Red Armies Charge Ahead In Pursuit Of Fleeing Nazis

Disorganized Germans Retreating On 150-Mile Front And Attempting To Escape Trap Closing Between Krivoi Rog And Melitopol; Berlin Admits Withdrawals

Moscow, Oct. 28.—(AP) Russian tank units and strong advanced infantry forces pouring into the desert steppe west of Melitopol today have seized all the little roads criss-crossing the area and are moving rapidly onto the flanks of the fleeing Germans.

One column was moving south from Akimovka, 14 miles below Melitopol along the railroad to the Crimea, which was already within striking distance.

Another group was just south of Nikopol, manganese mining town, moving up to meet another force moving southward upon the town within the Dnieper river elbow.

The breakthrough between Zaporozhe and the Sea of Azov has already recaptured upwards of 300 square miles south of the Dnieper and there is only a shred of German line falling back toward the Crimea in the south and toward Kherston in the west.

The Russians in this area were hourly nearing the Perekopka-Kherston railway, the only line out of the Crimea. This line leads to Nikolai.

West of Kherston, and recent maps show a connecting line from Nikolai west to Kolesovka on the main Odessa-Kiev railway.

The German communique reported "bitter and desperate fighting" in the south Ukraine as the struggle continued with unabated violence.

Fall of strongly defended Krivoi Rog, iron ore and rail center already reported flanked on three sides by Red army troops, was believed to be a matter of hours.

Capture of Krivoi Rog, a pivotal base for the whole German defense setup in the southern Ukraine above the Crimea, would enable the Russians to turn the northern army of their pincers in a southerly direction to close with the opposite arm pushing northward from the

Grimesland Over Top In War Fund

Grimesland township went over the top last night in the National or United War Fund Drive with $1,129 collected little more than 24 hours after the committee, headed by Chairman G. P. Carr and Mayor A. F. Fleming and Dr. C. H. Spiggle of Grimesland and Godfrey S. Porter of Simpson, started to work.

The quota was $1,102. The committee said they will continue to accept contributions. O. A. Dupree, chairman for the Negroes of the community, turned in a substantial sum.

The money will go to the National War Fund for the benefit of men in the armed forces, American prisoners in enemy territory, etc.

Reds Capture Key Dnieper Cities

The capture of Dnepropetrovsk and Dneprodzerzhinsk, key cities in the upper corner of the Dnieper river bend, came with other Soviet drives toward Krivoi Rog from the north, across the broken Zaporozhe-Melitopol line.

South of Melitopol, the Russians smashed deeper in their efforts to cut off the Germans escaping from the Dnieper bend on the Dnepropetrovsk-Nikolai railway (A) and from the Crimea on the railway running through Kherston (B).

Tokyo Reports Allies Landed On Mono Island

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A Tokyo broadcast recorded today by the Federal Communications Commission said Allied forces had landed on Mono Island, near Shortland Island in the Solomons, early Wednesday morning.

In an English-language broadcast, beamed to the United States, Tokyo declared Japanese naval aircraft attacked the Allied convoy, sinking one warship and damaging another.

Shortland lies at the lower tip of Bougainville, near the upper end of the Solomons. The Japanese have airfields at Kahili and Kara on south Bougainville, and also in the Shortlands.

Southeast of Shortland are the islands of Vella Lavella and Kolombangara, recently occupied by Allied forces.

Fountain Leading In War Fund Drive

Fountain township now leads all Pitt county townships in the National or United War Fund Drive. The committee, under Co-Chairmen W. R. Harris and L. P. Nelverton, collected its quota of $1,200 and enough extra to give it a percentage of 115.

Ed E. Rawl, publicity chairman, announced today. "The Fountain people always respond in a big way to a call for public service," Rawl said.

War Fund Quotas

Table with 2 columns: Township, Percentage of Quota Subscribed. Includes Fountain (115%), Carolina (Stokes) (108%), Grimesland (101%), etc.

GOAL IN FUND DRIVE FAR OFF

Only Three Townships Have Reached Assigned Quotas So Far

By CHESTER WALSH Preliminary reports of the general campaign for $7,500 in Pitt county for the United or National War Fund are somewhat disappointing.

Unless the people respond more generously than during the past few days, accomplishment of the county's quota will be disappointing," he added.

Fountain now leads all townships in the drive, having subscribed 115 per cent of its quota of $1,200.

The fact that these three townships have oversubscribed their War Fund quotas is a challenge to other townships to work harder and collect their quotas before the week ends," said Publicity Chairman Ed E. Rawl.

Seek To Put End To Labor Hoarding

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Members of the Senate's War Investigating Committee voiced demands for drastic federal action to end labor hoarding in aircraft and other war industries today after hearing from Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production Board.

Wilson made his report to the committee in a telegram from Dallas.

After telling the committee he would remove Dallas from the list of "critical labor areas," McNutt was bombarded with requests for a review of 71 other such areas.

The WAR TODAY

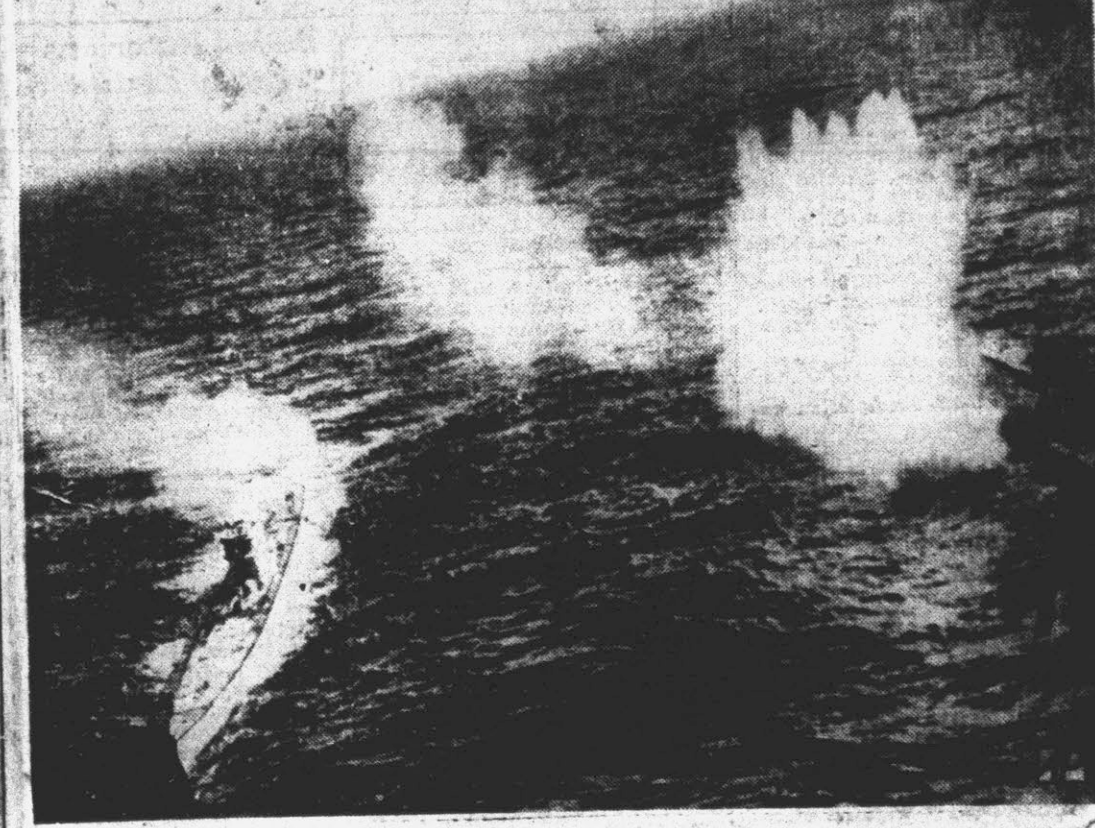

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst The battle of giants in the great bend of the Dnieper has reached a magnitude and ferocity reminiscent of Stalingrad.

However, I think we should slow in forming judgment as to the extent of the German difficulties. Hitler is in a bad hole, but we shall do well to stick with the admonition that "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

The picture is gloomy for the Nazis. Even Berlin has been forced to the unwelcome task of preparing the long-suffering German public for another catastrophe.

Americans Drive Deep Salient Into German Lines; Nazi Resistance Growing As Main Defense Line Nears; Montgomery's Men Move Forward On Eastern Sector

By NOLAND NORGAARD Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 28.—(AP)—American troops stabbing high up the valley of the upper Volturno river have driven a deep salient into the enemy's lines northwest of Raviscanina, while Eighth army engineers threw bridges across the Trigno river under heavy shellfire.

Enemy resistance was reported jelling along the entire front as the two Allied armies punched doggedly forward over rough countryside, mowing down one strong outpost after another and approaching the new German main lines.

At the Adriatic end of the front, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British troops had firmly secured a bridgehead over the Trigno river despite sharp and continuous enemy fighting to wipe out his position on the northwest bank.

In the face of what was officially termed "extremely accurate" artillery bombardment, Eighth Army engineers continued to throw new bridges across the stream.

The town of Castelmauro, six miles southwest of Palata, was taken by Eighth Army units after a relatively small-scale but extremely bitter battle in which the British advanced a mile and a half beyond their former line.

Fatally Scalded By Electric Percolator

May Dean Thorne, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley O. Thorne of Roduco, Gates county, who was severely scalded Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock when she pulled over a steaming electric coffee percolator, died at her parents' home this morning about 1:30.

Funeral services will be held at the home of her grandfather, J. R. Little, near Falkland, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Surviving are her parents; two sisters, Shirley Ann and Betty Lou Thorne; and a brother, Don Wayne Thorne; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley O. Thorne, of Macesfield, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Little, of near Falkland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley O. Thorne lived near Falkland until about three years ago when they moved to Roduco.

Lewis Rejects Labor Board Compromise In Wage Issue

URGES STRONG POSTWAR PLAN

Senator Burton Wants Plan With Teeth In It

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Contending that "a robust American policy" is needed in the post-war world, Senator Burton (R-Ohio) urged the Senate today to spell out a more specific declaration than the peace-maintenance resolution recommended by the Foreign Relations Committee.

"Senate Resolution 192 is so general," he said in commencing a speech begun yesterday, "that it can be interpreted as expressing a willingness to accept anything from a federal union with two or more nations on one extreme to a loose military alliance with two or more nations on the other."

Contending that the Senate had a positive duty under the constitution to advise and consent in the making of treaties, Burton said: "The danger in this whole situation is that the Senate remains so

Coal Production Declines As Number Idle Miners Increases To 57,000

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—John L. Lewis today in effect rejected the War Labor Board's compromise plan for settling the coal miners' wage dispute, as work stoppages continue to spread in the fields.

The United Mine Workers president advised District UMWWA officials by telegram that he considered the WLB plan for approving a minimum $1.12 a day earnings increase in the "model" Illinois contract to be the equivalent of a reduction in the basic wage rate.

Additional work stoppages marked the passing of the War Labor Board's "deadline" for ending wildcat strikes in the soft coal fields.

A survey in widely scattered coal states indicated more than 57,000 miners were idle yesterday, the number was 48,000.

United Mine Workers spokesmen have described the walkouts, blamed principally on the continued lack of a working contract, as unauthorized, and in many sections have joined WLB in urging the men to go back to the pits.

Dim-Outs To End On November First

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Lights will be turned up again on November 1 along the nation's coasts as the army and navy mark down a victory over the prowling enemy submarine.

The lights were lowered originally because the glow from cities on the Atlantic Pacific and Gulf coasts silhouetted ships and set up targets for night-ranging subs.

William Manning, chief of the Atlantic coast, expressed a desire to publicly thank each and every one of the more than 100 persons who so generously contributed to the fund.

DELAY FATHER DRAFT ACTION

House And Senate Conferees To Meet Next Week

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The postwar debate in the senate today delayed final congressional action on the father-draft issue.

Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee said a scheduled get-together of house and senate conferees to adjust differences between bills on this question passed by the two chambers had been postponed until next week.

"Senate conferees told us they were too tied up in the post-war debate to hold a conference today," May said. "I wanted to hold one last night in order to dispose of this

Plaintiffs Rest In Dixon Land Case

In the Dixon land suit being tried in Superior Court the plaintiffs concluded their testimony and rested this morning. Taking of testimony tomorrow and will not be completed until tomorrow.

L. D. Dixon and other heirs of the late J. C. Dixon of Chicod who died in 1942 at the age of 91, are seeking to have set aside certain deeds to property made by the elder Dixon to his son Scott Dixon and his wife. The case has been on trial since Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley O. Thorne lived near Falkland until about three years ago when they moved to Roduco.

Sales Tax Proposal Is Rejected By Committee

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today rejected all proposals for a national retail sales tax and thereby virtually completed action on a general tax bill with only about $2,000,000,000 in new taxes.

The committee action today was in line with vigorous administration opposition to retail sales taxes. The CIO had given warning that if a retail sales tax was enacted labor would demand proportionate wage increases.

The rejection of the sales tax principle came after the committee voted down a motion by Rep. Robertson (D-Va) to impose a ten percent levy with "cost of living" exemption certificate and a ban against using a sales tax—any more

To Use Prisoners For "Skin Banks"

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Organization of a "skin bank" at Eastern state penitentiary, believed to be the first in the country, was announced today by Dr. Herbert M. Goddard, chairman of the penitentiary's board of trustees.

Dr. Goddard said 50 long-term convicts have been typed and found physically fit and are ready to make donations of skin wherever they are needed. He added that he planned to organize skin donors in prisons throughout the country.

FIFTEENTH DISTRICT OF WOMEN'S CLUBS MEETS

The annual meeting of the Fifteenth District of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs was held in Aulander on October 21, with Mrs. C. C. Hilton of Greenville, president, presiding.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the Clubwoman's Hymn, after which the invocation was given by Rev. Joseph Folds, pastor of the Baptist Church, where the session was held. The collect was read in unison.

Mrs. W. V. Hoggard, president of the hostess club, brought greetings and Mrs. T. D. Harmon of Powellsville, responded. Mrs. T. G. Whedbee, president of the Fifteenth District of Home Demonstration Clubs, brought greetings from her organization.

In her remarks to the assembly Mrs. Hilton stressed again her motto "Forward Through Service," and urged the clubs to carry out a four-fold program as follows: (1) War service program; (2) recreation for teen age boys and girls; (3) cooperation with state and national officials; (4) a project for the betterment of the community. A letter to Juniors was read from Mrs. Macon Brown of Raleigh, state president of the Juniors.

Reports of outstanding work done during the past year were given by the clubs represented.

The highpoint of the meeting was an address by Mrs. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh, president-director of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Highsmith warned the clubs against a one-sided program, urging them to do war work, but not to neglect the finer things of life, such as art, literature and music. She gave the slogan she had chosen for her two-year term of office—"Build for the future a life without fear, a faith without doubt and a world without war."

Mrs. R. A. McLaughlin of Yadkinville, second vice-president of the Federation, gave several helpful suggestions to the clubs and stressed the theme "War Work with a Future."

Miss Cordelia Jones of Aulander, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hoggard, beautifully sang "Good-bye."

Past presidents and officers of the district were recognized. Officers for the next year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. Jesse Moye of Farmville; vice-president, Mrs. T. G. Harmon of Powellsville; secretary, Mrs. Mabry Pollard of Farmville.

Seventy-six delegates were present, four of these were Juniors. Thirteen clubs were represented in the district which comprises Bertie, Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington counties.

At the close of the meeting, members adjourned to the Woman's Club building, where a delightful luncheon was served.

Attendance prizes were awarded to the Plymouth Woman's Club and to the Williamston Junior Woman's Club.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Mrs. J. H. Corey, Mrs. Fred Haar, Mrs. Felix Scheller and Mrs. Dink James represented the Greenville Woman's Club.

GIRL

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

Chapter 11

The conference did go down in history. Sally heard Donovan, head of the metals division, say as the group pushed out the door, "Boys, in the months I've been in Washington, that's the first time anyone I've asked me what I thought of his ideas—and paid attention when I told him. There's one guy who isn't going to go around just shooting off his mouth."

Langhorne evidently was pleased too. He came out of the inner office, holding a half-burned cigar gingerly. He said to Sally, "I'm going downstairs to the cafeteria till the smoke of battle clears away." There was a twinkle in his eye, and Sally knew the meeting had gone in his favor. Then he added, "That was a strategic move of yours, Miss Thayer. From now on, I think I will let you handle all public relations." He stroled out the door, preceded by a billowing cloud of blue smoke.

Sally was elated. She turned her exuberance to a practical end, and spent the rest of the afternoon cleaning out the files, a dirty, irritating job that she detested. Langhorne never did get back. Shortly after five, Sally decided to call it a day and locked up her desk.

Sally got out her lipstick, and wondered if she should go downtown tonight to do some shopping. It was Thursday, and the stores were open till nine—for the convenience of six-day-a-week workers like herself. But the crowds were dreadful, and it took so long to catch a sales clerk's eye that Sally steered clear of the big department stores whenever she could. As she snapped her compact shut, Stewart peeked his head in the door. He'd been at the conference that day. He was a handsome man with a shock of white hair and that startled people, male and female, into looking twice at his very young, very alive face.

"Hasn't your boss recovered yet?" He always gave Sally an intense look that she figured was 99 percent habit. The man probably thought he was every girl's heart throb. It made Sally respond by being more formal than the situation demanded.

Stewart went on, "Shutting up shop, are you? I wish I could call it a day. But I've got to make the rounds with the Army and Navy tonight."

Sally couldn't resist saying "Got to?"

Stewart laughed, watching her put on her hat. Sally had gone on a buying spree after she got the new job, and the red pin box, particularly becoming with her dark hair, was part of her present to herself. "Not bad, lady," Stewart, complimented her, leaning against the window sill. The personal note in his voice disturbed her. Stewart was the sort of man who made you uncomfortable even if he wasn't saying a word.

"She moved toward the door. "Shall I lock you out or in?"

"What's the hurry? I have lots of time. In spite of that red hat, I suppose you'd turn me down if I asked you to have a drink with me."

Sally stopped short by the door. "I would."

"Why?"

Sally regarded him with a level gaze. "Because you probably have a wife and a couple of children back home in New York or Chicago. I don't like to go out with men I know nothing about."

Stewart regarded her quizzically. "You're only 20 years behind times, my girl. Just because I ask you to have a drink with me, do you have to have a character reference? I have some time to kill. So do you, or I miss my guess. I'll bet your dates are few and far between. There aren't many single men in this town. I'm inviting you out because you're attractive, yes, but also because you probably haven't even had a squint at a night spot. Have you been inside the Mayflower? No. Have you been to the Carleton? No. Have you been to the Shoreham? No. Good old Palmer Stewart, friend of the working girl."

In spite of the antagonism Stewart's good-looking face aroused in her, Sally had to laugh. He made her sound ridiculously Puritanical. Looking at it logically, was a man any harm in one drink with a man who probably was a contemporary of your boss?

Stewart's invitation was tempting. It would be exciting to see the crowds, the men in uniform, the well-dressed women, to see the social side of Washington she knew nothing about. Stewart, from the look of him, undoubtedly knew his way around.

She told Stewart suddenly, "I'll surprise you and say yes."

Stewart had a most engaging smile. "A very sensible decision. We will see the town. Wait till I shut up my shop, and I'll stop back for you."

It was quite an evening Sally tried to look nonchalant, as though she were at the Shoreham, dinner at the Della Rio were quite commonplace activities. Actually, she thought it was all wonderful. She tried not to stare at the glittering array of gold braid on display in the Mayflower cocktail lounge. There was everything from a Scotsman in beret and beautifully pleated plaid kilts to three Slavic-looking gentlemen in red caps and red-lined capes. Those three had even Stewart stopped. He couldn't identify them.

It was after midnight when Stewart's party began to break up. The squatly colonel who had barely gotten some sleep, two others dropped Stewart managed to talk the rest of the group into having a final nightcap with him at his apartment.

To Sally, this was almost the most pleasant moment of the evening. The apartment, high and cool, looked out on the grounds of a heavily-wooded estate. Standing at the window, away from the chattering group, Sally thought how wonderful it would be to afford a place so attractive. Stewart came up behind her quietly. "Having a good time?" She'd had only the most casual conversation with him all evening.

Sally turned around, her eyes sparkling. "A very exciting time. It's been a perfect evening."

Stewart looked down at her, a half-smile on his handsome face. "Why don't you stay and spend the night? It would save me the trouble of finding a taxi to take you home."

Chapter 12

The floor rocked, the room whirled around. Sally held on to the window sill for support. She stared at Stewart, seeing his face through a wave of anger. For a minute she could find no words to express her disgust. Then they came. Afterward she couldn't remember what she'd said.

Stewart's composure was unshakable. "Why don't you just slap my face and be done with it? It seems to me that's the way it's done on the movies."

Sally's contemptuous voice stopped him. "Good old Palmer Stewart, friend of the working girl. So that's what you mean by 'friend.' And you don't need a character reference just to buy me a drink. Of all the heels! Let me get out of here."

Out in the street Sally signaled the faintest cab she saw. She hadn't the faintest idea how far away her 19th street room was, but she was going to get there as quickly as she could. She was shaking now, her hands and feet icy. I'm not shocked, she kept telling herself. I'm just disgusted with myself for being so taken in.

She slept restlessly that night—what there was left of it—seeing Stewart's good-looking face distorted in nightmares far more horrible than the actual occurrence.

The girls were in too much of a hurry to ask her what kind of a time she had had, though Frances did say, "Did you see the town?"

Sally had a feeling her three world-wise roommates would take a sensible view of the experience. The whole thing didn't seem quite so bad when viewed by morning light. She wished now she hadn't expressed herself so vehemently to Stewart. If she'd been more experienced at handling unpleasant situations, she could have told him off just as thoroughly without being so violent. But after all, she thought wryly, she hadn't been propositioned before.

Now her major worry was seeing him again—as she undoubtedly would very soon for Langhorne ran head on into Ickes' petroleum division all the time, and Stewart was an important cog in that agency. Right now she didn't see how she could bring herself to speak to him.

Langhorne at the office surprised her by saying solicitously, "You look tired, Miss Thayer."

For a crazy moment, Sally wondered what he would do if she told him about her experience with Stewart. Then she recovered her balance, and managed to answer lightly, "I guess late hours are too much for me, Mr. Langhorne. I should know better."

"Don't overdo it today," Langhorne cautioned her. Sally watched him go out to battle with the War Department. She thought gratefully. He's so nice. By contrast to

Stewart, her boss was on a par with the angels. When the telephone rang, she was typing busily. She flipped the key and said, "Mr. Langhorne's office."

It was Miss Ritchie in Temporary R's personnel office. She'd taken Sally to her desk that first day she began work at the War Commission.

Miss Ritchie, who had a Brooklyn accent guaranteed to stick with her no matter how far away she traveled from Flatbush, asked, "Would you be interested in joining a group of War Commission girls who are going up to a Fort Meade dance tomorrow night?"

It was all Greek to Sally. Miss Ritchie started at the beginning. Thousands of soldiers without overnight leave were footloose on Saturday night. The USO helped them out by planning dances for them at the clubhouse in Laurel, and invited government agencies to send girls up to be partners. The agencies, loaded down with female personnel, had no trouble complying. Miss Ritchie, the essence of fairness, tried to see that every girl who wanted to, went up to Meade at least once. She was getting around to Sally now.

"If you want to go, Miss Thayer, a bit will have the corner of Third street and Independence avenue at 7:30 tomorrow night. We send a chaperone with every bus-load. You go in a group and return in a group, leaving Meade at 11."

After the jolt sophisticated Palmer Stewart had given her last night, this party seemed to Sally as pure as a Sunday School picnic. She thought a minute. It would probably be as dull as di-water, but she loved to dance. "Thank you, I'd like to go, Miss Ritchie," she said.

She was humming "She Was Just a Soldier's Sweetheart"—with silent him as he stood very erectly in front of the desk. She remembered Langhorne regarded Stewart as an exceptionally clever and able executive. She could see why.

She answered gravely, "You're right, I promise to forget it. Thank you for coming in."

Stewart smiled suddenly. "Good girl? I thought you'd be sensible. Now, will you put me down for an appointment with your superior as soon as you can arrange it? Thanks a lot." He walked out rapidly.

Listening to his characteristic step as he went down the hall—he came down so hard on his heels that the walls almost rattled—Sally shook her head. What a lot she had to learn. She suspected in Washington she could learn it in a short time, for here life was rushing along at avalanche speed, pushing its amazing assemblage of temporary citizens on and on.

BE WISE, HAVE A HEART—
LOW IN POINT VALUE, HIGH IN NUTRITION

It's hard to believe, but nevertheless true, that you can serve heart to six people for the same number of points as it would cost to serve round steak to only one. Perhaps you had better not mention you are serving heart if any of your family has prejudices against it. But you need not apologize for it either, for heart can be made very tasty. And, what's more, heart ranks above certain cuts of beef in iron, thiamine (Vitamin B1) and riboflavin (B2). So have a heart frequently to bolster up that meat point-budget.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

HARSHNESS NEVER PAYS
Just a hundred years ago Charles Dickens was the idol of the English reading world. One successful book after another had appeared until it seemed that his literary fame was indeed established.

But he made a trip to America, and when he returned to England he wrote "American Notes" and "Martin Chuzzlewit," both highly critical of America. Here he met his first great setback. The Americans had bought his books by the tens of thousands, and Dickens' only word for them was one of scorn and criticism. Even the English did not like his attitude. They felt that there was something essentially the matter with the spirit of a man who sees in a country and its people nothing but boasting, coarseness, and stupidity.

The quickest way to get ourselves unpopular is by manifesting a constant spirit of criticism. Even the people who agree with our conclusions come at last to dislike our spirit that they cast in their lot with our enemies and join them in reviling us. The time comes when people hate the critic more than they do the things he criticizes, no matter how favorable they may have been toward his opinions in the beginning. Even Dickens, the idol of millions and up to that time the most popular novelist that ever lived, found that when he turned from stroking humanity and began to rub the fur the wrong way, everybody turned against him.

Humility never thrives on harsh words.

INEVITABLE

The wrangle still goes on in Washington about what form the new taxes will take but the public can rest assured that there will be more taxes to pay and as usual, there will be little retrenchment in public spending. That's the way the politicians have always handled it and that's the way it will be as long as the American people continue to send politicians instead of statesmen to Washington.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Fountain, Carolina, (Stokes), Grimesland and Calico communities have all gone over the top in the War Fund Drive. Our congratulations to these communities and may others in the county follow the example set by these first to achieve their goals.

Throughout the county the early stages of the drive proved satisfactory, with the goal of $37,500 nearly 60 per cent contributed, but it must be remembered that in a campaign of this kind the last part is by far the hardest.

We cannot afford not to go over the top in this drive for funds to aid our fighting men and our suffering allies and the drive must continue until the goal is reached. In order to achieve success every community in the county must go "over the top" and this is not possible unless every person in the community lends a hand by making a contribution to the full extent of his or her abil-

Three Men In A Tub

REG-MANNING

Let's not let it be said of Pitt County that we are not willing to make the necessary sacrifices to stand squarely behind our men who are fighting to preserve our liberties and freedom. We now have the opportunity to prove ourselves by going "over the top" in this War Fund Drive. The result depends on you.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Capital soothsayers are opining that the report of the five senators who made the global warrents junk shouldn't be taken too much to heart.

From time to time we hope to clarify several things, but for the moment we will consider only petroleum. Some of the senators came back to report that we are supplying the world with about 85 per cent of its fighting oil and gasoline; that we have only enough reserves in the ground to last a few years; and that before 1950 we will be totally dependent on Great Britain for our petroleum.

As a matter of fact, the globe-trotting senators haven't gone far enough. The United States is producing something like four and a quarter million barrels a day. Iran, Iraq, Arabia, Egypt, the Middle East, Russia, Colombia, Canada, Trinidad, and Mexico are now producing about a million and a half barrels a day.

Outside the United States, there is supposed to be about 24 billion barrels of crude; within it, about 19 billion. U. S. investors hold practically all the local supply and about 28 per cent of that outside this country. Great Britain controls about 50 per cent of that available outside the United States. Russia about 20 per cent, and other United Nations the remainder.

This doesn't, of course, consider the crude supply in Axis hands—in the Dutch East Indies, Rumania, Bessarabia, etc.—but it does give a clear picture of the situation.

Through the government owned Petroleum Reserves Corp., a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., presided over by aggressive Harold L. Ickes, we are definitely in the market for foreign petroleum production. By the time the war is over, those "control" figures may have to be revised. If they are only maintained, it is unlikely that the U. S. will be coming out at the short end of the horn.

Then why did the senators come back all perturbed about the petroleum situation?

There are three reasons. The first is that the potential future production of petroleum seems to lie almost entirely in the Eastern Hemisphere and therefore it is reasonable to believe that once Western Hemisphere stocks are depleted the U. S. A. will be in the same position for oil that it has been for rubber or quinine.

Secondly, our foreign policy denies us the right to step in with government funds to control these potential oil reserves and it is doubtful if our private corporations, as strong as they are financially, are capable of coping with government subsidies from other nations.

In the third place, the future of petroleum is mostly a guess. Not only are there millions of square miles of potential oil fields still untapped in this country, but there is the possibility that coal oil shales, natural gas, etc., may provide source-not yet touched. Oil will be one of the major considerations at the peace table and if this war is prolonged, say for three years, may become one of the chief military objectives.

In view of the fact that the U. S. always has controlled the major portion of the world's oil supply, even though not as much as it eventually may use, there's little reason to believe that we will slip up now.

Sales Tax . . .

The House committee turned to the sales tax issue after junking piece-by-piece the administration's multi-billion dollar program.

It did approve a hike in the corporation excess profits tax from 90 per cent to 95 per cent which, with certain adjustments of credits would yield an estimated $616,000,000 annually. This with about $1,500,000,000 from higher postage and excise rates, accounted for virtually the entire production of proposed new revenue this far.

The committee's scorecard, with its tax chores just about completed, read like this:

1. Individual incomes, from which the treasury asked $650,000,000 additional—rejected with the committee voting against any further increases. The committee, however, approved integration of the victory tax with the normal income tax rate, retaining all the present victory taxpayers.

2. Corporation income taxes—the committee refused to raise the normal and surtax rates.

3. Excises—the administration asked $2,500,000,000 in additional taxes on so-called luxuries. The committee approved an increase in postal and excise rates which together would yield about $1,500,000,000—$600,000,000 of this amount from liquor, beer and wine. Some members are seeking reconsideration of the vote.

4. Estate and gift taxes—the committee would freeze the present rates, rejecting a treasury recommendation for changes to bring in another $400,000,000.

something it has been unwilling to do since its disastrous defeats in the south Pacific last year—probably will not be accepted. The belief here is that the Japanese will not risk their main fleet strength until their home islands are threatened, or unless they seek to trap a numerically inferior American force.

In the circumstances the expectation is that the enemy will leave defense of the Marshall and Gilbert Islands and probably even the Carolines, which are much nearer the Philippines, to their land-based bomber and fighter squadrons and to the garrisons strongly entrenched there.

Conquest of the islands would clear at least part of the route to the Philippines for use if and when United States forces are ready to fight their way back there; it would also greatly shorten supply lines to the Solomons and New Guinea.

"No definite date has been set for the conference and it looks like the senate will be debating the post-war resolution most of next week."

The conference will attempt to mesh these two proposals:

NAVY LEAVES HIT TAR HEELS

Transfer Of V-12ers Leaves Team Full Of Holes

By The Associated Press
The University of North Carolina's football coach Tom Young has a couple of tough assignments on his hands.

First, the Tar Heels have a Southern Conference football game scheduled for Saturday at Chapel Hill and second, there have been so many holes left in his team by absent Navy V-12 players that he's having to use makeshift formations to even get through practice sessions.

Carolina's 90-man V-12 outfit is scattered over the country-side on furloughs leaving Young to use Backfield Coach Henry House, Line Coach Grady Pritchard and a student manager on the Carolina squad in practice.

Several players, including four freshman backs, Bob Rockholz, Joe Kosinski, Don Clayton and Bobby Weant, have been promoted from the Jay-Vee to the varsity squad in preparation for the game with State.

Navy officials have not yet released the complete list of players being transferred, but Coach Young has indicated that his team might lose as many as 20 senior stars.

Coach Doc Newton, at North Carolina State, says, however, that the Tar Heels "still have last year's freshman team, which was good enough to beat our freshman team—which we don't have now—a 40 to 7 score."

Between semester leaves for naval trainees practice continued to reduce practice attendance yesterday at South Carolina where the Gamecocks held their last scrimmage session before meeting the Charleston, S. C. Coast Guard Friday.

Clemson, kept indoors by the wetter yesterday, went through an all-inclusive blackboard study of gridiron tactics in preparation for their game Saturday with a conference member, Wake Forest.

VMI's varsity was pushed around for a while in practice yesterday by a group of army specialized training players who talked one touchdown before the Cadets came to life and managed to stop the T-formation the AST boys were using.

The Cadets meet a non-conference foe, the University of Virginia, in Lexington, Va., Saturday.

DUKE AND TECH FACE PROBLEM

Coaches Don't Know Who Will Be On Team Saturday

At Atlanta, Oct. 28.—(AP)—There'll be 22 players on the field when Georgia Tech and Duke weigh anchor at Grant Field here Saturday, but only the navy knows who will be in the starting lineups.

The coaches haven't the slightest idea.

As long as they could count on their naval trainees, both Tech and Duke were formidable gridiron aggressions. But graduation this week sent a damaging salvo into their ranks, left the Yellowjackets without nine and possibly 10 seniors; threatened to deprive the Blue Devils of eight starting players.

Duke Coach Eddie Cameron summed the situation up when he said "Nothing would make me happier than to be able to tell you who will play for us."

He will submit to naval authorities at the school Friday morning a list of players he wants to make the trip, but until then he admitted "your guess is as good as mine."

And not knowing who Saturday's starters will be, Cameron was at his wit's end trying to devise plays for the game.

The Yellowjackets' head man, W. A. (Bill) Alexander, at somewhat more fortunate in that he knows at least nine men who will not be on hand.

Three starting players—end Gene Hill, tackle Bill Harper and blocking back Wilbur Stein—received their navy commissions and departed.

Jimmy Three days before the Cornell-Colgate clash there, Ossie predicted that the Big Red wouldn't have any more success against Colgate than it had against Syracuse on the same field. Ex-Sports Writer Tom O'Reilly is writing a book about his experiences in the Merchant Marine and one of the high spots will be the tale of a July 4 baseball game in Cairo between army officers and war correspondents.

ed on leave before reporting for further duty. George (Mutt) Manning, captain and center, also donned his enlisted's uniform, but will remain on the campus to play against Duke and tackle Willie Smith may return in time for the game.

The others who are certain not to see action are Duck Smith and Ed Ryckley, substitute wingbacks; Harry Morrow, reserve tackle; Al Faulkner, reserve blocking back; R. O. Lowrey, substitute center; and Alvin McDonald, reserve fullback.

Loss of the Duke seniors before Saturday would leave only Bob Gantt, who has been out with a broken hand all season, and Benny Cittadino at ends, and Buddy Luper at tailback in the starting eleven. Such stars as Pat Preston, Bob Nanni and Bulldog Williams, tackles; Bill Milner and Pim Myers, guards; fullback Tom Davis, wingback Lloyd Lamar Blount and Leo Long would move on.

The Berlin radio, terming the fighting a "super-battle," said the Germans were completing "a large withdrawal movement" in the pocket of the Dnieper bend. Moscow declared, however, that Russian forces were effectively cutting up enemy attempts to get out of the trap.

The Germans were in slow but steady retreat along the entire southern front according to a Moscow communique. The German high command threw in planes, tanks and men from Italy, France and Germany in a desperate attempt to stem the Russian advance, but to no avail. German transport planes were dropping supplies to isolated Nazi units.

The Russian communique said that upwards of 3,000 Nazis were killed in yesterday's fighting on the southern front, indicating that the German transport system had broken down the bulletin added.

Magik Charm Didn't Work; Girl In Jail

By CHESTER WALSH
A $20 Haitian Jo-Mo, magic charm, Frances Roberson, 15-year-old Negro girl, bought to "win my boy friend back" failed to work and the girl found herself in the 'armyville calaboose charged with the larceny of $100 from Barney Allen, cafe owner and her employer. She is now in jail in Greenville awaiting trial in Superior Court next week.

Walter Vereene, Negro taxicab driver, was arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense when he sold the girl the Jo-Mo, with a guarantee that the charm "would work in nine days." He will be tried here next week.

Dick Bundy, attorney for the Jo-Mo vendor said after the preliminary hearing that they didn't give the charm time to work—the nine days are not up.

The girl in a confession about the theft of money from her employer, told Farmville Police Chief L. T. Lucas what she did with the money and about buying the Jo-Mo. He swore out a warrant against Vereene. Vereene was not connected with the theft of money from the cafe.

Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's troops, however, attacked and drove the Germans from more important high ground along both sides of the Volturne and widened the base of their salient by taking Riardo, nine miles southwest of Raviscanina and 11 miles northwest of Capua.

The gains left the Americans of the Fifth army and the Canadians and British on the left of the Eighth army still short of the main mountain defense line toward which the Germans are slowly withdrawing.

The difficulty of the advance was indicated by the communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters which said "enemy positions strongly held cover all main approaches and have to be dealt with in detail."

As far as is indicated in official reports the Eighth army has driven across the Trigno both sides of the Volturne area of the river's mouth. Mafalda, taken by the Eighth army, is about nine miles inland and about two miles south of the river. It is four miles southeast of Montero, previously captured.

With the Mediterranean virtually cleared of enemy shipping and the German air force apparently too weak and too far away to attempt further raids on North African ports, the northwest African coastal air force has transferred its activity largely to the Adriatic.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Cotton trading developed more activity today but prices kept in a narrow range. A new government invitation to bid on nearly ten and a quarter million yards of sheeting for coating use and attendant trade price fixing bolstered nearby positions.

Futures closed (old contracts) 15 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower.

Grain Market

Chicago, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Milling interests were back in the wheat market today and prices climbed about a cent in a steady advance. Trading expanded on the upturn, although still running below the pace of a few weeks ago when the bread cereal went into new seasonal high territory.

Dealers said mills took substantial amounts of wheat.

At the close wheat was 1/4-1/2 higher, December 1.55 1/2-1.56, May $1.54 1/2, rye was 1/4-1/2 higher, December $1.14 1/2-1.15, oats were up 1/4-1/2 and barley was ahead 1/4-1/2.

No Announcement On Leaf Holiday

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Governor Broughton and Governor Colgate Darden of Virginia have postponed until noon tomorrow their decision on whether the flue-cured markets in both states would be reopened for sales on Monday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Utility preferreds pushed up in today's stock market but light profit taking in recently strong specialties such as the liquors tended to shift most leaders to the minus ranks. Prices began to slip after a fairly steady opening but activity dwindled appreciably as trends wavered. Transfers were around 800,000 shares.

Stocks touching peaks for the year or longer included senior shares of Electric Power and Light, American Power and Light and J. C. Case common. In front most of the time were Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck, Oliver Farm, Philip Morris and Dupont.

Bonds were mixed.

Jaycees And City Collect Old Paper

The Junior Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of collecting scrap paper for the war salvage drive has arranged to have one of the street department's trucks call daily at business places for scrap paper. Business places with a large quantity of old paper are requested to phone 3583, the street department, and a truck will call. The Jaycee salvage committee will bundle the scrap paper and ship it. Jake Hadley is president of the Junior Chamber, Alton Barrett is paper salvage chairman and Arthur Tripp is publicity chairman.

The truck will call promptly at business places to avoid putting the scrap paper in trash receptacles.

Former Weatherman Dead

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Lee A. Denson, 74, retired veteran meteorologist, died yesterday in a hospital here after a long illness.

He was section director of the U. S. Weather Bureau, with headquarters here, for 30 years prior to his retirement in 1939.

The War Labor Board is expected to certify the wildcat strikes to President Roosevelt late today or tomorrow, presumably as a prelude to government seizure of the affected workings. The board set a deadline of this morning for strikers to return to work. The mechanics of checking the situation, preparing the documents and arranging a visit to the White House would delay the actual certification until at least sundown.

A further grace period and possibly an appeal to the men by the President may precede a presidential order of seizure. Beyond that, the routine is uncertain. Secretary Ickes has told friends he would not willingly accept the custodianship of the mines again—as he did last summer—without broader authori-

Opposes Removing Quotas Wilson, Oct. 28.—(AP)—R. Flake Shaw, executive secretary of the N. C. Farm Bureau of Greensboro, opposes any removal of tobacco marketing quotas in the flue-cured belt.

He said as much yesterday in a telegram to Marvin Jones, head of the War Food Administration.

He asserted that sufficient tobacco to meet demands of trade could be produced without abandoning the quotas.

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The average equipment loss by the U. S. Eighth air force since it began operations from bases in Great Britain July 4, 1942, has been less than five per cent, Secretary of War Stimson said at his press conference today.

The same average holds true for the Royal Air Force, Stimson added, noting that the calculation includes all types of aircraft.

The secretary brought up the subject in connection with the attack on Schweinfurt on October 14 when 60 Flying Fortresses were shot down, whether the question had arisen whether the 8th air force could stand such losses.

It must be remembered, Stimson said, that such high losses on single missions are counter-balanced by very light losses in other attacks—“for instance, a few days ago 501 American planes attacked airfields in northern France, and suffered no losses.”

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The President may turn the whole job of coal production over to the army.

The reaction of the miners themselves to the War Labor Board's proposal for settling the coal wage problem was not immediately certain. The number of striking miners showed a net increase, but the picture early today was too spotty to be conclusive.

Washington, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Rabaul, a keystone in the wall of island outposts manned by the Japanese in defense of the Philippines is staggering under aerial knockout blows which already have destroyed or damaged 525 planes in 13 days.

This fifth raid occurred Monday, marking the third straight day of assaults to smash the enemy's New Britain stronghold. The Liberators, absorbing considerable damage from ack ack, dropped 151 tons of bombs, destroyed 21 planes on the Lakanal airfield and shot down at least 37 of 70 interceptors. Forty-three other enemy planes were damaged.

Significant changes are being wrought by the mounting fury of Allied air might.

Rabaul is being cracked wide open. Bougainville, Rabaul's Solomon outpost, has sustained plane losses of more than 400 since the current Allied offensive opened on June 30 and presently cannot even put planes in the air to halt methodical destruction of its airfields. Wewak, New Guinea, through which Rabaul's air replacements once moved from the west, lost upwards of 400 planes in August and September to Allied raiders and
