RAF Slashes At Berlin Fourth Night In A Row

War Industries At Frankfurt Blast; Fortresses Believe Attacking Bremen Today; Marauders Smash At France; Fourth Of Berlin Reported Destroyed

By GLADWIN HILL London, Nov. 26.—(AP)—American heavy bombers struck into northwest Germany today, taking up in daylight the massive aerial offensive against the Nazis after the RAF gave Berlin its fourth straight night of bombing and heavily attacked Frankfurt-am-Main.

The U. S. announcement did not specify immediately the target of the bombers and their fighter escort, but the Bremen radio went off the air, suggesting that much-battered port as an objective.

This was the first operation in a week by heavy formations from the Eighth Air Force, the 18th heavy Allied attack from Britain in November and the ninth for the U. S. air force.

In addition to Frankfurt, the German radio said RAF bombers hit Offenbach, leather and chemical goods town six miles east of Frankfurt. Marauding RAF Mosquitos simultaneously struck Berlin.

The twin raids were achieved with small loss. Thirteen British bombers failed to return, compared with 44 the last time Frankfurt was hit on Oct. 22 when expiring Kassel also was smashed in a final blow.

The visit to Berlin meant the Nazi capital had been wakened by bombs on 20 out of 25 nights of November.

The daylight raid of American heavy bombers was supplemented by Marauder mediums which made their second attack in four days against Frankfurt. The long, narrow French department extending inland about 80 miles from the channel promontory closest England.

It was the second time the Marauders had undertaken an operation against objectives which were unspecified in northern France and it raised speculation that they might be after some "special target" like a concentration camp or an important radio location base.

Although the Mosquitos—twin-engine craft which carry 500-pound bombs—do not pack the wallop of Britain's four-engine armadas, they kept the sirens going in distraught Berlin.

The attack on Frankfurt, big center of the I. G. Farben-Industrie, international chemical trust works fitted in with three big raids last week on chemical and poison gas component producing factories at Ludwigshafen and Leverkusen.

Frankfurt-am-Main also has Germany's biggest truck manufacturing works (Opel), its biggest tire works (Dunlop), and is one of the main railroad centers.

Bills Provide Benefits For Discharged Veterans

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Bills were introduced in both houses of Congress today providing unemployment insurance of from $15 to $25 a week, and Social Security credits, as out-of-service benefits for America's servicemen and women.

Earlier, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military Committee action on a bill he plans to introduce which would provide $300 in mustering-out pay for those holding ranks no higher than army captain or navy lieutenant, senior grade.

The benefits were asked by President Roosevelt in a message to Congress this week.

The federal unemployment payments, continuing up to 52 weeks if the serviceman remains unemployed that long after his discharge, would supplement existing state unemployment insurance benefits. No payments would be made however, for any period in which the serviceman receives federal mustering-out pay or educational allowances.

UNCLE SAM IN SUCKER ROLE Senator Scores U. S. Policies In Latin-America

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Describing United States aid to Latin American countries as "naively conceived and badly coordinated" Senator Fawcett (R-Neb.) told the Senate today that the program should be changed to one of technical assistance and cultural contact and understanding.

Reporting on his 20,000 mile tour of Central and South American countries, Butler said the present "good neighbor" policy is based on "sentimental dreams x x x which are mere reflections of our own egotism, not of theirs and is tolerated by the Latins solely because it is accompanied by liberal donations from our treasury."

Declaring that only three of the 20 countries he visited can fairly be called democracies, Butler said: (Continued on Page Four)

Tax Deputy To Aid Income Tax Filers

Every farmer and many other individuals will be required to file a declaration of estimated income and victory tax on or before the 15th day of December.

A deputy collector of internal revenue will be at the post office in Fayetteville three days, at the post office, December 3-5.

A collector will also be at the post office in Bethel December 7, and in Greenville on the second floor of the post office beginning December 3 through 15 to assist taxpayers in preparing their returns. Taxpayers are advised to come early and avoid the rush.

Air War Carried To Within 650 Miles Of Japan; U. S. Subs Sink Nine Jap Ships

New York, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Allied planes struck within about 650 miles of the Japanese homeland yesterday when approximately 20 planes raided Shimonoseki, port city on the northwest coast of Formosa, the Tokyo radio said today.

The raid, unconfirmed by any Allied source, presumably was launched from Allied bases within China. The broadcast claimed that three of the raiders were shot down by Japanese naval fighters.

The island of Formosa lies 90 miles off the east coast of China, some 200 miles north of the Philippine islands, and only a little more than 650 miles southwest of Kyushu, southernmost island in the Japanese home group.

Although the island had an air raid scare on December 14, 1941, one week after Pearl Harbor, and was rumored in Chungking to have been raided by Allied planes on August 12, 1942, yesterday's raid appears to have been the first made on the island since the United States entered the war.

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—American submarines, hitting hard at Japanese supply lines in the Pacific, have sunk nine more enemy ships, bringing to 505 the number of Japanese vessels sunk probably sunk or damaged by United States undersea craft.

The latest report of the submarine activities listed seven medium freighters, one medium tanker and one medium-sized airplane transport vessel as sunk at undisclosed points.

The new sinkings boosted to 745 the number of Japanese vessels sunk by all types of American weapons since the war started.

Of the 505 credited specifically to submarines, 355 have been sunk, 36 probably sunk and 114 damaged.

Old Clothes Drive In Progress Here

The discarded clothing collection drive is now on in Greenville, according to an announcement made by J. H. Rose, county chairman of Civilian Defense.

The purpose of the drive is to collect immediately all discarded clothing to be used by the government in occupied countries in Europe. The National Dry Cleaners Association and local dry cleaners are cooperating with the drive.

The clothing will be collected from homes, dry cleaners, and packed in bundles of 50 and 100 pounds, and sent to be used in the relief program for the comfort of men, women and children in war-torn areas of the world this winter.

The clothing will not be bought by the government but will be offered by the citizens as a gift to the school children of Greenville who help in the work. People of Greenville who have clothing which they wish to give to the collection may turn it over to a school child or call the office of the superintendent of schools, 3721, and the articles will be sent for.

Citizens are urged to remember that no clothing is wanted from a family which has to buy new clothes because of giving away old ones. The purpose of the drive is to collect discarded clothing only.

The public is also urged to remember that anything made of cloth is wanted, however worn it may be, because if the article is so worn out as not to be valuable for clothing, it will be used for rags, which the army is desperately in need of.

Mrs. James T. Little, director of the Service Corps, will help with the program, and the Service League has agreed to let people phone in to the league office between 10 and 12 every morning and notify of any old clothes that are available.

D. H. Conley is organizing the work in Pitt county, outside of Greenville.

Airmen Blast Invasion Route Into Marshalls

Few Live Japanese Remain In Gilberts; Americans Extend Holdings On Bougainville; Jap Destroyer Sunk

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The invasion route into Japan's Marshall islands is being pounded by army and navy bombers while on the nearby Gilberts victorious American ground troops seek out the few surviving enemy defenders and planes from aircraft carriers ward off retaliatory air blows.

These developments which included the shooting down of 46 Japanese planes by fighters of only one of the several aircraft carrier divisions supporting the Gilbert operations, were contained in the yesterday's advices of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

Jaluit, the main Japanese air base in the Marshalls 450 miles northwest of the chief American position on Tarawa in the Gilberts, has been bombed anew by seventh air force Liberators. A spokesman also disclosed that during a carrier plane raid earlier in the week on Mili, another Marshall air base, approximately 200 tons of bombs accurately hit the triangular field.

Strategic authorities in Washington expressed belief that the Japanese in the Marshalls, exposed by the Gilberts conquest to increasingly heavier bombings, must retreat or die.

Of the 5,000 or more enemy soldiers estimated to have been concentrated on captured Makin, Tarawa and Abemama, few live Japanese remain in the Gilberts, Admiral Nimitz said.

On Tarawa, in the midst of mopping up operations, engineers worked first to get its bomb-pitted airfield in operation for even heavier air assaults on the flanked Marshalls.

The incomplete reports on the downing of 46 enemy planes covered operations through Wednesday. The total may well be much larger when the reports are received from other aircraft carrier groups.

For the same period, the carrier division reported sustained losses of only three fighters and a torpedo bomber. In one engagement, the carrier fighters bagged 16 of 20 intercepted Zeros without losing a plane, the spokesman said.

These carrier groups, each consisting of two or more aircraft carriers, have participated in extended patrols and sent out their planes on repeated raids.

Southwest of the Gilberts in the northern Solomons other American forces expanded to six miles along the west-central coast of Bougainville the beachhead they have carried off since Nov. 1 on Empress Augusta bay.

The beachhead expansion followed the sinking of four Jap destroyers by an outnumbered American destroyer force Thursday in waters only 90 miles southeast of Rabaul, the enemy's main southwestern base on New Britain.

A fifth vessel was crippled and was last seen burning. Air reconnaissance reports later disclosed survivors in the water near the location where the fifth ship was last observed, leading to the belief it possibly also was sunk.

The sixth warship was hit but was not slowed up in the chase by American destroyers virtually to the St. George channel entrance to Rabaul. Our force came out of the battle without suffering a hit.

The American destroyers apparently upset Japanese plans to evacuate high ranking personnel from Buika, off north Bougainville, as the possible prelude to surrender of their tottering northern Solomon holdings.

The latest action reported at Empress Augusta was the repulsing on Monday of a Japanese counter-attack with 104 enemy dead counted after the battle. A spokesman for Adm. William F. Halsey said the Japanese losses there since the Bougainville invasion opened definitely exceeded 1,000 and probably amounted to 2,000.

Killed By Bear. West Townsend, Vt., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Apparently succeeded to death by a bear, the body of Carl Herrick, 37-year-old hunter missing since Tuesday, was found today in woods by his cousin, Forrest Hewitt.

Missing. Lieut. Wilbur H. Brown of the U. S. Army Air Corps was today reported as missing in action somewhere over Germany, according to a telegram from the Adjutant General in Washington, to his grandfather, Jesse W. Brown of Greenville. He has been missing since November 15, the message stated.

Lieut. Brown was co-pilot of an American Flying Fortress. He was stationed somewhere in England.

Lieut. Brown enlisted in the army air forces in September, 1941. He studied aviation mechanics at McDevill Field, Ala., and Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., where he received his diploma December 9, 1940. After serving at several bases he was made aviation cadet and took flight training at Maxwell field, Ala., Nashville, Tenn., Marietta, Ga., and Marianna, Fla., where he received his wings and commission on June 29, 1942. He then served at two west coast bases before he was transferred to foreign service. He had been overseas since June of this year.

Eighth Army Secures River Bridgehead; Spaatz Reports On Air Activity

By NOLAND NORGAARD Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The American 45th division, once part of the Seventh Army, in Sicily, has been in action with the Fifth Army in Italy. It was announced today as Allied units beat off enemy counterattacks along a generally unchanged front.

The German air force joined ground forces in determined attacks yesterday against British Eighth Army forces now securely entrenched in the bridgehead carved from the winter defense line across the flooded Sangro near Italy's Adriatic shore.

The Nazi planes made passes at temporary bridges over which the British are sending reinforcements and supplies across the flooded stream. Allied planes lashed at the enemy just back of the line.

Despite the daylong enemy onslaughts the Eighth Army troops improved their positions. It was announced officially.

Thanksgiving day activity on the Fifth Army front on the western coast of the line was limited to two violent 15-minute artillery bombardments against targets behind the enemy's lines as well as normal patrolling.

While rain continued to fall and mist reduced visibility throughout the battle area, an air force statement declared persistent bombing had kept closed to traffic for a month the three main railways running down the Italian peninsula to the battlefield.

Attempts at repair have been frustrated in many cases by follow-up attacks, the statement said, and as a result only a network of subsidiary lines incapable of heavy traffic is available to the Germans.

Defying bad weather conditions, American and British light and fighter-bombers raked enemy strong points along the Sangro river from the town of Casoli, 15 miles inland, to the Adriatic in support of the eighth army holding its bridgehead.

Prisoners taken have confirmed the demoralizing effect of the recent bombing of frontline positions. In long-range operations, American Mi-4s bombed the Adriatic port of Ancona and RAF Spitfires crossed the sea to strafe German vehicles in Yugoslavia.

A statement from Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, air command reviewing recent heavy bomber operations noted that "Flying Fortresses and Liberators of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's strategic air force already have made a beginning against the targets that hurt the enemy most, cutting raids into Germany, Austria, northern Italy, southern France and the Balkans.

This partly has been possible because of the success of the Eighth Army in Italy, which has cut the enemy's lines of communication and supply.

Impressive Services On Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving day (the second since Pearl Harbor) was quietly observed here. The weather was ideal. Union Thanksgiving services at the Memorial Baptist Church featured the day's observance. An overflow congregation attended. Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, delivered the Thanksgiving Day sermon. He substituted for Dr. George W. Perry, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, who died suddenly last Friday. Flowers for the services were sent by Mr. Perry's family. Dr. John D. Simons, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, presided. There was special music.

The union Thanksgiving Day services are growing in popularity. If the attendance continues to increase larger quarters will have to be arranged for next year.

Seal Bond Sale Is Big Success

Tribute was paid today by Mrs. W. I. Wooten, local chairman of the Christmas Seal Bond sale, to the men and women who worked so hard to make this year's bond sale a success. Mrs. Wooten and the directors of the seal sale are highly pleased with the enthusiastic response to their appeal. Those who worked are Messrs. P. L. Goodson, John Fleming, Roy Martin, E. B. Drum, E. Senators Stay Out Of Presidential Picture

By JACK BELL Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—For the first time in years the Senate, historical stamping ground for presidential candidates, may have no formal entries next year for either major party nomination.

Although the clerk calls the name of a dozen potential dark horses every time he lists a quorum, circumstances thus far have kept any senator from publicly declaring that he will be a presidential candidate and may combine to keep all of them in the background.

The Democrats of course, aren't likely to announce anything until they find out what President Roosevelt is going to do about a fourth term, a decision few of them think will be made finally until a few days before the 1944 convention.

Some of the Republicans listed as possible candidates come from states where the Republican governor is already in the running, and others just chuckle at the idea that they are being mentioned.

Operators and Unions Negotiating New Contract

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—For the first time in history, soft coal operators and union leaders representing every coal producing section of the country sat down today to perfect a wage contract.

Representatives of coal mines owned by the steel companies ended their holdout today and joined the wage negotiations between John L. Lewis and soft coal operators.

Nearly all of the nation's soft coal tonnage was represented in the new contract talks for the first time.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL I. DOUGLAS WE CAN SECURE HAPPINESS

A man as he came to old age wrote these words to a friend: "Instead of trying to be happy, let us do as the gods do. Let us be happy as if that were the sole purpose of life. I should, if I were a boy again, try still harder to deserve happiness. It might have added that had he tried to deserve happiness rather than get it, the chances are that he would have experienced vastly more happiness than he really did."

"There is no will-o-the-wisp of happiness as happiness. The pursuit of happiness is the most tiresome, boring and unrewarding enterprise of life. Furthermore it is doomed to failure. We cannot get happiness by seeking after it. It appears to be a by-product which comes as the result of other things. Or to change the figure, it is a spirit which grows up in our lives unnoticed, as we give our lives energy, joy, honesty, purpose and helpful living. Money will not buy it, neither will sorrow and trouble destroy it if it be of the right variety."

"The man was right who said that if he had his life to live over again he would not seek after happiness but would try instead to deserve happiness. For happiness, in spite of all the injustice there is in the world, usually attaches itself to the careers of those persons who think not at all about happiness but only about doing the right thing."

Jesus summed it up in a succinct fashion when He said, "He that lovesth his life shall find it." All Rights Reserved—Babson Newspaper Syndicate

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Just why the Army Air Force has kept its women flyers under censorship wraps for so long is one of those minor capital mysteries.

More than a year ago, the Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Service (WAFFS) was active but very little was said about it. At Camp Davis, N. C., nearly 300 WAFFS (Women's Airforce Service Pilots), an outgrowth of the WAFFS, are doing some of the toughest combat flying known—all women trained under the direction of well-known Auxiliary Jacqueline Cochran.

Before many weeks, there will be at least 500 women flyers in the WAFFS. About 600 more will be in training at Sweetwater and Houston, Texas, and 1,000 additional will be awaiting training assignments. That accounts for more than one half of the estimated 4,000 eligible women flyers in the country and constitutes one of the most surprising service records in the war.

After a lot of one-time questions, I've come to the conclusion that the reluctance to give flying details their due was: 1. Fear that they wouldn't make good and that the Army Air Force would get the bird for even inaugurating the program.

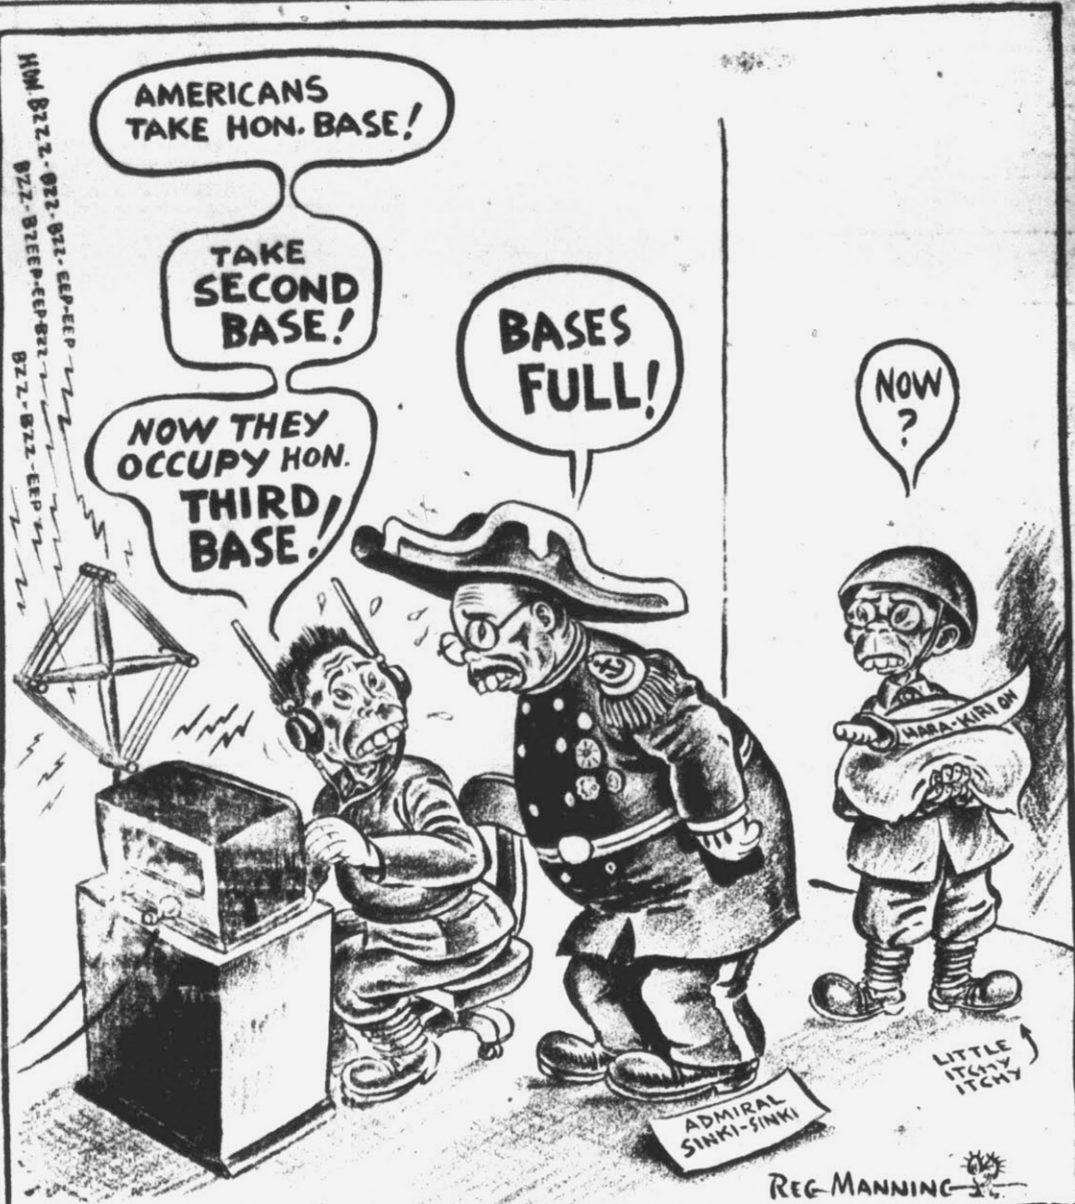

2. An innate reluctance on the part of the men, both pilots and ground crews, to concede that women flyers were capable of handling the Air Force's grueling non-combat assignments.

In view of this, Jacqueline Cochran and Nancy Johnson, Love director of the WAFFS, said not a word. However, it is now safe to talk a little. The girls have proved themselves; the men have accepted them.

A few days ago I talked to a veteran fighter pilot back from the South Pacific. He had been down to Camp Davis on a lecture mission.

"I had about the same opinion of women pilots that you have. I've had of women motorists, he said. "Then one day, I was standing in the sands north of Camp Davis, watching antiaircraft drill. One of those little baby carriages was towing a target sleeve 300 yards behind and a pattern of ack-ack 100 yards square was being poured into it. That pilot had a dirty assignment. I know. A knock-out, a loss of flying speed, a sudden down or up draft, and that little plane would have been in the soup. When it was over, I breathed easier and said "nice flying" to the officer who was with me. He said: "Yeah, pretty good for a 22-year-old girl who got flying school in June."

I was dumfounded. The WASPs are women 18 to 34 years of age. They have to have at least 35 solo hours before they can apply for training. At Davis, there are signographers, school teachers, stenographers, newspaperwomen, bookkeepers and a few just plain housewives.

They not only two targets, they go trucky night flying to provide for the searchlight crews, dodge all over the sky for flack aiming drills, and in general everything there is to be done in non-combat service. They live in barracks, but unlike the WACs they aren't a part of the Army. They get $150 a month base pay in training and $250 in service out of which they pay barracks rental and officers' mess fee. Their off-duty uniforms are in the making and will be snappy and government-issued.

Pat Dudley Died At Hospital Thursday

Louis Patrick (Pat) Dudley, Jr., 30, died in a Raleigh hospital at 8 o'clock Thursday morning after a long illness.

Funeral services were conducted at the home near Greenville at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. Hartwell Campbell, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, Bufile, N. C. FINAL ASSEMBLY By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 13 H. C. Rollins leaned back in his swivel chair and studied the inter-office mailing envelope in his hand, a frown on his face.

"To Mr. Art Melvin," it read from Pete Neil, Department 134. The letter had come to him by mistake and it was not at all unusual for plant inter-office letters to go astray. It was, in fact, strictly unusual for them to reach their proper destination the first time out. Rollins wondered why Pete was writing to Mr. Melvin and he frowned slightly. Pete Neil was still a sore spot with him.

Whether intentionally or not, Pete had certainly made him look foolish. The entire plant knew of the mistake he had made and chuckled at it. The office force and certain foremen in the plant were, on occasion still asking him jeeringly, "How's the new engineer?" Despite her promise his secretary had let the cat out of the bag, claiming, "Even if I never get another nickel raise—it was too good to keep!" He could, ventrally, just grinning face, hear her merry laugh, now and his cheeks grew even more red.

So, Pete was writing to Mr. Melvin—and the letter had fallen into his hands. He could always claim that he had opened it by mistake. Hesitating no longer, he opened the envelope and drew forth the neatly-written pages. As he read, a slow look of amazement spread over his face. The Neil might be an ordinary auto mechanic, but he was pretty sharp, after all. Certainly, he was far from being a fool. His plan as outlined, was good, very good. Then, suddenly, a look of amusement and satisfaction lighted his features and he grinned. Suppose this letter came into the hands of Ernest Kahl. It would be just too bad for Neil. He knew exactly what Kahl would do. He'd fire Pete, and do it quickly. Rollins had been unable to do that, due to the fact that Pete had stuck with the dog-chasing for nearly two months, and afterward made an excellent record for himself as a worker. Only the best of reports had come in from his foreman, Tim Brandon, but now—here was the chance of a lifetime.

Hurriedly, he attached a memo to the letter. He threw the envelope into the wastebasket and rose from his seat. He carried the letter personally into Kahl's office, which was only a short distance down the hall. "Mr. Kahl?" he asked the reception secretary. "Why, no, Mr. Rollins." "It's ten o'clock, now. Do you know where he is?"

"Officially, no," the girl smiled and winked at him. "But unofficially, he's probably nursing a hang-over. Big party at the Padlock Club last night. He'll show up about 2 p. m."

"And," put in Rollins, patting the girl's cheek, "he'll probably be in a vile humor?"

"Isn't he always?" the girl came back. "After he's been on a binge?" "That's true, baby," Rollins said and handed her Pete's letter. "Be sure he reads this letter as soon as he comes in."

"I will, Mr. Rollins." Pete had no sooner started work that night, tightening hydraulic hose connections than Alf came up to him, grinning. "She thinks it's well," he cried. "Pete laughed. 'Who thinks what's well?'" "Kitty thinks your plan is swell. I told her all about it, outside this afternoon, before we came in—only she says they'll fire you if you send it in—"

"Well," Pete broke in, "you had no business telling Ambrose anything about me. You talk too much." "But, I thought—" "I'm through with Miss Ambrose. Whatever I do is no concern of hers. For your own information, I've already sent the letter in to Mr. Melvin, and in the future please keep your mouth shut about my affairs."

The old man took a step backward, face white. "You can't talk to me like that," he cried. "Some of these days my papers will go through and I'll get to quit this place and not have to take any of your lip!" Immediately sorry for his flare-up, Pete turned to the old man to apologize. But at that moment Tim Brandon walked up and placed a hand on Pete's shoulder. "I'm sorry, Pete," Tim said. "I just got an order from the front office. You are to pack your tools, take them with you and go to Mr. Kahl's office. Here's your pass." He handed a slip of paper to Pete. "But, why?" Pete wanted to know. "Why are they sending for me? Why do I have to take my tools?" "I don't know, Pete," Tim said, "but it looks bad. It looks like they are going to let you out—and frankly, I can't understand it. You've become a very valuable man and I've sent in the best possible reports on you—but this looks like you are going to get the axe." He thrust out a hand and Pete shook it. "It's been nice knowing you, Pete and if there is anything I can do for you—"

"Sure," Pete said. "I understand. Tim and I think I have an idea of what this is all about." He turned to Alf. "I'm sorry, pal," he said. "I shouldn't have blown up the way I did. You've been swell to me and I want to shake your hand before I leave—will you?"

The old man did not hesitate, but grasped Pete's hand instantly, his eyes cloudy. "It's okay, Pete," he said, "good luck."

In a few moments he had packed his tools. He started toward the front office. To Be Continued

Meanwhile, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army was reported standing fast in the Kiev bulge against savage German attacks and Russian troops were pushing forward in the Dnieper bend just below Kremenchug, where, the Soviet

The only escape railway from Gomel, open to the Germans—if it has not already fallen—runs northwest through Zhlobin to Bobruisk and Minsk. The latest advances by the Red army, as announced by the Russian communique, narrowed that escape corridor to less than 33 miles between Rosovo and the town of Juravichi to the northeast.

"Fighter bases now available in Italy permitted the tactical air force to sweep the skies of many fighter aircraft that otherwise would have harassed our bombers on the way to and from the targets."

In September and October 360 enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and 309 shot out of the sky, the review said. Flying Fortresses alone shot down 140.

The strategic air force's losses were 74 planes. The bombers sank four ships totaling 30,000 tons in the period. American heavy bombers dropped 20,000 tons of bombs in the two months.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces had crossed the most formidable obstacle yet in forcing the Sangro, but still were confronted by difficult enemy positions in the hills ringing the valley. Although enemy reports had mentioned British thrusts with tanks toward the hills commanding the bridgehead, which yesterday was reported nearly a mile and a half deep, official announcements today gave no information of any further advance.

Bad weather impeded the job of building additional heavy bridges across the flooded stream. Brisk activity was reported inland at the backbone of Italy where other Eighth army units captured some high ground dominating the town of Castel Di Sangro from the northwest. Germans previously were reported dynamiting and setting fire to the town, presumably preparatory to abandoning it. A front line dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Daniel De Luce quoted Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery as declaring the new bridgehead now was "very firmly held and secure."

To Our Friends and Customers

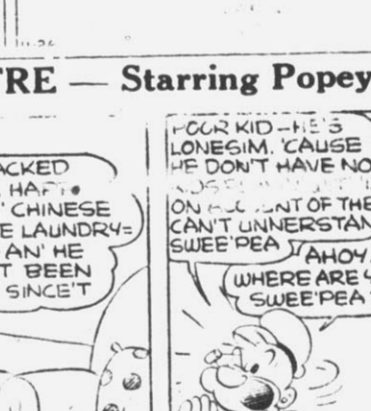

On or before December 15th every taxpayer should review his tax situation. If he did not file a declaration in September because he did not have to, he may find that events occurring after September 15th have made it necessary for him to file one. Or if he filed in September, he may find that he should increase his "estimated tax" to avoid the penalty. On the other hand, he may find that he overstated his "estimated tax" in the September declaration. In that event it would be to his benefit to file an amended declaration in order to reduce the tax installment due on December 15, 1943. FARMERS REQUIRED TO FILE ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 15, 1943.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

NEWS OF GREENVILLE HIGH

Bonds and Stamps
The students of Greenville High School are now trying hard to meet the requirements to fly the Treasury flag for buying war stamps and bonds. To fly this flag a school must have 90 per cent of its students buying bonds or stamps regularly. About 80 per cent of the GHS students are now buying bonds and stamps regularly. This week $150 in bonds and $51.90 in stamps have been sold in the high school.

Dance Tonight
There will be a dance in the high school auditorium tonight from 8 till 11, sponsored by the senior class. The admission will be 15 cents for stag and 35 cents for couples. The auditorium will be decorated in the Thanksgiving theme and refreshments will be sold in the cafeteria. Students and parents are invited to attend this affair.

Monogram Meeting
There was a meeting of the Monogram Club of the high school this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Little Theatre. The Monogram Club's sale of Christmas cards is scheduled to close today.

Chairman
Mr. R. B. Starling, GHS history teacher, has been appointed chairman of the Greenville Lions Club committee which sponsors the house to house canvass for old toys each year. The canvass for old toys will be on the night of December 6. Toys collected will be repaired by the city fire department and given to children for Christmas. Students are urged to gather up their old toys between now and December 6 so they may be collected.

Cases Called Today In Recorder's Court
By CHESTER WALSH
In City Recorder's Court today Judge Roberts found probable cause against Henry Williams, colored, charged with assaulting with a deadly weapon Namon Brewington, elderly colored man, some weeks ago. Brewington was severely beaten and was unable to appear in court for some time. According to testimony Henry Williams and his brother, Rufus Williams, attacked Brewington on the street, chased him into his house, then broke in a door and assaulted him again. When police arrived on the scene the Williamses had left Rufus returned with a shotgun and was aiming it at ABC Officer J. M. Ward, when Assistant Chief E. Bowen Dorsey ordered him to drop the gun. When he refused Dorsey shot him. He died several days later at a hospital. Henry Williams will be tried in Superior Court in January.

Other cases called today included: Jesse Cratch, colored, larceny of a bicycle, continued to December 6 for defendant.

Thurman J. Heath, drunk and disorderly and profane language, 30 days in jail or costs.

Andrews Wilkins, colored, assault on a female, 30 days in jail, work on streets.

John Marvin Elks, reckless driving, 30 days or costs.

Dogs at large, Mayhew James, $3; Richard Joyner, warrant ordered served.

Mine Wages . . .

000 tons a year. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, has agreed with most northern and western coal associations on the basis outline of a wage contract, but would not sign until the agreement was on a national basis. The Southern Coal Producers Association, though represented in the talks, has held out against the form of the agreement.

The seven coal producers associations have expressed a willingness to pay the same weekly wage, $57.06, that is embodied in the Ickes-Lewis working agreement covering the period of government operation but oppose computing the wage in a manner that would pay for underground travel time as a part of the working day.

Ickes is sponsoring the current wage negotiations, after stating that he will restore the mines to their owners when a contract is worked out.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's really a great editorial you just read to us, Judge. Where did you say it appeared?"
"In 'The Stars and Stripes'... the newspaper of the U. S. Armed Forces in Europe. Kind of gives us folks back home something to think about, doesn't it, Bill?"
"It certainly does, Judge. Particularly the last paragraph. Would you mind reading that again?"
"Glad to, Bill. It says, 'We can remember the days of prohibition, when moonshine whiskey made quick fortunes for bootleggers, crooked politicians and dishonest police officials. As a result, we claim we know what we want in the way of liquor legislation and feel those at home should wait until we return before initiating further legislation on liquor control.'"
"Out of fairness to our boys over there fighting, Judge, how could we disobey such a wish?"

Republican convention.
On the Democratic side, some serious moves have been made to advance Senator Byrd (D-Va.) as a potential candidate, and "Byrd-for-President" headquarters have been opened in New Orleans. If southern Democrats who are at odds with the New Deal united behind Byrd they could make their weight felt at the convention, but few think that they could prevent President Roosevelt's nomination if he wants a fourth term.

Senator George (D-Ga.) also has been mentioned as a possible candidate of the southern group and friends of Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) are scouting his prospects.
Senators Wheeler (D-Mont.) and Reynolds (D-NC) have received mention as possible third party candidates and Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) attracted widespread attention when he suggested that the Republicans nominate Senator Gillette (D-Iowa). Gillette, who says he will always be a Democrat, is being implored to run for the Senate again in Iowa, where the Republicans are likely to make it an uphill battle.
