AGREE ON PATTERN FOR VICTORY

Allied Forces Continue Gains On Italian Front

British Eighth Army Drives To Banks Of Moro River Near Adriatic Port of Pescara; American Fifth Army Captures Important Heights West of Mignano on Road To Rome

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The American Fifth army, bypassing German strongpoints has captured new heights commanding the road to Rome west of Mignano, while the British Eighth army's drive has carried to the Moro river, 10 miles beyond the Sangro, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Nazis launched strong counter-attacks against American and British infantry storming the heights in bitter hand-to-hand battles, and threw in new reinforcements including mechanized grenadiers against the Eighth army in a desperate attempt to halt the smashing Allied drive. A flame-thrower tank was captured by the British.

A counter-attack west of Venafro was hurled back by the Fifth army with severe losses.

Le Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters announced that the enemy, who is fighting stubbornly for every inch of ground, had been driven from three more commanding elevations by the Americans who are smashing into Nazi fortifications in the area of the rugged slopes of Mount Majoore. British infantry of the Fifth army are routing out Nazi defenders in the equally-rough area of Mount Comino.

From their newly-won positions the Allied troops could gaze out across the valley to Cassino, and beyond it to the valley which leads northwest into Italy's capital.

In one sector, small units of Germans still holding out defiantly on the summit of a ridge were cut off by the Allied drive well beyond.

British warships, steaming boldly within range of enemy shore batteries, were disclosed to have supported.

Women's Auxiliary To Help Hospitals

Tomorrow—Pearl Harbor Day—the second anniversary of Japan's secret attack on the United States in Hawaii, the Women's Auxiliary of Pitt County Medical Society will launch a program to support the Medical and Surgical Relief Committee of America.

The committee, which will benefit from the Auxiliary's drive for funds, is a philanthropic organization, conducted by physicians and dedicated solely to medical relief for the United States and our Allies.

It was organized in 1940 to send equipment to hard-pressed hospitals in England. Since then more than half a million dollars worth of medical and surgical supplies have been sent to various hospitals, first aid stations and war zone hospitals abroad.

New Income Tax Report Must Be Filed By 15th

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—It's time for all federal income taxpayers to determine just what, if anything, they need to do before the next tax payment deadline, December 15.

If you filed a declaration of estimated tax in September and paid half the indicated debt to Uncle Sam then, you must pay the other half.

If you're a farmer with sufficient income to require filing, you must send in an estimate and pay. (Farmers weren't required to file in September, by special dispensation of Congress.)

If you filed in September and your income has changed to the extent that your estate is proving more than 20 per cent too low, you must send in an amended declaration and pay the higher tax if you're to escape penalties next March.

If you didn't have to file a September declaration but now come within one of the required classifications, you must file and make payment.

Here are the four classes of taxpayers called upon for these reports and payments:

1. Those whose income for the year is more than $2700 of single (or

ASKS ACTION ON SUBSIDIES

Jones Declares Delay Is Upsetting Production Plans

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones asked Congress today to decide now whether government food subsidies are to be continued or abolished so that price control agencies and the farmers can map their 1944 programs without delay.

Jones objected to a Democratic move in the Senate to postpone a showdown on subsidies for 60 days, declaring this might disrupt next year's food production plans.

"Nothing is as upsetting as uncertainty," he told the Senate Banking Committee. "I want to know what the program for 1944 is going to be. It takes time and planning to produce food."

To Start Probe Of Affairs At ECTC

"Under the Dome" in today's Raleigh News and Observer carried the following reference to the affairs of East Carolina Teachers College here.

"The trouble which has been brewing for several weeks at Eastern Carolina Teachers College may be solved when the State Auditor's office completes a thorough audit now under way of all funds handled through the college.

"Many complaints have been made to various state offices—including Governor Broughton's office—and to the board of directors of the college concerning the handling of some of the funds and the relations between the college faculty and its president, Dr. Leon R. Meadows.

"So far, the board of trustees has taken no action in the case and hasn't even made a formal investigation of the matter. The board is waiting until the audit is completed before taking a stand on the question, since the board itself at present doesn't know exactly where the friction is originating.

"Already an effort has been made to streamline the old method by which ECTC handles its student funds. A delegate has visited the Woman's College in Greensboro to make a study of the functioning of the student-fund finance board there and to get an over-all view of how the Woman's College manages its financial affairs."

Ciano Executed

London, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, the 40-year-old son-in-law of Benito Mussolini, was executed this morning—shot in the back by a firing squad—according to unconfirmed reports reaching here from the Swiss border.

This latest ironic twist to the Italian upheaval was reported both by Reuters and the Swiss telegraph agency which said the former Italian foreign minister, whose meteoric career was upset when he had a falling out with his father-in-law, had been sentenced to death by a special court of Mussolini's Benito.

Mussolini's son-in-law turned against him in the grand council meeting last July which ousted the discredited duce as Italy's dictator.

RED ARMIES SMASH AHEAD

Advance In White Russia And On Lower Dnieper

London, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Soviet Red army today was threatening Moscow, one of the last important German-held rail centers in White Russia, as other Russian units squeezed the Nazi defense lines near Zhitobin and Rogachev in the Gomel area.

A Soviet communique said the Red army hurled back German counter-attacks and swept forward northwest of Propolsk, to capture the heavily fortified strongholds of Varnol, Ganki and Zabulka.

Front dispatches, telling of deep Russian penetrations virtually from one end of White Russia to the other, said the Germans were beginning to show signs of a lack of reserves and were using engineers as first line troops in some sectors of the snow-swept front.

To the south in the Kremenchug area, the Russian war bulletin said, Soviet units captured several strong points after fierce engagements which often developed into hand-to-hand fighting. Large losses were declared inflicted on the Germans.

The communique said the Nazis were continuing to attack in the Cherkassy area between Kremenchug and Kiev, but all their assaults were repulsed. Four hundred Germans were killed at one point, the bulletin said, after a tank and infantry smash was beaten back.

The German radio, in a broadcast recorded by Reuters, said the Russian (Continued on Page Two)

Targets In France Blasted By Allies

London, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Allied air might, apparently changing tactics to confuse Nazi defenders, turned from shattered German cities yesterday to occupied France, loosing heavy and medium bombers and fighter targets in a smashing blow at enemy targets.

The Germans said that Inoué was accompanied by Numan Memencioğlu, Turkish foreign minister, and the general secretary of the Turkish foreign ministry. They asserted also that Emir Mansur, son (Continued on Page Two)

Stalin Praises U. S. Production

Teheran—(Delayed)—(AP)—Premier Stalin solemnly got off his feet one night at a dinner attended by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

He looked soberly about him at the assembled military and diplomatic leaders of the United States, Great Britain and Russia and lifted his glass to American war production.

"Without American production the United Nations could never have won the war," the Soviet leader was reported to have declared.

The response to Stalin's unexpected gesture was terrific.

Marines Charge Jap Pill Box On Tarawa

At the order to charge these Marines swarmed over a Jap pill box on Tarawa to engage in the type of fighting which claimed so many of the 1,026 dead on the atoll in the Gilberts. AUSSIES PUSH NEAR WAREO

Washington Observers Expect Quick Action As Result Of "Big Three" Conference

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin fixed the time for an Anglo-American invasion of western Europe at their conference in Teheran, and also apparently agreed upon a secondary assault on the continent from the south.

This "big three" agreement on final victory strategy, calling for coordinated attacks on three sides of Hitler's vaunted European fortress, may make it possible now to try for knockout blows against Germany this winter.

The United States and Britain have been massing troops and munitions for many months in preparation for such grand scale attacks, and it seems likely that the plans of this conference can be put into operation in less than the six months which Roosevelt and Churchill usually have had to allow for their high strategy decisions.

Those are the main points of military implication noted by Washington observers in the Teheran declaration announced today following the closely guarded but widely publicized conference of the three state leaders in the capital of Iran early last week.

The principal question of timing at last week's conference, therefore, concerned the selection of the period in which to launch the final crushing offensives against continental Europe. So far as weather conditions are concerned, military experts say the invasion can be started either late this winter, or early next summer. Spring mud (Continued on Page Two)

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Both major parties may cut their 1944 campaigns to a new wartime pattern, short on personal appearances by presidential candidates, and long on newspaper, radio and newsreel appeals.

The difficulties of transporting a presidential nominee and his party about the country in the middle of a war will be one of the chief topics of discussion when Republican national committeemen and state chairmen meet in Chicago January 10 and 11.

The Republicans already are toying with the idea of having their nominee announce that because he does not wish to place any added strain on a transportation system already overburdened with troops and munitions, he will limit himself to a half dozen personal appearances for major speeches in as many sections of the country.

Naturally, the nominee will dictate any policy of this sort, but there is prevalent a belief that the old method of chartering a special train and taking along an entourage would have a damaging reaction among a public that has been urged to stay home except for necessary trips. The Democrats also will face this problem of physical facilities, although it will be immensely reduced for them if President Roosevelt is the nominee.

The President has been making personal appearances around the country for years and could easily conduct his campaign over the radio and in press statements. In the past he has inspected various defense installations on trips which the Republicans have criticized as political in nature.

While the Democrats have been urging a short campaign with a late convention, largely on the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt again will be the nominee, there is little disposition among the Republicans to delay the time of their convention beyond mid-June.

Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the National Committee is known to feel that the Republicans ought to name their candidate at the (Continued on Page Two)

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst

It may take history a century to produce an exact assay of the momentous conference of the big three, but I think we can safely say now that the good results of this parley will be in exact ratio to the longevity of the sentiment expressed in the last two sentences of the main declaration signed by Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill.

"We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, spirit and in purpose."

Here we have the greatest powers on earth. One of them—the new, vast empire of Soviet Russia—is emerging from this war as the dominant power of both the European continent and Asia. Older nations of the eastern hemisphere must make way for the newcomer. It's a delicate moment, when power-politics must be thrust into the background. Everything depends on unity of purpose and friendship. If the conference is to be a success, the sentiment of December 1, 1943, must be continued into the distant future.

Another point which impresses me greatly is the declaration that the three governments "are at once with the government of Iran in their desire for the maintenance of the independence, sovereignty and integrity of Iran." As I see it this is the rainbow of independence for little nations—a guarantee that the Atlantic charter and the four freedoms mean what they say.

There's one overwhelming fact which neither Germany nor Japan can escape in connection with the verdicts of the Allied conferences, and this is that the big three—America, Russia and the British commonwealth of nations—have the power to enforce any edict, no matter how extreme, which they may issue.

The Allied resources tower over those of the enemy like a mountain over a mole hill. And the United Nations now have the actual equipment to get ahead with the (Continued on Page Two)

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS THE NATURE OF FREEDOM We begin every act by learning certain rules, but when we have mastered the art, we forget the rules. In fact we forget them in the very act of observing them. We keep them most perfectly when we are unconscious of their presence.

The musician no longer thinks of scales and exercises, of stops and intervals. These were part of his early training, but as time went on they became part of his nature. When he becomes an accomplished musician, he travels over the scales and exercises, the stops and intervals entirely undisturbed by the things that formerly perplexed him.

St. Paul declared that when the law of the Spirit of life began to operate in his soul, he was made free of the law of sin and of death. The strictures of the old laws were swallowed up in the freedom of the new. Just as the master spirit of the musician has set him free—not free from the law but in it—so a man's faith in Christ, once he really gets it, gives him a complete freedom—not freedom from the law but freedom in it. Therefore he does right, and in a measure best, just before he is dead, just as the king of a religious life is an art which all men can learn. When they learn it, they forget the strictures of the rules because of the satisfaction and joy they have in observing them.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—January may usher in the most historic year of World War II. That remains to be seen, but one thing is certain, that month will mark the opening of the all-important 1944 political campaigns. Both major parties have selected January for the '44 campaign kickoff. The Republican National committee will meet in Chicago January 10-11 to pick the site and name the date of their convention. On January 22 the Democratic National committee will meet here for the same purpose.

In addition the Democrats have pressed through National Chairman Frank C. Walker that they will, at that time, hold one or more "Jackson Day" banquets at which party spokesmen will give "the answers to a lot of questions." Those who anticipate that any of these "answers to a lot of questions" will have anything to do with clarifying the status of the fourth term are slated for disappointment. Ambrose O'Connell, vice chairman of the committee, when asked point blank if the fourth term would be discussed, said "I doubt it very much." Political observers here are more positive than that. Although some Roosevelt backers may choose that time to restate their allegiance, it is considered certain that the President himself or any one who can speak for him will wait until the last minute to make his announcement. That's not even very deep, dark strategy.

The presidential race next year depends much on the tide of war. For the President to make a move in either direction too soon might mean only riding the crest of a wave that will be no more than a ripple when it reaches the beach next November. It is that same factor, some think, which may cause the Democrats to name the date of their convention as close to the elections as possible—perhaps as late as September. In that case, they would have the advantage of gauging the tide of war at the latest date, with additional possibility that they could make political hay out of the declaration that they are merely trying to avoid any long drawn-out national campaign that would hamper the war effort. As a matter of fact, except for the opportunities for pulse-taking among the political leaders of both parties, the January sessions are not expected to produce any clues as to who the candidates will be. There is almost certain to be no such clue in the selection of convention cities. While it sometimes happens that one potential candidate or another gains prestige through selection of a convention city in one of his own strongholds, the determining factor this year is almost bound to be transportation. For that reason, observers here think it most likely that both parties will pick Chicago. There are several other cities still in the running for both conventions. Philadelphia has made a strong bid for the Democratic convention. Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis also have been discussed as possibilities. But Chicago still has the edge in that it is not only geographically right from a transportation standpoint, but it is believed that it can best supply accommodations without disrupting its local war effort. In any event, the national campaigns will be in full swing before January is written off the calendar.

THE WAR TODAY

(Continued From Page One) We have to make one reservation here. Our resources aren't sufficiently developed at the moment so that we can deliver a quick knock-out to both Germany and Japan simultaneously. But we have the strength to hold the one while we smash the other speedily. Since Nazidom provides the greater immediate menace, it must be crushed first. Hitler recognizes his danger fully. The fuhrer is fighting like a rat in a corner, and he is highly dangerous. Despite the fact that it now is clear he can't escape, he may do a lot of damage before we crush his life.

This view point has support among Republican office holders such as Senator Vandenberg, who says he is against any attempt to wait the Democrats out to see who their nominee might be. The Democrats will make the same decisions at a session of their national committee here January 22.

And plans for the invasion of France are being pushed vigorously. The German news agency DNE said no change in Turkish policy was expected as a result of the alleged conference, but the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio, significantly perhaps, quoted Franz Von Papen on his arrival at Istanbul from Berlin that "Germany is anxious to continue its friendly collaboration with Turkey so that this country can be saved the horrors of war."

The Soviet communique said the Germans had landed on Kinburnskaya Kos, at the mouth of the Dniester river a few days ago, but the force was wiped out yesterday with the Russians taking more than 200 prisoners and leaving more than 700 Germans dead on the battlefield. An all-out attack on all fronts this winter unquestionably would be destined to produce victory by spring by taking advantage of the moral effect of the winter's battle reverses and punishing aerial attacks on the German homeland. Otherwise, conservative estimates are that there is little prospect of victory until next fall. The opening of a secondary front in southern Europe, probably in the Balkans but possibly in southern France, might be undertaken as a preliminary to invasion of northern France and Belgium. It would have the effect of forcing the Germans to disperse their forces or suffer further defeats and losses of important territory, such as the Rumanian oil fields.

By CHESTER WALSH In Police Court today Judge Roberts dealt a problem child to deal with in the case against Erny Baker, charging him with violating the state compulsory school attendance law in failing to send his son, Joseph Baker, 12, to school. Truant Officer Harold A. McDougle testified that the boy had missed 40 days from school this term and that he had been to Baker's house several times and notified Mrs. Baker that they were violating the school law. The court considered a verdict of guilty against Baker and continued judgment to January 3.

The concluding paragraph of one declaration devoted to the status of Iran as an ally of the three nations apparently was the key to the envisaged "world family of democratic nations."

Kept Boy Out School; Convicted In Court

After expressing their respect for Iran's independence and territorial integrity, and promising economic aid to that country which has facilitated the flow of Allied supplies to Russia, the three leaders said: "They (the United States, Britain and Russia) count upon the participation of Iran together with all other peace-loving nations in the establishment of international peace and security and prosperity after the war in accordance with the principles of the Atlantic charter, to which all four governments have continued to subscribe." Dispatches from Teheran said the conference atmosphere was one of extreme cordiality. The main declaration by the three leaders concluded: "We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose." It was the first time President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had met.

Instead, the big three calmly and confidently told German forces in a three-sided assault and multiply the devastating air raids on her home soil.

On the first day of the conference Stalin, accompanied only by his foreign minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, walked up the steps of the Russian embassy compound, which was the President's residence during his stay. He left Molotov talking in an ante-room with Harry L. Hopkins, the President's official adviser, and strode on alone to come face to face with the American leader who had flown thousands of miles across ocean and desert for the rendezvous further cementing Allied unity in war and peace. It was believed to be the first time Stalin had left Russia since the Communist revolution in 1917. The Russian embassy conference area, and Teheran itself, swarmed with Russian tommygunner guards, and even the embassy servants were packing pistols. Security measures were heightened. It was learned a number of German saboteurs had been dropped by parachute in Iran a few weeks before the big three arrived. Most of them were reported captured. A number of Iranians whose loyalty was questioned, including at least one army officer, also were locked up during the conference. One of the ceremonial highlights of the conference at the foot of the snow-capped Elburz mountains was the presentation by Prime Minister Churchill of the "Sword of Stalingrad" to Premier Stalin—a British recognition of the Russian heroes who turned the Nazi tide at Stalingrad last winter. Details of the military decisions reached naturally were not disclosed, but dispatches from Teheran said there was no talk of a "second front" circulating at the conference—a naïf indication that that subject already had been disposed of except for final details. Nor was anything specific concerning a multitude of post-war problems, such as the Russian-Polish boundaries. The "surrender or die" ultimatum, which some had expected, was not forthcoming. Instead, the big three calmly and confidently told German forces in a three-sided assault and multiply the devastating air raids on her home soil.

(Continued From Page One) mires armies. The other limiting factor is the readiness of the armies for actions. An all-out attack on all fronts this winter unquestionably would be destined to produce victory by spring by taking advantage of the moral effect of the winter's battle reverses and punishing aerial attacks on the German homeland. Otherwise, conservative estimates are that there is little prospect of victory until next fall. The opening of a secondary front in southern Europe, probably in the Balkans but possibly in southern France, might be undertaken as a preliminary to invasion of northern France and Belgium. It would have the effect of forcing the Germans to disperse their forces or suffer further defeats and losses of important territory, such as the Rumanian oil fields.

Kept Boy Out School; Convicted In Court

By CHESTER WALSH In Police Court today Judge Roberts dealt a problem child to deal with in the case against Erny Baker, charging him with violating the state compulsory school attendance law in failing to send his son, Joseph Baker, 12, to school. Truant Officer Harold A. McDougle testified that the boy had missed 40 days from school this term and that he had been to Baker's house several times and notified Mrs. Baker that they were violating the school law. The court considered a verdict of guilty against Baker and continued judgment to January 3.

We recognize fully the supreme responsibility resting upon us and all the United Nations to make a peace which will command the good will of the overwhelming masses of the peoples of the world and banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations. "We shall seek the cooperation and active participation of all nations, large and small, whose peoples in heart and mind are dedicated, as are our own peoples, to the elimination of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance. We will welcome them as they may choose to come into a world family of democratic nations." The concluding paragraph of one declaration devoted to the status of Iran as an ally of the three nations apparently was the key to the envisaged "world family of democratic nations."

After expressing their respect for Iran's independence and territorial integrity, and promising economic aid to that country which has facilitated the flow of Allied supplies to Russia, the three leaders said: "They (the United States, Britain and Russia) count upon the participation of Iran together with all other peace-loving nations in the establishment of international peace and security and prosperity after the war in accordance with the principles of the Atlantic charter, to which all four governments have continued to subscribe." Dispatches from Teheran said the conference atmosphere was one of extreme cordiality. The main declaration by the three leaders concluded: "We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose." It was the first time President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had met.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR, December 6, 1903

With eggs 35 cents a dozen in Charlotte and 30 cents in Greensboro, those town are hunting a substitute for Christmas eggnog.

There is being much said in this country about hard times and the scarcity of money, and as everyone has a cause and knows its remedy, I thought I would tell your readers the cause: I would tell your readers: We buy more than we produce. There is too much flour and bacon shipped here every year. We let timber go to rot and buy our plow stocks, singletrees, axe handles and fencing. We buy garden seed in the spring and cabbage in the winter. We send a 15-cent boy out with a twenty dollar gun and a four dollar dog to kill birds. We raise dogs and buy wool. And about the only thing in this country there is an overproduction of, is our production of politics and dog tricks.—Exchange.

Birth Announcement. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Corbette announce the birth of a son on Thursday, December 2, 1943, in Pitt General Hospital.

Business Girls' Circle to Meet. The Business Girls' Circle of Immanuel Baptist Church will meet Tuesday night, December 7, with Mrs. Fred Owens.

Miss Tommie Lou Corbett will give the program. All members are invited and urged to attend.

At Keesler Field. Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., Dec. 2.—Cpl. William E. Riggs has reported at Keesler Field to begin training as a pre-aviation cadet. He is the son of Mr. L. Riggs of Route 3, Greenville, N. C.

Training School P. T. A. The Training School P. T. A. will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.

Celebrates Birthday. Little Miss Margaret Frankie Elks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Elks, was hostess to a number of her little friends at a delightful party Thursday afternoon from four until five-thirty o'clock at her home, on the occasion of her third birthday.

Mrs. Elks and the youthful honoree greeted guests arriving at the invited hour and prior to games which were enjoyed in the living room, the many lovely gifts were opened.

At the refreshment hour the little folk were invited into the dining room where delicious ice cream and wafers were served. Each refreshment plate of Christmas motif was graced with candy wrapped in red and green cellophane. They were marked with a miniature Santa Claus which were later presented as individual favors.

The table was centered with a white frosted birthday cake lighted by three red candles which burned in rosebud holders. Christmas trees were placed at either end of the table.

Mrs. Elks was assisted during party hours by her mother, Mrs. J. S. Spain.

The guest list included Misses Jane Divers White, Gladys Joy Carr, Lena Gay Hudson, Grace Dodd Elks, Mary Joe Fleming and Master James Earl Smith.

College Vesper Services. Miss Annie L. Morton, dean of women, spoke at the YWCA-YMCA vesper service at the college last night on "Bringing Home the Bride." She was introduced by Gertrude Berry of Timberlake, YWCA night watch chairman.

Before the talk, Mary Alice Charlton of Raleigh, sang "Cantique de Noel," accompanied by Maribelle Robertson of Greenville.

Miss Morton began by telling the story of Isaac, son of Abraham, whose servant, sent to choose a wife for him, made a prayer to God that the woman who should give him a drink of water and draw water for his camels might be the one to be a mate for Isaac. She described the meeting at the well, of Rebecca's gracious kindness, and of the success of the servant's mission when he led Rebecca back to his master's house.

"Whose daughter art thou?" a question, asked of Rebecca by the servant, is a question heard quite frequently still, said Miss Morton, and pointed out the similarity between this and the questions so often put to the members of her audience.

"What is your father's name?" she said, is the first question asked of a child entering school, or a student entering college, and parents and home are in great part measured by the children they send out.

"What college did you graduate from?" or "What college are you representing?" likewise, are often asked, and by the speech and conduct of its students a college is judged.

"Is your conduct as a member of your church as of the YWCA such that you will cause others to want to join the church or the YW?" asked Miss Morton.

Students should, like Rebecca, show a gracious manner and a willingness to serve, particularly if they are to be teachers, and to be more than just ordinary teachers, declared Miss Morton in conclusion.

Pearl Arnold of Dover, was pianist, and Marie Watson of Fremont, led the devotional.

hear Jones urging action now and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) also remarked he thought the subsidy issue should be decided at once.
At the other wing of the capitol, Rep. Norton (D-N) told reporters that the housewives "are aroused as never before" over the issue. Her mail, she said, contains more than 20,000 requests from women that subsidies be continued.
Mrs. Norton charged large farm organizations with making "a very selfish fight" to the detriment of the "small dirt farmer."
