Seven Russian Armies Hacking Nazi Soldiers In Dnieper and Area

Encircled Nazis Being Slaughtered Like Sheep In Greatest Disaster Since Stalingrad; Stalin Announces Capture Of Important Rail Junction

By EDDY GILMORE Moscow, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Red army's seven spearheads thrusting against the steadily diminishing circle of death around Nazi forces in the Dnieper bend were hacking German-held salients to pieces today and relentlessly cutting down all who refused to surrender.

Meanwhile, Marshal Premier Joseph Stalin announced the capture of the rail junction of Shepetovka, 45 miles southeast of Rovno and 27 miles east of the old Polish frontier.

Red Star, Soviet army organ, said the Germans were being slaughtered like sheep on the open steppes and declared the entire garrisons of the villages of Yakhnov and Myed had been exterminated as two Russian columns isolated them from other Nazi units retreating toward Korsun.

Coming events may prove Korsun one of the bloodiest spots on the eastern front if the Nazis continue to fight back and refuse to give up in the face of sure death. It is a town of about 10,000 population.

The corridor had now been reduced to a bare five miles width and 15 miles length and inside were the remnants of 10 German divisions or between 100,000 and 150,000 German soldiers, whose slaughter or capture promised to be the greatest single German disaster since Stalingrad.

Many inhabitants of Korsun and other towns within the circle have made their way to the Soviet lines within the ring of Soviet guns was still a problem. Bent on completely wiping out every German, the Russians were forced to use tanks and tommyguns in running down their foe and refrain from using their heavy artillery in a blasting barrage.

The indications are that no German officer had been able to escape the encirclement in the last 48 hours, and it was believed a number of high ranking Nazis were still caught within the Soviet ring.

To the south another body of Germans was threatened with encirclement in the Krivoi Rog area, south and east of that mineral center, but the Germans showed no signs of attempting to get out.

Even if they pulled out it would be a race for them to get to Kheron on the Dnieper's mouth, or at Nikolaev where the Russians cut (Continued On Page Four)

Tobacco Plants Up On Britt's Farm

G. O. Britt, farmer on the Stokes highway, reported today that tobacco plants are coming up in his plant beds. There is an old saying that tobacco plant beds shown by February 14 will germinate satisfactorily, but sprouting tobacco plants by February 11, nine days after ground hog day, is unusual.

Farmers generally are expected to take advantage of the government's allowance of a 20 per cent increase in tobacco acreage this year.

WOULD LIMIT PRESIDENCY

Bricker Urges Adoption Of Limitation Amendment

By JACK BELL Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker urged today a constitutional limitation on presidential tenure.

The Ohio governor, who is seeking the Republican nomination for chief executive, told a luncheon audience at the National Press Club that he thought the next president should devote himself to the welfare of the nation, avoiding politics. He declared for constitutional amendment which would either:

- 1. Limit the president to one six-year term in office, or
2. Limit him to two four-year terms.

Bricker said he personally would favor the latter.

Bricker has for two days been going through what his friends frankly regard as a Washington preview of the man they think can win the Republican nomination.

Given an unofficial once-over by the capital news corps at a packed press conference and the applause and cheers of a Republican crowd at Lincoln birthday banquet last night, Bricker today faced another curious-minded group at a National Press Club luncheon.

Confident he was passing muster, Bricker supporters already were congratulating themselves on having put on a good show for the third-term governor. They made plans to send him off next month on a trip to the west coast where a political rival, Wendell L. Willkie, is the current political attraction.

Speaking for the group that would like to see Bricker nominated at (Continued On Page Two)

Cold Wave Hits Eastern States

(By The Associated Press) A heavy, wind-whipped snow storm struck the northeastern part of the United States today while in a wide section of the already snow-blanketed Midwest the season's most severe cold wave drove temperatures far below zero.

Eight to 12 inches of snow was predicted for New York City. Trains arriving in New York City from western, southern and northern points were running as much as two and a half hours behind schedule. Virtually all airplane flights out of La Guardia field, New York, were cancelled.

In the Midwest, temperatures dipped to as low as 42 below zero in the wake of that area's heaviest snow of the winter. The snowfall ranged up to 11 inches but had ceased in many areas.

The 42 below zero reading was recorded at Little Golya, N. Dak. The eastern storm extended from New England to north of Washington, D. C. Temperatures hovered in the 20's. In the south "typical February weather" prevailed, the weather bureau at Atlanta reported, with widespread rain and temperatures slightly above freezing.

WILL DISCUSS OIL RESERVES

Matter Of Persian Oil To Be Taken Up With Great Britain

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius said today this government is going to have some discussions with the British on oil matters in a relatively short period.

The discussions are now planned, will be with the British alone, since they are to center on near eastern areas where others among our allies do not have a primary interest.

An American plan to build a pipeline from the Persian gulf to the eastern Mediterranean was disclosed last week by Interior Secretary Ickes in his capacity as head of the Petroleum Reserves Corporation. The plans were subsequently mentioned in Britain's Commons where Foreign Minister Anthony Eden affirmed British interest in the project.

Stettinius, speaking at a press conference, said a comprehensive statement on U. S. plans and negotiations for foreign oil development would be forthcoming within a few (Continued on Page Two)

Householders are requested to wrap their paper in bundles and place them out front to facilitate collection, President Jake Hadley stated.

Victory In New Guinea; Mopping Up In Marshalls

Allies Complete Occupation Of Huon Peninsula In New Guinea

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Complete occupation of Huon peninsula, New Guinea, and the end of a five-month campaign which cost the Japanese a division of 14,000 men, was announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today.

Australian troops including veterans of the North African campaign, and American soldiers, many of whom had triumphed over the Japanese at Buna on the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea last year, joined forces on a coastal plain yesterday, chopping off another piece of Japan's captured territory.

The Aussies had fought and cut their way through the jungle for 150 miles along the coast, since launching the campaign with a landing north of Finnschafen Sept. 22.

The Americans, units of the 32nd division, invaded Sador from the sea Jan. 2 and then moved down the coast 14 miles to old Yagomi, where the Australians met them yesterday.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said the great bulk of the augmented Japanese division, which consisted of three infantry regiments, a field artillery regiment, two engineer battalions and auxiliary services, had been destroyed in the squeeze action which preceded the joining of the two allied forces. MacArthur credited the allied air (Continued on Page Two)

Twenty-Four Killed In Crash Of Big Airliner

Memphis, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Coast Guard reported today that drag lines had located part of an American Airlines transcontinental plane that crashed into the Mississippi river with 24 persons aboard. A cryptic radio message from patrol boats to headquarters here said merely "Piece of plane found." Later contact with the boat said it "definitely" was part of the plane.

U. S. army engineers started raising sections of the giant plane shortly before noon today but hitting of the section carrying the passengers was delayed until arrival of heavier salvage equipment.

The engineers recovered one wing part, the fuselage, a luggage door, several seat cushions and a mail bag.

There was no indication whether bodies would be found in the passenger compartment.

Aerial Offensive Continued Today

Fortresses Blast Frankfurt Again Today; Liberators Smash At France

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR London, Feb. 11.—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses blasted Frankfurt-on-the-Main with tons of high explosives again today, striking the already hard hit southwest German industrial and transport center for the second time in four days and the fourth time since January 29.

While this devastating assault to flatten Frankfurt was in progress, Liberators again operated independently of the forts, slashing at military installations in the Pas-De-Calais area and American Marauders in their ninth operation in 11 days struck other targets in the "rocket gun" sector of northern France.

Today's operations kept the unprecedented Allied aerial assault going through yet another 24-hour cycle and followed up yesterday's mighty attacks on German manufacturing city of Brunswick and the Gilze-Rijen air base in Holland which precipitated furious air fights in which American heavy bombers and fighters were credited officially with downing 24 enemy planes.

Mustang, Lightning and Thunderbolt fighters scored the Fortresses, Frankfurt, and other Thunders, which covered the Liberators on their run to France.

Heavy bombers of the USAAF now have struck continental objectives in 12 of the past 15 days.

The terrific assault obviously designed to flatten Frankfurt has been under way since January 29 when a record force of more than 900 heavy bombers hit the city with a daylight record of 1,800 tons of explosives.

It was estimated unofficially today that more than 3,500 tons of bombs were rained on that manufacturing and communications hub in three previous daylight attacks. The rumble of explosions rolled back across the English channel this morning as the bombers hit the Pas-De-Calais area.

The daylight forays came in the wake of RAF Mosquito attacks on German waters from which all RAF planes returned safely.

The Mosquitoes' raid was their first attack on Berlin since the night of February 6 but they have been over western Germany every night this month but one. Berlin has not had a heavy attack since the night of January 30.

There was no early report of losses today but a U. S. communique said 29 American bombers and eight fighters were lost in yesterday's raids.

The bulletin declared that the American fighters had accounted for 55 of the Nazi planes which (Continued on Page Two)

Stalin Displeased With Polish Government In London

By JUDSON QUINN London, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin in a personal letter to Prime Minister Churchill has voiced the Russian objections to some members of the Polish government in London and this latest communication is believed to offer little hope of an early solution of the knotty Polish problem. It was reported today.

The statement of the Soviet viewpoint apparently followed closely the reply the Russians made to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's offer of mediation. The Russians told Hull the time was not yet ripe for United States help in solving the difficulty.

In reply to a letter from Churchill Stalin was believed to have gone further and to have declared his (Continued on Page Two)

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two stories explaining the Senate's postwar planning committee's program for getting American industry back on its feet in a hurry after the war to prevent financial distress and unemployment.)

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The government's efforts to find a way of reconverting American industry to civilian production after the war have moved on a bumpy road so far. There have been plenty of ideas and talk, and some action.

Now the Senate's postwar planning committee offers a program without any comment on the fact that War Mobilization Director Byrnes has the government's veteran trouble-shooter, Bernard M. Baruch, working on a program.

Baruch reportedly favors having the WPB handle industrial demobilization. But the Senate committee suggests a law creating an independent office of demobilization.

Bad Weather Halts Effect of Allied Airpower In Giving Ground Forces Aid In Holding Positions; Germans Claim Penetration Of Allied Lines

By EDWARD KENNEDY Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Feb. 11.—(AP)—German armored units, taking advantage of the rains and clouds which robbed the British and Americans of their most potent defense—their air force—were reported striking with deadly probing skill into the northern flank of the Anzio bridgehead today.

In an action which in itself indicated the seriousness of the situation which had developed on the new front below Rome, the Allied command yesterday concentrated virtually every combat plane in the Mediterranean theater on flying Fortresses and Liberators against a furious defense of the beachhead front.

But by this afternoon the rains had cancelled much of this air support and a dispatch from the area by Kenneth L. Dixon, Associated Press correspondent, said the Germans took prompt advantage of the freer hand given them by the conditions.

(In Washington President Roosevelt said a very tense situation prevailed and that the Allies were praying for good weather to aid sea and air operations.)

The powerful force which less than three weeks ago seized a wedge of coast and thrust a surge spearhead into the German flank had become besieged, ringed by superior numbers and holding an open coastal plain with the aid of hundreds of massed guns.

There was no confirmation here, however, of the German high command's claim that Carroceto (Aparilla), 10 miles north of Anzio, already had been entered by the Nazis.

The latest information here was that the Allies still were fighting north of that place.

The failure of the bridgehead force to drive farther into the German flank at the bridgehead stages of the landing was mainly due to the stubborn resistance of the Germans along the main Fifth Army front at Cassino.

There the Germans had prevented the big breakthrough which could have led to a junction of the two Allied forces.

Americans, still fighting bitterly in the ruins of Cassino on the main Fifth Army front, captured five more buildings. Their artillery leveled the town prison which had been turned into a Nazi fort, but the Germans still fought tooth and nail from the underground dungeons and cellars.

Countless tons of bombs smashed down on the Germans at all points ringing the bridgehead and their main operating points about Rome as heavy bombers were diverted from long range targets to join medium and fighter-bombers in furious slaps protecting the American (Continued on Page Three)

Here are the suggestions upon which the committee wants Congress to act:

The demobilization office should not be an operating agency in the sense that it cancels government contracts with war plants after hostilities.

It should draw up the rules and regulations, oversee the entire job, and issue directives under which cancellations can be carried out by the procurement agencies, such as the War and Navy departments. (Continued on Page Two)

Strength FOR THE DAY.

By KARL L. DOUGLAS

"HOPE PUTTETH NOT TO SHAME"

In a certain part of the New Testament we find references made to people who are "without God, and without hope in the world." The two circumstances go together. When people are without God, they are without hope in the world. Their sorrow leads to bitterness, their thinking to skepticism, their living to futility. They have no objective. Life for such is a day-by-day proposition that is either to be endured or desperately squeezed so that it may yield some little satisfaction in the way of sensation, thrill, or indulgence. People who are without God in their lives live such drab existences that even the most faithful look upon them as day by day and wonder how they can be satisfied to have it so. Hope is the most sustaining and stimulating power in life, and we get hope and keep it by having unwavering convictions about the unseen. Without God—and all things (even the most tragic) will work together for good.

To the People of this Community IS YOUR SHIELD UP?

"Our Allies march forward with us. The God of justice fights on our side. Let us then strengthen ourselves for the tasks yet lying ahead." With high courage let us redouble our efforts and multiply our blows so that we may more quickly recross the seas to our homeland with the glorious word that the last of the enemy strongholds has fallen and with the proud knowledge of having done in our time our duty to our beloved country.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—A few Congressmen are beginning to realize just how much TNT they have set fuse to in quibbling over legislation affecting the armed services. Some of these few have been generous enough to discuss the situation quite frankly with me in the last few days and make available their letter files which was what I asked for in the first place. From a lad who served 11 months as flight engineer and gunner in a heavy bomber in the Eighth Air Force, I saw 80 per cent of my original squadron go down. For the heavy bombers of the Eighth, that is a low percentage.

"On my return to the United States I was to put it mildly, shocked. On every side I heard complaining. There were no tires, no gasoline, food was rationed. Then, on top of all these complaints, labor started striking again." The lad explained that he understood the necessity for free speech, free enterprise, etc., but "I will look to remind official Washington that the war will soon end. Close to 10,000,000 men will return to civilian life—and a voting status. At that time, if not before, we will know who is at the bottom of the confusing medley that is the labor situation today.

Dewey--Or Don't He?

"I am writing not for myself, but for every soldier who left home for an indefinite period in hell. We are determined that the United States shall retain her position as the most respected nation on earth."

I have quoted this soldier at length, because he sums up the situation very beautifully.

Others follow in this vein: "I am a lieutenant in the Navy, congratulations on your fight for subsidies."

"I am a second lieutenant in infantry. I recently made a trip to a number of army posts and as I went from place to place I inquired of my friends and others I met about voting. They unanimously agreed that cutting away the red tape and freeing the soldier vote was not only desirable but urgent."

"The writer was one of 110 men returned to this country in October under the provisions of the discharge act. We were in a combat area in the North African theater. There is absolutely no assurance now of future security in any job. In one case, the soldier could not be rehired because of 'seasonal layoffs.'" So as the soldiers say, "It commences already."

This could go on forever. Except for a comparatively few letters about the high cost of living and the failure of wages to keep up with it there are very few messages on the other side of the picture. They point to the fact that a lot of Congressmen and other elective officials are in for a fall when the boys come marching home, unless they get on the right side of the growing windstorm now. Some already are waking up to the fact that when the boys return, they are going to be hopping mad (right or wrong) unless congress acts soon on many measures.

Bricker left no doubt where he stands on some of the big issues of the day in his banquet talk and at his press conference. He struck out at labor unrest, advocating wartime anti-strike laws and dismissing the national service act proposal endorsed by President Roosevelt as "no answer to this problem at this late date."

"The time has come," he declared "to support the millions of workers who want to work and quit coddling selfish labor leaders for the sake of the votes which they say they can deliver in an election."

He chided the Democrats for having "only one candidate"—presumably President Roosevelt—and voiced resentment that they should attempt to appropriate a "win the war" slogan as their own for the campaign.

Criticizing the administration for what he called its "confused program of spend, waste, borrow and tax," Bricker drew cheers in his banquet speech when he said he was "more interested in winning the coming election for the Republican party and in defeating the New Deal philosophy of government than I am in being President of the United States."

Nazi Unleash . . .

Both Flying Fortresses and Liberators joined in yesterday's forays—dropping their deadly missiles on enemy troops at five key points in the highway network around the beachhead.

The German attacks were in the Carroceto (Aprilia) area, where heavy fighting was still in progress, and west and southwest of Cisterna where Americans battled grimly to hold their back.

The German high command, in a broadcast communique, said today that German troops had penetrated into Carroceto in the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead, 10 miles north of Anzio, capturing the village railway station.

"Mopping up of the Aprilia area was continued," the enemy asserted. "The communique also said the Allies penetrated for the third time into the northern part of Cassino, 60 miles east of Anzio, but were again thrown out."

The new 65th German division at the Anzio front participated in the Sangro river defense in eastern Italy several weeks ago, was badly mauled by the British Eighth army and was taken out of line to be re-organized and refitted at Genoa.

In Cassino where the Germans made progress with the greatest difficulty, the Germans had turned almost every building into a fortress and each one had to be stormed individually.

Cassino's jail was one of the strongest of these nests, and it was shaken down by artillery and tank fire.

Besides Albano, Visterna, Cecchina, Velletri and Campoleone, five key points on the highway network into the beachhead area overlooking the coastal shelf, the Allies bombed a road junction and railroad near Monterotondo north of Rome, the road and railroad junction at Vicovara northeast of Rome and Paestrum.

FLIGHT FROM LOVE by JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY AP Feature

Chapter 10 mured.

"Mr. Marek Dorri's car, please!" The voice of the doorman cracked over the loud speaker system and poured out into the parking lot where rows of cars were drawn up in even lines.

"Ten minutes of eleven," he said, "the time most people are just starting out for an evening and here we are going home."

"You mean a modern Cinderella! You know she always had to be in on the stroke of twelve."

"The car stopped by the steps and the uniformed doorman swung open the door. Julie had just started to get in when she heard the voice behind her."

"I've been looking for you," David said evenly. "Had a letter from home—they sent me your address—called your apartment but you had left. Just took a shot in the dark on this place."

Julie poured out a barrage of questions and David answered them briefly. Marek stood there smoking and watching the rapid expression on Julie's face.

"Brady Field?" Julie said. "How long will you be there?" "The usual answer to that is that the General hasn't yet seen fit to take me into his confidence."

"Not Marek Dorri the movie producer?" "That's right," Marek nodded, "and Julie here is about to be a star."

David smiled. "That role would fit Julie—like a glove." Julie's eyes were shining as she looked at him. "You will call me when you have some time off?" she said.

"Sure," David said easily. "Maybe next week." Marek looked at his watch. "It's after eleven," he said quietly. "Is there a curfew for movie stars?" David's little boy grin robbed his words of sarcasm.

"Definitely," Marek said. "They must get their beauty sleep, you know." Julie's face was pressed against the window of the car as it moved slowly forward out of the driveway, and she caught a last glimpse of David as he stood in the light of the entrance. Then they were in the line of traffic on Sunset, turning north on Vine.

Marek sat in silence, smoking. Julie looked unseeing at the rapidly changing panorama of shop windows they were passing, her mind filled with David. To see him again, to hear his voice. It was like a little corner of heaven had been suddenly thrown open to her.

Marek crushed out his cigarette. His voice brought Julie out of her reverie. "Dana Arno was in my office this afternoon," he said. "Heard some of the music from 'Let Freedom Ring.' He's a tough critic, but he's crazy about the show."

"That's wonderful," Julie murmured.
