeast of New Georgia, where Japan has a seaplane base and Corsairs and Alracobras kept up their destructive work against barges on which the isolated Japanese garrison at Vila, Kolombangara, must depend for supplies.
