Reds Converge On Last German Stronghold Of Encircled Dneiper Bend

Capture Of Shepetovka Yesterday Tightened Noose Around Trapped Nazis; Wild Confusion Reported In German Groups Cut Off From Main Troops

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Russian army is fighting at the approaches to Koryun, last big center of resistance of the encircled Germans in the upper Dneiper bend and "operations for their extermination are coming to their logical conclusion," Red Star declared today.

The dispatch reported wild confusion within separate groups of Nazis isolated from the main body of the trapped enemy as the Russian army drove its spearheads into their wavering ranks despite the clinging mud and lack of roads.

A final, desperate attempt by 11 Junker transport planes to reach the encircled Germans was frustrated when Soviet artillery dominating the area blew the planes to pieces when they landed in an open field within the Cherkassy ring.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army today was consolidated along a 220-mile line stretching from southwest of Lutsk to a point north of Uman, with the important rail hub of Shepetovka, captured yesterday, in the center.

From almost any place along this line, it was pointed out, Vatutin is in a position to launch a drive for the Odessa-Warsaw trunk railway, last supply line between Warsaw and the remnants of the German armies in the Dneiper river area, which is about 50 miles to the south at several points.

Severing the Odessa-Warsaw line at any point would cut thousands of Germans southward from their home bases.

A Red Star dispatch from Shepetovka told details of a rule of terror by the Germans on the Russian city, saying thousands of Soviet people were killed and buried in the northwestern suburbs after torture.

Ask Cooperation In Rat Campaign

In connection with the rat control program to begin in Greenville Monday, February 14, the Health Department states that the property owner can do two important things which will tend to make the rat control program a success.

First, see that no scraps of food or other food is available to the rat (the rat must be hungry or he will not eat the poison).

Second, make a careful investigation of the premises, especially outhouses, and close all rat holes.

There are two important reasons for rat control. First, to prevent typhus fever, second to prevent economic loss. (It is estimated that the merchants of Greenville, through rat depredations, lose annually thousands upon thousands of dollars.)

If you want to be free of rats, one of the first things for you to do is to give your premises a general cleaning up.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One of the reasons Hitler is risking his shirt to win victory at the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead below Rome is to distract the attention of his people and wavering allies from his own dire straits on the Russian front.

As the signs now read we cannot be far from a general withdrawal of the whole vast Nazi force. This was some 1200 miles long in its more prosperous days, but the Red armies have driven it so full of serpentine miles. The wonder is—and this is a tribute to German generalship—that the Nazis haven't been stampeded long before this.

The present three great Russian offensives against this line—north, center and south—are acting as mighty levers that are detaching the Hitlerites from strategic anchor points without which the front cannot continue to hold. The northern two-thirds of it will have to pull back at least to positions running from the vicinity of Riga, Latvia, southward through Brest Litovsk, in pre-war Poland, to the Carpathians.

Meanwhile Marshal Von Manstein's forces on the extreme southern wing, which have been clinging so stubbornly to the Dneiper bend death-trap, are in the position of having been swung around until they are facing north by northeast and project dangerously eastward

ARMEN POUND FRENCH COAST

Aerial Offensive Against Nazi Targets Continues

By W. W. HEESCHER

London, Feb. 12.—(AP)—American Liberators swept over the French invasion coast near Pas-De-Calais in strength today, resuming a pounding of Nazi defenses which has been going on relentlessly during 46 of the last 54 days.

Opening a daylight assault with a cover of Thunderbolts and Mustangs against the neck of continental land nearest Britain, the Liberators carried out the 13th mission of the American Air Force in the last 16 days in the wake of yesterday's heavy Fortress blow at Frankfurt and a Mosquito mission by the RAF over western and central Germany last night.

Shortly after the Liberators struck, RAF fighters and other strong Allied formations winged out to follow up the initial daylight sorties that began with the dawn.

No enemy aircraft were encountered by the Liberators or their fighting escort, a United States Air Force communiqué said, and all the American planes returned.

The Mosquitoes, conducting their seventh operation of the month, returned without loss, while the RAF's heavy armadas continued to be blanketed by bad weather which has kept them grounded since their last major assault on Berlin on January 30.

About 20 German raiders, meanwhile, crossed the southeast British coast last night and dropped a few bombs in London and on a southeastern town. The four raiders reaching London killed a few persons.

The Air Ministry communiqué did not name the objectives hit by the night-flying Mosquitoes.

The first of the daylight formations went in the direction of Boulogne followed shortly by others heading toward the Pas-De-Calais invasion coast area. Both bombers and fighters were included.

The new blows followed on the heels of strong blows yesterday by U. S. heavy bombers against Frankfurt and the invasion coast.

Thirty-seven Nazi planes were downed yesterday during operations in which American fighters made the greatest number of sorties ever flown from British bases. Five U. S. bombers and 15 fighters, one of them British, were lost.

Bolivia Seizes All Axis Firms

Lapas, Bolivia, Feb. 12.—(AP)—

The Bolivian government announced today that the expropriation of the Axis firms had been decreed and declared the action was "of public necessity."

The action was taken shortly before the resignation of three officials of the revolutionary Bolivian regime in a shakeup which elevated Air Force Chief Alfredo Pacheco, regarded as having pro-Allied sympathies, to the office of minister of the interior.

From the rest of the line. This has been brought about by the Red drive from Kiev westward into Poland.

Thus Manstein's Dneiper bend troops have their backs towards the Bessarabian border, and whatever forces he is able to save from annihilation will have to retreat to the Dneiper river, which forms this border, unless there's a sharp change in the present position. That's the crisis which Hitler has been trying to avoid. He's terrified that such retreat will precipitate an upheaval among his Balkan satellites.

There is one development which might work to Hitler's advantage and enable him to delay his general withdrawal a bit. This is the arrival of spring already in parts of the Russian front—something which, according to the experts, hasn't happened before in generations.

As a result of the warm weather, the mud has made its appearance to hamper military operations. The Muscovites get the worst of this deal because they are the ones who are on the offensive, whereas the greatest desire of the Nazis is to be allowed to sit undisturbed. Only time will tell whether this peculiar weather means a long, wet spring which would impede the Russians, or whether it presages an equally early summer, which would enable the eager Red troops to get ahead with their job.

What About You

Pitt county citizens need to purchase $188,000 worth of "E" bonds to get the county over its quota before the drive ends.

J. H. Waldrop, County War Finance chairman, stated today. Of the county's total over-all quota of $1,811,000 for the Fourth War Loan drive more than $700,000 was designated to be in "E" bonds. Chairman Waldrop stated this morning that he was confident that the goal could be easily reached if every one who could purchase that extra "E" bond would do so at once.

"Pitt county has never fallen down on a job assigned it," he said. "Let's see that we keep our record clean. Have you bought your extra bond yet?"

NAZIS OCCUPY PAPAL GROUND

Summer Home Of Pope Now Used As Supply Base

By VERN HAUGLAND

Gundalcanal, Solomon Islands, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Air planes of almost every type—from snub-nosed little Corsair fighters to weighty four-engine Liberators—slashed mightily at Rabaul's three main airdromes Wednesday in the heaviest assault since the current Solomon-based air offensive against the enemy's New Britain stronghold began last December 17.

Today's communiqué reported South Pacific planes shot down 20 enemy aircraft, probably downed seven more and damaged others on the ground. We lost two fighters.

More than 250 planes, the greatest force ever to fly from new Solomon bases, hit Rabaul in a coordinated strike extending from pre-dawn to mid-afternoon. Japan has lost more than 140 planes over Rabaul thus far during February.

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Failure of the Japanese in the Marshalls to send up fighters to harry bombers or to reply with shore batteries to shelling warships underlined today the peril to enemy garrisons isolated in mid-Pacific by American capture of Kwakalein.

"No fighter opposition was encountered in any of these raids," a communiqué of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz added significantly after reporting that on Thursday, for the fifth straight day, planes had pounded the Marshalls, this time with more than 100 tons of explosives.

Our warships bombarded an important enemy-held atoll in the Marshalls group without drawing return fire," the communiqué also said.

On the same day, Coronado bombers attacked Wake Island, enemy-held base in position to support the Marshalls, for the second straight day and the 13th time during the war.

Even while a huge invasion fleet and swarms of American planes offered the Marshall Japanese targets during the operations against Kwajalein, enemy air bases on those atolls had been so thoroughly neutralized that they were unable to put a plane in the sky. Now they continue to be at the mercy of the American air force.

ADVICE ON BONDS

Babson Favors Second Grade Issues

Babson Park, Fla., Feb. 12.—I do not expect any near term change in present low interest rates. While government financing continues to dominate the high grade investment field, top grade municipal, railroad, industrial and utility bonds will remain high in price and low in yield. In all probability medium grade issues will feature the bond market this year. Assuming that investors are buying their full quota of government war series bonds, particularly those of the Fourth War Loan drive now underway, what can they expect from issues outside the field of governments?

Municipals

The municipal bond market has greatly reduced in volume since our entry into the war. Municipalities have been unable to obtain materials with which to make improvements. Normal construction for town and city requirements, usually financed by bond issues, has been at a standstill. Purchases of new fire fighting equipment, traffic signal systems and other safety devices have, likewise, been restricted. In addition to the difficulties in obtaining priorities, taxpayers have insisted that municipal spending be kept at a minimum. As a result many cities and states have built up substantial reserves, cut their indebtedness and improved their general fiscal position.

Institutional demand for municipals has fallen off sharply due to the greater attractiveness of government bonds. To offset this there has been an increase in the purchase of municipals by individual investors. Higher tax rates have forced many wealthy investors into these bonds. Banks have also been increased buyers of municipals. Lack of new municipal issues, plus demand for bonds of this type, has resulted in very high prices. There has been some recession since last October, but they are still too high except in a few special instances.

Railroad Bonds

While 1943 was an excellent year for the railroads, the final figures will show some reduction in the percentage of traffic gains over 1942. Higher taxes and wages in 1943 will also, in many instances, result in a reduction in net earnings when the final figures are in.

Utility Bonds

Along with railroad and industrial activity, electric power production has shown tremendous gains and now stands at an all-time

Airmen Stage Heaviest Assault On Rabaul Area

More Than 250 Planes Take Part In Attack On Three Airdromes; Japs Fail To Return Fire In Marshalls

Escaped Prisoner Returns To Jail

Ellis Joyner, Negro, who took French leave from jail Thursday night while being booked for driving drunk and being involved in a wreck, and made his escape, leading officers an exciting chase through the city, was back in the housework today.

A Greene county farmer named Worthington, for whom Joyner had worked, brought him back today to surrender. He is alleged to have colluded with a car driven by Lee Bright on the Farmville highway.

Added Freight Facilities Here

The Norfolk Southern Bus Corporation, a highway freight and passenger carrying affiliate of the Norfolk Southern Railway company, has applied for an extension of its freight lines from Greenville to Raleigh. The freight division of the Bus Corporation now serves the territory from Norfolk to Morehead City, extending as far west as Kinston and Greenville. Under the trucking franchise being sought the company would provide co-ordinated rail and highway service to and from practically all of eastern North Carolina, connecting at Raleigh with the Norfolk Southern's main line to Charlotte, thus forming co-ordinated rail and highway freight service to and from the south and west through Charlotte, and from and to the east and north through Norfolk.

The advantages and many conveniences to the public of the co-ordinated rail and highway service proposed would be quite beneficial and would undoubtedly aid materially in the expansion of commerce, agriculture and manufacture in eastern North Carolina according to L. P. Kennedy, general superintendent of the Norfolk Southern Railway, who says the proposed service is something new in this section of the country.

Washington, Feb. 12.—(AP)—This was quite a week—in a talkative, legislative and political way. Congress—without mentioning it by name, or even saying goodbye—pushed the labor draft out of the window.

When the President proposed national service legislation January 11, he indicated no one could expect him to approve such a law until the month of conference. This less-than-congress first passed his 10½ billion-dollar tax program and his 1½ billion-dollar food subsidy plan.

This week, congress finished up a tax bill calling for only two and one-third billion and the senate, following the lead of the house, hit the food subsidy idea.

So—if congress ever gets around to passing a labor draft it isn't likely the President would let it become law with his signature.

LAVARRE QUITS FEDERAL POST

Flays Government Activity Against American Business

Washington, Feb. 12.—(AP)—William Lavarre announced his resignation today as chief of the American republic division of the Department of Commerce in protest against what he described as "subversive" activities against American business by the administration's foreign economic agencies.

Lavarre, writer on Latin American affairs for many years, has been chief of the division since April, 1941.

Saying he had no quarrel with Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, or other officials of his own department, Lavarre directed individual criticism against Vice-president Henry Wallace, Leo Crowley, chief of the Office of Foreign Economic Administration, and Milo Perkins, former aide to Wallace, who now is in private business.

Hold Parked Truck Driver Under Bond

At an inquest at the City Hall last night a coroner's jury found that James Garland Pilgreen, 16, farm worker, came to his death as a result of William Edward Pilgreen's car colliding with a parked truck on the Stokes highway last Monday night. The jury recommended that Charley Spruill, Negro, driver of the truck, be held under $1,000 bond for trial at the April term of Superior Court. S. A. Wallace of Robersonville owned the truck.

The truck was parked across the highway, and the wheels in the gutter ditch to unload a tractor. William Pilgreen testified that he did not see the parked truck until he was right on it and that there were no flares on the highway. Others testified that there were lights on the truck. Pilgreen, the driver, Clarence Manning and Mrs. Vernon Jackson of Hookerton and her two daughters were injured.

URGE FINNS TO ASK FOR PEACE

Major Political Party Wants To Know Russia's Terms

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Stockholm, Sweden, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Renewed discussions of the possibility of peace over in Finland today and the Finnish press warned the citizens to keep cool and wait to see what steps the government was preparing.

The Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau, a German-controlled news agency, reported that 18 trains were leaving Helsinki daily, carrying evacuees to summer holiday towns outside the city following the heavy Russian bombing of the capital Sunday night and a second heavy attack on Kotka, 70 miles to the east, Thursday night.

Five hundred child refugees arrived at Haparanda, Sweden, from Helsinki.

A strong feeling ran through this neutral capital, even among Finns, that responsible men in Finland, both in and out of the government, are aware that the time is growing short for Finland to quit the war. There were additional hints that important steps in the direction of peace were imminent.

Several strong rumors having a distinct bearing on Russian-Finnish relations are current, but none has been confirmed.

Foremost among these was a suggestion that Finance Minister Vaino Tanner, a former foreign minister, may quit the government in line with an earlier declaration that this would be his course in the event his continuance in office jeopardized his country's chances of getting peace with Russia.

Military Talks With Turkey End

By WILLIAM B. KING
Ankara, Feb. 10.—(Delayed)—

(AP)—Military talks between the Turkish general staff and the British military mission have been suspended after more than a month of secret sessions, it was disclosed today.

The suspension, however, will not necessarily alter Turkey's policy towards the Allies and the war.

Turkey's foreign policy still is based on a strong alliance with Britain and a cautious attitude towards the war.

I am convinced of these two things after a 30-minute off the record talk with Premier Sukru Saracoglu in his office today.

While the suspension of military talks was not discussed in the interview with the Premier, I am convinced by other information that the discussions bogged down purely on the question of the amount of military supplies necessary to equip Turkey for full fledged war activity.

During the month of conferences it was made clear, according to my information, that the chances of Turkey's entry into the war will be greatly lessened if the delivery of materials in the quantities desired either is impossible or is disapproved by the Allies.

Turkish policy still follows a purely Turkish point of view.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

OUR JUDGMENTS OFTEN SUPERFICIAL

Sir Walter Raleigh once wrote:
"Passions are likened best to floods and streams:
The shallow murmur, but the deep are dumb."

You cannot always tell by the number of tears shed how much sorrow a person really has, nor can you estimate happiness by the number of times a person laughs. Some of the unhappiest people in the world are laughing and wise-cracking most of the time. Very often people who weep and carry on over their losses forget them in an hour.

As Raleigh says, the deepest passions of the world are dumb—that is, inarticulate. The people who love the most can seldom find adequate expression for their affection, and those who experience the greatest sorrow generally hold it tightly in their own hearts.

There is nothing on which our judgment can be so superficial as upon the happiness or sorrow of our friends. The deeper the feeling, the less can it be expressed. "The shallow murmur, but the deep are dumb."

LIFE-SAVING DOLLARS

Your War Bond dollars are life-saving dollars to you who wait anxiously for the day when your Johnny or Billy will come marching home.

That's natural. Despite the fact that the weapons of war are the deadliest
in world's history, your boy has a better chance to return safely because your War Bonds are being converted into medical weapons as merciful and as life-saving as have ever been devised. Says Surgeon General Norman T. Kirk:

"The wounded soldier in this global war—though exposed to almost every hazard known to man—still has a better chance of surviving and coming home than ever before."

When you buy that Extra Bond today think of your boy or your neighbor's boy. He may not be the wounded boy whose pained face looked at you from one of the pages of this newspaper. But just as surely as the coming of the dawn today, your War Bond
was there in the picture, helping him
come home.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

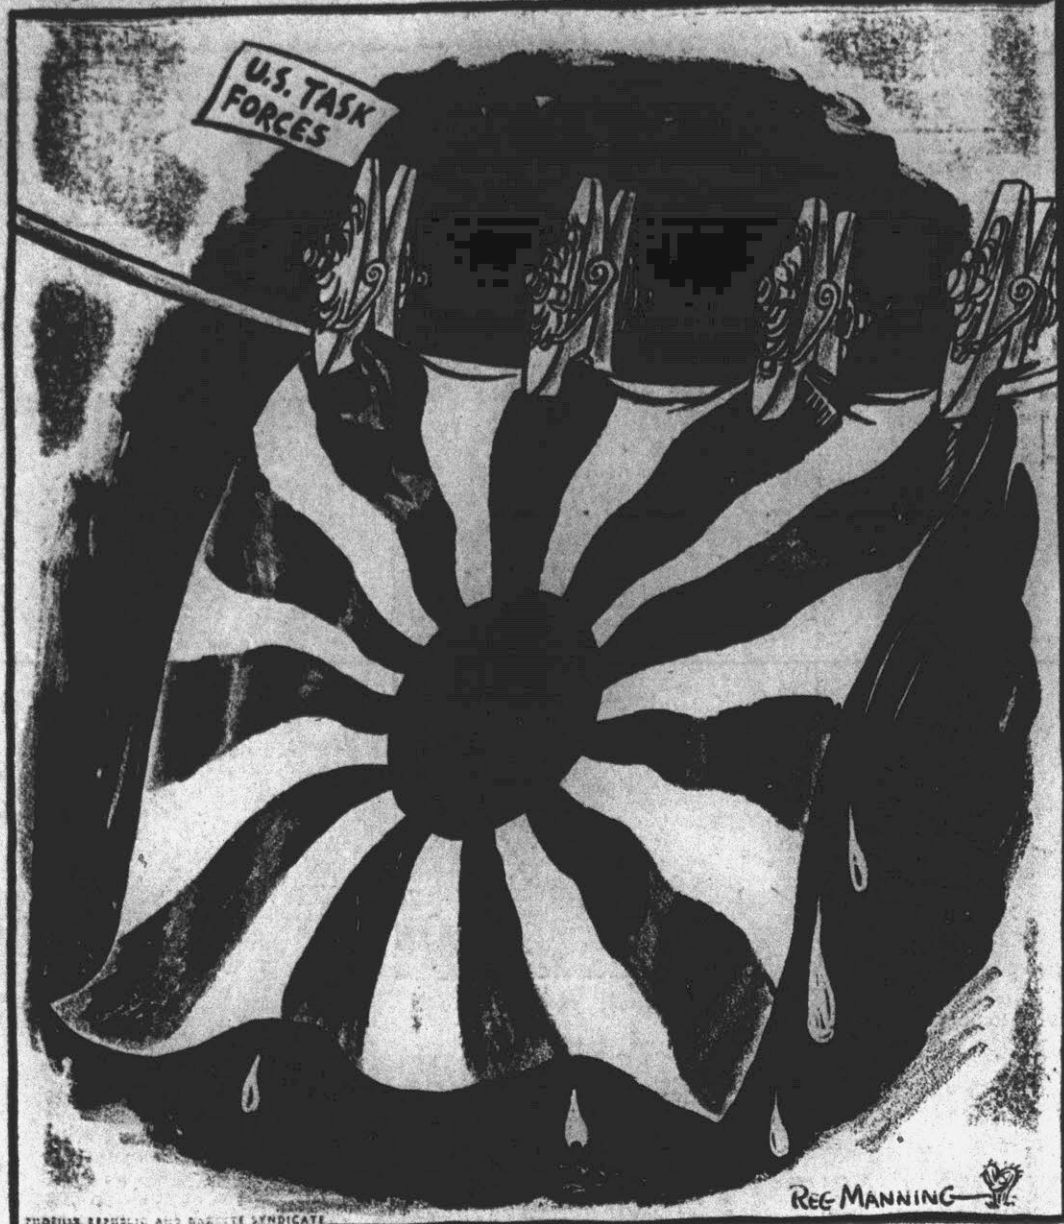

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — Where a few months ago you could find a generous sprinkling of loyal Democrats on Capitol Hill who admitted that the House would be Republican after the 1946 elections, it's hard to find even one now who is downhearted.

The answer, of course, is President Roosevelt and the possibilities of a fourth term. Plus, I should say, their conviction that Republican failure so far to establish a strong united front on major issues
and any one presidential candidate will carry through until the November elections.

Observers here think there is no doubt that the defections in the Democratic ranks are closing up and will disappear entirely if the party old-liners and leftists can be brought together on a vice presidential nominee. Among the seven southern and border state governors and party leaders who recently called on the President were several who had made almost bitter campaigns against his policies in recent years. Yet it was pretty reliably reported that all of them

Pacific Pin-Up

pledged every ounce of their energy to his re-election. According to reports, he thanked them heartily,
but neither by wink nor comment did he give any clue as to whether he would be a candidate.

Even Democratic political neophytes here agree with many oldsters that if the war is still going on in all its fury, Roosevelt can be re-elected hands down. If it is all over but the shouting for peace and a revision of domestic policies, the Republicans can win with almost any candidate. If the President and his advisers have even a mild hunch that such might be the case, why should any commitments be made until there is some indication of how the big military undertakings
now under way will go?

Nevertheless, the change in point of view among the Democratic members of the House is one of the most interesting straws in the presidential election wind. In the first place, every member of the House is up for re-election. In the second, there is no ignoring, and no one has, that the Republican "trend" has all but taken over control of the lower chamber in the last eight years.

Yet, the feeling among Democrats in Congress as of today is that if President Roosevelt carries the standard in November, they will still have those important committee chairmanships, majority prerogatives, and the able to elect a Democratic speaker, come next January.

Among important Capitol Hill
guessers, who feel that way about it is little P. H. "Pat" Drewry, chairman of the Democratic Congressional committee, who has heretofore come up with some mighty fine predictions on how things were going. In '36 and '40, he was no optimist. He isn't now, and for the first time since he has been in office, he has been snapping the whip over complacent members of the party who think their seats are secure regardless of effort put forth.

He's right. No matter what happens, say the observers, this is likely to be a tight campaign, with the winning party out in front only by a nose. But barring the refusal of the President to run again—there is a strong probability, say Drewry
and others who were recently doubtful, that even the House will be Democratic for the thirteenth consecutive year.

worse than they were several generations ago, but we see more of them and their activities, it was pointed out. The community could be delinquent in providing proper recreation facilities and play direction, it appeared. Last night's discussion of juvenile delinquency
simply oozed with practical common sense deductions and suggestions. It will bear good fruit, President Dick Bundy said.

The Kiwanis quartette, Bill Lee,
James Ray Pittman, "Tie" Gardner and Aubrey Tilley, entertained with a number of songs. Rufus Keel won the attendance prize. There were several guests. Attendance was nearly 100 per cent. N. C. Brooks' announcement of the birth of a son to his nephew, Mr. Sam W.
Brooks and Mrs. Brooks at Sanford was original and unique.

Winterville Swept By Fire
The business portion of the town of Winterville was destroyed by fire this morning.

Almost the entire population of the town turned out in the snow and cold and heroically battled with the fire monster and doubtless would have been greater.

In all, nine buildings were burned with a loss of between $12,000 and $14,000, with only about $3,000 insurance.

The Reflector sympathizes with Winterville, but the town is composed of people of such enterprise and determination that we feel sure they will set to work at once rebuilding and Winterville will come out of the ashes better than before.

The hostesses served eggs on toast, after which the meeting adjourned.

The living room was tastefully decorated in early spring flowers, and guests were met at the door by Miss Faye Smith, who welcomed them in her charming manner.

Two amusing contests were enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. Roy Jackson was winner of one prize and Mrs. Henry L. Dew, a recent bride, was winner of another.

After a delicious course of refreshments, Harold Edwards, nephew of the bride-elect, entered the room with a wagon laden with lovely and useful gifts which were presented to Miss Smith.

Fire-side Club Meets.

The Fire-side Club of the Eighth Street Christian Church met Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, with Mr. and Mrs. David Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Spruill Spain and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Corbett, Jr., assisting hosts.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Guy C. Evans and led in prayer by Mr. Jim B. Cummings.

The chairman appointed as a nominating committee for the following year Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Conley and Mr. and Mrs. Spruill Spain.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and a very interesting letter read from Mrs. W. A. Ryan to the members of the Fire-side Club.

Mrs. Spruill Spain gave our devotional in the form of a beautiful poem and discussion of environment and heredity in rearing children. Mr. J. B. Cummings, in his usual gracious manner, introduced Dr. A. D. Frank as speaker for the evening, who chose as his topic "The Home of the Returning Service Man." Dr. Frank stated that the welfare of our country would depend upon what kind of homes these men established. The majority of the men will be more religious when they come out of the war, it will be a different type of religion and he will think "what have I contributed to the service?" As they come back, Dr. Frank predicted, we will be confronted with the moving of young people, probably toward the industrial centers; our young men are going to bring a great collection of wives of other nationalities. The economic problems of thousands of people without jobs, a lot of them married people, there is also the probability of a great number of divorces. We should urge our government to make it as easy as possible for these young people to acquire their own homes. Dr. Frank thinks it would help solve the problem.

lem of the ex-service men if they are allowed to erect their own homes and pay for them. He stated that the church will need to raise the plan of religious instructions, and he thinks the average boy will want peace and security above all else.

There followed a period of discussion and questions, after which Dr. and Mrs. Hannah delighted us with James Whitcomb Riley's "Old Sweetheart of Mine," with a musical accompaniment. A period of recreation and fun followed, after which the hosts served refreshments.—Reported.

ALEC TEMPLETON PLEASES

LARGE AUDIENCE AT COLLEGE

The Alec Templeton concert at East Carolina Teachers College last night showed both the serious musician and the popular pianist and composer, and his quality as an inimitable musical humorist.

"Mr. Templeton was a musician all the time in tone and touch," said one musician on the campus, "no matter whether he was playing in serious or humorous vein."

After the program, a reception was held in the new reception building for Mr. Templeton, with Dorothy Sasser, Wilmington senior, in charge. The pianist took his place at the piano when he heard the students begin "Hail to Teachers College" and gave them a rousing accompaniment, and while at the instrument, played one of his "musical portraits" and ended with a musical "thank you."

The large audience that greeted him made appreciative response to his outstanding serious number, the Beethoven "Sonata Pathétique" which he played with great depths of feeling, and the Chopin "Nocturne in C Minor." His "G Sharp Minor Prelude" from Rachmaninoff, interpreted with fine sensitivity, was welcomed by musicians present as a delightful surprise. In place of the better known one in C sharp minor.

Among the first group, Shostakovich's Polka from "Age of Gold" with modern note in its harmonies, pleased the audience.

The latter part of the program, musical satire and improvisation, held the unbroken attention of the audience while the improviser did such things as weave together into a real composition five notes called up to him from the body of the auditorium, and into one, four separate and widely different tunes suggested.

In the afternoon Mr. Templeton was interviewed over the local radio station by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, acting head of the college music department.

The concert was in charge of the Entertainment Committee, of which Camille Jernigan of Aulander, is chairman.
