Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PAST AND PRESENT

Recently in my hearing an elderly man read a diary which had come down to him from his grandfather who had served as a chaplain in the Civil War.

One entry read, "General L died last night, Ily prepared, I am afraid, to meet his God. He was the foulest mouthed man I ever knew."

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—A newspaper publisher, recently here for a series of conferences, asked me why doesn't someone in Washington tell the story of the advertising contribution that is being made to the war effort?

I thought it was a swell tip, because at OWI they told me that Uncle Sam will get about $500,000,000 worth of free advertising in 1944.

And they do mean "advertising"—not news stories. For every favorable mention the war effort has had in these departments, there has been at least an equal line, maybe more, of criticism and that's the way Uncle Sam wants it.

What they are talking about are the institutional, company-sponsored, group-sponsored, advisory organizations and groups provided gratis in newspapers, magazines, on the air, on billboards and posters.

Although the Treasury Department has been about the only federal agency so far to recognize the importance of this spreading the good word, the value of it is now being impressed throughout the government by OWI, the War and Navy Departments, and the War Production Board.

The effectiveness of it is being highlighted behind the scenes now because in mid-January, the Treasury is going to kick off with its third great war loan sale. The goal is $14,000,000,000—approximately four billion less than the Second War Loan garnered.

This campaign was characterized by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as "the greatest advertising operation in the history of the world," and when he said it, he was giving out bows, not taking them.

Nearly 74,000 "free" newspaper ads, valued at more than $4,500,000 went into that one campaign alone, and the word "free" is used in quotes because they didn't cost the government a cent, being contributed either by public spirited individuals, groups, companies or the newspapers themselves.

Free advertising for the government in times of national stress is nothing new. In fact, archives and the Library of Congress record such advertising before there was any government. In 1755, grand old Benjamin Franklin, under a Lan-

Three bills, one of them passed last month by the Senate, were affected by the committee action. The Senate bill provided for the expenditure of $15,000,000 for advertisements in daily, weekly, semi-weekly and tri-weekly papers published in cities having population of 100,000 or more.

Other members of the committee construed the action as definitely halting the legislation this session unless the committee should reverse itself.

The Treasury Department had opposed the legislation as a "subsidy" and asserted it would interfere with the present program of voluntary advertising under which department officials estimated the bond sales program received approximately $100,000,000 in free ad-

Housewives Urged Stop Food Waste

Pitt county's 3,610 housewives could feed 1,118 soldiers for a year with the food wasted annually in homes of the county, an official of the country's leading food distributor estimated today.

This amazing figure is based on accurate government statistics that indicate that at least 2,144,340 pounds of food are wasted annually in Pitt county homes, according to Harvey A. Baum, head of A & P Tea Company's produce-buying operations.

"Food is a munition of war and everyone must fight waste of it now," Baum pointed out. "Efficient food producers, processors and distributors have worked for years to reduce waste. Our company, for example, has cut waste and spoilage on perishable fruits and vegetables by 50 per cent during the past 20 years," he added. "Now the government is urging a similar war on food waste in the home."

Kitchen efficiency, Baum suggested, should include three points: (1) Buy as nearly as possible just the required amount; (2) serve moderate helpings; and (3) use all left-overs.

Baum said that although housewives have eliminated much food waste since Pearl Harbor, over eight per cent of all food bought for home consumption is still wasted. While it is obvious that waste cannot be prevented entirely, he added, carefully planned consumption should cut the loss in half and thus 559 soldiers could be fed with the resulting savings in homes of this county.

Civilians eat about 1,514 pounds of food each year, he concluded, while the average soldier "puts away" 1,916 pounds annually.

Pictured above is Miss Virginia Cook of Greenville who will play the part of Claudia in the play of the same name to be presented at ECTC Friday and Saturday, December 10-11. Before moving to Greenville, Miss Cook lived in Wilson where she was active in dramatics in the Charles L. Coon high school. Last year she gave a fine performance of the maid in the Chi Pi production "Ladies in Retirement." Claudia is a young wife who faces many problems in her adventures in marriage. This play met with great success on Broadway and has recently been made into a movie.

Geography Journal Honors Picklesimer

Copies of a pamphlet, "Our Changing Geography," by Dr. P. W. Picklesimer, head of the East Carolina Teachers College geography department, recently appeared on the campus. The pamphlet is a reprint from the "Journal of Geography" for October. According to Dr. Picklesimer, the editor of the American Congress of Surveying and Mapping, Washington, D. C., has granted permission to reprint the article again for his publication.

In his article, Dr. Picklesimer points out the inadequacy of the geographical knowledge of the average American.

For one thing, he says, in this air age, when all need to have a global concept of the earth, the war has given new importance to place geography. Then, the change in the industrial map of America and new developments in science and technology, such as synthetic rubber and radar, make a new grasp of industrial geography very necessary.

Geography, he says, is not a static science, but one which must change with a changing world. However, such changes must take place within the limits of the natural environment and be shaped in some measure by those limits.

The article closes with the statement that a new idea of the field and function of geography is gradually growing up and the expressed hope that the gradually increasing knowledge in the field may be used in wiser ways for a finer purpose.

Dr. Picklesimer, who has his doctor's degree in geography from the George Peabody College, varied his program of civilian teaching last summer by teaching European geography to service men at the University of North Carolina under the ASTP program, to give them the needed knowledge of the countries into which they may be sent.

Servicemen's Home In Samaritan Role

The Salvation Army Service Men's Home, at the Vines House, completed a year's work last Saturday. During the 12 months since the home was opened, 6,707 boys have visited the home and at no time has there been any misconduct or trouble with any of the boys, Capt. Elizabeth Spear stated today.

The home was opened on December 5, 1942. During December 248 boys spent the night in the home. In January, 365; February, 390; March, 405; April, 450; May, 488; June, 425; July, 411; August, 540; September, 412; October, 893, and November, 826. The first week of December, which completes the year, 164. In addition to those who spent the night there were 780 who dropped in to "clean up" or rest, or perhaps write letters.

The boys who spend the night pay for their bed 50 cents per night, but no other charge is made for any service. On Sunday nights coffee and doughnuts are served to the boys caring for them and apples and other fruits are kept around the home for the boys. Writing materials, ink and pens are furnished for the convenience of the boys.

Many and varied are the services rendered to the boys during the course of a month. On one occasion a boy who had been in an accident came in with blood all over his uniform and having another with him, quite worried about what to do since he was not hurt enough to hinder him from filling his date for the evening. It did not take "Mom" long to solve his problem as she, like all good mothers, knew he needed a rest anyway, so he was sent to bed while she washed and ironed his uniform.

Sometimes a boy comes in sick and always "Mom" is on the job with a hot lemonade, aspirin or other remedy such as the boy's mother did for him when he was at home. Then again it is a torn trouser, or a button off or maybe a new insignia to be sewed on the uniform. Whatever the problem is "Mom" always has the remedy.

The boys are very appreciative of this service and they in turn help "Mom" out many times by fixing lamp cords, broken locks, and rendering many other services around the house.

Both Captain Speers and "Mom" Horne wish to say a big "thank you" to all the boys who have visited the home for their fine conduct and also wish to express to their many friends of Greenville their deep appreciation for the fine way in which they have cooperated to help make this home possible for the boys.

road and valley between Mignano and Cassino, in which the Liri river flows into the upper Garigliano.

The three fortified villages from which Clark's British units knocked the enemy were Camino, Acquapendente, and Cocuzza, three to five miles southwest of Mignano.

An NBC broadcast from Algiers said advanced U. S. units of the Fifth Army now were 11-2 miles from the Camino plain, where tanks can be used in the drive on Rome.

In a few places, Allied forward units have begun working down the west side of the new-won summits toward the valley. The Germans who retreated to the northern slopes of Mt. Maggiore are only a mile-and-a-half from the upper Garigliano, without hope of establishing tenable positions short of that river.

U. S. medium and fighter bombers yesterday twice attacked Civitavecchia, 45 miles northwest of Rome and principal German supply base on the Italian west coast, but the day's spectacular achievement came when American Spitfires met a dozen Nazi fighters over the battle area, downing six and damaging two more without any American losses.

A large force of B-25 Mitchells hit Civitavecchia first, striking a ship, dropping bombs close to others, touching off an explosion in an ammunition dump, and blasting railroad yards.

Later, U. S. A-36 dive-bombers swooped in, firing warehouses and showering bombs around a freighter.

A-36s and P-40 Warhawks attacked bridges and roads near the Fifth Army front.

Pounding east coast supply lines, S. Mitchells bombed railway yards at Pescara, invaders smashed the town of Viacusa, and RAF fighters blasted German gunposts west of Orsogna.

The planes also dropped food to American troops in virtually inaccessible mountains on the Fifth Army front.

tempting to clear the Japanese from the strategic Huon peninsula which overlooks the possible invasion strait to New Britain.

Bombers also hit the Japanese on Bougainville around the American bridgehead at Empress Augusta Bay, smashing supply lines and exploding 48 tons of bombs on an ammunition dump and other targets.

The fighting here was reported to have subsided.

Eight large enemy rafts loaded with supplies were destroyed by light naval craft in New Guinea coastal waters, and a cargo ship loaded with fuel was hit and seen to explode off Kaihaha, Dutch New Guinea.

Far to the northeast, silence continued to cloak the results of a heavy attack by aircraft carrier task forces on the Japanese-held Marshall Islands in the central Pacific Saturday. After announcing the attack, Adm Chester W. Nimitz said the necessity of radio silence for security reasons prevented amplification of the reports.

southeast of Znamenka, loomed as an early objective on the Red Army schedule.

Adverse weather in White Russia, where Soviet advance columns are converging on the rail centers of Zhiobin and Rogachev, northwest of Gomel, has temporarily prevented them from taking advantage of the favorable conditions created in this and other sectors by recent Russian successes.

(A Berlin broadcast said the Russians lost 8,000 dead and many prisoners in the battle west of Kiev and that the Nazis seized large quantities of war booty.)

In the Dnieper bend south of Kremenchug, the broadcast said the Germans "shortened part of their line." Reuters reported the Red Army had thrust within two miles of the center of Znamenka in the area to the north and had advanced 8 to 10 miles in the last 24 hours in the sectors south and west of the rail junction.

Rumanian forces have won the bridgehead area established by the Russians at Kereh in the Crimea, wiping out the Soviet landing troops in a three-day battle and taking 2,000 prisoners, the German high command declared today.

men of the armed forces in order that they may write home for an absentee ballot.

Thus the single operation of having the War and Navy Departments distribute ballots to the servicemen everywhere is eliminated.

A number of states already have provided for absentee voting by their men in service. Some have not. In order to do so they would have to pass laws at their next regular legislative sessions or call special sessions.

tributing post cards and ballots under the adopted amendment becomes an almost insuperable task for the services.

Time alone, he said, would be a tremendous factor in preventing a serviceman from voting and adding: "Probably 30 states have a law limiting to 30 days the time elapsing between an absentee's request for a ballot and the time that filled-in ballot is returned. Ten states have limitations of 20 days or less.

"The army can't use plane priorities to distribute the mass of cards and ballots which would have to be sent out under this plan.

"Suppose a soldier in England wrote back home for an absentee ballot and shortly thereafter was transferred to Africa. The ballot would be sent to him in England and would then in due time have to follow him to Africa or maybe by that time over to Italy. Many days would elapse, perhaps too many for his vote to be counted."
