American Forces Drive Two Miles Into Tough Defenses About Cassino

Americans Plunge Ahead To Northeast Of Town While British Establish Firm Bridgehead To The Southwest; Italian Based Fortresses Blast Enemy

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Fifth army forces bit deeper today into the tough defense belt of Cassino with American doughboys plunging forward in a two-mile advance northeast of the stronghold and the British crossing the Peccia river and firmly holding a bridgehead to the southwest of the town.

In a thrust from Mount Maio the Yanks battered their way through strong opposition and captured the 3,500-foot peak of Catena Vecchio overlooking the road from fallen San Vittore to Cassino.

Despite intense artillery fire, the British clung to the bridgehead they forged across the Peccia west of Mount Maggiore near the western end of the 10-mile offensive front of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army.

Clark's troops also occupied other heights preparatory to an assault directly on Cassino itself.

Americans captured 1,500-foot Mount Chiaia south of the Cassino road and still farther south they completed occupation of 900-foot Mount Porchia by mopping up surviving Germans entrenched on the mountain's western slopes after tanks had entered actively into the push.

The Americans thus overlooked the village of Cervaro, four miles due east of Cassino, both from the north and south.

Their advanced elements were more than a third through the six-mile zone of fortifications between Cassino and the captured village of San Vittore.

The doughboys who captured Mount Chiaia continued their advance northward toward Cervaro supported by fighter-bombers which attacked German positions.

Deep snows in the mountainous sectors of the Eighth army front restricted fighting to patrol activity and heavy artillery and mortar fire exchanges.

The air command said that a strong force of these heavy bombers had struck across the northern neck of the Adriatic to smash at the naval base of Pola, on the tip of Italy's Istrian peninsula in support of Yugoslav patriots, and field dispatches disclosed for the first time

Sofia Bombed By Fortresses

Allied eadquarters, Algiers, Jan. 10—(AP)—A heavy force of American Flying Fortresses bombed Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria today.

The packed formations swept in about noon, it was announced, for the fifth heavy bomber assault in two months on the German-controlled capital. The raid was a close follow-up to yesterday's first announced fortress operation from Italian bases, when the port and naval base at Pola in the northern Adriatic area was hit severely.

No further details of the Sofia bombing were made available immediately.

"A heavy force of Flying Fortresses of the 15th air force bombed Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, at noon today," said the special air communique announcing the attack.

OFFER PLAN TO AID VETERANS

Legion - Sponsored Measure Laid Before Congress

Washington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A far-reaching program of post discharge financial assistance for service men and women, sponsored by the American Legion, was laid before Congress today by a bi-partisan group of Senate and House members.

The Legion called its proposals "A bill of rights for G. I. Joe and G. I. Jane," in proposing:

Demobilization pay of $500 for those who have served 18 months, $400 for 12 to 18 months service, $300 for six to 12 months, $200 for three to six months, and $100 for less than three months.

Unemployment compensation credit double the amount veterans would have received in civilian work during the period of their military service.

Education allowances of $50 per month for single veterans and $75 for married service men, plus all educational expenses in established colleges and universities up to four years.

Payment of federal aid to states planning to lend veterans home building funds at low interest rates.

Designation of the Veterans' Bureau as a "vital war agency" with priority for materials and equipment second only to the War and Navy departments to carry out a hospital construction program.

"Adequate provision" by the Veterans Bureau for the physical welfare and financial aid of all wounded, diseased or otherwise handicapped veterans before discharge from service, with rehabilitation functions concentrated in the Veterans Administration.

Death Sentence For Count Ciano

London, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A German news agency broadcast announced tonight that Count Galeazzo Viano, son-in-law of Benito Mussolini and Italy's foreign minister when the country was led into war at the side of Germany, had been sentenced to death at a Nazi-sponsored "treason trial."

The announcement by DNB said all 19 members of the Fascist Grand Council who voted July 29 for the deposing of Mussolini from his dictatorship had been condemned to death with the single exception of Tullio Cianetti, former minister on corporations.

Only six of the 19 defendants, including Ciano, were in Nazi-Fascist custody, the other 13 having escaped the clutches of the Germans and Mussolini, according to German radio reports.

End Shipyard Strike

Philadelphia, Jan. 10—(AP)—Thousands of Cramp Shipbuilding Company trooped back to their jobs today, ending a four-day strike that halted all production and brought protests from the navy, the War Labor Board and their own union.

About 11,000 day shift workers reported this morning and several thousand others went back at midnight. The rest of the plant's 17,000 workers were expected to report for the afternoon swing.

WINTER GRIPS THIS SECTION

Mercury Dropped To 13.8 Degrees Here Early Today

The second blizzard of the winter swooped down on this section Saturday, with rain, sleet and snow that crippled transportation and depleted supplies of coal and fuel oil. A light snow Saturday was followed by sleet and a drop in temperature Sunday morning to 27.2 degrees. Snow fell from about noon until late in the afternoon. The sky was clear last night at 8 o'clock. J. A. Clark, airways weather observer, reported an inch and a half of snow and nearly an inch of rain.

The official thermometer recordings were as follows:

Sunday—8 a. m., 27.2 degrees; 2 p. m., 27.7 degrees, and at 8 p. m., 22.4 degrees.

Monday—8 a. m., 14.6 degrees and at 2 p. m., 39.6 degrees.

The lowest temperature recorded during the two-day period was 13.8 degrees at 2 a. m., today.

By The Associated Press)

Sub-freezing temperatures, which brought the south one of its coldest days of the winter, abated somewhat today under bright sun.

Snow was reported from North Carolina to northwest Arkansas, with the heaviest fall in western Arkansas. Little Rock reported low temperatures last night ranging from two to 10 degrees above zero, with the mercury climbing to 20 above today.

Fair and warmer was predicted tonight for most southern states.

Birmingham reported the city blanketed by nearly two inches of

Will Report Soon On Freight Rates

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission's long investigation of railroad "class" rates, prompted by complaints by the south and southwest, is nearing an end.

The ICC told congress today that examiners in the case now are "in the course of preparation." This will be followed by the filing of exceptions, arguments before the commission, and finally a decision.

The south and southwest are asking, in effect, the same class rates, mile for mile, as the north.

Class rates generally apply to manufactured goods, while heavy commodities, such as steel, grain, and coal move under their own commodity rates.

ICC examiners already have recommended that the commission establish nation-wide uniform class rates. Under the present classifications, various articles take different classifications in each freight territory, and in many classes still a different classification when moving from one territory to another.

Report Recovery Of More Bodies

Cape May, N. J., Jan. 10—(AP)—Thirty-seven more bodies of victims of the collision of a navy patrol boat and a merchant vessel 60 miles southeast of Cape May Thursday night have been recovered, it was learned today, bringing the total of known dead to 67.

The fourth naval district confirmed the information but said there would be no further announcements concerning the crash. The patrol boat which sank, was the St. Augustine, formerly a palatial yacht. The merchant vessel has not been named.

Lawmakers Reassemble After Holiday Recess

President Not To Deliver Annual Message In Person; Quick Action Necessary On Important Issues

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt on the advice of his physician will send his annual message to congress at noon tomorrow rather than deliver it in person, but he will broadcast a shortened version to the country tomorrow night.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged a late afternoon conference today with congressional leaders—Vice President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormack.

After formalities of the noon meeting of the 78th second session, the President was expected to discuss with them the business ahead of the new session, which is confronted with a pair of legislative deadlines and a number of other provocative issues.

Still shaking off vestiges of illness—White House officials described it today as influena—Mr. Roosevelt was keeping all his engagements today in the White House proper. Presidential Secretary Early said his physician—Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, saw the chief executive this morning and asked him not to go before congress in person tomorrow and run the risk of a possible recurrence of his illness.

Consequently, the annual message "on the state of the union" will be transmitted at noon tomorrow and read to the legislators by clerks.

At 9:30 p. m., eastern war time, Mr. Roosevelt will broadcast a resume of it, compressed into a half hour of radio time.

The annual budget estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, will be submitted to congress Thursday at noon.

White House officials said that while Mr. Roosevelt previously had sent his annual message instead of delivering it in person, tomorrow is the first time that he has arranged to broadcast it later, even in abbreviated form.

The message is expected to deal to a major degree with domestic problems, and Mr. Roosevelt's decision to go on the air underscored the importance he assigns them.

By February 17, the lawmakers must decide what to do about food subsidies and the Commodity Credit Corporation which administers them. Stopgap legislation enacted just before the holiday recess extended the life of CCC until that date.

Less than two weeks later, by March, a decision must be reached on the social security payroll tax rates, frozen by emergency legislation at their present level of 1 per cent each on employers and employes for the first two months of this year. Without the legislation, the tax would have advanced automatically to 2 per cent on January 1.

The Senate Finance Committee adopted an amendment to the pending $2,275,600,000 tax increase bill extending the freeze throughout 1944, and Chairman George (D-Ga) announced it would get first consideration when the revenue measure is called up—possibly tomorrow.

Congress must race against time on many other portions of the legislative program.

A practical system of absentee voting for service men at home and overseas is one of the most pressing problems. Ballots must be printed and shipped months ahead of the November election, and if the states are to be called upon for enabling

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's unhappy Reich is on tiptoe of tenseness in anticipation of Anglo-American invasion—a state of nerves which is aggravated by the grave dangers of the Russian battle.

News from Moscow today emphasizes the threat to the vital Nazi rail communications both in Poland and to the south in the Dnieper bend where a big German army is threatened with encirclement. Berlin spokesmen are preparing the public for more bad news. Should disaster overtake the Hitlerites in Russia at the same time a major invasion was launched in the west, it would represent the worst situation that even the most gloomy Nazi could envisage.

The length of the conflict with Japan also hinges on this invasion. It's becoming increasingly clear that there's not likely to be any all-out drive by the United Nations in the Orient until the Hitlerian issue is decided, thereby releasing essential supplies and equipment.

The Germans are jittery in all possible invasion zones, from the Balkans to Norway. The fact is that while they know where invasions might be staged, there's no way of telling just where the Allies intend to deliver their major blows.

Thus the Hitlerites are forced to stand on the alert everywhere, and hope they have their forces distributed to the right spots. If they guess correctly, the Allied task will be multiplied; If they're wrong, the vast difficulties of invasion will be lessened. This matching military wits is a matter of life or death for thousands of American, British and French soldiers.

The Germans say the Allies have mapped out a five-week program to pave the way for the invasion of western Europe. This would set the date about the middle of February.

Hitler is rushing preparations for defense. Marshal Rommel professes satisfaction with the situation. We should be crazy not to recognize that the Germans have constructed a powerful machine to ward off invasion.

To prepare for this crisis the Anglo-American airforces are intensifying their bombing of German war resources and the so-called invasion coastal zones. It's one of the decisive operations of the global conflict—the greatest air attack the world has known.

As our high command has said, the purpose of this bombing is (1) to destroy Nazi resources, and (2) to clear the way for our amphibious forces. The bombing of war industries will continue on the crescendo until Germany has been rendered sufficiently impotent to warrant risking the lives of hundreds of thousands of our ground troops in invasion.

Then one day the combined American and British air navies will let loose all hell along the coastline, to open up beach-heads for our men. This bombardment likely will continue several days—the most devilish rain of death ever let loose from the clouds. When that bombing gets under way, it will be our signal that the invasion is at hand.

Practically Everyone Must File Tax Return

By JAMES MARLOW And GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—Maybe you've heard somebody say:

"I'm glad I won't have to file an income tax return this year. That's all taken care of now by the employer."

Or—

"I paid half my 1942 tax last March and June, and then they forgave all but one-fourth of it, so I've got some credit coming."

These seem to be two of the most widespread misunderstandings about the federal income tax law.

Other taxpayers who may be in for a jolt are those who say, "I won't owe much if anything in March" or "the government's going to owe me money."

Here's the situation:

With the exception of men and women overseas or at sea, everybody who had money taken out of his pay in 1943 for federal income and victory taxes, or who owed a tax on 1942 income, or who made as much as $500 if single, or $624 if married, in 1943, needs to file a final 1943 return by March 15—if only to apply for a refund.

The fact that your employer has to tell the Internal Revenue Bureau how much he paid you and how much was taken out of your pay for taxes doesn's excuse you from making a return.

The payments made last March and June on the 1942 tax have been applied instead, in the average taxpayer's case, against the 1943 tax. Congress decided to cancel 75 per cent (or a minimum of $50) of the individual's 1942 or 1943 tax, whichever turned out to be lower, and to collect the bigger tax in full.

That means that in the average case, there's 25 per cent of the 1942 tax still to be paid—half of it this March, the other half next year.

Before any refunds are made, there are two items to be considered:

1. The hangover of that uncancelled amount of tax.

2. The first quarterly payment of estimated 1944 tax also due March 15 from those who aren't subject to the pay roll-deduction system, and those who expect to have 1944 income of more than $2700 if single or $3500 for a married couple, or expect to have $100 or more of income in addition to regular wages or salaries.

About refunds: Those taxpayers who actually will have refunds coming March 15—Notably men and women who entered the armed services in 1942 and 1943—will have to

Berlin Reports Reds Have Reached Vital Rail Point

JAPS BATTLE DESPERATELY

Offering Stiff Resistance on South Pacific Fronts

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Jan. 10—(AP)—Bitter ground fighting is raging in northwestern New Britain, with Allied bombers supporting the United States Marines' renewed push to clear the Japanese from the Borgen Bay area near Cape Gloucester.

Bombers concentrated 58 tons of explosives on enemy forward positions, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said today. A headquarters spokesman said the battle was resumed Friday after a lull, and the high command announced that the Marines had reached Hill 660, in an advance of a mile and three quarters.

Ground patrol clashes also were reported in the hills in the airdrome area farther west, today's communique said. Marines captured the airdrome December 30, four days after the invasion began.

Bombers and fighters of the South Pacific command struck enemy installations at Cape St. George on the southern tip of New Ireland. The target area is across narrow St. George channel from Rabaul, Japanese stronghold in northeast New Britain.

Stiff enemy interception of the attack Friday gave evidence the Japanese will resist desperately any attack that might eventually soften a new landing spot for a flanking assault on Rabaul. At least 10 Japanese interceptors were shot down, and probably two others. Six of our planes were lost.

Bombers struck also at the protective airdromes of Rabaul itself. Liberators bombed Vanukanau airdrome in the morning and Australian Beauforts pounded Lakunai and Tobera airdromes at night.

Neither Japanese nor Allied plane losses were mentioned. In raids in the preceding 15 days, however, more than 190 Japanese planes had been downed in the Rabaul area.

(A Tokyo broadcast said today that 150 Allied planes attacked the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, Sunday morning and made the wholly unconfirmed claim that 52 aircraft "including 19 probables" were shot down from the assaulting formations.

(The broadcast, quoting an imperial headquarters communique, added that "our losses consisted of two planes.")

In the battle on Arawe peninsula, New Britain, Boston attack planes obliterated one Japanese-held village (Didmop), while Mitchell bombers blasted Umtingalu, directly behind enemy lines northeast of Cape Merkus where Americans landed December 15. One pilot returned to report that Didmop "is no longer there."

Umtingalu village and the Arawe airstrip beyond it, once captured by the Americans, later had been lost as the desperately-fighting Japanese garrison regained four miles

Severe Storm Here Holds Up Traffic

Saturday's snow storm, which wound up with sleet overnight, seriously handicapped highway transportation during the weekend and today. The Carolina Coach Company did not operate a bus in this division Sunday. This morning a bus came through from Wilson and went to Washington. A company official said last night that in view of the difficulty of getting buses and repair parts, they considered it too hazardous to operate the buses on icy highways. A large number of Marines and soldiers from Goldsboro and Camp Davis were stranded here last night. Passenger buses were getting back on schedule this afternon.

Several minor collisions of motor vehicles were reported in the city, nothing serious. Yesterday and last night highways in this section were nearly deserted. Highway patrolmen had no accidents to report.

High Court Upholds Viereck Conviction

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—Conviction of George Sylvester Viereck, who was sentenced last July to serve from one to five years for violation of the foreign agents registration act, was affirmed today by the United States Court of Appeals.

The court found that Viereck was "properly convicted and sentenced after a fair trial."

Viereck had registered under the act but had failed to give details of his activities and to say that he represented the foreign office of the German Reich.

Judge Clawson L. Williams will convene a week's civil term of Superior Court here next Monday. A week's criminal term will be convened the week of the 24th.

Predicts Celebration

Congressmen Must Give Up Present Jobs To Enlist

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt instructed the secretaries of war and navy today that members of congress "may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a formal statement that Attorney General Biddle had advised him that the constiution forbids simultaneous service in the armed forces and in congress.

"Aside from the constitutional barrier," the President said, "there is also the problem of evaluation of service to the nation. One of the greatest strengths of our democracy in the time of crisis is a strong, virile congress, to meet the problems arising from the demands of total war.

"The election of these congressmen after war was declared, showed that their constituents believed that their service as legislators was their paramount contribution to the

The meeting will be brief and there will be no social affair, in keeping with wartime conditions.

Fall of Sarny, Poland, Will Cut Off Chief Rail Escape Route of Nazis; Other Drives Closing Trap About Large German Army In Dnieper Bend

London, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said today that Russian units had reached Sarny, rail station 35 miles inside old Poland on the north-south rail link between the Warsaw-Odessa and Warsaw-Minsk lines.

Earlier Moscow dispatches had placed Red army forces five miles east of the town, whose fall would force the Nazis to rely on the Brest-Litovsk railway 135 miles farther west as their main lateral supply route.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Spearheads of Gne. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukranian army plunged within 15 miles of the Bug river today, and neared Vinnitsa, rail city on the Bug serving as main control point for German communications to the Dnieper bend.

Other Vatutin units slashing southward sent deeper one jaw of a possible trap for thousands of Germans in the Smela gap, a Nazi-held zone in the rear extending eastward to the Dnieper river. This southward drive was pushing toward a junction with Gen. Ivan S. Konev's second Ukranian army, advancing westward through Alexandrovka above Kirovograd.

Farther north, the Soviets were within five miles of Sarny (35 miles inside old Poland).

Vatutin's western advance guards seized Zhornischche, 15 miles from a bend of the Bug river. Zhornischche is 30 miles southeast of Vinnitsa and 33 miles from the important Odessa-Warsaw railway.

(The Bug river, a natural defense line, is the eastern border of Transnistria, the Soviet area awarded Rumania by the Germans).

Other units pushed through Schastlivaya, 19 miles east of Vinnitsa itself, threatening to cut the most important east-west railway left the Germans in the Ukraine.

(The German high command announced the Soviets attempted a landing west of Ochakov on the Black sea, between the Dnieper's mouth and the naval base of Odessa, but were thrown back. There was no Russian confirmation of the reported landing, which might be a flanking assault to bottle up the Germans in the Dnieper bend.

(Berlin reported "local fighting" west of Sarny in old Poland, and declared Russian attacks west of Berdichev had been frustrated. The Soviets were beaten back in the Kirovograd area, the communique

German Propagandists Switch To Defensive

By WADE WERNER

Lisbon, Jan. 10.—(AP)—German propaganda, once a powerful weapon in Adolf Hitler's arsenal, is retreating on a broad front in Europe after being forced onto the defensive by the reverses suffered by the Nazi armed forces.

This is not merely a United Nations view, for it is supported by dispatches published in German papers. For instance, the Pariser Zeitung published recently under a Lisbon dateline a description of the steadily increasing pro-Allied tone of the Portuguese press and acknowledged that the trend was even more pronounced in Sweden and Switzerland.

The story bemoaned the fact that Portuguese movie theaters are "completely dominated by Anglo-American films" and that bookstalls and newsstands are "flooded with English and American books and periodicals of all kinds."

The dispatch added that while the Americans are newcomers in the propaganda field here they already have outdistanced the British.

There were a number of picturesque skirmishes on the Portuguese propaganda front before the Germans went over to the defensive. Early in the war a veritable "battle of shop windows" began in Lisbon when the Germans rented windows for the display of war pictures and the British followed suit, resulting in a lovely bidding for preferred locations until police stepped in with a ban on further leases.

The old leases are still good, so there are many windows full of pictures, but since the turn in the military tide the Germans have been showing more "cutural" pictures and fewer battle scenes.

In the movie theaters the authorities at first banned the showing of any newsreels of the war, but later removed this prohibition while maintaining a strict censorship over such films. The Germans then leased their own theater to insure the showing of their films within the limits of censorship, but a casual glance at the movie advertisements today corroborates the Pariser Zeitung's assertion that British and American productions dominate the screens here.

The volume of British and American publications available also has increased heavily in the last year.

Strength
FOR THE DAY
By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BE THOUGHT OF OTHERS

In western New York there lives a man who some years ago lost one of his legs in an accident. He has mastered life in spite of his handicap. His experience has so impressed him that he watches the papers continually and when he reads of a man who has lost a leg, he looks him up and tries to console him and give him a heart to endure life as it is. He never leaves a man without making him feel that while two legs are better than one, there are a lot of things in life worse than losing a leg.

The man who can lose a leg and so rise above his affliction that he hunts up people similarly afflicted to assure them that it's not so bad after all, is a man who has the heart of a hero. And anyone who so cares for his fellows that he keeps constantly on the alert to find those who need the assuring and cheerful word of one who has risen above an affliction, is a follower of Christ who must be mighty pleasing to the Master.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

war effort."

Mr. Roosevelt said the desire of legislators to serve their country under arms was understandable and appreciated and "does them honor."

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that in issuing his instructions to Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox the President was closing out a matter that had been dragging along for some time. A number of members of congress have gone into uniform although some have given up their seats to do so.

Apparently only two representatives were immediately affected by the President's order. Rep. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) recently volunteered and now is on furlough with orders to report at Camp Shelby, Miss., January 19. Gore, youngest member of Tennessee's delegation is 36, married and has one child.

"All I can do is what I am ordered," Gore said.

The other member is Representative Jackson (D-Wash), a private in a tank destroyer unit stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala.

With Lightning fighters providing protection, the Fortresses dropped tons of bombs on the harbor and shipping facilities. One explosion threw flames and debris 1,000 feet into the air.

Medium bombers at the same time attacked the port of Ancona on Italy's east coast while fighter-bombers bombed and shot up trains and motor transport back of the battle line in the Aquila area.

The score of aircraft destroyed during the day was even, one German plane for one Allied craft missing.

RAF night bombers also struck another blow at German fighter power in northern Italy with an attack on the fighter base at Villorba, north of Venice, on Saturday night.

Passing over the target at medium altitude, RAF Wellingtons dumped their loads on hangars, workships and barracks. Crew members reported seeing at least 11 fires and explosions in the darkness.

American Spitfires, sweeping along the coasts of southern France and northwest Italy, scored near misses on an enemy destroyer off Toulon Saturday and caused pieces of a small liner to fly into the air from two hits amidships during an attack off San Pietro.

Vatutin's army was engaged in a complicated maneuver, pressing westward even while driving to the south, and mopping up areas to the rear.

(Stockholm dispatches describing the German retreat as "almost chaotic," quoted German military spokesmen in Berlin as admitting that their armies were fleeing during a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends.")

The Germans also faced disaster in a wide pocket west of the Dnieper river as the first and second Ukranian Red armies—the first pushing south through Buki and the other driving west through Alexandrovka—narrowed the jaws of a possible trap to less than 75 miles. A junction of the two armies would close a ring around the Germans in the Smela gap in an area 80 miles deep running back to the right bank of the Dnieper.

On their entire front yesterday, the armies of Gens. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev swept up 110 more towns and hamlets, killed 2,300 Germans in two actions alone, and captured huge stores of war material, a Soviet communique announced.

The Russians took Polonnoe, just inside Kaments Podolsk province bordering Rumania, in an advance of 50 miles west of Zhitomir which brought them to within 22 miles of Shepetovka, a junction on the Korosten-Tarnapol and Berdichev-Rovno lines.

(Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers said that the German high command's plans for a methodical retreat went awry when the Red ary struck suddenly and swiftly in numerous sectors.

(A slow and organized retreat had been prepared, but the swift Russian smashes tangled German communications and caught them with insufficient air support and a shortage of fuel oil, one Swedish correspondent wrote).

1944 Outlook

On the threshold of a new year we usually try to look into the future and speculate on what it may hold for us. This year, even with the war touching every American home, plans for the future are booming. Everywhere people are planning for a better life after the war. This planning isn't confined to government officials, or business tycoons—it's a job for everybody, because it will affect everybody—and because we live in a democracy where every citizen has the right to plan his own future.

We hear a great deal about post-war planning for industry, labor, and agriculture, the three main groups in our national economy. But what about the fundamental group in our society—the American family? What do American families want after the war?

Well, in one way of thinking, that question has as many answers as there are families in this country. But looking at it in a broader way, American families want pretty much the same basic things for a good life after the war. People from the U. S. Department of Agriculture have been talking over post-war ideas with families in every part of the country. And now the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics has summarized ten basic goals that represent a good standard of life for American families in the post-war world.

These family goals, as the specialists in family economics have listed them are: food, a home, clothing, health, education, recreation, personal care, transportation, communication, and family security from want.

Today, when women talk about food as a post-war goal, they don't mean just getting enough to satisfy hunger. American women are alert to scientific advances in food knowledge, and they want their families to get enough of the right kind of food—a diet that will furnish the energy, protein, minerals, and vitamins they need for good health. After the war, women should have the opportunity to keep up with new information on food and nutrition. And, to keep family nutritional standards on a good basis, another goal might be a lunch program for all school children, with meals adequately planned and prepared, and served on a non-profit basis.

Next, after food, on the list of post-war aims for the American family, cames a home. Not just four walls and a roof, but a place that provides comfortable living space for work and play—the kind of a home that fosters a spirit of family companionship. Another goal high on the list is clothing—clothing that furnishes protection from the weather, and also provides enjoyment to the one who wears it. After the war, industry will probably bring out many new textiles to add to our selection of clothing fabrics.

Of course food, housing and clothing are three of the most important goals for post-war family living. But the other goals are important, too—even though they may not be so tangible. For one thing, families are increasingly aware of the importance of good health, and a desirable goal for the family is access to the progress that's being made in medicine and dentistry, at a cost the family can afford. And this doesn't mean curative medicine only—it also means preventive medicine—popular instruction in health—maternity and child hygiene—supervision of health in the schools—and sanitation and control of diseases.

Education is another vital goal for the post-war period—education for both adults and children. It's essential if the present and the coming generations are to take an intelligent part in community and national affairs.

To round out the activities of daily living, another post-war aim for all American families will be a varied program of recreation, including libraries, playgrounds and parks, reading matter and phonograph records, meeting places for community activities, and of course radio and recreational facilities within the home.

Adequate facilities for personal care constitute another goal for good family living after the war. Many families now don't have the means for cleanliness and good grooming, and this can greatly influence the position of a family in the life of the community.

The need for transportation and communication varies according to where the family lives—in a city, town, or on a farm—but whatever the needs may be, adequate transportation and communication will be important to both work and recreation after the war.

Finally, on the list of family goals, comes the keystone on which all the other goals rest: economic security. This is the biggest factor in the post-war picture—it's the point where the problem of each family becomes the problem of all. Achieving security from want means cooperation in an intelligent and farsighted way, among all American families, whether they belong to industry, labor, or agriculture.

legislation, their lawmakers must have time to draft and pass the necessary bills.

Another soldiers-and-sailors problem involves mustering-out pay, already needed by a majority of the 75,000 men who are being discharged each month. The senate has passed a measure providing lump sum payments of $200 to $500 for discharged veterans below the rank of generals, with length and site of service governing the amount paid.

The House Military Affairs Committee is to consider the senate bill tomorrow.

The President's message may determine whether congress will consider anti-strike legislation, widely discussed since the government seized the railroads to avert a threatened walkout.

Post war planning to ease the transition from war to civilian production is due for detailed study by half a dozen committees.

German . . .

but the biggest handicap to the Germans is the nature of the news itself—the ordinary day-to-day war bulletins appearing in the newspapers or heard on the radio.

German setbacks on the eastern front, the sinking of the Scharnhorst, the battering of Berlin by the RAF and other demonstrations of growing Allied air strength have been most effective propaganda here as well as elsewhere.

In the face of these setbacks, German propagandists have been forced to develop a new line which is wholly defensive in nature. German papers now are emphasizing the construction of great defense works for the European fortress while excusing Nazi defeats in Russia by stressing the enormous strength of the Red army.

Newspapers like the Voelkischer Beobachter and Deutsche Allegemaine Zeitung, meanwhile, devote their front pages to articles designed to convince wavering Germans that Italy's example shows that "capitulation means starvation."

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

College Vesper Service.

On Sunday evening the students of East Carolina Teachers College again gathered in the Austin auditorium for their weekly vesper hour to hear the new Methodist pastor, Rev. Robert A. Bradshaw, better known as "Uncle Bobby."

The service opened with the playing of soft music by Pearl Arnold of Dover, after which the audience sang "Oh God Our Help." For the text Dorothy Creech of Selma led the responsive reading of the selection entitled "Guidance." Following the singing of the hymn "A Charge to Keep," Miss Creech introduced "Uncle Bobby."

"Uncle Bobby" spoke on the theme of making full use of our God-given talents. His main text was "Thou art weighed in the balances—see to it that they are not wanting." The interpretation of this verse as given by the speaker was that on one side of the balances are found the talents and qualities God gives us and on the other side are the full share of the responsibilities God has given us, making the best of them. "Uncle Bobby" made his talk very interesting by relating some of his past experiences to explain more clearly his meaning.

This inspiring service was closed with the singing of the hymn "Just As I Am," after which the group was dismissed with a prayer.

Surgical Dressings.

Owing to shipping delaying the materials ordered by Red Cross headquarters for our surgical dressings quotas have not been received. Every effort has been made by letter and by wire to expedite these shipments, but without success. We regret the delay as the quotas are large and when materials do arrive we shall have to work doubly hard.

Please watch this paper for announcement of the opening date. Greenville women and the college students showed a splendid spirit of cooperation during the fall and we hope everyone will respond as well when the materials arrive and our workroom is open again.

The Phantoms defeated the Yellow Jackets Friday night by a score of 30 to 17 but were stopped by the Virginia team 53 to 37 Saturday night. The Portsmouth team got their revenge for the defeat by the Phantoms earlier in the season. At the end of the third quarter the locals trailed the strong Virginia team by one point 32-31 but in the last period the Portsmouth quint added 21 points to their lead while the Phantoms could account for only six markers.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
January 10, 1904

It seems that our streets are poorly lighted of a very dark night when you are away from the business center of the place, you can hardly tell where you are. We know that the lights that Greenville is lighted with are not electric arc lights by any means, but they could be put close enough together to render more good than they do, as they are of very little value to the town in the shape they are now in. Let us have more light on the subject.

Woman's Club Meets.

The Woman's Club held its monthly meeting at the club house Friday afternoon. Honoring war mothers was the special feature of this meeting. Patriotic emblems were given each war mother present. Mrs. Dink James presided over the business session which included reports from various department heads. Encouraging reports of Christmas activities were given. Knitters were urged to make gloves for use of the boys located at the Greenville airport. Following the business session, Mrs. James turned the meeting over to Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, chairman of War Service. Under activities in this committee, Mrs. Fred Haar reported entertaining officers' wives at a coffee hour at the club house. Mrs. John Warner reported on War Stamps and Bonds. Mrs. J. H. B. Moore introduced Mr. Herbert Waldrop, Pitt county chairman of war savings, who spoke on the coming Fourth War Loan drive. He made a strong plea for sacrifice during this "door-knocking" drive. At the conclusion of his talk, the club voted to assume the responsibility for selling $300,000 worth of bonds, equivalent to purchasing a bomber.

Miss Louise Kilgo, accompanied by Miss Ona Shindler, sang two appropriate war songs, "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There," and "When the Lights Go On Again."

As a fitting close to the program, Mrs. Proctor introduced Capt. Russell Jansen of the local airfield, who spoke from experience on the relation of war bonds to the actual combat of war. He delighted his listeners with a few personal experiences on Guadalcanal, New Hebrides and other Pacific islands.

During the social hour, the hostesses served delicious tea and cakes from a tastefully decorated table featuring the patriotic motif. The hostesses were Mrs. R. C. Deal, Mrs. A. E. Gibson, Mrs. R. S. Boyd, Mrs. Guy C. Evans, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. W. R. Jones, Mrs. J E. Dees, Mrs. B. F. Bullard, Miss Audrey Dempsey and Miss Lena Ellis.

4-H Club Projects

4-H CLUB PROJECT CHAMPIONS SELECTED

Calvin Stokes, member of the Pierce 4-H Club, and Worth Hardee, member of the Grimesland 4-H Club, have made splendid records in the production of tobacco.

Calvin grew one acre of Bananza tobacco at a total cost of $105.34. This cost included fertilizer, seed, labor (including his own time), feed, and rent of land. The acre of tobacco weighed 1150 pounds when marketed and brought $485, leaving a net profit of $379.66.

Worth Hardee produced one acre of tobacco yielding 1285 pounds at market time grossing $533. Total cost including all expenses relative to producing the tobacco was $103, leaving him a net profit of $30.

These are two good 4-H Club projects and these boys have learned many things in conducting the projects and keeping records on their operations in addition to the project being of financial benefit.
